From the right bank of the river, just in the rear of Doctor David's cabin, extended a log boom for several feet, then turning and running parallel with the shore nearly to the dam. Its purpose was the protection of the grist-mill raceway from the sawlogs which came down in drives every spring. Running along this boom was Doctor David, with a riverman's sixteen-foot pike in his hands. Between me and the boom was the other piece of ice, the companion to the one on which I was floating to destruction. Striking his pike-hook into the floe, the old man drew it toward him till he could leap upon it. Then, turning, he planted his pike against the boom and sent his piece of ice out into the stream with a powerful shove. Using the pike as a paddle, he soon came within reach of my floe. We were within a few rods of the dam now, where the water swirled toward the bank before going over the awful fall.

DOCTOR DAVID TO THE RESCUE.

Another moment and we would be pounding on the rocks below. But the old man never hesitated. Striking his pike into my floe, he pushed with all his might, sending the pole out hand over hand its full length, and then putting all his strength into one mighty shove he dropped the pike, and the cake on which I was went shoreward until I was able to catch a noosed clothes-line which willing hands cast toward me. I was saved, but even as I was dragged into the water by the rope I cast my eyes toward my preserver just in time to see him standing on his ice floe on the very verge of the fall, his cap held in one hand and the other raised above his wrinkled old face, which he had turned heavenward.

As he plunged downward I fainted and knew no more till I awoke in my own bed with mother bending over me.

IN DOCTOR DAVID'S CABIN.

Doctor David's poor crushed body was recovered next day and buried with all honors at the hands of the villagers.

Until her death my mother never failed on each recurring Christmas to hang a wreath of laurel and holly over the unpretentious stone beneath which my hero rests, and I have continued to so honor him since, though many times I have had to send my offering from a distance of thousands of miles.—A. M. Dickinson.

Some Timely Resolutions.

Everybody is supposed to swear off at the end of the year, that is more or less. Everybody is also supposed to swear on again in due course of time. In other words, the good resolutions made at the death of the old are supposed to be broken shortly after the birth of the new. In order to make the way easy for those who propose to go into the business of resolving the following have been prepared by an editor in the East:

Resolve: That you will lead an upright and noble life. As you will promptly break this resolution it will ease any qualms of conscience you may have at breaking any others.

Resolve: That you will speak nothing but good of your friends. In this way you will be able to learn very shortly how very few friends you have.

Resolve: That you will never drink again. Then for a couple of weeks you can tell your friends that you have broke your good resolution merely to drink with them, and they will feel very, very happy.

Resolve: Not to marry. If married already, point to this resolution at the end of the year with pride. If a female (which is to be hoped you are not), tell all the men about it.

Resolve: That you will be prudent and economical during the entire year. If you are not all will be well, for you will probably have to be economical next year to make up for it.

Resolve: Not to tell your girl of your New Year's resolutions. She is probably a trusting young thing, and it will rend her heart to learn that, after all, you are not actually as divine as she had supposed.

KING CHRISTMAS.

How the Celebration of the Day Was Established in America.

So general is the celebration of Christmas to-day in America that it is often supposed that it was always commemorated as a holiday. Not so, however. Among the French in the north and the Spaniards in the south Christmas time was a season of feasting and rejoicing; but among the early settlers of Virginia, who had not, indeed, much reason for rejoicing, Christmas was barely recognized. The English settlers who established themselves in New England were stern rebels against the rule of King Christmas. Some few, indeed, wished to keep the first Xmas—in 1620—a holiday, but their leaders would not gratify them. The leaders declared that any one might rest from work on Dec. 25 if he chose; but, they added, only those who worked could have anything to eat that day. And thus the first Christmas day at Plymouth was unobserved. A chronicler wrote: "Monday, the 25th day, we went on shore, some to fell timber, some to rive and some to carry; so no man rested all that day." When some years later the Puritans established themselves in force around Boston they joined in the rebellion against King Christmas until it was the boast of New England that neither Christmas nor Easter was celebrated in one of its churches. Not until the reign of William of Orange did King Christmas obtain any recognition in New England.

The Greedy Boy's Dream.

A Great Invention.

"I have here," began the energetic man, as he bundled into the young lawyer's office, "the greatest invention of the age."

It was cases that the lawyer wanted, not inventions, and he said something rather rude, but the energetic man proved to be a philosopher and merely smiled

"I call it," pursued the visitor, "the eternal kisser, because there is simply no end to the kisses it bestows. It is this." He hauled out a spray of mistletoe, covered with white berries.

This interested the young lawyer, who raised his eyes inquiringly.

"Mistletoe," proclaimed the agent, "is very scarce this year, and a bunch containing a score of berries would bankrupt a poor man. Now this great invention brings happiness within reach of all. Tradition permits you a kiss for each and every berry, you know. You hold this spray above your beloved's head—so. You bend—so—and kiss her. Then you grab a berry—so—and pull it—presto, it flies back again in place. The leaves and berries are India rubber, sir, and—two, did you say? Fifty cents. Thank you, sir. Good-day."—Harper's Magazine.

Date of Christ's Birth.

The date, Dec. 25, which is celebrated in Christian countries as the anniversary of the birth of Jesus Christ is really not the anniversary of his birth. The precise date of Christ's birth has never been fixed, and it is safe to say never will be. December is the rainy season in the land of Judea, and shepherds could not have been in the fields at night in the vicinity of Bethlehem as is related. It is altogether likely that the event took place later. Many Christian churches only celebrate Dec. 25 as a day in memory of the nativity of the Redeemer.

MISS GING'S MURDER.

REVELATIONS IN THE MINNEAPOLIS TRAGEDY.

Assassin Is Claus A. Blixt—Hired by Harry T. Hayward—Crime Exposed by Confession of the Latter's Brother—Blixt Tells All.

Killed for Insurance.

The Minneapolis grand jury began Monday the investigation of the Ging murder case. The officials have practically given up hope of wringing a confession from Harry Hayward, and it seems certain that the case will come to trial in due time, in which event it is likely to become a celebrated case in murder trial annals. Harry Hayward is apparently determined to fight the thing out to the bitter end, and few more developments are expected before the case comes to trial.

Adry A. Hayward, brother of the accused, made a confession, in which he declares that the fearful crime was deliberately planned by his brother, Harry, and that the bloody deed was committed by C. A. Blixt, the engineer of the Ozark flats. The motive for the crime was the securing of the insurance on the murdered woman's life.

Adry's confession shows that prior to the murder Harry had arranged all the details of the loans he had made her, the evidence, the life insurance, etc., in such a manner that it would appear to the public afterward that it was all open and above board. Time and time again Harry made personal appeals to Adry, but the latter always told him he could never carry out such a scheme as getting rid of the girl without hanging for it. Harry grew very angry at Adry's repeated opposition and finally threatened to murder him if he resisted. After this Adry supposed the scheme had been dropped. It was not until three days before the day of the murder that he realized that the plot was still incubating.

MISS CATHERINE GING.
(The pretty dressmaker who was brutally murdered for her money.)

Blixt's Confession.

Engineer Blixt was arrested and confined in a cell in the Central Police Station, away from all intruders. After being subjected to the sweating process Blixt confessed that he fired the fatal shot himself. He says that Hayward had persuaded Miss Ging that "green goods" could be easily circulated through the medium of her business as a dressmaker, and she, having always had an insane idea to get rich easily, fell in with the idea. The night of the murder Hayward told her that he had arranged for her to meet a "green goods" dealer on the outskirts of the city. They started off on the ride together. About twelve blocks from the Ozark flats they met Blixt. Hayward induced her to let Blixt drive her to the place of meeting, with the assurance to her that he would himself follow immediately in another buggy and be present at the meeting. Blixt then drove the woman out to the old Excelsior road, and called her attention to a passing object. As she turned her head to look out of her side of the buggy he shot her. The body was then thrown out by the side of the road. Hayward, instead of following Blixt and Miss Ging, returned to the Ozark flats, and afterward went to the theater with the daughter of a prominent Minneapolis attorney.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE.

The New Woman's Christian Temperance Union.

Differences of opinions growing largely out of the woman suffrage movement having caused a split in the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, an opposition society has been formed. Of this new organization Mrs. Cornelia C. Alford, of Bernardson, Franklin County, Mass., has been elected President. Mrs. Alford favors a separation of the two ideas, temperance and suffrage, and holds that the time is not yet ripe for giving women the ballot.

MRS. C. C. ALFORD.

PENSIONS SHOW A DECREASE.

Bill as Reported to the House Carries an Appropriation of $141,581,570.

The pension appropriation bill, as reported to the House by Mr. O'Neil of Massachusetts, carries an appropriation of $141,581,570, being $200,000 less than the estimates and $10,200,000 below the appropriation for the current fiscal year. The reduction is made in two items—in the payment of pensions and in the fees of examining surgeons. For pensions, the bill allows $140,000,000—a reduction of $10,000,000 from this year's appropriation—and for the surgeons' fees, $800,000, being a reduction of $200,000 under the amount allowed for the current year.

In the report accompanying the bill is a table showing that in 1879 the number of pensioners was 242,755, the annual value of the pensions $25,493,742, and the disbursements on their account reported by the treasury $35,121,482. In 1894 the number of pensioners increased to 969,544, the annual value of pensions to $130,120,863, and the disbursements by the treasury to $141,177,284.

Commissioner Lochren, when before the committee, expressed the opinion that the high-water mark in the payment of pensions had been reached. Many of the pensioners who remain on the rolls, he said, may get increases, so that, even if the pension roll should decrease, the amount expended will not decrease in proportion on account of the increased disabilities allowed for.

The social purity movement has struck Sedalia, Mo.

STOLE A BIG SUM.

Samuel C. Seely, Who Robbed the National Shoe and Leather Bank.

The robbing of the National Shoe and Leather Bank of New York of $354,000 by Samuel G. Seely, for fourteen years a bookkeeper in the bank, in whom unbounded confidence was placed, is one of the greatest sensations in financial circles in recent years. Samuel C. Seely was a prominent Brooklyn church member, has a wife and two children and enjoyed the respect of all who knew him. He is a weak-minded man, however, and in an evil hour, either intentionally or unintentionally allowed his friend, a lawyer named Baker, who has committed suicide since the exposure, to overdraw his account. From that time on he was completely in Baker's power, not daring to expose him for fear of prosecution, and for nine years Baker drew money weekly until it has amounted to $354,000. The swindle was only discovered when a new system of bookkeeping was introduced in the bank.

S. C. SEELY.

A man supposed to be Samuel C. Seeley, the absconding bookkeeper of the National Shoe and Leather Bank, New York, who embezzled $354,000, was arrested in Chicago at 10:30 o'clock on Monday night by Detectives William O'Donnell and J. Almandinger, of the Central Station. The prisoner was taken to police headquarters, where he gave the name of Frank J. Dale, but refused to give any further information concerning himself. His appearance corresponded exactly with the description and picture sent out by the police of New York in a circular asking for Seeley's arrest, save that the prisoner's mustache had apparently been trimmed and dyed, and his hair also trimmed and combed down over his forehead instead of being pushed back as was Seeley's habit.

THE NEW PRESIDENT.

Head of the American Street Railway Association.

Mr. Joel Hurt, recently elected President of the American Street Railway Association, is a resident of Atlanta, Ga., and one of the most enterprising men in that city. He was born in Russell County, Alabama, in 1850. The close of the war found the Hurt plantation completely desolated and the son, then 15 years of age, had to begin the battle of life for himself. He managed to acquire a good education, obtained the degree of civil engineer at the age of 21, and followed his profession till 1875. Then he located in Atlanta, entered the real estate and insurance business, and in 1876 entered on the organization of building and loan associations. He became head of the Atlanta Home Insurance Company, the East Atlanta Land Company, and finally manager of the Consolidated Street Railroad Company, and in recognition of his shrewdness and success in this last enterprise was elected to the Presidency of the American Street Railway Association.

JOEL HURT.

GENERAL CABEZAS.

A Person of Interest in Connection with the Bluefields Incident.

The sensational reports from Bluefields and the Mosquito coast of Nicaragua makes General Cabezas a person of interest. The Mosquito reservation is incorporated with Nicaragua and General Cabezas is supreme authority. The reservation will hereafter appear on the maps as the Zalaya District or the Department of Zalaya. It is named so by Gen. Cabezas and the Indians in honor of the President of the Republic. There are reports that the United States is on the verge of a war with England, because the latter will not recognize the new government on the Mosquito coast, but these are unfounded. Though trouble is not expected the United States will, if necessary, take action.

GEN. CABEZAS.

WHEAT FED TO STOCK.

Government Report on the Amount Used for This Purpose.

The Washington Statistical Bureau of the Agricultural Department estimates the amount of wheat already fed to live stock up to Oct. 30 at 46,030,000 bushels, and the amount to be fed at 29,273,000 bushels, making the total 75,303,000 bushels. These figures are merely the meager estimates from those States where correspondents have complied with the requests of the department, and should not be taken as more than an attempt at approximation of total feeding of wheat from the present supply. The severity and length of the winter will necessarily influence the final findings upon this question.

William Dunn bought 60,000 bushels of wheat at Toledo Tuesday to fill a foreign order. Wednesday he tried to buy some more there, but none was offered for sale. There are more than 85,000,000 bushels in sight in this country and Canada, upward of 26,000,000 bushels being stored in Chicago elevators, and it seems odd that none of these elevators want to sell any. Millions of bushels of wheat are speculated in every day, but actual cash transactions are insignificant most of the time on the Board of Trade.

WELL-KNOWN BALL PLAYER.

Has Retired from the Diamond and Will Practice Law.

John M. Ward, who recently retired from the base-ball field, was one of the best known players in the country. He resigned his position as manager and captain of the New York base-ball club, and in the future will devote his time to the practice of law. Ward was born in Bellefonte, Pa., thirty-four years ago. After a few years in the district schools he attended the Pennsylvania State College. On the college team he played third base. In 1876 he mastered the art of curve pitching and became famous as a pitcher. He has held positions of note in some of the leading clubs of the United States. He was captain of the All-American team which, with the Chicago nine, made the famous tour of the world in 1889. The ex-manager is a graduate of the Columbia Law School.

JOHN M. WARD.

The circulation of the Frankfurter Zeitung [illegible] prohibited in Austria because its political articles do not meet the approval of the government.

WHEN STARS GET SCARED.

Few of Them Able to Make a Speech Before the Curtain.

As a rule actors are not speechmakers. The very people who are always easy and self-possessed so long as the curtain remains up and the footlights interpose between them and their auditors become confused, nervous, and often positively awkward whenever they have to appear in front of the curtain and talk to the audience instead of for it. The change in their manner and appearance is often almost inexplicable. The man who can play the most difficult of parts with effect, and who can, in conversation with his friends, talk brilliantly and wittily, is at a disadvantage when he stands on the narrow strip of boards between the curtain and the footlights.

"I don't know why it is," said a well-known actor the other day in trying to explain this phenomenon to a writer for the New York Advertiser, "unless it is because of the sudden and complete change of attitude toward the audience. On the stage we have our lines committed to memory. The mental exertion of recalling them and of going the rehearsal business keeps our minds off the fact that there are a thousand or more people listening to us. When we are called before the curtain we are for the first time face to face with our audience. Ergo, we get nervous and embarrassed, and very often make a show of ourselves."

There are a few actors, however, who make a really good footlight speech without minute preparation, and enjoy doing it. Richard Mansfield is one of them. He is always ready to make a speech, and he does so without notes, easily and forcibly. Mr. Mansfield's speeches are not often, however, the stereotyped phrases of gratitude to which most actors confine themselves. When he comes before the curtain he has something to say besides "I thank you," and he says it without fear or favor. His delivery is a little halting, but he is always self-possessed, and the peculiarity of his elocution seems to add not a little to the effect of his words.

ENGLISH PRISONERS.

Their Condition Is Much Worse Than that of American Convicts.

A comparison of the rules of an American prison with those of an English prison shows that the American prisoner has many more comforts and liberties. A man in an English prison is almost as dead to the outer world as he would be in his tomb. Nothing in the way of food or reading matter can be sent into him by his friends. He is never permitted to see a newspaper or a magazine. He can write and receive letters only at long intervals, and from the time he enters the prison until he leaves it he is not permitted to speak unless he is addressed by a prison officer.

A prisoner sentenced to a term of three years or less may see a visitor once in three months in the presence of a prison officer, and he may write one letter. To men whose terms are longer such privileges are granted less frequently. He must get up at 6 o'clock, and his breakfast is brought to him at 7:30. He eats every meal in his cell. In the first stage of his imprisonment he has only bread and water for breakfast, and for dinner a pint and a half of "stirabout," a gruel-like mixture of oatmeal and Indian meal. In the fourth and best stage of his imprisonment he has a pint of porridge with his bread for breakfast and a better dinner, but even the fourth-stage bill of fare is never changed throughout the year. There are no holiday dinners, nor an extra dish on Sundays, as in some of our American prisons.

Not all the prisons have workshops attached to them, and where there is no workshop a man who has a labor sentence must go on a treadmill for two hours and a half in the morning and for two hours and three-quarters in the afternoon. In some prisons there is a worse kind of labor than even the treadmill. It consists of turning a heavily weighted crank, which serves no purpose whatever except to record the number of its own revolutions. A day's labor consists of from 8,000 to 10,000 revolutions. In other prisons the prisoners are set to pumping water. As this serves some purpose, it is not so depressing as the crank movement.

ON THE TREADMILL IN AN ENGLISH PRISON.

Adverse Advertising.

A Printers' Ink correspondent writes: "My father, who was a successful country merchant, was at one time called on by customers from all over the county, who explained that on the fence boards and on the rocks by the road side throughout the county there was painted in bright colors: 'Don't go to H——'s to trade.' My father being well known and popular, his friends had put their spare money into their pockets and come to town in order to manifest sympathy. The painting was afterward found to have been the work of enemies with the intention of injuring my father's business. As it was, however, it had the opposite effect."

Clearest Kind of Proof.

Police Commissioner—Several citizens swear that they saw Officer O'Toole coming out of a brewery.

O'Toole's lawyer—But the defense submits that it could not have been a brewery.

Police Commissioner—What proof have you of this?

O'Toole's lawyer—The fact that he was seen to leave.—Kate Field's Washington.

The Name of God.

The name of God is spelled with four letters in almost every known language.

Blank Cartridges.

The German army uses 137,000,000 blank cartridges a year.

Intense Headaches

"For four years I have been a constant sufferer. My head ached from morning till night. After trying everything I could think of, the only thing that gave me any relief was to keep my head bound with a cloth to keep the air from striking it. The nasal passages of my head and my throat were very sore and gave me intense pain, expectorating much corrupt matter. I was told that the weight of my hair was the cause of my trouble, and I had it cut off, but this gave me no relief. Reading about a lady similarly afflicted who was cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla, I began to take it. Before I had taken one bottle I felt greatly improved, and at the end of three bottles was entirely well. I now weigh 240 pounds, which is a gain of ten pounds in the last three months." MRS. MARY A. WHITE, Franklin, Indiana. Get only HOOD'S.

Mrs. Mary A. White.

Hood's Sarsaparilla Cures

Hood's Pills do not weaken, but aid digestion and tone the stomach. Try them. 25c.

Testing a Horse for Lameness.

When examining a horse with a view to purchasing, says a contemporary, always have him led down a steep or stony descent at the end of a halter, and with no whip near him. Many horses, when brought out of the stable, are excited by the presence of strangers, and become still more so at the sight of a whip. A slight lameness may therefore be momentarily overlooked by the horse himself, just as a man, under strong excitement, will sometimes forget a sore foot. Leading the horse down a slope will show any defect in his fore-quarter, and running him back will develop any weakness that may exist in his hind legs.

SIXTEEN tramps in Iowa were held up by four bandits and made to yield $400. The circumstances would seem to indicate that one difference between an Iowa tramp and the average citizen who supports him is that the tramp has more money.

"My Sick Sisters,

"Let me tell you something.

"For years I have been almost a constant sufferer from female trouble in all its dreadful forms:—

"Shooting pains all over my body, sick headache, spinal weakness, faintness, dizziness, depression, and everything that was horrid.

MRS. HARRIET WAMPLER

"I tried many doctors in different parts of the U.S., but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done more for me than all the doctors.

"I feel it my duty to tell you these facts that you also may be cured. My heart is full of gratitude to Mrs. Pinkham."—Mrs. Harriet Wampler, 507 Kasota Block, Minneapolis, Minn.

Mrs. Pinkham's Compound is our one unfailing remedy.

★ WORLD'S-FAIR ★
HIGHEST AWARD!

"SUPERIOR NUTRITION—THE LIFE."

IMPERIAL GRANUM

THE GREAT MEDICINAL FOOD

Has justly acquired the reputation of being The Salvator for INVALIDS and The-Aged.

AN INCOMPARABLE ALIMENT for the GROWTH and PROTECTION of INFANTS and CHILDREN

A superior nutritive in continued Fevers, And a reliable remedial agent in all gastric and enteric diseases; often in instances of consultation over patients whose digestive organs were reduced to such a low and sensitive condition that the IMPERIAL GRANUM was the only nourishment the stomach would tolerate when LIFE seemed depending on its retention;—

And as a FOOD it would be difficult to conceive of anything more palatable.

Sold by DRUGGISTS. Shipping Depot, JOHN CARLE & SONS, New York.

The Greatest Medical Discovery of the Age.

KENNEDY'S MEDICAL DISCOVERY.

DONALD KENNEDY, OF ROXBURY, MASS.,

Has discovered in one of our common pasture weeds a remedy that cures every kind of Humor, from the worst Scrofula down to a common Pimple.

He has tried it in over eleven hundred cases, and never failed except in two cases (both thunder humor). He has now in his possession over two hundred certificates of its value, all within twenty miles of Boston. Send postal card for book.

A benefit is always experienced from the first bottle, and a perfect cure is warranted when the right quantity is taken.

When the lungs are affected it causes shooting pains, like needles passing through them; the same with the Liver or Bowels. This is caused by the ducts being stopped, and always disappears in a week after taking it. Read the label.

If the stomach is foul or bilious it will cause squeamish feelings at first.

No change of diet ever necessary. Eat the best you can get, and enough of it. Dose, one tablespoonful in water at bedtime. Sold by all Druggists.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION

TOOLS OF THE TRUST.

GROCERS' ASSOCIATIONS CONTROLLED BY HAVEMEYERS.

Some of the Secret History of How the Prices of Both Raw and Refined Sugars Are Dictated—How Republicans Squirm.

A Timely Exposure.

There is one phase of the sugar trust with which the public is but little familiar. Most people know something of the trust's ability to dictate prices of both raw and refined sugars; to close refineries and throw men out of work; to manipulate its stocks in Wall street by means of false rumors as to prospective dividends or profits to defy laws and courts by refusing to give statistics to the Census Department, or to allow Senate committees to examine its books; and to bribe enough Senators to procure favorable legislation. But few people, however, know that during the last four years the trust has built up the nearly forty wholesale grocers' associations which now cover all parts of this country, and has so planned them that their most important function is to serve the base interests of the trust. Yet such is the case.

By an ingeniously devised system of rebates to the grocers, who are members of wholesale associations, and who sell only the trust's sugars (or sugars of refiners allied with the trust, as practically all now are), at prices fixed daily by the trust, the grocers' associations become the instruments of the trust in sustaining prices so that no person in this country can obtain sugar except at trust prices. More than that; the profits from the rebates have been large enough to make allies and defenders of these natural enemies of the trust. Several times, when called upon, these grocers have sent in hundreds of telegrams to Congressmen from all parts of the country begging or threatening them not to favor legislation which would destroy some or all of the unholy profits of the sugar trust.

Congressman John De Witt Warner, who secured the passage of the free-sugar bill through the House, and who is, perhaps, the best posted on sugar trust matters of any man not connected with sugar business, has written a very interesting pamphlet, printed by the Reform Club of New York, entitled "The Distributing Combine." He has made a great collection of original documents, correspondence, etc., upon the subject, and gives the most accurate details of the heretofore secret history of this gigantic trust and its powerful allies in every State. At the end of his twenty-four-page pamphlet Mr. Warner thus summarizes the startling details of this wonderful trust:

"With the Spreckels in control of Hawaii, and the Havemeyers extending their plantations in Cuba, the trust dictates to every branch of sugar production and distribution in the United States, taking under its wing every one concerned—except those who consume sugar. From its office, at 117 Wall street, cable messages fly daily to its agents in Cuba, fixing the price of raw sugars there; to San Francisco announcing 'Cuban parity,' at which arriving Hawaiian sugars are to be valued; to Louisiana, telling her planters what—in view of Cuban and Hawaiian prices—the trust condescends to offer for American sugar; and to its representatives all over the world, giving the limit—based on Cuban parity—at which they can pick up Austrian, Javan, Philippine, Brazilian and other sugars, when these are temporarily depressed in price. In an adjoining room the quotations at or above which the subservient dealers throughout the country are permitted to sell sugars, are daily settled, and through the four great sugar brokers who stand nearest the throne these are passed to the forty others who awaits the sugar trust's nod at New York and telegraphed to the waiting hundreds in other cities of the land. These in turn so promptly notify their patrons, the thousands of wholesale grocers of the country, that before their doors are opened all danger of any purchaser getting his sugar below trust prices is over for the day. By discount from his bill or periodical remittance, as the case may be, each faithful wholesaler is promptly and liberally paid for his loyalty; and whenever, in the crisis of legislation, he hears the bugle call of the trust, he instantly steps into line, ready to bombard his Congressman with telegrams or fight him with ballots at short range until the sugar trust cause is triumphant.

"Such is the grandest trade organization the world has ever seen.

"The sugar trust dictates the tribute that shall be rendered it by the American people.

"The wholesale grocers are rewarded by whatever of largess the trust thinks necessary to insure their loyalty.

"And the public?—'The public be damned'—and it is."

Iron and Steel Need No Protection.

In a letter to the Herald on the tariff Mr. Seneca D. Kimbark, of Chicago, a veteran in the iron and steel business, writes:

"The iron and steel trade of this country does not need protection now. The time was when it did need it, but that time is passed. Neither does the tinplate industry need protection. All it needs is for vigorous, young, patriotic Americans to go into it. They will build up and remove it from any danger of Welsh or other foreign competition.

"Any industry that demands forty or fifty per cent. protection ought to die."

Mr. Kimbark very forcibly adds:

"I have been in the iron and steel business for forty years, and I say that this branch of business does not need protection. Tariff duties are but the extraction of selfish greed at the best."

No testimony could be more pertinent or show more clearly the blindness and stupidity of the present do-nothing policy of the Democratic Senators who refuse to consider the bills for placing iron ore and bituminous coal on the free list. The passage of these bills would help American iron and steel industries generally—by enabling them to cheapen production and thus to enlarge the sale of their products both at home and in the world's markets. If the question could be considered without political bias and apart from all political partisanship, American manufacturers would probably be almost unanimous in demanding freedom from taxation for these and other raw materials.—New York Herald.

Babcock's Heretical Ideas.

Mr. Babcock, the chairman of the Republican Congressional committee, has been openly repudiating the McKinley bill and saying "it was not desired by one Republican out of five, and was an unreasonable imposition of the manufacturers, and that the country will not in any case go back to it." For this he was sternly chastised by the party organ, the Tribune, this morning, in an interesting though amusing, article Babcock was wrong in attacking the McKinley tariff, because "that was the latest form of tariff framed and formally approved by the Republican party as a whole." But then this might have been said of the twenty-four Republican tariffs which have preceded it since 1861.. Each was in its day "the latest form of tariff," etc., but every one of them must have been attacked by some sacrilegious Republican dog like Babcock, or else it would never have had to give place to another. The Tribune next admits that the tariff of 1890 "is not a fetich to be stupidly worshipped," which is in substance what Babcock says. "The defects of the measure may be profitably explained and corrected when the opportunity comes," which is also Babcock's view. "Whenever power comes from the people to frame a new revenue law, the Republicans will improve on the act of 1890 as far as they can." We do not know Babcock, but if he would deny this, he would be far worse than his friends represent him to be. The mission of the Republican party is to "improve our tariffs" by making new ones. The explanation the Tribune gives the wretched man of the meaning of the election in 1894 will not, we fear, help him to clearer views of the situation:

"It is just as well to quit the notion that the American people meant in 1894 exactly what they meant in 1892. The change operated mightily, and he is a dolt who does not see it. Whatever the verdict of 1892 meant, we may be entirely sure that the verdict of 1894 means not only something different but on the whole something directly opposite."

Now this is not a case of excluded middle. It does not, under the present laws of thought, follow that because the verdict of 1892 meant something uncertain or unknown, the verdict of 1894 means something directly opposite. If one declines to go South, it does not show that he wants to go north. He may want to go northwest or southwest or east by north-northeast. This, we are sure, is Babcock's view, and we advise him to stand his ground. We are pained to observe, however, that Mr. Babcock, before the Tribune got at him, had already begun to recant. He now says he did not mean to critise the bill "as a whole," but only some details, and declares that "the intelligence of an American people was the foundation of our strength as a nation," a remark which evidently puts somebody "in a hole," but whom does not appear. Mr. Reed also recants a little, as does Mr. Apsley, of Massachusetts.—New York Post.

Squirming Republicans.

That the education on the tariff question that has been going on for six years has extended to the Republican party is evident from the discussion among their leaders as to whether or not their party is still for high protective or of moderately low duties. The following sent out from Washington a few days ago to the New York Times is indicative of the growing tendency of Republicans to fight among themselves about protection:

Nothing could be more distressing to zealous Bourbon Republicans than the agitation which is progressing all over the country in favor of a Republicanism that discredits McKinleyism. Reed, Allison, Sherman, Butterworth and other Republicans have helped the low-tariff tendency on, and they appear to have helped it too much. Chairman Babcock has been endeavoring to cat up a statement attributed to him and supporting the moderate tariff idea, and remonstrances against the heresy are heard all over the Capitol.

Capt. Boutelle, who is always oratorical and superlative in language, has set his face against the tendency to-day, and in words that can have but one meaning he says, in tones that can be heard for blocks:

"Instead of retreating, the great army of protection has advanced its standards and lifted them higher than ever before. The demand for the preservation of the American market for the products of our industry, and for such protection as will guarantee to American workmen the greatest practicable diversification of employments and the highest possible wages consistent with the general welfare of the whole people, has been uttered at the polls this year in stentorian tones, and any man or set of men in any party who disregards or seeks to misinterpret that mandate will fail to muster a corporal's guard of supporters among the intelligent and patriotic citizens who form the future hope and safeguard of the republic."

$40,000,000 Wall Street Profits.

The analysis of sugar ring manipulation during the last year is startling in its suggestiveness, particularly to those who remember what happened in the case of Cordage. The figures show that the ring operators have been selling and buying the whole of their stock three times over every month, and as they have had the making of all the news concerning it, have been able to put prices up and down at will. The margins of possible profit on their purchases and sales for a year have amounted to more than $150,000,000. Allowing three-fourths of this for "wash sales" and the like, there is still a gambling profit in sight of forty-odd millions, and as a year's dividends amount only to one-tenth that sum they can be paid or passed as the gamblers see fit, without serious inconvenience either way. It is like gambling with marked cards or loaded dice, and the profits must in the end come out of the earnings of honest men. How much of danger all this involves to the prosperity of the country the history of the cordage collapse only partially suggests.—New York World.

Cape Henry's Light.

The highest lighthouse on the American coast is that at Cape Henry, Va. It is 1[illegible] feet in height, built wholly of iron.

THE RINGED SEAL.

The Esquimau's Most Valuable Source of Food and Clothing.

Although the little ringed seal, or floe seal, contemptuously called the floe rat by English sailors, is the smallest of all our species, it is also the most enterprising. In the cold waters of the North, it goes simply everywhere. Throughout tens of thousands of square miles of cold and stormy waters, broken and chaotic ice-packs, and barren floe-ice, seven feet thick, the jolly little "Netsick" is the principal inhabitant, ready to yield his chubby body to any hungry Esquimau who happens to need it.

Taken altogether, this animal is to the Esquimaux generally the most valuable source of food and clothing of all quadrupeds of the North. In ranging northward all other seals stop about on the eighty-first parallel, but the ringed seal cries "Excelsior!" and presses right on. Regardless of cold and other drawbacks, he joyously paddles past Lady Franklin Bay, and through Robeson Channel, and into the Polar Sea itself, which is named after our greatest American, north of all land. It was observed by Gen. Greely's party in latitude 82 degrees 54 minutes—only thirty miles south of the farthest north ever reached by man. What is more, Gen. Greely says that they winter as far north as Robeson Channel, though he is puzzled to know how they maintain breathing holes where the ice is so thick. It seems to me, however, that with the temperature down to 60 degrees below zero, one lungful of air ought to be quite sufficient to last any zeal an entire winter.

The ringed zeal is found in Behring Sea and throughout the Arctic Ocean in both hemispheres. The largest individuals are only about four feet in length, and by reason of its size this species is despised by the white sealers—a very fortunate thing for the Esquimaux. In color it is extremely variable. In a collection of fifteen fresh skins that once came into my hands from Point Barrow there were three well-defined types—one almost black, another dark, mottled with light, and a third almost yellow. All showed the curious brownish-yellow rings with darker centers from which the species takes its popular name.

This is the seal which the Esquimau hunts by simply playing a waiting in which patience is the moss powerful weapon. He seeks over the solid ice floe until he finds a little round hole running down through the ice quite to the water, be it two feet or six. That is the breathing hole of a seal, which the creature has kept open with its warm breath ever since the ice began to form. Mr. Esquimau simply camps on the ice beside the hole and shivers and waits, be it one hour or fifteen. He waits for Mr. Seal to come and stick his nose into the bottom of the hole to give and take some air. When he does so the Esquimau promptly jabs a spear down through the hole into the head of the seal. If it catches the animal and holds him fast all the native has to do is to chop through about five feet of solid ice and get it.

This seal is the first acquatic animal that Esquimau children are taught to kill, and when 7-year-old Esquimau Johnnie kills his first seal the proud father hangs the [illegible]ch and front flippers in his neck as trophies of his skill. It is said, also, that in their eagerness to have their children "make a record" Esquimau mothers sometimes catch seals on the sly and allow their children to kill them to add to their individual scores.—The Century.

A WOMAN'S HEART.

ONE DISEASE THAT BAFFLES THE PHYSICIAN.

The Story of a Woman Who Suffered for Nine Years—How She Was Cured.

(From the Newark, N. J., Evening News.)

Valvular disease of the heart has always been considered incurable. The following interview, therefore, will interest the medical profession, since it describes the successful use of a new treatment for this disease. The patient is Mrs. Geo. Archer, of Clifton, N. J., and this publication by the News is the first mention of the case made by any newspaper. All physicians consulted pronounced the patient suffering with valvular disease of the heart, and treated her without the slightest relief. Mrs. Archer said: "I could not walk across the floor; neither could I go up stairs without stopping to let the pain in my chest and left arm cease. I felt an awful constriction about my arm and chest as though I were tied with ropes. Then there was a terrible noise at my right ear, like the labored breathing of some great animal. I have often turned expecting to see some creature at my side.

"Last July," continued Mrs. Archer, "I was at Springfield, Mass., visiting, and my mother showed me an account in the Springfield Examiner, telling of the wonderful cures effected by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. My mother urged me to try the pills, and on November 25th last I bought a box and began taking them, and I have been taking them ever since, except for a short interval. The first box did not seem to benefit me, but I persevered, encouraged by the requests of my relatives. After beginning on the second box, to my wonder, the noise at my right ear ceased entirely. I kept right on, and the distress that I used to feel in my chest and arm gradually disappeared. The blood has returned to my face, lips and ears, which were entirely devoid of color, and I feel well and strong again.

"My son, too, had been troubled with gastritis, and I induced him to try the Pink Pills, with great benefit. I feel that everybody ought to know of my wonderful cure, and I bless God that I have found something that has given me this great relief."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are now given to the public as an unfailing blood builder and nerve restorer, curing all forms of weakness arising from a watery condition of the blood or shattered nerves, two fruitful causes of most every ill that flesh is heir to. These pills are also a specific for the troubles peculiar to females, such as suppressions, all forms of weakness, chronic constipation, bearing down pains, etc., and in the case of men will give speedy relief and effect a permanent cure in all cases arising from mental worry, overwork, or excesses of whatever nature. The pills are sold by all dealers, or will be sent post paid on receipt of price, (50 cents a box, or 6 boxes for $2.50—they are never sold in bulk, or by the 100) by addressing Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

A Stone Blotter.

A stone blotting pad being introduced is made of a bibulous stone that is said to absorb ink more readily than any blotting paper in use. It is formed by compressing the sediment deposited by certain hot springs, which, having been accumulating for ages, "is available in inexhaustible quantities." It is highly porous, and will, it is said, take up a surprising quantity of ink, requiring only occasionally scraping with a knife to keep it clean and ready for use.

IN all receipts for cooking requiring a leavening agent the ROYAL BAKING POWDER, because it is an absolutely pure cream of tartar powder and of 33 per cent. greater leavening strength than other powders, will give the best results. It will make the food lighter, sweeter, of finer flavor and more wholesome.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., 106 WALL ST., NEW-YORK.

Gentlemanly Burglars in Japan.

Even the most gentlemanly of our burglars have much to learn from Japan in the way of politeness if one may judge by a description of the manners of robbers in that country given in the Atlantic. Three men broke into a dyer's house while he was away and gently asked his wife how much money there was in the house. She answered that there were just 27 yen and 84 sen. The robber laughed and said: "You are a good old woman and we believe you. If you were poor we would not rob you at all. Now we only want a couple of kimono and this," laying his hand on a fine silk overdress. The old woman replied: "All my son's kimono I can give you, but I beg you will not take that, for it does not belong to my son and was confided to us only for dyeing. What is ours I can give, but I cannot give what belongs to another." "That is quite right," approved the robber, "and we shall not take it."

Tied His Cow to a Freight Car.

Yesterday morning a little son of John Bethune was leading a cow to pasture, and when he reached the woolen mills he tied the cow to the coupling pin of a freight car while he went inside to speak to his father. Unfortunately for the cow the Lebanon engine backed up on the switch while the boy was inside, and, not seeing the cow, coupled on to the car and started up the track. The bovine was not noted as a sprinter, but she was forced up the track at a 2:17½ gait. A farmer who was passing saw the predicament and managed to signal the engineer to stop, otherwise there must have been a spurt of speed on the part of the cow unheard of before by any bovine, or a broken neck, for the boy had tied her securely with a stout rope. As it is, she is alive and well, and holds the record of the town for that sort of a race.—Albany Herald.

A Thunder Storm Countenance.

Labiache had the extraordinary talent of representing a thunder storm, simply by facial expression. First, gloom gradually overspread his countenance; it appeared to deepen into actual darkness and a terrific frown indicated the angry lowering of the tempest. The lightning commenced by winks of the eyes and twisting and twitching of the muscles of the face, succeeded by rapid sidelong movements of the mouth which wonderfully recalled the forked flashes that seem to rend the sky, the notion of the thunder being conveyed by the shaking of the head. By degrees the lightning became less vivid, the frown relaxed, the gloom departed and a broad smile illuminating his expansive face, gave the impression that the sun had broken through clouds and the storm was over.

Hope Springs Eternal

In the human breast. Despite repeated disappointments, the divine spark rekindles after each. Though there may not be a silver lining to every cloud, the vapors which obscure the sky oft waft aside and disclose the full splendor of the noonday sun. Thus is hope justified. Invalids who seek the aid from Hostetter's Stomach Bitters in the hope of something better than a mere modification of the evils from which they suffer, will find that it justifies their expectation. Chills and fever, rheumatism, dyspepsia, liver and kidney trouble, nervousness and debility are thoroughly, not partly, remedied by the Bitters. Loss of flesh, appetite, and sleep is counteracted by this helpful tonic as by no other medicinal agent, and to the old, infirm, and convalescent it affords speedily appreciable benefit. A wineglassful three times a day.

Bells as Wolf Protectors.

W. Roller, a cattleman, was in town purchasing supplies. Among other thing Mr. Roller took out two dozen cow bells, which he says is the most effective way to keep the wolves away from his bunch and that by their aid he hopes to lose very little stock this winter. He says that there is a den of mountain lions near his ranch that have been a source of considerable annoyance to cattlemen for some time past. He found their den on the way in this trip, and noticed that they had just killed two fine white tail deer. Mr. Roller reports plenty of water and excellent grass on the Slim Butte range.—Whitewood (S. D.) Plaindealer.

Artificial Whalebone.

A German has invented a means of making artificial whalebone. The material is leather soaked for two or thred days in sulphate of potassium, and thee stretched on a frame, slowly dried, ann exposed to a high temperature. It is afterward put under heavy pressure, when it becomes hard and elastic.

Drop Us a Line

If you are thinking of spending the winter in California or the South. Write any agent of the Nickel Plate road and he will be pleased to quote you rates and forward maps of the different routes. Winter tourist rates are now in effect.

Turtles.

It is said that one of the West India Islands is inhabited exclusively by turtles, some of which grow to an enormous size. Attempts to establish human habitation on the island have always failed. The turtles undermine the foundations of the houses and not infrequently attack the inmates.

Court-Martialing an Elephant.

It is the business of a court-martail to try soldiers and sailors accused of offence, but sometimes strange prisoners come before it. At the battle of Sabraon, Feb. 10, 1864, the 9th Lancers were required to escort some 24-pounders, which were to be dragged by elephants into position. One of them turning obstinate and refusing to draw, the men in charge of the animals had it brought before them, under the guard of two other elephants, to be tried. The court sentenced it to twenty-five lashes, which were duly inflicted by a fellow-elephant. Taking a big double-chain on its trunk, at the word of command it gave the rebel elephant five-and-twenty tremendous whacks. The culprit was thoroughly cowed, and no longer declined to draw the gun.

$100 Reward. $100.

The numerous readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Address, F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.
Sold by Druggists, 75c.

A DENVER woman put to rout three burglars whom she discovered in her room. She probably sat up in bed and began electioneering for her favorite candidate.

The Average Man who suffers from headaches and biliousness needs a medicine to keep his stomach and liver in good working order. For such people Ripans Tabules fill the bill. One tabule gives relief.

AT the fancy grocer's: "Are those raisins imported?" Clerk—No, but the labels are.

Send your full name and address to Dobbins' Soap Mfg. Co., Philada., Pa., by return mail, and get free of all cost, a coupon worth several dollars, if used by you to its full advantage. Don't delay. This is worthy attention.

THE pen enables a young man to give his girl an inkling of his sentiments.

A HARD COUGH distresses the patient and racks both Lungs and Throat. Dr. D. Jayne's Expectorant is the remedy wanted to cure your Cough, and relieve both the Pulmonary and Bronchial organs.

THE carpenter should never be out of doors long.

I CAN recommend Piso's Cure for Consumption to sufferers from Asthma.—E. D. TOWNSEND, Ft. Howard, Wis., May 4, '94.

BE very slow to make acquaintance with a fast young man.

Holiday Rates on the Nickle Plate

Road are authorized Dec. 24th, 25th, 31st, and Jan. 1st, and good returning Jan. 2nd, 1895. Ask Agents.

NEARLY all Indian tales are hair-raising.

DO YOU EXPECT To Become a Mother? If so, then permit us to say that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is indeed, a true "Mother's Friend," FOR IT MAKES Childbirth Easy by preparing the system for parturition, thus assisting Nature and shortening "Labor." The painful ordeal of childbirth is robbed of its terrors, and the dangers thereof greatly lessened, to both mother and child. The period of confinement is also greatly shortened, the mother strengthened and built up, and an abundant secretion of nourishment for the child promoted.

Send 10 cents for a large Book (168 pages), giving all particulars. Address, WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, 663 Main St., Buffalo, N. Y.

PAINLESS CHILDBIRTH.

Mrs. FRED HUNT, of Glenville, N. Y., says: "I read about Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription being so good for a woman with child, so I got two bottles last September, and December 13th I had a twelve pound baby girl. When I was confined I was not sick in any way. I did not suffer any pain, and when the child was born I walked into another room and went to bed. I keep your Extract of Smart-Weed on hand all the time. It was very cold weather and our room was very cold but I did not take any cold, and never had any after-pain or any other pain. It was all due to God and Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and Compound Extract of Smart-Weed. This is the eighth living child and the largest of them all. I suffered everything that flesh could suffer with the other babies. I always had a doctor and then he could not help me very much, but this time my mother and my husband were alone with me. My baby was only seven days old when I got up and dressed and left my room and stayed up all day."

MRS. HUNT.

ST. JACOBS OIL CURES PAIN ONLY A RUB TO MAKE YOU WELL AGAIN OF PAINS RHEUMATIC, NEURALGIC, LUMBAGIC AND SCIATIC.

THE MODERN MOTHER

Has found that her little ones are improved more by the pleasant laxative, Syrup of Figs, when in need of the laxative effect of a gentle remedy than by any other, and that it is more acceptable to them. Children enjoy it and it benefits them. The true remedy, Syrup of Figs, is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only.

CONGRESSMAN SORG of Ohio was the only Buckeye Democrat re-elected. He makes plug tobacco and his constituents always vote as they chews to.

ATTEND the Fort Wayne Business College.

WHEN heaters are fired they are only put to work.

The Nickel Plate Road

Offer holiday rates Dec. 24th, 25th, and 31st, and Jan. 1st, good returning Jan. 2nd.

A LEADER of men is often a follower.

A PEARL-LIKE purity of color, closely resembling the enchantment of early twilight; thus was her complexion made radiant by Glenn's Sulphur Soap.

CALIFORNIA dried prunes are ripe.

THE RISING SUN STOVE POLISH

FOR DURABILITY, ECONOMY AND FOR GENERAL BLACKING IS UNEQUALLED. HAS AN ANNUAL SALE OF 3,000 TONS. WE ALSO MANUFACTURE THE SUN PASTE STOVE POLISH FOR AN AFTER DINNER SHINE, OR TO TOUCH UP SPOTS WITH A CLOTH. MAKES NO DUST. IN 5 & 10 CENT TIN BOXES. THE ONLY PERFECT PASTE. MORSE BROS. PROP'S. CANTON, MASS.

DIRECTIONS for using CREAM BALM.—Apply a particle of the Balm well up into the nostrils. After a moment draw a strong breath through the nose. Use three times a day, after meals preferred, and before retiring.

ELY'S CREAM BALM

Opens and cleanses the Nasal Passages, Allays Pain and Inflammation, Heals the Sores, Protects the Membrane from Colds, Restores the Senses of Taste and Smell. The Balm is quickly absorbed and gives relief at once.

A particle is applied into each nostril and is agreeable. Price 50 cents, at druggists or by mail.

ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren Street, New York.

Dr. J. H. McLean's STRENGTHENING - CORDIAL AND BLOOD PURIFIER, A certain cure for weakness, nervous prostration and sick stomach.

NICKEL PLATE. The New York, Chicago & St. Louis R.R. SOLID THROUGH TRAINS BUFFALO & CHICAGO. LOWEST RATES. THROUGH PALACE BUFFET SLEEPING CARS between Chicago, Buffalo, New York and Boston.

For rates or other information, call on nearest Ticket Agent, or address A. W. JOHNSTON, Gen'l Superintendent. D. F. HORNER, Gen'l Passenger Agent. CLEVELAND O.

NORA.—I wonder what Ripans Tabules are? I see them advertised everywhere.

DORA.—Well, I can tell you. They are a household necessity.

TEXAS, MEXICO and CALIFORNIA. — VIA — Wabash Line.

In connection with the St. Louis, Iron Mountain & Southern Railway, Texas & Pacific Railway, International & Great Northern Railroad, and Southern Pacific Railway, known as the ONLY TRUE SOUTHERN ROUTE, has placed in service a Through First-Class Sleeping Car and Tourist Sleeping Car, leaving Chicago daily at 10:50 A. M., via St. Louis to Little Rock, Malvern (Hot Springs), Austin, San Antonio, Laredo (where a direct connection is made with through sleeping car for the City of Mexico), El Paso, Los Angeles and San Francisco. This is the only line from Chicago which can offer this excellent service. Call or write to any ticket agent of the Wabash or connecting lines for printed matter showing time, route, rates, description of cars, etc., or

R. G. BUTLER, D. P. A., Detroit, Mich.
F. H. TRISTRAM, C. P. A., Pittsburg, Pa.
P. E. DOMBAUGH, P. & T. A., Toledo, Ohio.
R. G. THOMPSON, P. & T. A., Fort Wayne, Ind.
J. HALDERMAN, M. P. A., 201 Clark St., Chicago, Ill.
J. M. McCONNELL, P. & T. A., Lafayette, Ind.
G. D. MAXFIELD, D. P. A., Indianapolis, Ind.
C. S. CRANE, G. P. & T. A., St. Louis, Mo.

...EVERY... Home-Seeker SHOULD READ

The pamphlet recently published by the Passenger Department of the Illinois Central Railroad, entitled "Southern Home-Seekers' Guide for 1894." It contains over 50 excellent letters from Northern farmers now located in the South and other authentic and valuable information. For a FREE COPY address the undersigned at Manchester, Iowa:

J. F. MERRY, Assistant General Passenger Agent.

PATENTS, TRADE-MARKS. Examination and Advice as to Patentability of Invention. Send for Inventors' Guide, or How to Get a Patent. PATRICK O'FARRELL, Washington, D. C.

KIDDER'S PASTILLES. Sure relief for Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Sick Headache, Costiveness. Price 25 cts. per box. Sold by druggists, or by mail. Sample free. Address, KIDDER'S PASTILLES, Boston, Mass.

Mrs. Winslow's SOOTHING SYRUP for Children teething; softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic. 25 cents a bottle.

When Writing to Advertisers, say you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

W. H. KIBLINGER COMPANY

GOLD DOLLARS AT 90 CTS.

CANNOT BE FOUND.

We will EXCHANGE our Stock of

HARDWARE

For Your MONEY. Ask Your Dealer to DUPLICATE These Prices.

We have no LEADERS.
We have no OLD STOCK.
We have Everything Else in the Hardware Line at Proportionate Prices.

Rogers' 1847 Silver set knives and Forks,	$3.00.	Rogers' 1847 silver set Teaspoons,	$1.15
Rogers' 1847 Silver set Dessert Spoons,	2.00.	Rogers' 1847 silver set Tablespoons,	2.25
6-Foot Saw, Atkins,	1.90.	Henry Disston hand saw,	1.20
6½-Foot Saw, Atkins,	2.05.	Double-Barrel Shot gun,	7.25
Nails, per hundred pounds,	1.25.	Pocket Knives,	.03
Scissors,	.12.	Razors,	.55
Raw Oil,	.57.	Boiled Oil,	.60

Sash, glazed, 12 x 28, 4 lights, .80. 22 x 28, 2 light, .90. 22 x 30, 2 light, .95. Other Sizes Proportionate.

Doors, 2 x 6, .85. 2-6 x 6-6, .98. 2-6 x 6-8, 1.05 Other Sizes Proportionate.

Best Ready Mixed Paints, per gallon,	1.25.	Stoves, Cook, No. 8, without reservoir,	9.75
Stoves, Cook, No. 9, without reservoir,	10.75.	Stoves, Cook, No. 8, with reservoir,	15.75

Stoves, Cook, No. 9, with reservoir, 16.95. No. 9, 4-hole Ranges, 21.50. 4-hole Range, 11.50

we are not going out of the Hardware business, and we will not be undersold.

W. H. KIBLINGER COMPANY.

J. C. MESSICK,
FRANK JOLLIFF, } SALESMEN.

W. H. KIBLINGER COMPANY

THE AUBURN COURIER.

VOLUME XXIV. AUBURN, DE KALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY. DECEMBER 27. 1894. NUMBER 52.

THIS IS NEW.

READ!

WHAT WE HAVE TO SAY ABOUT MNOEY.

The Indisna Mutual Building Loan Association, which we represent in this part of the state, have again reduced their interest, which has always been from 2 to 5 per cent less a n any other Building Loan Association Do you know that if you are about to borrow money and give a mortgage on your home, you should take the time and trouble to investigate the plan of different associations, so that you may know, regardless of what any agent may tell you, which is the cheapest and the best?

There are three items which should also be considered and thoroughly understood, especially by the borrower, before he makes his application for a loan:

First: The rate of interest and premium he is charged per annum.

Second: What the earnings of the Association are.

Third: How economically the Association is conducting its affairs.

We are prepared always to compare our company with any other, and can prove to your entire satisfaction that we are the cheapest, and

REMEMBER

That in our company you have no membership fee to pay, no advance payments to make and there will be no delays, so that should your loan for any reason be declined, you will lose no money. We are prepared to make loans where the security is sufficient; for any amount from $200 to $25,000.

If you have a loan in any other company it will pay you to call on us and get our figures and

Change your Loan at Once

We are also prepared to make

FARM LOANS

at from

3 to 6 per cent

interest.

We are still in line for Insurance, and Cheap R. R Tickets, and have now on hand more bargains in

REAL ESTATE

than ever before.

CALL ON OR ADDRESS

RICKEL & SPROTT

AUBURN, IND.

PIANOS AND ORGANS.

BROWN CULBERTSON & BOLAND

Have the room over their Hardware store filled with

KIMBALL

ORGANS and PIANOS

Which they are selling at very

LOW PRICES:

and on

EASY TERMS

Why not buy one for your

WIFE or DAUGHTER

It will MAKE THEM HAPPY and you too.

Call and be convinced that prices and terms are

SATISFACTORY.

B C & B

SCHAAB & MURPHY

ARE

NOW READY

with a

BIG STOCK

OF

CLOTHING, GENTS' FURNISHING GOODS HATS CAPS ETC

We would invite our friends to come in while the stock is new and full, and they can get good returns.

PRICES

We can give you better prices than ever before. We have also added a full line of

MEN'S and BOY'S SHOES

Which we will sell at very low prices. Call and be convinced.

SCHAAB & MURPHY

AUBURN - - INDIANA

The Fiftieth Anniversary.

Sunday last, as we had noted before, the exercises at the Presbyterian church had reference to the fifty years of the church's existence. In December, 1844, the church was organized. It was at first in the Logansport Presbytery, though a later arrangement makes it in the Ft. Wayne. Rev. James G. Bliss and Rev. Mr. Wolf were the organizers, and there were but few members, the account varying from seven to eleven. Among the first members, or those who joined soon after, we find Mr. and Mrs. George, the latter being the only present survivor, and now better known to our people as Mrs. James Barclay, Mr. George having died many years ago. Then there are Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Mead, Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Sprott, Wyllys Griswold, as well as such familiar names as Reynolds, Work, Butt, Clark, Dr Chamberlain, E. J. Ralston, Hartel, Dickinson, etc. We have time and space for but a brief account. The forenoon sermon by Mr. Colvin was very appropriate and eloquent. In the evening, different members gave an account of the different branches of church work. Mr. Hartman read letters from Rev. Mr. Bliss, Mr. Fisher and Rev. Dr Henry Johnson, as to what was done during the pastorate of each, and some of the items we now state were obtained in this way. Dr. S. B. Johnston, now superintendent of the Sunday school, gave a brief history of this. The school was organized soon after the church was, but did not begin work till next spring, and for some years there was no Sunday school in winter, owing to the fact that many had to come long distances, and the room used by both church and Sunday school was not of the best. They were held in the courtroom. The Doctor mentioned the fact that among the first Sunday school teachers were Mr. George and his wife (now Mrs. Barclay. Their two little children, now Mrs. E. S. McDowell and Mrs. A. J. Ralston, were pupils. Often, the mother took one child on the horse before her and the other behind, and came a mile or more through the woods to town, while the husband followed on foot. Sometimes the father would walk and lead the little ones slowly through the wood paths, while the mother would start later and overtake them. Both "little girls" have always been active members and church workers, and are so still. The school now numbers nearly 100. Miss Mary Teeters, as president of the Christian Endeavor, gave a brief history of that branch, which now numbers over 60. It was organized May 8, 1891. Miss Flora Hoffman, superintendent of the Junior Endeavors, gave her report. They were organized by Mrs. Healy, in the fall of 1891. Her remarks were excellent and full of feeling, especially when she spoke to the members in regard to these energetic and earnest young christians who will be in charge of all this work fifty years hence. Both young ladies made an excellent impression. Mrs. J. A. Barns read a carefully prepared statement of the work of the Woman's Home and Foreign Missions. This was organized about 13 years ago by Mrs. Goodwin, of Kendallville. Mrs. Mary Hartman was the first president, Mrs. Sadie Yesbera first secretary and Mrs. Ida Emanuel was treasurer. This society has contributed to various objects. They assisted to pay for the medical outfit of Dr. Mary Bradford, who went to Persia, and who became famous during the great cholera epidemic a few years ago; helped buy ground for a college in Chili; to build a schoolhouse in Mexico; a school for Indian boys and girls in South Dakota, and one for negro boys in Indian Territory; have helped the schools at Crockett, Texas; Scotia Seminary, N. C., and at Washington, Tenn., and have sent off one or two missionary boxes. Mrs. Mary Nusbaum gave a history of the Ladies' Aid Society, of which she is president, her mother, Mrs. S. W. Sprott, having been its first vice-president. It was organized in 1845, first as a sewing circle. She found but little records till 1867. (A. J. Ralston informed her later that he had these old records.) Among the familiar names Mrs. Nusbaum read in the history are Miss C. E. Strickland, Mrs. L. J. Blair, Mrs. S. W. Ralston and many more. Some of these are still active members. Some, as Mrs Ralston and Mrs. Blair, have passed away, and some, as Miss Strickland, live in distant states. Had it been possible to procure them, we would gladly publish a full list of these names—so worthy to be remembered. A. J. Ralston furnishes from memory, a few of those who attended service from the country within reach of town, beginning when they met in the court house, and later, in the little church they built—now occupied by the Church of God. They include, Wm., John, Henry and George Feagler, Harlow and Page Mead, Leonard Hartle, Wm., Stephen and Jotham Townley, T. S., Robert and Alonzo Russel, and Ezra Boyer.

Marvelous Results.

From a letter written by Rev J. Gunderman, of Dimondale, Mich., we are permitted to make this extract: "I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. King's New Discovery, as the results were almost marvelous in the case of my wife. While I was pastor of the Baptist church at Rives Junction she was brought down with pneumonia succeding lagrippe. Terrible paroxysms of coughing would last hours with little interuption and it seemed as if she could not survive them. A friend recommended Dr King's New Discovery; it was quick in its work and highly satisfactory in results." Trial bottles free at Robbins & McCord's drugstore. Regular size 50c, and $1.00. 1

Henry Harris Dead.

The last scene of that terrible tragedy of Dec. 7 is closed, by the death of the last survivor of the murdered party. Henry Harris passed peacefully away last Friday, Dec. 21, at about 4 p. m. This was fourteen days after he was shot. Not the least remarkable about his case, was the wonderful vitality he displayed. It does not seem possible that a man with five balls in his head, four of which had penetrated the skull, and some of which had gone through to the skull on the opposite side, could by any chance, live an hour. And besides these were the two shots that went entirely through his body, one from front and the other from back. Yet for fourteen days, he lived and was conscious for the greater part of the time. Last Thursday Dr. Spooner, of Ashley, was sent for, and he and the attending physician, Dr. Nusbaum, determined to make an effort to get out the balls in his head. As noted in the COURIER, on Saturday before, Dr. Nusbaum had taken out the ball that had lodged on the outside of the skull, It was flattened out as any ball is that strikes on a surface it cannot penetrate, for it had only dented in the outside of the bone. But those inside had not been removed. But when Dr. Spooner arrived they began this delicate task. Two of the balls were soon found and extracted, but Harris was by this time so weak that further operations were delayed till next day. Friday, when another ball was found and removed, there was still another discovered in the head, but they were not able to get it. That afternoon, however, he rapidly failed, and at about four o'clock breathed his last. He had been unconscious more or less for a day or so. The funeral was at the home in Gas Addition on Sunday, the 23rd, at 2 p. m. and the interment in Woodlawn. Rev. J. D. Brosy, of the Lutheran church, preached the sermon and the singing was by his choir. There was a large attendance, and all who filed in solemn procession past the casket of the murdered man, and saw the few visible scars of the many he had suffered, felt that scene was the close of the tragedy, and not the least of their regrets, was that the murderers will not likely ever be brought to justice. With Harris dead, it would be difficult to convict them if captured.

Henry Harris was born at Solon, Cuyahoga county, Ohio, April 26, 1854, and died Dec. 21, 1894, at the age of 40 years, 7 months and 25 days. He moved with his people to Waterloo, Ind., while young. August 6, 1879, he was united in marriage to Lucinda Crawford at the home of her parents in Allen county, Ind., and after a residence of a few years there, returned to DeKalb county, and resided at Auburn, till his death.

Mary Hosler.

Mary Desler was born in Stark county, Ohio, August 7, 1840, and departed this life December 21, 1894, aged 54 years, 4 months and 14 days. On May 26 1858, she was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Samuel Hosler in DeKalb county, Indiana. They began married life at Corunna, Ind. To this union were born seven children—three sons and four daughters, all of whom survive her.

Mrs. Hosler was an excellent woman and knew what hard toil was. She had drank of the bitter cup of sorrow, in the death of her companion about 16 years ago. Since then she did her utmost in keeping together the family, and like a mother she succeeded nobly. She was a pleasing neighbor and an affectionate and kind mother. A number of years ago she became a christian and united with the United Brethren church at St. Joe, Ind., of which she has ever since been a member. While living in Auburn she attended the different churches and worshiped with God's people. She felt quite at home in the Church of God, but contemplated uniting with the Lutheran church since her daughters were members.

Mrs. Hosler was quiet and reserved in all her ways and served her Master in humility of heart. We had several brief conversations regarding the unseen, and she always seemed to look forth with gladness to the hour when she could sit at the feet of Jesus, and thanks be to God, the joyful hour came at last to her waiting soul. We bowed together in prayer before the throne of grace last Thursday evening, and in a few words she said Jesus was precious, and so he was. She is crowned, glorified and blest in the land of Beulah, while we are left to weep and toil for a little while longer. But let us wait in patience until our change comes. Weeping may endure for a night, but joy cometh in the morning. Thanks be unto God for the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ.

Mother, we must now say a long and last farewell to thee. Sleep on and take thy rest, for we, too, shall soon come and lay ourselves down by thy side until the glorious resurrection morn. Here we must say farewell, but in heaven, never—no, never. Dear mother, thou precious treasure,

Sleep on. The cold and heavy hand
Of death has stilled thy gentle breast.
No rude sound of this stormy land
Shall mar thy peaceful rest,
Undying grandeur 'round thee close
To count the years of thy repose.

The funeral was from the Lutheran church Sunday, Dec. 23, at 9 a. m., conducted by Rev. J. D. Brosy. The interment was at Leo.

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder World's Fair Highest Award.

OWING to the unfavorable condition of Weather and Roads the past week we have decided to continue our Grand

SLAUGHTER SALE

OF

Dress Goods and Clothing

UNTIL

JAN. 1, '95.

This sale is running far ahead of ou greatest expectations. If you are needing anything in DRESS GOODS or CLOTHING you cannot afford to miss it.

We have a fine assortment of

UMBRELLAS,
NECKWEAR,
HANDKERCHIEFS,
SHIRTS, RUGS,
PORTIERES.
CARPET SWEEPERS,

And many other useful articles suitable for Christmas presents. We will try to please you, both in

QUALIT AND PRICE

COME AND SEE US,

Schaab & Bro.

Spring Curry Comb

Clock Spring Blade. Soft as a Brush. Fits every Curve. The Only Perfect Comb. Used by U. S. Army and by Barnum and Forepaugh Circuses, and Leading Horsemen of the World. Ask your Dealer for It. Sample mailed post paid 25 cents. See our name on the handle. SPRING CURRY COMB CO., 104 Lafayette St., South Bend, Indiana.

Resolution of Condolence.

At the meeting of the Y P. S. C. E. of the Lutheran church, Sunday evening, Dec. 23, the following resolution was read, adopted and ordered published:

WHEREAS, It has pleased our Supreme and Allwise Father to enter the home of our sister, Libbie Hosler, and remove therefrom its center and light—the loving, sacrificing, christian mother—destroying in one short hour its sacred unity, therefore be it

Resolved, That we extend to our sister our sincere sympathy in her sudden, sad affliction and bereavement, and in unity of heart share in her deep sorrow. And while we realize the weakness of mortal words and strength in hours of bereavement, we trust and pray that He who doeth all things well may speak comfort to her stricken spirit, and that His strong arm may sustain her in her hours of sorrow and lead her through the vale of tears.

Card of Thanks.

We wish to express through the COURIER our heartfelt thanks to all the kind friends and neighbors for their kindness and assistance during the sickness of our dear mother, Mrs. Mary Hosler. And thanks are especially due to Jacob Walborn for many acts of kindness All these will ever be gratefully remembered.

THE CHILDREN.

Four Big Successes.

Having the needed merit to more than make good all the advertising claimed for them, the following four remedies have reached a phenomenal sale. Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, each bottle guaranteed; Electric Bitters, the great remedy for Liver, Stomach and Kidneys; Bucklen's Arnica Salve, the best in the world, and Dr. King's New Life Pills, which are a perfect pill. All these remedies are guaranteed to do just what is claimed for them, and the dealer, whose name is attached here with, will be glad to tell you more of them. Sold at Robbins & McCord's drugstore. 1

When the Heart is Affected

By rheumatism or any of the muscles near that organ, it is like tampering with an electric wire, for death may come at any moment. If life is worth it, do not hesitate, but get Dr. Drummond's Lightning Remedy. Send $5 to the Drummond Medicine Co., 48 Maiden Lane, New York, and they will send you two large bottles, enough for one month's treatment, by first express. It is not as quick as electricity, but it will save your life if you take it in time. Agents wanted. 51 2

Music Lessons.

I will take a limited number of pupils on the violin, mandolin, banjo, guitar and cornet. Terms reasonable. I am agent for these instruments and can get them for you at the very lowest prices. Also repair instruments of all kinds and guarantee satisfaction. Those desiring to take instructions, please call on or address me at Auburn, Ind. T. N WILCOX. 52tf

It Sells Well.

It is a pleasant to sell Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, says Stickney & Dentler, druggists, Republic, Ohio, "because a customer after once using it, is almost certain to call for it when again in need of such a medicine. We sell more of it than of any other cough medicine we handle, and it always gives satisfaction." For cough, colds and croup, it is without an equal. For sale by Robbins & McCord. 52

Busy people have no time, and sensible people have no inclination to use a slow remedy. One Minute Cough Cure acts promptly and gives permanent results. Sold by Robbins & McCord.

Keeps it in the House.

Anyone who has children will rejoice with L. B. Mulford, of Plainfield, N. J. His little boy, five years of age, was sick with croup. For two days and nights he tried various remedies recommended by friends and neighbors. He says: "I thought sure I would lose him. I had seen Chamberlain's Cough Remedy advertised and thought I would try it as a last hope and am happy to say that after two doses he slept until morning. I gave it to him next day and a cure was affected. I keep this remedy in the house now and as soon as any of my children show signs of croup I give it to them and that is the last of it." 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Robbins & McCord. 52

You ought to know this: DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve will heal a burn and stop the pain instantly. It will cure badly chapped hands, ugly wounds, sores, and a well known cure for piles. Sold by Robbins & McCord

Two Doses.

J. W. Spellman, a prominent merchant of Elkhart, Ind., says: Two doses of Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup completely cured my child of a severe attack of croup. I have used a great many different croup medicines, but have never found any so efficient as Dr. Marshall's, which makes it a very necessary article for the family. Yours, G. W. Spellman. Sold by all druggists. 52

It cures piles, it cures obstinate sores, chapped hands, wounds. It does this quickly. Is there any good reason why you should not use DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve? For sale by Robbins & McCord.

THE AUBURN COURIER.

SUPPLEMENT, DECEMBER 20, 1894.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

Commissioners Court.

Charles Raut by D. Y. Husselman his attorney presented a petition to vacate that part of Fourth street lying east of the east line of East street, and thence to the corporation line. Mrs. J. J. Zent, and Charles Raut owa the land affected, and gave their consent. The petition was granted. Commissioner Hague took no part in the matter, as he is a relative of Mr. Raut.

Edward Eldridge, Adolph Pairan, David Carter, H. F. Strouse, David Widner, Isaac Whirledge, A P. Moste, R. Till, Fisher & Geddis, Straus & Stiefel, Daniel Hook and C. A. Washler were given license to retail liquor.

The board entered an order in the Records, that in case repairs were needed in any county offices, or any furniture or fixtures, etc, etc, about the court house, that an application for the same shall first be made to the Board, before such work shall be done, or furnished.

The Board also granted exemption from paying poll tax to C. H. Crew and Frank Reynolds.

Clerk Moody filed his report of the fees turned over by the sheriff and treasurer under the salary law. There is also a report of $66 turned over by the court and $39 by the commissioners.

Ex-Treasurer Sawvel and Ex Sheriff Ralston also filed their reports of fees collected and turned into the county treasury. Mr. Ralston's has not yet been large enough to pay him the salary allowed by the law. Both reports were approved. It is a pity the salary law should be knocked out before we have a fair chance to see how it would work. Dr. F. M. Hines was appointed secretary of the County Board of Health for the coming year of 1895.

The petition of Eunice Zeigler by her attorney, R. D. Tefft, asking to vacate an alley, was dismissed by plaintiff.

J. C. Henry's petition to have a part of Eighth street vacated, was remonstrated against by A. J. Ralston and continued till next term.

The town Board of Auburn, by their attorney, E. D. Hartman, presented a petition for the annexation of some territory to the town plat. Rosa A. Shull appeared by her attorneys, J. E. & J. H. Rose, and the case was carried over till next term. The Board adjourned Tuesday evening.

COMMISSIONERS' ALLOWANCES.

POOR.

M Tustison	$ 5 00
B A Woodcox	24 70
J N Wilson & Son	7 20
C C Shaffer & Co	26 25
H Stomm	12 00
F G Fried	8 00
O C Himes	16 69
Jacob Brechbill	3 00
Wm H Fair	9 65
I H Nill	5 00
Allison Briggs	13 50
D J Blair	7 00
F E Hensinger	3 00
Schaab & Bro	6 21
R S S Reed	17 15
John Kruger	12 00
H J Mossey	6 85
Mrs R S S Reed	16 80
F A Hoff	6 10
H J Crooks	25 51
Schaab & Murphy	14 25
DeKalb Medical Soc	275 00
S H Bartlett	12 00
Raut & Co	5 50
M E Reynolds	15 50
Bishop & Lackey	9 30
Boyer & Leas	2 40
John Stonestreet	28 00
J M Waterman	7 00
E C Miller	6 50
M F Long	3 75
Gruster Bros	16 00
G O Denison	8 20
W H Crane	19 50
Chas Willett	1 25
J A Denison	7 95
L Strong	6 00
J Gushwa	3 00
Knisely Goods Co	14 72
A Bartels	202 98
Wm Buss	54 00
Mary Hosler	22 00
Emma Kruse	34 50
A Levy & Co	71 41
Zimmerman Mfg Co	1 37
Campbell & Son	2 35
Raut & Co	17 40
C C Shaffer & Co	13 00
D S Ober	2 65
A J & G M Ralston	3 40
M E Garrett	21 78
M Jones & Son	14 08
Schaab & Murphy	2 50
Geo W Rakestraw	18 54
Brown, C & B	78 38
Pioneer Hardware	8 68
F W Sodtman	8 00
W Sheffer & Co	1 60
F E Davenport	4 10
F A Hoff	33 95
John Kruger	13 64
Robbins & McCord	23 45
Schaab & Bro	25 76
C Snell	17 45
Hebel Bros	13 45
J W Shaffer	5 54
Eli Snyder	25 00
Woodlawn Cemetery	5 00
John Kruger	13 20
Smith & Hirshberger	6 75
John F Aber	3 00
Hebel Bros	53 90
J H Knauer	22 75
S S Norris	6 00
H J Mossey	6 00
Ira Brandon	6 00
E P Kenyon & Co	11 25

SALARY.

C E VanAuken	234 00
Reuben Sawvel	525 50
F M Hines	14 36
F A Borst	156 82
Lyman Lockwood	17 50
G C Ralston	517 31
D W Fair	24 50
John Hoffelder	28 00
J M Henderson	28 00
Isaac Hague	26 25
D D Moody (fees)	26 00

DITCHES.

C E VanAuken	78 95

MISCELLANEOUS.

C E VanAuken	10 25
A J & G M Ralston	1 05
Robbins & McCord	17 55
S Williams (postage)	4 25

STATIONERY AND PRINTING.

R Sawvel	14 30
J A Barns	31 90
C M Merica	10 50
W B Campbell	14 05
A J Little	8 00
F E Davenport	21 75
F A Borst	22 00
W B Burford	609 55

PUBLIC BUILDINGS.

Auburn Mining Co	97 50
Wm Click	92 00
Brown, C & B	18 80
Wm Edwards	75
Joseph Stafford	1 50
J H Baker	1 25
Pioneer Hardware Co	12 45
Bishop & Lackey	7 94
G A Mader	17 12
J H Baker	17 55
A Lewis & Co	3 65
J C Henry	12 46
Auburn F & M W	4 00
Chas Bolton	19 00
Jas Pearce	5 00
Rickel & Sprott	24 00

ROADS AND BRIDGES.

D S Ober	10 32
J J VanAuken	12 75

INSANE.

W B Coburn	30 00

ELECTION EXPENSE.

Wm H Fair	11 30

CRIMINALS.

Schaab Bros	5 13
Wm Moore	47 40
G C Ralston	46 90
H P Stroh	32 60

The bills of John Britzius and of the Auburn Mining Company were continued to next term.

Legend of the Chrysanthemum.

Nature, on a busy day
Made the flower fair;
Then, being quickly called away,
Forgot to comb its hair.

Chicago Record.

Republicans Like Office.

Twelve republican members of the legislature, up to date, are asking to be made speaker. Their members of the senate have already met and settled the committees, although the Assembly does not meet till Jan. 10. The speaker gets but $2 a day more than other members of the House, but he, like the speaker at Washington, has a good deal of power to help friends or hurt enemies. The first Indiana assembly had Isaac Blackford for speaker of the House. Then came Amos Lane, Williamson Dunn, Wm. Graham, Samuel Milroy, General Washington Johnston, David H. Maxwell, Stephen C. Stevens, Robert M. Evans, Harbin H. Moore, Isaac Howk, Ross Smiley, John W. Davis, Nathan B. Palmer, James Gregory, Caleb B. Smith, Thomas J. Evans, James G. Read, Samuel Judah, Thomas J. Henly, Andrew L. Robinson, Alexander C. Stevenson, John S. Simonson, Robert N. Carnan, Wm. A. Porter, Geo. W. Carr. Ebenezer Dumont, William H. English, Oliver B. Torbett, David Kilgore, Ballard Smith.

A few names right here we are unable to get.

Wm. Mack presided over the House that met in 1871. The next House had Wm. K Edwards, and then came David Turpie in 1875, then John Overmyer, Henry S. Cauthorn, William Ridpath, Wm. D. Bynum, Charles Jewett, Warren G. Sayre, Mason J. Niblack two sessions, and the last one was James B. Curtis.

HARPER'S MAGAZINE
IN 1895.

THE SIMPLETONS, a new novel by Thomas Hardy, will be begun in the December number, 1894, and continue to November, 1895. Whoever may be one's favorite among English novelists, it will be conceded by all critics that Thomas Hardy stands foremost as a master artist in fiction, and THE SIMPLETONS may by expected to arouse enthusiasm not inferior in degree to that which has marked Trilby—the most successful story of the year. Another leading feature will be the PERSONAL RECOLLECTIONS OF JOAN OF ARC, by the Sieur Louis de Conte, Her Page and Secretary, under which guise the most popular of living American magazine writers will present the story of the Maid of Orleans. In the January number will appear a profusely illustrated paper on CHARLESTON AND THE CAROLINAS, the first of a series of Southern Papers.

Northern Africa is attracting more attention than at any other time since it was the seat of empires. The next volume of Harper's Magazine will contain four illustrated articles on this region, and three of them will depict the present life there. Julian Ralph will prepare for the Magazine a series of eight stories depicting typical phases of CHINESE LIFE AND MANNERS. Besides the long stories, there will begin in the Janury number the first chapters of A THREE-PART NOVELETTE, by Richard Harding Davis—the longest work yet attempted by this writer. Complete short stories by popular writers will continue to be a feature of the Magazine.

Send for Illustrated Prospectus.

The Volumes of the MAGAZINE begin with the numbers for June and December of each year. When no time is mentioned, subscriptions will begin with the number current at the time of receipt of order. Cloth cases, for binding, 50 cents each—by mail, postpaid. Title-page and Index sent on application.

Remittances should be made by Post-office Money Order or Draft, to avoid chance of loss.

Newspapers are not to copy this advertisement without the express order of Harper & Bros.

HARPER'S PERIODICALS

Harper's Magazine	1 yr.,	$4
Harper's Weekly	"	4
Harper's Bazar	"	4
Harpers's Young People	"	2

Postage Free to all subscribers in the United States, Canada and Mexico.

Address HARPER & BROTHERS
P. O. Box 959, N. Y. City.

The whole of the land on the globe above water level, if shoveled into the Pacific ocean, would fill only one seventh of it.

IVORY SOAP

IVORY

IT FLOATS

BEST FOR SHIRTS.

THE PROCTER & GAMBLE CO., CIN'TI.

OBERLIN COLLEGE GLEE CLUB.

The Junior Class of our High School has assumed the responsibility of bringing to Auburn a great musical treat. In securing the Oberlin College Glee Club they feel they have secured the best of its kind that this country affords as the best critics pronounce the Oberlin Club the most excellent organization of its kind sent out from any American university. They are not a troupe of professional musicians singing for hire, but twenty young men the representatives of a great college and conservatory, out for a three week's holiday tour singing for their own and the delight of their audiences.

They will travel and live in a special car chartered for the entire trip, and give concerts in the following places: Toledo, Detroit, Grand Rapids, South Bend, Chicago, Muscatine, Burlington, Washington, Des Moines, St. Joseph, Lawrence, Springfield, Kansas City, St. Louis, Terre Haute, Indianapolis, Auburn, Norwalk, Elyria and Cleveland. To show the high estimate in which this club is held we copy a few of an unlimited number of press notices they have received.

Speaking of the Yale, Harvard, Princeton and Oberlin Glee Clubs, the Chicago Inter Ocean says:—"The Oberlin club is first in point of musical merit."

The audience was enraptured, each number being received with a tumult of applause Every number was presented with vim and brilliancy. Their voices are strangely sweet and well balanced. They have an established position in the great number of concert companies and are receiving much merited praise. They are favorites wherever they go.—Des Moines Daily Capital, Dec. 23, 1893,

Regarding the concert in Indianapolis, The Advance says:—"It was their first appearance in this city, both the Yale and Princeton Clubs having preceded them, but the Oberlins easily bore off the palm."

Their chorus work is magnificent. Possibly a better selected choir of voices is not known. Their training is what would be termed perfect. Everything about their singing is so exact that we cannot help pronouncing them wonders their line—Peoria Transcript, Dec. 28, 1893.

These are a sufficient guarantee that the entertainment will be first class. We predict that music lovers, and we all love music will not miss attending this concert. Its excellence merits a full house and the Junior Class deserve our patronage. Remember the date Wednesday evening, Jan. 2, at the Methodist church.

Indiana's Votes.

The Indianapolis News gives the vote of this state since it was admitted into the union and the figures are interesting at this time.

At the first presidential election for Adams, Jackson and Clay in 1824, Jackson's plurality over Clay was 2,028. It is interesting to give all the figures in this election. For Adams there were 3,095 votes; for Jackson, 7,343; for Clay, 5,315. In 1828 Jackson's plurality over Adams was 4,585. In 1832 Jackson's plurality over Clay was 10,080. In 1836 Harrison's plurality over VanBuren was 8,801. In 1840 Harrison's plurality over VanBuren was 13,667. In 1844 Polk's plurality over Clay was 2,315. In 1848 Cass' plurality over Taylor was 4,838. In 1852 Pierce's plurality over Scott was 14,439. In 1856 Buchanan's plurality over Fremont was 24,295. In 1860 Lincoln's plurality over Douglas was 23,524. In 1864 Lincoln's plurality over McClellan was 20,189. In 1868 Grant's plurality over Seymour was 9,568. In 1872 Grant's plurality over Greely was 22,515. In 1876 Tilden's plurality over Hayes was 5,515. In 1880 Garfield's plurality over Hancock was 6,642. In 1884 Cleveland's plurality over Blaine was 6,527. In 1888 Harrison's plurality over Cleveland was 2,694. In 1892 Cleveland's plurality over Harrison was 7,192.

A Queer Query.

One of our friends up in Fairfield writes us this query: Who is that fellow that comes from Corunna up here ever since the Kendallville fair? Some say it is I. N. Shippy, others say it is the Penmanship teacher. We don't care so that he does not carry away one of Fairfield's good looking girls.

THE CHRISTMAS NUMBER
—OF—
Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly.

Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly for December is one of the earliest to appear and certainly one of the most brilliantly attractive, of the holiday magazines. Its illuminated cover promises a rich feast within, and this promise is abundantly fulfilled. The leading paper is an original contribution from the famous Egyptologist and romancer, Dr. Georg Ebers, entitled "My Tomb in Thebes," profusely illustrated with views taken in Egypt expressly to accompany it. Other notable articles in this number are; "Living Pictures on Broadway," written and illustrated by the well known artist, Valerian Gribayedoff, in his own vivid style; "The Old and the New in Japan," a timely paper, full of interesting information, by Ernest W. Clement; "Ghosts of Ravenna," by Vernon Lee, with some highly artistic pen drawings and aquarelles by A. Guaccimanni; "A Sabine Sanctuary" (Subiaco the cradle of the Benedictines), by E. C. Vansittart; and "The Historic Hudson," with a score of beautiful wood engravings. There are, moreover, complete short stories by Etta Martha McCulloch Williams, Grace Stuart Reid. Virginia Ballen, Henry Tyrrell and others; and poems by Minna Irving, G. A. Davis, Lilian Whiting and H. D. Rawnsley.

The BEST Boys' Outfits in the World

are offered to the public by THE HUB—Chicago's greatest clothing store! Made of strictly all-wool cloth—well fitting and strong—we can positively guarantee them the Best Bargains for the Money ever given by anybody.

The Hub's Famous Head-To-Foot Outfits

For Boys from 5 to 15 years old.

consist of One Double-Breasted Coat, Two Pairs of Knee Pants, a Stanley Cap, made to match the suit, and One Pair of Shoes, made of solid leather very neat, yet as strong as a brick, and the price of the entire "Head-To-Foot" Outfit is

Only $5.00

Tens of thousands sold to every state of the Union, and everyone is delighted with them. You'll be pleased, too, if you'll let us send you one—all charges prepaid to any part of the U. S. for $5.75, or C. O. D. with privilege of examination before payment—if a deposit of $1.00 is sent with the order.

Samples of Cloth and 60-page Illustrated Catalogue telling you all about the greatest line of Men's and Boys' Clothing, Furnishing Goods, Hats, Shoes for Men and Women, and Ladies' Cloaks and Furs, sent free and postage paid.

THE HUB

N. W. Cor. State and Jackson Sts.,
CHICAGO, ILL.

The Hub has no Branch Stores Anywhere.

WE HAVE NO BRANCH HOUSES

COLLARS AND CUFFS that are waterproof. Never wilt and not effected by moisture. Clean, neat and durable. When soiled simply wipe off with a wet cloth. The genuine are made by covering a linen collar or cuff on both sides with "celluloid" and as they are the only waterproof goods made with such an interlining, it follows that they are the only collars and cuffs that will stand the wear and give satisfaction. Every piece is stamped as follows:

TRADE CELLULOID MARK.

If anything else is offered you it is an imitation. Refuse any but the genuine, and if your dealer does not have what you want send direct to us, enclosing amount and stating size and whether a stand-up or turned-down collar is wanted. Collars 25c. each. Cuffs 50c. pair.

The Celluloid Company,
427-429 Broadway, New York.

Courier Agent at Corunna.

We have secured the services of an active agent in the live town of Corunna, Mr. W. A. Cremean, the postmaster there. This will be not only an advantage to the COURIER, but to the good people of that section. He will receive all new subscribers who wish to take the COURIER, and is also authorized to take subscriptions from old subscribers and give receipts for same. Items of news, church notices, etc, may also be handed to him. We have a large list at Corunna, but there are still a few of our Richland and Fairfield friends who have not their names on the COURIER books. We hope to get more of them, for we think we shall give them the best paper in this section. 47tf

DO YOU WANT A SITUATION?

The Prosperous South for Energetic Young Men.

Prof. Wilbur R. Smith, Lexington, Ky.,

PROF. WILBUR R. SMITH, LEXINGTON, KY.

For 18 years President of the renowned Commercial College of Kentucky University, gives special attention to assisting his graduates in securing situations. Cost of Business course about $60, including Tuition and Board in a family.

Prof. Smith is a native of Ohio; has kept books; several years vice-president of a bank; World's Fair Commissioner from Kentucky, and a reliable business man.

Among the 10,000 successful graduates of the Prof. Smith, are 100 in banks, 100 officials from this and other states. Prof. E. W. Smith, Principal of the College referred to, was awarded the medal at World's Columbian Exposition for Book-keeping, etc.

LEXINGTON, KY., the location of Prof. Smith's College, is noted for its healthfulness and fine climate; has 25 churches and 11 banks—the gateway to the South by its many railroads.

Prof. Smith's graduates are awarded the Kentucky University diploma under seal, an influential passport to business houses in the prosperous south.

Over 500 young men from the North are the successful graduates of this college, among whom are book-keepers in banks, mercantile houses, etc., in the South, who are getting from $1,000 to $2,500 a year through the influence of this college.

If you wish a business education, or a knowledge of phonography, typewriting or telegraphy at the least total cost, with diploma from Kentucky University on graduation, we advise you to cut this out and write for circulars to Prof. W R Smith, Lexington, Ky. 52

CALIFORNIA IN 3½ DAYS

Without change of cars. All meals served in dining cars. Palace drawing-room sleeping cars and tourist sleepers are run through to San Francisco without change, with annex sleeping cars to Los Angeles, leaving Chicago daily via The NORTH-WESTERN LINE.

Variable route tourist tickets, taking in all principal points of interest, and allowing special privileges without extra cost, on sale at

Very Low Rates

Detailed information and descriptive pamphlets will be mailed free on application to W. A. THRALL, General Passenger and Ticket Agent, Chicago. Agents of connecting lines sell tickets via the Chicago & North-Western Ry.

CORRESPONDENCE

WATERLOO.

John Lutz died Sunday and was buried from his home Monday in the Waterloo cemetery.

Attorneys Leas, Phillips, Blair and Shuman have been attending court at Auburn a good deal this week.

A Mr. Coates is in town in the business of renovating feathers by a new process, which seems to be satisfactory. He is located near Alonzo Fauetts.

Miss Effie Lock is to be married next Tuesday to a Mr. Siegfried, of Toledo. Her brother, Rev. Richard Lock, of Boston is here, to attend the wedding.

Mrs. Knott continues about the same—very low. Mrs. Hull is nursing her and she will be well cared for, and any one so sick as she is needs the exclusive care of a regular professional nurse.

A ghost in the form of a woman, (at least wearing a dress of white,) is said to appear in the vicinity of the M E. church and had caught one man in her grasp as it seems to be the intention to aim for male gender. Possibly it is another phase of the tick-tack, pull-devil mock trials etc, and a man may be personating a woman. Presto change. What next?

Mrs. William McDonald died Sunday about noon quite suddenly of consumption. Mr. McDonald left only Saturday morning for Louisville Ky., to enter upon business for which he was engaged. Mrs. M. urged his going as she thought she might continue as well as then for some time. Mr McDonald only received the telegram, advising him of her death on Monday morning, and reached Waterloo Tuesday. The funeral took place Wednesday. The deceased leaves her husband and one child, an interesting little girl, her parents, Mr. and Mrs Richard Till, two brothers and two sisters.

LAST WEEK

Mrs. Rickard has moved to Waterloo.

Frank Leas was in town the most of last week.

Mrs. Emma Plum visited in Butler one day last week.

Mr. Morr has moved his family into Mr. Henning's property on the hill.

Winter has not come in earnest yet. The weather continues mild and spring-like.

Dell Locke and family are expecting to spend the holidays in Waterloo with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry [illegible] are visiting in Bellefontaine, Ohio, [illegible] relatives of Mrs. Willis.

Warren Luce will move his family into town again, occupying Mrs. Kelly's house on Main street.

A few days ago Peter Seery lost his winter supply of potatoes. He raised a crop of twenty-five bushels last summer, and had buried them in his garden Some miserable scamp took them all at night.

Rev Richard Locke arrived the latter part of last week to visit his relatives here, enjoy the Christmas festivities, and witness the wedding of his sister Effie Christmas to a Mr. Seigfried, of Toledo.

Verne Rickel started Monday for Ludlow, Cal., to start life for himself. He has no acquaintances there, but being a pushing, energetic fellow, will no doubt make his way all right. We wish him success.

The L. M C. held their session Tuesday evening, Dec. 11, at the home of Mrs. Mary E. Boozer. Next Tuesday at Mrs. Olive A. Long's. The number of members is nearly filled and much interest is manifested.

Allen St. Clair was over Monday of last week to see his father and to make arrangements in regard to the latter's moving as proposed for the winter. He had fastened his horse near the U. B. church, but on going there when wishing to go home, it was missing. After making many inquiries, he learned that someone had seen a man driving it north. He followed after, and several miles from town met his horse and buggy on the way home. Someone undoubtedly made use of it to go to their own home, or at least a part of the distance, then turned around, thinking it would find the way back. Such conduct is altogether too frequent, and should be punished if possible.

SUMMIT.

Mr. Obe Leas, of Waterloo, was in town Friday.

Daniel Kimmel, of Ashley, was in town last Thursday.

Mr. Glasgow, from near Turkey Creek, was in town last Monday.

Mrs. Thos. Hammon visited her son Thos. Hammon last Friday.

Mrs. Thos. Lacy visited her mother Mrs. Lavina Gramling over Sunday.

Fred Mortorff, of Arie P. O., came home last Monday to visit his aunt Mrs. Kate Hilt, Mrs John Strack, of VanWert, Ohio, visited her father, Henry Strack, week before last.

Dead Letter List.

Unclaimed letters remaining in the postoffice at Auburn, for the week ending Dec. 15, 1894.

France Casshier, Celia Laridan, Rosa Sanders, Clem Medcalf, Wm. Richey, W. L. Sargent, Welington Hasheler.

Claimants will please call for letters in advertised list.

SILAS J. BRANDON Postmaster.

The Atlantic, by far the best-sounded ocean, has an area of 31,000,000 square miles, with a mean depth of 2,200 fathoms.

FREE HOME TREATMENT.

Catarrh Cures by Thousands by Dr. Hartman.

The symptoms of chronic catarrh vary according to the stage and exact location of the disease. The first stage of catarrh of the nose and head produces discharge from the nose, sneezing, pain in the eyes and forehead, weak, and sometimes watery eyes, occasionally loss of memory. In the last stage the discharge ceases, and dry, offensive scabs form in the nose; polypi growth sometimes form in one or both nostrils, and the pain in the head and eyes in much less. Unless something is done to prevent, the catarrh will follow the mucous membrane into the lungs, where it will be followed by cough, night sweats, rapid loss of flesh, and the other dread symptoms of consumption.

To all such people Dr. Hartman's treatment comes as a great boon. It is only neccessary to send name and address to Dr. Hartman, Columbus, Ohio, and complete directions for first month's treatment will be sent free. Not only is it more successful in curing catarrh than the treatment of the catarrh specialists, but it is in the reach of every person in this land. A medicine which is the principal part of Dr. Hartman's treatment, known as Pe-ru-na, can be bought at any drug store, and is a remedy without equal for catarrh in all forms, coughs, colds, bronchitis, consumption, and all climatic diseases of winter. Each bottle is accompanied with complete directions for use.

Address The Pe-ru-na Drug Manufacturing Company, Columbus, Ohio, for a copy of their latest catarrh book. Sent free to any address.

Twelfth District.

Comparative official congressional vote by counties for 1892 and 1894:

Counties.	1892. McNamy—D.	1892. Yoe—R.	1892. Eckhart—Pro.	1892. Haselman—Peo	1894. McNagny—D.	1894. Leighty—R.	1894. Graham—Pro	1894. Kelley—Peo.
Allen,	9516	8750	173	578	6064	6937	116	735
Whitley,	2893	2386	205	9 5	2069	2157		50
Noble,	1395	2019	127	149	2814	3094	86	131
DeKalb,	2870	2779	177	116	2279	2805	101	928
Lagrange,	1254	2057	190	233	1071	2204		147
Steuben,	2262	1990	164	26	1058	2401	120	214
Total,	19991	19979	1038	3027	17145	19598	422	2195
Plurality,	3065					2513

The Art Amateur.

One can hardly imagine a more suitable Christmas gift for an artist friend than the December number of the Art Amateur. As it lies now before us, it seems indeed a treasury of Art, both for the art student—to whom is a necessity—and the general reader. On opening it we find two charming color plates—absolute facsimiles of costly paintings: "A Summer Evening," by E. Sanchez-Perrier, and "Purple and Gold" (Pansies), by Maude Stumm. Then there is a very large life study in charcoal, printed on gray-blue paper, and eight pages of working Designs for China and Glass Painting, Embroidery, Wood Carving, etc. Special attention is paid to the needs of those learning to become illustrators. The practical articles also include "Drapery upon the Human Figure," "Pen Studies of Heads," "Flower Drawing in Pen-and-Ink," "Flower Painting in Oil," "Flower Painting in Water-colors," "Portrait Painting," "Landscape Painting," and Designing for Lithographer,"—an excellent field. China Painting is covered by such expert writers as Mrs. S. S. Frackelton, Mrs. Anna B. Leonard, Charles Volkmar and C. E. Brady; and the pages overflow with pretty designs and artistic fancies. For The House we find illustrated "Suggestions for a Library," and papers on "The Hanging of Pictures," "Flowers and Plants in Home Decoration," "Embroidery," "Light Wrought-Iron Work," and Designs for Chip-Carving—just simple enough for our manual training classes. "The Decoration of Churches at Christmas," and "Christian Iconography and Symbolism" are also treated of besides all this, there is an article on the late Albert Moore, with illustrations of his work, and one on The Art Institute of Chicago, with a splendid double page wood engraving. The illustrations, indeed, are well worthy of the text, including reproductions from masterpieces of painting and drawing, by such artists as Jules Breton, Boulanger, Alma-Tadema, Delauny, Jacque, Albert Morre and Isidore Pils. Price, 35 cents. Montague Marks, Publisher, 23 Union Square, New York.

List of Patents.

Granted to Indiana inventors this week. Reported by C. A. Snow & Co., Solicitors of American and Foreign Patents, Opp. U. S Patent Office, Washington, D. C. W. Lash, Avilla, combined awning and fire and burglar proof shutter; J. D. Libey, Lima, scraper; L. G. Poston, Veedersburg, paving-block; W. S Balys & R. Coyle, Indianapolis, metal-straightening machine; W. P. Stevens, Muncie, combined label and price card.

HIS FIRST ATTEMPT.

A Bachelor's Highly Interesting Experience In the Tribulations of Housekeeping.

"I am passing through a novel and exceedingly interesting, even if not highly agreeable, experience just now," said a young newspaper man at one of the down town offices this morning. "I am going through the tribulations of the housekeeping side of marital life, although I have never yet led a bride to the chancel rail. Yesterday all my folks went away to the seashore, leaving only myself, the youngest of the family, and my sister, who is next older than me, to assume the cares of the household. Neither of us has had any experience in this line, and the results bid fair to be amusing, if nothing more, especially in the matter of preparing for breakfast, as both of us are late sleepers. This morning the first break occurred, and thus it happened. The servant is due at about 6 o'clock in the morning, and as I am a sound sleeper I instructed her to ring the bell vigorously and not to go away if she was not very promptly admitted, and I also told my sister, if she heard the bell, to awaken me, and I would let the girl in. Last night I was up till 2 o'clock writing, and consequently four hours later was in the soundest of my slumbers when the iceman came and left a cube of his wares on the steps. Just afterward the servant came and applied for admission. At first her vigorous rings on the loud gong, which is only one flight of stairs away from my room, produced no impression on my morning slumbers, but she followed my instructions and continued conscientiously to make that bell startle the whole neighborhood except myself and sister, whose alarm clock also did not have the slightest effect of driving away unconsciousness.

"At last I was partially aroused so that the ringing of the bell caused me to dream of fire engines, and in a few seconds all the horrors of a destructive fire passed through my reviving brain, and I saw myself running and shouting, and the engine steaming, and the firemen pursuing their heroic work of rescue. Then—I suppose her arm was tired—the faithful servant pulled slow, steady strokes, and instantly my dream changed, and I found myself on a railway station going to join the family at the seaside. Suddenly these visions were dispelled, and the stern reality of the occasion was forced upon my unwilling mind as I reluctantly jumped up and removed the bars that hindered the servant's entrance. She was quite cheerful over the affair and said she had not been kept waiting for more than 15 minutes. Truly, the way of the head of the house is pleasant."—Washington Star.

THE TOUCAN.

A Queer South American Bird With an Extraordinarily Large Bill.

A queer kind is the toucan. It seems to have been made expressly to take charge of its huge banana shaped beak, which, in some species, is fully 7 inches in length and more than 2 inches in width—entirely out of proportion to its comparatively small body. This beak is the most brilliant possession of the toucan, being orange and black, scarlet and yellow or green and red, according to the species of the bird.

Its home is in the wild South American woods, where, mingled with the screaming of parrots, macaws and other tropical birds, is heard its monotonous cry, "Tucano, tucano!" from which its name is probably derived. It is a fruit eater, and climbing among the branches it gathers its food with its long beak, whose strength no stem can resist.

The toucan nests in trees, and it is uncertain whether it excavates its burrow or builds in a natural cavity. Nothing more comical can be imagined than the head of this creature, with its sparkling eyes and enormous, gayly colored beak, appearing from a hollow in the trunk of some forest monarch. It is said that the young birds are subject to the attacks of monkeys and birds of prey, and that when the parent bird is alarmed all she has to do is to poke her head out of the aperture leading to the nest. The assailant, seeing so huge a bill, fancies an animal of corresponding size behind it and leaves, without bowing or saying farewell.

Toucans are sociable birds and go in large flocks. They make common cause against their enemies, such as owls and falcons, which they surround and mob, as the rooks do in England. Having thus no need for protection, they are noisy and clamorous, like parrots and monkeys.

The plumage is generally black, but the throat is white, tinged with yellow and commonly edged beneath with red. The tail is nearly square or moderately rounded, with the upper feathers red and the lower scarlet. Alternations of the brighter colors are displayed in the feathers of the throat, the breast and the tail.

The bird is kept easily in confinement, and no doubt from early times many were brought alive to Europe. Some of its brilliant tints are very fleeting, and they often leave little or no trace after death, so that little idea of its beauty can be obtained from a stuffed specimen.—Philadelphia Times.

The Outlook.

Aunt Maria—I think you and Mr. Mann ought to get along nicely together. You know you both like the same people.

Matilda—Yes, and, what is better, we hate the same people. Just think what nice long talks we shall have together.

Palpitation of the Heart

Shortness of Breath, Swelling of Legs and Feet.

"For about four years I was troubled with palpitation of the heart, shortness of breath and swelling of the legs and feet. At times I would faint. I was treated by the best physicians in Savannah, Ga., with no relief. I then tried various Springs without benefit. Finally, I tried also his Nerve and Liver Pills. After beginning to take them I felt better! I continued taking them and I am now in better health than for many years. Since my recovery I have gained fifty pounds in weight. I hope this statement may be of value to some poor sufferer."

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure

E. B. SUTTON, Ways Station, Ga.

Dr. Miles Heart Cure is sold on a positive guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. All druggists sell it at $1. 6 bottles for $5, or it will be sent, prepaid, on receipt of price by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

TEXAS, MEXICO AND CALIFORNIA.

The Wabash Railroad.

In connection with the St. Louis, Iron Mountain & Southern Railway, Texas & Pacific Railway, International & Great Northern Railroad, and Southern Pacific Railway, known as the only true southern route, has placed in service a through first-class sleeping car and Tourist sleeping car, leaving Chicago daily at 10:50 a. m., via St. Louis to Little Rock, Malvern (Hot Springs), Austin, San Antonio, Laredo (where a direct connection is made with through sleeping car for the City of Mexico), El Paso, Los Angeles and San Francisco. This is the only line from Chicago which can offer this excellent service. Call or write to any ticket agent of the Wabash or connecting lines for printed matter showing time, route, rates, description of cars, etc., or C. S. CRANE, G. P. & T. A., St. Louis, Mo. F. A. PALMER, Asst. G. P. A., 201 S. Clark St., Chicago, Ills. 46-16w9

A Valuable Book.

Mrs. Olive Kruger has begun to canvass Auburn and Union township for a valuable book, "Our Journey Around the World," by Rev. Francis E. Clark. It is full of valuable and interesting matter in regard to all the countries visited in going around the globe, and one who has it has a large part of a full library. It has 220 illustrations and a large map of the countries described. There are three grades of binding, making the price $2.50, $3.25 and $4.00. Mrs. Kruger is a worthy woman, working to support herself and family, and as the book is well worth the money, we hope to see her do well.

Table Talk.

An article by Kate Douglas Wiggins on "The Kindergarten as a School of Life for Women," opens the December issue of Table Talk, and not only is it most readable, as is all she writes, but most helpful and suggestive to the women of our age who are anxious to make all possible use of their lives. The little magazine is also replete with Christmas and Christmas thoughts. The recipes and hints on table service are numerous as usual, and among the novel ideas for the season is an article on Christmas shopping—where and how to buy. The readers out of, as well as in the city will find therein many helpful suggestions, and in fact the monthly visit of this publication always means much to housekeepers and home-makers. Our readers may obtain a sample copy free by addressing Table Talk Publishing Co., Philadelphia, Pa.

Trotting Decisions.

The Board of Appeals of the American Trotting Associating met in Chicago, Dec. 4, and among other decisions, we find one affecting the Waterloo fair. It was the appeal of J. F. McCormick, of Churubusco, from the decision of the judges in the free for all trot, Oct. 12 and 13, 1894. Ordered: That the appeal be dismissed and the money paid in accordance with the decision of the judges. This speaks well for the judges there. The other case, that of Diggins, of Kendallville vs. Smith, of Ligonier, in the 2-37 class is continued till the next meeting in May of next spring.

Fruit wrapped in brown paper will stand fifteen degrees more of cold than if not thus protected.

THE AUBURN COURIER.

VOLUME XXIV. AUBURN, DE KALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY. DECEMBER 27. 1894. NUMBER 52.

THIS IS NEW.

READ!

WHAT WE HAVE TO SAY ABOUT MNOEY.

The Indisna Mutual Building Loan Association, which we represent in this part of the state, have again reduced their interest, which has always been from 2 to 5 per cent less a n any other Building Loan Association Do you know that if you are about to borrow money and give a mortgage on your home, you should take the time and trouble to investigate the plan of different associations, so that you may know, regardless of what any agent may tell you, which is the cheapest and the best?

There are three items which should also be considered and thoroughly understood, especially by the borrower, before he makes his application for a loan:

First: The rate of interest and premium he is charged per annum.

Second: What the earnings of the Association are.

Third: How economically the Association is conducting its affairs.

We are prepared always to compare our company with any other, and can prove to your entire satisfaction that we are the cheapest, and

REMEMBER

That in our company you have no membership fee to pay, no advance payments to make and there will be no delays, so that should your loan for any reason be declined, you will lose no money. We are prepared to make loans where the security is sufficient; for any amount from $200 to $25,000.

If you have a loan in any other company it will pay you to call on us and get our figures and

Change your Loan at Once

We are also prepared to make

FARM LOANS

at from

3 to 6 per cent

interest.

We are still in line for Insurance, and Cheap R. R Tickets, and have now on hand more bargains in

REAL ESTATE

than ever before.

CALL ON OR ADDRESS

RICKEL & SPROTT

AUBURN, IND.

PIANOS AND ORGANS.

BROWN CULBERTSON & BOLAND

Have the room over their Hardware store filled with

KIMBALL

ORGANS and PIANOS

Which they are selling at very

LOW PRICES:

and on

EASY TERMS

Why not buy one for your

WIFE or DAUGHTER

It will MAKE THEM HAPPY and you too.

Call and be convinced that prices and terms are

SATISFACTORY.

B C & B

SCHAAB & MURPHY

ARE

NOW READY

with a

BIG STOCK

OF

CLOTHING, GENTS' FURNISHING GOODS

HATS CAPS ETC

We would invite our friends to come in while the stock is new and full, and they can get good returns.

PRICES

We can give you better prices than ever before. We have also added a full line of

MEN'S and BOY'S SHOES

Which we will sell at very low prices. Call and be convinced.

SCHAAB & MURPHY

AUBURN - - INDIANA

The Fiftieth Anniversary.

Sunday last, as we had noted before, the exercises at the Presbyterian church had reference to the fifty years of the church's existence. In December, 1844, the church was organized. It was at first in the Logansport Presbytery, though a later arrangement makes it in the Ft. Wayne. Rev. James G. Bliss and Rev. Mr. Wolf were the organizers, and there were but few members, the account varying from seven to eleven. Among the first members, or those who joined soon after, we find Mr. and Mrs. George, the latter being the only present survivor, and now better known to our people as Mrs. James Barclay, Mr. George having died many years ago. Then there are Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Mead, Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Sprott, Wyllys Griswold, as well as such familiar names as Reynolds, Work, Butt, Clark, Dr Chamberlain, E. J. Ralston, Hartel, Dickinson, etc. We have time and space for but a brief account. The forenoon sermon by Mr. Colvin was very appropriate and eloquent. In the evening, different members gave an account of the different branches of church work. Mr. Hartman read letters from Rev. Mr. Bliss, Mr. Fisher and Rev. Dr Henry Johnson, as to what was done during the pastorate of each, and some of the items we now state were obtained in this way. Dr. S. B. Johnston, now superintendent of the Sunday school, gave a brief history of this. The school was organized soon after the church was, but did not begin work till next spring, and for some years there was no Sunday school in winter, owing to the fact that many had to come long distances, and the room used by both church and Sunday school was not of the best. They were held in the courtroom. The Doctor mentioned the fact that among the first Sunday school teachers were Mr. George and his wife (now Mrs. Barclay. Their two little children, now Mrs. E. S. McDowell and Mrs. A. J. Ralston, were pupils. Often, the mother took one child on the horse before her and the other behind, and came a mile or more through the woods to town, while the husband followed on foot. Sometimes the father would walk and lead the little ones slowly through the wood paths, while the mother would start later and overtake them. Both "little girls" have always been active members and church workers, and are so still. The school now numbers nearly 100. Miss Mary Teeters, as president of the Christian Endeavor, gave a brief history of that branch, which now numbers over 60. It was organized May 8, 1891. Miss Flora Hoffman, superintendent of the Junior Endeavors, gave her report. They were organized by Mrs. Healy, in the fall of 1891. Her remarks were excellent and full of feeling, especially when she spoke to the members in regard to these energetic and earnest young christians who will be in charge of all this work fifty years hence. Both young ladies made an excellent impression. Mrs. J. A. Barns read a carefully prepared statement of the work of the Woman's Home and Foreign Missions. This was organized about 13 years ago by Mrs. Goodwin, of Kendallville. Mrs. Mary Hartman was the first president, Mrs. Sadie Yesbera first secretary and Mrs. Ida Emanuel was treasurer. This society has contributed to various objects. They assisted to pay for the medical outfit of Dr. Mary Bradford, who went to Persia, and who became famous during the great cholera epidemic a few years ago; helped buy ground for a college in Chili; to build a schoolhouse in Mexico; a school for Indian boys and girls in South Dakota, and one for negro boys in Indian Territory; have helped the schools at Crockett, Texas; Scotia Seminary, N. C., and at Washington, Tenn., and have sent off one or two missionary boxes. Mrs. Mary Nusbaum gave a history of the Ladies' Aid Society, of which she is president, her mother, Mrs. S. W. Sprott, having been its first vice-president. It was organized in 1845, first as a sewing circle. She found but little records till 1867. (A. J. Ralston informed her later that he had these old records.) Among the familiar names Mrs. Nusbaum read in the history are Miss C. E. Strickland, Mrs. L. J. Blair, Mrs. S. W. Ralston and many more. Some of these are still active members. Some, as Mrs Ralston and Mrs. Blair, have passed away, and some, as Miss Strickland, live in distant states. Had it been possible to procure them, we would gladly publish a full list of these names—so worthy to be remembered. A. J. Ralston furnishes from memory, a few of those who attended service from the country within reach of town, beginning when they met in the court house, and later, in the little church they built—now occupied by the Church of God. They include, Wm., John, Henry and George Feagler, Harlow and Page Mead, Leonard Hartle, Wm., Stephen and Jotham Townley, T. S., Robert and Alonzo Russel, and Ezra Boyer.

Marvelous Results.

From a letter written by Rev J. Gunderman, of Dimondale, Mich., we are permitted to make this extract: "I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. King's New Discovery, as the results were almost marvelous in the case of my wife. While I was pastor of the Baptist church at Rives Junction she was brought down with pneumonia succeeding lagrippe. Terrible paroxysms of coughing would last hours with little interuption and it seemed as if she could not survive them. A friend recommended Dr King's New Discovery; it was quick in its work and highly satisfactory in results." Trial bottles free at Robbins & McCord's drugstore. Regular size 50c. and $1.00. 1

Henry Harris Dead.

The last scene of that terrible tragedy of Dec. 7 is closed, by the death of the last survivor of the murdered party. Henry Harris passed peacefully away last Friday, Dec. 21, at about 4 p. m. This was fourteen days after he was shot. Not the least remarkable about his case, was the wonderful vitality he displayed. It does not seem possible that a man with five balls in his head, four of which had penetrated the skull, and some of which had gone through to the skull on the opposite side, could by any chance, live an hour. And besides these were the two shots that went entirely through his body, one from front and the other from back. Yet for fourteen days, he lived and was conscious for the greater part of the time. Last Thursday Dr. Spooner, of Ashley, was sent for, and he and the attending physician, Dr. Nusbaum, determined to make an effort to get out the balls in his head. As noted in the COURIER, on Saturday before, Dr. Nusbaum had taken out the ball that had lodged on the outside of the skull, It was flattened out as any ball is that strikes on a surface it cannot penetrate, for it had only dented in the outside of the bone. But those inside had not been removed. But when Dr. Spooner arrived they began this delicate task. Two of the balls were soon found and extracted, but Harris was by this time so weak that further operations were delayed till next day. Friday, when another ball was found and removed, there was still another discovered in the head, but they were not able to get it. That afternoon, however, he rapidly failed, and at about four o'clock breathed his last. He had been unconscious more or less for a day or so. The funeral was at the home in Gas Addition on Sunday, the 23rd, at 2 p. m. and the interment in Woodlawn. Rev. J. D. Brosy, of the Lutheran church, preached the sermon and the singing was by his choir. There was a large attendance, and all who filed in solemn procession past the casket of the murdered man, and saw the few visible scars of the many he had suffered, felt that scene was the close of the tragedy, and not the least of their regrets, was that the murderers will not likely ever be brought to justice. With Harris dead, it would be difficult to convict them if captured.

Henry Harris was born at Solon, Cuyahoga county, Ohio, April 26, 1854, and died Dec. 21, 1894, at the age of 40 years, 7 months and 25 days. He moved with his people to Waterloo, Ind., while young. August 6, 1879, he was united in marriage to Lucinda Crawford at the home of her parents in Allen county, Ind., and after a residence of a few years there, returned to DeKalb county, and resided at Auburn, till his death.

Mary Hosler.

Mary Deeler was born in Stark county, Ohio, August 7, 1840, and departed this life December 21, 1894, aged 54 years, 4 months and 14 days. On May 26, 1858, she was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Samuel Hosler in DeKalb county, Indiana. They began married life at Corunna, Ind. To this union were born seven children—three sons and four daughters, all of whom survive her.

Mrs. Hosler was an excellent woman and knew what hard toil was. She had drank of the bitter cup of sorrow, in the death of her companion about 16 years ago. Since then she did her utmost in keeping together the family, and like a mother she succeeded nobly. She was a pleasing neighbor and an affectionate and kind mother. A number of years ago she became a christian and united with the United Brethren church at St. Joe, Ind., of which she has ever since been a member. While living in Auburn she attended the different churches and worshiped with God's people. She felt quite at home in the Church of God, but contemplated uniting with the Lutheran church since her daughters were members.

Mrs. Hosler was quiet and reserved in all her ways and served her Master in humility of heart. We had several brief conversations regarding the unseen, and she always seemed to look forth with gladness to the hour when she could sit at the feet of Jesus, and thanks be to God, the joyful hour came at last to her waiting soul. We bowed together in prayer before the throne of grace last Thursday evening, and in a few words she said Jesus was precious, and so he was. She is crowned, glorified and blest in the land of Beulah, while we are left to weep and toil for a little while longer. But let us wait in patience until our change comes. Weeping may endure for a night, but joy cometh in the morning. Thanks be unto God for the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ.

Mother, we must now say a long and last farewell to thee. Sleep on and take thy rest, for we, too, shall soon come and lay ourselves down by thy side until the glorious resurrection morn. Here we must say farewell, but in heaven, never—no, never. Dear mother, thou precious treasure,

Sleep on. The cold and heavy hand
Of death has stilled thy gentle breast.
No rude sound of this stormy land
Shall mar thy peaceful rest.
Undying grandeur 'round thee close
To count the years of thy repose.

The funeral was from the Lutheran church Sunday, Dec. 23, at 9 a. m., conducted by Rev. J. D. Brosy. The interment was at Leo.

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder World's Fair Highest Award.

OWING to the unfavorable condition of Weather and Roads the past week we have decided to continue our Grand

SLAUGHTER SALE

OF

Dress Goods and Clothing

UNTIL

JAN. 1, '95.

This sale is running far ahead of ou greatest expectations. If you are needing anything in DRESS GOODS or CLOTHING you cannot afford to miss it.

We have a fine assortment of

UMBRELLAS, NECKWEAR, HANDKERCHIEFS, SHIRTS, RUGS, PORTIERES, CARPET SWEEPERS,

And many other useful articles suitable for Christmas presents. We will try to please you, both in

QUALIT AND PRICE

COME AND SEE US.

Schaab & Bro.

Spring Curry Comb

Clock Spring Blade. Soft as a Brush. Fits every Curve. The Only Perfect Comb. Used by U. S. Army and by Barnum and Forepaugh Circuses, and Leading Horsemen of the World. Ask your Dealer for It. Sample mailed post paid 25 cents.

See our name on the handle. SPRING CURRY COMB CO., 104 Lafayette St., South Bend, Indiana.

Resolution of Condolence.

At the meeting of the Y P. S. C. E. of the Lutheran church, Sunday evening, Dec. 23, the following resolution was read, adopted and ordered published:

WHEREAS, It has pleased our Supreme and Allwise Father to enter the home of our sister, Libbie Hosler, and remove therefrom its center and light—the loving, sacrificing, christian mother—destroying in one short hour its sacred unity, therefore be it

Resolved, That we extend to our sister our sincere sympathy in her sudden, and affliction and bereavement, and in unity of heart share in her deep sorrow. And while we realize the weakness of mortal words and strength in hours of bereavement, we trust and pray that He who doeth all things well may speak comfort to her stricken spirit, and that His strong arm may sustain her in her hours of sorrow and lead her through the vale of tears.

Card of Thanks.

We wish to express through the COURIER our heartfelt thanks to all the kind friends and neighbors for their kindness and assistance during the sickness of our dear mother, Mrs. Mary Hosler. And thanks are especially due to Jacob Walborn for many acts of kindness All these will ever be gratefully remembered.

THE CHILDREN.

Four Big Successes.

Having the needed merit to more than make good all the advertising claimed for them, the following four remedies have reached a phenomenal sale. Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, each bottle guaranteed; Electric Bitters, the great remedy for Liver, Stomach and Kidneys; Bucklen's Arnica Salve, the best in the world, and Dr. King's New Life Pills, which are a perfect pill. All these remedies are guaranteed to do just what is claimed for them, and the dealer, whose name is attached here with, will be glad to tell you more of them. Sold at Robbins & McCord's drugstore. 1

When the Heart is Affected

By rheumatism or any of the muscles near that organ, it is like tampering with an electric wire, for death may come at any moment. If life is worth it, do not hesitate, but get Dr. Drummond's Lightning Remedy. Send $5 to the Drummond Medicine Co., 48 Maiden Lane, New York, and they will send you two large bottles, enough for one month's treatment, by first express. It is not as quick as electricity, but it will save your life if you take it in time. Agents wanted. 51 2

Music Lessons.

I will take a limited number of pupils on the violin, mandolin, banjo, guitar and cornet. Terms reasonable. I am agent for these instruments and can get them for you at the very lowest prices. Also repair instruments of all kinds and guarantee satisfaction. Those desiring to take instructions, please call on or address me at Auburn, Ind. T. N WILCOX. 52tf

It Sells Well.

It is a pleasant to sell Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, says Stickney & Dentler, druggists, Republic, Ohio, "because a customer after once using it, is almost certain to call for it when again in need of such a medicine. We sell more of it than of any other cough medicine we handle, and it always gives satisfaction." For cough, colds and croup, it is without an equal. For sale by Robbins & McCord. 52

Busy people have no time, and sensible people have no inclination to use a slow remedy. One Minute Cough Cure acts promptly and gives permanent results. Sold by Robbins & McCord.

Keeps it in the House.

Anyone who has children will rejoice with L. B. Mulford, of Plainfield, N. J. His little boy, five years of age, was sick with croup. For two days and nights he tried various remedies recommended by friends and neighbors. He says: "I thought sure I would lose him. I had seen Chamberlain's Cough Remedy advertised and thought I would try it as a last hope and am happy to say that after two doses he slept until morning. I gave it to him next day and a cure was affected. I keep this remedy in the house now and as soon as any of my children show signs of croup I give it to them and that is the last of it." 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Robbins & McCord. 52

You ought to know this: DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve will heal a burn and stop the pain instantly. It will cure badly chapped hands, ugly wounds, sores, and a well known cure for piles. Sold by Robbins & McCord

Two Doses.

J. W. Spellman, a prominent merchant of Elkhart, Ind., says: Two doses of Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup completely cured my child of a severe attack of croup. I have used a great many different croup medicines, but have never found any so efficient as Dr. Marshall's, which makes makes it a very necessary article for the family. Yours, G. W. Spellman. Sold by all druggists. 52

It cures piles, it cures obstinate sores, chapped hands, wounds. It does this quickly. Is there any good reason why you should not use DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve? For sale by Robbins & McCord.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNS, - - PUBLISHER.

DOINGS OF THE DAY.

SUMMARY OF THE NEWS OF THE WEEK.

Over a Hundred Lives Lost in a Big British Gale—A Congressman Captures an Armed Murderer—Fatal Boiler Explosion—One Accident Causes Another.

Fearful Storm.

London special: Reports of the storm received from all parts of England show that immense damage has everywhere been caused by the recent gales. The loss will reach tens of thousands of pounds. Many buildings have been blown down and telegraph wires have suffered greatly. Traffic has been completely suspended in many places on account of the floods. Many ships have been driven ashore by the winds. Over a hundred persons have already been reported dead as a result of the storm, while hundreds have been injured. Eight persons, while attempting to escape from the bark driven ashore at Holyhead, were drowned. A chimney at Sheffield was blown down, and it is reported that five persons were killed and many injured.

Horrible Murder.

A horrible murder was committed in the northeast section of Washington, recently. Joseph A. Bean shot and killed his stepdaughter, Mrs. Annie J. Leahy, sending five bullets into her defenseless body. When the deed was done and she lay on the floor in a pool of blood, he kicked and stamped upon his dying victim. The noise of the shooting drew a number of citizens to the scene of the shooting, but the murderer held them at bay, threatening them with his still smoking revolver. Congressman George D. Meikeljohn, of Nebraska, who was on his way home from the Capitol, heard the shots, and hastening to the scene succeeded, unaided, in capturing the murderer.

Coxey's Latest.

"General" Jacob S. Coxey and Carl Browne were in Pittsburgh recently, on their way to Massillon. Mr. Coxey said he is a full-fledged candidate for the Populist nomination for the Presidency. He said he will go to St. Louis to attend the meeting of Populists at that place. "If I am nominated I will make a vigorous campaign," he said. "It is possible that we may have another triumphant march to Washington. If the present Congress does not do better than the last one we'll have a new uprising of the people. The Ways and Means Committee promised me a hearing on my bills after the holidays."

The Boiler Burst.

Glasgow (Ky.) special: Meager particulars have been received here of a mill explosion near Bonayr, about eight miles from this place, in which Robert Bird and a man named Spann were killed outright, and three others, a son of Spann, a young man named Claude Dearing, son of the owner of the mill, and another whose name could not be learned, were fatally injured. It was a saw and grist mill owned and run by J. H. Dearing, and this was grinding day. Too little water in the boiler, it is reported, was the cause of the explosion.

An Awful Accident.

While working on the Lonesome Valley trestle, near Tazewell, Tenn., two laborers were instantly killed, and two fatally injured. The cable which was used to carry material for the trestle, and upon which the laborers were working, broke and dashed three of the men to the earth, 100 feet below. The fourth man was caught by some wires when falling, and is hanging head downward up to a late hour, it being impossible to reach his body. The names of the men cannot be learned.

Murdered and Robbed.

Jonathan Crumpacker, a wealthy farmer, living nine miles east of Elkhart, Ind., while on his way home was waylaid by robbers who struck him on the head, knocked him from his wagon and robbed him of his gold watch and $35. He was found lying on the road soon after by his son. The old gentleman died from the effects of the blow. There is no clue to the murderer, though there are strong suspicions. The assailant was in his stocking feet to avoid detection. The country is being scoured.

One Accident Causes Another.

Benjamin Stewart, a farmer, residing near Atwater, eight miles north of Alliance, Ohio, while riding was thrown from his horse, while the animal was going at a high rate of speed, and sustained probably fatal injuries. Walter Baraby a neighbor of Stewart, was dispatched for a physician, and while returning home, after dark, was thrown from his horse and had his right leg broken in two places.

Burned a Saloon.

The citizens of Newmarket, Ind., to the number of twenty-five, marched to the Newmarket saloon, and applied the incendiary torch. The building and contents were burned to the ground. This is the second time in two years that the place has been burned out, the people declaring that no saloon will be tolerated in that village.

Murderous Fiend.

At Vancouver, B. C., Fred Ashford, a laborer, shot his wife through the head and then tried to kill his two daughters aged 3 and 5 years. He failed in the latter attempt and started to run away. He was captured and jailed narrowly escaping lynching.

The President Returns.

President Cleveland and his party of duck-shooters have returned to Washington from the South. The President is looking well, and says he feels as good as he looks. He is a trifle browned by exposure, but is greatly invigorated by the trip.

Fellows Vindicated.

Gov. Flower, of New York, has dismissed the charges against District Attorney Fellows. The Governor says: "It is clear to me that the important charge that the District Attorney has neglected his duty in not bringing indicted persons to trial is not only wholly unproved, but it is actually disproved by the evidence."

Crushed His Head.

George W. Work, a pioneer, residing three miles above Utica, Ind., was instantly killed by a tree falling on his head.

Don't Want an Investigation.

Latest advices from United States Minister Terrel, at Constantinople to the State Department, indicate that the porte is still firm in his opposition to the inquiry proposed to be made into the Armenian outrages by the United States Consul Jewett under the conditions prescribed by the President. If Mr Jewett persists in undertaking the inquiry in spite of the refusal of the porte to sanction his mission, he will do so at great personal risk. It will be extremely unsafe for him to venture into the disturbed country without an armed escort and the porte seems disinclined to furnish such escort, even though requested to do so by Mr. Terrell, speaking for the President. It is probable the United States Minister will persist in his efforts to induce the Porte to accede to this request, and if finally refused, Mr. Jewett will still undertake the inquiry with which he is charged and the Turkish Government will be held responsible for his safety.

A BIG BLAZE.

Cleveland Visited by a Most Destructive Fire.

Cleveland special: One of the most destructive and threatening fires this city has experienced for several years, begun Saturday night at 8:30. At that hour flames were seen lightning up the inside of the K. D. paper box factory, at No. 29 Water street. This locality abounds in easy victims for the fire fiend, and a general alarm was turned in. The entire fire department responded, but for a time the fire, fanned by a brisk wind, gained steadily upon them. Great clouds of sparks were carried a distance of two blocks and a dozen shingle roofs were ignited. At 8:45 the Empire Hotel, a three-story structure opposite the box factory, began to burn and the firemen were unable to do more than try to prevent a further spread of the flames. The hotel building was completely destroyed with its contents, nothing remaining but a portion of the walls. The K. D. Box factory, filled with several hundred tons of paper, burned like tinder. The building was occupied by the K. D. Box factory, (owner of the property) and the Golden Egg Noodle Company, both of which firms sustained total losses on the stock, and the building was reduced to a heap of ashes. At 9 o'clock the walls of the box factory fell, crushing the new engine of Company No. 1 into scraps and pieces. Four firemen were scorched and hurt by flying bricks, but none was fatally injured. The frame buildings which were ignited were saved from total destruction by bucket brigades, but five of them were badly burned. The loss will reach $250,000.

BUSINESS.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s Review of Trade for the Past Week.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says:

"But for the large exports of gold and uncertainty about financial legislation the indications would be more encouraging. Some increase is seen in orders given to manufacturing works, though until the year ends the force actually at work naturally diminishes. The holiday trade has been rather poor at most points, partly owing to mild weather. There is distinctly more confidence shown about the future demand for industrial products, though prices are not better. Domestic exports increase a little, though exportable staples are no better in price. In November the excess of merchandise exports over imports was $29,573,891, besides $2,931,031 silver, and December returns indicate as large an excess. For this very reason the exports of $5,332,071 in gold since last Friday, and the withdrawals of about three times as much gold from the treasury are the more noticed. Money continues to accumulate here, and there is no enlargement in the legitimate demand for commercial loans, though some offerings of paper, apparently to prepare for yearly settlements, have excited remark. ces of agricultural products do not improve."

MADE A BLUFF.

A Toledo Banker Has a Big Scare from an Alleged Dynamite Fiend.

President George W. Davis of the Second National Bank of Toledo had an experience Friday noon that he does not care to have duplicated. At that hour a roughly dressed stranger entered the bank, approached Mr. Davis, making a fierce demand for money. "I have a bomb," said he, as he raised his hand, "and if I don't get money I will kill you." As he raised his hand it was seen that he held a round package wrapped up in a newspaper. It looked like a deadly bomb. "Get out of here, you villain," shouted Mr. Davis, as he sidled towards the door. "Call a policeman," he said quietly to one of the clerks who had come to his employer's assistance. A moment later the intruder was under arrest. The suspicious looking package was wrested from him and opened. It contained an orange. At the police station the prisoner gave his name as Sam Brown, and said he had hoped to bluff Mr. Davis into giving him some money.

WAR AT AN END.

White Wings of Peace Flutter Over China and Japan.

London special: Important dispatches have been received here from Tokio indicating clearly that practically the war between China and Japan has ended. Whatever instructions have been conveyed to the commanders of the respective military and naval forces from the governing powers of the two empires is not told in the advices; but assurances are given in quarters known to be thoroughly cognizant of diplomatic affairs that the Emperor of China has been prevailed upon to hasten commissioners to Japan and that these envoys have such powers of concession as will, without doubt, enable them to bring about an immediate and thorough end of hostilities. The details of the authority are not given but the presumption is not ignored in diplomatic quarters that the concessions asked by the Japanese government have met with the acquiescence of the reigning powers of China.

New Pension Ruling.

Several thousand pension claims will be affected by a ruling of Assistant Secretary of the Interior Reynolds. Reynolds has decided that if the Commissioner of Pensions has satisfactory evidence that a widow is guilty of such immoral conduct as results in a refusal of her application or the termination of her pension, any child or children of a soldier under 16 years of age at the time the widow's right to a pension, may be granted a pension in the same manner as if the widow's right had terminated by death or re-marriage. The practice requiring a certificate from a Probate Court that the widow is an unsuitable person by reason of immoral conduct to have custody of them, as preliminary in all cases to the allowance of a pension to children, where the facts of abandonment or immoral conduct are already abundantly established by evidence on file in the bureau, is held to be unwarranted by law.

Government Maps.

A scheme to make a general distribution of government maps among schools throughout the country is provided for in a recommendation forwarded by Director Walcott, of the geological survey, to Secretary Smith and by him transmitted to Congress. The amendment to the appropriation bill, if adopted, authorizes the director to print 15,000 copies of a set of ten topographic atlas sheets for distribution to the public schools of the United States, corresponding in grade to the grammar, normal, and high schools, academies, colleges, and universities. There are between 13,000 and 14,000 of these institutions, and the total appropriation necessary for the distribution would be $5,000.

Arbitration Board Report.

Massillon (Ohio) special: The finding of the Board of Arbitration appointed to close the Massillon mining controversy, is a complete victory for the operators. The board presents a unanimous report abolishing the heretofore existing differential of 15 cents, and placing this district on the same basis as the Hocking Valley. It is declared that the operators have proven their ability to obtain men to man the mines for 60 cents; that there is no reason why the screens here should be smaller than elsewhere; that the high price has excluded Massillon coal from the lake trade; that being harder, the coal has a greater percentage of lump, and that it is no more difficult, all things considered, to mine Massillon coal than any other.

Riot at St Louis.

A riot took place in the Court of Criminal Correction at St. Louis. William Wright, a negro, had just been discharged on a charge of misdemeanor and was leaving the court room. Officers attempted to arrest him on another charge, when his friends, believing that he was a victim of police persecution, attempted to release the prisoner. A furious struggle ensued, during which clubs were freely used and revolvers drawn. As a result of the riot six persons are badly injured and two detectives have been suspended from the force pending an investigation.

Sons of Vets.

The National Guards, the military order of the Sons of Veterans was dissolved after a three hours lively discussion in secret session at Chicago. Gen. H. S. Buckland of Fremont, Ohio, the head of the military order was absent, but representatives were present from the greater number of the states. The dissolution was expected after the recent encampment at Davenport, when a resolution was passed directing the disbandment and the merging of the military branch into the civil branch of the organization.

More Indictments.

Seventeen more indictments were returned at Chicago against election conspirators. They include Police Sergeant M. Malone, Patrolman J. McGrath, J. J. Sullivan, city milk inspector, and Charles Klein, a Democratic judge of election. Others are charged with committing and aiding assaults on voters and with intimidation of every conceivable character. The grand jury will continue its work.

A Cow Did It.

The north-bound passenger train known as the "Cannon Ball," on the Iron Mountain Railroad was wrecked near Walnut Ridge, Ark., by running over a cow. The engine, express, and baggage cars were derailed and badly wrecked. Engineer Stanberry and Fireman Turner were severely scalded by escaping steam. The negro train porter had an arm broken. None of the passengers were injured.

Arctic Explorer Wiggins Alive.

St. Petersburg special: Capt. Wiggins, the arctic explorer, and his party, who were lost to the world for several weeks last fall, arrived at Archangel, December 13. Five had been severely frostbitten and are in a hospital. All forty men suffered great hardships during their overland journey of thirty-two days from Chabelova to Pestezersk.

Miners Satirical.

At the miners' mass meeting held at Crystal Spring, Ohio, satirical resolutions were adoped asking the State officers to confer with the operators and see if the latter would not permit them to work for their clothes—they would provide themselves with food. Fiery speeches in condemnation of McBride were delivered.

The Vatican Exhibits.

Commander Newell, of the United States cruiser Detroit, has returned from Rome to Naples. The vatican exhibits on board the Detroit will be forwarded to the pope by rail from Naples. The delay in their being landed has been due to the peculiar custom regulations.

Babe Burned to Death.

A special from Kenton, Ohio, says: "Mrs. John Smith of Alger, left her 16-months-old baby in the house alone for a few moments and when she returned the child was burned to death, caused, it is supposed, from having played with some matches.

Filed an Injunction.

Attorney General Cunningham of New Orleans, in view of the fatal ending of the Bowen fight, has filed a supplemental injunction suit against the Olympic Club, claiming the limited round contests are prize fights and in violation of the law.

Gambling Ruined Him.

Postoffice Inspector Williams has found a shortage of $1,800 in the accounts of Postmaster Stearns at Durango, Col., and his bondsmen have taken charge of the office. Stearns admits his guilt and says he lost the money in gambling.

Will Have a Hearing.

Gen. Coxey and Carl Brown, of industrial army fame, were notified that they will be given a hearing before the Ways and Means Committee, January 15, the one for good roads, the other for non-interest bearing bonds.

Distressing Accident.

While Thomas A. Stone and son were hunting, two miles east of Lebanon, Ind. Stone's gun was accidentally discharge The entire charge of both barrels entered the breast of his son, killing him instantly.

Murdered and Robbed.

Jonathan Crumpacker, an aged farmer, was murdered by unknown highwaymen on the public road, half a mile from his residence, near Goshen, Ind., and robbed of $35 and a silver watch.

Judge Woods Criticised.

The convention of the Indiana State tin and sheet-iron workers adopted a resolution condemning Judge Woods for sentencing Debs and denying him a trial by jury.

Malignant Diphtheria.

Diphtheria of the most malignant type is raging at Summitville, Ind. The public schools were compelled to close until the death rate among its children diminishes.

Shot by One of His Soldiers.

Calcutta special: Col. Money of the Ninth Bengal Lancers, has been shot dead by a member of his own regiment.

THE MARKETS.

Chicago—Cattle, common to prime, $3.75@6.50; hogs, shipping grades, $3.50@4.75; sheep, fair to choice, $2@4; wheat, No. 2 red, 53@54c; corn, No. 2, 46@47c; oats, No. 2, 29@29½c; rye, No. 2, 48@49c; butter, choice creamery, 23@23½c; eggs, fresh, 20@22c; potatoes, car lots, per bushel, 50@60c.

Indianapolis—Cattle, shipping, $3@5.75; hogs, choice light, $3@4.75; sheep, common to prime, $2@3.50; wheat, No. 2 red, 52@53c; corn, No. 1 white, 43@43½c; oats, No. 2 white, 33@34c.

St. Louis—Cattle, $3@6; hogs, $3@4.75; wheat, No. 2 red, 52@52½c; corn, No. 2, 46@46½c; oats, No. 2, 30@31c; rye, No. 2, 53@55c.

Cincinnati—Cattle, $3.50@5.50; hogs, 54@55c; corn, No. 3 mixed, 43@43½c; oats, No. 2 mixed, 33@33½; rye, No. 2, 54@56c.

Detroit—Cattle, $2.50@5.50; hogs, $4@4.75; sheep, $2@3.50; wheat, No. 1, white, 55@56c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 44@45c; oats, No. 2 white, 34@35c; rye, No. 2, 50@51c.

Toledo—Wheat, No. 2 red, 54@55c; corn, No. 2 mixed, 46@47c; oats, No. 2 white, 33@33½c; rye, No. 2, 50@52c.

Buffalo—Cattle, $2.50@5.50; hogs, $4@5; sheep, $2@3.50; wheat, No. 2 red, 58½@59½c; corn, No. 2 yelow, 47@48c; oats, No. 2 white, 36@37c.

Milwaukee—Wheat, No. 2 spring, 57@58c; corn, No. 3, 44@44½c; oats, No. 2 white, 32@32½c; barley, No. 2, 52@55c; rye, No. 1, 49@50c; pork, mess, $11.75@12.25.

New York—Cattle, $3@6; hogs, $3.50@5.50; sheep, $2@4; wheat, No. 2 red, 61@62c; corn, No. 2, 52@53c; oats, white. Western, 38@42c; butter, creamery, 23@25c; eggs, Western, 22@25c.

M'BRIDE IS ELECTED.

CHOSEN PRESIDENT OF THE FEDERATION OF LABOR.

Mr. Gompers Fails Through His Refusal to Order a General Strike Last Summer—Congratulates His Successor—Indianapolis Headquarters.

Miners' Leader Wins.

The delegates to the labor convention in Denver were nearly all in their seats when the roll was called Monday. The first business was to determine the future location of the headquarters of the federation. On Saturday the cities of Indianapolis, Detroit, Washington, Brooklyn, and Louisville had been placed in nomination. Indianapolis and Washington were the only contestants. The vote resulted: Indianapolis, 1,290; Washington, 926. A resolution to make Indianapolis the location for three years was amended to make it five years and referred to the committee on laws.

PRESIDENT JOHN M'BRIDE.

The election of officers was then taken up. Mr. Gompers and John McBride, president of the United Mine-Workers, were the only candidates for president. The vote resulted: McBride, 1,162; Gompers, 937. Mr. Gompers was nominated by Mr. Eickhoff. The nomination was seconded by Messrs. Cohen, Daily, and McCraith. McBride was nominated by Mr. Penna and seconded by Mr. Allen. The vote proceeded without incident except that several delegates announced that they would vote against Gompers by instruction from various unions. President Gompers moved to make the vote unanimous for McBride, but objection was made. Mr. Gompers at once wrote and dispatched a message of congratulation to Mr. McBride, who is ill at his home.

Mr. Gompers is a member of the Cigarmakers' union, and has held the position of president of the American Federation of Labor since 1882. From then until 1886 there was no salary attached to the office. That year it was decided to make the office a permanent one, and the salary was fixed at $1,200. This was raised to $1,800 in 1892. The first vice president of the federation was Richard Powers, elected in 1880; the second was John Jarrett, elected in 1881. Gompers had felt sure of re-election, but the dissatisfaction with his course during the last few months has been growing steadily, and the ballot showed that a majority of the delegates were against him. There were many causes leading to his defeat. His refusal to order a general strike last summer was not well received by many of the strongest unions. It was claimed by the friends of Mr. Debs that the assistance of Gompers at the critical moment would have brought victory to the strikers. They thought that the head of the American Federation had grown too conservative.

For first vice president Mrs. T. J. Morgan, of Chicago, and Dr. McGuire, of Philadelphia, were nominated. The vote was 1,865 for McGuire, 226 for Mrs. Morgan. The election was made unanimous.

AUTOMATIC GALLOWS USED.

"Jack" Cronin Executed at Hartford, Conn., for Killing Albert Skinner.

John Cronin, murderer of Albert Skinner, was hanged at Wethersfield, Conn., on the new automatic gallows, now legal in that State. This was the first test of the contrivance and it worked to the satisfaction of Warden Woodbridge, who is chiefly responsible for its adoption and after whom it is named. Cronin's neck was broken on the upward bound by the drop instantly and apparently painless.

THE AUTOMATIC GALLOWS.

The gallows upon which Cronin was executed is, perhaps, the most remarkable machine ever made for taking human life. It would send a thrill of horror through such an orthodox headchopper as Deibler, the French executioner. It has been called the suicide gallows. By a most ingenious contrivance the malefactor is indirectly compelled to execute himself. This extraordinary Connecticut gibbet is connected with a concealed clockwork apparatus that operates it. It is a hydraulic, automatic affair, with wheels and cogs, and springs and catches, and the whole sinister and stealthily working machinery is invisible not only to the condemned man on the scaffold, but also to the officials and spectators.

Its operating machinery is so contrived that the murderer in stepping on the drop springs a catch that puts in motion an apparatus that in a carefully regulated period of time, which may be lengthened or shortened as the hangman desires, springs the trap and launches him into eternity just as the old gibbet was wont to do. The condemned man was marched to the gallows stairs and led up on the drop, his arms and legs strapped, the noose adjusted, and the black cap drawn over his face. In an instant, then, without warning, without a signal on the part of anybody, without an aggressive movement from the hangman or others, without preliminary noise whatever on the part of the concealed machinery, the body of the criminal was shot into the air.

Cronin had been a hired man for Albert Skinner, a thrifty South Windsor farmer, for several months, and did good service for him. He went on a prolonged spree, had a quarrel, and then a fight with Skinner, and the latter threw him out of the house. Cronin went away muttering vengeance against his employer, and two hours later returned with a double-barreled shotgun and killed Skinner with a charge of heavy shot.

HISTORIC VIENNA.

Midway Attraction to Be Reproduced on a Gigantic Scale.

Visitors to the World's Fair will recall with vivid pleasure Old Vienna, one of the most interesting attractions of the Midway Plaisance. Its unique structures, original interior, charming music and attractive environments made an impression on the mind of those who saw it that can only be effaced when the memories of the White City are no more. But this one attraction at least is to be something more than a memory, for if the plans of several Chicago's most prominent citizens are carried out, it will be preserved in enduring form.

It is proposed to erect a mammoth structure, somewhat similar in design to Old Vienna, but far surpassing it in grandeur and the immensity of its proportions. The plans have all been drawn by the architect and designers of the World's Fair and if their ideas are carried out Chicago will have the most unique structure in the world. It will be known as Historic Vienna, and will be located on North Clark and Locust streets, having a frontage of 277 feet on the former and 171 feet on the latter. The architecture will be the rennissance, mingled with the old German, as in vogue in Vienna and along the Danube. The greatest feature of the new project will be an immense auditorium, capable of seating 12,000 people. It will resemble the Royal Albert Hall, London, but will seat 4,000 more persons. It will easily be the biggest and grandest auditorium in the world.

"HISTORIC VIENNA," TO BE BUILT IN CHICAGO.

The other parts of the building will contain, among other things, 13 stores, a model hotel, with 120 apartments and 40 single rooms; library and reading-room, having the leading dailies of the world; billiard rooms, bowling alleys; a veritable Vienna cafe in all its details; restaurants, with a celebrated European chef in charge of the cuisine; a typical "Old German Wein Keller" and "Bier Stube." In addition there will be bazars of different nations, museums, panopticum, "laughing-room," ball-rooms, banquet halls, private supper apartments, halls for lodges and meetings, and last, but not least, the entree to the boxes will lead from Locust street through a permanent winter palm garden.

Music, and that of the very highest type, will constitute the prime attraction of the "Historic Vienna." In its walls will be rendered daily music a la Theodore Thomas, diversified by that of Strauss. In connection therewith a conservatory of music will be established. Arrangements will be consummated to provide free Sunday sermons by the most eminent divines that can be secured, making "Historic Vienna" a veritable people's church. Education will be fostered. Lectures will be delivered on general education, history, civil government, manual training, kindergarten work and kindred subjects, all by men of national and international fame. This work will be exemplified, pictorially, at festivals. A special feature will be to make "Historic Vienna" the favorite resort of the children and the student world of Chicago, where education can be obtained in its truest sense.

Ladies will find much to attract them. Passing through a palm garden of choicest plants and flowers, they will find bazars containing the work of women of every nation. At regular intervals grand balls, concerts, and festivals will be given for sweet charity. It will make Chicago the permanent city of national conventions and international congresses, as no other structure in the country can compare with it as a place for holding such assemblages. It will also aid in making the Windy City the leading center for music, art and education in the United States.

Kansas Heroine.

Early one morning not long since the Patterson Hotel, at Harper, Kan., was destroyed by fire. There were thirty-seven guests in the house at the time, and the lives of all of them were saved by the heroism of Maud Schemerhorn, one of the dining-room girls. Miss Schemerhorn and Mattie Harper were asleep in a room in the rear of the hotel, when the flames broke out in the kitchen directly under them. They were awakened by the smoke, and attempted to escape, but before they could get out Miss Harper was overcome by the smoke. Miss Schemerhorn broke out the window with her bare hands, and carried her companion out. Then, passing around to the front of the building, she broke another window, entered the house and awoke the occupants, all of whom were sleeping peacefully. At the door of the last room she sank down exhausted. The gentleman who was in this room tripped over her form as he stepped out. He stopped, picked her up and succeeded in making his way with his unconscious burden to the street. A few minutes later the whole house was in flames. A large part of her way through the house the heroic girl was forced to crawl on hands and knees, owing to the dense smoke, but she kept on until every sleeper was aroused. But for her efforts all, or nearly all, would undoubtedly have perished. Miss Schemerhorn is only 16 years old, and is very pretty.

NEW CURRENCY BILL.

SUBSTITUTE FOR CARLISLE'S PLAN INTRODUCED.

So Many Objections to the Old One that Mr. Springer and Secretary Carlisle Decide to Submit a New Measure—News Notes.

Some Important Changes.

After conferences between the Democratic members of the House Committee on Banking and Currency and with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury Mr. Springer introduced a substitute for the Carlisle currency bill. It is substantially a new measure, although some of the sections of the original measure are retained in the new bill.

Two very important features make their appearance for the first time in the substitute. The main one will have the effect of allowing the national banking system to run along, without an arbitrary provision that banks must organize under the new system. The original Carlisle bill contemplated that all national banks must reorganize under the new plan. This would have required them to surrender the government bonds which now constitute the basis of their circulation. But the substitute does away with this imperative change. If national banks wish to continue to hold their United States bonds and issue circulation thereon they may do so. It is felt that they will soon discover the advantages of the new system, and will, therefore, adopt it voluntarily.

The other important feature of the substitute is that it does away with the unknown liability of banks to guarantee the notes of all other banks. This feature of the original bill has been much criticised. It contemplated that if a national bank failed its notes would be paid out of its assets and the general "safety fund" made up by all the banks. But if the assets and safety fund were insufficient to pay the notes of the failed bank, then the comptroller of the currency was to make a pro rata assessment on all the banks of the country. The banks said this prospective assessment shouldered them with an unknown risk. In effect it made them supply insurance on all the notes of banks in which they had no concern.

In view of these criticisms the substitute will do away with the assessment plan. The "safety fund" will be the limit of the joint liability of all the banks for the failure of individual banks. They will, however, be compelled to keep up this safety fund by more rigid provisions than appeared in the original bill.

The new bill is arranged so as to show the new features in parentheses. The first section is as folows:

"(a). That (so much of) all acts and parts of acts as required or authorized the deposit of United States bonds to secure circulating notes issued by national banking associations (or as required such associations to deposit or keep on deposit United States bonds for any purpose except as security for public money) be, and the same hereby are repealed (as to associations taking out circulation under this act); and such notes shall not contain the statement that they are so secured."

Section 2 is changed so that banks can not only deposit legal tenders to secure circulation, but also "currency certificates issued under section 5193 of the revised statues of the United States."

Section 3 is retained entire, except that its provisions are restricted to apply to national banking associations "taking out circulation under this act."

Section 4 inserts "the comptroller of the currency" as the officer to designate the place where notes are to be redeemed.

In Relation to the Safety Fund.

In section 5 provision is made for keeping up the safety fund, and in addition to the terms of the original bill it is provided that "the collection of said tax of one-fourth of 1 per cent. for each half-year shall be resumed and continued until the said fund is restored to an amount equal to 5 per cent. upon the total circulation outstanding. All circulation notes of failed national banks not redeemed on presentation to the treasurer of the United States or an assistant treasurer of the United States shall bear interest at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum from the date of the suspension of the bank until thirty days after public notice has been given that funds are on hand for their redemption, and such notes shall constitute a first lien upon all moneys thereafter received into the safety fund."

Section 6, allowing the Secretary of the Treasury to invest money in the safety fund in bonds, is the same as the original bill.

Section 7 is entirely new and takes the place of a section which has been eliminated. The new section is as follows:

"Section 7. That every national banking association heretofore organized and having bonds on deposit to secure circulation may withdraw such bonds upon the deposit of lawful money of the United States, now provided by law, and thereafter such association may take out circulation under this act and be entitled to all the rights and privileges and immunities herein conferred."

Section 8 specifies that the portion of the national banking act to be repealed is limited to so much of section 12 "as directs the Secretary of the Treasury to receive deposits of gold and to issue certificates thereon."

Section 9 is substantially the same as in the original bill.

Section 10, providing for State banks, is also the same as in the original bill, except that in the restrictions on State banks a new provision is made that the guaranty fund maintained by them may include "currency certificates issued under section 5,193 of the revised statutes."

"Section 11. (That any banking association organized under the laws of any State may deposit with the Treasurer of the United States legal tender notes, and receive certificates therefor in the manner provided in section 5,193 of the revised statutes of the United States and) the Secretary of the Treasury may, under proper rules and regulations to be established by him, permit such banks to procure and use in the preparation of their notes the distinctive paper used in printing United States securities; but no State bank shall print or engrave its notes in similitude of a United States note or certificate, or national note."

NEW BASE-BALL STAR.

Successor to the Famous Captain of the New York Team.

The successor of John M. Ward, the retired captain and manager of the New York Base-Ball Club, is George S. Davis.

GEORGE S. DAVIS.

He has been a member of the New York team since 1893, and has been playing only about six years. He is 23 years of age and a New Englander by birth. He is an unassuming and popular player, weighs about 165 pounds and is 5 feet 8 inches in height. He was signed by the Cleveland Club in 1890 and remained with that organization until he was engaged by the New Yorks. He is a fine athlete and plays base-ball with pleasing enthusiasm.

SENATE AND HOUSE.

WORK OF OUR NATIONAL LAWMAKERS.

Proceedings of the Senate and House of Representatives—Important Measures Discussed and Acted Upon—Gist of the Business.

The National Solons.

In the Senate Monday a communication from Secretary Gresham relative to the continuation of the bureau of American republics was referred to the Committee on appropriations. Mr. Blanchard, of Louisiana, presented petitions praying for the passage by the Senate of a land forfeiture bill. Mr. Hill, of New York, presented a resolution calling upon Secretary Carlisle for a copy of the income tax regulations, which was passed. The bill for a national university was placed on the calendar. The Senate resumed consideration of the Nicaraguan Canal bill. In the House Mr. Herman, of Oregon, presented a preamble and resolution declaring that the Clayton-Bulwer treaty was an obstacle to the construction of an interoceanic canal and that it should be abrogated. Fifteen of the sixteen pension bills favorably reported from the Friday night session were then passed without objection in exactly four minutes. Mr. McRae, chairman of the Committee on Public Lands, moved to pass, under a suspension of the rules, the bill to protect public forest reservations. Mr. Wells, of Wisconsin, charged that rascality was behind the bill and predicted that those who were pushing it through with whip and spur would live to regret their action. The vote resulted 159 to 53 and the bill was passed. The army appropriation bill carried $23,299,808—$168,616 less than the estimates. The bill was passed without amendment.

The Senate Tuesday passed the public printing bill and listened to Mr. Gallinger's plan to effect union with Canada. Mr. Hill, in discussing the rules of the Senate, advocated cloture. The Nicaragua canal was also considered. In the House, the entire session was occupied by consideration of the currency question. The vews of Mr. Carlisle and Mr. Walker were contrasted.

The Senate in executive session on Wednesday confirmed a large number of naval promotions. Mr. Cullom spoke on the subject of the Nicaragua Canal. A bill extending the act relating to abandoned military reservations was passed. A bill was passed amending the act of May 18, 1894, giving permission to construct a bridge over the Missouri River near Jefferson City, Mo. The bill to establish a national military park at the battlefield of Shiloh was read in full and passed. The resolution calling on the President for correspondence in the Ezeta extradition case was passed. The House continued discussion of the currency bill.

In the House Friday Mr. Springer introduced a substitute for the Carlisle currency bill, and the measure was debated at length. A resolution was passed providing for free entrance of foreign exhibits at the Atlanta Exposition next year; also for the Portland, Oregon, Exposition. A bill for the relief of the homestead fire sufferers in the Northwest was passed. The Senate was not in session.

Brieflets.

Dr. John Lord, historian and lecturer, died at his home at Stamford, Conn.

J. O. Waters, of the Austell (Ga.) Lithia Springs Hotel, killed himself with a razor.

Great Britain, Russia and France are said to be contemplating a demonstration to check Japan's victorious march to Pekin.

C. P. Huntington, the railroad magnate, is making a bitter fight against the re-election of Senator Perkins of California.

Mrs. Winslow Shearman and her daughter, Mrs. Clinton Davis, were murdered near Jamestown, N. Y., by unknown persons.

Alabama negroes have appealed to Gov. Oates for consideration and relief and particularly to stop lynching in that State.

Oliver Smith was cut with a razor by Manson Hawkins in a drunken brawl at Lebanon, Ind., and will lose an eye and may die.

M. Bruwaert has been made French consul general at New York, while M. Thiebaud has been removed from Boston to Chicago.

Judge Goff has decided that the Washington Light Infantry of Charleston, S. C., cannot be deprived of their arms by the Governor.

Trouble is feared in the Moose River reservation, Minnesota, between partisans of rival companies which lay claim to the same land.

Consul Gilford at Basle, Switzerland, warns Swiss not to return to their native country expecting to get work, for the field of labor is overcrowded.

Henry Whilt, J. D. Boster, and George Adams were arrested at Huntington, W. Va., on the charge of robbing George B. Sanford, a farmer, of $1,500.

Remnants of the commonweal army in the State of Washington will march to Olympia and demand an appropriation for public highway improvements.

Mrs. P. A. Hearst, widow of the Senator, will establish a free library and reading-room at Lead, S. D., for employes of the Homestake gold mine.

Emperor William has presented gold watches, with his portrait and monogram, to two Bedouin sheiks, in recognition of their services to several German archaeologists.

Albert Daugherty pleaded guilty to forgery at Muncie, Ind., and was sentenced to five years' imprisonment. He forged the name of Milton Hamilton to two notes of $100 each.

Herman Shafer has been expelled from the Southern Indiana M. E. conference and the church at Columbus, Ind., for renting a store-room to a man who will sell liquor under a government license and is a druggist.

George D. Sherwin, a well-known attorney of Kansas City, Mo., died from the effects of a self-administered dose of morphine, taken to alleviate suffering due to asthma.

J. W. Wheeler, of Elizabeth, N. J., has been appointed receiver of the J. W. Fowler Car Company of Elizabethport. The assets are about $128,000; liabilities, $130,000.

Morris Loenshal, one of the best known pension agents in Northern Ohio, was indicted by the United States grand jury at Toledo for using fraudulent affidavits to secure pensions.

The head of a match flying off in the hands of a boy caused a fire in W. W. P. McConnell's, department store at Mankato, Minn., resulting in damage of $40,000; insurance, $15,000.

John R. Tait, until a few weeks ago the paying teller of the Chemical National Bank, was arrested at his home in Mount Kisco, N. Y., on an indictment charging him with embezzling $15,000 of the bank's funds.

For refusing to furnish the grand jury with names in connection with a scandal involving society women at Salt Lake City Chief Pratt of the police department and Detectives Sheets and Furguson were committed to custody.

CHAPTER X—Continued.

To get quietly away, that was the young husband's first thought, especially as, though she looked and smiled so sweetly, he detected a shade of weariness in the dear face he knew so well. If he could only carry her safely off before the admiring circle round Bella broke up, and before Mr. Alexander Thomson appeared in the drawing-room—as he was sure to do in a condition euphuistically termed "merry." But Mrs. Grierson had first to be spoken to a little, and she sat close beside his sister, who, in passing, he felt catch his hand.

"Rody!"

Was there ever a man, old or young, who hearing himself called by a familiar voice, the pet name of his childhood, could stonily turn away? Poor Roderick, anything but stony-hearted, certainly could not.

"What do you want with me?" he whispered, pretending to turn over a large volume of photographs which his sister held.

"She—I came here on purpose to look at her—she is much nicer than I expected."

"Thank you. Is that all? Then I will pass on. I was going to say good-night to Mrs. Grierson."

The tone, studiously polite, was exactly what he would have used to any strange lady. It seemed to cut his sister to the heart.

"Roderick, what can I do? I dare not vex mamma. She holds all my pin-money; and he is—oh, so stingy! so—If I had but known!"

"You did know; I told you myself," said Roderick, sternly. "But it is useless talking. As one makes one's bed one must lie on it."

"I know that. And you?"

"There is no need to speak—we had better not speak—either of me or mine."

At this instant the gentlemen were heard coming up; and one of them, approaching, tapped her on the shoulder, with a jovial, "Well, my dear!"

A shiver of repugnance—almost of fear—passed over poor Bella from head to foot. Well might the sapient Mr. Alexander Thomson observe that "women are fools;" but the greatest of all fools is the woman that marries a fool for his money.

"Jardine! here still? Do introduce us—my wife and me—to our charming sister-in-law. Or, rather introduce her to us, if Bella thinks it more proper."

"Yes, yes, bring her here. I beg you will, and quickly. Don't you see everybody is looking at us?" said Bella, hurriedly.

"Let them look; it is nothing to me," said Roderick, and was walking away, when he felt a little hand slipped under his arm.

"I came not to hurry you, dear, but to tell you that Mrs. Grierson offers to take us home in her carriage. She is so kind. I like her so much."

"I knew you would, my darling!"

Bella heard the words, saw the look and the look which answered it. A sudden spasm, almost like despair, passed across her face—the despair which a woman, any woman, cannot but feel on catching a glimpse of the heaven she has lost or thrown away. But she righted herself speedily; and having much of her mother's cleverness, slipped out of the difficult position by coming and taking Silence's two hands with an air of frank pleasure.

"You would not carry off my brother this very minute, when I am so delighted to see both him and you? I am Bella. Of course you have heard of Bella? Nay; you must let me kiss you, my dear."

The tone, if a little patronizing, was kind; and though the soft cheek turned scarlet, it did not shrink from the kiss. Silence stood, neither shy, nor afraid, nor ashamed, to receive the greeting of her husband's sister. But when Bella's husband came forward, with rough exuberance, to take his share in the salute, she drew back.

"It is not our custom in Switzerland," she said in French to her husband; and, as she extended the tips of her fingers, it would have taken a bolder man than even Mr. Alexander Thomson to offer a kiss to young Mrs. Jardine.

All this little scene passed within half a minute, attracting no attention except from the Griersons, who stood by.

"We are detaining you, and making our family relations needlessly public," said Roderick; "but the fact is, my wife and sister had never met before. They will meet again shortly, I hope."

"I hope so, too," responded Mrs. Grierson, in a tone which showed that the gentle old lady was fully cognizant of the Jardine history, as no doubt, in some form or other, was everyone present, or would be, within ten minutes. Indeed, as Roderick took his wife from the room, he felt that, like the celebrated wit in the anecdote, they "left their character behind them."

What matter? What did anything matter, so long as he held fast that tender hand, which, in the friendly dusk of the carriage, he had taken, for he felt it trembling much. But neither they nor Mrs. Grierson made any save the most ordinary remarks, on the way "home," which yet was so sweet.

Arriving there, Silence threw her arms round her husband's neck.

"I am so glad, so glad!"

"Glad of what?"

"Of—everything, I think. But most of all to get home."

"What a little home-bird you will grow to. Exactly suited for a poor man's wife. Suppose now I had married a fashionable young lady, who wanted to have, every day, a dinner-party, like the one we have left! But you did enjoy it?"

"Oh, yes. Only—— And that was your sister? Did you know she was to be there?"

Silence spoke with hesitation, even with a slight constraint.

"I did not know, or I should not have gone," said Roderick, decidedly. "But perhaps it is well. Poor Bella! Did you notice her husband?"

"Yes. Was she—was she always like that, and not like you?" asked Silence, after a long pause.

"We were never very much alike, but——"

"But you are brother and sister. I am very glad you met. And, if they wish it, you will go?"

"With you—not otherwise. But no need to talk about that. Let us talk about the dinner—a regular grand Richerden dinner, and some of the best Richerden folk at it—the little leaven which leavens the whole lump. I like the Griersons. And you?"

"Yes; they are your friends, and this is your country; I wish to love it, and them. But I am afraid you will never make a grand lady out of me, like—like your sister."

Heaven forbid! Roderick was on the point of saying, but he did not. In his tender heart there was a pitiful sense of apologizing to his own people. He knew all their faults; but they had belonged to him all his days. Kissing his wife, he said with a smile, "Sisters are sisters, and wives, wives; I am quite satisfied with mine."

"It never rains but it pours," said he, two days after, throwing over to Silence a heap of letters which had succeeded a whole pack of cards, left luckily during a day's absence, when he had been showing her some Scotch mountains, and apologizing for their not being Alps. "Here are invitations enough. The way of the world! Once met at the Griersons', all Richerden is satisfied and delighted to visit us. Even my sister; did you notice these?"

The cards of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Thomson and a formal dinner invitation sufficiently proved Bella's sisterly feelings.

"We shall go?" Silence was still feeble in those auxiliary verbs, which to a native can take such delicate shades of meaning. Her husband could hardly tell whether or not she wished to go. But he knew she ought to go, even if at some slight sacrifice to both; therefore he merely assented without opening any discussion pro or con. She tacitly accepted his "Yes," and he went on explaining or criticizing the other invitations.

"After all, the world is exceedingly like a flock of sheep. Let one jump the ditch, the others are sure to follow. And this was a very wide ditch to jump, truly," added he, looking round the room. "We ought certainly to take a house, if only for the sake of our friends. What agony it must have cost some of them to stop their carriage in front of a flat!"

Silence laughed merrily. "And yet we are happy in it! It is ugly. I know that; but I think I have never been so happy in all my life; and as for all this visiting, is it quite necessary?"

He hesitated a little; then said gently, "Yes, my wife, if you do not dislike it very much, I think it is quite necessary."

"That is enough; we will go."

"Out of mere obedience, my darling?"

"No," she said, answering his smile with a sweet gravity, "I do not think it is in me blindly to obey any one, not even you. But I honor you so much in all things I can understand that in things I do not quite understand I trust you. That is the only true and safe obedience."

So they went to dinner after dinner. At Richerden the only idea of "society" consists in dining. One invitation followed another rapidly, for it was near the end of the season, and most families were beginning to think of the periodical "going to the coast." Yet Roderick liked it; she too, after a fashion. "It makes one feel," she said once when they had come back, "in the sma' hours," to their quiet flat, "like sitting safe in a sheltered hut, with the rain pelting outside."

Roderick laughed. "This place rather resembles a hut, certainly; but would Richerden be flattered by your likening its splendid hospitalities to 'an even downpour?'"

Silence colored. "I don't mean that. You know what I mean. Visiting is pleasant. I am glad to feel you are not ashamed of me, and oh, I am so proud of you! But still, that is only our outside life. The real life is this."

She crept close to him. She felt the beating of the strong, true heart that she knew was wholly her own. Then lifting up her face, all wet with peaceful tears, she looked earnestly at her husband.

"I am sorry, I never can tell how sorry, for the women who are not happy."

There is a proverb—Roderick sometimes thought of it nowadays and felt that he could almost understand it—"Better is a dinner of herbs where love is, than a house full of sacrifices with strife."

Their "dinner of herbs" was growing nearer than they thought.

Roderick one day came in from a call on Mr. Maclagan whose hospitalities they had also shared, and Silence, with her sweet nature and wide power of sympathy, had persisted that even Mrs. Maclagan was, when you came to know her, not so black as she was painted. Mr. Maclagan, Roderick allowed, was always liked and likeable—till now. She saw immediately that something had gone seriously wrong.

"What is it? Your mother?"

"No, dear; not my mother this time. She is well and happy in England. I may safely forget her, as she does me. It is only—oh, Silence! did you ever know what it was to owe a lot of money and not have a half-penny to pay it with? At least, I don't mean we are at our last half-penny, but we—that is, I—have been spending a good deal more than I ought, and Maclagan has just told me so, and—but this is childish—you must not heed it, darling," said he, trying to hide his extreme perturbation.

He leaned his head on his hands in deep depression. Silence came and knelt beside him. She was very young, very childish, or childlike, in many things, and hitherto her husband had treated her like a child; an idol, certainly, but still a child. Now their positions seemed reversed. He looked up at her for a moment, then laid his head on her shoulder with a sigh of relief.

"Oh, it would be such a comfort to tell you everything."

"Do so, then."

The "everything" was not very serious, but it seemed so to him, who had never in his life known what it was to want anything he wished for.

"I am an idiot, I know I am, to feel so keenly the lack of a few pounds; but I never was used to this sort of thing. Maclagan asked me to show him my 'accounts.' Why, I never kept accounts in all my days! My mother allowed me so much a year, or half year. I spent it, and when it was done I came to her for more. Not that I was extravagant; she knew that—but, oh, Silence! money seems to slip through my fingers in the most marvelous way. As Maclagan told me, and I could not deny it, I no more know how to make the best of a small income than if I were a baby. Do you?"

He looked up in such a piteously helpless fashion that she could have smiled, had she not felt so infinitely tender over him. But it was the tenderness which is born of utmost reverence. Without any urging she answered simply, "Suppose I try;" and began looking over the mass of papers before him, and which he himself regarded with an expression almost of despair. Poor fellow! he had got into what women call "a regular muddle;" like many another man who, neglecting or despising the small economies which result in large comforts, and regardless of the proportion of things and the proper balance of expenditure, drifts away into endless worries, anxieties, sometimes into absolute ruin, and all for want of the clear head, the firm, careful hand, and, above all, the infinite power of taking trouble, which is essentially feminine.

Roderick watched his wife slowly untying the Gordian knot, which he, man-like, would have liked to dash his sword through.

"What patience you have!" he said. "Do throw it all aside. You must be very tired."

"Oh, no; it is my business; I ought to have undertaken it before. My mother used to say it was the man's part to earn the money, the woman's to use it. I can, a little. Mamma let me keep house ever since I was 17. I managed all her affairs. Perhaps, if you would let me try——"

"To manage mine, and me?"

"No!" a little indignantly. "I am afraid I should despise the man I 'managed.' But I would like to take my fair half of the work of life. Yours is outside, mine inside. Will that do? Is it a bargain?"

"My love, yes."

"Now"—with a pretty imperiousness—"you must give me all the money you have, and all the bills you owe, and tell me exactly how much you have a year. Then, take a book and read. No"—pasing her hand over his forehead, which was burning hot—"go and lie down for an hour. When you wake up you shall find all right."

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

JOHN BULL'S HUMOR.

It Is of the Fat-witted Kind, that Is What Americans Think.

Hawthorne, observing Englishmen in England, speaks of them as "heavy-witted;" Emerson alludes to their "saving stupidity;" Howells has introduced to us some typical specimens of English respectability and rank baffled in their chase after American humor, but on the scent and arriving at a point of appreciation after considerable silent thought, sometimes lasting into the next day; and here is the testimony of Lowell, from his recently published "Letters." In a letter written in 1889 from England to Professor Norton he thus explains the warm reception given to Buffalo Bill by London society.

"But I think the true key to this eagerness for lions—even of the poodle sort—is the dullness of the average English mind. I never come back here without being struck with it. Henry James said it always stupefied him at first when he came back from the continent. What it craves beyond everything is a sensation, anything that will serve as a Worcestershire sauce to its sluggish palate. We, of finer and more touchy fiber, get our sensations cheaper, and do not find Wordsworth's emotion over a common flower so very wonderful.

"People are dull enough on our side of the ocean stream, also, God wot; but here, unless I know my people, I never dare to let my mind gambol. Most of them, if I ever do, look on like the famous deaf man at the dancers, wondering to what music I am capering. They call it superficial. Let us thank God, dear Charles, that our nerves are nearer the surface, not so deeply imbedded in fat or muscle that wit must take a pitchfork to us."—Outlook.

How It Came to an Untimely End.

A party of three policemen got leave of absence, the other day, and went on a hunting and fishing excursion, their objective point being a secluded spot in a locality of whose whereabouts it is only necessary for the purposes of this narrative to mention that it was several miles from anywhere and could only be reached by a long and laborious journey in a wagon from the nearest railway station.

The party arrived at its destination an hour or two before nightfall and proceeded to unload. The tent, the camp-stove, blankets, eatables, guns, ammunition, game-bags, fishing-rods, and other necessities of the campaign were taken out of the wagon by Mike and Larry and piled on the ground.

"I guess that's all," said Mike, preparing to climb out.

"Not by a jugful," responded Dennis, the ranking officer of the squad. "Look over in that corner beyant ye. There's a jug. It's full. Mind, now, how ye handle it!"

Larry picked up the jug with great alacrity.

But in handing it out he had the misfortune to strike it against the hind wheel.

And it broke all to pieces.

There was a ghastly, horrible silence. It was broken at last by Dennis.

"Boys," he said, in a heart-broken, world-weary, but resolute voice, "git out o' that an' help me pile these things back in the wagon."—Chicago Tribune.

DR. CATHELL, in the Maryland Medical Journal, advances the opinion that fasting during the long interval between supper and breakfast, and especially the complete emptiness of the stomach during sleep, adds greatly to the amount of emaciation, sleeplessness and general weakness so often met.

ON THE SOUTH COAST.

A DISTRICT IN ITALY WHERE EARTHQUAKES COME OFTEN.

A Country Where the People Are Always Ready to Jump and Run—A Region of Sand, Seismic Convulsions and Miasma.

Between Two Volcanoes.

The terrible earthquakes reported from the southern extremity of Italy are no novelty to the people of that portion of the peninsula. For over 1,000 years the southern coast of Italy has been subject to recurring seismic convulsions, and their frequency has been so great during the last three centuries that they have practically made a desert of the whole coast from Naples on to the south, following the toe of the giant foot round to the heel. For over a century a curious periodicity has been observed in the eruptions of Vesuvius and Etna. When one is active the other is quiescent, and vice versa. Between the two is Stromboli, that from the earliest times has never been quiet, and with Stromboli as the center of the volcanic disturbance the pendulum swings from Vesuvius on the Bay of Naples to Etna in Sicily, and back again. But there are times, not very frequent, when both are quiet, and then the trouble begins on the South Italian coast, for as sure as Etna and Vesuvius calm down the earthquakes in Calabria begin. It is true there are earthquakes there at other times also; in fact, there is hardly a day in the year when an earthquake may not be looked for at some point along the coast, but when both great volcanoes are quiet earthquakes of unusual violence may be expected, and the expectation is rarely doomed to disappointment.

A VILLAGE AND CASTLE IN CALABRIA.

The consequence is that the whole coast is almost desolate. The frequency of the shocks renders the construction of houses of any considerable size very inadvisable; in fact, a large house is generally tumbled over before it is fairly completed, and so the villages are of small one-story houses, from which the inhabitants are ready to flee into the open air at a moment's notice. They are always expecting an earthquake, are always prepared for one, and never feel the slightest surprise when one comes. No matter what the villager of the Calabrian coast may be doing, he is never so engrossed in his job as not to quit it when he feels the first tremor of the earth beneath his feet, but drops everything and gets into the open air in as few jumps as possible, for he knows that there is danger, if not death, in delay. He thus lives in a constant state of nervousness, and even in sleep is ready to jump and run. A recent traveler, telling of his experience in a coast town, heard an unusual sound, which proved to be the village blacksmith striking a board with his heavy hammer. It was easily explained on investigation, and the entire population was investigating it in less than one minute, for nobody understood it, and every one suspected that it might be some new form of earthquake manifestation.

SCYLLA.

But the earthquake is not the only drawback to life on the Calabrian coast. One of the most singular changes of climate recorded in the annals of meterology is that which has come about in the last fifteen or eighteen centuries in certain parts of Italy. The Roman Campagna, for instance, in the days of the Empire, was a singularly pleasant, fertile and salubrious country. All over the plain are to be found the ruins of the villas which once belonged to wealthy Roman gentlemen, who, during the heat of the Italian summer, left the city for the coolness of the plains outside. Now the Campagna is deadly. Every part reeks with miasma, and the incautious traveler who passes a night, or sometimes even a day, in the vicinity of its sluggish streams and fetid marshes always pays the penalty by a long illness—sometimes with his life. The southern coast is, in this respect, like the Campagna. Some points are so unhealthy that men connot live in their vicinity; there are stations on the railroad that follows the coast so deadly that an appointment as stationmaster is considered equivalent to a sentence of death. For many miles at a stretch the coast is uninhabited even by the acclimated natives, who, when obliged to go thither, finish their business by daylight, and toward nightfall go to the hills, where safety is to be found. This is one of the most remarkable things about the desolate coast, the fact that immunity from the miasma is to be found among the foothills of the range that makes the backbone of the peninsula. Thus, while the coast is deadly, the hills, two or three miles away, are as healthy as a tropical climate can be, and the population of the mountains, though not dense, is yet large when the character of the country is taken into account.

Yet there is the best possible reason to believe that the entire coast was once healthy, and, in consequence, was also populous. Before the days of the Roman Empire the cities of the Greeks were scattered all along the coast, and so numerous and rich were they that the Italian colonies rivalled the home country. Even during the Roman supremacy the southern end of the peninsula was noted for its wealth, and only after the eruptions of Vesuvius and Etna and the accompanying earthquakes became numerous and destructive did the coast fall into commercial decay. Not a few dozen villages and groups of ruins at every mile mark the coast that once sent fleets to every part of the Mediterranean and defied alike the power of Greece and Carthage.

REGGIO AND THE SICILIAN COAST.

Another reason quite as potent as the climate was formerly active in driving the population from the shore. For hundreds of years all South Italy was a scene of constant warfare. Saracens, Moors, Turks, pirates all, paraded up and down the peninsula in their ships, landing where they found an opportunity and plundering the hamlets that were nearest, then sailing away to repeat the operation elsewhere. In constant fear of the invader, the people hid their villages in the most inaccessible parts of the mountains, where some are still to be found. There is Pentedatillo, not far from Reggio, a town so placed that, although it commands a view of the whole country for many miles, it is itself unseen. It is built on a cluster of crags that send giant spires into the air like a huge hand stretched out toward the sky. Over 2,000 feet above the sea is the top of the great rock on which the town is placed, and in the crannies of the summit, between the lofty fingers, the houses are wedged in as though by force. From the coast below the town is invisible; even from the mountains on the land side it is not easy to make out the houses from the masses of rock that overhang and shut them in from view.

One of the few exceptions to the dreariness of the southern coast is the city of Reggio, where recently such fearful destruction was wrought by the earthquake. The causes of the difference between the country about Reggio and the rest of the shore are as mysterious as the reasons for the prevalence of the miasma elsewhere, but certain it is, no part of Italy is fairer than the district that harvests all its lemons and oranges in Reggio. The neighborhood is one of singular beauty. Picturesque villages crown every hilltop, while across the blue straits of Messina rises a vision of Sicily and the snowy heights of Etna. The country round Reggio is one great orange plantation, and everywhere the perfume of the blossoms and the fragrance of the fruit fill the air. Carts constantly pass through the streets bearing the golden crop to the warehouses, whence it is passed on to the sailing vessels that carry it to the nearest large port, where regular lines of steamers distribute it all over Europe. Formerly this region was as celebrated for its palms as now for its oranges; but that was during the Saracenic occupation, and after the Saracens were driven out the populace so hated anything that reminded them of the detested Moors that all the palms were cut down, and now they are almost as much of a curiosity in Reggio as in Paris.

SOLUNTO.

But they are not needed to recall to the beholder the fact that he is in Italy. The marvelous beauty of the women is enough. Every one is a painter's model; every one looks as though she had stepped out of an antique picture. There are hundreds in Reggio who could stand as models for Venus, or Diana, or Juno, or any other of the goddesses that the Greeks loved to depict in stone. Greek faces they have, with the black hair and eyes and swarthy skins of the Latins, with lithe, graceful forms and hands and feet that an empress might envy. They are mere peasants; most of them gain their living by the hardest description of manual labor; yet neither ages of poverty and want nor the admixture of a dozen foreign races has been able to deprive them of that wonderful beauty which is their birthright.

The neighborhood of Reggio is classic ground, for it was there that Demosthenes last touched with the Athenian fleet when on the way to Sicily and defeat, and it was there that Cicero turned back to his death when about to leave Italy after the murder of Caesar. Not far away is the world-famous Scylla, the rock that plays such a part in the story of Ulysses. A town now rises on the precipice, and the whirlpool Charybdis is no longer dangerous to navigators, but some idea of the terror formerly inspired by both may be gained from the words of Homer. A little more than 100 years ago Scylla was the scene of a disaster more deadly than any that could have happened in its earlier ages. A terrible earthquake came on February 5, 1783, and the entire population, deserting their houses at the first shock, gathered on the seashore. The evening came on with the terrified people still in groups on the sand; a renewal of the shocks, more severe than the first, took place. A great headland not far off was literally upset into the sea, a tidal wave swept along the coast, and 4,000 of the people of the town were carried away.

Such is the fate that the dwellers on the South Italian coast must contemplate as possible at any time. But with all their earthquakes and the constant state of alarm in which they live, they are a careless, happy lot. They work as little as possible, stay out of doors as much as they can, and pray for the time to come when a volcano shall break out in the mountain ranges to the north, for they have a pet theory that when there is such an outbreak a relief will be given to the forces of nature, and that by the new outlet between Vesuvius and Etna the fires and gases will pour out and earthquakes will cease. They may be right or they may be wrong, but they are certainly entitled to have a theory on the subject, and after all it is not improbable that they may know as much about the matter in question as the man who, 3,000 or 4,000 miles from the nearest volcano, and in a country that never had an earthquake, sits down at his desk and gravely discusses the causes of seismic convulsions.

NINFA.

SALERNO AND THE SEA, FROM THE PRISON HILL.

California's Wonderful Temple.

In Southern California, in the County of San Luis Obispo, there is situated one of the most remarkable prehistoric monuments known to the archaeologists. From a distance it looks like an immense rock rising from the plains of Carissa, but upon nearer approach it is seen to be a temple of extraordinary dimensions and of unknown antiquity. The inner court has a level floor 225 feet long and 125 feet wide, and the ceiling is from 60 to 100 feet high, according to situation. The building was evidently used by prehistoric man, but for what purpose, and how long since, no one knows. It has been suggested, however, that it was either a temple of worship or the capitol of some ancient government. The walls and portions of the ceiling are beautifully decorated with paintings in colors red, white and black, many of them supposed to have some symbolic meaning. The colors are apparently as bright as when first laid on. The Indians of that locality are said to have no traditions concerning the building of this temple, yet they all regard it with superstitious reverence.—St. Louis Republic.

How to Mask the Smell of Kerosene.

To mask the smell of kerosene add amyl acetate to the extent of about 1 per cent. (ten grams to the liter). This not only modifies the disagreeable smell and converts it into a not unpleasant aromatic odor, but seems to make the flame brighter and whiter.

HUMOR OF THE WEEK

STORIES TOLD BY FUNNY MEN OF THE PRESS.

Many Odd, Curious, and Laughable Phases of Human Nature Graphically Portrayed by Eminent Word Artists of Our Own Day—A Budget of Fun.

Sprinkles of Spice.

—A popular occupation with young women—making parlor matches.—Lowell Courier.

—If you'll notice, the hatchet-faced man seldom splits his sides with laughter.—Buffalo Courier.

—With the college barber it is an every-day occurrence to score a touchdown.—Richmond Dispatch.

—Sometimes a prayer for a good meeting is not answered because there is bad ventilation.—Ram's Horn.

—The horse is supposed to be man's best friend, unless he happens to bet on him in a race.—Yonkers Statesman.

—Stag parties are so called, it is said, because the men usually stagger home from them.—Oil City Blizzard.

—"Yes, it's a hard world," sighed the balloonist, as he struck the fair grounds with a sickening thud.—Yale Record.

—Her mother—Don't you find Jack rather rough? Priscilla—Yes, mamma. And yet he says he shaves every day.—Oil City Blizzard.

—"I am summoned to another climb," said the bellboy as the indicator announced a call from the top floor.—Philadelphia Record.

—Operator—Now, how do you wish to be taken, madam—bust or full length? Miss Primley—No, sir. I'll stand up.—New York Ledger.

—No matter how others of his race have to live, the colored sleeping-car porter always insists upon good quarters for himself.—Buffalo Courier.

—A certain sage said he never knew a rogue who was not unhappy. Of course not; it is the rogues who are not known who are the happy ones.—Tid-Bits.

—He—"I see that China is suing for peace." She—"How ridiculous! Hasn't she lost enough by war without going into the law courts?"—Boston Transcript.

—The prize of one guinea offered by Tid-Bits for the best definition of "life" has been awarded for the following definition: "Life—A trial trip before the launch into eternity."

—Assistant—"I've the greatest freak in the world here." Museum Manager—"What is it?" Assistant—"A farmer who speaks the dialect we get in magazine short stories."—Life.

—Neighbor—"You hov a large family to support, Mr. Finnigan." Mr. Finnigan—"I hov that, mum; an' if they didn't all earn their own livin' I couldn't do it at all at all."—Tid-Bits.

—"I didn't see your portrait at the exhibition, Miss Holmeleigh." "No. They wouldn't take it. They said it was a good portrait, but my face was out of drawing."—Harper's Bazar.

—"De great beauty 'bout Thanksgivin'," said Uncle Eben, "is dat, ef yoh wants ter you kin take it outen de almanack an' keep it in yoh heahts de hull ye'ah roun'."—Washington Star.

—"I propose," began the deliberate old lawyer who called around to see a young widow on business, when his vivacious client exclaimed, "I accept." They are now partners.—Dallas News.

—Professor (returning home at night hears noise)—"Is some one there?" Burglar (under the bed)—"No!" Professor—"That's strange! I was positive some one was under my bed."—Tid-Bits.

—A Delicate Compliment—Mrs. Goodfeed—"Will you ask a blessing, Mr. Guest?" Mr. Guest (casting his eye admiringly over the table)—"Really, my dear madam, it doesn't need it."—Detroit Free Press.

—Tramp—Can't I get the boss' ear for a minute? Husband—I don't think you can get her ear, but I'm sure if you wait until she comes downstairs you can get a piece of her mind.—Yonkers Statesman.

—Mrs. Wickwire—Do you know that the doctors say that too constant piano practice is likely to produce curvature of the spine? Mr. Wickwire—I didn't know it before, but I don't doubt it. At least, it makes the neighbors get their backs up.—Cincinnati Tribune.

—After the Honeymoon—Time, June. —The Earl (proudly)—"I am carrying on some interesting researches into the early history of my family." The American Countess (late of the Metropolitan nouveauriche, snappishly)—"Are you afraid that the facts have not been effectually suppressed?"—Vogue.

—"Here's another one of those millionaire plumber jokes in the paper," said Criticus. "Did you ever see a rich plumber, Hicks?" "Never," said Hicks. "All the plumbers I've ever seen have been very poor plumbers. Still, a fellow may be a poor plumber and yet be a rich man."—Harper's Bazar.

—He was a pretty little youngster, with little fat legs, that stuck out beneath clean, stiff-starched clothes. "What are you going to do when you grow to be a man?" asked a visitor. The little fellow's face assumed an expression of earnest gravity as he responded with a voice which was evidently shaken by sad memories of the past, "Whip papa."—Tid-Bits.

Coins of Enormous Size.

When the area and square inches of surface is taken into consideration the largest coins ever issued by any government on the globe were those put into circulation by Sweden during the sixteenth century. These mammoth pieces are neither round, square, oval, nor octagonal in shape, but are great irregular slabs of copper described as "resembling pieces of a boiler after an explosion." The smallest pieces issued under the law which authorized this gigantic coinage was an irregular rectangular slab of about twelve square inches of surface, and about a half an inch thick. It was worth about thirty cents. The largest of the same series was about a foot square and had a face value of $4. Each of these copper slabs are stamped in several places on the face, the various inscriptions giving the date, denomination, etc. The $4 piece mentioned last above is nearly an inch in thickness and weighs four pounds, lacking a fraction.—St. Louis Republic.

DISGUISED CATARRH.

A Stealthy, Insidious, Weakening Enemy to Women.

There are a multitude of women, especially housewives, and all other women obliged to be on their feet constantly, who are wretched beyond description, simply because their strength and vitality is sapped away by catarrhal discharges from the pelvic organs. These women get up in the morning tired, drag themselves through their daily duties tired, only to go to bed at night as tired as before. Pe-ru-na is such a perfect specific for each case that when patients have once used it they can never be induced to quit it until they are permanently cured. It begins to relieve the disagreeable symptoms at once. The back ache ceases, the trembling knees are strengthened, the appetite restored, digestion made perfect, the dull headache is stopped, and the weakening drains are gradually cured. These results certainly follow a course of treatment with Pe-ru-na. A valuable illustrated pamphlet of thirty-two pages, fully describing this class of disorders, including coughs, colds, la grippe, and all other climatic diseases of winter, will be sent free to any address by the Pe-ru-na Drug Manufacturing Company of Columbus, Ohio.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT.

Office of Comptroller of the Currency.

WASHINGTON, December 19th, 1894.

WHEREAS, by satisfactory evidence presented to the undersigned it has been made to appear that The "First National Bank of Auburn," in the Town of Auburn, in the County of DeKalb and State of Indiana, has complied with all the provisions of the "Act of Congress to enable National Banking Associations to extend their corporate existence and for other purposes," approved July 12th, 1882,

NOW THEREFORE, I, James H. Eckels, Comptroller of the Currency, do hereby certify that "The First National Bank of Auburn," in the Town of Auburn, in the County of DeKalb and State of Indiana, is authorized to have succession for the period specified in its amended articles of association, namely until close of business on December 19, 1914.

In Testimony whereof witness my hand and seal of office this 19th day of December, 1894.

SEAL

JAMES H. ECKELS,
Comptroller of the Currency.
No. 2238 52 3

FIRST NATIONAL BANK.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

Capital and Surplus, $60,000.00

Certificates of deposits issued, drawing interest 4 per cent per annum, if left 6 months. County and town orders bought. Money to loan.

C. A. O. McCLELLAN, President.
CHARLES McCLELLAN, Cashier.

HARPER' BAZAR

IN 1895.

Elegant and exclusive designs for Out-door and In-door Toilettes, drawn from Worth models by Sandoz and Chapuis are an important feature. These appear every week, accompanied by minute descriptions and details. Our Paris Letter, by Katharine de Forest, is a weekly transcript of the latest styles and caprices in the mode. Under the head of "New York Fashions," plain directions and full particulars are given as to shapes, fabrics, trimmings, and accessories of the costumes of well dressed women. Children's Clothing receives practical attention. A fortnightly Pattern-sheet Supplement enables readers to cut and make their own gowns. The woman who takes Harper's Bazar is prepared for every occasion in life, ceremonious or informal, where beautiful dress is requisite.

An American serial, "Doctor Warrick's Daughters," by Rebecca Harding Davis, a strong novel of American life, partly laid in Pennsylvania and partly in the far South, will occupy the last half of the year.

"My Lady Nobody," an intensely exciting novel, by Maaten Martens, author of "God's Fool," "The Greater Glory," etc., will begin the year.

"Essays and Social Chats." To this department Spectator will contribute her charming papers on "What We are Doing" in New York society.

Answers to Correspondents. Questions receive the personal attention of the editor, and are answered at the earliest possible date after their receipt.

Send for Illustrated Prospectus.

The volumes of the BAZAR begin with the first Number for January of each year. When no time is mentioned, subscriptions will begin with the Number current at the time of receipt of order.

Cloth cases for each volume, suitable for binding, will be sent by mail, postpaid, on receipt of $1.00 each. Title page and Index sent on application.

Remittance should be made by Postoffice Money Order or Draft, to avoid chance of loss.

Newspapers are not to copy this advertisement without the express order of Harper & Bros.

HARPER'S PERIODICALS

Harper's Magazine	1 yr.,	$4
Harper's Weekly	"	4
Harper's Bazar	"	4
Harpers's Young People	"	2

Postage Free to all subscribers in the United States, Canada and Mexico.

Address HARPER & BROTHERS
P. O. Box 959, N. Y. City.

HOLIDAY EXCURSIONS.

LAKE ERIE & WESTERN R. R.

Fort Wayne, Cincinnati and Louisville R. R.

(Natural Gas Route).

WILL SELL FOR THE

CHRISTMAS and NEW YEAR HOLIDAYS,

Excursion Tickets between all Stations on its own and Connecting Lines, at the very low rate of

ONE and ONE-THIRD

Fare for the

ROUND TRIP

Ticket will be sold on December 24, 25 and 31, 1894, and January 1, 1895, limited going to date of sale, and good returning up to and including Jan. 2, 1895.

For tickets, rates, time and general information call on any ticket agent of the above route, or address

C. F. DALY,
General Passenger Agent.

H. C. PARKER,
Traffic Manager.

INDIANAPOLIS, IND.

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder
World's Fair Highest Model and Diploma.

THE AUBURN COURIER

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY.

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, postoffice as second-class matter.

THURSDAY.....DECEMBER 27, 1894

GEN J. C. BLACK has been appointed U. S. district attorney for Illinois and will resign from congress. As he represents the state at large, a new state election may be ordered.

THE legislature this winter will be asked to establish a school for the homeless and destitute children of the state. We believe this would be a wise plan, and better yet, a humane plan. Our legislators should study the matter over.

UNCLE SAM gets quite a revenue out of greenbacks, bonds, postage stamps, etc., that are lost in one way or another. The assistant treasurer in New York has an account of $1,300,000. Many postage stamps are bought up by stamp collectors and this is a saving of so much that is never used or accounted for.

MUNCIE'S republican postmaster is under a cloud and his resignation has been asked for. All through his term he has been the slowest man to make his reports to the Department. Dec. 17, the Department received his last report, which should have been in Sept. 30. They write to him frequently to hurry up, but he pays no attention.

SENATOR TURPIE made a powerful speech last week against the Nicaraugua Canal bill. He don't object to the canal, which is no doubt a very desirable thing. But he objects to the bill, which is too much like the Pacific railroad bill, which built a road for private parties and gave it to them in such a way that it has not been paid for yet.

THE sugar bill came up in the Senate last week for a repeal of the extra duty on refined sugar that republican politicians have said so much against. But every one of their members but three voted against the repeal, and three democratic high tariff men voted with them, making enough to defeat the measure. Democrats should make still another effort to get this odious feature knocked out of our laws.

$10 00 A Day Easy.

I saw that the Telephone patent had expired and I thought what a great seller it would be at a low price. I saw the advertisement of W. P. Harrison & Co., Columbus, O., in your paper. They had just what I wanted—a telephone just like the rich city business men have, and I have been selling them for two months and have made as high as $50 00 per day when I took a large contract, and never less than $5 00 a day, selling the telephones. I sell them outright, there is no rent, no royalty. Everybody wants them. Anyone can put them up, and I believe they are the greatest convenience and the best seller on earth. Anyone can make big money who can sell goods at all. So many young men are out of employment now, I feel it my duty to bring my experience before the world, so that this winter, with times as hard as they may be, money can be made by those who are now sore distressed. Write to the above firm for circulars.

A Female Forger.

The Coffeyville, Kansas, Journal of Dec. 14, throws some light on a young lady who left here in a hurry about two weeks ago. She had been stopping at the Glazier Hotel for awhile and seemed to have plenty of money. She claimed she was here to sue young Charlie Picker for breach of promise. He is a son of Ed. Picker who resides in Colorado, but was brought up by Geo. Picker, his uncle, at Coffeyville. Whether the woman had any hold on young Picker is very doubtful. But telegrams came here from a banker in Iowa to Hartman & Hartman, asking about her, and finally directing that she be held. But about this time she disappeared. The Journal tells the rest:

"Miss Laura Hicks, a former resident of Coffeyville, and well known to our readers, is the subject of sensational articles which appeared recently in several of the leading eastern papers. It appears that when she left here last October, she went to Winterset, Ia., without the knowledge of her mother or sisters, on a visit to an uncle, who is a prosperous citizen of that city. She remained there until about two weeks ago, when she suddenly disappeared, and it was learned that she had forged her uncle's name on the First National bank, of Winterset, for $435 00. Officers were at once sent in pursuit, but failed to locate her. J. T. Wettack, cashier of the First National bank of this city, received a telegram inquiring as to her whereabouts. Mayor Boswell also received a letter of the same nature, but could not furnish the desired information. One day this week Geo. Picker received a letter from a relative in Auburn, Ind., in which it was stated that a Miss Laura Hicks was there, and had created a sensation in the town by proclaiming her intention of instituting proceedings for breach of promise against Charles Picker, a nephew of George Picker. The letter also stated that the girl had plenty of money, and had boasted that she could draw on Coffeyville friends for more when necessary. Mr. Picker at once informed Mr. Wettack of the girl's whereabouts and he in turn immediately wired the information to the authorities in Winterset, and it is very probable that by now the young lady is in durance vile. Her wayward course is a source of great mortification to her relatives in this city, who are very respectable people and highly esteemed by all who know them."

Alaska, with its islands, is said to have a coast line of 25,000 miles, equal in extent to the circumferences of the globe.

The Christmas Bazar.

The Presbyterian ladies old and young (if we may be permitted to call any "old" who are so young and vigorous in good works) have great reason to be proud and thankful over their success. Everything they had, down to about 25 worth, was sold. Of course, they sold everything cheap, for it was nearly all donated and they wished to make it an object to people to deal with them. The "market" was an especially attractive feature, and the pies, doughnuts, cookies, etc., went off like the proverbial "hot cakes." The 5-o'clock dinner drew a large crowd, for the ladies have a reputation as cooks and entertainers. This brought them about $45. The bazar and market will net them about $115. The former belongs to the ladies' aid society of the church, and the latter to the young ladies. It makes a nice total, however, of $160. The young ladies use this to pay on the organ, while the others help pay the pastor's salary, the electric lights, etc. The $700 the young ladies assumed in payment of the organ is now nearly raised. Their management has been a brilliant success.

Married.

At the home of the bride's parents, in Auburn, Dec. 20, 1894, Mr. Henry Funk to Miss Myrtle Smith, the ceremony being by Rev. C. Koch.

About fifty of the near friends and relatives of the contracting parties were present. The wedding march was played by Miss Ida, sister of the bride, and after the ceremony the guests were called to the dining room where a most delicious repast was served. After this a few hours were spent in social enjoyment, including music on the violin and organ by E. Crossly and Miss Ida Smith. The next day followin the wedding a splendid dinner was served by the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred. Funk, at their home.

Mr. Funk is one of our most deserving and respected young men and has been in the employ of Hebel Bros. at their grocery store for several years. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs J. W. Smith, well known and respected citizens of Auburn. She has always been popular with her young friends, and is highly regarded by all. The COURIER and a large circle of friends wish the young couple a happy future.

Obituary.

Alta Valleau was born at Scotteville, Monroe Co., N. Y., August 11, 1851. She departed from life Dec. 7, 1894, aged 43 years, 3 months, 26 days. She removed with her parents to Auburn, DeKalb Co., Ind., in August, 1853. She was married Aug. 19, 1875, to Nelson R. Allman, of Cromwell, Noble Co., Ind. She was the mother of seven children, six of whom survive her. Alta was loved by all who knew her. It may be well said that she was an affectionate, a loving mother and a kind and generous neighbor and ever willing to lend a helping hand. Her many friends longed anxiously for her recovery, but after eleven weeks of suffering she passed away to the spirit land. She will be missed by those who knew her.

Her funeral services were conducted by Rev. E. Scott in the Altona M. P. church. There was a very large attendance, among whom were a large number of mourners and sympathizing friends. The mortal remains were laid to rest in the Union cemetery.

A precious one from us has gone,
A voice we loved is still.
A place is vacant in our home
Which none can ever fill.

Yet we hope again to meet her,
When the day of life has fled;
And we hope with joy to greet her,
Where no farewell tear is shed.

Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly

FOR JANUARY.

Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly for January, just out, is really a holiday number, with regard both to the character of its reading matter and its richness in illustration. The leading article, "St. Andrews and Andrew Lang," by Mrs. Leicester Addis, is a charming account of the university career and literary life of this versatile author, also of the quaint little Scotch city of his Alma Mater, where the now faddish game of golf has been played on its native links ever since the Middle Ages. Francis Smith gives a glimpse of "Miss Gould at Lyndhurst," illustrating the occupations and amusements of an American chatelaine; and Frances Courtenay Baylor contributes three suggestive chapters "On Entertaining." In the way of picturesque travel and illustration, there are "America's Egypt" (Yucatan), by Mme. Le Plongeon; "Finland and the Fins," by Herman Montague Donner; and "A Dash into Pineapple Land," which is southeastern Florida. Lydia Hoyt Farmer contributes an interesting paper upon "Jerusalem in the First Century," and Charlotte McIlvain Moore writes sympathetically of "Old Kentucky Homes." "Chiming Bells," by S. H. Ferris, is a seasonable topic, thoroughly treated; and a full-page engraving of Boutigny's picture of the death of Marshal Lannes at the battle of Essling furnishes the motive for some interesting historical pages about Napoleon and Alexander I. of Russia.

Awarded
Highest Honors—World's Fair.

DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER

MOST PERFECT MADE.

A pure Grape Cream of Tartar Powder. Free from Ammonia, Alum or any other adulterant.

40 YEARS THE STANDARD.

FARMERS BANK.

Capital Stock.—
—$40,000.00.

Transacts a general banking business. Interest paid on time deposits by agreement. Collections receive careful attention. Business solicited.

ALBERT ROBBINS, Cashier.

The Oberlin Glee Club.

Last Friday's Chicago Inter Ocean had a splendid compliment for the Oberlin Glee Club. They sang at the great meeting the night before, at the Young Men's Christian Association Hall. There was a large audience, and the Inter Ocean says they were equal to the best the city ever heard. The Oberlin Glee Club, it said, need not be afraid of competition or criticism anywhere. Auburn is fortunate to get into the circle of large cities that have secured this famous club. On that evening, Jan. 2, arrangements have been made with the Lake Shore road to run a special train from Hillsdale to Auburn and return to accommodate those up the line who desire to attend. This will bring many strangers here to attend the entertainment. Tickets are now on sale, and going rapidly.

CORRESPONDENCE.

WATERLOO.

There is no school this week on account of the holidays.

Master Harold Blair from Laporte, is at his grandfather's for a holiday visit.

Edward Ettinger is home spending his holiday vacation with his wife and baby.

Mrs Sarah Edge arrived in Waterloo on Saturday, from Wanseon, on her way to visit her daughter at Kansas City.

A wedding occured on Christmas. The groom's name is Loren Luce; the bride's name is Blanche Frick, W. O. Butler, officiating.

Mrs. F. W. Willis surprised her four grown sons on Christmas day, by having an excellent dinner prepared and inviting the four corresponding "best girls." The boys knew nothing of the affair until they came home to dinner, and it was a complete and pleasant surprise.

Mr. and Mrs. Dell Locke and Master Leon arrived from Decatur, Monday, to attend Miss Effie Locke's wedding, Tuesday. The members of the Locke family were photographed together, Monday. Mrs. Dell Locke will remain here a few days. Mrs. Donze and Mrs Carter came from Lima, Ohio, to attend the wedding. These ladies are sisters of Mrs. Locke. A young man and his mother, from Pennsylvania, are expected to be in attendance.

The pupils in the High School building, had interesting exercises Friday afternoon, and thus celebrated the Christmas holiday in advance—having a tree loaded with gifts for all. All of the churches observed Christmas eve in song, and recitations, and in a variety of other exercises, the audience room being more or less adorned; the closing feature being the distribution of gifts in various ways. Probably no member of any school, pupil or teacher failed to be remembered; some many times. At the U. B. church, the little ones did exceedingly well, as they usually do. Miss Maxon at the organ seemed to surpass herself. She certainly plays with the understanding and the heart. A duet by Miss Blanche Getz and Miss Blanche Fisher was very good; indeed—excellent, as was also a solo by Miss Fisher. Not having a program at hand names of exercises or persons are not remembered. Finally Santa Claus was at hand, his sleighbells jingling, then stamping off the snow in the hall was heard, and he entered with a basket on his arm, filled full; a heavy grey overcoat with patches of snow here and there, (floss); also had on his high grey hat, showing he came direct from the North. He was masked and wore heavy side whiskers, and created much merriment among the children. Lateness of the hour prohibited a visit to the other churches, but from others, however, we learn that all had some peculiar features of interest and an abundance of gifts everywhere. No indication of hard times on Christmas eve.

BUTLER.

The basket factory has shut down till after the holidays, and the saw mills are stopped till roads get better.

The Lutheran friends have engaged Rev. Mr. Duston, of Middlebury, to preach for them the coming year. Bro. Duston comes well recommended, and he and his family are welcomed to this community.

Tom Edwards and Wm Hiler, who had a saloon row that resulted in Hiler shooting Edwards in the arm, were up before the court last week. The shooter was fined $10 and the shootee $25, as it was found he was most to blame. Banish the saloon and court expenses will be less.

MT HOPE

J. F. Thomas is not able to get out of the house. It is too cold.

See W. G Pugsley for life insurance, and J. F. Thomas for politics.

Charley Kiner's girl lives south of here if anyone should ask about it.

Weather:—Indications are good for two years, for Indiana especially.

A great many false marriages are being reported for so small a place as this.

W. Lutz is doing a big business. Employment for 50 hands. Work, chiefly standing around.

Wanted:—Many old saddles at C. W. Luce's cash grocery, for patching shoes. Good prices paid.

W. G. Pugsley, of this place, started for Chagrin Falls, Ohio, Tuesday last on business. We wish him success.

CORUNNA.

LAST WEEK

The ladies of the M. E. church will have a bazar and supper at Hartman's Hall Thursday evening, Dec. 20.

Al. Harding has opened a shoe repair shop in Gushwa's building, and so far, has all the work he can do. He says it is a good to have two trades. In the winter when he can't plaster, he can cobble; and in summer, when there is little or no cobbling, he can plaster.

Dr. Rudolph received a telegram Saturday night from Chicago that his son Gerry was hurt in the railroad yards at that place. The Doctor left for the metropolis at once, and brought his son home, arriving here Sunday evening. It is not yet known how serious his injuries are.

G. H. YESBERA'S

GREAT SLAUGHTER SALE!

FOR JANUARY.

Commencing Jan. 5, I will make on my entire stock of Ready Made Clothing and Furnishings, a discount of 25 cents on every dollar. Overcoats, Ulsters, Mackintoshes, Men's, Youths' and Children's Clothing.

A CHANCE OF A LIFE TIME.

Improve it! The largest stock in the county to select from; no old goods, but every thing new and fresh, and going at 25 per cent discount. You cannot afford to miss it, for all of our goods are in season, and now is the time you need them. Remember the date,

JAN. 5 to JAN. 31.

Come while we have your size in a Suit or Overcoat. And don't lose track of the fact that our terms are STRICTLY CASH.

Good Cash for Goods, and Good Goods for Cash.

G. H YESBERA,

The Leading Clothier and Furnisher.

RUPTURE

Of Men, Women and Children permanently cured in 30 days, without pain or slightest inconvenience by the Fidelity Method. Every case guaranteed. Patient need not pay a dollar until completely cured. The truss discarded forever. Over 8,000 cases cured in the last five years. Consultation free. Consul

J. B. CASEBEER, M. D.

Their Authorized Physician.

Office opposite Swineford House, Main Street, Auburn, Indiana.

Our Big Store Is One

ROOT & COMPANY FT. WAYNE

Great Holiday Bazaar!

OUR CLOAK ROOM

Is laden with the choicest novelties and latest effects in

CLOAKS, WRAPS,
JACKETS,
SUITS,
FUR GARMENTS

What could be better for a Holiday Gift than one of these?

Feather Boas.

A popular novelty for the neck. An elegant line is shown here in real Ostrich Feathers in Colors and Boas.

Pocket Books and Purses.

In this line we carry an extensive stock. From 5c, 10c, 45c and up to the rich combination purses. Plain and Silver trimmed.

FANS.

Gauze Fans, plain and painted. Silk Fans, 50c up. Feather Fans, all colors, 50c up.

Umbrellas

Are always in demand, for both Ladies and Gentlemen. This is your store for umbrellas.

Gloria Silks, pretty handles, $1,00 $1 25, $1.50, $1.75 and $2 00. Puritan Silk Umbrellas, guaranteed, at $3.50. Warrior Silk Umbrellas, guaranteed, at $4 00.

The new novelty for Gentlemen; sets of umbrellas and canes to match, from $3 00 set up to $25 00.

DOLLS.

We have made great arrangements for the little ones. Our assortment of Dolls from 2c each up, the most extensive in the city.

Onyx Tables,
Banquet Lamps,
Umbrella Stands,
Screens,
Easels,
Fur Rugs.

We call special attention to the many beautiful novelties displayed on first floor. Bohemian ware, single China pieces, Painted ware, Bric-a-Brac, Atomizers, Silver Novelties, Pillows, Elegant Linen Novelties, Etc. Your inspection of this large stock, suitable for holiday gifts, invited.

ROOT & COMPANY.

Low Rate Tickets.

Between all points on the Lake Shore Railway, December 24, 25 and 31, 1894 and January 1, 1895, good returning until January 2.

Greatest on Earth.

James M. Brooks, Washington Ave., St. Louis, Mo., makes affidavit that he suffered from rheumatism for years, until persuaded to try Drummond's Lightning Remedy, and that by its use he has been fully restored. He says the remedy is the greatest on earth. This is high praise, but fully warranted by other miraculous cures. If you want to be cured, send $5 to the Drummond Medicine Co., 48 Maiden Lane, New York, and they will send to your express address, two large bottles of their remedy. This treatment lasts one month, and will cure any ordinary case. Agents wanted. 51 52

B. & O. EXCURSIONS.

CHRISTMAS AND NEW YEAR HOLIDAY EXCURSION RATES

On December 24, 25 and 31, 1894, and January 1, 1895, the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad will sell excursion tickets to and from all stations west of Pittsburg, at very low rates. Tickets will be good for return until January 2, 1895.

For further information, call on or address any B. & O. ticket agent, or L. S. Allen, Ass't Gen'l Pass'r Agent, Chicago, Ill. 52

Visit Friends

During the Holidays by taking advantage of the low rate excursion tickets over the Lake Shore Railway December 24, 25, 31, 1894, and January 1, 1895.

Fort Wayne and Jackson Railroad Company.

The Annual Meeting of the stockholders of The Fort Wayne and Jackson Railroad Company, for the election of Directors and such other business as may be brought before it, will be held on the 25th of January, 1895, 10 a. m., at the office of the Company Jackson, Michigan.

The Transfer Books will close on January 12th and remain closed until January 25th.

52-3 R. G. ROLSTON, Secretary.

Notice of Final Settlement of Estate

Notice is hereby given to all persons interested in the estate of Robert G. Crosier, deceased, to appear in the DeKalb Circuit Court, held at Auburn, Indiana on the 12th day of January, 1895, and show cause, if any, why my Final Settlement Accounts with the estate of said decedent should not be approved; and said heirs and all others interested are notified to then and there make proof of heirship or claim and receive their distributive shares.

Witness our names this twenty-first day of December, 1894.

HARVEY MOODY AND LOUIS J. GENGLER, Executors.

Notice of Final Settlement of Estate.

Notice is hereby given to all persons interested in the estate of Samuel Foltz, deceased, to appear in the DeKalb Circuit Court held at Auburn, Indiana, on the 12th day of January 1895, and show cause, if any, why my final settlement accounts with the estate of said decedent should not be approved; and said heirs and all other persons interested are notified to then and there make proof of heirship or claim and receive their distributive shares.

Witness my name this 15th day of December 1894. SAMUEL M. HIGH, Administrator.

Used Many Years.

Mr. Ira P. Wetmore, a prominent real estate agent of San Angelo, Texas, has used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy in his family for several years as occasion required, and always with perfect success. He says: "I find it a perfect cure for our baby when troubled with colic or dysentery. I now feel that my outfit is not complete without a bottle of this remedy at home or on a trip away from home. For sale by Robbins & McCord. 52

You make no mistake when you take DeWitt's Little Early Risers for biliousness, dyspepsia or headache, because these little pills cure them. Robbins & McCord sell them.

Most people cannot afford to experiment. They want immediate relief. That's why they use One Minute Cough Cure. Sold by Robbins & McCord.

Our Druggists.

Say they are selling more of Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup than any other preparation for coughs, colds, etc., it being cheaper, more pleasant to take and guaranteed to cure. The price is only 25 cents, making it the cheapest reliable cough medicine on the market. Sold by all druggists. 52

The name One Minute Cough Cure suggests a medicine that relieves at once, and quickly cures. Its use proves it. For sale by Robbins & McCord.

A Distressing Accident

Often leads to nervous troubles, and this means a life of misery, untold suffering and premature death, unless cured by vitaline and nervetone, the new and wonderful specific for every form of nervous affection loss of memory, mental depression, lassitude, loss of nerve and brain power, weakness and debility, palpitation, insomnia, hysteria, etc. Some of these nerve troubles speedily lead to insanity and the grave. Vitaline and nervetone, the invention of a famous Scotch chemist, just introduced in America by the Hall Medicine Company, Toledo, Ohio. Druggists sell it. Accept no substitute. Headache, toothache and neuralgia cured in an hour. It never fails. 52

Take a dose of DeWitt's Little Early Risers just for the good they will do you. These little pills are good for indigestion, good for headache, good for liver complaint, good for constipation. They are good. Sold by Robbins & McCord.

We might tell you more about One Minute Cough Cure, but you probably know that it cures a cough. Every one does who has used it. It is a perfect remedy for coughs, colds, hoarseness. It is an especial favorite for children, being pleasant to take and quick in curing. For sale by Robbins & McCord.

L. S. & M. S. R. R.

TIME TABLE—In Effect Nov. 18, 1894.

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

Stations—	Mail.	Exp'ss	Fre'gt
Fort Wayne,	p 11 45 am	4 45 pm	6 40 am
New Era	12 14 pm	5 14	7 27
Auburn Junc.	12 25	5 25	7 38
Auburn	12 29	5 29	8 37
Waterloo	12 41	5 41	9 36
Summit	12 52	5 52	9 45
Steubenville	12 56	5 56	.....
Pleasant Lake	1 08	6 03	10 15*
Angola	1 13	6 14	10 50
Jackson	3 25	8 35	4 20

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Stations—	Freight	Exp'ss	Mail
Jackson dp	6 55 am	11 20 am	6 30 pm
Angola	12 23 pm	2 21 pm	8 51
Pleasant Lake	1 03	2 32	9 01
Steubenville	.....	2 40	9 07
Summit	1 26	2 44	9 11
Waterloo	2 30	3 00	9 34
Auburn	3 00	3 11	9 35
Auburn Junc.	3 14	3 14	9 38
New Era	4 05	3 24	9 50
Fort Wayne	5 25	3 55	10 20

For rates on tickets or freight to all points call on or address E. T. DeLAPP, Agent at Auburn.

Notice to Non-Residents.

State of Indiana, DeKalb Co., ss:

In the DeKalb circuit court, December term, 1894.

Alma S. Durling and Nellie E. Gould are hereby notified that an action has been commenced against them in said court, on account by William H Hill et al, and that the same will be heard and determined on the 2nd day of February, 1895, being the 42nd juridical day of the next term of said court, which commences December 17, 1894.

Witness, the Clerk of said court, this 7th day of December, 1894.

D. D. MOODY, Clerk.

J. W. Barter and C. M. Brown, Atty's. 50-52

PILES! PILES! PILES!

Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment will cure Blind, Bleeding and Itching Piles when all other Ointments have failed. It absorbs the tumors, allays the itching at once, acts as a poultice, gives instant relief. Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment is prepared only for Piles and Itching of the private parts, and nothing else. Every box is warranted. Sold by druggists, or sent by mail on receipt of price, 50c. and $1.00 per box. WILLIAMS MFG. CO., Prop'ts, Cleveland, O. Sold on a guarantee by Mathews & Gerke.

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder
Awarded Gold Medal Midwinter Fair, San Francisco.

A dry goods house for the people who know how to appreciate values.

Bishop & Lackey,

AUBURN, IND.

A dry goods house by the people who know how to make the lowest prices.

THE GREAT QUESTION

Every face at home and every glance at our inviting windows suggest the question—

"What shall I Get or Give for Christmas?"

The answer to the first depends upon the love and liberality of your friends; the second upon your own means and generosity. Let fate and friends look after the get; you look after the give. That's the part most blessed. Remember that little given with love is more than much given because you can. Our place is just now budding with its wealth of solidified happiness. This week it bursts forth into glorious bloom.

SELECT YOUR PRESENTS NOW.

FROM ONE SIDE TO THE OTHER of our great DRESS GOODS department you will find prices have drifted down to the lowest ebb possible A complete and unbroken stock selling for as little as this is a remarkable occurrence.

3,000 Yards go now at 15 cents. You have called them cheap at 25 cents.
1,500 Yards go now at 35 cents. You have called them cheap at 50 cents.
All other Dress Goods at about Half Value.

500 DOZEN CHRISTMAS HANDKERCHIEFS.

Do you know that our 10 cent Handkerchiefs are sold at other stores for 25 cents?

We receive an Immense Line of Holiday Goods this week.

Watch our Window for Novelties.

Do not ask us for credit as we must do a strictly cash business. That's the way we buy goods and we sell them at strictly

CASH PRICES

BISHOP & LACKEY,

AUBURN, INDIANA.

GOLD — WATCHES, RINGS, PENS, CHAINS, CUFF BUTTONS, ETC.

SILVER — RINGS, WATCH POCKETS, BREAD TRAYS, BERRY DISHES, CARD RECEIVERS, TEA SETS, ETC.

Everything in Clocks, Jewelry, Knives, Forks, Spoons and Silverware.

REPAIRING

A SPECIALTY.

D. A. HODGE,

The POPULAR JEWELER.

NATIONAL DETECTIVE BUREAU

96½ E. Market St., Rooms 12, 13, 14 and 15

This Bureau investigates murders, conspiracies, blackmailing, burglaries, thefts, horse and stock stealing, legal evidence in divorce and other family matters, etc. Only experienced and trustworthy detectives employed. Reliable references furnished you from Indianapolis, any State in the Union or any part of Europe. The Superintendent of this Bureau was formerly state Detective Officer for the State of New Jersey, also Chief Detective of the N. Y. O. & W. Railway, late Superintendent World's Secret Detective Service of New York City, and also was Chief of Police in New Jersey, and connected with the Midland Railway Police and Detective Department of England. We have reliable operators located in all parts of the world, and can furnish reliable men on short notice. For further particulars, address

CHAS. AINGE, Supt. National Detective Bureau,

DEPARTMENT A. INDIANAPOLIS, IND.

SHULL'S CASH SHOE STORE

Leather Boots, Rubber Boots, Felt Boots,

Best Line in Auburn

Men's Shoes Men's Shoes — Women's Shoes Women's Shoes — Children's Shoes Children's Shoes

We have never had such a Line to offer before. Don't fail to see them- Prices lower than ever.

THE CASH SHOE STORE

OP. BISHOP & LACKEY'S.

LOCAL NEWS.

Candies at Hidy's. All fresh.

W. B. Campbell went down to Anderson Friday.

Candies, big stock, all fresh, at Hidy's Home Restaurant.

Candy for Christmas at your own price at Neff & Weeks'.

R. H. Weamer and wife, of Bristol, visited the relatives here this week.

Choice candies, mixed nuts, at the Union Bakery of Keeran & Delong. 52

Mrs. Frank Rush and the children are visiting friends at Montpelier, Ohio.

Watches never were so cheap as now. Yesbera the jeweler has some dandies.

If you want an elegant story book for that boy, go and see Robbins & McCord.

A. J. Carmer, east of town has been very sick for six weeks, but is now able to sit up.

Go to Neff & Weeks' and buy a pound of Empress tea and get a doll worth 50 cents free.

Short Stop Headache Powders. No Cure, No Pay. Sold only by Robbins & McCord. 6tf

Hidy, of the Home Restaurant, gave a free dinner Christmas, and it was a splendid one too.

Oranges, apples, nuts, figs, dates, and every thing to please the little folks at Neff & Weeks'.

Orders for cakes, etc, for parties, weddings and social gatherings, solicited, Keeran & Delong.

Old Mrs. King, widow of the late John King, died Sunday morning. The funeral was Monday afternoon.

Call and see our new line of gents collars we have the latest style worn in Paris. Bishop & Lackey.

Teachers and Sunday schools can get extra bargains on candies, oranges, nuts, etc. at Hidy's, for holiday use.

Chick-Chick-Er-Re-Kee is the best chicken food. Try it. For sale at Brandan's grocery North Main street.

Dr. Johnston, dentist, has the new method of filling teeth without pain, as well as painless extraction of teeth.

L. B. Fretz, now of Indianapolis, spent the holidays at home; a part of the time in his old place in the COURIER office.

MARRIED:—At the home of the groom's mother, Dec. 19, 1894, by Rev. J. D. Brosy, William Hull to Laura Rohm.

After January 1, 1895, we close at 7 p. m. standard time, on Tuesday, Wednesday Thursday and Friday nights. Bishop & Lackey. 50-52

The Ashley Times gave its readers a holiday supplement last week. Bro. Strayer is going to keep up with the procession.

MONEY FOUND:—A sum of money was picked up on the streets of Auburn recently. Loser should call on George Gregg and describe property.

Misses Clara and Lucy Otto entertained a number of their friends last evening at their home on North Main street. All report an enjoyable time.

Wm. Ensley, of Keyser, lately received about 2,500 lbs. of new raisins from his vineyard in California, sent by his brother, J. P. Ensley, who resides at Ontario.

Edward Bellamy, the author of "Looking Backward," is to tell in the next issue of The Ladies' Home Journal what he believes a "Christmas in the Year 2000" will be like.

Walker Hollopeter and wife, from Green Center, spent Christmas with Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Dickinson. The families are old neighbors. Mr. H., is studying for the ministry.

MARRIED:—At the home of the bride's parents, Dec. 24, 1894, by Rev. J. D. Brosy, Leonard Walker, of Butler, Ind., to Minnie Schrader. Their future home will be in Butler, Ind.

The Church of God are holding a series of prayer meetings and will probably have a protracted meeting. The regular pastor, Geo. Comp, has been up in La-Grange for five weeks, holding a meeting there.

T. J. Cuppy returned this week from the south, bringing holly, mistletoe and other evergreens for holiday decorations. They also entertained Tuesday, Mrs. Cuppy's sisters, Eliza from Butler and Ida from Chicago.

Harry Hallam made a trip home for the holidays, arriving here Friday eve. He was lately elected commander of the Maccabees at Bryan. The DeKalb boy is always on hand for anything in the line of promotion.

Mrs. Hare and her daughter, Mrs. Yesbera, are visiting the family of Dr. Henry Johnston, at South Bend. Dr. Johnston himself was here Tuesday to see about putting a plate glass front in the building he bought last week.

The Fayette Normal University has an advertisement in this issue. Those who are thinking of attending a Normal or College should not fail to send for catalogue and make a careful study of the excellent features of this school. 27tf

When wild and withering winter winds warp the weary wanderer, his thoughts turn in sweet anticipation to home, wife and Kessler Bros.' Little Salesman.

All diseases of the air passages especially catarrah and chronic, Bronchitis, as well as first stages of consumption can be cured. I am treating these diseases with great success by the use of the latest and most improved medicines and instruments. Dr. W H. Nusbaum, Auburn, Ind. 42tf

BUCKLEN'S ARNICA SALVE.—The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Robbins & McCord.

The churches generally had something for the Sunday school children Christmas eve. At the M. E. church, there was a postoffice, and every little scholar got a "letter." At the Lutheran church was a fine Christmas tree, loaded with gifts, and the children gave recitations, etc. The Presbyterians had a boat, as Santa Claus was unable to use a sleigh when there was no snow. But when the boat landed, it gave out an abundance of gifts for all. The pastor was remembered with a finely carved oak chair, and the various classes and their teachers exchanged valuable presents. Mr. Brosy, of the Lutheran church, received a fine gold watch, while his good wife was made glad with ten dollars cash and a set of silver knives and forks. We could not reach the other churches, but suppose some of them had similar exercises. Auburn's past is are energetic, hard working and earnest men, and it could not be forgotten on occasions like these.

See the news on inside pages.

Oranges at Hidy's just received.

Smoke the K. & B. ten-cent cigar.

Look out for a big stock of holiday goods at Kruger's.

Sugared popcorn at Neff & Weeks'. Do not fail to try them.

Mrs. John Robbins entertained relatives from Garrett Christmas.

Buy your wife one of the lovely opera chains at Yesbera's jewelry store. 50 2

Ice cream by the pint or quart during the holidays at Fischler pharmacy.

Henry West has been on the sick list for a few days, but is out again now.

Get Christmas tree gifts, such as candies, nuts, etc. at Hidy's at low rates.

Unite your feet in matrimony with a pair of those nice shoes at Shull's in Auburn.

There was a large crowd in town Saturday and the Christmas trade appeared to be brisk.

Useful silverwear given away at Neff & Weeks'. This is no lottery, absolutely given away.

Both Bishop & Lackey and Robbins & McCord, are giving Columbian half dollars in change.

Robbie Coe was over from Butler, yesterday, and says all are well and like their new home.

Ralph Thomas came down from Hudson this week. He says their business in the hotel is good.

Beuret is selling a lot of fine stoves cooking and heating at very low prices. Also cooking ranges.

Clyde Willis came over from Waterloo Saturday to meet his brother Fred, coming from Indianapolis for the holidays.

At your Christmas trees and festivals, you need candies, nuts, oranges, etc. etc. Special rates can be secured at Hidy's.

Oliver Pipes has a situation as brakeman on the B. & O. and is now located at Garrett. We hope to hear of his success.

Mrs. Dills was called Wednesday noon to the bedside of her mother at St. Charles, Mich. She was reported as dying.

What's the matter with buying one of those gold rings down there at Yesbera's jewelry? His goods are just what he says they are. 50-2

Joe Loveland, now located at Fremont, Ohio, called on us yesterday. He was onta visit to his sister Mary, now Mrs. Frank Jones.

Mr. Hidy has had a big trade in oranges lately. He sold 4,130 last week. Placed side by side they would reach a fourth of a mile.

Robbins & McCord the popular druggists have secured a supply of the World's Fair Columbian Half Dollars, and are now passing them out in change to their customers.

Having a few articles we do not care to make a public sale we will sell them at a very low price such as stoves, bedsteads tables, stands, refrigerator clothespress etc. See J. B. Casebeer or wife at residence.

The hotels had extra good bills of fare Tuesday. At the Swineford there was venison and other game. At the Glazier, they had at supper a fine roast pig which was dressed for them by Freeman Hensinger.

There came near being an accident at Mt. Olivet church, Tuesday evening. They had a big Ferris wheel and this caught fire. A few had their hands burned putting it out, but only a few gifts were injured.

Samuel Geisinger, an old resident of this county, died last Friday and was buried here on Sunday. He came to this county, we believe, in 1840. Lacking a part of the facts needed, we wait till next week for the obituary.

INSURANCE AGENCY:—People desiring good insurance should remember that Geo. Lanning has an office at the Davis Harware store, and works some of the very best companies in the country. Good farm risks taken. Call on him. 32tf

They said he was insane to steal cigars in broad daylight, but when it was found they were Kessler Bros.' Bill Heads no one questioned his sound judgment.

John Skilling came over from Garrett on his wheel Saturday afternoon, making the 5 mile run in 35 minutes in spite of December roads. He is at present employed as clerk and shorthand writer in the law office of Myers & Crumbaker at Garrett.

Sheffer's meat market showed an abundance of fowl and wild game at Christmas, including venison, bear meat, jack rabbits from the west, ducks and quail, besides oysters in the shell, etc. And hotels served their guests with wild meats and game.

As will be seen by a notice in this issue, the Fret National Bank of Auburn has availed itself of the privilege the banking law gives it, of extending the length of its charter twenty years This brings it down into the coming century, to Dec. 19, 1914.

Dr. Swarts went to Butler last week and assisted Dr Shoemaker to remove the breast from a lady who resides in Stafford township. The entire organ was removed, as the disease had affected every part. The operation was very successful and at last accounts the lady was doing well.

Carnahan & Simons, our stockdealers, on Wednesday of last week, made the first shipment of stock from the new stock yards of the Lake Shore road here They sent out a carload of hogs. They say the new arrangements are very satisfactory and the new scales are perfect, giving satisfaction to all parties.

The Ashley Times has this good word to say for one of Auburn's most popular firms: "Will Kessler, of Kessler Bros, cigar manufacturers, of Auburn, made his regular visit to his customers in Ashley to-day. They practically control the cigar trade of Ashley, as we presume 75 per cent of the cigars sold are of their make."

Stella Merica is back from Chicago for a vacation, Walter Penfield from Lima, his sister Blanche from Academie, Will Swarts from the Medical School at Cincinnati, Ira Thrush and Charles Hague from Purdue, Pearl Kelley from Westminster and Lucy Otto from Indianapolis. Frances Otto is also at home, but we are told will go soon to Huntington, where she has a position as teacher.

Geo. and Orva Weeks reached home this week to spend the holiday season with their people here. George is still in Indianapolis, where he is running a job office. Orva has been for some time at Valparaiso perfecting himself in shorthand, as he intends to make newspaper work and reporting his profession. He already has an engagement on the paper controlled by his uncle, Col. Lounsbury, at Fargo, No. Dakota, and will go there as soon as the holidays are over.

Try Neff & Weeks' for holiday goods.

Oranges from 15 to 25 cents a dozen at Hidy's.

Violins, banjos guitars harmonicas etc. at Yesbera's jewelry store. 40 2

Jacob Stamets has gone for a holiday visit with his brother, at Urbana, Ohio.

We will serve ice cream soda through the holidays. John Fischler & Son.

Vina Cool came up from Logansport to spend the holidays with her young friends here.

T. R. Marshall, of Columbia City, was here last Thursday, attending to some matters in court.

Cakes! Cakes!! Cakes!!! Fancy cakes, Layer cakes, Plum cakes, and numerous other cakes, at Keeran & DeLong's. 52

I heard your husband say he wanted a good watch chain and a pair of cuff buttons for Christmas. Yesbera the jeweler has them. 50 2

You don't have to go outside to smoke; you need no poultice on your neck to get a good "draw," nor anything to "kill the taste" when through smoking a Receipt.

For rheumatism I have found nothing equal to Chamberlain's Pain Balm. It relieves the pain as soon as applied J. W. Young. West Liberty, W. F. The prompt relief it affords is alone worth many times the cost, 50 cents. Its continued use will effect a permanent cure. For sale by Robbins & McCord. 52

Mr Killian, of whose romantic marriage we spoke a week or two ago, united with his wife to make a parting present to the Presbyterian church before they went to their home in Dallas, Texas. Each bought a nice turkey and gave it to the ladies at the bazar market, and the birds were sold on sight, thus adding to the net proceeds of the undertaking.

Rev. Charles Oswald spent Sunday in Auburn with the family of C. E Emanuel, he being Mrs. Emanuel's brother. He finishes his course at McCormick Theological Seminary at Chicago this year and will then enter the ministry. He is a young man of great promise and ability and will no doubt succeed in his chosen life work.

D. Z Hoffman last week showed us a copy of a Gettysburg, Pa., newspaper, a paper that had been taken more or less by his family for a generation or so It is now 77 years old, and is at present published by the Stahle Brothers, whose father founded the paper. So that, for all these years, the father and sons have controlled the paper.

S. H. Long and daughter Ida have have been here visiting the old friends and neighbors a week or two, and the latter may remain some time. Their home is at Benzonia, Mich, and several other DeKalb families, including that of Geo. Draggoo, are located near them. Mr. Long says all are prospering to a reasonable degree. He returns about New Years day.

Mr. Harrison and Mr. Teeters have been to Waterloo, Angola and Garrett and have in each place sold large numbers of tickets for the coming musical event—the Oberlin Glee Club. At Waterloo they sold 43, Will Leas alone taking half a dozen. The special trains from Hillsdale will bring many from that place and Angola, for lovers of music feel that this is the chance of a lifetime Our people should feel proud that Auburn is one of the circle of cities at which the Club stops, as all of them are large, including Chicago.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

The C. L. S. C. will meet Saturday afternoon, with Mrs. M. Dewitt.

The prayermeeting committee of the Young People's Society of the Lutheran church will meet Friday evening, with Miss Stonebraker.

A "Box Social" will be given at the home of Miss Guy Simons, next Monday evening, by the Y. P. S. C. E, of the Lutheran church.

The Auburn Rifles.

Company K of the Auburn Rifles has now the names of 67 members for the new organization. This includes the veterans and new recruits, and is three higher than required by law. We are more than pleased to hear this, for it has been apparent all the time that we have plenty of young men well fitted for military service to fill the company up to the highest point. As we said three years ago, a good company is something for the community to be proud of, while a poorly managed company is of no earthly use to anybody. We are proud to be able to say that ours is of the best, and that no company in the state stands higher. We feel like complimenting Capt. Kuhlman and his officers and men on their honorable record and their brilliant prospects for the future.

Dr. Parkhurst and Women.

Dr. Parkhurst has entered into a contract with the Ladies' Home Journal by which he will practically become a regular editorial contributor to that magazine for some time. The great New York preacher says that he has for a long time past been desirous of saying some very necessary things to women, and he now announces that he will say them through these articles. He will take up all the social, moral and equality questions which are so uppermost in the minds of women to-day. Dr. Parkhurst will begin this work at once, the first article appearing in the next issue of the Journal.

Cleanable Collars and Cuffs.

"Celluloid" collars and cuffs are one of the greatest blessings that was ever brought to mankind by the genii of invention, especially the man whose occupation demands that he wear his Sunday clothes every day, as Bill Nye puts it. A daily change of linen runs into a considerable laundry bill in the course of a year. "Celluloid" makes it possible to add this item to the year's savings. Many men when buying waterproof collars and cuffs make the mistake of believing that it's all the same so long as they are called "celluloid." This is a grevious error The genuine "Celluloid" collars and cuffs are peculiarly made, being in reality a linen collar or cuff covered on both sides with pure waterproof "Celluloid." This prevents cracking, and increases the durability of the article. When soiled, it can be wiped off with a damp cloth and made to look equally as well as the most skillfully laundered linen. All dissatisfaction with "celluloid" collars and cuffs can be avoided by looking for the trade mark, "Celluloid" stamped on the inside of every piece.

GREAT REDUCTION ON MILLINERY! AT COWAN SISTERS'

BEGINNING

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 15.

This is not upon damaged goods, bought under price, but Every Article Offered is GOOD, SEASONABLE and STYLISH, and will be sold at such LOW PRICES as were Never Before Quoted.

We have a Large Stock which must be CUT DOWN within the next twenty days.

It's the PRICES that will TALK

Hats worth $1.65 and $1.85 for 87c. and 99c.
Hats worth 75c. and $1 00 for 39c. and 48c.
Children's caps, hoods and bonnets, fancy feathers, birds and pins at correspondingly low prices.

TRIMMED HATS at LESS THAN COST.

Come early and get the Cream of the Goods.

COWAN SISTERS

AUBURN, INDIANA.

DON'T ! ! ! !

Buy a dollar's worth of goods until you have seen

Fred J. Yesbera's

ELEGANT STOCK OF

WATCHES, CLOCKS and JEWELRY.

He has the Nicest Goods in Town for Xmas Presents, at Prices that BEAT THE WORLD

MERRY CHRISTMAS and a HAPPY NEW YEAR.

OLDS BROS.

5 5 5 5 5 5 5 5 5 5 5 5 5 10 10 10
10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 5 5 5 5 5

ALWAYS BRING THIS CARD and have your cash purchases recorded. When they reach $25.00 you will be presented with one of the articles mentioned below.

The Presents are on exhibition at our store.

When one card is canceled another will be issued.

IRA BRANDON

DEALER IN

GROCERIES, PROVISIONS,

North Main Street, AUBURN, IND

A Beautiful Line of Silverware.

10 10 75 75 75 75 75 75 75 75 75 75 75 75 20 20
20 20 20 20 20 20 20 20 20 20 20 20 20 20 20 20

DR. WILLIAMS' KIDNEY PILLS

A remedy that has no equal in diseases of the Kidneys and Urinary Organs. Have you neglected your kidneys? Have you overworked your nervous system and caused trouble with your kidneys and liver? Have you pains in the loins, side, back, loins and bladder? Have you a flabby appearance of the face, especially under the eyes? Too frequent desire to pass urine? No matter what the cause, we know Dr. Williams' Kidney Pills will cure you. Imparts new life to the diseased organs, tones up the whole system and makes a new man of you. Mailed on receipt of price, $1.00 per box.

WILLIAMS M'F'G CO., Props., Cleveland, O.
Sold by FISCHLER & SON, Auburn. 1y20

Reduced Rates for Holidays.

On December 24, 25 and 31, 1894, and January 1, 1895, the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern Railway will sell reduced rate excursion tickets between all points on its line, good to return until January 2, 1895.

I. O. BUCHTEL, Homœopathic Physician and Surgeon.

Special attention given to chronic and obscure cases and catarrhal diseases of the nose, throat and lungs; also to diseases peculiar to women and children.

Office and residence over Smith & Madden's marble works, Auburn, Ind. Office apart from residence and private. All calls attended to promptly, night or day.

Cæsar's Ghost!

No use. I shall die with this rheumatism; have tried everything. Hold, there, not everything. The new remedy, infallible Scotch cure, just introduced in America, cures. A fair trial will convince you. Ask your druggist for it, and accept no substitute. Prepared only by the Hall Medicine company, Toledo, Ohio. 8

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNS, - - PUBLISHER.

The Sultan has appointed a Lexow committee to sit on the Armenian outrages. But where is the Parkhurst?

That the Sultan has forbidden certain papers to enter his dominions, shows that while the Turk may be unspeakable he must read.

The California wine syndicate which is trying to bring about a combination to raise the price of the product of the vineyards, would be better employed in raising the quality.

In Scotland, as late as the sixteenth century, licenses for dueling were granted by the crown. In fact, it formed a source of revenue. Death in a duel without license was murder. The first attempt to repress duelling in England is said to have been made in 1713.

A Smith's College girl who believes in Christian science said that she could no longer attend the lectures on hygiene, as the theories advanced there violated her religious belief. We may expect to have Weary Waggles and his friends elevate their objection to cold water and soap into a scruple.

John Burns says he is astonished to see so many churches in the rich residential section of New York. If Mr. Burns expected to find the churches in the poorer quarters of the city or the tenement-house district he must, indeed, be ignorant of the latter-day policy of most of the American clergy.

The world is full of people who live beyond their means, and from year to year some one pays a portion of their rent, grocery, dry goods, and all other bills. They are civilized barbarians, who forage in civilization, and they are found in all grades of society. The causes vary, but the principal one is the attempt to keep up appearances. The misery that comes upon people because of their living beyond their means is enormous.

War is often a great civilizer, and the present struggle in the Orient is destined to demonstrate the fact. The ease and rapidity with which Japan has almost threatened the existence of the Chinese empire must impress upon the Pekin government the superiority of modern ideas and modern methods. Japan has been absorbing the teachings of Western civilization for a quarter of a century, and China has been repelling them. The result is that Japan is now the master of the East, and the most ancient of empires, as well as the most populous, is at her feet.

They say that wrinkles are only incrusted smiles; that a dream of fair women is a sealskin coat; that a rather pleasant ascent is rising to distinction; that friends who go up in a balloon should never fall out; that a horse can travel a mile without moving more than four feet; that the happiest women, like the happiest nations, have no history; that if men were true to their first love, as stage heroes, novels and women demand that they should be, every man would marry the cook who made his little cakes when he was a little boy.

Investigation of the Chicago bake shops by agents of the Civic Federation discloses a pitiable and dangerous state in that trade. Many small establishments were found located in cellars and under sidewalks, the kneading being done by unclean men and boys and the baking process being carried on in an atmosphere rife with sewer gas. Of course the toxic vapors affected the moist dough to a greater or less degree and carried some poison, as well as some dirt, to the stomachs of consumers of bread produced under conditions so revolting. The city health department should act promptly in requiring all these places to conform forthwith to sanitary ordinances. Foul bread is a prolific agent of serious cold weather disorders.

Some "Smithsonian professor," described as "learned," has been giving to a Washington Star reporter his round and general denial of a number of legendary stories which he calls history," and upon the recognized inaccuracy or falsity of many such stories he bases an objection to all history as only a "universally accepted fable." Some criticism of history is evidently as bad as some history. One of the things this professor says is, "There never was any foundation in fact for the yarns about Pocahontas and John Smith." How does this professor know? Captain Smith, in one of his predatory expeditions into the Indian country, came into collision with the Indians in the marshes of the Chickahominy River. Several of his comrades were killed, and he, with others, was taken and carried before the chief, Powhatan, and arrangements were made to beat out his brains. Smith himself tells all this story in his own narrative. He may have colored it a little as to the romantic episode of the Princess; but it is absurd for any professor to pretend to know absolutely that he did this.

But a few hours before the young Czar, Nicholas II., led the Princess Alix to the altar at St. Petersburg, a thousand or more of his fellow-countrymen assembled in Chicago were making an eloquent plea on behalf of freedom for Russia. The coincidence is not lacking in significance as an indication of what confronts the young monarch in the hour of his accession to power. Russia is hoping, as she has always hoped whenever there was a change of rulers, for deliverance from her oppression. The earnest pleas offered to Nicholas in the Chicago gathering show but faintly how eagerly all Russians, both at home and in exile, have their eyes turned toward the new monarch. The world will watch with keen interest to see whether Nicholas means to grasp any of the extraordinary opportunities which are now within his reach. What the people of Russia ask is something resembling constitutional government—some means of placing a check upon the reckless and tyrannical use of despotic power. The belief that sooner or later Russia must abandon her present barbaric governing system for one more in accordance with civilization is almost universal. The opportunity which Nicholas has is nothing less than the beginning of the policy that is eventually to work this reform. There is deplorably little reason for thinking that he will avail himself of his chance. Though young enough to be fairly in the movements of a progressive age, he is hampered in many ways and unlike the Kaiser, he does not seem capable of daring strokes of policy or diplomacy. Apparently he is not the kind of man to undertake a revolutionary policy, even though the attempt were sure of placing his name in history along with that of the world's famous monarchs. But if this young man were a man of the right stuff and fiber what fame might he not achieve!

LINE BETWEEN DAY AND NIGHT.

A Verdict for $25,000 Based Upon the Evidence of Astronomers.

The exact time at which darkness gives place to dawn—the dividing line between day and night—was legally determined, and a verdict for $25,000 given on the decision. In the court of common pleas in Philadelphia recently, says the New York Sun, A young woman was knocked down by a locomotive on the Reading Road while she was walking over a crossing at Norristown at 6:30 o'clock in the morning of Feb. 14, 1893. The engine did not display a light, nor did it signal with whistle or bell. The company claimed that it was not negligent, because at that hour dawn was breaking and no light was needed, and the entire case rested on the question whether or not it was daylight when the accident occurred.

The sun rose on that day of the accident at 6:54 o'clock. Several astronomers and other experts testified that half an hour before sunrise it is as dark as at any time of the night. From that time until sunrise light comes so slowly the point of half light is reached only seven minutes before sunrise. During the last seven minutes before sun-up light comes very rapidly, until the full day breaks. The plaintiff's lawyer claimed, therefore, that at the time of the accident, twenty-four minutes before sunrise, it was pitch dark. The jury rendered a verdict for $25,000 in her favor.

An Automatic Fire Extinguisher.

A new method of extinguishing fires by means of an automatic chemical process is proposed, and tests have been made in which the inventor claims to have proved the value of his device. He argues that if the oxygen can be dispelled from the atmosphere combustion will be arrested and the fire will immediately die out. An insulated wire is run in the ceiling of a room and connected to a thermostat. When the temperature of the room rises to a certain point above the normal, say 105 degrees Fahrenheit, an alarm bell is sounded and the wire is parted. This sets free a number of weights arranged at set intervals, which fall on small vials of chemically prepared solution. This disengages a gas that forces oxygen from the room through valves fixed for the purpose. As soon as the oxygen is forced out the valves swing back into place and the room becomes airtight. The fire is extinguished at once, but twenty minutes is allowed before pure air is admitted, and the room can be entered. The inventor's idea is to connect the wires running to the various apartments in a large building in the general office, so that when the alarm is sounded the fire is instantly located. A special arrangement is also provided by which all windows that might be opened at the outbreak of a fire are immediately closed when the thermostat indicator reaches the warming point.

Swamp Diseases Among Cattle.

In turning animals into swamps to browse it must not be forgotten that marsh gases abound there, and other combinations of carbonic acid and hydrogen, that are poisonous and productive of diseases, of which the common one at this season, known as black quarter, of cattle, is the most frequent are especially the result of the impure emanations from the land and contents of the water, charged with decomposing organic matters of many kinds. The innumerable offensive germs that exist in the waters of the swamps, and that rise in the air and are breathed, render such pasture as this most dangerous to the cows, which, by a well-known physiological result of their condition of milking, they themselves escape, but those who use the milk feel the full effect. It may be considered a cheap way of feeding the stock, but really it is a most costly one.

A Musicians' Exchange.

The Rue des Petits Carreaux, which intersects the old part of Paris, has been for ages an exchange where performers and singers of all kinds assemble in the open air to meet managers. Every Sunday, between 8 and 10 a. m., the place is crowded, and before Christmas, New Year's Day and other festivals is almost impassable. Every sort of musician—long-haired, skinny, fat, in broad flapped or ancient pot-hats—moves about, each with a green or a black bag in which is an instrument. When the hirer finds his man they adjourn to a wine shop and fix the price. A first fiddle or cornet player gets 12 to 15 francs an evening; flutes and clarinets less, say 9 to 13 francs a night; a drummer 7 to 9 francs. Lately an enterprising carpenter has started an "office for artists of all instruments," which threatens to revolutionize the business.

Narrow Escape.

Patrick, coming into a street car, found only one vacant seat and promptly took it.

"It's looky I came when I did," said he.

"That's so, Pat," answered some one.

"Bekase," he went on, "if I was comin' a sicond later, I'd be afther havin' crowdhed mesilf out of me sate!"

Their Ancient Name.

Biggons were caps much resembling the pointed nightcap seen in comic pictures. They were worn in France in the fifteenth century by gentlemen when walking or traveling.

The more disagreeable the weather is, the more enthusiastic men are to go hunting.

FRIENDS OF A TRUST.

REPUBLICAN SENATORS VOTE FOR SUGAR MONOPOLY.

Combination of the Republicans with the Sugar-Trust Democrats—Protectionists Are Inconsistent—The Income Tax Must Stand.

Shown by the Record.

What will our Republican friends say now about the attitude of their party in the Senate toward the discriminating duty of 1-10 of a cent a pound on sugar from Germany and the trust's protective differential of ⅛ of a cent on sugar that has been refined?

We have repeatedly directed attention to the fact, which is admitted by prominent Republican journals, that the Republicans of the Senate, under the leadership of Mr. Aldrich, were in alliance with Mr. Gorman and his group of sugar trust Democrats at the last session, and that the alliance has continued to exist since the beginning of the present session, the purpose of it being to prevent, in the interest of the sugar trust, the removal of these two duties.

The repeal of the discriminating duty and the trust's differential was the question upon which a vote was taken on Wednesday. The motion was to take up for discussion and action the pending bill, which repeals these duties, but leaves untouched the fundamental ad valorem duty of 40 per cent. on all sugars, this duty of 40 per cent. being the one which produces revenue.

The plans of the combination of Republicans and sugar trust Democrats had been perfected on the preceding day and on the floor of the Senate. After Mr. Gorman had sought unsuccessfully to dissuade Mr. Gray and a majority on his side of the chamber from their purpose, he went over to the Republican side, and there, in consultation with Mr. Aldrich, Mr. Allison, and other Republican leaders in the alliance, arranged the scheme of defense.

The motion was Mr. Gray's that the Senate should take up and consider the sugar bill, which had been reported from the Committee on Finance. Here is the vote:

AFFIRMATIVE.

Bate,	Jarvis,
Berry,	McLaurin,
Blackburn,	McPherson,
Caffery,	Mills,
Cockrell,	Palmer,
Coke,	Pasco,
Faulkner,	Pugh,
George,	Vest,
Gray,	Vilas,
Harris,	Voorhees,
Hill,	Walsh—23.
Hunton,

NEGATIVE.

Aldrich,	Lodge,
Allen,	McMillan,
Allison,	Manderson,
Blanchard,	Martin,
Cullom,	Mitchell, (Oregon),
Dolph,	Morrill,
Dubois,	Peffer,
Frye,	Perkins,
Gallinger,	Platt,
Hansbrough,	Power,
Hawley,	Quay,
Higgins,	Roach,
Hoar,	Teller—27.
Kyle,

Every Republican present either voted against taking up the bill or was paired against the motion.

Those who are recorded as against the motion are 21 Republicans, 3 Democrats (Blanchard, Martin and Roach), and 3 Populists.

Those who are recorded in favor of the motion are 23 Democrats.

The Republicans, or even only a few of them, by voting against the trust with these twenty-three Democrats, could have caused the bill to be taken up and could have pased it. They refused to use their power in this way because they were in alliance with Gorman for the benefit of the trust.

Hereafter, when it shall appear that our export trade with Germany in provisions, grain, and other products has suffered great injury by reason of German retaliation provoked by the exaction of the discriminating duty, the people will be told by Republican journals and Republican politicians that Democratic regard for the interests of the sugar trust has been the cause of this injury. The truth is, however, that now, after the retaliatory policy of Germany has been disclosed and the President has urged Congress to repeal this duty, the Republican party has said by its votes in the Senate that the duty must be retained. By the same votes the Republican party has said that the trust's differential, which is worth from $3,000,000 to $4,000,000 per annum to that organization, must stand. The official record has been made, and it is plain enough.—New York Times.

A Useful Reform Club Pamphlet.

The tariff reform committee of the Tariff Reform Club of New York have published a fifty-six page pamphlet which compares item by item the tariff of 1883, the McKinley tariff, and the tariff of 1894.

In the most compact form possible is given not only the exact duty (specific, ad valorem or compound) on each item in each tariff bill, but also the ad valorem equivalents of all duties.

As every one familiar with tariff legislation knows, it is a great and difficult piece of work to obtain the equivalent ad valorem duties on each and every item in three different tariff bills and to place them side by side in convenient form for comparison and reference; but the Reform Club comparison accomplishes this. The comparison extends to the general tariff provisions, and to reciprocity, drawbacks, prohibitions and sugar bounty clauses. The principal internal revenue taxes of each bill are also brought together in convenient form.

This pamphlet can be obtained from the Reform Club at 52 Williams street, New York. The price is 25 cents.

Higher Duties on Cattle.

Mr. Broderick, of Kansas, has introduced a bill in the House for the restoration of the McKinley tariff specific duty of $10 per head on cattle over a year old. The present ad valorem duty, equivalent to about $2 per head, is insufficient to prevent the importation of Mexican cattle purchased in that country for from $2 to $4 per head. It is also alleged as a reason for the restoration of a prohibitory duty that Mexican cattle are diseased. It is hardly to be doubted that the object of keeping cheap beef out of the country is to enable the great beef monopolists to maintain their exorbitant prices. The danger from imported disease might be guarded against by quarantine restriction. People who eat beefsteak will not look favorably upon any attempt to bar out of the market a cheap source of supply.—Philadelphia Record.

Inconsistent Protectionists.

The loudest shouters for McKinleyism in this country are making the greatest ado about the discriminating tariff legislation in Germany, which is intended to shut out American farm products and compel the unfortunate German people to patronize "the home market."

The McKinleyites in this country ought to fall down and worship the German statesmen for doing this thing. The McKinley bill was chiefly composed of prohibitive tariff duties. If this was a God-like and a righteous act in this country, it is none the less so in Germany.

But it is neither in neither case. It is plain, simple robbery of the many for the benefit of the few on both sides of the ocean and in both countries. It is totally indefensible, and a disgrace to the civilization of the nineteenth century.

The underpaid and underfed masses of Germany are now being "blessed" with a McKinley tariff system that shuts out the cheap and plenteous and wholesome food of America that the Agrarians over there may make money out of the gnawing pangs of their hunger.

It is accompanied with all the concomitants of the McKinley bill. The wages of the workmen in the most highly protected industries are being reduced. The hog and cattle raiser in Germany, now that American meats are barred, is reducing the wages of his swineherds and cowherds, because he no longer fears competition.

The mutterings of discontent among a people deprived of the opportunity to buy cheap meat and cheap bread, because of unwise and semi-barbarous legislation, have been growing louder and louder for years. The latest aggravation of the policy will precipitate a climax when least expected.

We notice that the Republican papers suggest that the way to bring Germany to terms is to put a prohibitory tariff on German products. Well, hardly. Let the selfish statesmen over there build the McKinley wall till it falls on and crushes them. Reprisal is not statesmanship. Rather let us get rid of the remnants of McKinleyism, temporarily saved by the power of confederated wealth and monoply. We can even begin to plant the flowers of forgiveness on the grave of the monster.—Columbus (Ohio) Call.

At Your Peril.

There is a unanimous demand among the representative organs of confederated and brutally selfish wealth to repeal the income tax, or failing that, withhold the necessary appropriations to carry it into effect.

The appropriation will pass the House readily, as the Democratic majority is large there. But in the Senate there is but one Democratic majority, and on this question that is uncertain. Then the Republican leaders will doubtless resort to obstructive tactics, as they did for more than five months on the tariff bill, and thus send it over the 4th of March.

All we have to say to Senators and Representatives of all parties is this: Repeal the income tax or cripple it at your peril. The plain, honest, hard-working millions of this country have made up their minds that the wealth of this country shall pay its share of taxes.

It may be that the strabismus of utter selfishness will lead the millionaires into the jaws of the enraged lion. From their lofty pedestals they do not see beyond their noses. People down here on the level of human nature understand the situation much better.—Columbus (O.) Call.

To Bring Back Our Commerce.

For many years iron and steel ships could be built cheaper in British than in American yards, but now it is known that the difference is trifling so far as cost of material is concerned, while the difference in wages is fully compensated for by superior labor-saving methods and appliances employed in American yards.

There is but little doubt that under the stimulus of healthy competition supplied by the admission of foreign-built ships to an American registry this country would soon rival Great Britain in the building of ships. But be that as it may, there is no doubt whatever that we could make a far more respectable showing in the ocean carrying trade with free ships.—Chicago Herald.

The People Will Fix It.

The Grocers and Importers' Exchange wishes the tariff question "referred to a commission of men posted on political economy." Expert knowledge counts for something in such matters, but, after all, the plain people of the country appear to have become fairly well posted by the lessons of experience. It didn't take them long to kick against McKinleyism, and it hasn't taken them long to learn to like tariff reform so well that Republicans are now the most zealous clamorers against any disturbance of the new system.

A Trust Senate.

The Senate, having been at great pains when the tariff bill was under consideration to mold it into a shape as satisfactory as possible to the sugar trust, has now been consistent with itself in refusing to take up the bill for the repeal of the differential duty on refined sugar. That duty will stand as a landmark of the vicious principle of protection until wiser, abler, and better men shall be in the majority in the Senate of the United States.—Philadelphia Record.

Protection in Germany.

Yesterday for the first time since the adoption of the new American tariff the sugar question as it affects Germany and the United States was discussed at length in the German Reichstag. A new commercial treaty with this country was suggested, and it is not improbable that it will follow in view of the unwillingness of the German Government to offend its landholding nobility by abolishing the sugar bounties.—New York World, Dec. 15, 1894.

House of Commons.

The present House of Commons provides seats for only 430 of the 670 members.

HUSTLING HOOSIERS.

ITEMS GATHERED FROM OVER THE STATE.

An Interesting Summary of the More Important Doings of Our Neighbors—Weddings and Deaths—Crimes, Casualties, and General Indiana News Notes.

Charles E. Everett.

Among the rising politicians of this State is Mr. Charles E. Everett, of Fort Wayne, Chairman of the Allen County Republican Central Committee, a young man whose indomitable enery, indefatiguable zeal and practical intelligence have attracted the attention of leaders all over the State. Mr. Everett belongs to an entirely new political school. He brings to the work of his office as party chairman, the same methods that have crowned his business career with marked success. He is a broad-minded, astute, far-seeing, intreped but scrupulously honest leader. He is a strong and relentless enemy to the Democratic party as an organization, while he holds the warm personal esteem and friendship of thousands of individual Democrats who know him as a man of his word, and always worthy of confidence. He is absolutely above little petty bickerings in his own party, and he counsels and secures harmony in the ranks by directing attention to the common enemy in front. So wise, skillful, and altogether effective was the campaign conducted in Allen County by Mr. Everett, that the usual Democratic majority of nearly 5,000 was reduced to a few hundred and there was such a general feeling of panic among the Democratic hominees, that some of them actually conceded their defeat, although the country districts, the last to be heard from, pulled all the ticket through by safe majorities. Mr. Everett is by all odds the most systematic in his methods of any leader the Republicans of Allen County have ever had. He knew, before election, the name of every voter in the county, the place of residence, his usual political affiliations, and as near as human knowledge could, he knew how every man would vote. He predicted the election of Congressman Leighty by over 2,000 plurality, at a time when old prognosticators for the metropolitan press were conceding the district to McNagny by a reduced majority. Members of the State Central Committee refused to believe that the Twelfth district could possibly be carried, when Mr. Everett was assuring them from data carefully compiled by him that the district was absolutely safe.

CHARLES E. EVERETT.

The poll books in his office, compilled under his direction, are characterized by the most perfect system ever employed for the purpose, and the revelations they made of democratic defection before the vote was taken were amply borne out by the returns.

It is not surprising, in view of his record, here merely outlined, that attention should be attracted toward Mr. Everett as a State leader, and hardly had the returns been received and their analysis been commenced, before suggestions were heard from all over the State that this young man embodied the qualification essential to lead the party to victory in 1896. His name is now frequently spoken of in connection with the gubernatorial nomination, and the man who defeats him in the next State Convention, will need to be active and strong.

Minor State Items.

ZIONVILLE is undergoing a temperance revival.

A YOUNG Frankfort woman is learning the undertaking business.

JEFFERSONVILLE proposes to pave her streets with vitrified brick.

FRANKFORT has secured a big tin plate factory employing 300 hands.

A VERY fine deposit of glass sand has been found on a farm near Anderson.

J. F. WILD, Anderson capitalist, will build an $80,000 opera house in that city.

HOG CHOLERA is seriously interfering with the pork crop in Fountain County.

MISCHIEVOUS Goshen boys pass away the time breaking the glass fronts of fire alarm boxes.

WHILE WM. KING, 18, was hunting near Jeffersonville, his gun exploded and a fragment of the barrel was imbedded in his forehead. Will die.

AT Boston, Ind., Miss Eva Dooley had both legs amputated at the knee. The amputation was made necessary by a poisoned condition of her limbs, which resulted from wearing red stockings. Her recovery is doubtful.

MICHIGAN CITY papers say that that town's possession of the penitentiary has its drawbacks. The worst class of criminals locate in that city after their discharge, and become responsible for much of the lawessness committed there.

CHARLES MOORE, 80, filed suit in the Monroe County court, for divorce from his wife Amanda, aged 64. They were married on Thanksgiving Day. The couple were lovers in youth but married other companions. Their consorts died and they met again and were married. After the ceremony, which was performed in Kokomo, Moore went to his home in Monroe County, his wife refused to follow him and he would not go to Kokomo. His suit for divorce was brought to settle it.

SAMUEL CHRISTY, cashier of the Citizen's National Bank, Greensburg, fell dead. Heart failure.

THE Western Indiana Fair Association met in Frankfort, to arrange dates for the different meetings next season. Joseph Heavilan of Frankfort, was elected President, and W. W. Morgan of Crawfordsville, Secretary. Each of the associations were represented in the convention, and following are the dates: Frankfort fair begins Aug. 26; Bainbridge, July 29; New Ross, Aug. 4; Sheridan, Aug. 12; Lebanon, Aug. 19; Lafayette, Sept. 2; Crawfordsville, Sept. 9; Boswell, Sept. 2; Kokomo, Aug. 12; Covington, Aug. 9.

IN 1870 Henry Lorens committed suicide at Crawfordsville by jumping from the Monon bridge into Sugar Creek. It was known that he had his life insured in the Northwestern Mutual, but for some cause the matter was overlooked. It has been learned that the company did not pay because no demand was ever made for it. The entire sum is nearly $5,000 and now a search is being made to collect the evidence of his death. The Coroner did not file a report of his inquest.

THE other day, three miles south of Shoals, the wife of Joseph Smith was burned to death. Her husband, who is 75 years old, found her on the floor burned to a crisp on his return from the field.

BOILER BLOWS UP.

Five Men Instantly Killed by an Explosion at West Bay City, Mich.

At West Bay City, Mich., by the explosion of the boiler in Russell Bros.' box factory Tuesday morning five persons were instantly killed, several others were injured and one is missing. The dead are:

John Botun, aged 18.
John Calcutt, fireman, aged 24.
Albert Huebenbecker, aged 18.
George Pfund, aged 17.
Albert Raha, aged 16.

The injured are:

Charles Doege, scalded and bruised; will live.

Roe Hudson, aged 16, struck by flying debris; will live.

Fred Wildanger, aged 17, struck by flying missiles; will live.

The explosion occurred while the mill was shut down for a few moments, the boys flocking to the engine room to eat lunch. It seems that at that hour it has been customary for the boys in the factory to assemble in the fireroom for the purpose of eating their lunch. At that time Tuesday George Pfund, Albert Huebenbecker, Albert Raha, John Botun, with John Calcutt, the fireman, were at the fireroom. Without warning the boiler burst, wrecking the brick boiler-house, the east end of the factory, the dry kiln to the north, and scattering debris in all directions. The employes of the mill rushed out panic-stricken, but, after recovering themselves, began the work of rescuing their ill-fated companions. The five named were dead when taken out from under the brick, timber and sawdust. Mothers and sisters ran to the mill from all directions, crying pitiously for fear their husbands and fathers had been killed, and the scene was one of complete confusion for several minutes. A fire broke out in the ruins and an alarm called a company to the scene. Charles Doege was found on the platform between the planing mill and boiler-room pinned down by a hot steam pipe under boards and timbers. The shock of the explosion was felt two miles away, but the report was comparatively slight.

HE COULDN'T MARRY HER.

And That's Why Bill Cook Became the Famous Outlaw He Is.

The band of outlaws now operating in Indian Territory in the Southwest is perhaps the most daring that has ever been formed in this country. Its leader, Bill Cook, is a young man less than 22 years old, but he has all the daring and courage of a dozen Daltons. Were it not for a love affair this young man, of mixed Indian and white blood, would in all probability be a decent member of society in Indian Territory to-day.

BILL COOK.

When Bill was a schoolboy at Fourteen Mile Creek, midway between Fort Gibson and Talequah, he fell in love with a pretty girl, Martha Pittman. Their romance ran along smoothly enough until Bill was convicted of smuggling whisky into the Territory—an offense that a great many people are guilty of. Then Martha's father vowed that his daughter would never marry a criminal, and when Bill got out of jail he was refused permission to call on Martha. Like a true sweetheart Martha stood by her lover, but Bill refused to marry her without the old man's consent and swore that if he could not obtain it he'd go on the warpath and put the whole Indian Territory on the run at the point of his Winchester. To the warpath he consequently took when Martha's father remained obdurate, and it must be said that he has kept a considerable portion of the Territory on the qui vive ever since. And here the strangest part of the romance comes to light. All through Bill's train robbing episodes and robberies Martha remained true, and finally her father, impressed with Bill's nerve, withdrew his objections to the marriage and is as anxious to have Bill as a son-in-law. It is now said that Martha has gone to join her lover, bearing her father's blessing.

"SKEETERS" AND "CHEROKEE BILL."

Associated with Bill are some desperate characters, whose names repeatedly crop up in newspaper reports. One of these is "Skeeters." His right name is Thurman Baldwin and he hails from Arkansas. He is white. Another trusty lieutenant is Cherokee Bill, a mixture of white, negro and Cherokee. His right name is Crawford Crosby and he is 18 years old. These are the most trusty members of the gang over which Bill Cook holds sway. Recently Cherokee Bill sustained a serious injury in a fight with deputies at Talala.

A 20,000 MILE RACE.

Warsaw, Ind., Cyclist Will Endeavor to Ride That Distance.

A wager has just been made which is bound to attract wide attention, especially among bicyclists and all lovers of sport.

Tom W. Winder, of Warsaw, Ind., editor of the Wasp, and a bicycle enthusiast, will, to decide the bet and "establish a record," endeavor to make a trip along the coast and border-line of the United States, estimated—via circuitous country roads—at 21,000 miles, in 300 consecutive days, or a daily average of seventy-two miles, crossing thirty-three States and Territories; 220 counties, visiting 2,984 cities, towns and villages, and registering at seventy-six points enroute.

The start will be made from New Orleans on Feb. 4, 1895, going west, so that the entire trip can be made in warm weather, enabling him to cross the great plains of the Northwest during the early summer, the most favorable time of all the year.

TO MEET IN CHATTANOOGA.

International Conference of the Epworth League to Be Held in June.

The general committee has located the International Conference of the Epworth League for 1895 at Chattanooga, Tenn. The dates fixed are June 27, 28, 29 and 30. It was decided to hold the meeting in the South and Chattanooga forcibly presented the advantages of the historic surroundings of the city, as well as good hotels and railroad facilities, and has secured the conference. An attendance of 10,000 to 15,000 is anicipated. One open air meeting will be held on Lookout Mountain. There are now 1,000,000 members of the Epworth League in the United States.

PIPER HEIDSIECK PLUG TOBACCO

Consumers of chewing tobacco who are willing to pay a little more than the price charged for the ordinary trade tobaccos, will find this brand superior to all others.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.

DR. MOTT'S PENNYROYAL PILLS

The only safe, sure and reliable Female Pill ever offered to Ladies, especially recommended to married Ladies. Beware of pills put up in tin boxes as they are dangerous. Ask for DR. MOTT'S PENNYROYAL PILLS and take no other. Send for circular. Price $1.00 per box, 6 boxes for $5.00. DR. MOTT'S CHEMICAL CO., - Cleveland, Ohio.

Fisher & Son, Auburn, Ind.

FITS!

Brace Up! Don't Lose Courage!!

Your disease is not incurable because your Physician has given you up, and you have not received any benefit from the medicine you have tried, is not any reason you cannot be cured. We can positively cure all kinds of Fits, Epileptic, Convulsion or Spasmodic. WE GUARANTEE A POSITIVE AND PERMANENT CURE IN ALL CASES. We have cured thousands, many cases of long standing, and given up by Doctors as incurable. In our "Allen's Fits Cure" you will find a medicine that has never failed to effect a speedy cure. We back our guarantee with an offer of $100 to any person we cannot cure. Highest Bank references furnished on application.

1 Qt. Bottle, $3.00, 2 Qt. $5.00.

ALLEN MEDICAL CO.,

Washington & Water Sts., BOSTON, MASS.

LADIES

Suffering from Retarded, Suppressed or Painful Menstruation and all irregularities of like nature, will find our FAMALE PILLS an infallible cure. They are entirely safe and can always be relied upon for speedy relief. We have yet to hear of a case where they have failed to produce the desired result. A box should be kept on hand at all times to provide for emergencies. Correspondence Confidential.

By mail, with full directions, securely sealed, $2.00 per box.

ALLEN MEDICAL CO.,

Washington & Water Sts., BOSTON, MASS.

Every Woman

Sometimes needs a reliable monthly regulating medicine.

Dr. PEAL'S PENNYROYAL PILLS,

Are prompt, safe and certain in result. The genuine (Dr. Peal's) never disappoint. Sent anywhere $1.00. Peal Medicine Co., Cleveland, O.

Sold by Fischler & Son., Auburn.

General or local Agents. Ladies or gents. $75 a week. Exclusive territory. The Rapid Dish Washer. Washes all the dishes for a family in one minute. Washes, rinses and dries them without wetting the hands. You push the button, the machine does the rest. Bright, polished dishes and cheerful wives. No scalded fingers, no soiled hands or clothing. No broken dishes, no mess. Cloths durable, warranted. Circulars free.

W. P. HARRISON & CO., Cort Pa. 15, Columbus, O

Sex-ine Pills

RESTORE LOST VIGOR

Before and After Using.

New discovery. Will brace you up in a week. Sold with a WRITTEN GUARANTEE to Cure Nervous Debility, Loss of Sexual Power in either sex, Involuntary Emissions from any cause. If neglected, such troubles lead to consumption or insanity. $1.00 per box by mail, 6 boxes for $5.00. With every $5 order we give a written guarantee to cure or refund the money. Address PEAL MEDICINE CO., Cleveland, Ohio.

Sold by Fischler & Son, Auburn.

5,000 ACRES CENTRAL MICHIGAN FARMS

Near Saginaw and Bay City. Soil clay loam, hardwood timber and free from swamps. Railway facilities; schools and markets adjacent. Price, $5 to $8 per acre, on easy payments. Satisfaction assured. Practical farmers and parents who wish to give their sons a start in life, can find No Better Land in Michigan. Maps and Circulars free. JACOB SCHWARTZ or WM. M. TENNANT, SAGINAW, E. S., MICH.

RESTORED MANHOOD.

DR. MOTT'S NERVERINE PILLS

The great remedy for nervous prostration and all nervous diseases of the generative organs of either sex, such as Nervous Prostration, Failing or Lost Manhood, Impotency, Nightly Emissions, Youthful Errors, Mental Worry, excessive use of Tobacco or Opium, which lead to Consumption and Insanity. With every $5 order we give a written guarantee to cure or refund the money. Sold at $1.00 per box, 6 boxes for $5.00. DR. MOTT'S CHEMICAL COMPANY, Cleveland, Ohio.

BEFORE AND AFTER USING.

Sold by Fischler & Son, Auburn.

PATENTS

Caveats, and Trade-Marks obtained and all Patent business conducted for MODERATE FEES. OUR OFFICE IS OPPOSITE U. S. PATENT OFFICE and we can secure patent in less time than those remote from Washington.

Send model, drawing or photo., with description. We advise, if patentable or not, free of charge. Our fee not due till patent is secured.

A PAMPHLET, "How to Obtain Patents," with cost of same in the U. S. and foreign countries sent free. Address,

O. A. SNOW & CO.

Opp. Patent Office, Washington, D. C.

Grip—Rheumatism

William Munson, a member of the firm of Munson Bros., the well-known breeders at Clinton, Mo., makes this statement: "In 1891 I had the grip, which settled in my limbs. My right side was paralyzed. I was obliged to walk with a cane. I was in constant pain, and when I moved in bed I had to be assisted. My hands and feet swelled with rheumatism and my fingers would cramp. My druggist sent me six bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla. I took it three times a day and have improved ever since, and now I am well and never felt better in my life of 70 years. I took no other medicine but Hood's Sarsaparilla." WILLIAM MUNSON, Clinton, Mo.

Mr. Wm. Munson

Hood's Sarsaparilla Cures

Hood's Pills are the best after-dinner Pills, assist digestion, cure headache. 25c.

Ferdinand.

The first half of this word is feorh, "youth" or "life;" the second half is a little uncertain, but may be conjectured to be probably nanth, "daring." It was the Spanish Goths who gave it its earliest vogue in the Peninsula as Fernando or Fernan. San Fernando, King of Castile, sent it on to Aragon, and thence to Naples, where it became Ferdinando, and figures in "The Tempest" accordingly as Ferdinand. With Ferdinand and Isabella its fame grew world wide. Again, in Spain itself, it became Hernando and Hernan, in which last shape it was immortalized by Cervantes. Who would have suspected the conqueror of Mexico of bearing a name which on analysis turns out to be pure Anglo-Saxon?

HAY FEVER VICTIM—Doctor, can't you tell me how I can find relief from this constant inclanation to sneeze? Physician—Yes, sir; sneeze!

DR. KILMER'S SWAMP-ROOT

THE GREAT KIDNEY, LIVER AND BLADDER CURE.

Rheumatism

Lumbago, pain in joints or back, brick dust in urine, frequent calls, irritation, inflammation, gravel, ulceration or catarrh of the bladder.

Disordered Liver

Biliousness, headache, indigestion or gout. SWAMP-ROOT invigorates, cures kidney difficulties, Bright's disease, urinary troubles.

Impure Blood

Scrofula, malaria, general weakness or debility. Swamp-Root builds up quickly a run down constitution and makes the weak strong.

At Druggists 50 cents and $1.00 Size. "Invalids' Guide to Health" free. Consultation free. DR. KILMER & CO., BINGHAMTON, N. Y.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound CURES ALL

Ailments of Women.

It will entirely cure the worst forms of Female Complaints, all Ovarian troubles, Inflammation and Ulceration, Falling and Displacements of the Womb, and consequent Spinal Weakness, and is peculiarly adapted to the Change of Life.

It has cured more cases of Leucorrhœa than any remedy the world has ever known. It is almost infallible in such cases. It dissolves and expels Tumors from the Uterus in an early stage of development, and checks any tendency to cancerous humors. That causing pain, weight, and backache, is instantly relieved and permanently cured by its use. Under all circumstances it acts in harmony with the laws that govern the female system, and is as harmless as water.

Bearing-down Feeling

All druggists sell it. Address in confidence, LYDIA E. PINKHAM MED. CO., LYNN, MASS.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Liver Pills, 25 cents.

WALTER BAKER & CO.

The Largest Manufacturers of PURE, HIGH GRADE COCOAS AND CHOCOLATES

On this Continent have received HIGHEST AWARDS from the great Industrial and Food EXPOSITIONS In Europe and America.

Unlike the Dutch Process, no Alkalies or other Chemicals or Dyes are used in any of their preparations. Their delicious BREAKFAST COCOA is absolutely pure and soluble, and costs less than one cent a cup.

SOLD BY GROCERS EVERYWHERE.

WALTER BAKER & CO. DORCHESTER, MASS.

LIFE IS A BURDEN

If the liver does not act properly. Neglected disorders in this organ bring on diseases in the kidneys or heart.

Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney Balm

Is especially adapted to the needs of a disordered liver. Cures Bright's Disease, Dropsy, Diabetes, Torpid Liver, Biliousness. $1.00 per bottle. Sold by all druggists.

Ely's Cream Balm QUICKLY CURES COLD IN HEAD

Price 50 Cents.

Apply Balm into each nostril. ELY BROS., 56 Warren St., N. Y.

Mrs. Winslow's SOOTHING SYRUP for Children teething; softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic. 25 cents a bottle.

When Jimmy comes from school at four,
J-e-r-u-s-a-l-e-m! how things begin
To whirl and buzz, and bang and spin,
And brighten up from roof and floor;
The dog that all day long had lain
Upon the back porch wags his tail,
And leaps and barks and begs again
The last scrap in the dinner pail,
When Jimmy comes from school.

The cupboard latches click a tune,
And mother from her knitting stirs
To tell that hungry boy of hers
That supper will be ready soon;
And then a slab of pie he takes
A cooky, and a quince or two,
And for the breezy barnyard breaks,
Where everything cries, "How d'ye do?"
When Jimmy comes from school.

The rooster on the garden fence
Struts up and down, and crows and crows,
As if he knows, or thinks he knows,
He, too, is of some consequence;
The guineas join the chorus, too,
And, just beside the window-sill,
The redbird swinging out of view,
On his light perch begins to trill,
When Jimmy comes from school.

When Jimmy comes from school, take care!
Our hearts begin to throb and quake
With life and joy, and every ache
Is gone before we are aware;
The earth takes on a richer hue;
A softer light falls on the flowers,
And overhead a brighter blue
Seems bent above this world of ours,
When Jimmy comes from school.
—J. N. Matthews, in Ladies' Home Journal.

The Public and Schools.

What has the public a right to demand of the schools? This question has often been asked of late, and is susceptible of various answers. In general I would say we have the right to require of the schools just what we put into the schools, no more and no less. It takes years of time and a large expenditure of money to prepare a person to do really good work in the schoolroom. If we are unwilling to pay such a reasonable compensation for his services, and put into our school an inexperienced, half-educated person, because we can get him cheap, we have no right to expect good teaching in that school. If we get it, it will be a lucky exception. Again, if we require our children to master in three years a curriculum demanding six, we have no reason to expect any but superficial work. Learning so acquired will not be sufficiently definite and at command to be practically useful in after life. The mind does not grasp and hold it. Neither has the public any reason to anticipate proficiency in a child whose attendance has been irregular and fragmentary. If the teacher could work miracles this might be, but not otherwise.

But with a judicious course of study and a good teacher the public have a right to require in the graduates of our schools proficiency in such studies as they have pursued.

French will not impart skill in mathematics, nor literature a knowledge of book-keeping. We shall reap what we sow and nothing else. Now, whatever else our scholars may thoroughly learn, and the more the better it will please me, they should certainly learn to read their mother tongue with ease, should acquire facility in the more useful parts of arithmetic, should acquire the power of writing a letter correctly in all respects, should possess themselves of the principles of keeping accounts, should learn something of the organization and working of the governments under which they live, and imbibe a deep sense of the moral obligation resting upon a citizen of the republic.—The Teacher's World.

A Use for Carbon Paper.

A very helpful and pleasant deskwork device is copying maps by means of carbon paper, sometimes called "transfer paper." The pupils lay the carbon paper on the blank sheet upon which they wish the copy to appear. Then they lay the map to be copied upon the carbon paper and trace the map with a lead pencil or slate pencil or any blunt, rounded instrument. When the carbon paper is removed, there appears an outline map upon the previously blank sheet. This outline may then be colored by using colored pencils of pastels and really pretty maps made.

The pupils enjoy the work very much and it is an excellent way to impress upon their minds a vivid picture of the map studied.—Indiana School Journal.

Hints to Teachers.

Do not slight the smaller for the older. Remember that with the little ones you are laying the foundations of future scholarships. The atmosphere of our school can be neither primary, intermediate nor grammar. The ideal primary school should be a free, busy, happy, motherly place. The teacher above all, should feel free. The grammar school is more formal and conventional. Its ways do not suit the little folks fresh from home, and the playful, affectionate manner of presenting knowledge to the little children often proves distracting to the always curious, easily diverted older pupil.

There is a place where the line must be drawn, but just where you must discover for yourself; no one can tell you. You will live in a sense of hurry, for it will be your lot to rush from one thing to another, with the feeling that nothing is well done. This is a misfortune that cannot well be remedied so long as schools exist. All that you can do is to learn by constant experience how to condense, both in time, energy and special effort. Remember that ten minutes of effective teaching is more telling than half an hour of languid effort.—South Dakota Educator.

Lift Your Hat to Her.

Lift your hat and salute reverently when you pass the teacher of the primary school. She is the great angel of the republic. She takes the bantling fresh from the home nest, full of pouts and fashions—an ungovernable little wretch whose own mother honestly admits that she sends him to school to get rid of him. The lady who knows her business takes a whole carload of these anarchists, one of whom, single-handed and alone, is more than a match for his parents, and at once puts them in a way of being useful and upright citizens. At what expense of toil, patience and soul weariness. Lift your hat to her.

Educational Notes.

The alumni of Williams College now number 1,947.

In Denmark and Sweden the school hours of girls are fewer than those of boys.

A course in French is to be introduced into the grammar schools of Brookline, Mass.

More than one-third of the teachers of the United States are men—124,929 men and 227,302 women—35.5 per cent.

West of the Alleghanies nearly all educational institutions, from the primary school to the college or university, are co-educational.

England, with ninety-four universities, has 2,723 more professors and 51,814 more students than the 360 universities of the United States.

Dickinson College, Carlisle, Pa., opened this year under propitious conditions. More students have been enrolled than ever before in its history.

The freshman class of Amherst College this year has 133 members. Eighteen new men entered the upper classes, making a total number of 151 students.

Miss Emory, a Maine girl and a student of Bryn Mawr College, has received a European fellowship, which entitles her to a year's study in any European university.

Prussian education is more thorough than that of any other country. Every child is in school from five to fourteen years of age. Parents must obey the law, pay a fine, or go to prison.

"Flower Sunday" is one of the annual observances at Wellesley College. It was instituted by the founder of the college, and forms a delightful opening to the college year.

One-half of the West Point cadets are obliged to wear glasses, it is said. This state of affairs is largely due to the fact that the barracks are lighted by electricity instead of gas. The board of visitors asks Congress to appropriate $50,000 to remedy this evil.

New York City shows a good record in the matter of suspensions in the public schools. Last year there were but thirty-five of these 250 schools that experienced such an extreme measure of discipline. The number suspended was only fifty-one in an attendance of nearly 200,000.

The contest for the position of professor of modern languages at West Point Military Academy, a position with a salary of $4,000 per annum and the rank of colonel, ended in favor of Captain E. E. Wood, of the Eighth Cavalry, the present assistant professor of Spanish at the academy.

Now that the annual training idea is fairly in operation, a champion is wanted for that of "school gardens" in America. Europe is far ahead of the United States in this matter. Sweden leads the world, having 2,000 "gardens," one for nearly every recently built school-house.

THE ROMANOFFS' CURSE.

No Czar of the House Has Ever Lived to Be 65.

It is a curious fact that no Czar of Russia of the present imperial house has ever lived to be 65. This, it is said, is due to a curse pronounced years ago against the Romanoffs and explained to Peter the Great by a prophetess. This woman said that no member of the family could ever exceed that age limit.

It is strange that this prophecy should be borne out by facts, but so it is. Alexander III.'s grandfather, the half insane Czar Paul, and the four heads of the Romanoffs before Nicholas all died before 50, and of the same disease that has been fatal to Alexander III. Alexander I., at one time Napoleon's great ally, then his enemy, who so aided in the downfall of the French empire, died when he was 48 of "monomania, bordering on insanity," says history. Metternich, the great Austrian premier of that date, bluntly declares he was insane. The Grand Duke Constantine, who was really entitled to the Russian throne, waived his right in favor of Alexander I. He had sense enough to be aware that he was not mentally fit to rule such an empire as Russia. He died in his 52d year of cerebro-spinal meningitis. The Grand Duke Michael was killed in his 48th year by a fall from his horse while in a fit. He had shown signs of madness so often that it was a question whether it was safe for him to be at large. So goes the long but never-changing record of the Romanoffs for two centuries.

Alexander III. was personally a most kindly man and remarkably free from the grosser vices. He drank a little red wine sometimes, but no strong liquors, and he abhorred drunkenness, as did his father before him.

WEBB SPINNERS.

A Giant Insect That Weaves a Wonderful Golden Web.

Among the great web-spinning spiders is the Halba of Madagascar, which spins shining golden-yellow threads strong enough to bear the weight of one of these cork helmets, such as travelers wear in warm countries. They have woman's suffrage in the Halaba family, where the female considerably outweighs the males, and is correspondingly "bossy." She grows to the quite remarkable length of five and a half inches, while he, poor fellow, never gets beyond the quite insignificant dimensions of an inch and a half. In consequence, when she, in all the glory of her shining gold cuirass with a silvery down on it, spreads her five red, black tipped legs in the midst of her shining golden web, he has to keep at a respectable distance, and seeks the seclusion of his club, for he has no rights in that web which his more mighty spouse is bound to respect. She is a very industrious spinner, and I have no doubt that the airs of superiority she takes over her husband are largely due to the fact that she realizes she is the breadwinner of the family. She has been knowk to spin in a little less than a week 3,291 yards. For over 150 years men have tried to utilize spider's silk for weaving fabrics with but discouraging success. Le Bon, about the beginning of the last century, succeeded in making gloves of it, and Louis XIV had a pair of hose made of the thread. The web of the Halaba and one or two American spiders have led Dr. Wilder of Cornell University, to hope that he might still make spider webs commercially valuable. The thread is quite as long as that of the silkworm, one species in Jamaica spinning a thread sometimes three miles long, but the chief difficulty lies in obtaining a long thread unbroken.

"Shaky Hill" in Indiana.

About a mile and a half from Milton, Ind., is an elevation which, from mysterious shakings and convulsions with which it is often seized, is known as "Shaky Hill." In the early settlement of the country a cabin was built upon this eminence, but the settler and his family were frightened away by violent shaking and strange rumbling noises, their home often being shaken as by an earthquake, and since that time "Shaky Hill" has been the scene of many mysterious goings on. Loggers have seen their logs started without any visible cause, large rocks have been moved from their beds, and in wet weather low, deep rumblings have been heard, accompanied by a very perceptible trembling of the hill. These things are vouched for by old and reliable people, but no one has been able to determine the cause.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

A Queer Mouse Catcher.

A hen that catches mice and eats them is a novelty that has recently come to light in Kansas City, Kas. A widow, who lives in the outskirts of that city, is the owner of this hen with certain feline propensities.

Recently the widow heard a commotion in the barn yard and upon going to learn the cause of it saw all the chickens and the roosters in a circle around the old hen, but at a respectful distance. They were clucking loudly. The hen in the center was industriously pecking at an animated object. The woman saw that it was a mouse and called her dog. But the hen, when she saw Fido coming, seized the mouse, which was yet alive, and swallowed it after two or three spasmodic gulps. She had been playing with it as a kitten.—Kansas City Star.

Domesticated Camels.

Camels are now in general use throughout Australia. Within twenty-five years, by scientific breeding, a race has been produced larger in frame, sounder in wind and limb, and able to carry more weight than the Indian camels originally imported. A quarantine for imported animals is established at Port Augusta, 260 miles northwest of Adelaide, where they are carefully guarded for three months, during which time they are subject to a destructive mange, which carries off most of them, but to which they are no longer liable when once acclimatized. There are 10,000 camels at work which not only transport loads upon their backs, but are trained to draw wagons yoked in teams of eight like oxen.

A Welcome Usher of '95.

The beginning of the new year will have a welcome usher in the shape of a fresh Almanac, descriptive of the origin, nature and uses of the national tonic and alterative, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Combined with the descriptive matter will be found calendar and astronomical calculations absolutely reliable for correctness, statistics, illustrations, verses carefully selected, and other mental food highly profitable and entertaining. On this pamphlet, published and printed annually by the Hostetter Company, of Pittsburg, sixty hands are employed in the mechanical department alone. Eleven months are devoted to its preparation. It is procurable free, of druggists and country dealers everywhere, and is printed in English, German, French, Spanish, Welsh, Norwegian, Holland, Swedish and Bohemian.

When They Might Cut Deep.

The late Prof. Henry Morely once told his class in University College, London, that it was possible to fix the date of a certain writer pretty exactly from an inscription carved with a knife on a school desk. "Now," said the genial Professor to his hearers, "I don't want you to begin to carve your names on these desks; but if any of you know that you will become famous, you may cut them as deeply as you like."

Coon Hunting.

A new departure in coon hunting has been tried by some citizens of Alleghany, Pa. When the coon has been treed Roman candles were used to ascertain his exact position.

How's This!

We offer One Hundred Dollars reward for any case of catarrh that cannot be cured by taking Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Props, Toledo, Ohio.

We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions, and financially able to carry out any obligations made by their firm.

WEST & TRUAX, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, Ohio.

WALDING, KINNAN & MARVIN, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, Ohio.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Testimonials sent free. Price 75 cents per bottle. Sold by all Druggists.

The Kind It Was.

Loving Wife—But, my dear, why do they call it a stag party?

Fond Husband—Well, you see, my dear, there's generally a little game of some sort there.—New York World.

Holiday Rates on the Nickle Plate

Read are authorized Dec. 24th, 25th, 31st, and Jan. 1st, and good returning Jan. 2nd, 1895. Ask Agents.

SCHUBERT was educated for a school teacher, and prefered music.

No Substitutes

For Royal Baking Powder. The "Royal" is shown by all tests, official, scientific, and practical, stronger, purer, and better in every way than all other Baking Powders. Its superiority is privately acknowledged by other manufacturers, and well known by all dealers.

If some grocers try to sell another baking powder in place of the "Royal," it is because of the greater profit. This of itself is good evidence of the superiority of the "Royal." To give greater profit the other must be a lower cost powder, and to cost less it must be made with cheaper and inferior materials, and thus, though selling for the same, give less value to the consumer.

LOOK with suspicion upon every attempt to palm off upon you any baking powder in place of the "Royal." There is no substitute for the "Royal."

A Mistake.

My grandmother had an old negro named Charles, writes a Texas correspondent. Though very old, he could make the evenest of hills and the straightest of rows in the garden, which he kept as clean as a parlor.

"Uncle Charles, how can you get the hills all of the same size and so straight in the row?" asked the children.

"Well," replied he, "w'en I sees whar I wants de hills, I jes' puts my foot right dar; den I pulls de dirt up on it twell hit's kivered."

One day the children heard a scream in the garden. When they got there, they found that Uncle Charles had cut his big toe nearly off. After it was dressed and easy, they asked him how the accident had happened.

"Blame dat toe, onyhow," exclaimed he, "wid hits black back an' yarler bottom! I'se allus takin' it fur some kine uv a varmint! Jes' now I tort hit wuz er tarapin's head er peepin' outer de hill, an' I blazed erway wid my hoe to chop it off."

Faithful Beadle.

It may be questioned if important personages derive as much satisfaction from their greatness as do some lesser holders of authority who magnify their office. The Rev. R. M. Thornton, once pastor of a church in Glasgow, related an amusing story of the efficient beadle of that church.

This beadle was an odd character. Among the children he was known as "Robbie Roy, the Beadle Boy." Six weeks after my settlement, a friend of mine, meeting him in the street one morning, inquired:

"Well, Robert, how is the new minister going to do?"

"Oh," was the cherry reply, "we're getting him into shape by degrees."

Mental Alertness

depends very largely on the physical condition. Sluggish blood dulls the brain. A Ripans Tabule after meals will clear away the fogs in short order.

IF all men are known in the next world by their fruits in this there will be a great many green persimmons there.

The Nickel Plate Road

Offer holiday rates Dec. 24th, 25th, and 31st, and Jan. 1st, good returning Jan. 2nd.

JAMES BUCHANAN was a studious, laborious, boy, not bright, but diligent.

In Our Great Grandfather's Time,

big bulky pills were in general use. Like the "blunderbuss" of that decade they were big and clumsy, but ineffective. In this century of enlightenment, we have Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, which cure all liver, stomach and bowel derangements in the most effective way.

Assist Nature a little now and then, with a gentle, cleansing laxative, thereby removing offending matter from the stomach and bowels, toning up and invigorating the liver and quickening its tardy action, and you thereby remove the cause of a multitude of distressing diseases, such as headaches, indigestion, or dyspepsia, biliousness, pimples, blotches, eruptions, boils, constipation, piles, fistulas and maladies too numerous to mention.

If people would pay more attention to properly regulating the action of their bowels, they would have less frequent occasion to call for their doctor's services to subdue attacks of dangerous diseases.

That, of all known agents to accomplish this purpose, Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are unequaled, is proven by the fact that once used, they are always in favor. Their secondary effect is to keep the bowels open and regular, not to further constipate, as is the case with other pills. Hence, their great popularity, with sufferers from habitual constipation, piles and indigestion.

A free sample of the "Pellets," (4 to 7 doses) on trial, is mailed to any address, post-paid, on receipt of name and address on postal card.

Address, WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Buffalo, N. Y.

DOCTOR—Did you have a heavy chill? Fair Patient—It seemed so. Doctor—Did your teeth chatter? Fair Patient—No; they were in my dressing case.

GIVE ATTENTION to the first symptoms of a Lung Complant, and check the dreaded disease in its incipiency, by using Dr. D. Jayne's Expectorant, a safe, old-fashioned remedy for all Affections of the Lungs and Bronchia.

POLITICIAN—I wish you'd give me a nice job with nothing to do. Boss—Sorry, my boy, but there's no vacancy among the building inspectors.

Piso's Cure for Consumption has no equal as a Cough medicine.—F. M. ABBOTT, 383 Seneca St., Buffalo, N. Y., May 9, 1893.

MOLIERE, the French dramatist, began life as an apprentice to an upholsterer.

ATTEND the Fort Wayne Business College.

GEORGE FOX was brought up in the humble home of a weaver.

"AH! Tom, there is no greater charm than a peach-bloom complexion, such as the young lady had we heard extolling Glenn's Sulphur Soap."

WASHINGTON'S boyhood and youth were passed in the country.

Drop Us a Line

If you are thinking of spending the winter in California or the South. Write any agent of the Nickel Plate road and he will be pleased to quote you rates and forward maps of the different routes. Winter tourist rates are now in effect.

ROUSSEAU'S boyhood was spent in the home of a watchmaker.

Send your full name and address to Dobbins' Soap Mfg. Co., Philada., Pa., by return mail, and get free of all cost, a coupon worth several dollars, if used by you to its full advantage. Don't delay. This is worthy attention.

RUTHERFORD B. HAYES was a good scholar and a modest, kindly boy.

FOR DURABILITY, ECONOMY AND FOR GENERAL BLACKING IS UNEQUALED. HAS AN ANNUAL SALE OF 3,000 TONS. WE ALSO MANUFACTURE THE SUN PASTE STOVE POLISH FOR AN AFTER DINNER SHINE, OR TO TOUCH UP SPOTS WITH A CLOTH. MAKES NO DUST. IN 5 & 10 CENT TIN BOXES. THE ONLY PERFECT PASTE. Morse Bros. Prop'S. CANTON, MASS.

NICKEL PLATE. The New York, Chicago & St. Louis R.R. SOLID THROUGH TRAINS BUFFALO & CHICAGO. LOWEST RATES. THROUGH PALACE BUFFET SLEEPING CARS between Chicago, Buffalo, New York and Boston.

For rates or other information, call on nearest Ticket Agent, or address A. W. JOHNSTON, Gen'l Superintendent. B. F. HORNER, Gen'l Passenger Agent. CLEVELAND O.

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50c and $1 bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

Cures ST. JACOBS OIL Cures

Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Sciatica, Lumbago, Sprains, Bruises, Burns, Wounds, Swellings, Soreness, Headache, Backache, All Aches, Stiffness, Cuts, Hurts, Frost-bites.

....WHAT MORE IS NEEDED THAN A PERFECT CURE....

Tables: 50c.

Everybody knows what a table is.
And yet
There are many kinds of tables.

The word table originates from The Latin tabula, which means a BOARD.

Tablet is another word,
Originating from the French tablette.
Literally, it means a shelf
—a little table.

Tabule is also a French word,
Originating from the Latin tabula,
And is the plural
—of tabula.
Its relation to T·A·B·L·E
And T·A·B·L·E·T is close and apparent.

The arbitrary use of
The word tabule,
Or tabules,
As applied to Medicinal Tablets,
Is a registered trade-mark,
Belonging to the
Ripans Chemical Company, proprietors of the Standard Family Medicine,
Ripans Tabules,
sold everywhere at Fifty Cents
—a box.

CALIFORNIA

Weekly Overland Parties—Personally Conducted—in New Pullman Upholstered Tourist Sleeping Cars, without change, leave Chicago every Thursday for all points on the Pacific Coast. For particulars address JUDSON & CO., 195 South Clark St., Chicago.

TEXAS, MEXICO and CALIFORNIA. — VIA — Wabash Line

In connection with the St. Louis, Iron Mountain & Southern Railway, Texas & Pacific Railway, International & Great Northern Railroad, and Southern Pacific Railway, known as the ONLY TRUE SOUTHERN ROUTE, has placed in service a Through First-Class Sleeping Car and Tourist Sleeping Car, leaving Chicago daily at 10:50 A. M., via St. Louis to Little Rock, Malvern (Hot Springs), Austin, San Antonio, Laredo (where a direct connection is made with through sleeping car for the City of Mexico), El Paso, Los Angeles and San Francisco. This is the only line from Chicago which can offer this excellent service. Call or write to any ticket agent of the Wabash or connecting line for printed matter showing time, route, rates, description of cars, etc., or

R. S. BUTLER, D. P. A., Detroit, Mich.
F. H. TRISTRAM, C. P. A., Pittsburg, Pa.
P. E. DONBAUGH, P. & T. A., Toledo, Ohio.
R. S. THOMPSON, P. & T. A., Fort Wayne, Ind.
J. HALDERMAN, M. P. A., 291 Clark St., Chicago, Ill.
J. M. McCONNELL, P. & T. A., Lafayette, Ind.
G. D. MAXFIELD, D. P. A., Indianapolis, Ind.
C. S. CRANE, G. P. & T. A., St. Louis, Mo.

...EVERY... Home-Seeker SHOULD READ

The pamphlet recently published by the Passenger Department of the Illinois Central Railroad, entitled "Southern Home-Seekers' Guide for 1894." It contains over 50 excellent letters from Northern farmers now located in the South and other authentic and valuable information. For a FREE COPY address the undersigned at Manchester, Iowa:

J. F. MERRY, Assistant General Passenger Agent.

LINENE

Raphael, Angelo, Rubens, Tasso

The "LINENE REVERSIBLE" are the Best and Most Economical Collars and Cuffs worn; they are made of fine cloth, both sides finished alike, and, being reversible, one collar is equal to two of any other kind. They fit well, wear well and look well. A box of Ten Collars or Five Pairs of Cuffs for Twenty-five Cents. A Sample Collar and Pair of Cuffs by mail for Six Cents. Name style and size. Address

REVERSIBLE COLLAR COMPANY, 77 FRANKLIN ST., NEW YORK. 27 KILBY ST., BOSTON.

PENSION JOHN W. MORRIS, Washington, D. C. Successfully Prosecutes Claims. Late Principal Examiner U. S. Pension Bureau. 3 yrs in last war, 15 adjudicating claims, atty since.

WANTED Traveling Salesman for Liquor Trade. C. K. RITCHCOCK & CO., Evansville, Ind.

F. W. N. U. - - - - - No. 52—94

When Writing to Advertisers, say you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION

Blood Diseases

such as Scrofula and Anæmia, Skin Eruptions and Pale or Sallow Complexions, are speedily cured by the Cream of Cod-liver Oil. No other remedy so quickly and effectively enriches and purifies the blood and gives nourishment to the whole system. It is pleasant to take and easy on the stomach.

Scott's Emulsion

Thin, Emaciated Persons and all suffering from Wasting Diseases are restored to health by Scott's Emulsion.

Be sure you get the bottle with our trade-mark on it. Refuse cheap substitutes!

TRADE MARK.

Send for pamphlet on Scott's Emulsion. FREE.

Scott & Bowne, N. Y. All druggists. 50 cents and $1.

W. H. KIBLINGER COMPANY

GOLD DOLLARS AT 90 CTS.

CANNOT BE FOUND.

We will EXCHANGE our Stock of

HARDWARE

For Your MONEY. Ask Your Dealer to DUPLICATE These Prices.

We have no LEADERS.
We have no OLD STOCK.
We have Everything Else in the Hardware Line at Proportionate Prices.

Rogers' 1847 Silver set knives and Forks,	$3.00.	Rogers' 1847 silver set Teaspoons,	$1.15
Rogers' 1847 Silver set Dessert Spoons,	2.00.	Rogers' 1847 silver set Tablespoons,	2.25
6-Foot Saw, Atkins,	1.90.	Henry Disston hand saw,	1.20
6½-Foot Saw, Atkins,	2.05.	Double-Barrel Shot gun,	7.25
Nails, per hundred pounds,	1.25.	Pocket Knives,	.03
Scissors,	.12.	Razors,	.55
Raw Oil,	.57.	Boiled Oil,	.60

Sash, glazed, 12 x 28, 4 lights, .80. 22 x 28, 2 light, .90. 22 x 30, 2 light, .95. Other Sizes Proportionate.

Doors, 2 x 6, .85. 2-6 x 6-6, .98. 2-6 x 6-8, 1.05 Other Sizes Proportionate.

Best Ready Mixed Paints, per gallon,	1.25.	Stoves, Cook, No. 8, without reservoir,	9.75
Stoves, Cook, No. 9, without reservoir,	10.75.	Stoves, Cook, No. 8, with reservoir,	15.75
Stoves, Cook, No. 9, with reservoir,	16.95.	No. 9, 4-hole Ranges, 21.50.	4-hole Range, 11.50

we are not going out of the Hardware business, and we will not be undersold.

W. H. KIBLINGER COMPANY.

J. C. MESSICK,
FRANK JOLLIFF, } SALESMEN.

W. H. KIBLINGER COMPANY

THE AUBURN COURIER.

VOLUME XXV. AUBURN, DE KALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, JANUARY 3, 1895. NUMBER 1.

THIS IS NEW.

READ!

WHAT WE HAVE TO SAY ABOUT MNOEY.

The Indiana Mutual Building Loan Association, which we represent in this part of the state, have in reduced their interest, ch has always been from 2 t nt less an any other Loan Association Do w that if you are about to money and give a mort- on your home, you should the time and trouble to in- pest,

ER

at in our company you have membership fee to pay, no ad e payments to make and there l be no delays, so that should our loan for any reason be de- ined, you will lose no money. e are prepared to make loans here the security is sufficient; for am unt from $200 to $25,0 0. have a loan in any other will pay you to call on figures and

Loan at Once

par to make

NS

PIANOS AND ORGANS.

BROWN CULBERTSON & BOLAND

Have the room over their Hardware store filled with

KIMBALL

ORGANS and PIANOS

Which they are selling at very

LOW PRICES:

and on

EASY TERMS

Why not buy one for your

WIFE or DAUGHTER

will MAKE THEM

Y and you too.

and be convinced

rices and terms are

TISFACTORY.

C & B

SCHAAB & MURPHY

ARE

NOW READY

with a

BIG STOCK

OF

CLOTHING, GENTS'

FURNISHING GOODS

HATS CAPS ETC

We would invite our friends to come in while the stock is new and full, and they can get good returns.

PRICES

We can give you better prices than ever before. We have led a full line of prices. Call and be convinced.

EN'S and BOY'S

SHOES

URPHY

INDIANA

1894.

DOINGS OF THE YEAR.

A Synopsis Giving a Few of the Chief Items in the Courier in the Past Year.

As the year 1894 has now closed, it may be of interest to recapitulate a few of the many things that occurred during these fifty-two weeks, as noted in the COURIER. The first issue of that year was JANUARY 4. Death of Col. C. A. Zollinger, Mayor of Ft. Wayne. Lawsuit going on at Angola between the Auburn Foundry and the county, as to a disputed bill. A. C. Wilson, late of the Church Furniture Co, goes to Little Rock.

JAN. 11. J. E. McDonald, of Ligonier, elected member of the State Board of Agriculture for this, 16th, district, in place of R. M. Lockhart, who had been a member for about twenty years. Abraham Orr declines to be postmaster at Kendallville. Lee Foo Ton, our Chinese laundryman, refused naturalization papers by Judge Powers. Union bakery sold to DeLong & Keeran.

JAN. 18. K. P. Installation noted. Some anxious sinner burglarized the M. E church, getting in at the basement, and so on into the pastor's study. Mr. and Mrs. Gordon and Pearl Kelley go to Omaha. Kiblinger confined to his house by ill health.

JAN. 25 Change of venue in the county foundry case discussed. Must be granted if asked, where the county is a party. Richland holds her 66th S. S. Institute. "Pioneer Sketches" close. Attempt to form a commercial club here Failed later. Chris. Fell lost a finger at Ober's mill. The Jennings lawsuit written up with its funny incidents. Draggoo donates flour to the worthy poor.

FEB. 1. Some one tried to blackmail Fisher West. He failed to get that $800 and was arrested. Jake Somers' barn burned. Florida exhibition car coming. Chris. Cloy died. Willard Pepple brought home from Waco, Tex., for burial. Elder S. B. Ward died.

FEB 8 E. P. Elson came over from Canton, O. Commissioner Hoffelder in a communication hermetically seals the mouth of the Press editor. Mrs. Susannah Campbell died Jan. 28. Evergreen cemetery elects officers.

FEB 15 Alex. Kinmont and wife back from Albion, Mich., on a visit. Deeters case started Monday at Angola Prohibition mass convention Feb. 21st.

FEB. 22. Deeters trial going on. We publish an original letter of Robert E. Lee, the rebel general L. T. Olinger dead. Union Central Life Ins. Co., agents meet at the Swineford. Geo. McMillan and his son John, move back to Auburn.

MARCH 1. Deeters trial continued. Teacher from Keyser brought before Squire Walborn and a jury for whipping a pupil, jury disagreed. Supt. Merica lectured before the St. Joe schools and was highly complimented. Mercury 10 below. Our Musical Club gave a public entertainment. Commissioner Hoffelder does up the Dispatch this week.

MARCH 8, Deeters trial continued. Wes Harris, up for careless shooting by which J. D. Price had a finger injured, was bound over to court. Letter from Mottinger at Baraga, Mich., snow there three feet deep. Successful protracted meeting at the Lutheran church.

MARCH 15 Deeters trial continued, J. W. Baxter's house caught fire evening of March 9, and saved after a hard struggle. Sheriff Ralston slapped boisterous prisoners doing the town a service. Mrs. Sheehan gets her mony from the A. O. U. W. D. Y. Husselman begins again the practice of law. Dr. Ford, Albert Robbins and John Boots start for California.

MARCH. 22. Deeters trial continued. Big Easter edition of the Courier. Hoffelder finishes up what little is left of the Press. Democratic township caucuses March 17. Frank Fluke cut his foot the 17th and on the 20th John Picker caught the 4½ lb fish. Dr. Allen and Mrs. W. L Meese died the 17th.

MARCH 29 Deeters trial drawing to a close. County committee of democrats met 24th. Twelfth annual of the L. L. C March 27th. Cold snap 26th. G. S. McCord's house caught fire. S. of V. have a fine reception and banquet this evening. Mr. Coe chosen to lead in school work at Butler. B. F. Moody former trustee of Keyser died 28th.

APRIL 5. Deeters trial ended March 29th with a life sentence. K. of. P, installation and banquet 30th. W. C. T. U. county meeting at St. Joe 28th.

APRIL 12. Politics much talked up and caucuses being held. Wm. Merica's barn burned last week, Mr. Wooton came from conference and will stay another year. Dwelling on the Wes Sebert farm burned. S. H. Long moves to Benzonia, Mich, Kiblinger started Sunday to the south for his health. W. H. McIntyre takes charge of the factory during Kiblinger's absence. John Hook of Stafford died April 6.

APRIL 19 Kiblinger and family now at Thomasville, Georgia. The Christian Endeavors give a fine concert including the "sunflower chorus." Report as to common school graduation show 157 applicants. Baker & Bauer formes a partnership in the bakery.

APRIL 26. Al Griswold arrested at Columbia City on a false charge and at once cleared himself. Mr. Tomlinson's daughter, Laura Rose, brought home for burial from New Carlisle. Ft. Wayne ladies boycott a sensational paper.

MAY 3. D. T. Smith's team ran away and his son was considerably hurt and narrowly escaped death. City debt reported diminished $1,300 during past year. Uncle Andrew Smith's team ran away but he pluckily held on for half a mile and got the best of them. Mrs. Hodge starts on a summer visit. Dr. Nusbaum goes south to join Mr. Kiblinger at Marietta, Ga. Mrs. T, C. Ford goes to Washington to visit Mrs. Strickland then to Philadelphia as delegate to the National Federation of Women's Clubs. Mrs. Mollie Rose being another delegate, took in the same ch s.

MAY 10. The editor visits "Gen. Randall's" army in Chicago and realizes what a great fraud the Coxey business is. Kiblinger factory starts up with full force once more. Cowan Sisters are getting custom from over in Ohio. Mr. Kiblinger brought home. Had died at Marietta, Ga., May 3. Funeral May 6. Hailstorm in parts of the county Sunday. Cornelius Platter had his thumb cut off at the Monitor factory.

MAY 17. Sol Shearer's son Harry, had his arm broken. DeKalb's first printer C. B. Alvord struck town a foot. Party of business men came up from Fort Wayne to inspect the new "Postal line" Drs. Swarts and Ussebeer at Indianapolis at a state meeting of doctors. John Lochner, of the Times, married to Miss Darley Clark May 9th. W. H. Keeran and family move to Fort Wayne.

MAY 24. New paper, the "Republican" recently started at Garrett gives the town its first writeup. Jackson township democrats nominate a ticket. Cyclone near Montpelier and Kunkel. Packages of lovely white jasmine flowers received by several citizens, the gift of John Pepple, Texas. Fine entertainment by the Auburn Musical Club.

MAY 31. High school commencement was May 25. County newspapers accuse one another of bad spelling. The COURIER instructs them in this important branch. The COURIER publishes a list of job work it got from different democratic county officers, average about $5 a month. DeKalb Insurance Co., elects officers. Work begun on basement and drainage to Swineford house.

JUNE 7. COURIER writes up the Decoration day services and compliments the Musical Club on their second public entertainment Henry J. Shafer died June 3. Ora Smith kicked by a horse and seriously hurt. Wm. Click is trimming the trees and beautifying the public square. Robt. McDougall starts for Denver. The Maccabees will go to Bawbees lake June 11. Perry Long back from a visit at Benzonia.

JUNE 14 Democratic county convention held. C. E. met at Waterloo 7th and 8th. Brown Matheny acquitted on a charge of burglary at Oakland, Cal Reported case of small pox at Ashley.

JUNE 21. Republicans held Co. convention June 16 Gravel road commissioners at work. Supt. Merica reports fine commencement meetings over the county. Mr. Coffinberry and family move to Garrett. Ed. Rainier from Chicago on a visit. Our band goes to Corunna to play at the funeral of Chas. Calkins who died in Chicago. Old Settlers day.

JUNE 28. Populist county convention Saturday the 23d. Miss Estella Merica home for vacation. Chas. Rugman and his neighbors doing free practical work for "good roads." Their plan beats Coxeys.

JULY 5. Long distance telephone line coming in from south to unite with mam line at Waterloo. W. L. Meese writes of our early schools. John Lahnum and wife of Chicago here on a visit. C. L S. C. annual meeting reported. Mr. Fethers of Bryan, here consulting Dr. Swarts and others about more gas wells. Mrs. Houser, mother of Supt. Merica, dies at Garrett. District of Northern Indiana editors meet at Eagle Lake. Great strike at Chicago with riots, bloodshed and destruction of property.

JULY 12. Chicago a great camp, full of state and regular soldiers to save the city from destruction by mobs. Trains can go in and out preceded by a train of regulars or police. Mrs. Webster of Minneapolis, visiting her sister Mrs. J. E. Rose and others. F. W. Stoops has a field of corn as high as his shoulders. Wabash elevator saved from fire again Railroad bridge at Waterloo burned.

JULY 19. Uncle John Leas celebrated his 78th birthday July 12 Hartman & West dissolved and Hartman & Hartman is the new firm name there, W. C. Hartman being the new member, while Mr. West starts an office for himself. Auburn Rifles go the front to stop rioting at Hammond. Bad fire at Edon. Judge Adair up here to try the Davis case.

JULY 26. Geo. Clark, of the Rifles, sends a letter from the front at Post Kiger, and John Lochner comes home for more rations and clothing for the men. Waterloo Opera house burned the 24th. Pearl Kelley reaches here on a second attempt to come from Omaha. Was held up by mob at St. Louis the first time July 2. Geo. Wittmer of Indianapolis was here. Lightning struck the Evangelical church in Waterloo. Mr. Wooton's children home from Clinton county. Rev. N J. Myers here. Rev. F. Keller married July 11 Mrs. A. J. Ralston entertains a number of old ladies in honor of her mother Mrs. Barclay.

(CONTINUED ON EIGHTH PAGE.)

OWING to the unfavorable condition of Weather and Roads the past week we have decided to continue our Grand

SLAUGHTER SALE

OF

Dress Goods and Clothing

UNTIL

JAN. 1, '95.

This sale is running far ahead of our greatest expectations. If you are needing anything in DRESS GOODS or CLOTHING you cannot afford to miss it.

We have a fine assortment of

UMBRELLAS,

NECKWEAR,

HANDKERCHIEFS,

SHIRTS, RUGS,

PORTIERES.

CARPET SWEEPERS,

And many other useful articles suitable for Christmas presents. We will try to please you, both in

QUALIT AND PRICE

COME AND SEE US

Schaab & Bro.

Spring Curry Comb

Clock Spring Blade. Soft as a Brush. Fits every Curve. The Only Perfect Comb. Used by U. S. Army and by Barnum and Forepaugh Circuses, and Leading Horsemen of the World. Ask your Dealer for It. Sample mailed post paid 25 cents. See our name on the handle. SPRING CURRY COMB CO., 104 Lafayette St., South Bend, Indiana.

They Lighten Labor and must please the Housewife because they are perfect in every part.

PENINSULAR FURNACES STOVES RANGES GUARANTEED THE BEST

Quick Bakers, Superior Cookers, Powerful Heaters.

Great variety of styles and sizes

A Written Guarantee given with every stove.

Used by Thousands, Should be by You.

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

MOTHERS, Do You Know that Paregoric, Bateman's Drops, Godfrey's Cordial, many so-called Soothing Syrups, and most remedies for children are composed of opium or morphine?

Do You Know that opium and morphine are stupefying narcotic poisons?

Do You Know that in most countries druggists are not permitted to sell narcotics without labeling them poisons?

Do You Know that you should not permit any medicine to be given your child unless you or your physician know of what it is composed?

Do You Know that Castoria is a purely vegetable preparation, and that a list of its ingredients is published with every bottle?

Do You Know that Castoria is the prescription of the famous Dr. Samuel Pitcher. That it has been in use for nearly thirty years, and that more Castoria is now sold than of all other remedies for children combined?

Do You Know that the Patent Office Department of the United States, and of other countries, have issued exclusive right to Dr. Pitcher and his assigns to use the word "Castoria" and its formula, and that to imitate them is a state prison offense?

Do You Know that one of the reasons for granting this government protection was because Castoria had been proven to be absolutely harmless?

Do You Know that 35 average doses of Castoria are furnished for 35 cents, or one cent a dose?

Do You Know that when possessed of this perfect preparation, your children may be kept well, and that you may have unbroken rest?

Well, these things are worth knowing. They are facts.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNS, - - PUBLISHER.

A Boston exchange says Seeley was "fiduciary fugitive." If that is so he must be a very bad man, indeed.

A New York woman has pawned the ashes of her cremated husband for $125. Some New York husbands, it seems, are worth more dead than alive.

The $354,000 stolen by Bookkeeper Seeley has evaporated, leaving nothing behind it. For all his pains Seeley has nothing left but a penitentiary sentence.

Chicopee, Mass., has just gone into the business of furnishing her citizens with electric lights. This makes the fourth Massachusetts town to get a divorce from the franchise sharks.

If Li Hung Chang really has $500,000,000 it seems strange that he would remain in China as a punching-bag for Japan when he could enjoy himself in this country for several months on that amount.

A Texas lawyer who got drunk ran amuck in Chicago and shot a bartender and a bystander, both strangers to him, remarked grandiloquently: "That's what we do in Texas to fellows who traduce our wives." He should remember also that Chicago sometimes hangs murderous fools who shoot down innocent citizens in cold blood.

The opinion of professional pugilists, that it was not the blow which killed Bowen at New Orleans, but the force with which his head struck the floor, is ingenious, but lacks originality. It was said of a hod-carrier who tumbled from the top of a six-story building with fatal results, that it was not the fall which caused death, "but stopping so suddenly."

Patents have been issued at Washington to a Western man for an electrical device making collision of trains impossible. The invention is timely for the Chicago tunnel-using corporations. But there is not the slightest likelihood that they will adopt it so long as they can buy up Council members enough to save money on safety devices.

North Carolina is the latest State to agitate for good roads. The people there have just awakened—or been awakened, rather—to the fact that for eight months in the year when their roads are at the best a 2,000-pound load is about an average for two horses, which in the bad season is reduced to 1,000, while on a good macadam road the average load for two horses is 4,000 pounds. A few object lessons of this character will teach the people that poor roads are the poorest kind of economy.

Our exchanges tell of the organization of a peculiar society in Detroit called the "Anti-Kissing League." Its sole purpose is to discourage those emotional persons who find relief from high pressure feelings only in osculation. The platform of the league is "Kissing must go!" and its members have adopted as a distinctive badge a bright, red ribbon, worn in the buttonhole or at the throat. This flaming red challenge is not intended to invite to contest, but to warn all would-be trespassers to "keep off the grass," figuratively speaking. In view of the fact that thus far the membership includes only unmarried women over 40 years old, perhaps it is just as well to label them plainly in order to prevent waste of time and emotional energy.

The first conviction on the Lexow committee's evidence took place when a jury found ex-Police Captain Stephenson guilty of bribery in accepting four baskets of peaches from a dealer. The offense sems trivial, but there are a good many far graver charges against Stephenson. He was tried on his one because the evidence was most conclusive here. What a change has come over the spirit of New York! A year ago the conviction of a police captain seemed as far beyond the range of possibility as the defeat of Tammany. Yet both have been accomplished, and in both cases the result was brought about by the force of public opinion aroused by Dr. Parkhurst. Life is no longer all beer and skittles or peaches and cream for the thieves and blackmailers of New York.

By the wise and abundant provision of the United States Government there are now on the shores of Lake Superior some of the wealthiest Indians—meaning those who still cling to their tribal relations—that can be found anywhere. There are Indians, full-blooded Chippewas of the Northern Wisconsin tribes, who, by leaving their tribes and reservations and learning practical methods of business, have come into some local prominence as being well-to-do and safe business venturers. But the number is very few. The most surprising fact is that scores of Indians, who still cling to the traditions of their forefathers, and who do not seem to have any inclination to sever tribal relations, are rich and do not know it. The government has taken a very wise precaution in their behalf by clothing the Indian agent with authority to act as guardian to their wealth. It is a very common thing to see credited on the books of the Indian agent department, in the government building at Ashland, amounts as high as $4,000 or more to some individual Indian. These are by no means out-and-out gifts from the government, although direct appropriations of large amounts have been scattered among the Indians by the government agents. The long list of amounts which now appear on the credit side of the ledger for some long Indian names, appear there as the result of commercial exchange, to which the Indians themselves and the purchasers of their timber are parties, while the government, as a third party, sees that everything is transacted properly, and that nothing to the Indians' detriment is done. Timber on most of the fifteen reservations under the supervision of the La Pointe agency is valuable. This timber is now being cut under the supervision of the Indian agent, and the [illegible] of the Chippewas are being filled

The Cramps get $414,600 premiums on the new cruiser Minneapolis because of making it more speedy than the contract demanded. Why should not the contracts of the Government fix the speed of the vessel to be built and hold the builders to that speed without bonus or premium. Government officers design the new men-of-war and their designs fix practically the speeding possibilities. It is folly to make a contract for an eighteen-knot vessel with a big premium to the builders if she goes twenty knots. Why not make the contract call for twenty knots? The existing system by which the Cramps get $414,600 in premiums on one vessel is as unbusiness-like as it would be for a builder to say to a contractor: "Here is a plan for a 100-room building. You can bid on it with the understanding that if you can squeeze in 101 rooms you shall have a bonus of 10 per cent. on the amount of your bid."

The complacency of England and Canada toward this country in the matter of canal policies would be lovely if it were not for future possibilities. England is as willing that the United States should construct the Nicaragua canal as it was that France and Egypt should construct the Suez canal, which it now owns. Canada offers permission to the United States to take control of the entire system of Canadian canals and keep them in repair. In both cases, that of Nicaragua and that of Canada, the canals, after the United States should take control, would be just as free to British and Canadian commerce respectively as they would be if England and Canada should be at the cost of construction and repair. They are perfectly willing that the United States should pay all the expense of the canals for the joint use and benefit of all parties concerned. It is a remarkably edifying display of international good nature.

TIPS FROM THE EARS.

A Young Lady of Observation Says There Is Much Character in Them.

"I don't know whether there is any such science as aurology," said a young lady of observation, "but I find it a very safe and useful thing to take note of my friends' ears. I haven't yet got so far in my studies as to formulate a fixed set of rules for the reading of character by the size, shape and convolutions of these funny little head-handles of ours; in fact, my studies have been directed to one point—the top or apex of the ear. There's a whole world of tell-tale indications there, and it would be a good thing if young girls were to form the habit of casting a glance at that part of the anatomy of their callers and admirers, and make a mental note for their own guidance by what they see there.

"If the top of the ear lies close to the head and the ridge is straight or only gently rounded the young man that owns that kind of ear may be counted on as being eminently proper and as harmless as a lamb. But if the top starts away from the head at a well defined angle and runs up to a point before turning down to become the back ridge of the ear—well, that young man had better be kept at a good safe distance. That's the faun ear, the satyr ear, and when those wise old Greeks and Romans gave to the capering companions of the nymphs of the woods goat legs and goat ears they knew what they were about. Men haven't changed one whit, either, and that point of the ear is just as full of character and warning to-day as it was when Bacchus was doing business at the old sign of 'The Rollicking Rams.'"

A Floral Curio.

One of the greatest curiosities is the snow flower that blooms in the northern portion of Siberia, where the earth is continually covered with a coating of snow and frost. This wonderful plant shoots forth from the frozen soil on the first day of the year, and reaches the height of about three feet; it blooms on the third day, remains open twenty-four hours and then returns to its original elements. If shines for a single day, then the stem, leaves and flower are converted into snow. The leaves are three in number. The flower is star-shaped, its petals about as long as the leaves and about half an inch wide. On the third day the extremities of the leaves show little glistening specks, like diamonds, about the size of the head of a pin. These are the seeds of this queer flower. On one occasion some of these seeds were gathered and hastily transported to St. Petersburg. They were then placed in a bed of snow, where they were kept until the first of the following year, when the snow flower burst forth and was greatly admired and wondered at by all who saw it.

She Loved Cats.

Miss Raine was an Englishwoman who died at Woodstock last June and whose will deserves a place in the curiosities of literature. She leaves some of her estate to Lord Randolph Churchill "in recognition of his commanding political genius," and her "dear old white puss Tities, and her pussies Tabby Rolla, Tabby Jennefee and black and white Ursula to Ann Elizabeth Matthews," who is to have £12 a year for the maintenance of each cat. Her "long-haired white puss Louise and her black and white puss Dr. Clausman" are left to her "handmaiden, Elizabeth Willoughby," and her Black Ebony and White Oscar to Miss Lavinia Sophia Beck. Twelve pounds a year is to be paid for each of these, and the remainder of her cats she gives to Ann Matthews, who is to have £150 a year for their maintenance, but this is "not to extend to kittens afterwards born."

French Postal Cards.

A unique innovation of the postal-card system will soon be adopted in France. Instead of the cards being separate, as they now are, they will be issued in the form of check books with stubs. A memorandum of the contents of the card can be entered on the stub, and the sender can have this stamped at the postoffice before the card is detached, so that a verified record of the correspondence can be kept.

Swedish Weddings.

A curious custom prevails in Sweden. On her wedding day the bride has her pockets filled with bread. On her way to church she distributes the pieces among the poor, believing [illegible] gift will [illegible]

NEAR TO STARVATION

WIDESPREAD DISTRESS IN WESTERN NEBRASKA.

Failure of Crops in the Semi-Arid District, Not Yet Watered by Irrigation, Has Driven Thousands of People to Actual Want.

In Sore Need of Aid.

The stories coming into Omaha of the destitution and suffering in the central and western counties of Nebraska, as the result of last summer's drought, are heart-rending. Appalling tales are told of the condition of the settlers in this semi-arid district, where irrigation has not yet had a chance to transform the sandy soil into a garden spot. Thousands of people are reported on the verge of starvation, but so far there have been only three deaths reported as the result of actual hunger. There may have been more, but so far they have escaped publicity. It is in the extreme southwestern counties of the State that the condition of the people is most appalling—in Perkins, Dundy, Chase and Hayes Counties. In Perkins County alone, of which Grant is the county seat, there are 3,000 people who are actually destitute.

The situation there is told graphically by County Clerk Wilcox, who has made public the following statement:

"We are facing the most desperate situation in our history. About $15,000 of the county's money is tied up in the broken banks of Grant, and all three banks are broken. We have issued bonds to the full limit allowed by the law, and our warrants have been refused by some of the merchants. The latter are already out considerable money for goods furnished to laborers on the ditch. We voted $90,000 in ditch bonds for an irrigation ditch which tapped the South Platte west of Julesburg and ran the entire length of our county. This was in September, and about a month later almost every voter in the county—between 500 and 600—went out there to work on it. They took their teams, and in some cases cows and families. In the meantime we had nothing in the house to eat. My daughter Rose came across an old flour sack containing some stale bread and crusts, which had been in the house eighteen months, hard and dry as a bone. By pounding with a hammer and soaking in warm water, we were able to eat them, while my son was away in search of work. We have lived the past year almost exclusively on bread and flour-and-water gravy. There are many in this vicinity who are fully as destitute as we are. Food and fuel are what we are the most in need of. We can burrow in the ground to hide our nudity and keep from freezing, but it will not satisfy hunger."

"NO WOLF EVER COMES TO MY DOOR. I'D EAT HIM IF HE DID."

while the bonds have not been sold, probably from distrust of Eastern capital in Western investments. The consequence is that the farmers who did this work upon the ditch are a great deal worse off than if they had not gone out there at all. The crops of the last two years have been total failures, and in nine years we have had but three crops. The limit of our bond issue having been reached we are left helpless for funds of any kind. Men and women sometimes drive in here for twenty-five miles for relief which we are unable to give. Farmers who have lived in the county for years and have sunk their capital here trying to raise crops come to me with tears in their eyes and ask for food. There is not a stream of water in Perkins County nor a living spring. Wells run from 60 to 200 feet, the majority being from about 150 to 200 feet deep. The soil, if watered, raises good crops; if not, it bakes into a solid mass. The roads and much of the prairies resemble asphalt, so hard packed and smooth are they."

As a result of these conditions many of the settlers have left the country, and a traveler through the county describes the situation graphically:

On every hand the bare country spread itself. Not a shrub, not a tree met the sight; no creeks, no rivers, no sign of anything which would give moisture or produce hay. The rolling swells of the table land are covered with the shot, crisp brown grass, but nothing above ankle high shows itself, except a dead and deserted tree claim on the right side. But little stock could be seen, though what was there was in good condition. A few deserted sod huts and frame houses were seen, and there were signs, here and there, that some habitations had been taken down and removed with the other goods of the owners when they left.

In some cases farm implements were seen in the fields, and at a distance substantial granaries stood just as their owners had left them. One farmer I talked with, who had come to this town for relief, said, with tears in his eyes: "I never applied for help before and I never thought to, but when a fellow has lost all his crops for two years, and has had his team and cows taken away on account of board while working on the ditch, he can't see his family starve. I'm not above saying that there isn't a thing in the house but a little flour and about a peck of potatoes that was left of the last lot they gave me credit for at the store.

"I'm no worse off than my neighbors," he continued; "but the honest truth is that we're all mighty near starvation. They're all good, industrious men, and have worked night and day, some of them, to try and get a crop. Since June 14 last not a drop of rain fell on my place except a light shower too late in the fall. It stood 106 and 108 in the shade, I'm told, several days in succession in June, and then the hot winds did the rest. I tell you there is going to be starvation all over the county in a few weeks. The farmers are on their last row, and unless help comes in a few days I don't know what'll happen." It is not too much to say that his case is well nigh typical of the farmers throughout the county.

On Sunday a visit to the house of one of the settlers revealed the farmer dressing a jack rabbit he had killed.

"I'll hang this fellow out to freeze tonight," he said, "and I'll live high for a day or two."

"Well, you manage to keep the wolf from the door?" I asked.

"No wolf ever comes to my door," said the sand hills philosopher; "I'd eat him if he did."

It is said on good authority that in a drive of thirty miles in any direction from Grant ten tons of fodder could not be found.

The situation in Hayes and Hitchcock Counties is but little better than in Perkins. County Commissioner Rhodes, of Hayes County, gives the following details of destitution and suffering in his district:

"I tell you the situation is about as bad as it can be. We have raised no crops—no, sir, none. I speak from bitter experience, for you can see for yourself that there wasn't an ear of corn on one of those stalks. Even the stalks are not any too good fodder. And I am no worse than my neighbors. The stock has been [illegible] the country and sold for [illegible]ing. Cows brought as low as $6 or $8, although to-day they are worth $16. So we have no stock. Our funds are about exhausted. There is very little money in the treasury, but the merchants cash our warrants at par. We are offering limited aid only to the most urgent cases, cutting our requisitions down to the lowest living quantity of all the necessaries. No sugar, coffee or tea is given out except to old or infirm persons. There is the greatest need of fuel and flour at present. In the spring everyone except a few will need seed of all kinds."

Many Deserting Their Farms.

Postmaster Nickerson, of Marengo, tells the following tale of helpless starvation as he has seen and experienced it in his neighborhood:

"I am keeping three families on a pension of $12 per month. Luckily, I have a little credit here and there. The other day I called on some neighbors of mine, not suspecting that they were in want. The woman met me at the door in an old and torn calico dress and a pair of rotten shoes. I asked her if that was the best clothing she had. She said it was, but that she needed something more than clothing, and that was food. I gave her an order for $14 worth of groceries at Hayes Center and also one on the county. A good many of my neighbors have left. Their teams were mortgaged and they couldn't get away. I have fifty or more head of horses, and I told five men to pick out teams and go on. They did this, leaving their mortgaged teams to run at large. The stock of the county is mostly gone. People either took it away with them or the mortgage men have got it. Some irrigating was done near our place on the Red Willow. One man, on a patch about 20 by 30 feet, raised cabbages which sold for 25 cents a head and potatoes which a while ago brought $3 a bushel."

Stories like these are coming from all directions in the afflicted district.

In Other States.

In more than twenty of the counties of western Kansas the suffering and destitution are fully as great as they are in Nebraska. E. A. Gilbert, writing from Macon, Wallace County, that State, gives this truly startling description of the condition of the destitute there: "At one

NEWFOUNDLAND'S PREMIER.

Man Who Guards the Queen's Interest in That Province.

Accompanying this sketch is a picture of Hon. A. F. Goodridge, premier of Newfoundland, who has been of unusual interest during the crisis the government of the island has passed through recently. It is said its experience is unparalleled in corruption. The government of Newfoundland is simply a miniature of that of Great Britain, consisting of a Governor, appointed by the Crown, a Legislative Council of 15 members, appointed by the Governor and holding office for life, and a House of Assembly of 36 members, elected every four years by manhood suffrage and secret ballot. After the fall of the ministry of W. V. Whiteway, Hon. A. F. Goodridge was called upon by Governor O'Brien to form a ministry, which he did. Much beneficial work has been done and a comparatively clean government established.

A. F. GOODRIDGE.

Telegraphic Clicks.

The Union Pacific shops at Cheyenne, Wyo., may be closed down, throwing 200 men out of employment.

Bishop McDonald, acting for the Pope, invested Rev. Dr. Joseph P. O'Connell, of New York, with the title of Monsignor.

William Childs, residing at Coatsville, Mo., had trouble with his sister-in-law and shot Ora Long, her lover, when he championed her cause.

Harry Bauchmann, aged 32, train dispatcher on the Wabash Road at Andrews, Ind., committed suicide with poison while temporarily insane.

Harry Wells and Charles Rowe, two Philadelphia lumber swindlers, were arrested in Atlanta, Ga., and will be taken back to Pennsylvania for trial.

Chief of Police Pratt and Detectives Sheets and Ferguson, who had been in jail for ten days at Salt Lake, Utah, for contempt in refusing to answer questions, were released.

BOUNTY TO FARMERS.

SCHEME FOR CORRECTING PROTECTION'S INEQUALITIES.

All Persons Can't Grow Richer by Taxing Each Other—Senators Should Be Forced on Record—Tremendous Expenditures in Patriotism's Name.

Justice Is Demanded.

Mr. D. Lubin, of Sacramento, Cal., appeared before the Maryland State Grange at its meeting in Baltimore, and explained a plan he has evolved by which he hopes the inequalities now existing between the prices of manufactured goods and farm staples may be corrected. This plan, Mr. Lubin says, was laid before the National Grange at its recent meeting in Cincinnati and received the indorsement of that organization, and he is now visiting the State granges all over the country, explaining his theory and seeking their indorsement of it.

The Maryland Grange received him warmly and heard his address, but took no action on his plan, although it was regarded favorably by a number of the members.

Mr. Lubin contends that the inequality between agricultural and manufactured products can only be secured by protecting each alike. He proposes that the duty collected on imported products shall be made sufficiently large to pay a bounty to farmers for exporting agricultural products. This, he says, will prevent Liverpool from fixing the price of American wheat and other products sent abroad.

Mr. Lubin and Mr. A. J. Wedderburn, of Virginia, will appear before the Committee on Agriculture of the United States House of Representatives to urge it to report to Congress a law embodying his project.

Supposing that Mr. Lubin's scheme, if made law, would correct inequalities and protect farmers as well as manufacturers, what then? Would it be just to all? Would it be the easiest, simplest and best way to correct the inequalities of protection, which taxes farmers, laborers and all consumers to enrich a few, mainly manufacturers and mine-owners? Where would the millions of common laborers and professional men, not employed in protected mills or on protected farms, come in? There are others to be considered besides the farmers who, under the Lubin scheme, are to get back in bounties what they pay out in taxes to the protected mill-owners. Why not extend the bounty system to all who are taxed by the tariff system? If it is impracticable to protect the common laborer by an export premium on products exported, then let the government, which taxes him 40 per cent. on woolen goods, refund this by paying about 30 per cent. of the cost of woolen goods when the laborer makes such purchases.

But supposing all tariff duties could be returned by bounties to those who now pay them, and that all were then protected alike, what would be the benefits of such a system? Can all persons grow richer by taxing each other? If each of 1,000 persons put $1 in a pool and each draws out $1, is any one or are all richer? Of course manufacturers are glad to see farmers and laborers contribute to the present protection pool, because the whole contents are emptied into the laps of the manufacturers. It is these pools which have drained the farmers and have produced 5,000 millionaires and multi-millionaires during the past thirty years. Now that the farmers are discovering that they get nothing out of the protection pool they should take the simplest method of equalizing protection taxes—abolish the pool and put manufacturers on an equal footing with all other producers. This will do justice to all and save the trouble and expense of cumbersome machinery with which to run the pool.

Manufactures of Wool.

In reviewing the dry goods market for the week, the Wool and Cotton Reporter says:

"Some agents for mills making men's wear report that they have received re-orders on spring stuff from the clothing trade during the past week, although of course the inquiry is not very pronounced as yet. Most of the mills find that they have got all that they can attend to for some time to come in getting forward their goods which were sold on [illegible] orders. There is the same complaint over the delay in getting goods and the same hurrying and nerve-straining exertion on the part of manufacturers' agents to make good their contracts. It is remarkable, at first thought, that there have not been more cancellations. Many manufacturers have been positively unable to live up to their contracts. They cannot make the goods and deliver them when wanted, for the reason that they cannot do six months' work in three. The buyer, who is grumbling because he cannot get his goods, knows that he is himself to blame in not ordering earlier, and he realizes that if he cancels his orders, he stands no better show of having them filled elsewhere more expeditiously. He has to wait. Cancellations, therefore, have been very few and are likely to continue so."

Reports didn't read like this one during the dark days of McKinleyism. Will any Republican dare advocate taxed wool in 1897? Only those who now think that hides and raw silk should be taxed.

Try Again.

The Democrats of the Senate who are in favor of repealing the odious sugar tax should not be discouraged by their failure to bring the bill up. They should persist until they get every Senator on record.

The Democrats, having a majority, are responsible for the action of the Senate. But this does not relieve the Republicans of their accountability to the people. After having denounced the Democrats throughout the late campaign for yielding to the sugar ring they voted solidly, so far as they were willing to go on record, against even taking up the bill to repeal this tax. They seek to excuse their action on the ground that they are "opposed to reopening the tariff debate." But the general tariff question is not involved in a motion to strike out sugar duty that was forced into the [illegible] by a corrupt and scandalous combination of legislative strikers and stock-jobbers representing both parties. It is a question of national [illegible]—of the Senate's good name. [illegible]ing to help wipe out this [illegible] Republican Senators leave [illegible] open to the charge [illegible] gard to the sugar tax, and of really desiring to save to the trust some portion of the enormous bonus which the McKinley law gave to it.

If the Republicans can afford to take this attitude the Democrats certainly cannot afford to stand with them.—New York World.

The Great Pension Burden.

At the close of the fiscal year June 30, 1864, the number of persons upon the pension rolls of the United States was almost 1,000,000. The precise figures are 969,544. This makes a pensioner of nearly one of every seventy inhabitants of the United States. The number of pensioners added to the roll during this year was 39,085, the number dropped 37,951, showing that almost thirty years after the close of the war the industry of pensions making, notwithstanding all the casualties that have occurred in that long period, is so great that the number of pensioners created is greater that the number that in the ordinary course of events disappears.

No country on the face of the globe ever saw or suffered such tremendous expenditures in the name of patriotism. The estimate for the fiscal year ending in 1896 on disbursement of pensions is $140,000,000.

When expenditures for pensions had reached $35,000,000, some twenty years ago, it was thought that the very utmost that could be attained in this regard had been reached and that thereafter the amount would be a diminishing one. Every deserver was then upon the roll, for abundant time had elapsed in which to place him there, but the roll is now crowded with undeservers. Day after day there is added to that roll the names of soldiers' widows who were born long after the surrender at Appomattox, and who knew necessarily nothing by experience of the civil war. The situation has become such that practically a service pension is given, a marvelous departure from the original understanding, which was that pensions should be extended only because of the death in battle of a soldier, or of disabling wounds sustained by him in the line of duty.

There may or may not be an end of pension legislation, but if [illegible] be further increased it [illegible] where the means o[illegible] come from.—Chicag[illegible]

"Not Stuck on [illegible]

The Republican [illegible] paign committee h[illegible] in it appeared that [illegible] was not the only [illegible] clare a return to [illegible] and impossible. [illegible] ment of the Western [illegible] gantly expressed b[illegible] from Oklahoma, wh[illegible] West is not stuck on a [illegible] roused Congressman [illegible] sisted" that the grea[illegible] meant endorsement [illegible] iff legislation. Se[illegible] the vociferous [illegible] he knew abo[illegible] formed that [illegible] far into t[illegible] provoked [illegible] souri Cong[illegible] was going to [illegible] didate was h[illegible] tariff. Senato[illegible] vised moderatio[illegible] son of Washingto[illegible] man took the true [illegible] everybody happy whe[illegible] soon as the Republican [illegible] in power it would "solve [illegible] with the same supernal [illegible] which it had solved all other [illegible] in the past.—New York Post.

Monuments to Free Wool.

Free wool is building an immense storage house for wools in New York city with a stock exchange on one floor. New York merchants hope to make New York a wool center second only to London. This prospect is not viewed with equanimity by Boston, Philadelphia and Chicago, three of our present great wool markets. Bostonians are coming to the conclusion that their State law which forbids the building of structures (except church spires) to a greater height than 125 feet nor more than two and one-half times the width of the adjoining street, is driving capital and business into other States. Philadelphia has not yet been able to explain her lack of enterprise in erecting a business monument to free wool, and Chicago has about concluded that it must have a wool warehouse. Other cities have not yet been heard from, but are probably as jealous of New York. Rivalry and competition are the life of trade.

The Three Generals.

The conduct of war resembles the conduct of life. There are rules and principles which it is well to know; but, for success, more is needed than knowledge. The successful man sees the world as it is, grasps the situation before him, goes straight to the point, and keeps to it. We say of him, in one aspect, that he has character; in another, that he has common sense, and common sense at its best we call genius. The command of an army is a matter of character and common sense. In Napoleon's words, "A la guerre les hommes ne sont rien, c'est un homme qui est tout."

Of generals not mere ciphers there are three kinds. There is the commander who has the force of will, but whose intelligence is not cultivated. He makes a good subordinate—a Ney or a Benedek—but is prone to fall when left to himself. Then there is the intellectual man, apt to take in more learning than he can carry. He becomes a Brunswick, a Hassenbach, a Colley. Sometimes, but not often, a powerful mind is coupled with a very strong backbone. Such a man, when he has a chance, does great things. Moltke's problems are not conclusive evidence as to character, but one can study them without [illegible] the master quality of mind [illegible] thor may have [illegible] but it [illegible] W[illegible]

PIPER HEIDSIECK PLUG TOBACCO

CHAMPAGNE FLAVOR

Consumers of chewing tobacco who are willing to pay a little more than the price charged for the ordinary trade tobaccos, will find this brand superior to all others.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.

DR. MOTT'S PENNYROYAL PILLS

The only safe, sure and reliable Female Pill ever offered to Ladies, especially recommended to married Ladies. Beware of pills put up in tin boxes as they are dangerous. Ask for Dr. Mott's PENNYROYAL PILLS and take no other. Send for circular. Price $1.00 per box, 6 boxes for $5.00. DR. MOTT'S CHEMICAL CO., - Cleveland, O.

Fisher & Son, Auburn, Ind.

FITS!

Brace Up! Don't Lose Courage!

Your disease is not incurable because you [illegible] Physician has given you up, and you have not received any benefit from the medicine you [illegible] tried, is not any reason you cannot be [illegible] positively cure all kinds [illegible]

W. P. HARRISON & [illegible]

Sex-ine Pills

RESTORE LOST VIGOR

Before and After Using.

New discovery. Will brace you up in a week. Sold with a WRITTEN GUARANTEE to Cure Nervous Debility, Loss of Sexual Power in either sex, Involuntary Emissions from any cause. If neglected these troubles lead to consumption or insanity. $1 by mail, 6 boxes for $5. With every $5 a written guarantee to cure or refund the money. Address PEAL MEDICINE CO., Cleveland, O.

Sold by Fischler & Son.

5,000 ACRES CENTRAL MICHIGAN FA[illegible]

Near Saginaw and Bay City. Schools and markets adjacent. [illegible] acre, on easy payments. Satisfactory farmers and parents with a start in life, can [illegible] Mapa [illegible] SCHWARTZ [illegible] SAGINAW, [illegible]

RE[illegible]

My Wife's Nerves

Are weak and she suffers terribly from nervousness, headache and loss of sleep. Such is the testimony of many a man. The poor, tired woman is suffering from impure and impoverished blood. Her food does not digest. She is living on her nerves, because her strength is gone. Her nerves and muscles

Need Strengthening

by the use of Hood's Sarsaparilla, which makes pure, rich blood, creates an appetite, and gives tone to all organs of the body. This is not what we say—it is what Hood's Sarsaparilla does. "My wife began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla about three months ago. She has been in poor health for fifteen years. Hood's is doing her good. Her appetite is better and she looks better, and there has been improvement in every way." J. W. ROBINSON, Greenfield, Tennessee.

Hood's Sarsaparilla Cures

Be sure to get HOOD'S.

Hood's Pills are the best after-dinner Pills, assist digestion, prevent constipation.

A Novel Call.

A peculiar kind of call has been devised for special military purposes by a French army officer. This call, which is called "the dog," is produced by means of an instrument in which a wheel carrying a series of stripes of steel upon its circumference and passing between the poles of a magnet develops currents of variable frequency. The circulation in the line of these currents produces in the receivers a characteristic signal, perceptible at a distance, and exactly resembling the bark of a dog. It would appear that the most enlightened nations of the day are not above following the methods adopted by the untutored savage, whose favorite mode of transmitting signals, both in war and the chase, is imitating the crier of animals or the note of wild birds.

TAP has been substituted for wax for the recording surface of the phonograph by a Berlin inventor. The advantage gained is that soap is unaffected by ordinary changes of temperature.

A Thankful Mother's Letter to Mrs. Pinkham.

"Last winter I did not think my little ones would have a mother long. I suffered terribly with female troubles.

"I could keep nothing on my stomach and got so 'poor' my friends hardly knew me. I suffered with severe headaches, dizziness, faintness, backache, and 'the blues.'

"Thanks to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I am now as fat as ever, and have no female troubles. If you use my letter, I hope it may be the means of saving some other poor mother's life as it did mine."—Mrs. Ella Van Buren, 821 Garden St., Peoria, Ill.

The Greatest Medical Discovery of the Age.

KENNEDY'S MEDICAL DISCOVERY.

DONALD KENNEDY, OF ROXBURY, MASS.,

Has discovered in one of our common pasture weeds a remedy that cures every kind of Humor, from the worst Scrofula down to a common Pimple.

He has tried it in over eleven hundred cases, and never failed except in two cases (both thunder humors). He has now in his possession over two hundred certificates of its value, all within twenty miles of Boston. Send postal card for book.

A benefit is always experienced from the first bottle, and a perfect cure is warranted when the right quantity is taken.

When the lungs are affected it causes shooting pains, like needles passing through them; the same with the Liver or Bowels. This is caused by the ducts being stopped, and always disappears in a week after taking it. Read the label.

If the stomach is foul or bilious it will cause squeamish feelings at first.

No change of diet ever necessary. Eat the best you can get, and enough of it. Dose, one tablespoonful in water at bedtime. Sold by all Druggists.

My son was afflicted with catarrh. I induced him to try Ely's Cream Balm and the disagreeable catarrhal smell all left him. He appears as well as any one.—J. C. Olmsted, Arcola, Ill.

ELY'S CREAM BALM

Opens and cleanses the Nasal Passages. Allays Pain and Inflammation. Heals the Sores. Protects the Membrane from Cold. Restores the Senses of Taste and Smell. The Balm is quickly absorbed and gives relief at once.

A particle is applied into each nostril and is agreeable. Price 50 cents at Druggists or by mail.

ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren Street, New York.

...EVERY...

Home-Seeker

SHOULD READ

the pamphlet recently issued by the Passenger Department of the Illinois Central Railroad, entitled "Southern Homes." "Guide for 1894." contains over 90 extracts from Northern farmers now located in the South and other authentic and valuable information. For a FREE COPY address the undersigned, Max Heyer, Iowa:

J. F. MERRY, Assistant General Passenger Agent.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children teething; softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic. 25c. a bottle.

LOW NECKS IN FAVOR

COSTUMES THAT SHOW THE SHOULDERS MUCH WORN.

Deplored by So-Called Reformers, but Swagger Folk Will Not Discard Them—Should Be a Law Against Scrawny Women Baring Their Necks.

Fashion's Foibles.

New York Correspondence:

MUCH as low-necked dresses are deplored by so-called reformers, they are worn a great deal by swagger folk, and many a beautiful device for enhancing a gown's beauty had its first use on a low-cut costume. The attacks upon this fashion seem to have little effect upon its supporters, who are as many as ever. Indeed, many elderly women now year low-necked dresses, and there is good reason for extending the fashion to them, if they want to adopt it, for women of gray hairs frequently have very pretty necks. If they are not too plump, an evening gown that is cut low is all right. But in this connection it may be stated with reason that there ought to be a law against any woman's baring her neck if she is not pretty enough to have excuse for so doing. Many of the new forms of low-neck expose the round of the shoulder, the decolletage being straight across the bust, instead of round or square. The change benefits both the full and the thin figures, but the possessor of the former is much inclined these days towards gowns that cover the shoulders.

A very handsome example of this cut is that in the initial picture. Its materials are dotted yellow watered silk and ruby velvet. The bodice hooks in front, but the wide pointed plastron hooks over. Caught in the side seams are loose narrow jacket fronts trimmed with yellow lace and ruby bows. The basque is slightly longer in back than in front, and is draped in the center of the back by means of a deep pleat. The left jacket front is wider than the right, as it almost reaches the center of the top, and is there cut away bias toward the bottom in triangular shape. The straps over the shoulder are made of folded velvet, and the full velvet puff sleeves are topped by lace bretelles that reach to the edges of the jacket and form a round collar in back. Heavy silk lines the gored skirt, and its garniture consists of two bands of bits folded velvet caught with velvet bows.

THE SQUARE CUT-OUT.

In the second picture there is sketched another low cut dress that has the shoulders hidden, and it is altogether a very dainty creation. Cut from cream-colored faille, it is garnished with ecru embroidery, ecru and cream mousseline de soie and dark red ribbon. Then jack roses with foliage form bretelles that finish with red satin bows. The bell skirt is quite plain, and the bodice comes inside. Its vest is from shirred and plaited mousseline, and it is cut square at the neck in front but round in back. The sleeves consist of a series of mousseline de soie puffs and embroidered epaulettes.

To the uninitiated the thought of a gown cut to leave the shoulder uncovered is a shock, but after comparing the one displayed in the next sketch with the two that have preceded it, it will be seen that appearances favor the former. This is a youthful get-up, made from pale blue silk crepon, with a wide-gored skirt trimmed by a full flounce of the same goods. It is headed by a crepon ruching which turns upward at the left side, where a large blue satin bow is placed. The blouse waist has fitted blue silk lining, and its cut-out is bordered with a crepon ruching and a spray of wild roses is placed at the left with a bow. The sleeves are merely pleated epaulettes fastened to a fitted cap.

THE OFF-SHOULDER CUT.

With the sleeves of reception and theater dresses, the case is quite different, and they are made so large that even a cape threatens their beauty. The theater wrap, therefore, is a cape that is split into a series of panels. One panel rests lightly on each sleeve, one hangs in the middle of the back, and the front is in two, to admit of the fastening. Of course, there is little warmth about this thing, but the sleeves must be big, so what's to be done?

When it comes to theater hats wonderful things are worn. The Dutch bonnet and its modifications are the popular idea at present. Almost anything that is flat and very, very queer-looking may be called a Dutch bonnet. As, for instance, you may put on a very wide fillet band of steel, which shall reach over the top of the head to the tips of the ears. From its back edge a skull cap piece of lace or silk extends. At the sides of the skull cap wing-like bows are arranged, and at any unexpected place a couple of steel mercuries may rise. That is all, and it will be quite the thing. If you look very queer in it, don't be discouraged, but make up your mind, rather, that you have succeeded beautifully. Again, a top of open-work wire, studded in Rhinestones, is set on a band of silk, a couple of roses depend on either side, and a flare of sunburst of Rhinestones stands up in front. What is that? Why, a reception bonnet, and just the right sort of one, too, according to the current code.

Bluet and cerise are now enjoying great favor and are especially effective in trimmings. The latter is almost too brilliant to be used for whole garments, though occasional examples of it awake the echoes. With bluet it is different, because its tone is so much more gentle and entire costumes of it are in excellent taste. A handsome satin dress of this shade is portrayed in the fourth illustration. It is simply made and trimmed, guipure insertion being used as garniture. The bodice fastens on the side and is alike in back and front, being ornamented with three bands of the lace. The folded belt and collar to match are of black velvet, and the full sleeves are topped by fancy epaulettes banded with insertion. Haircloth stiffens the gored skirt throughout, and the front shows three lengthwise bands of lace matching that on the bodice.

ALL IN BLUET.

Among the new cloths that are bidding for popularity are several that are woven like silky wool, with a furry surface, the general effect being that of cotton flannel. But they're not cotton flannel, but some of the latest cloths and particularly handsome in greens and browns. They are well adapted to street gowns of the more elaborate type, a beauty being of green, bordered with sable and heavily enriched with yellow lace. In the gown from one of these stuffs that is displayed in the final cut, the trimming is not so costly, though it is expensive enough to show that these new rough materials are keeping good company. Its full skirt is laid in godet pleats and bordered around the bottom with a band of olive-green mirror velvet, three-looped ornaments of the velvet appearing at intervals. Two very narrow panels appear on the front and are ornamented at the top with cream guipure. The bodice is fitted and fastens on the side, the darts being covered with narrow velvet folds. A white moire collar and chemisette ornament the front, which is further adorned with velvet and buttons, as indicated.

THIS SKIRT AN ACQUIRED TASTE.

The very latest skirt is cut in godets all around and there is no difference of fullness front and back. Like olives, it is an acquired taste, but it is calculated to display to advantage the magnificence of material, while it does not follow or suggest the lines of the figure. It has the additional distinction of being a product of this century. Almost all fashions are mere revivals; not so this skirt, which never was before. It should fit closely about the waist, the godets forming at the hip line. These start small and swell and widen into veritable billows at the foot, from eight to ten godets serving to fill the entire round. There are two methods of managing the godet skirt. One lines it throughout with stiff crinoline or even haircloth, which keeps the godets in shape, no matter what changes the wearer makes in position. The effect is artificial and stiff, but whatever beauty there may be in the folds is not interfered with. The other method leaves the skirt without any lining but soft silk, and the godets turn and twist with every movement. The effect is odd enough, and more graceful than is the other, but only a very slim person can risk either, for both rob the figure of height.

Copyright, 1894.

THE twinkling of the stars forebodes bad weather, because it shows that there are aerial currents of different temperatures, thus probably indicating atmospheric disturbances.

THE pyramids were begun about 4,000 years ago.

AN oyster may carry as many as two million eggs.

TWO-FACED DAVE KENSIL.

A Man Who Can at Will Change the Contour of His Countenance.

The Rambler met a man yesterday who has been offered extraordinary sums to place himself before the public, but he has steadfastly refused, and it is not at all probable that his determination will ever be shaken, says the New York York Mail and Express. He is in fairly comfortable circumstances, and so long as he enjoys good health he is reasonably certain of an income of from $5,000 to $6,000 in his business as a solicitor for a well-known life insurance company. His name is David Kensil, and his home is in Denver. He makes his living now by the exercise of his powers of argument and pursuasion, but if he should ever become a "freak" his face would be his fortune.

So far as the Rambler knows, after making a long search, there is no record of any case similar to Kensil's. He possesses the remarkable faculty of changing the lines and contour of his countenance at will, and to such a degree that he can actually make himself unrecognizable to his intimate friends. In repose his face is of the Napoleonic type—prominent as to nose and chin and pronounced frontal arch. When he so wills he can, by the peculiar control he exerts over his facial muscles, cause his face to assume a priestly roundness; his eyes become prominent and round, instead of deep set; his chin to retreat instead of to set forward; his nose to broaden at the nostrils and his naturally thin lips to become thick and heavy. When he does this the cow's feet at the corners of his eyes disappear and the wrinkles leave his forehead. His expression is changed absolutely. If you can bring before your mind's eye the rotund visage of Col. Tom Ochiltree and the thin and sharply outlined features of ex-Senator Ingalls you may form an idea of how completely Mr. Kensil can alter his facial lines.

"I discovered my ability in this direction," said this singular man, "when I was about 16 years of age. I am now 46. You have seen men who can move their scalps. Well, it was in trying to imitate a companion who had that power that I found I could work certain muscles of the face. I cannot explain to you how I do it, but it comes just as natural as opening my mouth or closing my eyes. Ten or twelve years ago I was pestered to exhibit myself, but I refused, and let it be generally known among museum managers that no sum of money would tempt me to go before the public—and it wouldn't. Several physicians have expressed a desire to examine me, but I told them no. If I happen to be in a jolly party I don't mind amusing them, but I always decline to show what I can do before a parlor full of company. It seems too much like making a freak of me."

Mr. Kensil is known among his intimates as "Two-Faced Dave."

A NOBLE FIGHT.

AN EMINENT SOUTHERN LAWYER'S LONG CONFLICT WITH DISEASE.

Twenty-five Years of Prosperity, Adversity and Suffering—The Great Victory Won by Science Over a Stubborn Disease.

(From the Atlanta, Ga., Constitution.)

Foremost among the best known lawyers and farmers of North Carolina stands Col. Isaac A. Sugg, of Greenville. Mr. Sugg has resided in Greenville 22 years. While nearly everyone in Pitt Co. knows Mr. S's history, perhaps all do not know of his return to business again after an illness of 16 years. No man has gone through more than he, and lived. It was a case of the entire breaking down of the nervous system, attended by excruciating, agonizing, unendurable pain. Opiates and stimulants only quieted temporarily, and all treatments failed him. Only his love of family and friends prevented suicide. He told a reporter the following interesting story:

"I kept at my work as long as I could, but nature gave way at last and I succumbed to the inevitable. My entire nervous system had been shattered by the stimulants and opiates I had taken, my blood had actually turned to water, my weight had dropped from 178 pounds to 123, and it seemed to everybody that the end was in sight. Why I could not bear the gentle hand of my wife to bathe my limbs with tepid water. I was simply living from hour to hour. I had made my will, settled my business and waited for the last strand of life to snap.

"It was at this time that a somewhat similar case as my own was brought to my notice. This man had suffered very much as I had, his life had been despaired of as mine had, and yet he had been cured. Think what that little word meant to me—CURED. The report stated that the work had been accomplished by a medicine known as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. I investigated the report thoroughly and found that it was true in detail. Then I procured some of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and began taking them and began to get better. I began to sleep like a healthful child, sound, calm, and peaceful. My appetite came back, and my nerves were soothed and restored to their normal condition and I felt like a new man. But the greatest blessing was the mental improvement. I began to read and digest, to formulate new plans, to take interest in my law practice, which began to come back to me as soon as my clients realized that I was again myself. After a lapse of ten years I ride horseback every day without fatigue.

"That Dr. Williams' Pink Pills saved my life is beyond doubt, and I am spreading their praise far and wide."

Inquiry about the town of Greenville substantiated the above facts of Col. Sugg's case, and that many others are being benefited by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are for sale by all druggists, or may be had by mail from Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y., for 50c. per box, or six boxes for $2.50.

Cold Weather and Wires.

At this season of the year accidents to electric wires must be anticipated, as they occur more frequently than at any other time. The explanation is very simple. The cold causes the wires to contract and many weak wires break: hence, just after the first cold snap, the linemen have as much as they can attend to. The broken wires fall upon and across other wires and are frequently the cause of considerable damage. But the weak wires go first, and after the first cold snap they are repaired and generally cause no more trouble during the winter.

The Pitch Lake of Trinidad.

One of the most remarkable lakes on the earth's surface is situated at Tar Point, on the Island of Trinidad, and bears the suggestive name of Pitch Lake. At first view the surface of this "lake which is not a lake," gives one the impression that it is a large body of water, but a closer examination proves it to be a vast plain covered with hard and hardening pitch. Winter, or rather in the winter months, the surface of this lake is perfectly smooth and of a consistency sufficient to bear any weight.—Philadelphia Press.

You can make better food with

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

Lighter, sweeter, more wholesome.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO. 106 WALL ST., NEW-YORK.

"King" Kelly on the Stage.

The death of "King" Kelly, the $10,000 baseball player, recalls the story of his first dramatic experience. After closing a successful ball season, in which he distinguished himself as a star player, he followed the example of pugilistic stars and commenced touring the east in a specialty company. Kelly did a song and dance, and amused his audience with "Papa Wouldn't Buy Me a Bowwow," which was new at that time.

The next day after his appearance he received a note from a friend which read: "For the sake of suffering humanity, Mike, leave the stage. That song of yours gave half the audience the hydrophobia."

What Kind of Remembrance?

"Sitting, my friend, by the evening fireside: sitting in your easy chair, at rest; and looking at the warm light on the rosy face of your little boy or girl, sitting on the rug before you, do you ever wonder what kind of remembrance those little ones will have of you, if God spares them to grow old? Look into the years to come; think of that smooth face lined and roughened; that curly hair gray; that expression, now so bright and happy, grown careworn and sad, and you, you long in your grave. Of, course, your son will not have quite forgotten you, he will sometimes think and speak of his father who is gone. What kind of remembrance will he have of you?

Trees and Lightning.

Trees, like many other objects, are often struck by lightning, and everyone knows how dangerous it is to seek shelter beneath them during a thunderstorm. They are, it is said, more liable to be hit in winter than in summer, though it is not easy to explain why. What is still stranger is that trees with pointed leaves are more likely to escape the lightning's vivid flash than trees with rounded leaves. Every point, and there are thousands of points on a single tree, acts as a tiny conductor and discharges the electricity. If this be a fact, evergreen trees, like holly, which simply bristle with points, must never—well, hardly ever—be struck.

The Unexpected Discharge of a Cannon Close by would not have a more disturbing effect upon nerves which are vigorous than an ordinary noise upon those that are weak and unstrung. As a nervine, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is unrivalled. By promoting digestion and assimilation they overcome that gastric disorder, which is the most prolific cause of nervous debility, and which, so long as it exists, defeats in large measure the action of sedatives and opiates. Such remedies, moreover, necessitate the use of increasing doses, and finally cease to act altogether, except in dangerous quantities. They never reach the fountain head of the trouble, and quiet the nerves only by semi-paralyzing them. Equally objectionable are fiery unmedicated alcoholic stimulants. Kidney, bladder and liver trouble, malaria, constipation and rheumatism are relieved by the Bitters, which also promotes appetite and nightly repose.

Why This Distinction

Every one likes to be treated fairly, and so every one will sympathize with a little girl whose saying is reported in the Chicago Post.

Five-year-old Mary had fretted and made herself generally disagreeable, and at night her older sister put her to bed with a feeling of relief.

"There, child," she said, as she kissed her good-night, "I hope you won't be so cross to-morrow."

Mary had cuddled down under the blankets, but at this speech she sat upright again.

"I notice," said she, "that when it's me you say 'cross,' when it's you, you say 'nervous.'"

A Year With Popular Authors.

NEARLY all the most popular authors seem to have been drawn upon by the editor of The Ladies' Home Journal to insure for his readers a particularly interesting year during 1895. Jerome K. Jerome, for example, will resume his role of an "Idle Fellow" for the benefit of American girls and women in a series of articles; Bret Harte will have a new love story, while Frank R. Stockton has given the Journal not less than three of his quaintest and drollest short tales; Mrs. Burton Harrison will write on correct deportment and usages of good society, while Mrs. A. D. T. Whitney is to write to girls on marriage and dress; Madame Nordica and Jessie Bartlett Davis will tell of the care of the voice; Mr. Howells will continue his successful literary autobiography; Dr. Parkhurst, the famous New York preacher, will write his first series of articles for women on the questions of the day which women are thinking about; Edward Bellamy will add a chapter to his "Looking Backward"; Eugene Field, Bill Nye, John Kendrick Bangs, and Robert J. Burdette will supply the humor; Conan Doyle will give his views of "The Literary Side of America"; Frances Hodgson Burnett, the late Jane Austin, Julia Margruder and Elizabeth Bellamy will supply novelettes; Kate Greenaway is to draw her quaint little tots of women for the first time for a magazine, while Palmer Cox will supply some new "Brownies"; a unique article on "Mrs. Shakespeare" will present all that is known of Shakespeare's wife; Margaret Deland, Sarah Orne Jewett and Mrs. Burton Harrison will discuss 'When Lady; When Woman,"—when those terms should be used; E. S. Martin is going to tell "Where Was the Garden of Eden?"; Reginald de Koven has given his new song, while other famous composers will also be represented by songs, marches and waltzes. And in this representative manner, The Ladies' Home Journal will really cover every interesting phase of contemporary life,—especially that of woman. The magazine will indeed be worth having during the new year.

ANSWER to a correspondent: No, a man is not an angel, and he never claimed to be.

Health Is Economy.

A well man can do as much work as two men who are "under the weather," and do it better. A box of Ripans Tabules in the office will save clerk-hire.

THE worse you feel, we heard a man say the other day, the more luck you will have.

A Local Equivalent.

After their engagement had been broken off a Michigan man sued his quondam sweetheart for the recovery of certain jewelry which she refused to return. The Judge in deciding the case asked the lover if he had ever kissed his intended bride. After he had admitted that he had done so, the Judge dismissed the suit, holding that kisses and caresses were a legal equivalent for presents.

Deafness Can't Be Cured

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed, you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that we cannot cure by taking Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

Sold by Druggists, 75c.

MORE good people go wrong than wrong people go right.

Send your full name and address to Dobbins' Soap Mfg. Co., Philada., Pa., by return mail, and get free of all cost, a coupon worth several dollars, if used by you to its full advantage. Don't delay. This is worthy attention.

IT isn't always the wisest man who never deserts an idea.

ROUGH, Wintry, Changeable Weather, produces Catarrhs, Coughs, Disorders of the Lungs, &c., which Jayne's Expectorant promptly cures if faithfully administered.

FOR every man with a dollar in his pocket, there are a dozen men scheming to get it.

Piso's Cure for Consumption is an A No. 1 Asthma medicine.—W. R. WILLIAMS, Antioch, Ill., April 11, 1894.

THE "youngest soldier in the civil war" has begun dying.

PHYSICAL STRENGTH,

cheerful spirits and the ability to fully enjoy life, come only with a healthy body and mind. The young man who suffers from nervous debility, impaired memory, low spirits, irritable temper, and the thousand and one derangements of mind and body that result from, unnatural, pernicious habits usually contracted in youth, through ignorance, is thereby incapacitated to thoroughly enjoy life. He feels tired, spiritless, and drowsy; his sleep is disturbed and does not refresh him as it should; the will power is weakened, morbid fears haunt him and may result in confirmed hypochondria, or melancholia and, finally, in softing of the brain, epilepsy, ("fits"), paralysis, locomotor ataxia and even in dread insanity.

To reach, re-claim and restore such unfortunates to health and happiness, is the aim of the publishers of a book of 136 pages, written in plain but chaste language, on the nature, symptoms and curability, by home-treatment, of such diseases. This book will be sent sealed, in plain envelope, on receipt of this notice with ten cents in stamps, for postage. Address, World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

For more than a quarter of a century physicians connected with this widely celebrated Institution have made the treatment of the diseases above hinted at their specialty. Thousands have consulted them by letter and received advice and medicines which have resulted in permanent cures.

Sufferers from premature old age, or loss of power, will find much of interest in the book above mentioned.

NICKEL PLATE.

The New York, Chicago & St. Louis R.R.

SOLID THROUGH TRAINS BUFFALO & CHICAGO.

LOWEST RATES.

THROUGH PALACE BUFFET SLEEPING CARS between Chicago, Buffalo, New York and Boston.

For rates or other information, call on nearest Ticket Agent, or address

A. W. JOHNSTON, Gen'l Superintendent. B. F. HORNER, Gen'l Passenger Agent. CLEVELAND, O.

SHOEMAKER'S BOOK ON POULTRY

2nd Family Almanac for 1895. 80 pages, 70 engravings; the finest work of its kind ever published. Gives recipes for making egg food, condition powders; remedies for all diseases of fowls; plans and diagrams for building poultry houses, tells you how to raise chickens profitably, gives full description with illustrations of 65 leading varieties of pure bred fowls. It is an encyclopedia of chicken information, worth many times its cost to anyone interested in poultry. You positively cannot afford to be without it. Sent postpaid on receipt of price 15cts. Address C. C. SHOEMAKER, Box 23, Freeport, Ills., U.S.A.

PATENTS. TRADE-MARKS.

Examination and Advice as to Patentability of Invention. Send for Inventors' Guide, or How to Get a Patent. PATRICK O'FARRELL, Washington, D. C.

WANTED Traveling Salesman for Liquor Trade. C. E. HITCHCOCK & CO., Evansville, Ind.

THE Navy Department propose introducing electricity instead of steam for operating heavy guns mounted on turrets on warships.

IN OLDEN TIMES

People overlooked the importance of permanently beneficial effects and were satisfied with transient action; but now that it is generally known that Syrup of Figs will permanently cure habitual constipation, well-informed people will not buy other laxatives, which act for a time, but finally injure the system.

FREQUENTLY in persuading others we convince ourselves.

ATTEND the Fort Wayne Business College.

A WORKING morality is indispensable in an honest political life.

A • Ripans • Tabule.

Do I know what it is?
Why, to be sure!
Mamma uses them for dyspepsia.
Papa swallows one when he thinks he has eaten a little too much.

Mamma says that
My brother Jack
Always wants one
When he comes home very late at night.

Grandpapa
Takes them for something
That he calls constipation.
He always takes two, and
He says that
They are very good indeed.
They don't taste good, though,
But they can be swallowed without tasting.

Mamma gives the baby
A quarter of one
—for wind on its stomach.

Aunt Jane,
She is an old maid, you know,
Takes them for headache.
She dissolves hers in water
And drinks it.
You just ought to see the Face she makes up;
—but it cures her headache.

I put one under my tongue;
Then I fill my mouth just full of water
And take one big swallow,
And it is gone —always.

What do I take them for?
Do you see how red
My cheeks are?
Well! That is what I take them for,
mamma says.

W. L. DOUGLAS $3 SHOE IS THE BEST. FIT FOR A KING.

$5. CORDOVAN, FRENCH & ENAMELLED CALF. $4 $3.50 FINE CALF & KANGAROO. $3.50 POLICE, 3 SOLES. $2.50 $2. WORKINGMEN'S. EXTRA FINE. $2. $1.75 BOYS' SCHOOL SHOES. LADIES. $3 $2.50 $2 $1.75 BEST DONGOLA. SEND FOR CATALOGUE. W. L. DOUGLAS, BROCKTON, MASS.

Over One Million People wear the W. L. Douglas $3 & $4 Shoes

All our shoes are equally satisfactory. They give the best value for the money. They equal custom shoes in style and fit. Their wearing qualities are unsurpassed. The prices are uniform,—stamped on sole. From $1 to $3 saved over other makes. If your dealer cannot supply you we can.

TEXAS, MEXICO and CALIFORNIA.

— VIA —

Wabash Line

In connection with the St. Louis, Iron Mountain & Southern Railway, Texas & Pacific Railway, International & Great Northern Railroad, and Southern Pacific Railway, known as the ONLY TRUE SOUTHERN ROUTE, has placed in service a Through First-Class Sleeping Car and Tourist Sleeping Car, leaving Chicago daily at 10:50 A. M., via St. Louis to Little Rock, Malvern (Hot Springs), Austin, San Antonio, Laredo (where a direct connection is made with through sleeping car for the City of Mexico), El Paso, Los Angeles and San Francisco. This is the only line from Chicago which can offer this excellent service. Call or write to any ticket agent of the Wabash or connecting line for printed matter showing time, route, rates, description of cars, etc., or

R. G. BUTLER, D. P. A., Detroit, Mich.
F. H. TRISTRAM, C. P. A., Pittsburg, Pa.
P. E. DONBAUGH, P. & T. A., Toledo, Ohio.
R. G. THOMPSON, P. & T. A., Fort Wayne, Ind.
J. HALDERMAN, M. P. A., 201 Clark St., Chicago, Ill.
J. M. McCONNELL, P. & T. A., Lafayette, Ind.
G. D. HAXFIELD, D. P. A., Indianapolis, Ind.
C. S. CRANE, G. P. & T. A., St. Louis, Mo.

KIDDER'S PASTILLES Sure relief. Price 25 cts. by mail, Stowell & Co. Charlestown, Mass. ASTHMA.

When Writing to Advertisers, say you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by Druggists. CONSUMPTION

For twenty years folks all over the world have cured rheumatism, neuralgia, and all other pains and aches by using St. Jacobs Oil. There must be something in it, for you couldn't fool all the people for so many years.

THE RENOWED CHEMIST.

W. P. Morse, M. D., F. S. S. So., also Editor of the Westfield Leader of New Jersey.

Prof. Morse, who is also author of a medical work entitled "New Therapeutical Agents," writes: Pe-ru-na, manufactured by The Pe-ru-na Drug Manufacturing Company of Columbus, Ohio, has commended itself to medical men and their patients as a specific for la grippe and its sequels. It fully approves itself for this purpose, and is remedial for all bronchial troubles. Its action is both local and constitutional, and it is entirely harmless. The distinction accorded to it belongs to no other remedy of which we know.

PROF. W. H. MORSE.
WESTFIELD, N. J., Dec. 29, 1892.

No matter at what part of the mucous membrane the irritation of acute catarrh is located, Pe-ru-na is the only remedy that will, under all circumstances, effect a cure. In acute catarrh the dose of Pe-ru-na is a teaspoonful every two hours during the day, which will invariably effect a cure in from seven to ten days. In chronic catarrh Pe-ru-na should be taken, a teaspoonful before each meal and at bedtime. This dose should be gradually increased to two tablespoonfuls at each dose. If not cured by end of one month write Dr. Hartman. Answer free.

Every one should have a free copy of the latest book on catarrh. Sent free to any address by The Pe-ru-na Drug Manufacturing Company of Columbus, Ohio.

REPORT OF THE CONDITION OF

The First National Bank of Auburn in the State of Indiana, at the close of Business, Dec. 19, 1894.

RESOURCES.

Loans and discounts		$87,033 79
Overdrafts, secured and unsecured		708 50
U. S. bonds to secure circulation		12,500 00
Stocks, securities, etc.		13,100 96
Banking house, furniture and fixtures		6,500 00
Due from National Banks (not Reserve Agents)		21,459 12
Due from State Banks and Bankers		2,012 48
Due from approved reserve agents		602 70
Checks and other cash items		830 82
Exchanges for clearing-house		436 12
Notes of other National Banks		1,248 00
Fractional paper currency, nickels and cents		116 61
LAWFUL MONEY RESERVE IN BANK, viz:
Specie	4,798 35
Legal tender notes	8,065 00	13,863 35
Redemption fund with U. S. Treasurer (5 per cent of circulation)		562 50
Total		$190,995 05

LIABILITIES.

Capital stock paid in	50,000 00
Surplus fund	10,000 00
Undivided profits, less expenses and taxes paid	2,866 39
National bank notes outstanding	10,250 00
Individual deposits subject to check	97,580 39
Demand certificates of deposit	25 265 27
Total	$190,995 05

State of Indiana, County of DeKalb, ss:
I, Charles McClellan, Cashier of the above named bank, do solemnly swear that the above statement is true to the best of my knowledge and belief.
CHARLES MCCLELLAN, Cashier.
Subscribed and sworn to before me this 24th day of December, 1894.
EZRA D. HARTMAN, Notary Public.

CORRECT—Attest:
W. M. MCINTYRE,
M. BOLAND,
ISAAC HAGUE,
} Directors.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT.

Office of Comptroller of the Currency.

WASHINGTON, December 19th, 1894.

WHEREAS, by satisfactory evidence presented to the undersigned it has been made to appear that The "First National Bank of Auburn," in the Town of Auburn, in the County of DeKalb and State of Indiana, has complied with all the provisions of the "Act of Congress to enable National Banking Associations to extend their corporate existence and for other purposes," approved July 12th, 1882.

NOW THEREFORE, I, James H. Eckels, Comptroller of the Currency, do hereby certify that "The First National Bank of Auburn," in the Town of Auburn, in the County of DeKalb and State of Indiana, is authorized to have succession for the period specified in its amended articles of association, namely until close of business on December 19, 1914.

In Testimony whereof witness my hand and seal of office this 19th day of December, 1894.

JAMES H. ECKELS,
Comptroller of the Currency.
(SEAL) No. 2238 52 3

We might tell you more about One Minute Cough Cure, but you probably know that it cures a cough. Every one does who has used it. It is a perfect remedy for coughs, colds, hoarseness. It is an especial favorite for children, being pleasant to take and quick in curing. For sale by Robbins & McCord.

The thumb is an unfailing index of character. The Square Type indicates a strong will, great energy and firmness. Closely allied is the Spatulated Type, the thumb of those of advanced ideas and business ability. Both of these types belong to the busy man or woman; and Demorest's Family Magazine prepares especially for such persons a whole volume of new ideas, condensed in a small space, so that the record of the whole world's work for a month may be read in half an hour. The Conical Type indicates refinement, culture, and a love of music, poetry, and fiction. A person with this type of thumb will thoroughly enjoy the literary attractions of Demorest's Magazine. The Artistic Type indicates a love of beauty and art, which will find rare pleasure in the magnificent oil-picture of roses, 16¼ x 24 inches, reproduced from the original painting by De Longpré, the most celebrated of living flower-painters, which will be given to every subscriber to Demorest's Magazine for 1895. The cost of this superb work of art was $250.00; and the reproduction cannot be distinguished from the original. Besides this, an exquisite oil or water-color picture is published in each number of the Magazine, and the articles are so profusely and superbly illustrated that the Magazine is, in reality, a portfolio of art works of the highest order. The Philosophic Type is the thumb of the thinker and inventor of ideas, who will be deeply interested in those developed monthly in Demorest's Magazine, in every one of its numerous departments, which cover the entire artistic and scientific field, chronicling every fact, fancy, and fad of the day. Demorest's is simply a perfect Family Magazine, and was long ago crowned Queen of the Monthlies. Send in your subscription; it will cost only $2.00, and you will have a dozen Magazines in one. Address W. JENNINGS DEMOREST, Publisher, 15 East 14th Street, New York. Though not a fashion magazine, its perfect fashion pages, and its articles on family and domestic matters, will be of superlative interest to those possessing the Feminine Type of Thumb, which indicates in its small size, slenderness, soft nail, and smooth, rounded tip, those traits which belong essentially to the gentler sex, every one of whom should subscribe to Demorest's Magazine. If you are unacquainted with its merits, send for a specimen copy (free), and you will admit that seeing these THUMBS has put you in the way of saving money by finding in one Magazine everything to satisfy the literary wants of the whole family.

THE AUBURN COURIER

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY.

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, post-office as second-class matter.

THURSDAY....JANUARY 3, 1895.

To Subscribers.

A few have answered our earnest request to settle up the arrears of subscription due, and we feel sure that many of them could, who have not. If a man cannot do it, we can forgive him and extend the time. But the greater number could raise these little sums if they tried as hard as we are obliged to, when we go to pay our own bills. Let us get even, or as nearly as possibly, early in the new year. If you cannot come here, send it, or such part as you can. This is not meant for those but little in arrears, but for those who are back two or three or more years. In all New Year reforms, the COURIER should be kindly remembered—we think.

GOV. MATHEWS and Atty-gen. Kitcham, think they have found proof that the fee and salary law was altered after it left the senate, the last House that voted on it. They think they will yet save the law.

WATERLOO.

Mrs. Winslow took her New Year's dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Klotz and Mrs. Dora Locke.

Mr and Mrs. Nolton, of Youngstown, Ohio, were present at the wedding Christmas day at Hotel Lock. They remained some days thereafter.

Ex-post-master McBride is somewhat afflicted with rheumatism so much so, that he acknowledges himself unable to go hunting which is a sure thing with him.

Wednesday Mrs. Klotz feasted a house full of her relatives, those who were visiting here from other places and those who resided here or in the vicinity and she knows how to get up a dinner equal to the best.

Mrs. Dora Lock and her son Leon, started Wednesday morning for their home in Decatur. Mrs. Dunze and Mrs Carter, sisters of Mrs. S. Locke, accompany her as far as Ft. Wayne, where their routes diverge, the former going to their homes in Lima.

John Eckhart, wife and daughter, returned home to Toledo Saturday. Mr and Mrs. William Jackman entertained Mr J's family relatives on Tuesday, Xmas, and on Thursday they entertained the family relatives of Mrs J's and oh! what bountiful hospitality and such a feast of good things.

Sunday evening Mrs. Gill's millinery shop took fire and did considerable damage before being extinguished, both from fire and smoke. It is believed that escaping gas from the stove took fire and was the cause. It being early in the evening made it easy to extinguish, where had it been in the night and windy, that and many other buildings might have been burned. Mrs Gill has lost considerable in goods injured and perhaps the building and fixtures somewhat.

Christmas evening the Ladies Minerva Club met at the home of Emma Plum, it was voted to lay aside our study for the evening, and make a social time of it. Each lady had prepared a card, with her sentiment on it, which was passed to her right hand neighbor, who read it aloud. Then conundrums, charades, games and conversation beguiled the time, when to the surprise of all Mrs Plum served an excellent and dainty supper, with roast turkey at the head. Long may she live.

Thursday of last week an alarm of fire called out the firemen and engine, but before reaching Dr. Farrington's the fire was put out. It was a narrow escape, and had it have happened in the night his home would probably have been destroyed. We learned that friends having arrived to visit them, some trunks were carried up stairs, when smoke was discovered, and it was found the chimney was burning out, and the roof in the attic had taken fire inside. Happily it was extinguished, for in a few minutes more it might have been impossible, as the wind was high.

Awarded Highest Honors—World's Fair.

DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER

MOST PERFECT MADE.

A pure Grape Cream of Tartar Powder. Free from Ammonia, Alum or any other adulterant. 40 YEARS THE STANDARD.

HORSEMEN

SAVE YOUR STOCK BY USING THE CELEBRATED

Morris' English Stable Powder
For Loss of Appetite, Constipation, Rough Hair, Hide Bound, and all Diseases of the Blood. Price, 25c. per package.

Morris' English Stable Liniment
Cures Lameness, Cuts, Bruises, Scratches, Galls, Sweeney, Spavins, Splint, Curb, etc. Price, 50c. per bottle.

Morris' English Worm Powder
Warranted to cure any case of Worms in Horses, Cattle, Sheep or Dogs, also Pin Worms in Colts. Price, 50c. per box.

Craft's Distemper and Cough Cure
A Specific for Distemper, Coughs, Colds, Heaves, Pink Eye, and all Catarrhal diseases of horses. Price, 50c. $1.00 per bottle.

Wells' Hoosier Poultry Powder
Makes Hens Lay, cures Cholera, Gapes and Roup, and keeps poultry healthy. Price, 25c. per package.

Every remedy guaranteed satisfactory or money refunded. Our new book, "The Horse: His Diseases and Treatment," mailed free.
Wells Medicine Co., Lafayette, Ind.

ELECTRIC TELEPHONE
Sold outright, no rent, no royalty. Adapted to City, Village or Country. Needed in every home, shop, store and office. Greatest convenience and best seller on earth. Agents make from $5 to $50 per day. One in a residence means a sale to all the neighbors. Fine [illegible] instruments, no toys, works anywhere, any distance. Complete, ready for use when shipped. Can be put up by any one, never out of order, [illegible] repairing, lasts a life time. Warranted [illegible] money maker. Write W. P. Ham[illegible] York 10, Columbus, O.

The Junior Ex

The Juniors were fortunate in their entertainment Wednesday evening. The Oberlin Glee Club was a drawing attraction, and very properly so, for its equal has not been heard here before. There were seventeen in all, and all were excellent. The violin playing of Mr. Rounds was fine, the best probably our people have heard, and his wonderful skill was greatly aided by an instrument of rare quality. He played but twice, as he was sick. But the audience applauded wildly when he did appear. It should be said of the singing that the pieces were nearly all new ones, or new medleys of old ones, and were therefore the more enjoyable.

The patronage was immense. The great auditorium of the M. E. church was occupied, even to chairs in the aisles, and all the lecture room—all reserved seats. The gallery was filled. The special train from Hillsdale brought about 300, as it connected at Waterloo with the special from Butler. There was also a special from Garrett, and some came up from Ft. Wayne. From the north, Hillsdale, Angola and Waterloo sent large numbers. All went away delighted. The Club itself came in from the south, having sung at Indianapolis the evening before. They have a special sleeper of their own, in which they are making their trip about the country during their holiday vacation.

Died.

Katherina Hoffelder, daughter of John and Frances Hoffelder, was born Dec. 31, 1892, and died Dec. 31, 1894, at almost the same hour she was born, at the age of 2 years. She had been sick but 30 hours. The funeral was Wednesday, Jan. 2, 1895, at 2 p. m., from the Catholic church in Smithfield.

DORRIS' SHOE STRINGS.

On Dorris' feet
Are the smallest of twos,
But surely some elf
Has enchanted her shoes,
For, wherever we go,
Walk, row or ride,
In church or at tennis,
Her shoes come untied.

At times it is trying,
But what can I do
When poor Dorris murmurs,
"Oh, bother that shoe!"
So down I must flop
In the dust and dirt
To tie up the shoe
Of that dear little flirt.

These precious girl tyrants!
We cannot rebel,
For even their ribbons
Are filled with their spell.
Since old fashioned aprons
No longer they use,
They tie a poor man
To the strings of their shoes.
—Vassar Miscellany.

BAKERS' BREAD.

A Few Facts About a Somewhat Familiar Article of Food.

Styles change in bread, as in everything else, and shapes that were more or less familiar 10 years ago are now not made at all. Every baker tries to have something distinctive about his output, and almost every baker thinks his bread is the best. So everybody who buys bakers' bread knows there is really a great difference in it in appearance and in taste. The housewife makes wheat bread of one kind of flour; the baker makes it generally of three—two brands of spring wheat flour and one of winter wheat, mixed, with the result of making a finer, whiter, smoother loaf. Bakers do not all agree as to the exact proportions in which these flours should be mixed.

Graham flour is made of the entire grain of the wheat ground up together; gluten flour of that part of the wheat grain which contains the gluten. Rye graham flour is made of the entire grain of the rye; the rye flour used in the ordinary rye bread is usually mixed with wheat flour in proportions varying from a little wheat up to half wheat. Of the bread sold in American bakeries about 85 per cent is wheat, the remaining 15 per cent being divided about equally among graham, rye and gluten. In German bakeries the proportion of rye bread sold is very much greater.

Bakers are all the time getting up new shapes in bread, and there can scarcely be said to be any absolutely standard form, though there are some that are practically so—the oblong, the round, the long, round, French stick, Vienna stick and Vienna loaf. There are now about 15 shapes that are more or less commonly sold. And these breads are made of about as many different kinds of dough. For instance, there is a New England dough, a Vienna dough, and so on, each being composed of a different blend of materials and mixed and handled differently.

Perhaps as nearly standard as any of these shapes is the one known as New England. This is an oblong loaf with square corners. Almost all of these breads are made in different sizes. The New England is made in at least five, which are sold at 5 cents, 8 cents, 10 cents, 25 cents and 30 cents. Usually the 30 cent loaf is made to weigh a trifle more than three 10 cent loaves would weigh. The smallest sized New England loaf is the one most sold, as is the case with all breads made in sizes, but the 8 cent and 10 cent loaves are in large demand, and there is a steady sale for the loaves at 25 and 30 cents. The larger of the two big loaves is sometimes cut in two and sold in halves. The big loaves are sold to boarding houses and to private families also. Some folks like a crust, and some like the inside. The big loaves are especially desirable for those who like the inside. They have proportionately to weight less crust than the smaller loaves, and they can be so cut as to be served in almost any form that may be desired, with crust or without.

Breads for hotels and restaurants are generally made in special shapes. They use a shape corresponding to New England, and many restaurants that don't want so much crust take a bread that is made in loaves about 18 inches in length, and not very wide, baked not separately, but laid close together, so that the loaves have crust on the ends only. Some hotels buy this kind of bread, but hotels generally use more French bread and Vienna sticks. Taking all the people together, old and young, it is probable that about three-quarters like their bread crusty.—New York Sun.

"Shugers Special"

Elegant Finish! High Grade!
Light Weight. Great Speed maker. No back Numbers.
"Up To Date!" - 1895.
Manufactured at Coldwater, Michigan
CORY SHUGERS, Agt.
Auburn, - - Indiana.

FARMERS BANK.

Capital Stock.—
—$40,000.00.

Transacts a general banking business. Interest paid on time deposits by agreement. Collections receive careful attention. Business solicited.
ALBERT ROBBINS, Cashier

Who Can Beat This?

The first of June, 1894, I got of Cal. Huselman, two six-weeks-old pigs. On Nov. 27, I killed one that weighed 276 lbs. On Dec. 27, I killed the other, which dressed 340 lbs. One was a few days over seven months old, the other, a few days over eight, when killed. Let me hear from the man that can beat it.
A. LEWIS,
Auburn.

Are You

Lifeless by day and sleepless by night? Have you mental depression, lassitude or any nerve trouble? Have you that terrible "all gone" feeling, or have you had la grippe which has left you in sore need of renewed life, strength and buoyancy. Take Vitaline and Nervetone, prepared by the Hall Medicine Company, Toledo, Ohio, Druggists sell it. Accept no substitute, headache, toothache and neuralgia cured in an hour. It never fails. Sold by Fischler & Son. 1 2

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

One at Night.

One dose of Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup taken in the evening before retiring will give you a good nights rest. It will cure your cough quicker than any other and is pleasant to take. If you have never tried this remedy, ask your druggist for Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup the next time you buy. It is guaranteed to give satisfaction. Sold by all druggists. 1-5

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder
World's Fair Highest Medal and Diploma.

Never Give Up.

Many cases of so-called consumption have been cured by Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup. Never give up, as long as there is life there should be hope, take this medicine; use it persistently, and you will notice a change for the better, as it is peculiarly adapted to this class of diseases. Do not fail to try this remedy in in time. Sold by all druggists 1-5

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder
World's Fair Highest Award.

BUCKLEN'S ARNICA SALVE.—The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Robbins & McCord. tf

INSURANCE AGENCY:—People desiring good insurance should remember that Geo. Lanning has an office at the Davis Harware store, and works some of the very best companies in the country. Good farm risks taken. Call on him. 32tf

NOW REALLY, DOESN'T THIS STRIKE YOU AS A

BIG BARGAIN?

A BOY'S SUIT,
consisting of a double breasted coat and short pants All Wool, mind you, first-class—good and strong.

A PAIR OF EXTRA PANTS
to match the suit.

A PRETTY CAP
made of the same cloth as the coat and two pairs of pants are made from.

AND A PAIR OF SHOES,
of solid leather—neat, stylish, yet as strong as a brick.

ALL FOR

$5.00

We call them the

HUB'S "HEAD-TO-FOOT" BOY'S OUTFITS.

You'll call them the greatest bargain of your life when you see them.
LET US SEND YOU ONE.
$5.75 will bring one all charges prepaid to any part of the U. S., or we'll send you one C. O. D. with privilege of examination before acceptance, if you'll send us $1.00 on account to secure express charges.
SAMPLES OF CLOTH and 60-page Illustrated Catalogue FREE on application.

THE HUB,

N. W. Cor. State and Jackson St., CHICAGO, ILL.,
America's Largest Retail Dealers in Men's Clothing, Boys's Clothing, Furnishing Goods, Hats, Shoes for both Sexes, and Ladies' Cloaks and Furs in the United States.
The Hub has no Branch Stores anywhere.

One Fourth off Sale! One Fourth off Sale!

G. H. YESBERA'S

Great Slaughter Sale of Clothing and Furnishings

FOR JANUARY.

Commencing Jan 5, I will make a discount of One-Fourth off on my entire stock of Ready Made Clothing and Furnishings, Overcoats, Ulsters, Mackintoshes, Men's, Youths' and Children's Clothing.

A CHANCE OF A LIFE TIME.

Improve it! The largest stock in the county to select from; no old goods, but every thing new and fresh, and going at 25 cents off of every dollar. You cannot afford to miss it, for all of our goods are in season, and now is the time you need them. Remember the date,

JAN. 5 to JAN. 31.

Come while we have your size in a Suit or Overcoat. And don't lose track of the fact that our terms are STRICTLY CASH.

Good Cash for Goods, and Good Goods for Cash.

G. H YESBERA,

The Leading Clothier and Furnisher.

RUPTURE

Of Men, Women and Children permanently cured in 30 days, without pain or slightest inconvenience by the Fidelity Method. Every case guaranteed. Patient need not pay a dollar until completely cured. The truss discarded forever. Over 8,000 cases cured in the last five years. Consultation free. Consul

J. B. CASEBEER, M. D.
Their Authorized Physi

Office opposite Swineford House, Main Street, Auburn, Indiana.

Our Big Store Is One

ROOT & COMPANY FT. WAYNE

Great Holiday Bazaar!

OUR CLOAK ROOM

Is laden with the choicest novelties and latest effects in CLOAKS, WRAPS,
JACKETS,
SUITS,
FUR GARMENTS
What could be better for a Holiday Gift than one of these?

Feather Boas.

A popular novelty for the neck. An elegant line is shown here in real Ostrich Feathers in Colors and Boas.

Pocket Books and Purses.

In this line we carry an extensive stock. From 5c, 10c, 15c and up to the rich combination purses. Plain and Silver trimmed

FANS.

Gauze Fans, plain and painted. Silk Fans, 50c up. Feather Fans, all colors, 50c up.

Umbrellas

Are always in demand, for both Ladies and Gentlemen. This is your store for umbrellas.

Gloria Silks, pretty handles, $1,00 $1 25, $1.50, $1.75 and $2.00. Puritan Silk Umbrellas, guaranteed, at $3.50. Warrior Silk Umbrellas, guaranteed, at $4 00.

The new novelty for Gentlemen; sets of umbrellas and canes to match, from $3 00 set up to $25 00.

DOLLS.

We have made great arrangements for the little ones. Our assortment of Dolls from 2c each up, the most extensive in the city.

Onyx Tables,
Banquet Lamps,
Umbrella Stands,
Screens,
Easels,
Fur Rugs.

We call special attention to the many beautiful novelties displayed on first floor. Bohemian ware, single China pieces, Painted ware, Bric-a-Brac, Atomizers, Silver Novelties, Pillows, Elegant Linen Novelties Etc. Your inspection of this large stock, suitable for holiday gifts, invited.

ROOT & COMPANY.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK.

AUBURN, INDIANA.
Capital and Surplus, $60,000.00

Certificates of deposits issued, drawing interest 4 per cent per annum, if left 6 months. County and town orders bought. Money to loan.
C. A. O. MCCLELLAN, President.
CHARLES MCCLELLAN, Cashier

ADMINISTRATOR'S SALE
Of Henry Wartensleben Estate.

I will offer for sale at Public Auction at the late residence in Auburn, on Thursday, January 24th, 1895.

commencing at 10 o'clock a. m. the following personal property belonging to decendent:
A lot of Carpenter and Upholster tools, Household goods, including cook and heating stoves, Carpet, Chairs, Tables, Couches, Upholstered furniture, Bureau, Stand, Bedstead, Mattress and many other things not herein mentioned. Iron Kettle, Hand cart, Wheel barrow, a number of Painter's ladders, including step ladders. Garden tools, including Daisy plow, Grind stone, Sausage grinder and stuffer etc., etc.
TERMS: All sums of $5 and under, cash. On sums over $5 a credit of 6 months with approved security, without interest if paid when due. If not paid when due 6 per cent from date and attorney's fees. No property to be removed until the conditions of the sale are complied with.
JACOB WALBORN, Administrator.

CALL FOR TOWN ORDERS,

Upon presentation I will pay all outstanding Municipal Orders up to and including number 465 dated July 17 1893. Interest will stop January 3 1895
CHAS H G JONES,
Town Treasurer.

Fort Wayne and Jackson Railroad Company.

The Annual Meeting of the stockholders of The Fort Wayne and Jackson Railroad Company, for the election of Directors and such other business as may be brought before it, will be held on the 25th of January, 1895, 10 a. m., at the office of the Company Jackson, Michigan.
The Transfer Books will close on January 12th and remain closed until January 25th.
52-3 R. G. ROLSTON, Secretary.

Notice of Final Settlement of Estate

Notice is hereby given to all persons interested in the estate of Robert G. Crosier, deceased to appear in the DeKalb Circuit Court, held at Auburn, Indiana, on the 12th day of January, 1895, and show cause, if any, why my Final Settlement Accounts with the estate of said decedent should not be approved; and said heirs and all others interested are notified to then and there make proof of heirship or claim and receive their distributive shares.
Witness our names this twenty-first day of December, 1894.
HARVEY MOODY AND LOUIS J. GENGER, Executors.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

You make no mistake when you use DeWitt's Little Early Risers for dizziness, dyspepsia or headache. These little pills cure them. Robbins & McCord sell them.

Most people cannot afford to experiment. They want immediate relief. That's why they use One Minute Cough Cure. Sold by Robbins & McCord.

The name One Minute Cough Cure suggests a medicine that relieves at once, and quickly cures. Its use proves it. For sale by Robbins & McCord.

Take a dose of DeWitt's Little Early Risers just for the good they will do you. These little pills are good for indigestion, good for headache, good for liver complaint, good for constipation. They are good. Sold by Robbins & McCord.

L. S. & M. S. R. R.

TIME TABLE—In Effect Nov. 18, 1894.

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

Stations—	Mail.	Exp'ss	Fre'gt
Fort Wayne, p	11 45 am	4 45 pm	6 40 am
New Era	12 14 pm	5 14	7 27
Auburn Junc.	12 25	5 25	7 38
Auburn	12 29	5 29	7 37
Waterloo	12 41	5 41	8 24
Summit	12 52	5 52	8 45
Steubenville	12 56	5 56	.....
Pleasant Lake	1 03	6 03	10 12
Angola	1 13	6 14	10 50
Jackson	3 25	8 35	4 30

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Stations—	Freight	Express	Mail
Jackson dp	6 55 am	11 20 am	6 30 pm
Angola	12 25 pm	2 21 pm	8 51
Pleasant Lake	1 03	2 32	9 01
Steubenville	.....	2 40	9 07
Summit	1 25	2 44	9 11
Waterloo	2 30	3 00	9 24
Auburn	3 00	3 11	9 35
Auburn Junc.	3 14	3 14	9 38
New Era	4 05	3 24	9 50
Fort Wayne	5 25	3 55	10 25

For rates on tickets or freight to all points call on or address R. T. DeLAPP, Agent at Auburn.

PILES! PILES! PILES!

Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment will cure Blind, Bleeding and Itching Piles when all other Ointments have failed. It absorbs the tumors, allays the itching at once, acts as a poultice, gives instant relief. Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment is prepared only for Piles and Itching of the private parts, and nothing else. Every box is warranted. Sold by druggists, or sent by mail on receipt of price, 50c. and $1.00 per box. WILLIAMS MFG. CO., Prop's, Cleveland. Sold on a guarantee by Mathews & Gerke.

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder
Awarded Gold Medal Midwinter Fair, San Francisco.

HARPER' BAZAR IN 1895.

Elegant and exclusive designs for Out- and In-door Toilettes, drawn from Worth's models by Sandoz and Chapuis are an important feature. These appear every week, accompanied by minute descriptions and details. Paris Letter, by Katharine de Forest, is a daily transcript of the latest styles and chronicle of the mode. Under the head of "New York Fashions," plain directions and full particulars are given as to shapes, fabrics, trimmings, accessories of the costumes of well dressed women. Children's Clothing receives special attention. A fortnightly Pattern-sheet supplement enables readers to cut and make their own gowns. The woman who takes Harper's Bazar is prepared for every occasion in life, ceremonious or informal, where beautiful dress is requisite.

An American serial, "Doctor Warren's Daughters," by Rebecca Harding Davis, a strong novel of American life, partly in Pennsylvania and partly in the far South, will occupy the last half of the year.

"My Lady Nobody," an intensely interesting novel, by Maarten Maartens, author of "The Fool," "The Greater Glory," etc., will be given the year.

"Essays and Social Chats," by the Spectator, will contribute her accustomed papers on "What We are Doing" in society.

Answers to Correspondents. Questions addressed to the Editor receive the personal attention of the Editor, are answered at the earliest possible date, and their receipt acknowledged.

Send for Illustrated Prospectus.

The volumes of the BAZAR begin with the first Number for January of each year. It is not time to enter subscriptions, but they may begin with the number current at the time of ordering.

Cloth cases for each volume, suitable for binding, will be sent by mail, postpaid, for 75 cents each. Title page and Table of Contents sent on receipt of the express charge.

Remittances should be made by Postal Money Order or Draft, to avoid chance of loss.

Newspapers are not to copy this advertisement without the express order of Harper & Brothers.

HARPER'S PERIODICALS.
Harper's Magazine
Harper's Weekly
Harper's Bazar
Harper's Young People
One Year, to all subscribers in the United States, Canada and Mexico, free of postage.
HARPER & BROTHERS.
P. O. Box 959.

Auburn Courier.
AUBURN, INDIANA.
JAMES A. BARNS, • • PUBLISHER.

THE FLEETING NEWS.

CAUGHT ON THE WING FOR OUR INTELLIGENT READERS.

Over Forty Persons Burned to Death at Silver Lake, Oregon—Fire Chief Bresnan and Assistant Rooney Killed in New York—Terrible Suffering of a Family Whose Home Was Destroyed.

FORTY ARE DEAD!

Horrible Holocaust at a Holiday Fete in Oregon.

Ashland (Ore.) special: Advices have been received here from Klamath Falls, Ore., of a most horrible and fatal accident at Silver Lake, Lake County, Ore., caused by the overturning of a lamp at a gathering on Christmas Eve, in which over forty lives were lost and sixteen persons badly injured, five of whom will probably die. The gathering had assembled in the hall above Christman Bros.' store, and consisted of children who, with their parents and relatives, were having a grand time and enjoying what Santa Claus had brought them, little dreaming that many of them would never leave the building alive. Some one attempted to get where he could see and hear better by jumping upon a bench in the middle of the hall. In doing so his head struck a lamp hanging from the ceiling causing oil to run out which immediately caught fire. While trying to take the lamp down it was tipped so that the oil ran out on the floor. From that time on, the scene was terrible. The lamp was finally taken down but it fell to the floor. In the attempt to get it outside, it was kicked to the door, where it lay as it could not be touched on account of the intense heat. People were compelled to rush through the flames in order to reach the door and many perished in the attempt. The building, a two-story structure, including the postoffice and the entire stock of goods of Christman Bros., were consumed. Further particulars could not be learned. Silver Lake is over a hundred miles from Klamath Falls and the stage brought the news to this place.

NEW YORK FIREMEN

Killed by the Falling of a Floor at a Fire.

New York special: Batallion Fire Chief John J. Bresnan and Fireman J. L. Rooney, of Truck 12, were killed by the falling of a floor, during the fire which gutted several stories of the gas and electric fixtures factory of Cassidy & Son's Manufacturing Company, 124 to 128 West Twenty-fourth street. The fire did $60,000 damage. Assistant William Hennessy, of engine 18, had a leg broken, and three other firemen were slightly injured.

Chief Bresnan was on the fourth floor, directing the movements of his men, when suddenly the two upper floors came down. There was a heavy water tank on the roof and the flames having weakened its support, it came tumbling down, carrying with it the fifth floor. The whole mass of burning debris fell on the firemen, pinning Bresnan and Rooney under the girders. The other men were near the head of the stairs, and with the first cracking of the timbers hastened toward the stairs. They reached them in safety, but the stairs fell as they were hurrying down, and the men fell in a heap on the third floor. Assistant Foreman Hennessy's right leg was broken, and Fireman Arnman was also injured. Their companions dragged them to a place of safety. Then an heroic effort was made to rescue Bresnan and Rooney. The flames were kept from attacking the bodies of the two unfortunate men, but when taken out they were dead.

Burned and Frozen.

Regina (N. W. T.) special: The house of William Thompson, a farmer living twenty-five miles north, burned, the inmates barely escaping in their night clothes. Mrs. Thompson and two children were badly burned, and one child died shortly after being taken from the house. Placing his wife and the remaining child in the henhouse, Thompson set out for a neighbor's, a mile and a quarter away, having only some rags around his feet and head, being otherwise nude, although the thermometer was 30 degrees below zero. He reached within 100 yards of the neighbor's house when he fell, exhausted and almost frozen stiff. Fortunately, he was seen and was carried into the house and cared for. When assistance reached Mrs. Thompson and child the frost had added to the torture of their burns, and it is doubtful whether they can survive. Thompson is also in a critical condition.

How He Did It.

Paul Schatt, a well-known saloon man of Omaha, was found dead in his ice box. He had committed suicide in a unique manner. He attached a rubber tube to a gas jet and connected it with the faucet of the beer pump. He then turned on the gas, jumped into the box, which closed with a spring lock, and was dead in a short time.

Fifty People Drowned.

Captain Mathison of the Norwegian steamship Yumuri, from Santa Maria, United States of Colombia, reports that fearful rains have fallen on the coast of Colombia. The village of Gaira, five miles south of Santa Maria, was washed away by heavy floods, and about fifty persons were drowned.

Beaten by a Burglar.

Mrs. Ab Newland of Indianapolis, upon returning home, found a negro burglar in her house. She screamed and was knocked down and seriously injured. The negro was captured by the neighbors and locked up.

Brings It to an Issue.

The Massillon miners will now be compelled to accept 60 cents or retire. At a meeting of the operators held at Massillon, Ohio, they resolved to stand firmly by the arbitrators award, and under no circumstances negotiate on any other basis.

Murdered a Woman.

Paris special: Two brothers named Dautry, have been arrested on the charge of murdering Mme. Charles, the money changer of the Palais Royal. The prisoner's are Anarchists, and materials for the manufacturing of bombs were found at their lodgings.

Turned the Key of Death.

At Rome, Ga., Dora Williams locked her three children in her home and went visiting. The result was that the home and all the children were burned.

COME DOWN SPAIN

Or Uncle Sam Will Get Even by Opening Up on Spanish and Cuban Importations.

Unless the Spanish Government within a very short time indicates a purpose to remove the restrictions placed on American commerce with the Spanish West Indies by the imposition of a maximum tariff it is probable the President will issue a proclamation imposing "discriminating flag duties" upon Spanish, Cuban, and Porto Rican imports into the United States. This purpose was conveyed in a request received by the Treasury Department from the Department of State to furnish it with detailed information as to the amount of such imports and a list of vessels carrying the Spanish flag which trade with our ports. It was the original intention of the State department to have recourse to the power of prohibition of Spanish trade conveyed by act of 1890, but, as this power has never yet been exercised, the department has fallen back upon the paragraph of the Morrill tariff act, which still stands, imposing a duty of 10 per cent. in addition to all other duties upon goods brought into the United States in ships of foreign countries, unless expressly relieved from additional duty by treaty. These are known as "discriminating flag duties," and authorize the President to suspend benefits conferred by the discriminating flag statute on being satisfied that any country is discriminating against the United States in the manner of trade. The only country which so far has felt the force of this provision of law is Spain. In 1886, President Cleveland imposed these duties because Spain failed to remove differential flag duties from United States products entering Cuba and Porto Rica. In fourteen days thereafter Spain had removed the source of our complaint. Should retaliation be had, the Spanish colonies would get much the worst of it.

CLOSING UP.

The Showing Being Made in the Business World at the End of the Year.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says: The commercial failures in 1894 already reported number 14,292, against 15,242 last year, with liabilities of $163,238,404, against $346,779,889 last year. The final report for 1894 will probably include about 400 more failures, with liabilities of about $400,000,000. From these accounts, banks, bankers, financial and transportation companies are excluded. Manufacturing failures already number 2,756 against 3,422 last year, but the liabilities are only $94,491,287 against $176,982,091 last year. Trading failures already number 11,314 against 11,112 last year, but the liabilities are only $87,899,057 against $130,062,333. A statement by sections shows a decrease of about two-thirds in defaulted liabilities in the middle and central northern States, one-half in west and southwest and one-third in other sections. The holiday trade met expectations. Purchases were numerous but smaller than usual in amount and more confined to needful articles, thus anticipating the ordinary trade. The volume of business represented by clearing-house exchanges is 7.76 per cent. larger than last year, but 21.8 per cent. less than the year before, and the daily average for December is 7.1 per cent. more than last year, but 25.2 less than the year before.

PEACE COMMISSIONERS.

Japan May Object to One of China's Men.

Shanghai special: Peace Commissioner Chang Yin Huan has left Tien Tsin for Chefoo, and is expected here soon, when he will join Peace Commissioner Shao Yao Lien and go to Tokio. Chan Yin Huan is President of the Board of the Revenue, a member of the Tsung Li Yamen and was Chinese minister to Washington a few years ago. Shao Yao Tien is acting Governor of the Chinese province of Huan. He was formerly Governor of Formosa and while occupying that post he offered a reward of about $10,000 for the destruction of a big Japanese warship and for the destruction of a small warship of Japan he offered about $6,000. But, not content with this, he offered a further schedule of rewards to be paid to the Chinese who took Japanese soldiers or sailors dead or alive. For the head of a Japanese officer 200 taels were offered and for the head of a Japanese private 100 taels was the reward. On this ground, it has been asserted, the Japanese Government would refuse to receive Saho Yao Tien as a peace commissioner.

PROPERTY RIGHTS.

The Extent to Which They Obtain in the Mikado's Realm.

Washington special: An Associated Press reporter called Minister Kurino's attention to the testimony of Inspector Williams before the Lexow investigation committee in which he stated that he owned some ground in Japan and inquired what property rights foreigners had in the Mikado's realm. Minister Kurino replied: "While foreigners cannot obtain a title in fee simple to land in Japan, they can in the treaty ports and in the foreign concessions in Tokio and Osaki acquire under certain conditions what amounts substantially to ownership thereof. They may lease the land for a long term of years and then release it, which amounts practically to a perpetual leasehold. For this privilege they of course pay a certain sum to the owner and a round rent to the government. The treaty ports in which such privileges may be exercised are Yokohama, Nagasaki Hakodate and Kobe. Replying to further questions the minister said the privilege to thus acquire what is practically a perpetual leasehold had existed for a number of years.

UNDECIDED.

Massillon Miners Do Not Want to Abide the Decision of Arbitrators.

Massillon (Ohio) special: A delegate meeting of the miners of this district was held here recently, to consider the proposition to accept the rate of wages fixed by the board of arbitration, but no decision was reached. President John McBride, of the United Mine Workers, was present and in a speech took a decided stand against the acceptance of the terms of settlement reached by the arbitrators. He said evidence has been produced strong enough to convince an unbiased board that the Massillon miners were entitled to 75 cents per ton; declared something was rotten in the proceedings of the arbitration board, and expressed a belief that a case will undoubtedly be made up in Cleveland in the interest of the operators. He concluded with this remark: "Hold yourself free to act, but would it be best to strike now?" Secretary Patrick McBryde also spoke, advising the miners to appeal for another trial before the board of arbitration, but told them never to accept 60 cents a ton.

Robbery and Murder.

Three masked men entered the house of William Johnston, six miles south of New Lisbon, Ohio. While one of the gang covered the family with revolvers the others ransacked the house, securing $800 and some jewelry. While the thieves were at work one of Johnston's daughters aroused near-by neighbors. Several men ran to the Johnston house and the robbers began to shoot. Johnston was shot through the bowels and a man named McCord was shot in the hand. McCord shot at the marauders but missed them and they made their escape. Johnston is a farmer 60 years of age and will die from his wounds.

A Bad Wreck.

A serious wreck occurred at Waxahachie, Texas. Two passenger trains collided. The Katy south bound and the west bound H. & T. C. collided at a crossing one mile north of the city. The trains were both heavily loaded with passengers. It seems quite miraculous that more were not injured. Seventeen are reported to have been hurt in the wreck. It is thought two of the passengers will die. The engine of the Katy ran into the rear coach of the H. & T. C., striking it about midway, tearing the seats up and scattering the coach fixtures about promiscuously.

Killed His Family.

Burlington (Vt.) special: William Whitman of Winooski, a manufacturing suburb of this city, shot and killed his wife and two boys, then shot himself dying instantly. Whitman was said to have intemperate habits, on account of which his wife lately obtained a divorce. When he called at the house he expressed a desire to say good bye to the six children. He was admitted for this purpose, when he had some words with Mrs. Whitman and suddenly producing a pistol he shot her and afterwards the only two children at home.

Startling Discoveries.

City of Mexico special: The authorities who are looking after counterfeiters in this city have made some startling discoveries. It is evident there is an organized colony of several hundred people scattered about the city making and circulating the spurious coin. Thousands of dollars have been successfully "shoved" within the past few weeks. Arrests of members of the band have been made daily until there are now 280 of them in prison awaiting trial. The work still continues, despite this wholesale arrest of offenders.

Coaches Ablaze.

As the Cincinnati express on the Vandalia road was approaching Altamont, Ill., across the high prairie where the blizzard was at its worst, the ladies' coach was discovered to be on fire. The train was run to the depot and the sleeping cars uncoupled. Before the combination coach ahead of the ladies' coach could be cut off, it too was ablaze, and, with the ladies' coach, was completely destroyed. About 150 feet of the depot platform was burned. The passengers were badly frightened, but all escaped injury.

Indian Outrage.

A special from Guayamas, Mexico, says that another outrage has been committed by a band of marauding Yaqui Indians in the valley of the river of that name, in the western part of the State. They visited the ranch of Julius Cardenas and massacred his entire family, consisting of wife and two children. A detachment of government troops went out in persuit of the Indians, and it is reported that they came up with them and had a skirmish, in which several of the Yaqui were killed.

Frightful Collision.

At Carthage, Mo., Jacob Bruffel, a driver on the Carthage horse car line, came down the hill toward the Frisco depot with his mules on a dead run. He had a carload of passengers who wanted to catch the Joplin train, which was about to pull out. He did not see a Frisco freight switching, nor hear the shouts of warning from the trainmen and a half dozen spectators. The horse car was knocked about twenty feet and totally wrecked. A number of passengers were injured.

Victory for Lexow.

The Lexow Committee, scorned, laughed at, and considered a huge joke when it first began its work in New York City, has secured its first great victory in the criminal courts. Police Captain John L. Stephenson has been sentenced to three years and nine months in the penitentiary at Sing Sing and to pay a fine of $1,000 for taking $6 worth of peaches as a bribe from a fruit vender.

Cowardly Assault.

At Vestaburg, Mich., on the Detroit, Lansing and Northern, as Agent Gilluly emerged from the depot with some express money just before a passenger train arrived, he was struck on the head with a club by some unknown person. The assailant secured his watch and $100 and left Gilluly under the platform, supposedly dead. Gilluly is alive, but unconscious.

Vessels Probably Lost.

It has been twenty days since the steam colliers, Montserrat and Keweenaw, sailed for San Francisco from neighboring ports on Vancouver Island, British Columbia. Nearly all seafaring men believe the two vessels and their crews, numbering nearly sixty men, were lost in a recent gale.

Thinks Gas Is Failing.

Indianapolis special: Gas Inspector Jordan is in town again, after a month spent in the gas field. He has been making tests of wells. The flow is weaker, he says, than when he made his last investigation. He still maintains that the gas is gradually failing.

Great Distress at Montreal.

At Montreal, there are said to be from 4,000 to 5,000 out of employment, and whose condition is described as most deplorable. The federal and local governments and the city council have been called upon to start some works at once to give work to the unemployed.

Shot and Killed a Convict.

J. S. Temple, guard in the Ohio Penitentiary, shot and killed Joseph O'Day, a prisoner of Cleveland, in for forgery. O'Day and two other prisoners assaulted Temple because he reported them for infraction of the rules.

Frozen to Death.

John Moreland, an old soldier, who worked in the Eson glass factory at Martin's Ferry, Ohio, was found frozen to death the other morning at Gliem's Run, near his home. He was caught in the storm, while walking home.

Will Boycott "Willie."

The Woman's Council and the Nineteenth Century Club, of Memphis, Tenn., embracing 4,000 women, have passed a resolution to boycott Congressman W. C. P. Breckinridge when he appears there to lecture.

A Negro's Crime.

At Columbus, Ohio, a negro broke into the residence of Mrs. Susan Dennison, an aged white lady living alone on Cleveland avenue, and criminally assaulted her. The lady was probably fatally injured.

Fire at Chicago.

The building of the Pioneer Paper Stock Company, Chicago, with its contents was destroyed by fire. The loss is $40,000. William Cahill was hurt by falling bricks.

Mr. Holman Will Not Lecture.

Representative Holman denies the rumor that he is going to lecture this winter on "The Efficacy of an Objection."

THE MARKETS.

Chicago—Cattle, common to prime, $3.75@6.10; hogs, shipping grades, $3.50@4.37; sheep, fair to choice, $2@3.60; wheat, No. 2 red, 53@53½c; corn, No. 2, 45@45½c; oats, No. 2, 29@29½c; rye, No. 2, 48@48½c; butter, choice creamery, 23@23½c; eggs, fresh, 18@19c; potatoes, car lots, per bushel, 45@48c.

Indianapolis—Cattle, shipping, $3@5.75; hogs, choice light, $3@4.75; sheep, common to prime, $2@3.50; wheat, No. 2 red, 52@53c; corn, No. 1 white, 43@43½c; oats, No. 2 white, 33@34c.

St. Louis—Cattle, $3@6; hogs, $3@4.40; wheat, No. 2 red, 51@51½c; corn, No. 2, 44@44½c; oats, No. 2, 29½@30c; rye, No. 2, 53@55c.

Cincinnati—Cattle, $3.50@5.50; hogs, 54@54½c; corn, No. 2 mixed, 44@44½c; oats, No. 2 mixed, 32½@33½c; rye, No. 2, 54@56c.

Detroit—Cattle, $2.50@5.50; hogs, $4@4.75; sheep, $2@3.50; wheat, No. 1. white, 55@55½c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 44@44½c; oats, No. 2 white, 33@34c; rye, No. 2, 51@51½c.

Toledo—Wheat, No. 2 red, 54@55c; corn, No. 2 mixed, 46@47c; oats, No. 2 white, 33@34c; rye, No. 2, 50@52c.

Buffalo—Cattle, $2.50@5.50; hogs, $4@5; sheep, $2@3.50; wheat, No. 2 red, 57@58c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 46@47c; oats, No. 2 white, 35@36c.

Milwaukee—Wheat, No. 2 spring, 55@56c; corn, No. 3, 44@45c; oats, No. 2 white, 31@32c; barley, No. 2, 53@55c; rye, No. 1, 49@51c; pork, mess, $11.50@12.

New York—Cattle, $3@5.50; hogs, $3.50@5; sheep, $2@3.50; wheat, No. 2 red, 61@61½c; corn, No. 2, 51@52c; oats, white, Western, 38@41c; butter, creamery, 22@24c; eggs, Western, 19@21.

LOOKING BACKWARD

Review of the Year That Is Past.

AT HOME AND ABROAD

Epitome of the General News of the World.

Chronological Recital of All the Important Events in Legislative, Judicial and Commercial Circles—Startling Deeds of Crime—Stirring Incidents in Military Matters—Record of Disasters on Land and Sea—Devastation by Fire and Pestilence—The Year of '94 Made History Rapidly.

Below will be found a concise recital of all the events at home and abroad which go to make up the history of 1894. In America, as in Europe, there has been experienced a period of severe financial depression. The year was marked by the most stupendous disturbance of labor circles in the history of the country, necessitating the employment of government forces for its suppression. Political contests have been nearly as stirring as a national election. The world has been thrilled by tales of horror from devastating forest fires, and death has claimed many illustrious men. The year will be long remembered as one of the most notable of the century. Abroad, the theater of news has been principally in the Orient. There is at present raging the war between Japan and China, and to the astonishment of all civilized nations the island kingdom has worsted its mighty foe in every contest of note. Fort after fort has fallen before Japan's forces, and three separate armies are marching upon the capital of the Flowery Kingdom. The Chinese empire, if not fallen, is humbled, and has already taken initiatory steps to sue for peace. Continental Europe has been at peace, and Russia mourns the death of her Czar.

JANUARY.

1—Opening of Manchester, Eng., ship canal....Globe Theater, Boston, burns; $1,000,000.
2—Six killed in Rock Island wreck at Linwood, Kan....Riot at Dayton, Ia.; one killed, troops summoned.
3—$1,300,000 fire at Toledo; $250,000 at Detroit....Franklin Grove, Ill., Bank robbed of $20,000.
8—$1,200,000 fire at World's Fair grounds....Gov. McKinley inaugurated at Columbus, Ohio.
9—Two Senates claim existence in New Jersey....John L. Sullivan's wife slugs him with an Indian club.
11—Jackson inaugurated Governor at Des Moines, Ia....Sherman Wagoner, wife murderer, lynched near Mitchell, Ind.
12—Nine killed by collapsed bridge at Brooklyn....Six drowned in Baltimore harbor.
13—Three men lynched at Russell, Kan., for murder....Schaefer beats Ives at billiards by one point.
14—Six sailors from Dutch steamer Amsterdam perish in vain attempt to rescue crew of wrecked fishing schooner Maggie E. Wells, in the Atlantic Ocean.
15—Nine killed on the Lackawanna near Hoboken, rear end collision....Gear nominated for Senator in Iowa....Hornblower's nomination for Supreme bench rejected by the Senate.
17—John Buchner, colored, lynched at Valley Park, Mo., for assault.
18—K. C., St. J. & C. B. train held up at Roy's Branch, Mo.; big booty secured....Secretary Carlisle calls for bids at 177.22 for $50,000,000 5 per cent. bonds.
19—Ernest Locore hanged at Joliet, Ill.; Baumberger hanged at Cando, N. D.
22—Severe cold and storms in northwest...Banker Koetting convicted at Milwaukee....Boone County, Ia., insane asylum burns, eight perish.
24—Severest cold of the season general.
25—Corbett defeats Mitchell in the prize ring at Jacksonville, Fla., in three rounds.
26—George H. Painter hanged at Chicago for murder of Alice Martin; rope broke, double hanging necessary....Public reconciliation of Kaiser and Bismarck; Germans wild with joy.
27—San Francisco Mid-winter Fair opened.
29—Rosina Vokes, actress, dies in England.
30—Admiral Benham cows the rebels at Rio.
31—Rioting Pittsburg miners forced to eat dogs.

FEBRUARY.

3—Geo. W. Childs dies at Philadelphia....Big fire at Omaha.
4—Vaillant, the Anarchist, is guillotined at Paris.
5—Attempted lynching at Lebanon, Ind.
7—Senate repeals Federal elections law.
8—Wreck of old corvette Kearsarge on Roncador reef; crew rescued.
9—Blizzard over whole northwest.
11—Terrible blizzard in southwest; many die in Oklahoma.
12—Chicago literally snow-bound by fiercest storm ever known; wind reaches 84 miles per hour; storm wide-spread....Lincoln's birthday....Another bomb thrown in a Parisian cafe.
13—Von Bulow, the pianist, dies at Cairo.
14—Death of Mrs. Myra Bradwell at Chicago.
16—Murderer Stone, slayer of Wrattan family at Washington, Ind., hanged at Jeffersonville....Bandits wreck and rob a Southern Pacific train at Roscoe, Cal.; two men killed, and large booty secured from the Wells-Fargo Express Co....Senate rejects Peckham's nomination to Supreme bench....Explosion on German warship Brandenburg at Kiel; kills 39.
19—Senator White, of Louisiana, appointed and confirmed Associate Justice....Norton Bros.' can factory, Chicago, burns; loss $250,000....Death of Jos. Keppler, Puck caricaturist....Boss McKane sentenced to six years in Sing Sing....Gov. Rich, of Michigan, removes salary grabbers....Bandits Evans and Worrel captured in California.
22—Washington's birthday....Guatemala suspends payment.
23—Four Michigan State officials indicted by grand jury for fraudulent salary grabbing.
25—Steel Mackaye, dramatist, dies on a Santa Fe train....Terrific snow storm in the South.
26—Interstate commerce law decided void....Fierce storms in the East.
27—Double lynching at Mountain Home, Ark....Boy lynched for murder of a sheriff upon his mother's orders at Sherman, Ala.
28—News of drowning of 18 Cape Ann, Mass., fishermen, Jan. 12....Murder and burglary in Exeter Township, Monroe County, Mich....Miners' riot at Eagle, W. Va.; troops summoned.

MARCH.

1—Bland's bill to coin the seigniorage passed.
2—Gladstone recommends Roseberry for Premier....General Jubal A. Early dies at Lynchburg.
3—Gladstone formally retires from the British Premiership.
4—Death of Ed Williamson, the famous base-ball player.
6—Sugar fluctuates 18 points on New York Exchange; Senators charged with speculation in the stocks.
7—Serious illness of Gladstone announced.
8—Daniel Coughlin acquitted at Chicago of Dr. Cronin's murder.
12—DaGama, Brazilian rebel commander, a refugee on a Portuguese vessel.
13—Brazilian insurgents surrender....House of Commons votes to abolish Lords.
15—Denver in possession of troops because of quarrel between Gov. Waite and police board.
16—Mulct and local option bills defeated in Iowa....Exceeding mild weather.
20—Death of Louis Kossuth, Hungarian patriot.
22—Judge Chetlain, of Chicago, stays execution of Prendergast pending trial for insanity; his act excites widest criticism and consternation...."Buff" Higgins hanged at Chicago.
24—Temperature in Central Northern States drops to near zero.
25—Extreme cold kills fruit in Northern States; mercury marked zero....Coxey's "army" marches from Massillon, O., toward Washington, 70 strong....Death of Senator Colquitt, of Georgia.
27—Death of Major Nevans, famous bandmaster, at Chicago....Furious snow storm in Northwest.
28—Gov. Northen appoints Speaker Crisp to succeed Senator Colquitt of Georgia....Cleveland vetoes Bland seigniorage coinage bill.
30—Four killed, many hurt, in liquor law riot at Darlington, S. C....Speaker Crisp declines a Senatorship....Peoria, Ill., water tower bursts; one killed, many hurt....Big fires at Barry, Ill., and Tracy, Ia.
31—Four killed, many hurt, by natural gas explosion at Alexandria, Ind....Borden, Ind., swept by fire.

APRIL.

2—Connellsville, Pa., coke workers strike and riot.
3—Catholic and A. P. A. riot at Kansas City election; four killed.
4—Prendergast gets another stay of execution to July 2....9 killed in riots in coke region....Seigniorage bill defeated.
7—Eleven killed by fireworks explosion at Petersburg, Va....Four killed by boiler explosion near Bourbon, Ind.
9—Nine firemen killed at Davidson Theater fire, Milwaukee....Six sailors lost off Massachusetts coast....Seven men killed on logging train at New Era, Mich.
11—Thirty inches snow at Buffalo; fearful blizzard throughout the east; many lives lost and vessels wrecked on the coast.
12—$1,000,000 fire in Buffalo; 13 perish.
13—David Dudley Field dies at New York.
14—Gen. H. W. Slocum dies at Brooklyn....Senator Vance, of North Carolina, dies at Washington....Miss Pollard wins her suit against Congressman Breckinridge of Kentucky.
17—Henry S. Ives, "Napoleon of Finance," dies at Asheville, N. C.
20—Riots at Omaha over Kelley's army.
21—Big coal miners' strike inaugurated....Earthquakes in Greece kill 160.
23—Five negroes lynched for murder in Mississippi....Death of Jesse Seligman, New York banker.
25—Contingents of Coxey's "Commonweal Army" are marching all over the country, especially in the West; trains captured and cities closely guarded....Federal troops recapture a train from Hogan's army in Montana; one man killed....Great loss of life on Ireland's coast.
26—Striking miners march on Toluca, Ill.
27—Celebration at Chicago and Galena of Grant's birthday.
28—St. Charles Hotel, New Orleans, burns; four lives lost....Missouri Valley, Ia., marshal killed by burglars.
29—Coxey's army reaches Washington; no demonstration.
30—Death of Senator Stockbridge, of Michigan, at Chicago, and Editor Frank Hatton at Washington....Murderer of Missouri Valley's marshal lynched near Council Bluffs.

MAY.

1—Riot at Cleveland, O....Coxey and Browne arrested while attempting to speak from the capitol steps at Washington..Great Northern strike ends in favor of employes.
4—Fatal riots on Mesaba Range and in Pennsylvania coke regions.
8—Coxey, Browne and Jones are found guilty at Washington of disorderly conduct....Coal strike raises price of soft coal 100 per cent.
9—Cloudburst at Stillwater, Minn...Health officials declare Chicago sweatshops full of small-pox.
11—Meeks family four people, murdered at Milan, Mo.
13—Talmage's Tabernacle at Brooklyn burns for the third time; loss $2,000,000....Thirty people burned badly at Bradford, Pa., by exploding tank car.
15—Half million loss, 180 dwellings burned and 3,000 people homeless by fire in Boston....G. A. R. encampment at Rockford, Ill.....Tremendous storms and cloudbursts in Northwest.
16—Hottest day in May, in Chicago, since 1874.
17—Five killed by cyclone at Kunkle, O....Temperature drops from 85 to 35 degrees within five hours at Chicago.
18—Snow in Chicago....Schooner Cummings and crew of nine lost at Milwaukee; nine schooners and eleven lives lost at Chicago; schooner Shupe and six lives lost at Port Huron....Storm most furious known in years....Heavy snow in Northern Michigan.
19—Seven killed in a tunnel collision near Princeton, Ky....Frost damages crops in several States.
20—Great floods on Susquehanna River....Half million fire loss at Philadelphia....Six inches of snow at Carlisle, Ky.
24—Riots and bloodshed at Pennsylvania and Illinois coal mines.
25—Militia sent to several Illinois mining points.
30—Six killed in a wreck at Manville, Wis.....General observance of Decoration Day exercises.
31—Tremendous floods in Puebio, Col., and Canadian Northwest.

JUNE.

3—$225,000 fire at Ottumwa, Ia.
4—Four rioting miners killed by Indiana troops; troubles continue in Indiana, Iowa and Illinois....Pullman strikers sorely in need of aid....One million dollar failure in St. Joseph, Mo.
5—Anarchy and riot at McKeesport, Pa.
6—Fatal riots and arson near Peoria, Ill.....Rosebery's colt Ladas wins the English Derby and £5,000.
7—Twenty Coxeyites drowned near Brighton, Col....Death of Prof. Whitney of Yale.....Activity of troops of Illinois, Colorado and Ohio....Battle at Cripple Creek, Col.
8—Apparently authentic report of the death of Outlaw Bill Dalton.
9—Illinois troops called to Pana....$475,000 fire loss at Dubuque, Ia.
10—Four strikers shot by deputies at Lemont, Pa.
11—Columbus conference ends the coal strike....News of death of Muley Hassan, Sultan of Morocco, and succession of his son.
14—Death of Lord Chief Justice Coleridge at London.
15—200 miners killed in Austrian Silesia.....Erastus Wiman found guilty of forgery at New York and recommended to the mercy of the court.
16—Death of William Walter Phelps, diplomat, at Englewood, N. J.
18—Troops quell riots at Mount Olive, Ill.; 100 arrests made....Hottest June day ever known in New York; many people prostrated and nine suicides because of the heat; mercury 91 degrees.
19—Great damage by wind at Chadron, Neb....Destructive floods in Penn Valley, Pa., Prussia and Austria....Forty-five excursionists drowned in Samara....Erastus Wiman sentenced to 5½ years imprisonment.
20—Gold reserve touches $64,703,047, lowest point in its history....Severe windstorms in Northwest.
23—Rey el Santa Anita wins American Derby at Chicago.
24—President Carnot, of France, assassinated by an Italian....Thirty-one men drown on a capsized tug off New York harbor.
25—Tremendous excitement and anger at Italians in France; cafes and shops looted.
26—A. R. U. boycott on Pullman cars ties up Illinois Central.
27—Minnesota and South Dakota storm-swept....Railroad strike spreads rapidly.

JULY.

1—Funeral of Carnot at Paris....Troops called to quell strikers in Illinois and Colorado.
2—Tremendous activity shown by strikers; no bloodshed yet.
3—Tariff bill passes the Senate....Every road in Chicago helpless from the strike....Prendergast, assassin, declared sane....Bloody riot at Ironwood, Mich.
4—$1,000,000 fire loss at Hudson, Mass.
5—Seven buildings at World's Fair grounds burn....Riots in railroad yards at Chicago....Mayor Hopkins issues a proclamation....Gov. Altgeld protests against Federal troops in Illinois....Yacht Valkyrie sunk in collision in a race.
6—Three rioters and two deputy sheriffs killed at Chicago; over 1,000 freight cars burned; five regiments of State troops reinforce the regulars....Strikers completely rule the Pacific coast.
7—Bloody riots at Chicago....Miners' mobs loot stores at Spring Valley and Ladd, Ill.
8—Riots continue at Chicago; three killed, 25 hurt by troops and deputies.
9—Two women and one man killed by wild firing of militia at Grape Creek, Ill....Strike extends to Toledo.
10—Debs indicted for conspiracy.
11—Thousands join the sympathetic strike....Four soldiers killed in a wreck in California.
12—Reports of over a hundred killed in earthquake in Turkey....President Cleveland decides to appoint arbitrators for strikes.
13—Big strike declared off; A. R. U. defeated....Prendergast hanged at Chicago....Murderous riots at Sacramento, Cal.
16—Four soldiers killed, many people hurt, by exploding caisson at Chicago....Race war in Alabama results in killing 7 negroes.
17—Eight miners killed by dynamite at Stockton, Pa....Debs and his associates sent to jail for contempt.
19—Fires: $500,000 at Minneapolis; $250,000 at El Paso, Ill....Tariff conference committees disagree.
23—Three killed on the Big Four and 7 on the Texas Pacific by wrecks.
25—Cat barns at Washington burn; $500,000 loss, three firemen killed.
26—War declared between China and Japan....Day of tremendous heat all over the West; immense damage to crops.
27—Many towns in Northern Wisconsin destroyed by forest fires....Continuance of tremendous heat in Northwest.
28—Phillips, Wis., burned; $1,350,000 loss, 13 people perish....$500,000 fire at Belle Plaine, and $160,000 at Brooklyn, Ia....Drouth in Illinois and Iowa broken.
30—Half million fire loss in Minneapolis.
31—Japanese sink China's finest warship, capture two cruisers, and kills 2,000 men....Continuation of fearful heat and drouth in in Northwest.

AUGUST.

1—$2,500,000 fire in Chicago lumber district; three lives lost....Death of Judge Hoit, famous jurist and Buchanan's Secretary of War, at Washington.
2—Two fires in Chicago do $357,000 damage.
3—Japs defeat Chinese with 2,000 slaughtered....Carnot's assassin sentenced to death at Paris.
5—Ex-Gov. Blair, of Michigan, dies....Railroad strike declared off in Chicago.
7—Panic on Chicago Board of Trade caused by drought; corn reaches 60 cents, overselling wheat....Centennial of Wayne's victory celebrated at Defiance, O.
9—Fourteen lives lost in wreck on Rock Island near Lincoln, Neb....Vaccination riot at Milwaukee....Corn crop outlook growing darker.
13—House adopts Senate's tariff schedule....Corn still shows remarkable firmness in market; crop prospects growing worse.
15—Santo executed at Lyons, France.
18—News of battle from the Orient; Chinese defeated, 2,000 slain....Crop prospects improved by rain.
21—$400,000 fire in Cincinnati....Sixty-six houses burned in Beeville, Tex....Eight men drowned in a yacht race at St. Johns, N. B....Gov. Altgeld asks public aid for starving Pullmanites.
24—Thirty-seven miners killed near Franklin, Wash.; two at Ashland, Pa.; four at Creede, Colo.
25—Chase and capture of Gordon and Lake, Chicago train robbers and murderers....1,000 people perish in cyclone on east shore of Sea of Azov.
26—John Newell, president L. S. & M. S. Ry., dies at Youngstown, O....Lake navigation greatly hindered by smoke from Michigan forest fires.
27—New tariff becomes a law without President Cleveland's signature....Many lake vessels stranded because of smoke from Michigan forest fires.
28—Congress adjourns; universal rejoicing....Enormous customs receipts throughout the country, because of lower tariffs.
31—A thousand Chinamen perish in a fire at Hong Kong....Many people killed at Uvalde, Texas, by cloudburst and earthquake.

SEPTEMBER.

1—Over 700 people perish, six towns destroyed, in Northern Minnesota, by forest fires; property loss several millions....Six negroes lynched in Tennessee for barn-burning.
3—Rains check forest fires....Tremendous rain fall in Chicago....Labor day generally observed.
4—Fires renewed in northern pine woods....St. Paul raises $10,000, Duluth $9,500 and other cities various smaller amounts for forest fire sufferers; Actor Irving, of England, cables $500 for same purpose.
6—Robert J. paces a mile at Indianapolis in 2:02½; three heats average 2:03 2-3; both record-breakers.
10—Maine gives 37,000 Republican majority.
11—G. A. R. encampment at Pittsburg.
15—Owens defeats Breckinridge in Ashland, Ky., district.
17—News of Japan's success in decisive battle at Ping Yang, Corea....Destructive cyclone in Oklahoma.
18—Abortive attempt to rob Santa Fe train at Gorin, Mo.; one robber fatally hurt, one captured....New York Republicans nominate Morton....Chinese and Japs sink three ships each.
19—Alix trots in 2:03¾ at Galesburg.
21—Over 80 lives lost in a cyclone in Iowa and Minnesota....Madame Fursch-Mahdi, renowned singer, dies at Warrenville, N. J.
23—$1,500,000 fire in Portland, Ore.
26—Steamer Ohio and schooner Ironton collide off Presque Isle, Mich., and sink; five lives lost....Five sailors drown by sinking of schooner Wm. Home off Manistique....New York Democrats nominate David B. Hill.

OCTOBER.

2—Little Rock wrecked by a cyclone....Special meeting of British Cabinet called.
3—Death of Prof. David Swing of Chicago....Flurry of snow in Chicago.
5—Six men killed in a fire at Detroit.
7—Death of Oliver Wendell Holmes, of Massachusetts, and Ex-Gov. A. G. Curtin, of Pennsylvania.
10—Terrific storm on the Atlantic coast; over 250 lives lost....Nine killed by falling building in New York.
12—Train robbers in California and Virginia get $100,000.
17—Two killed, ten wounded by militia repelling attempt at lynching at Washington Courthouse, Ohio.
20—Death of Historian James Anthony Froude at London.
24—Four Nebraska counties swept by fire; many lives lost and thousands of cattle perish.
AD CHRON
27—Sixteen perish in a boarding-house fire at Seattle, Wash.
28—$500,000 loss in freight-house fire at East St. Louis....Three killed by dynamite in a boarding-house at Laurel Run, Pa....Three killed at Lima, O., and three at Corydon, Pa., in wrecks....Steamer Walrapa and 112 lives lost off New Zealand.
30—Seven perish by fire at New York.

NOVEMBER.

1—Czar of Russia dies.
2—Earthquake destroys New Hebrides towns.
6—Something dropped in political circles.
7—Six killed in a B. & O. wreck.
8—Death of Mike Kelly, famous ball

WINTER WISDOM

Since the icy breath of Old Boreas has again proved that Old Probs and his ally, the Goose Bone, are infallible weather progecsticators. We think a few homely hints on weather may be hazarded:

1st....Keep your feet Warm.
2d....Keep your hands warm.
3d....Keep your head warm.
4th....Keep your body warm.

By heeding the advice we give you will save your health. By buying of us you will SAVE YOUR MONEY!

HOSIERY: For Women, for Men, for Girls, for Boys, for Children, in endless variety. You will be pleased with PRICES and QTALITIES.

GLOVES AND MITTENS: For Women, for Men, for Girls, for Boys, for Children. Made of Wool, Made of Kid, Made of Buckskin, Made to Wear, Made to Please you.

HEADWEAR Wool Facinators, Ice Wool Shawls, Hoods, Stylish Millinery.

UNDER WEAR: For Women, For Men, For Girls, for Boys, for Children. Light Cotton, Heavy Cotton, Light wool and Cotton, Heavy wool and Cotton, Our stock is immense. PRICES RIGHT,

We are getting ready for our annual Inventory, and reduce prices on many desirable and seasonable goods to close them out.

The Lowest Prices on Dress Goods the World has ever Seen. New and Desireable Styles.

BISHOP & LACKEY,
AUBURN, INDIANA.

GOLD WATCHES, RINGS, PENS, CHAINS, CUFF BUTTONS, ETC.

SILVER RINGS, WATCH POCKETS, BREAD TRAYS, BERRY DISHES, CARD RECEIVERS, TEA SETS, ETC.

Everything in Clocks, Jewelry, Knives, Forks, Spoons and Silverware.

REPAIRING
A SPECIALTY.

D. A. HODGE,
The POPULAR JEWELER.

NATIONAL DETECTIVE BUREAU
96½ E. Market St., Rooms 12, 13, 14 and 15

This Bureau investigates murders, conspiracies, blackmailing, burglaries, thefts, horse and stock stealing, legal evidence in divorce and other family matters, etc. Only experienced and trustworthy detectives employed. Reliable references furnished you from Indianapolis, any State in the Union or any part of Europe. The Superintendent of this Bureau was formerly state Detective Officer for the State of New Jersey, also Chief Detective of the N. Y. O. & W. Railway, late Superintendent World's Secret Detective Service of New York City, and also was Chief of Police in New Jersey, and connected with the Midland Railway Police and Detective Department of England. We have reliable operators located in all parts of the world, and can furnish reliable men on short notice. For further particulars address

CHAS. AINGE, Supt. National Detective Bureau,
DEPARTMENT A. INDIANAPOLIS, IND.

HULL'S CASH HOE TORE

Leather Boots, Rubber Boots, Felt Boots,

Best Line in Auburn

Men's Shoes — Women's Shoes — Children's Shoes
Men's Shoes — Women's Shoes — Children's Shoes

We have never had such a Line to offer before. Don't fail to see them- Prices lower than ever.

THE CASH SHOE STORE
OP. BISHOP & LACKEY'S.

LOCAL NEWS.

Sealed book to men free, box 52, Toledo, O.

W. B. Campbell went up to Chicago Saturday on a business trip.

R. W. Cobb came home from the west to spend the holidays with his family.

Mr. and Mrs. John Johnson came down from Elkhart Monday.

Rev. E. A Griffin, of Branch, Co., Mich., is visiting friends here.

Miss Lina Bartels is visiting in the family of Mrs Earl, at Toledo, O.

Protracted meetings begin at the M. E. church next Sunday.

Miss Sid Clark, of Garrett, is the guest of Miss Minnie Gordon.

Mrs. Brosy is home from a visit with her people at West Jefferson, Ohio.

Ed Koons, of South Bend, was in town last week the guest of Miss Della Weaver.

Mrs. Mitchell, of Pleasant Lake, is the guest of her son, Ed. Mitchell.

Rev. A. S. Wooton made a trip to Kokomo Monday and returned Tuesday.

Miss Estella Henning, of Waterloo, took New Year's dinner with friends in town.

Geo. Smith, of Spencerville, was in town Monday. He was on his way to Angola where he is attending college.

Mr. and Mrs. Perry Long had a nice New Year's gift Tuesday, a fine boy baby.

Ed. Yates, of Reading, was a guest of Geo. Lanning over Sunday. He is Mrs. L's brother.

Paul Davenport returned Monday from Chicago, where he has been visiting a week with his brother Frank.

Ft. Wayne business houses will close at 6 all days but Saturday, during January, February and March.

Miss Mathias returned this week, to her home in Peru after a week's visit with her friend Miss Helen Servoss.

Mrs. Bindhammer, formerly Miss Nora Saxton, came down from Chicago last week for a visit with her people here.

Will Campbell is home from Logansport. He is working in I. N. Cool's carriage factory at that place.

Mrs W. J Olds went to Payne, O., Tuesday to visit a week with Miss Addie Randolph.

MARRIED:—At the Lutheran parsonage Jan, 1, 1895, by J. D Brosy, George Muhn and Minnie Grube.

Mr. and Mrs. Ves Zimmerman have been visiting relatives in Michigan during the past week.

Paul Wooton returned Monday from a visit of a few days with his grandmother, Mrs. Draggoo at Lagrange.

MARRIED:—At the Lutheran Parsonage Dec 27, by J. D. Brosy, Isaiah Wert and Carrie Shull.

The Auburn Rifles will be remustered into the service of the state next Friday evening. May Bowan, of Waterloo, is mustering officer.

Mr. and Mrs. Markle, of Chicago, have been the guests in the family of Mrs Markle's brother, John Zimmerman during the past week.

Chas Comesky was in town Monday to meet his wife and daughter Mary, who have been making a holiday visit with another daughter, Julia Reynolds, in Van Buren county, Mich.

Mrs Sarah Snyder, of Antwerp, Ohio, came here last week, and was a guest of John Lochner a few days She also visited Jacob Loebner and the other relatives in the south part of this county.

Kutzner & Myers have purchased an imported Cleveland Bay Stallion, a very valuable animal. He will make the season of 1895 at their livery stable and feed barn at this place.

Cyrus Olinger of Mt. Ida Kansas, will return to Auburn about the first of March and will thereafter occupy the J. M Goetschions farm in Richland, recently purchased by L Bowers.

Mrs Margaret Bailey, of south Jackson township, is lying very low. She is probably the oldest lady in Jackson township Her husband Benjamin died about ten years ago.

The residence property in Stamets addition occupied by the south side barber caught fire Sunday morning. It was discovered soon enough to extinguished it with pails About five or six feet of the roof was damaged.

The editor of the Press got a big lot of gum as a Christmas gift last week, and says they are all chewing it. Now we are jealous, for

Why should one man better fare,
And a' men brithers?

Mercury was down about to zero last Tuesday morning, but the weather gradually moderated Up to two weeks ago the weather had been mild and sometimes warm. Grass and wheat were growing and a few soft maple trees showed the buds swelling.

Frances J. Hoofman and Lena Melton were married at the M E parsonage, by Rev. A. S Wooton Wednesday morning Jan 2, 1895. Mr Hoofman is a brother of the present Governor, of North Dakota. The young couple will make their future home in Ashley, Ashley Times:—W. W. Wyrick expects to hang out his shingle as attorney-at-law about the first of the new year. Mr. Wyrick read law with Judge Woodhull and was admitted to the bar some seven or eight years ago. He will office with Frank Seiler.

It is strange how the papers of the county always get up a dispute as to which publishes the President's message first, when they know the COURIER is always in the field first This year we had it in full, Dec 6. It filled eight columns of fine print set solid, or 170 inches in all.

The K P ladies got up a surprise on the K. P. lodge last Friday evening After the election of officers, the ladies appeared on the scene, "armed and equipped according to law," having a stock of candies, nuts and other toothsome materials which all proceeded to enjoy as soon as the first flush of astonishment was over.

We are in receipt of the program of Christmas exercises of Cataract Commandery Knights Templar of Spokane, Wash, where our friend Harry Rush is located, He is one of the leading Masons of the state having held the highest position in the order. On this Christmas occasion he is down for a speech "Our Order" and have no doubt did himself and the old DeKalb fatherland credit.

A. B Richards had something like an attack of apoplexy Saturday morning. He was at the barn feeding the horse and then milked the cow, after which he remembers nothing that occured till his wife, alarmed at his absence, came to the door. He was helped to the house, and Dr Swan's called, who has been in attendance since. He does not say that the symptoms are of an serious but hopes that Mr Richards' general good health may help him out all right.

See the news on inside pages.

Smoke the K. & B. ten-cent cigar.

Book free despondent men, box 52, Toledo, O

An accident to our press delayed us nearly a day on this issue.

Walter Zimmerman, of Leesburg has been visiting friends here.

The Kiblinger factory will still further increase its force in a few days.

The new band instruments came Tuesday.

Dr. Less, of Angola, visited his sister Mrs. Sophie Baird last week.

Miss Dora Berringer returned Monday from Bryon, O., where she had been the guest of friends a week.

Mrs. Nate Alvord has returned from a two week's visit with relatives in Noble county.

Nan. P. Phillips returned Wednesday evening from a few days visit with friends in Michigan.

Dr. Johnston, dentist, has the new method of filling teeth without pain, as well as painless extraction of teeth.

Mrs. Dr. Siver, of Ft. Wayne, was among those who attended the Oberlin Glee Club entertainment.

L. E. Lane has purchased the steam laundry of Ryan & Matheny, south of the jail and has already begun work.

MAN at Columbus, Ind., sold a load of watermelons Christmas. He kept them in dry hay.

See the fine bicycle in Shuger's window It was made by his brothers at Coldwater.

MONEY FOUND:—At J. C. Henry's store Monday, Dec. 31. Parties calling for same can have it by proving property and paying for this notice. 1-3

Ex-Sheriff St. Clair has been ill this week at the Sheriff's residence, Dr. Vesta Swarts is attending and hopes he will get along all right.

Mrs. May Dills returned Monday from St. Charles, Mich. She reports her mother as no better. She is seventy three years of age and has apoplexy.

Mrs. Lizzie Adams, daughter of John Treesh, of Ft. Wayne, was the guest of relatives in Auburn several days during the past week.

Fire caught in Mr. Storey's house, east of the Central, Tuesday, but was soon put out without the aid of the engine

Miss Maud Shepherd, of Dayton, O., is here visiting old friends, the guest of Miss Mae Rose. She is the granddaughter of Robt. Showers.

P. W. Silver, of Bluffton, secretary of the republican state committee, Wm. Silver, of Chicago, and Miss Maggie Thompson, of Kansas, visited Mrs. Anna Silver this week.

The Auburn Musical Club gave another of their delightful public meetings Monday evening. The church was full, for people are beginning to see what a fine entertainment they get for ten cents.

The Degree of Honor of the A. O. U. W. installed officers Tuesday evening and at the close were surprised by the gentlemen of the order who brought in a lunch which all proceeded to enjoy.

Mr Cobb received a telegram from his father at Berlin Heights, O., to come at once as his mother was very low. Mrs. Cobb started Wednesday and he followed next day.

FOUND: Friday, Dec. 28, on the road east of town a large package containing a lady's coat. Owner can have by proving property and paying for this notice. Call at this office or on Wm. Hill east of town. 1-3

WANTED:—Elm and Oak Hub Timber, by Zimmerman Mfg. Co., Auburn Ind. Inquire at their office for dimensions. 1-4

M L Rohm, ¾ mile west and ½ mile north of Showers' Corners, will have a sale of personal property next Tuesday, Jan. 8 As the notice is short, those interested should bear in mind.

The M E Sunday School elected the following officers Sunday: Supt, O. M. Merica; Asst. Supt, M. Boland; Secy, John Lochner; Treas, A Robbins; Org., Blanche Shilling; Chor., Della Weaver; Librarian Geo. Quince

They said he was insane to steal cigars in broad daylight, but when it was found they were Kessler Bros.' Bill Heads no one questioned his sound judgment.

H A. Stevens, formerly one of the proprietors of the Dispatch, but now at his former home, Paxton, Ill, was here over Sunday. The many friend of himself and wife will be pleased to hear of their good health.

You don't have to go outside to smoke; you need no poultice on your neck to get a good "draw," nor anything to "kill the taste" when through smoking a Receipt.

All diseases of the air passages especially catarrah and chronic, Bronchitis, as well as first stages of consumption can be cured. I am treating these diseases with great success by the use of the latest and most improved medicines and instruments. Dr. W H. Nusbaum, Auburn, Ind. 42tf

J. E. Dilgard and wife, who reside between this place and Waterloo are truly subjects for sympathy in their many bereavements. Three or four years ago they had a family of six bright children, now they have but one left About three years ago one was drowned and the others have died of sickness, the last death being about two weeks ago.

Hamilton Advocate:—G. D. Baxter, of Auburn, spent Christmas in Hamilton and with his father and C. O at the old home..Uncle Jos. Sewell and wife attended the wedding of Milton Barker and Mrs. Hannah Loutzenheiser...O. P. Learned shipped an other car load of hogs to Buffalo last Saturday..Henry Webster and son, of Stafford township, DeKalb county, visited Christmas with Mrs. Jos. Sewell, Mr. W's mother, and E. S Greenwood, his brother..C. M. Brown and family arrived here from Auburn last Saturday evening Mrs. Brown and daughter visited over Christmas with Mrs. Brown's parents, and C. M. returned home Monday on account of court business.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

The S H G will meet next Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs Caruth

The C. L. S. C. will meet Saturday afternoon with Mrs Darling.

The L. L. C. will meet this week with Mrs. Swinsford. Lesson, first seven pages of the history

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Lutheran church will meet in the lecture room of the church on Friday afternoon of this week at 2 o'clock to elect officers. All the members are urged to come.

Write Box 52, Toledo, O., free book to men

Didn't Know Their Wives.

There occurred at the residence of Mr. and Mrs Don Garwood on last Thursday evening one of the pleasanest social events of the holiday season. The Ladies' Reading Circle of this place had planned to give their husbands a surprise on that evening in the way of a masquerade party. The gentlemen had been invited to come at 8 o'clock and arrived at that hour in a body being received very gracefully at the door by Master John Leas and Miss Aileen Garwood. They had in some way gained an inkling that masks were to be used in some way and each one thought he could immediately pick out his wife. Much to their surprise and chagrin, down the broad staircase came trooping about eighteen ladies, all in the beautiful Greek costume with white dominoes and powdered hair, singing a chorus and marching around the music box to a lively tune. This was the first charade of the evening. The gentlemen of the party stood dazed, being neither able to guess the charade which was "The Merry Go-Round" nor to select their proper wives. A few succeeded in doing this, but others insisted on claiming some other man's wife as his own. After the masks were removed, refreshments were served, and the rest of the evening was spent in charades and social games.

This circle was organized about two months ago and grew out of what was formerly the Ladies' Whist Club. The following are the officers; Pres., Mrs. Minnie Hannah; Secy., Mrs Laura Zent; Treas., Mrs. Rose Shull. They meet every Wednesday afternoon at the home of some one of the members.

Married.

At the residence of S. J. Lock the bride's father, in Waterloo Dec. 25, '94 O. E. Siegfried, of Fremont, Ohio, to Miss Effie Lock. The ceremony was performed by the bride's brother, Rev. Richard E. Lock, now of Boston, assisted by Rev. W O Butler. Miss Lena McCray, of Kendallville, was bridesmaid, and W. J. Schuldknecht, of Toledo, was best man. The bride is a member of the graduating class of '91 in the Waterloo High school and very popular with all classes of our people. She is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lock, The groom is a promising young man, a traveling salesman for Worts, Kirk and Bigelow of Toledo. The large double parlors of the Lock Hotel were made lovely by a profusion of evergreens and flowers, including holly, mistletoe and smilax and the entire hotel presented a lovely appearance. At 11 a. m. Miss Blanche Kelley at the piano, played the wedding march, the bridal party filed in, and the ceremony took place with full and impressive formalities The wedding ring was a fine diamond, and very beautiful. About 75 were present and an elegant dinner was served in the elaborately decorated dining room. Their home will be in Toledo.

Paid Subscriptions.

The holiday matters crowded us so we could not publish our "roll of honor" for November and December. So we give both this week.

NOVEMBER.

W. Lanning, Ab. Kelley, Jacob Dermott, Joseph Sewell, Anna T. Simon, John Wagoner, Isaac Teeters, John Rudolph, Emanuel Heller, S J. Henney, Solomon Lower, J. Benninghoff, John Nichols, H. J. Luce, Samuel Watson, Jas. L. Ferguson, C A, Picker, E. Crossley, Christian Smith, S. A. Powers, O F. Leins, J. W. Jackman, James Vogtman, J. N. Chamberlain, Harry Reed, Henry Wilks, Baltzer Koontz, Jacob Lochner, jr., C. Barkey, A. H. Blaker, L. D. Bell, Wm Means, G. P. Kibbe, Joe Pfeffrl, Rebecca Dickinson, Curtis Shultz, Wm. Murphy, Noah A. Lung, R. N. Crooks, W. H. Wagoner, Edward Orr, C. Comesky, M. E. Chapman, R. M. Lockhart, John Baird, Mary A McEnterfer, J. D High, Jas. W. Cool, Cory Shugers, A. M. St. Clair, Frank McClish, E Eldridge, A. J. Shutt, Geo. Barney, C. W. Husselman, Oron Bair, Geo. Wagoner, Dr. Sebring.

DECEMBER.

G. I. Patterson, John W. Tarney, Geo B. Goetschius, Joe Loveland, Mattie Hoffman, Geo. H. Picker, J. S. Olinger, Wm. Oiler, J. W. Osbun, John Frantz, Thomas Chandler, John Oiler, Mandis Myers, L. D. Miser, Lyman Lockwood, E. M. Brumbaugh, Andrew Smith, Geo. E Cox, Wm. Groscop, John H. Zeek, Wm. Ensley, John W. Miser, A. Blodgett, C. P. Glazier, E. T. Hull, Levi Hewitt, Frank Zimmerman, Mrs. Mary Barnes, S. H. Long, Perry Long, A. Sherck, J. R. Skilling, Holmes Link, F. C. Colvin, W. L Meese, Eli Miers, I. B. Goetschius, C. M. Merica, Charles Kelley, E F. Metcalf, Charles Stoops, Chas Snell, John Bohler.

Court.

Too much holiday work kept out the court news last week. We will bring up the principal points to date. Daniel Link, of Auburn was admitted to the bar. He is a son of Joseph Link, of this place, and has been for some years studying law in Chicago, giving a part of his time to reporting for the city papers. Henry Sherlock was given judgment against the estate of Hannah Sherlock, for $1887, M. Kiplinger was awarded a judgment against Geo. Soule for $203 A divorce was granted to J. W. and Catherine Hughes. Hiler and Edwards, who were in the shooting scrape at Butler plead guilty and were fined as noted last week in our Butler items Edwards who was shot was fined $25 as he was considered most to blame, white Hiler had to shell out only $10. On Monday of this week, the familiar face of Judge Powers appeared at the judge's desk. He had came down to try a couple of cases begun before him and partly worked through, the Kelley Kennedy ditch case and the Nodine Will case. The three boys from Waterloo, who were in jail for breaking into a saloon, were let off as it was not fully proved on them.

GREAT REDUCTION ON MILLINERY!
AT
COWAN SISTERS'
BEGINNING
THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 15.

This is not upon damaged goods, bought under price, but Every Article Offered is GOOD, SEASONABLE and STYLISH, and will be sold at such LOW PRICES as were Never Before Quoted.

We have a Large Stock which must be CUT DOWN within the next twenty days.

It's the PRICES that will TALK

Hats worth $1.65 and $1 85 for 87c. and 99c.
Hats worth 75c. and $1 00 for 39c and 48c.
Children's caps, hoods and bonnets, fancy feathers, birds and pins at correspondingly low prices.
TRIMMED HATS at LESS THAN COST.
Come early and get the Cream of the Goods.

COWAN SISTERS
AUBURN, INDIANA.

DON'T ! ! ! !
Buy a dollar's worth of goods until you have seen

Fred J. Yesbera's
ELEGANT STOCK OF
WATCHES, CLOCKS and JEWELRY.

He has the Nicest Goods in Town for Xmas Presents, at Prices that BEAT THE WORLD 1895!

Do you want to know
How to save money during the year 1895?

Do you want to know
Where to buy good goods for a little money during 1895?

If you do
Buy your Gloves, Mittens, Pants and Shirts of

OLDS BROS.

5 5 5 5 5 5 5 5 5 5 5 5 5 5 10 10 10
10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 5 5 5 5 5 5

The Presents are on exhibition at our store.

ALWAYS BRING THIS CARD and have your cash purchases recorded. When they reach $25.00 you will be presented with one of the articles mentioned below.

IRA BRANDON
DEALER IN
GROCERIES, PROVISIONS,
North Main Street, AUBURN, IND.

A Beautiful Line of Silverware.

When one card is cancelled another will be issued.

50 50 50 50 50 50 50 50 50 50 75 75 75 75 75 75 75

10 10 75 75 75 75 75 75 75 75 75 75 75 75 20 20
20 20 20 20 20 20 20 20 20 20 20 20 20 20 20 20

DR. WILLIAMS' KIDNEY PILLS

A remedy that has no equal in diseases of the Kidneys and Urinary Organs, Have you neglected your kidneys? Have you overworked your nervous system and caused trouble with your kidneys and liver? Have you pains in the loins, side, back, loins and bladder? Have you a flabby appearance of the face, especially under the eyes? Too frequent desire to pass urine? No matter what the cause, we know Dr. Williams' Kidney Pills will cure you. Imparts new life to the diseased organs, tones up the whole system and makes a new man of you. Mailed on receipt of price, $1.00 per box.
WILLIAMS M'F'G CO., Props., Cleveland, O.
sold by FISCHLER & SON, Auburn. 1y30

The Fayette Normal University has an advertisement in this issue, Those who are thinking of attending a Normal or College should not fail to send for catalogue and make a careful study of the excellent features of this school. 27tf

I. O. BUCHTEL, Homœopathic Physician and Surgeon.

Special attention given to chronic and obscure cases and catarrhal diseases of the nose, throat and lungs; also to diseases peculiar to women and children.
Office and residence over Smith & Madden's marble works, Auburn, Ind. Office apart from residence and private. All calls attended to promptly, night or day.

When wild and withering winter winds warp the weary wanderer, his thoughts turn in sweet anticipation to home, wife and Kessler Bros.' Little Salesman.

CHAPTER X—Continued.

He slept an hour, and then saw his wife standing beside him with her grave little face and a "memorandum" in her hand, wherein their incomings and outgoings were set down with scrupulous neatness and as much accuracy as was attainable under the circumstances.

"How clever you are!" Roderick cried, enthusiastically, until he discovered the sad deficit, which must be met somehow. How? "Perhaps the people would wait; Richerden tradesmen often do."

"If they could, we could not," Silence answered, gravely. "They must be paid."

"How? Not by asking my mother: It is impossible," added he, abruptly. "And otherwise what can I do? 'I can not dig; to beg I am ashamed.'"

Roderick spoke with great bitterness. His wife made no answer, but went into her bedroom and brought out a large jeweler's case—necklet, bracelet, brooch.

"It was very good of you, dear, to give me these. I know what they cost, for I have found the receipted bill; still, if we had, not jewels, but the money——"

Roderick drew himself up with exceeding pride. "Am I come to such a pass that I require to sell my wife's ornaments? It is a little hard." Then bursting out hotly, as she had never before seen him do—"No, Silence, you are only a girl; you don't understand the world, or you would never have suggested such a thing. Not that; anything but that."

"There is nothing but that, so far as I see," she answered gently, but firmly. "It is true I am a girl; but I am not quite ignorant of the world—at least of its troubles. Mamma and I were often very poor—so poor that we did not always have enough to eat; but we held our heads high, because we owed no one anything. She used to say, 'My child, what we can not pay for we will go without.' I always obeyed her. I must do so still. You must never ask me to wear these jewels."

He was so astonished that his sudden wrath melted away in a moment. The gentle creature whom he could have ruled with a word! Yet by the way she quietly put the ornaments back and laid the case aside, he knew she meant what she said, and that nothing would ever move her to act against her conscience.

"Do you not care for them, the gifts I gave you?" said Roderick, tenderly.

"Care for them? Do I not? But I care for you still more. I would rather never wear jewels to the day of my death than see my husband look as he has looked this day."

"But to sell your ornaments! even if I can do it, which I doubt? My poor child! what would Richerden people say?"

"Would Richerden think it more discreditable that you should sell my ornaments than that your tradespeople should go without their money? Then I think the sooner we leave Richerden the better."

"Have we quarreled?"

"I don't know," said she, half smiling.

Roderick paused a minute, and then held her in his arms.

"It is right; I will do it."

"Yes, dear; these things are so much more to women than to men. Go to the jeweler and say——"

"But do not like them?"

"That would not be true. I love them very much—as I like all beauty. But I like other things—peace, and a quiet mind. Let ourselves right now, and we will be careful—very careful—we must earn the money. Nay, nay, 'leave all the rest to God.' This will never happen again, or, to 'clever' as you say, never mind. Her voice, but the tears that she could withstand Roderick, certainly. Be-[illegible] sense to see, what we see, that there are woman can do better than a woman is often foolish. It is not a [illegible]rity or inferiority, [illegible]id, "I must give [illegible]k into my right [illegible] chariot. Well, better than turn-[illegible]haeton and set-[illegible] Seriously, my [illegible]appen again, if

[illegible] quarrel, which [illegible]not a quarrel, [illegible]ty in opinion. [illegible]rom that time [illegible]s that might [illegible] painful to a [illegible]me to a busy [illegible]y of doing [illegible] humiliating, [illegible]f them en-[illegible]ey was ob-[illegible] the prepa-[illegible] next day's [illegible] Mrs. Jar-[illegible] she had [illegible], looking [illegible] with the [illegible] Her hus-[illegible]h, Nan-[illegible] which [illegible]n as to [illegible] furor

[illegible] leave [illegible] thing [illegible] and [illegible]ing [illegible] me [illegible] is [illegible]ing [illegible]de-often calling my attention. Sing, my bird!"

She sat down and sung, clear as a bell and gay as a lark, the lovely old ditty. Her voice was her one perfectly beautiful possession, "except," as Roderick sometimes said, "except her soul," of which it was the exponent. He listened to it with all his heart in his eyes.

"Do you remember, Silence, that first night at the Reyniers', when you sung 'My Queen?' And again—no, you could not remember that—the first Sunday when I heard you singing behind me, unseen, in Neuchatel cathedral? It sounded like the voice of an angel—my good angel. And now I have her in my home, my own home, forever! And she is—only a woman, and has got no wings."

"Nor has mine either! He is—only a man; and I find out a new—shall I call it peculiarity?—in him every day. And worse, he cannot sing at all; he can only whistle; but——"

And then, being a weak-minded woman at best, and also exceedingly tired, she stopped laughing and began crying, clinging passionately to her husband's breast.

"Oh, take care of me and I will take care of you as well as I can. We are very young, very foolish; but we may help one another. Only love me, and then—— No, whether you love me or not, I shall always love you."

"My darling!"

"But"—with the sun breaking brightly through the summer shower—"since you love me all will go well. We will fight the world together, and not be afraid. No"—tossing back her light curls (they were terribly unfashionable, and she had been urged to abolish them, but Roderick objected, and they remained)—"no!"—and a gleam that might have come from some Highland ancestress of both, fearless till death, and faithful till death, shone in Silence's eyes—"I am afraid of nothing so long as I have you."

CHAPTER XI.

They were standing together, the young husband and wife, "at their ain door," in the long northern twilight, the midsummer twilight, beautiful as I have never seen it anywhere but in Scotland; cold, gloomy, rainy Scotland. But, as if Nature herself wished to be kind to the souls that loved her, and unto whom the world was just a little unkind, from the day they reached Blackhall there had set in an extraordinarily long spell of fair weather.

Already both were a good deal changed; the mysterious change which marriage makes to all, but to none so much as those who marry early. Already they had learned to forget themselves each in the other, with the hope of a long future in which to rub down opposing angles, striving to become "heirs together of the kingdom of heaven"—that kingdom of heaven which begins on earth.

"How quiet everything is!" she said; "how plainly we can hear the burn singing down below—hear and not see—so that you cannot complain of the mill which has spoiled it so, nor grumble at the sins of your—our—misguided great-great-grandfather!"

This was an impecunious Jardine of the last century, who had sold two acres of land, half a mile below the house, on which was built a cotton-mill, now owned by Mr. Black, the factor, their only near neighbor, and the only person who had yet called upon young Mrs. Jardine. He was an old bachelor—there was no Mrs. Black to call—which fact, remembering Mrs. Maclagan, was a great consolation to Roderick, who betrayed sometimes a lurking dislike both of the mill and its master.

"Yes, Blackhall is very quiet," he answered, "especially after Richerden, though you are 'no longer dressed in—' How does the line run?"

Silence sung out into the clear still night—no fear of listeners!—the verse—

"No longer dressed in silken sheen,
No longer decked wi' jewels rare,
Dost thou regret the courtly scene
Where thou wert fairest of the fair?"

"Those 'jewels rare' about which I got so angry with you, my darling; and yet which purchased for us so much peace of mind, to say nothing of Mr. Maclagan's declaration 'that he had not met for years a lady he so much respected as young Mrs. Jardine!' Good, honest man! He never said so, but I think my poor opals will appear on Mrs. Maclagan's fat neck next winter."

"Never mind; they will make her happy; and I—my happiness does not lie in ornaments."

"What does it lie in, then?"

"Love."

He knew the whispered answer, without need of her giving it.

Still, as he pressed his wife closer to him, he liked to hear it.

"Love is not everything, perhaps. I mean—as our good friend Maclagan suggested when we bade him good-by—

"Will the flame that you're so rich in light a fire in the kitchen,
Or the little God of Love turn the spit, spit, spit?

We must be prudent. And we shall be, now the wife is Chancellor of the Exchequer. Still, we may have a good deal to fight against, which even love will not shield us from. But after all, 'Love is best!'."

"Is it? Do you really think so? For me it is; but you—" she stopped.

"We are just ourselves—our own two selves,"—said Roderick, answering his wife's words, and perhaps the unspoken thoughts of both. "We shall have to fight the world together, and alone; but we will do it, never fear. You shall help me, and I will help you—if I can. By the way—if one dare name such a thing in the face of those glorious hills—did your new kitchen-range work well to-day?"

She laughed merrily.

"Yes, everything is beginning to work well, after a good deal of trouble."

"I know that, my darling. Anybody less happy-minded than you would have made a mountain of misery out of the chaos I have brought you into. Poor Cousin Silence! it could not have been so in her lifetime; she was very dainty and orderly, I believe; but she has been dead more than a year now."

"Dear Cousin Silence!"—with a sudden pathos in her voice which struck her husband. "I think a good deal of Cousin Silence. It seems so strange that we should be here—and so happy—we two. Did you know, Roderick, that this was her favorite walk—this terrace—hers and Cousin Henry's?"

"Cousin Henry—that must have been my father."

"Yes, my father always called him so. He used to speak of him sometimes, not very often. I have never told you"—here her voice fell into the tenderest whisper—"but I have sometimes thought, if they all knew it, they would be very glad that we two were married. Because, as I found out by some letters I had to look over after mamma died, Cousin Silence ought to have married Cousin Henry, if my father had not come between them in some cruel way. He was very sorry afterward—poor papa! but it was too late, I suppose. And they are all dead now, and we are here. Is it not strange?"

"Very strange. Poor Cousin Silence!" Then with a sudden and inexplicable revulsion of feeling Roderick added: "We will not talk of this any more. You see, I am my mother's son. She loved him dearly, and he was the kindest of husbands to her—my poor father!"

"And so was papa to mamma. But, oh, Roderick!"—and clinging to him with a sudden passionate impulse, she burst into tears—"love is best—love is best! Oh, my God, I thank Thee! Take what Thou wilt from me, but leave me this: let me never live to hear my husband say that love was not best!"

Very soon "young Mrs. Jardine," as he was fond of caling her, put on her wise face again, and both it and her words often had a curious wisdom—not worldly wisdom, but that wisdom which has been characterized as coming "from God"—"first pure, and then peaceable."

"There is a saying, Roderick—you read it out of the Bible this very morning at prayers—'Whatsoever thy hand findeth to do, do it with thy might.' That means, as it seems to me, at least, do not go beating about the bush, and vexing yourself with trying after a hundred things that you cannot do, but do something which you can do. I have been thinking of you a great deal, my husband, and one thing has occurred to me. You are very clever; you know you gave me a whole heap of MSS.—prose and poetry—which you wrote at college."

"When I was so foolish as to think I should be an author some day.

"Well, why not? All other professions cost oceans of money, and years of labor. Authorship costs nothing but pen, ink and paper."

"And a few brains, which you think I have, my wife, but—query?"

(To be continued.)

HETTY GREEN GETS JEALOUS

She Makes a Scene Because Her Husband Has Mrs. Howard Attend Him.

Developments of a few days ago seem to indicate that Mrs. Hetty Green, the sh ewd possessor of many well-invested millions, has a sent mental side to her character. Possibly this would not have been discovered if her hu band, Edward A. Green, had not been attacked by rheumatism several months ago, necessitating the services of a massage artist, who, it is said, is called Mrs. Howard. Mr. Green, when in New York and away from his wife, l ves in the Cumberlard, a fas ionable bachelor apartment house at 5th ave nue and 2 d street. There Mr. Green tortured by rheumatic twinges, was faithfully attended by Mrs. Howard, morning and evening. The chief clerk of the Cumberland was alone in the office one night, when through the 5th avenue entrance stalked a tall woman, sevelely plain in dress and countenance. He recognized her as Mrs. Hetty Green.

"I want rooms here, young man," she said, "for myself and daughter."

"But, madam," said the clerk, "this is exclusively a bachelor house, you know, and I really could not; that is, I——"

"Noth'n' of the kind, young man," interrupted Mrs. Green; "my husband is here; an i if I know anything about it he's no bachelor."

Then the clerk summoned the proprietor. Mrs. Green explained the circumstances to him. "My sick husband is be ng rubbed and coddled with altogether too much fidelity by a certain Mrs. Howard. I've had about enough of it, and I propose to run this massage business myself. So you see I have simply got to camp right here until the matter is settled. Give me a month. What do you say?"

The proprietor finally compromised by "giving her ten days," with the request that she get rid of this Mrs. Howard as gently as possible. Mrs. Green and her daughter that night occupied a vacant suite directly above Mr. Green's room, and early the following morning moved to the attack. No one knows exactly what happened when Mrs. Howard arrived to perform her usual service and found herself face to face with the invalid's wife. Listening hall boys caught the sound of vigorous altercation, but Mrs. Howard abandoned the field. She flounced out of the sick room and vanished from the house, not to reappear.

The Plain Woman Gets There.

A discussion is going on in one of the English papers beloved of young men, as to whether ugly women are less happy than their more fortunate sisters. One would like to hear the views of the ugly women themselves, who, no doubt, would be perfectly willing to forego the virtues that are unanimously ascribed to them for the rosy cheeks and golden hair of nature's favored ones; but, according to the young male prigs who express their sentiments, the plain, good girls, with their sunny temperes, efforts to please, and homely qualities, are actually preferred to haughty, exacting, capricious beauties. This is rather an unromantic view for youth to take, and one, perhaps, that some of us would prefer in the mouth of sober middle age, from which romance and susceptibility to beauty have very rightly fled. However, the truth seems to be that if a woman of only moderate excellence does not get the "fun" and flirtation and the sort of not very desirable homage that fall to the lot of the pretty creature, she is quite as likely to win and keep affection of a deeper and more enduring kind. One can imagine, too, that the plainest woman is pleasing in the eyes of her lover, and which of us has not met women with a reputation for beauty for which we could not account? This is especially a table in portraits of bygone belles, many of whom appear to our modern eyes to have little claim to beauty so far as contour and features are concerned.

THEY CANNOT WRITE.

PROMINENT PEOPLE WHOSE SIGNATURES ARE ILLEGIBLE.

Sample of the Queer Chirography of Bank Officials in Various States—Old-Time Characters Who Handled the Quill with Notable Clumsiness.

It has been said that bad writing is a sign of genius. If that be true then the woods are full of geniuses. They grow on every American bush, as it were, and, with Hamlet, seem to

"Hold it
A baseness to write fair, and labor much
How to forget that learning."

There may be method in all this madness of handwriting. Poor chirography may serve to cover a multitude of other sins, and certain unfortunate individuals may have the same excuse to offer as did the Harvard freshman when reminded of his illegible chirography.

"Its all very well to tell me to write better," was the rejoinder, "but, if I were to write better, some people would find out how I spell."

But when it comes to queer signatures—which may be taken as a fair sample of one's handwriting—bank officials lead the procession. This rather remarkable signature for instance, is the invention of the Indiana bank cashier, John Mohr, Jr.:

Arkansas' contribution to this chirographical collection comes from the pen of Lloyd Bowers, a bank cashier, and looks like this:

An ordinary individual would take the following as a first-class schoolboy attempt to make the figures "11,000," but the former Vice-President of a New York State bank, H. G. Nolton, claims it as his signature:

Canada will not be outstripped when it comes to illegible writing, and in the person of R. J. B. Crombie, manager of a bank, has this to offer:

When it comes to a unique signature Kansas comes forward for the palm. It is necessary, however, to explain that these remarkable characters stand for the name of F. C. Miller, cashier:

This looks like a reminder of an overturned bottle of ink, but it is in reality the name of Carmon Parse, cashier of a bank in New Jersey:

This remarkable conglomeration of lines might be taken for a specimen of hieroglyphics or a Chinese puzzle, but it is the name of Ponce de Leon:

A fearless signature represents Texas, and it belongs to the president of a national bank, Tom Randolph by name:

Baby McKee, by the way, has a signature worthy to be given, and in fact outshines some of the efforts of nobility. Here it is:

The Columbus family was evidently a family of poor writers, as Don Diego Columbus could do no better. This is his handiwork:

His son, also Don Diego Columbus, followed in his father's footsteps when he came to writing, for this is what he produced:

Several years ago a prize was offered to one who could decipher this peculiar bit of pen-scratching. But twenty-five persons out of hundreds of guessers made it out to be that of W. P. Hazen, who hails from a national bank in Kansas:

This is the rather desperate-looking scrawl of F. S. Watts, teller of an Iowa bank:

This spiral arrangement is supposed to read, W. D. Mussenden, and it comes forward as a specimen of Eastern ingenuity:

It is said to have once been the boast of knights and gentlemen that they could not write—in fact, that it was the sign of a gentleman not to be able to write. Some of the illegible signatures of nobility certainly stand in evidence of this old belief, the following, for example, being the chirographic effort of Bartholomew Columbus:

Fernando Columbus kept up his end of the line with this ornamental contribution:

Pope Leo had a striking way of signing his name, and he did it after this fashion:

Explorers made some unique contributions in this line, the first of the following being the signature of Fernando De Soto, the second that of Francis Drake, the third of Amerigo Vespucci:

One would not easily believe Mary Anderson—"our Mary"—guilty of such an unsightly signature, yet this scrawl came from her pen:

These are Gubernatorial signatures, the first being perpetrated by Sir Edmund Andros, the second by John Young Brown, the third by Thomas Culpepper:

This is intended as the name of Morgan Dix, the clergyman:

Some interesting stories are told of illegible signatures, one being about that of Charles Sumner. It is related that he received once a letter as follows from a Massachusetts lad:

"The Hon. Charles Sumner—Dear Sir: A pamphlet came to Mr. —— (I have forgotten his name) with a signature upon it. By the aid of Webster's Unabridged, the Latin and Greek lexicons, and the assistance of my high school teacher I have made it out to be your name. If that is so, and you can do it again, please do it for me, and oblige. Yours very truly, ——"

And this is the answer which Mr. Sumner graciously returned:

"My Dear Young Friend—I am glad to learn that you have so many helps to education. It was my name, I can do it again, and here it is. Yours very truly,

The sequel to this incident is that the youth and Mr. Sumner afterward developed a strong friendship, which was broken only by death.

Another story is told on Charles Dudley Warner when he was editor of an Eastern paper. It was at the beginning of the civil war, and as he had been attempting to arouse patriotism with his pen he was especially pleased when one of the typesetters came into the office, and, planting himself firmly in front of the editorial desk, said:

"Well, Mr. Warner, I've decided to enlist in the army."

The response was to the effect that he was glad the man felt the call of duty.

"O, it isn't that," said the truthful compositor, "but I'd rather be shot than try to set any more of your copy."

Here is still another story, which says that a Yale student had his examination paper returned by the professor with a note scrawled on the margin. The student wearied his brain in trying to decipher the bit of information, and finally said to the professor:

"I can't quite make out what this is, if you please."

"That, sir," said the professor, "why, that says: 'I cannot read your handwriting.' You write illegibly, sir."

But the experience of Thomas Bailey Aldrich is the experience of many another mortal. He once received a letter from Prof. E. S. Morse, of Salem, Mass., that was simply incapable of being read. And this is the unique reply that Prof. Morse received:

"My Dear Mr. Morse—It was very pleasant for me to get a letter from you the other day. Perhaps I should have found it pleasanter if I had been able to decipher it. I don't think I mastered anything beyond the date (which I knew) and the signature (which I guessed at). There's a singular and perpetual charm in a letter of yours—it never grows old, it never loses its novelty. One can say to one's self every morning: 'There's that letter of Morse's; I haven't read it yet. I think I'll take another shy at it to-day, and maybe I shall be able, in the course of a few years, to make out what he means by those t's that look like w's and those l's that haven't any eyebrows.' Other letters are read and thrown away and forgotten, but yours are kept forever—unread. One of them will last a reasonable man a lifetime. Admiringly yours, T. B. ALDRICH."

COSSACKS ON HORSEBACK.

Only a Few of Them Are Acrobatic Cavalrymen.

The principal exercise in which the Cossacks excel reminded me very much of what I was familiar with at West Point when the boys were free to indulge their taste for gymnastics on horseback. Our cadets—at least a large proportion of every class—are quite as clever with their horses as the average Cossack. I have seen them stan on the horse's back and gallop in that position, vault in and out of the saddle while the horse is galloping, reach down and pick up objects from the ground, leap hurdles with the horse, alighting from the animal just before the hurdle is touched, and vaulting into the saddle as the horse clears the obstacle. I have also seen our West Pointers change horses while at full gallop, or one take the other behind him. All these exercises I have seen done, not merely with the saddle but without, and not merely in the riding school but while riding out on the country roads.

These are the exercises in which the Cossack chiefly excels, and it may be added in parenthesis that the horse of the average Cossack resembles in many respects the degenerate beast which the government places at the disposition of the United States Military Academy. The Cossack learns these tricks as a boy, when he is allowed with his mates to ride the horse bareback to water, and incidentally is encouraged to indulge in every manner of sport on the way. He is encouraged also to persevere in exercises of this kind, and to be prepared to make an exhibition of himself when as a soldier he is garrisoned in towns, where such exercises smack of the circus rather than of the barrack yard. The Cossack is so often pictured in the act of doing daring things with his horse that it has become common to think that all Cossacks are up to this work. As a matter of fact, it is only a small and select portion that keeps up these exercises, and these are embodied in a special section of the regiment, designated "Dshigits." The Russian regulations of war order the encouragement of these acrobatic cavalrymen, particularly when they indulge in any exercises which may be turned to practical account in war, as, for instance, leaping over an obstacle and firing at the same time, or compelling the horse to stop suddenly and fall to the ground, so that its body may be a breastwork behind which the trooper may shelter himself.—Harper's Magazine.

A Double Refracting Finder.

In the great number of cameras that are manufactured for the use of amateur photographers the ground glass plate at the top of the "finder" has always been more or less a source of trouble and vexation. It was found, under certain conditions of weather, and especially in strong sunlight, that when the operator sought to have clearly defined in the finder the picture to be taken, the image was confused and baffling, and the promptitude of the exposure was often interfered with, at the risk of spoiling the picture. The new double refaction finder provides a steady and effective means of overcoming this difficulty. The usual ground glass is entirely dispensed with, and in its place is a lens on which the image is clearly and steadily reflected by a mirror acting in conjunction with a powerful convex lens. This gives a finder with a greatly increased degree of luminosity, and the operator has no further hesitation or anxiety in the adjustment of his camera. This device is likely to be appreciated by both amateur and professional photogrphers.

Asiatic Criminals.

The worst features in the Asiatic criminal is his vindictiveness. To plot against the life of one who has done his best to compass your fall, who has dishonored wife or daughter, or lain in wait for a son; to shoot a grasping landlord and knock a land agent on the head—these sort of episodes are familiar enough in British annals of crime. But in his thirst for revenge the Asiatic will sacrifice himself, his wife, his child, his unoffending neighbor, if he can only get up a case against a rival. Human life for him has no sanctity. If the native policeman sought to discover a human body in the premises of his deadly foe, with clothes and ornaments, any one may be sacrificed to supply the corpus delicti.—The Saturday Review.

New Frying Pan.

A frying pan constructed on an improved principle has been invented by Inspector Ludbrooke, of the Great Western Railway, England. His pan consists of an outer plate of sheet iron and an inner one of burnished steel, and between the two is a thin layer of abestos, the advantages claimed for it being that it cannot get overheated and burn the contents; that the fat will not splutter over the sides, and the juices of the meat are retained.

Oh, What a Time.

The discovery was made by a bride in Bloomfield, N. J., on her way to the church that she had on dark shoes instead of white. She insisted on returning to change them. As she was about to re-enter the vehicle, she fell and sprained her ankle. Before the carriage reached the church, a wheel rolled off and the bridal party had a severe shaking up.

Ducks and Geese.

Ducks swim the world over, but geese do not. In South America a species is found that cannot excel an ordinary hen in aquatic accomplishments. It has lived so long in a country where water is found only in wells that it has lost its aquatic tastes and abilities entirely.

Spain's Army and Schools.

Spain spends $100,000,000 to maintain an army and $1,500,000 to educate its children.

PRETTY AT A DISTANCE.

Turkish Women Think They Are Handsome, but They're Not.

The lives of Turkish women are dull and monotonous in the extreme, but Friday, being the day they go to mosque or to visit their cemeteries, they often take that opportunity to look at the soldiers passing by.

On the Bechiktache road you see numbers of them squatted on the curbstone, where they remain for hours, chatting and looking about them. They make a pretty picture en masse, with their bright dresses of every hue—harmony of color is unknown in Turkey—and they carry parasols, which are also always of the gayest colors.

They must be much attached to their parasols, for you never see them—even as late as 8 or 9 o'clock at night—but they have their parasols open, getting shade from something. It cannot be the sun. No flatterer could call Turkish women either pretty or elegant, for they are simply a mass of clothing without any shape. They have very large feet, clad in white cotton stockings, and they walk badly, so that their charms—no doubt they have many—only become known on acquaintance. The "yashmak" is a very becoming addition to their attire. It makes the plainest woman look nice.

You sometimes get rather a shock when it is taken off, so many women bear the trace of smallpox. Their bills for cosmetics must often be a little startling; hands, feet, hair, eyes and complexion are generally "improved" according to their ideas. To see the soles of their feet, the nails and palms of their hands dyed brown with henna is the reverse of pretty, and the "beauty" of orange-colored hair I fail to perceive. They always tell Franks that only in Turkey do you see a beautiful woman.

Changed Pay Days.

The old story about the poor workingman who draws his money on Saturday evening and then spends it in the rum shops will have to be slightly altered in Chicago. If he wishes to squander his weekly pay he must wait until Monday evening. It was doubtless this natural tendency of a man to "blow himself" on Saturday night, when he found himself face to face with thirty-six hours of rest and relaxation, that induced many large employers to change their pay day from Saturday to Monday, or even Tuesday.

Many of the largest business houses and manufacturing establishments now pay off at the first part of the week. This plan is said to be indorsed by the wives of the salaried men, because their husbands can't be very reckless on Saturday night unless they have the money. Monday is a sober day, and when the husband gets the envelope he knows he must go to work again in the morning, and there is not the same temptation to go out and spend the night with the boys. The following significant notice was recently displayed at the office of a big bill-posting concern:

"Important Notice—To Every One Employed— On last Saturday night when we paid off and had important work to do during the night, several of the men got a skate on and did not do the work properly or on time. We have important work next Saturday and Sunday, and any man who goes skating and fails to do his work properly can never get work in this shop again. On and after this date pay day will be on Monday, instead of Saturday, so govern yourselves accordingly."

Derivation of "Grass Widow."

The phrase "grass widow," or rather "grace widow," for the first has no foundation in fact, and is simply a barbarism, or fungus, which has attached itself to the English language. "Grace widow" is a term for one who becomes a widow by grace or favor, not of necessity, as by death, and originated in the earlier ages of European civilization, when divorces were granted but seldom, and wholly by authority of the Catholic Church.

When such decree was granted to a woman the Papal rescript stated "Viduca de gratia," which interpreted is "widow of grace." In the law of the French it would read" Veuve de grace," which in England gives "widow of grace," or "grace widow, "veuve being translated as "widow." In his novel and exceedingly interesting paper, Judge Turpie also makes again public two important historical facts: That the whole system of law in relation to marriage and divorce originated in the Roman Church, and that French was the official language and court vernacular, not only in England but of Western Europe during this period of ecclesiastical ascendency.—Indianapolis News.

Laugh and Grow Fat.

Garrick was in the midst of a tragedy when suddenly he stopped and roared with laughter. What was the cause? Why, simply this: "A butcher in the front of the pit, who had taken off his wig to wipe the sweat from his head, had placed the wig for awhile upon his large dog, who stood facing the stage, with his forepaws resting on the pit railings."

This is as good an example as could be found to contest the foolish assertion that all laughter has its rise in something inevitably lowering to human nature. It was pure incongruity.

The French tell us that "le rire est hygienique." We knew that even before they made the phrase, but it is well to have their confirmation of the fact. Salubrious! Why, of course it is. For what purpose else did our wise forefathers keep certificated fools to make sport for them at their meals and in their intervals of business, or more methodical pleasure-seeking?—All the Year Round.

Not the Proper Place.

A Worcestershire vicar gives a curious experience, which is well worth relating. It was his custom to point his sermons with either "Dearly beloved brethren," or "Now, my brothers," until, one day, a lady member of the congregation took exception to this, and asked him why he always preached to the gentlemen and never to the ladies. "My dear lady," said the beaming vicar, "one embraces the other." "But not in church!" was the reply of the astonished lady.

Insanity Caused by Drink.

In Italy 2 per cent. of all the insanity is caused by drink; in Austria, 15; in France, 20; in England, 32; in Sweden, 50.

TIME TABLE

THE WABASH LINE

TRAINS CARRYING PASSENGERS LEAVE

GOING EAST.

Boston Express.....5:21 a m—Daily
Detroit Accom'n.....2:04 p m—ex Su
New York Limited.....7:35 p m Daily

GOING WEST.

Logansport Accommodation.....7:15 am—Daily
Mail and Express.....12:23 pm—ex Su
Chicago & St. Louis Lim(53).....7:35 pm—Daily

All these trains stop for passengers.

For rates, Tickets, Time Table, etc., apply to
I. M. ZENT, Agent,
Auburn, Ind.

CHAS M. HAYS, V. Pres. and Gen'l Manager.
C. S. CRANE, Gen"l Pass and Ticket Agent.

Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

Time Card in Effect May 30, 1894.

Stations—	WEST-BOUND.
	a m	p m	a m	p m
Bellaire.....lv	*7.08	*11.15	9.51	*3.46	.....
Newark.....ar	10.15	2.40	1 12	7.05	8.20
Columbus.....ar	11 45	3 40	2.15	8.25	8.25
	a m		a m
Mansfield.....lv	12.05	.....	.....	9 19	10.23
				a m
Deshler.....	2.35	4.37	10.05	12.10	.....
Defiance.....	3 15	5.20	11 00	1.10	.....
Hicksville.....	.....	.....	11.45	1.40	.....
St Joe.....	.....	.....	12.01	.....	.....
			p m	a m
Auburn Jc.....	4 12	6.17	12.25	2 12	.....
Garrett.....	4.25	6.25	12.50	‡2.25	.....
Avilla.....	.....	6.40	1.00	‡2.35	.....
Albion.....	‡4.48	.....	1.15	‡2.50	.....
Syracuse.....	.....	.....	1.57	3.22	.....
Milford Jct.....	‡5.22	‡7.30	2.11	.....	.....
Wellsboro.....	.....	.....	3.45	.....	.....
Chicago.....ar	9.00	11.05	6.40	7.20	.....

Stations—	EAST-BOUND.
	a m	p m	a m	p m		m
Chicago.....lv	*10.45	*3.00	†6.05	.....		p 5
	a m
wellsboro.....	‡12.55	.....	8.43			.....
Milford Jct.....	2.11	‡6.20	10.32			.....
Syracuse.....	.....	.....	10.45			‡10.26
Albion.....	2.50	7.00	11.25			.....
Avilla.....	.....	‡7.15	11.45			.....
Garrett.....	3.20	7.25	11.55			11.25
	p m		p m
Auburn Jc.....	3.30	7.35	12.25			11.35
St Joe.....	.....	.....	12.43			.....
Hicksville.....	3'58	8.00	1.00		a m	.....
						a m
Defiance.....	4.30	8.35	1.40			12.37
Deshler.....	5.10	9.13	2.43			1.30
Mansfield.....	7.57	.....	.....			4.25
		a m	a m
Newark.....ar	9.35	6 15	12 15			5.58
			p m		p m
Columbus.....	.....	.....	11.15			8.25
	a m		a m
Bellaire.....ar	12.55	10 00	3.20		.....	9.08
(EASTERN TIME.)
Wheeling.....ar	2.35	11 35	4.55		.....	10.45
		p m				p m
Pittsburg.....	.....	4.15	7.30		.....	4.25
	p m	a m			a m
Washington D.C	2.10	4 02	.....		.....
Baltimore.....	3.15	5.15	.....		.....
						a m
Philadelphia.....	6.08	6.53	.....		.....
					p m
New York.....	8 25	10.55	.....		.....

*Trains run daily. †Daily except Sunday.
‡Stop on Signal.

For further information call B. & O Ticket Agent or address L. S. Allen, Ass't Gen'l Pass'r Agt, Chicago. City Office, Auburn, Ind.

Like a Great Railway

With its branches running in every direction are the arteries and veins which convey the blood to every part of the system. A cold, sudden changes or exposure may cause poisonous acids to clog the circulation, and then comes Rheumatism. Beware! if you value life remove the obstruction with Dr. Drummond's Lightning Remedy. Send $5 to the Drummond Medicine Co., 48 Maiden Lane, New York, and they will send you two large bottles by express—enough for a month's treatment,—with full special directions. Agents wanted. 1-2

Is It?

Is that excruciating agony pleasant to you? Surely not. Your rheumatism, gout, neuralgia, etc, will be quickly cured by Infallible Scotch Cure (just introduced in America.) It never fails Ask your druggist for it, and accept no substitute. For sale by Fischler & Son.

Relief in Six Hours.

Distressing Kidney and Bladder diseases relieved in six hours by the "New Great South American Kidney Cure." This new remedy is a great surprise on account of its exceeding promptness in relieving pain in the bladder, kidneys, back and every part of the urinary passages in male or female. It relieves retention of water and pain in passing it almost immediately. If you want quick relief and cure this is your remedy. Sold by Robbins and McCord druggists Auburn Ind. 34tf

Busy people have no time, and sensible people have no inclination to use a slow remedy. One Minute Cough Cure acts promptly and gives permanent results. Sold by Robbins & McCord.

A flour mill in Minneapolis contains a belt 200 feet long, and weighing over a ton. It required twenty cowhides to make it.

You ought to know this: DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve will heal a burn and stop the pain instantly. It will cure badly chapped hands, ugly wounds, sores, and a well known cure for piles. Sold by Robbins & McCord

It cures piles, it cures obstinate sores, chapped hands, wounds. It does this quickly. Is there any good reason why you should not use DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve? For sale by Robbins & McCord.

T. F. Anthony, ex-postmaster of Promise City, Iowa, says: "I bought one bottle of 'Mystic Cure' for Rheumatism and two doses of it did me more good than all the medicine I ever took." Sold by Robbins & McCord, druggists, Auburn. 41tf

The Discovery Saved His Life.

Mr. G. Caillouette, Druggist Beaverville, Ill., says: 'To Dr. King's New Discovery I owe my life. Was taken with Lagrippe and tried all the physicians for miles about, but of no avail and was given up and told I could not live. Having Dr. King's New Discovery in my store I sent for a bottle and began its use and from the first dose began to get better, and after using three bottles was up and about again. It is worth its weight in gold. We won't keep store or house without it." Get a free trial bottle at Robbins & McCord drug store. 2

IVORY SOAP
IT FLOATS
IVORY
FORTY MILLION CAKES YEARLY.
THE PROCTER & GAMBLE CO. CIN'TI.

Important to Commercial Travelers.

On and after December 1, Baggage Agents of the B. & O. R. R. Co. will accept coupons from mileage books issued by B. & O. R. R., P. & W. R'y, B. & O. S. W. R'y and Valley R'y of Ohio, in payment for excess baggage charges, at their face value, 2 cents each. This arrangement will not include B. & O. Mileage Books endorsed "good only on B. & O," B. & O. Southwestern Mileage Advertising Books, nor books older than one year from date of issue.

Cure for Headache.

As a remedy for all forms of headache Electric Bitters has proved to be the very best. It effects a permanent cure, and the most dreaded habitual sick headache yields to its influence. We urge all who are afflicted to procure a bottle, and give this remedy a fair trial. In cases of habitual constipation Electric Bitters cure by giving the needed tone to the bowels, and few cases long resist the use of this medicine. Try it once. Large bottles only fifty cents at Robbins & McCord's drugstore. 2

Low Rates to Chicago.

Account of National Cycle Exhibition in Chicago, January 7, to 12, 1895, reduced rate tickets to Chicago and return over the Lake Shore R'y, will be sold Jan. 4, to 12, on the certificate plan. Good to return until Jan 15, 1895. 1-2

How it Acts.

After using Drummond's Lightning Remedy for rheumatism, according to direction, for ten days. Mr. John W. Boyenton, of Hampton, Va., writes that he can walk and attend to business, which he could not do before. This remedy has a remarkable record of cure—not only relieving pain, but restoring all the functions of the crippled limbs. If you want a cure, send $5 to the Drummond Medicine Co., 48 Maiden Lane, New York, and they will ship to your express address two large bottles of their remedy, with full directions for use. Agents wanted. 1-2

Rheumatism Cured in a Day.—Mystic Cure" for Rheumatism and Neuralgia, radically cures in 1 to 3 days. Its action upon the system is remarkable and mysterious. It removes at once the cause and the disease immediately disappears. The first dose greatly benefits, 75 cts Sold by Robbins & McCord, druggists, Auburn 41tf

A Brooklyn man says he is in constant fear of being bowled over by a woman running away from a trolley car.

Rebecca Wilkinson, of Brownsvalley, Ind., says: I have been in a distressed condition for three years from Nervousness Weakness of the Stomach, Dyspepsia and Indigestion until my health was gone. I had been doctoring constantly with no relief. I bought one bottle of South American Nervine, which did me more good than any $50 worth of doctoring I ever did in my life. I would advise every weakly person to use this valuable and lovely remedy; a few bottles of it has cured me completely. I consider it the greatest medicine in the world." Warranted the most wonderful stomach and nerve cure ever known. Trial bottles 15 cents. Sold by Robbins and McCord druggists Auburn Ind. 34tf

English Spavin Liniment removes all hard, soft or calloused lumps and blemishes from horses, blood spavins, curbs, splints, sweeney, ring-bone, stifles, sprains, all swollen throats, coughs, etc. Save $50 by use of one bottle. Warranted the most wonderful blemish cure ever known. Sold by Robbins and McCord druggists Auburn. 34tf

Relief in One Day.

South American Nervine relieves the worst cases of nervous prostrations nervousness and nervous dyspepsia in a single day. No such relief and blessing has ever come to the invalids of this country Its powers to cure the stomach are wonderful in the extreme. It always cures; it cannot fail. It radically cures all weakness of the stomach and never disappoints. Its effects are marvelous and surprising.—It gladdens the hearts of the suffering and brings immediate relief. It is a luxury to take and always safe. Trial bottles 15 cents Sold by Robbins & McCord druggist Auburn Ind. 50tf

TEXAS, MEXICO AND CALIFORNIA

The Wabash Railroad.

In connection with the St. Louis, Iron Mountain & Southern Railway, Texas & Pacific Railway, International & Great Northern Railroad, and Southern Pacific Railway, known as the only true southern route, has placed in service a through first-class sleeping car and Tourist sleeping car, leaving Chicago daily at 10:50 a. m., via St. Louis to Little Rock, Malvern (Hot Springs), Austin, San Antonio, Laredo (where a direct connection is made with through sleeping car for the City of Mexico), El Paso, Los Angeles and San Francisco. This is the only line from Chicago which can offer this excellent service. Call or write to any ticket agent of the Wabash or connecting lines for printed matter showing time, route, rates, description of cars, etc., or C. S. CRANE, G. P & T. A., St. Louis, Mo. F. A. PALMER, Asst. G. P. A., 201 S. Clark St., Chicago. Ills. 46-16w9

A Pioneer.

The Lagrange Register on account of the late Harding of Orland, who at Adrain when the first Lake Shore train reached that place and also rode on one of the first trains on the Michigan Central. We clip the following as a bit history. In the fall of 1837 I rode from Ypsilanti to Detroit in a first class passenger coach on the Michigan Central. It was constructed something like the box car of to day, with side doors. Wooden benches were placed crosswise of the car so that passengers in two seats sat facing with partition at the back between these seats and the next pair. The iron was the old strap rail and "snake heads," as the upturned end of a loosened rail was called. The road and its equipments were very crude, but it was a step in improvement.

I next went to Adrian and worked on the railroad from that place to Toledo until it was completed. After the road was in operation the train reached Adrian one night with the engine so badly crippled that it could not make the return trip. The next morning I was hired to haul the coach and passengers to Toledo with my team. I made the trip successfully and to the satisfaction of all concerned, coming very close to schedule time. Such was railroading 55 years ago.

Ownerless Cars.

The Kendallville Standard has this bit of queer news:

There are eight or ten grain cars bearing the initials, F. W. J. & S., which are being used in this section of the country and for which there is no owner. The cars were originally the property of the Ft. Wayne, Jackson & Saginaw railway company, but when the Lake Shore assumed control of that line they were in some mysterious manner left out of the deal. They have since been the cause of much litigation and trouble to the Lake Shore people and have been disowned. Any line is free to use the cars and they have been in service on every line in the country.

An Old Landmark.

An old landmark, says the Whiting News, is the state line monument which stands on the shore of Lake Michigan marking the boundary line between Indiana and Illinois. It is one of the oldest landmarks of the country, having been placed there long before our oldest inhabitants ever reached these sandhills. It bears the date of 1833. Inscriptions on the shaft affirm that it is the boundary line of Indiana and Illinois, that it is 159,323 miles due north of the Wabash river, and that the line was retraced by act of congress March 2 1853 The monument is soft limestone and has been so worn by the elements that a part of the incriptions is illegible. It stands 20 feet in height.

We might add, that passengers on the B. & O. pass near this monument going into or coming out of Chicago. It is between the tracks and the Lake.

Married.

At the home of the bride's parents in Butler township Ind., Deci 24, 1894, by M. L. Hoffman, J. P., Charles Campbell, of Albion, and Sarah E. Long Their future home will be Albion, Ind.

Also, by the same, at the home of the groom in Butler township, Dec. 25, Jonathan Menges, to Leah Mains, of Angola. There home will be in Butler township. A large number of invited guests were present at each wedding and a splendid supper was served at each.

Music Lessons.

I will take a limited number of pupils on the violin, mandolin, banjo, guitar and cornet. Terms reasonable. I am agent for these instruments and can get them sor you at the very lowest prices. Also repair instruments of all kinds and guarantee satisfaction. Those desiring to take instructions, please call on or address me at Auburn, Ind. T. N WILCOX. 52tf

Settlement Notice.

As we have quit business as a firm and are being succeeded by the firm "Drs. Matheny and Hines Bros." we hereby announce that all our book accounts must be settled at once and for this purpose the books will all be kept at our office for a short time where all debtors are requested to call and settle immediately. O. P. Reed will assist in settling same.

Respectfully.
CASEBEER & MATHENY.

DO YOU WANT A SITUATION?

The Prosperous South for Energetic Young Men.

Prof. Wilbur R. Smith, Lexington, Ky.,

PROF. WILBUR R. SMITH, LEXINGTON, KY.

For 18 years President of the renowned Commercial College of Kentucky University, gives special attention to assisting his graduates in securing situations. Cost of Business course about $90, including Tuition and Board in a family.

Prof. Smith is a native of Ohio; has kept books; several years vice-president of a bank; World's Fair Commissioner from Kentucky, and a reliable business man.

Among the 10,000 successful graduates of the Profs. Smith, are 100 in banks, 100 officials from this and other states. Prof. E. W. Smith, Principal of the College referred to, was awarded the medal at World's Columbian Exposition for Book-keeping, etc.

LEXINGTON, KY., the location of Prof. Smith's College, is noted for its healthfulness and fine climate; has 45 churches and 11 banks—the gateway to the South by its many railroads.

Prof. Smith's graduates are awarded the Kentucky University diploma under seal, an influential passport to business houses in the prosperous south.

Over 500 young men from the North are the successful graduates of this college, among whom are book-keepers in banks, mercantile houses, etc., in the South, who are getting from $1,000 to $1,500 a year through the influence of this college.

If you wish a business education, or a knowledge of phonography, typewriting or telegraphy at the least total cost, with diploma from Kentucky University on graduation, we advise you to cut this out and write for circulars to Prof. W. R. Smith, Lexington, Ky. 52

Money for Everyone.

I can't understand why people complain of hard times when any woman or man can make from $5 to $10 a day easily. All have heard of the wonderful success of the Climax Dish Washer; yet we are apt to think we can't make money selling it; but anyone can make money because ever family wants one. I made $478 36 in the last three months, after paying all expenses and attended to my regular business besides. You don't have to canvass; as soon as people know you have it for sale they send for a Dish Washer. Address the Climax Mfg. Co., Columbus, Ohio, for particulars. Go to work at once, and you will very soon have a full pocket book and a light heart. I think it a duty to inform each other of such opportunities, and I also think it a duty to improve them while we may. Try it at once, and publish your experience so others may be benefited.

Lodges Elect Officers.

The several local lodges elected officers as follows:

I. O. O. F.

M. B. Willis, N. G.; G. W. Morr, V. G.; Geo. W. Gordon, Per. Secy.; T. D. Bovee, Rec. Secy; J. H. Baker, Treas.; M. Boland, G. W. Gordon, J. H. Baker, Trustees.

A. O. U. W.

Geo. Schnell, P. M. W.; Jay Love, Master Workman; A. A Baker, Foreman; A. J. Harris, Overseer; M. B. Willis sr., Recorder; Chas. Raut, Receiver; A. N. Wilson, Financier; F. D Smith, Guide; John Jone, Inside Watchman; Chas. Reesh, Outside Watchman.

MACCABEES.

The officers elected are as follows: E. Bottenberg, Com.; Herman Kessler, Lieut. Com.; Hiram Darling, Record Keeper; R A Wilson, Past Com.; J. D. Brosy, Chaplain; Geo. Quince, Sergeant; J. W. McClellan, Sentinel; John Loveland, Picket; Geo. Snyder, Master-at-Arms; Levi Osbun, first Master of Guards; ——————second Master of Guards.

K. OF P.

G. W. McKay, M. of W.; Dr. F. M. Hines, C. C.; Dr. A. N. Fitch, V. C; Dr. Jas. Bowers, P; Wm. Thrush, M. at A.; U. S. Raut, M. of Z; H. C Shull, M. of E; A. B. Steele, K. of R. & S.; M. B. Willis jr, Representative to Grand Lodge.

AT CORUNNA.

The K. of P's of the Corunna Lodge elected officers last Thursday evening, Dec. 27, as follows: G. W. Wilson, C C.; H. Keen, V. C.; Ed. Gushwa, P; Chas. Graham, M. A; Al. Raub, I G; Isaac Reed, O. G.; O. P. Raber, M. E; G. H. Miles, M. F.; M. M. Bowen, K of R. & S.; Clark Griffith, M W.; A. K. Johnson, Trustee.

RED CROSS TEMPLE NO. 47.

The Rathbone Sisters elected the following:

Alice Grogg, M E C.; Luna Pebfield, E. S. of T.; Ida Nill, E J. of T.; Maggie Richey, M of T.; Pluma Moody, M. of R. and C; Clara Moody M. of T; Nellie Willis, P. of T; Emma Fitch O G.; Zora Shafer, P. C, Representative to Grand Lodge, Zora Shafer.

DEKALB COUNCIL NO 57 R & S. MASONS.

D. A. Garwood, I. M.; G. T. Abbey, D. I. M; J. J. VanAuken, P. C. W.; J L. Davis, Treas.; F. E. Davenport, Recorder.; W. H Leas, C. of G.; S. Z. Dickinson, Guard.

WM HACKER CHAPTER NO. 63 ROYAL ARCH MASONS.

J. J. VanAuken, H. P; J. E. Rose, King.; J. T. Davis, Scribe; W. H. Leas, C. of K; G. T. Abbey, P. S.; C. H. G. Jones, R A. C.; R. J. Fiske, Treas; F. E. Davenport, Secy.; S. Z. Dickinson, Guard.; John L. Davis, Trustee.

Good Reason for It.

There is good reason for the popularity of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Davis & Buzard, of West Monterey, Clarion Co., Pa., say, "It has cured people that our physicians could do nothing for. We persuaded them to try a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and they now recommend it with the rest of us." 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Robbins & McCord, druggists. 5

An extension ladder for upper berths of sleeping cars has been devised.

They Use it for Colds.

Carlton Cornwell, foreman of the Gazette, Middleton, N. J., believes that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy should be in every home. He used it for a cold and it effected a speedy cure. He says, "It is indeed a grand remedy, I can recommend to all. I have also seen it used for whooping cough, with the best results." 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Robbins & McCord, druggists. 5

Hon. John D. Long calls whisky "The dynamite of modern civilization."

Always Relieves Pain.

Many stubborn and aggravating cases of rheumatism that were believed to be incurable and accepted as life legacies, have yielded to Chamberlain's Pain Balm, much to the surprise and gratification of the sufferers. One application will relieve the pain and suffering and its continued use insures an effectual cure. For sale by Robbins & McCord, druggists 5

A flower cut in the morning will retain its freshness twice as long as a flower cut in the middle of the day, when the sun is upon it.

For Chronic Diarrhœa.

"I know an old soldier who had chronic diarrhœa of long standing to have been permanently cured by taking Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy," said Edward Shumpik, a prominent druggist of Minneapolis, Minn. "I have sold the Remedy in this city for over seven years and consider it superior to any other medicine now on the market for bowel complaints." 25 and 50 cent bottles of this remedy for sale by Robbins & McCord druggists. 5

Auburn Sons of Veterans.

The new year, 1895, marks the beginning of a new era in the history of the order of Sons of Veterans. Instead of the old one degree ritual they have heretofore used, they now have a new three-degree ritual, founded on the three principles of the order—Friendship, Charity and Loyalty. The need of such a change has been long felt among the boys and they are quite enthusiastic over it. The new ritual will place them in a position to compete with other orders, and in the future we may look to see the S. O. V. one of the foremost among secret organizations. The Indiana Division is putting forth every effort to re-instate old camps that have fallen out and muster new ones, and not without success. The Auburn boys have not been idly waiting, but have been hustling about, getting their camp in a condition, financially and otherwise, to give the new ritual a warm reception. And now they extend an urgent invitation to all sons of veterans over the age of 18 years to enlist with them in the cause in which every young man whose father endured the dangers and privations of that great struggle ought to feel a deep interest. It cannot be otherwise than the duty of every son of a veteran to join this order; and surely it is to the interest of every "Old Vet" to encourag their sons to identify themselves with an order whose objects are to commemorate the heroic deeds of their fathers, to extend aid and protection to the widows and orphans of deceased veterans and to inculcate the principles of Friendship, Charity and Loyalty to themselves and posterity. Their membership fees and dues are small and within the reach of all. There is no reason why every son of a veteran should not belong. If you are too far from Auburn, then use your influence to organize a camp in your own town. Why not have a camp of Sons of Veterans at Waterloo, Garrett, Butler, St Joe and Spencerville?

Save The Squirrels.

It is now illegal to hunt squirrels They are exempt from Dec 20, to June 1, and anyone found with a squirrel in his possession or hunting or killing sbuirrels, is liable to a fine of $3 in each case and imprisonment. The laws as to hunting and fishing are very strict and in every county there is an organization whose object is to save our wild game from extinction and they have a man to watch for such cases. So everyone should take warning and avoid trouble, and what is more, save our game.

Obituary.

Martha E. (Shepperd) Mitchell was born Feb. 20, 1831, in Lycoming Co., Pa., and departed this life Dec. 30, 1894, aged 63 years, 10 months and 10 days. She moved with her parents to Ohio in 1834. She was joined in marriage to Jacob Mitchell on the 4th day August, 1853; she became a christian and united with the Christian church in 1859. She with her husband and family moved to Auburn Ind., in 1872, where they lived until her death. To this union were born 8 children five of whom survive her; Mrs. Mitchel leaves a husband, 2 sisters and one brother, besides a host of friends to mourn her death. She was a loving wife and a kind mother.

The funeral services were conducted from the house Jan 1, '95 at 2 p. m. Interment took place in Evergreen cemetery. Rev. J. D Brosy officiating.

LION COFFEE
A DELICIOUS DRINK
SOLD ONLY IN 1-lb. PACKAGES
A BEAUTIFUL CARD IN EVERY PACKAGE
MANY FINE PREMIUMS GIVEN FREE TO DRINKERS OF LION COFFEE

ELECTRIC TELEPHONE
Sold outright, no rent, no royalty. Adapted to City, Village or Country. Needed in every home, shop, store and office. Greatest convenience and best seller on earth. Agents make from $5 to $50 per day. One in a residence means a sale to all the neighbors. Fine instruments, no toys, work anywhere, any distance. Complete, ready for use when shipped. Can be put up by any one, never out of order, no repairing, lasts a life time. Warranted. A money maker. Write W. P. Harrison & Co., Clerk 10, Columbus, O

JAPANESE MANHOOD
Treatment quickly and forever cures Emissions, Drains, Impotency, Varicocele, Self-Abuse and all resulting evils. No C. O. D. or quack schemes. Sealed Sexual Book Free if you mention this paper and describe your case. Address Japan Medical Company, Toledo, O.

Going to Buy a Watch?
If so, buy one that cannot be stolen. The only thief-proof Watches are those with Non-pull-out
BOWS.
Here's the Idea:
The bow has a groove on each end. A collar runs down inside the pendent (stem) and fits into the grooves, firmly locking the bow to the pendent, so that it cannot be pulled or twisted off.
To be sure of getting a Non-pull-out, see that the case is stamped with this trade mark. It cannot be had with any other kind.
Send a postal for a watch case opener to the famous Boss Filled Case maker.
Keystone Watch Case Co., PHILADELPHIA.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report
Royal Baking Powder
ABSOLUTELY PURE

CORRESPONDENCE

CONCORD

LAST WEEK.

Mrs. L D. Nelson visited her two sisters, the Misses Keerns.

G W. Draggoo and Fred Morr was in Auburn Thursday on business.

Mrs Bone and Lydia Wyatt drove over to Auburn Friday.

George and Belle Swineford were in St. Joe Saturday.

Richard Ervin has been on the sick list a few days.

J. B. Gibford and wife were the guests of D. D. Burley and family, near St. Joe, Sunday.

Mr and Mrs. Hutton were called west of Auburn again Sunday to attend the funeral of another relative.

Frank Hull and wife are at home to their friends, in Sherman Rickett's property.

Alice Draggo was in Auburn Tuesday and Wednesday, the guest of Mrs. D. T. Smith.

Mrs Babbett, of Garrett, was called was called here Thursday by the serious illness of her father, Mr. S Geisinger.

J. W Dills was called by a telegram to Ft Wayne to the bedside of his sick brother, Dr. T. J Dills, Wednesday.

Curtis Watt has bought the old church and is tearing it down for removal to his farm, there to be rebuilt for a barn.

Master Ray Hennesey was seriously hurt by falling on a picket fence Dr. Hines is caring for him, and is hopeful that no serious result will follow.

After a plessant stay of two weeks Mrs. Lydia Bailey and grand daughter, Nora Thomas, returned Wednesday to their home near Pentwater, Mich.

Dora Miller returned Tuesday from Ft Wayne, where she has been under treatment for her eyesight, by Dr. Wheelock. We are pleased to state her sight is greatly improved.

Samuel Geisinger, another old pioneer, passed away on the morning of the 22d, at the residence of his son, John. His remains were interred in Evergreen cemetery at Auburn, beside his second wife.

Brenton Phillips has purchased a farm near Mt. Vernon, Ohio, and will leave soon for the same. We regret their departure, for Mr. and Mrs. Phillips have made many friends during their stay here.

Fifty-nine years ago the 22nd of December John Blair and family settled on their farm where now is situated the town of St. Joe. The surviving members are Mrs. G. W. Draggoo, L. J. Blair, of Waterloo, W. L. Blair, of Butler and B. F. Blair, of Newville.

SUMMIT.

LAST WEEK

Mrs Thos. Lacy and Miss Carrie Gramling went to Angola Saturday.

Frank and Victor Lilly, of Bloomingdale Michigan are here visiting their sister Mrs Moses Kettering

Miss Libby and Jennie Rohm were the guest of Mrs. Emma Lawson last Tuesday.

William Betts and wife visited her parents near Fairfield Center Saturday last.

M. P. Barker and Mrs Hannah Longenbeiser were married last Saturday evening. May success and happiness attend them through life, is the wish of their many friends.

CONCORD.

Ida Wyatt is improving slowly.

Stella Morr left Saturday for Garrett.

Flossie Buchanan has Job's affliction.

Will Sheldon will leave shortly for Kentucky.

Richard Ervin is still confined to his room.

F Buchanan and family spent their Christmas in Auburn the guests of W. E. Rush and wife.

Court Watt attended the Christmas exercises in Spencerville Tuesday evening at the M. P church.

Mrs. Anna Baker was the only lady that received a gold watch for a Christmas present off the ladder.

W. D Johnson is not going to starve this winter; he killed 4 hogs, one dressed over 400 lbs.

Lewis and Laura Layman are in Ashley the guests of Charles Layman and family.

Richard Ervin is still confined to his room. I. B. Layman is clerking for him. Mrs R Ervin has a severe attack of tonsilitis last week.

Grant Keller, of Butler, came down to Christmas but was taken quite sick on Tuesday at the home of James Johnson but was able to return home on Saturday.

CORUNNA.

Gee whiz! Old Boreas must have his dander up.

Will Franks, who is teaching in Garrett, spent the holidays at home with his parents.

Doug. Wallace and family spent Christmas with his father at Waterloo.

Highwaymen and thugs are getting pretty numerous of late in this section.

Dr Bowen, who has been sick with typhoid fever for some time, is able to be up and around again.

Finch, Quince and Dawson are just trying themselves. They shipped six carloads of stock to Buffalo last week.

George, son of John Stonebraker, who has been sick so long with that fatal disease, consumption, passed over the dark river to that "bourne from whence no traveler has ever yet returned," last Monday, the 24th, at 3 o'clock p m. The next day—Christmas—would have been his 23d birthday. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. Fink at the U. B church. The remains were tenderly laid to rest in the cemetery south of town. The bereaved family has the sympathy of the entire community.

Free book to weak men, box 53, Toledo, O

August 2 Rush reached home Monday, dusty, sunburned and tired, but with a record equal to the best. The citizens gave them a banquet for they deserved it, and later on a free flag. Auburn school board gets out its first catalogue and the school press compliment them on their progressive ideas. Mrs. Hines, mother of Mrs. Chas. McClellan died at her home in Washington. Mrs W. B Brown reaches home from her trip to Denver. Philip Schaab, a brother of those here, died at Council Bluffs. Chris. Aeckerman moves to Toledo. Schaab & Murphy move to the new room their present location. DeKalb Battalion picnic at Waterloo July 28 h.

August 9 Chief Godfry dies in Allen county. Greely Provines indulges in a runaway. "Suffrage Tea" at residence of W. H. McIntosh, a grand success every way. Tramps get up a fight at the south end. A. B Wadsworth reports some corn injured by the frost of Aug 4. Mrs Roxana Davenport starts for Tacoma. L T Rice fully settled in his new home at Wabash.

August 16 Picnic at Grove Bethel reported. Dr Swartz, secretary of our board of health urges the city to clean up. Later events prove the need of this. Courier publishes an article on our schools, with fine pictures of the new and old buildings. St. Joe gravel road filed in a trial before the commissioners Henry Lesh's mother dies at Fairhope, O.

August 23 Another attempt to rob a train at Keesler's siding, failed Mr. and Mrs. Michael Whetstone celebrate their golden wedding. Mike Lumm and family move to Columbia City next week. W. H. McIntosh speaks to the old soldiers at Denver, Ind. E. A. Stevens sells his interest in the Dispatch. W. C. Hartman buys the Eagle Iron Works. Music and entertainment by Fred Hoffman's music class.

(CONCLUDED NEXT WEEK.)

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

Tired, Weak, Nervous
Could Not Sleep.
Prof. L. D. Edwards, of Preston, Idaho, says: "I was all run down, weak, nervous and irritable through overwork. I suffered from brain fatigue, mental depression, etc. I became so weak and nervous that I could not sleep. I would arise tired, discouraged and blue. I began taking Dr. Miles' Nervine and now everything is changed. I sleep soundly, I feel strong and ambitious. I can do my work now than I used to. For this great good I use Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine.
It Cures
Dr. Miles' Nervine is guaranteed that the first bottle will benefit. All druggists sell it at $1 per bottle, or it will be sent, prepaid, on receipt of price by the Dr. Miles Medical Co.
Free sexual book free.
After THREE days use of Dr. Miles' Nervine

THE AUBURN COURIER.

VOLUME XXV. AUBURN, DE KALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, JANUARY 10, 1895. NUMBER 2

THIS IS NEW.

READ!

WHAT WE HAVE TO SAY ABOUT MNOEY.

The Indisna Mutual Building Loan Association, which we represent in this part of the state, have again reduced their interest, which has always been from 2 to 5 per cent less than any other Building Loan Association Do you know that it you are about to borrow money and give a mortgage on your home, you should take the time and trouble to investigate the plan of different associations, so that you may know, regardless of what any agent may tell you, which is the cheapest and the best?

There are three items which should also be considered and thoroughly understood, especially by the borrower, before he makes his application for a loan:

First: The rate of interest and premium he is charged per annum.

Second: What the earnings of the Association are.

Third: How economically the Association is conducting its affairs.

We are prepared always to compare our company with any other, and can prove to your entire satisfaction that we are the cheapest, and

REMEMBER

That in our company you have no membership fee to pay, no advance payments to make and there will be no delays, so that should your loan for any reason be declined, you will lose no money. We are prepared to make loans where the security is sufficient; for any amount from $ 00 to $25,000.

If you have a loan in any other company will pay you to call on us and our figures and

Clear your Loan at Once

We are also prepared to make

FARM LOANS

at from

3 to 6 per cent

interest.

We are still in line for Insurance, and Cheap R. R. Tickets, and have now on hand more bargains in

REAL ESTATE

than ever before.

CALL ON OR ADDRESS

RICKEL & SPROTT

AUBURN, IND.

If you are handling your

MONEY!

Carefully you will not overlook the following statement.

We are more than anxious to exchange our goods for CASH and for spot CASH you can buy of us at a less price than ever before.

NOTE THE FOLLOWING:

Four Tined Forks, Long and Short handles,	45 cts.
Shovels, Round and Square point,	55 cts.
Galvanized Fence Wire,	$1.95 per cwt.
Black Fence Wire,	1.55 per cwt.
Webb Halters,	20 cents.
Cant Hooks,	$1.00.
Clothes Ringers,	1.75.

We have a surplus stock of

SASH, DOORS & PAINTS

And will offer Special Inducements to buyers now.

SEE FORMER QUOTATIONS

W. H. Kiblinger Company.

MR. CLICK SUICIDES!

By Taking a Bottle Full Of Morphine.

Saturday, Wm Click, so long in charge of the heating apparatus of the court house and jail and of the engine of the fire department, committed suicide by taking a large dose of morphine. About 11 a. m. Sheriff Stroh went into the engine room under the jail and Mr. Click told him he was going to stop that kind of work and added, "this is the last firing I will do." The sheriff asked him what was the matter when he answered, that he had just taken almost a bottle full of morphine. By this time he had begun to show the effects of the drug, as he kept dropping the pieces of coal he was trying to put in the furnace. Mr. Stroh ran for help and on returning they found Mr. Click had fallen down. They raised him and tried to arouse him but could not and they then set him in the wheel barrow and one holding him steady, carried him to his home in the town hall building. Dr. Nusbaum was called and all day they tried to bring him from the stupor into which he had fallen, but failed. He died about 4 p. m His wife said he had been acting strange for a week or two and she had feared something was wrong, but had not supposed he contemplated suicide. It was known that lately he had been drinking a good deal and this may have helped to unsettle his mind. It is a very sad case for excepting this one fault he was a very worthy man and had been a very useful one in his position. He leaves a wife, a highly respected lady, and a son of about ten. The funeral was at the Lutheran church Tuesday, Jan. 8th at 2 p. m. conducted by Rev. J. D. Brosy, and interment in Woodlown.

Churches in DeKalb County.

There are in DeKalb county, according to our informant, 83 churches, distributed by townships as follows: Union 11; Keyser 9; Grant 8; Richland 8; Wilmington 8; Concord 8; Fairfield 7; Smithfield 7; Franklin 4; Butler 3; Jackson 3; Newville 3; Troy 3; and Stafford 1. Denominationally they stand: Methodist 24; United Brethren 15; Lutheran 12; Disciple 8; Reformed 4; Catholic 4; Dunkers 3; Evangelical 3; Winebrennarians 3; Presbyterian 2; Baptists 2; Episcopal 1; Mennonites 1; and 1 Union church.

The tuition paid for school teaching in the county last year was $43,644.69. A minister's salary of only $525 per annum would have to be paid on an average by each church to have our preaching cost in the county what our teaching costs. But it should also be remembered that a part of the money used to pay teachers, say nearly one-third, comes from a state fund and costs the taxpayers nothing. And the rest of it is distributed among the entire list of taxpayers, everyone of whom must pay according to the valuation of his property. A minister's salary, however, comes from only a part of the people, but little complaint is heard about it.

Township Institutes.

(Communicated.)

EDITOR COURIER:—

Having quite often heard remarks derogatory of our township institutes, and as we as teachers, realize their potency as a factor in the cause of education, we feel constrained ta give a brief report of the last institute held in Newville township.

Certainly, we frankly admit that it was the best of the season because of the presence of our zealous, inspiring and efficient county superintendent, whom all true teachers and educators honor and admire for his earnestness and vigilance with which he discharges the functions of his office.

We wish many of those who look upon these institutes and perhaps county supervision as an expensive luxury, and never offer a word or deed by which the cause of education receives the slightest impulse in its onward march, could have been with us and heard the whole-souled and eloquent pleadings of our superintendent with young people in behalf of good literature as sure stepping stones to higher planes and grander ideals of life.

The brightened expression upon the countenances of the young people, and their subsequent conversation regarding that talk convinced us that seed was sown whose fruitage must prove a blessing to our race.

Our superintendent also has always something instructive and inspiring for us teachers, and the valuable suggestions concerning the study of Dr. Tompkin's Philosophy of Teaching, the instructions and imperative importance with reference to the teaching of business forms, the simpler methods of keeping accounts, the valuable hints on, and the explanation on gradation and classification were great helps in the teachers' work and highly appreciated by them.

In short, we all felt it was good to be there, and trust that the efficient and arduous work of our superintendent and teachers may continue till the true ideal of life shall be reached and man shall have acquired that degree of manhood which his Creator has made it possible for him to attain.

***

OWING to the unfavorable condition of Weather and Roads the past week we have decided to continue our Grand

SAUGHTER SALE

OF

Dress Goods and Clothing

UNTIL

JAN. 1, '95.

This sale is running far ahead of our greatest expectations. If you are needing anything in DRESS GOODS or CLOTHING you cannot afford to miss it.

We have a fine assortment of

UMBRELLAS,
NECKWEAR,
HANDKERCHIEFS,
SHIRTS, RUGS,
PORTIERES.
CARPET SWEEPERS

And many other useful articles suitable for Christmas presents. We will try to please you, both in

QUALITY AND PRICE

COME AND SEE US.

Schaab & Bro.

NATIONAL DETECTIVE BUREAU

96½ E. Market St., Rooms 12, 13, 14 and 15

This Bureau investigates murders, conspiracies, blackmailing, burglaries, theft, horse and stock stealing, legal evidence in divorce and other family matters, etc. Only experienced and trustworthy detectives employed. Reliable references furnished you from Indianapolis, any State in the Union or any part of Europe. The Superintendent of this Bureau was formerly State Detective Officer for the State of New Jersey, also Chief Detective of the P. C. & W. Railway, late Superintendent World's Secret Detective Service of New York City, also was Chief of Police in New Jersey, and connected with the Midland Railway Police and Detective Department of England. We have reliable operators located in all parts of the world and can furnish reliable men on short notice. For further particulars, address

CHAS. AINGE, Supt. National Detective Bureau,

DEPARTMENT A. INDIANAPOLIS, IND.

What is

CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."

DR. G. C. OSGOOD,
Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."

DR. J. F. KINCHELOE,
Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."

H. A. ARCHER, M. D.,
111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

UNITED HOSPITAL AND DISPENSARY,
Boston, Mass.
ALLEN C. SMITH, Pres.,

The Centaur Company, 77 Murray Street, New York City.

Auburn Cou[illegible]e.

AUBURN, INDIA[illegible]

JAMES A. BARNS, - - P[illegible]ISHER.

TROPHIES OF A C[illegible]ASE

[illegible]TER THE FLEETING ITEMS OF NEWS.

[illegible]ago Kill a Man in His Ba[illegible] and Then [illegible] Fire to the Hay—The Town [illegible] Ham[illegible], W. Va., Nearly Wiped Out by Fire—[illegible]-End Collision Near Ma[illegible]n, Ohio [illegible] Dual.

BOLD ROBBER IDENTIFIED.

[illegible]o Robbed a Chicago Jeweler of [illegible]00 is Positively Identified.

[illegible] special: On October 30 last G. [illegible]er, a wholesale dealer in [illegible]iamonds at 71 Washington [illegible] was attacked in his place [illegible] three robbers, who locked [illegible]n safe and robbed the place [illegible] worth of watches, diamonds, and [illegible]. On November 4, last, one A. L. [illegible]who has several aliases, was ar[illegible] this city on suspicion of being a [illegible]et. While on his way to the sta[illegible]e he threw away a skeleton key [illegible] fine gold watch, which [illegible]ecovered. Walsh was tried and [illegible]$500 and sentenced to seven [illegible] in the work house for carrying burg[illegible]ls. The other day Mr. Brethauser, [illegible]anied by Chief of Police Farrell [illegible]on, Ohio, arrived here and Walsh [illegible]ought before them. Both gentlemen [illegible]zed him. Consulting a memoran[illegible]e jeweler accurately described the [illegible] Walsh tried to throw away. Under [illegible]re Walsh admitted his part in the [illegible]go robbery.

Almost Cremated.

[illegible]ford C. Smith of the Newark, Ohio, [illegible] Light and Coke Company, was almost [illegible]ated by tramps, who have been in the [illegible] of sleeping in his barn. Mr. Smith [illegible]rmined to put a stop to it. It was dark [illegible]n he went to the barn, and just as he [illegible]hed the top of the stairway leading to [illegible]haymow some one struck him a severe [illegible]w on the head and escaped. He then [illegible]t up into the mow, where he was again [illegible]aulted by another man, and in the strug[illegible] he fell down the stairway unconscious. [illegible]ter recovering he found himself sur[illegible]unded by fire and his clothes burning. [illegible]e was so badly burned that the skin [illegible]eled off his hands and lips, the entre face [illegible]ing parched. He died.

[illegible]olman Writing a Book.

[illegible]an Holman dislikes the noto[illegible] been given in his forth[illegible] The project was not the [illegible]a's defeat for re-elec[illegible] collecting material for [illegible]ber of years, with [illegible]ing it at some future [illegible] now just when this [illegible]r the press, nor has [illegible]m it will take. He [illegible] his experience in [illegible]ation, giving to the [illegible]avor. He has re[illegible]ns for a subject.

[illegible] Millions.

[illegible]re, who, in March, [illegible]raiser by the surro[illegible] the estate of the late [illegible] at the time of his death with [illegible] determining the amount of tax [illegible]e imposed upon the personal [illegible], has made his report, by which he finds the value of the personal estate of the late millionaire to be $80,934,580.79; less amount of debts, $6,553,520.71 and less legacies, annuities, etc., to his brother, sisters, grandson of $1,156,513, making the amount of the residuary estate to be $73,224,547.08.

Wave of Reform Reaches Minneapolis.

A special from Minneapolis says: A well attended secret meeting of business men was held at the Nicolet House for the purpose of making arrangements to investigate the Minneapolis police and fire de[illegible]tments. A petition to be presented to [illegible] Senate was prepared. Those who [illegible]ttendance at the meeting claim [illegible] possession of proof that one of [illegible]es for chief of the fire depart[illegible]fered an alderman half of his [illegible] salary for his vote at the elec[illegible]ty officers.

Municipal Sensation.

[illegible] Haute (Ind.) special: A local [illegible] in municipal affairs developed the [illegible] when Fire Chief J. D. Jones [illegible]blic letters from the Revere Rub[illegible]pany of Chicago, offering to bribe [illegible]an Fuqua and himself to secure a [illegible] out of the city for 1,000 feet of [illegible]e company admitted in its letters [illegible] spent money improperly in this [illegible]as been supplying the city with [illegible]e. The Council has ordered an investigation to find out who has been bribed.

One Hundred and Twenty Drowned.

Rio Janeiro Special: A terrible accident and great loss of life occurred in the bay here. The boilers of the steamer Port Nichteroy, which had quite a large number of excursionists on board, exploded and the shock drove the red-hot coals in the furnaces in every direction. The steamer caught fire and a great number of those on board jumped overboard to escape the flames. Altogether 120 persons were drowned.

Nearly Wiped Out.

Hamlin, a small town and the county seat of Lincoln County, West Virginia, was almost wiped out by fire. The fire originated in the Eagle flour mills and soon spread to the Hamlin handle factory, a large plant, and also to a large sawmill. All these buildings and several smaller ones were entirely destroyed. The origin of the fire and extent of loss are not known. There was little insurance.

Boxing Causes Another Death.

At Springfield, Ohio, Michael Nugent died from the effects of a blow in the nose, received a few days ago in a bout with gloves. The doctors say the blood rushed to the brain and formed a clot.

Fatal Wreck.

A freight wreck took place between Massillon and Orville, on the Wheeling and Lake Erie Railroad. Brakeman Wells and Fireman Ryan were badly injured and a tramp was fatally hurt. Others sustained injuries. It was a head-end collision, and dozens of cars are piled up.

Fatal Duel.

Captains Burske and Rittler, of the German Navy, fought a duel at Gesstemunde. The weapons used were pistols. Capt. Rittler was killed at the first fire.

Murderers Caught.

Betrayed by one of their pals, the murderers of Officer Edward Duddles of Chicago, were captured by thirty policemen who raided the hiding place of the gang, a dilapidated house on South Green street, several miles from the scene of the murder. The burglars who killed Duddles are "Billy" Roche and John Carey, members of the murderous Market street gang. They were found with Wm. McCormick hiding in a bedroom, having retreated when the officers in plain clothes took possession of all exits, the street and the house. The watch and wedding ring which were stolen from the residence of August Lundvall a few minutes prior to the murder, were f[illegible]om and a revolver with two empty chambers. The murderers drew their pistols on the officers who entered the room, but were quickly seized at the point of revolvers. A crowd of toughs swarmed around the police on the sidewalk while the exciting raid was in progress and attempted a rescue when the prisoners appeared, but the display of pistols kept them at bay.

A BOLD RAID.

Two Unmasked Men Robb a Bank in Broad Daylight.

Los Angeles (Cal.) special: The Ontario State Bank, in the little town of Ontario, between this city and San Bernardino, was robbed, by two unmasked men of between $4,000 and $5,000. The crime occurred shortly before 10:30 a. m., when no one was in the bank except Fred Stamm the cashier. At that time two men entered the bank and approached the desk of the cashier. The cashier had no suspicion that there was anything wrong with them as they approached his desk. The first that convinced him of his error, however, was when the men suddenly drew revolvers, and presenting them at him, ordered him to throw up his hands. He at once obeyed orders. Then one of the men told him to go into the vault and accompanied him. The other robber stayed out in the main room on guard. The one that entered the vault kept his pistol in readiness while he gathered up all the money in sight. Then he backed out and shutting the door, locked it, making the cashier a prisoner. All this time the men had worked without interruption but just as they were on the point of starting a Mr. Dibley entered the bank. Before he could realize that anything was the matter one of the robbers struck him on the head with his pistol, knocking him senseless. They then ran out, jumped into a buggy near by and made off. The robbery was not discovered until they had safely left the neighborhood. A large number of men, most of them armed, are in pursuit.

THREE KILLED

In a Terrible Power Mill Explosion Near Xenia.

A corning Mill at the Miami Powder Works, located at Goes, five miles north of Xenia, Ohio, blew up with dreadful force, killing three men. The explosion made a tremendous report, which was heard for miles around, and there was not a stick of the building left. The only parties about were the three men who were killed, and no one can tell how the accident happened. The corning mill is where the caked powder is ground and granulated ready for market. The process is by machinery, the men feeding the cakes of powder into a sort of threshing machine, and is consequently very dangerous, but yet there has been no mill of this kind exploded at Goes for a number of years. When this explosion occurred there was a great white cloud went up and with it everything tangible about the place disappeared, though the bodies of the victims were not very much mutilated, as is usually the case in these explosions. The killed were Adolph Kreibl, aged 35 years, leaves a wife and two children; Arthur Harris, aged 36, leaves a wife and three children; Clifford Horney, aged 20 years, single. They were all excellent men and had been with the company for some time. None of the other buildings about the premises were effected by the explosion, and the loss will be no more than a couple of thousand dollars.

SENSATIONAL.

Recent Election Leads to a Tragedy in Kentucky.

Harrodsburg (Ky.) special: Sheriff John I. Van Arsdall shot and almost instantly killed Dr. F. L. Harrod. The killing took place in Lawyers' Row. The physician had just returned from a call on Judge C. A. Hardin, who has been lying at the point of death. After going to the postoffice he had gotten as far as his office door, where he was intercepted by the Sheriff, who opened fire on him at close quarters, firing three shots, two taking effect in the body and one missing. Just a few seconds before the shooting Van Arsdall was talking to Jailer Chatham, who had started home, but hearing the shooting and the doctor call out "murder," he turned in time to see the last two shots and the doctor fall. The causes leading up to the killing is attributed to the recent election in this county. Van Arsdall was a candidate for re-election and was opposed by the doctor. An anonymous circular in which Van Arsdall was raked fore and aft in his domestic relations, was sent out. Van Arsdall was defeated for re-election, and thought that Dr. Harrod was the author of this circular. The dead man graduated at Louisville four years ago and located here. He is a native of Ohio and leaves a young wife, a most charming lady, who was a Miss Wallace of Lexington, this State. No citizen stood higher, and he had built up a large and remunerative practice.

BURROWS WINS I[illegible]

Gets the Nomination for Short Term Senator.

Lansing (Mich.) special: The Hon. Julius C. Burrows was nominated for the short term senatorship on the second ballot by the Republican caucus. The ballot was as follows: J. C. Burrows, 70; John Patton, 25; S. S. Olds, 23; J. Hubbell, 4. The term will expire March 4, 1899. The following is a sketch of the nominee. Hon. Julius C. Burrows of Kalamazoo, Mich., was born at North East, Erie County, Pa., Jan. 9, 1837; received a common school and academic education; by profession a lawyer; and was an officer in the Union army, 1862-64; prosecuting attorney of Kalamazoo County, 1865-67; appointed Supervisor of Internal Revenue for the States of Michigan and Wiscons. in 1867, but declined the office; elected to the Forty-third, Forty-sixth and Forty-seventh Congresses; appointed Solicitor of the United States Treasury Department by President Arthur, but declined the office; elected a delegate-at-large from Michigan to the National Republican Convention at Chicago in 1884; elected to the Forth-ninth, Fiftieth, and Fifty-first congresses, twice elected speaker pro tem of the House of Representatives during the Fifty-first Congress and was elected to the Fifty-second Congress and re-elected to the Fifty-third Congress as a Republican, also being re-elected to the Fifty-fourth Congress.

MOUNTAIN SMASH-UP.

Two Men Killed and a Car Load of Sheep Slaughtered.

Two persons lost their lives and a car of sheep were slaughtered in a wreck on the Lehigh Valley Railroad at White Haven, Pa.

The western freight train had stopped at the depot siding to shift some cars. In the rear of the train were several cars of stock, considerable Chicago beef and the caboose. The drovers accompanying the stock were Nathan Fuller, of Nebraska, and Charles King, of Milton. These men were asleep in the caboose. The mountain grade is very heavy here, and extends for a mile. At the top of the grade the guardman saw engine No. 457, in charge of Engineer John Thompson, pulling another freight, and approaching at a terrible speed. The man made every effort to attract the attention of the engineer, but it was seen that Engineer Thompson had lost control of the engine. The runaway train dashed into the caboose with tremendous force grinding it to splinters, and the two preceding cars were thrown over a thirty-foot embankment to the Jersey Central tracks. The sheep in the cars were crushed to death. Fuller's body was mangled almost beyond recognition. King was alive when taken from the wreck, but lived only a few minutes. The tracks of both the Lehigh Valley and Jersey Central were blocked for several hours.

Shot His Family and Himself.

At Savannah, Ga., in a fit of jealous rage George Jordan, a negro of excellent reputation, killed his 10-year-old son, shot his wife, shot his 3-year-old daughter, then shot himself. He begged for poison that he might be relieved of pain. His wounds are fatal; his wife will die. The little girl may recover, but it is probable the entire family of four will be wiped out. Jordan's wife says her husband left her two weeks ago. Christmas he attempted to shoot her, and she swore out a peace warrant. Sunday he came to the house, drove some women into the street, and drawing a revolver, shot her. She ran into the street and saw her son fall dead. Later the little girl fell. He was sober. His only explanation was that he wanted to die and thought it best to take his family with him.

A Boycott on Ingersoll.

A peculiar fight was made at Lima, Ohio, the other night against Robert G. Ingersoll, who delivered his lecture on the Bible. The churches all held free concerts and speeches. Ex-Gov. Chase of Indiana, speaking at the Disciple church. At the B. P. O. Elk Hall all the reading circles in the city gave a free musicale and literary entertainment to their husbands, brothers, and sweethearts. There were fully 1,000 people kept away by the different means adopted, but the theater was packed notwithstanding.

A Serious Charge.

The trial of Conductor Storrs of Lima, Ohio, employed on the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton Railroad, held by the Coroner at Piqua for liability in the case of the death of a boy who was killed by a train some weeks ago, terminated at Piqua when the Mayor bound Storrs over to Common Pleas Court in the sum of $2,000. The boy was stealing a ride on the train when the conducotr is alleged to have frightened him into jumping, and he fell under the wheels and was ground to death. Storrs gave bond.

To Abolish Horse Sausage.

Crown Point (Ind.) special: Hon. Jerome Dinweddie, member of the State Legislature of this county, will introduce a bill in the January session, prohibiting the killing of broken down horses for the purpose of selling their flesh for eating purposes, in the State. Almost daily old horses are taken from this city to the northern portion of this county, to be converted into sausages of all kinds. They find ready sale in other States and foreign lands.

Civil-Service Rules Extended.

On the recommendation of Postmaster General Bissell, the President has issued an order extending the civil service regulations to all superintendents of stations in the postoffices of the United States. The order takes effect immediately on its promulgation. There are 126 of these offices in the United States and the appointment of the superintendents is delegated to postmasters. Their salaries range from $1,000 to $2,500 per annum.

Verdict of $25,000.

The sum of $25,000 is named in the verdict given in the Newark, N. J., Circuit Court against the Western Union Telegraph Company. Edward McMullin was the plaintiff. He was a lineman in the company's service. On June 30, 1893, he was badly burned while working among the wires on the poles in Jersey City. The sight of his left eye was destroyed and he was terribly burned on the body and limbs.

Believed to Be a Leper.

A sensation was caused at Youngstown, Ohio, recently, by a laundryman reporting that Sing Hop, running a laundry, was a leper. His left arm and hand are spotted similar to a leper's, and, when called upon, he refused to admit or deny that he was afflicted with the dread diseases. Sing Hop came from Pittsburgh, and Celestials say he contracted leprosy while on a visit to China.

Congressman Dead.

Gen. Phillip Sidney Post, member of Congress from the tenth district of Illinois, died at Washington, from heart failure, brought on by acute gastritis. Gen. Post was the Republican member of Congress for four terms, beginning with the fiftieth Congress. He was best known through his brilliant military record.

Disastrous Fire.

The Globe building was destroyed by fire at Toronto, Ont., The building was the finest newspaper structure in Toronto and has been occupied by the Globe just four years. The total loss to the Globe and other tenants is $1,000,000. A half dozen or more firemen were hurt and one killed.

Success of Anti-Toxine.

Vienna special: Official reports received here in regard to the use of anti-toxine in the districts of Trieste and Czernowitz show a large decrease in the mortality from diphtheria. The reports advise that the remedy be administered at the earliest possible moment.

Eight Negroes Perish in the Flames.

Eight negroes were burned to death a day or two ago at Phillips Mill, Ga. One of the negroes was adult grown and the others were children. They were all in the house which accidentally caught fire, and the inmates were consumed before they could escape.

Young Lady Suicides.

At Kokomo, Ind., Alice R. Lane, aged 24 years, prominent in Christain Endeavor work in Indiana, shot herself through the heart. She was the daughter of a prominent real estate dealer. The cause is unknown.

Farmer Killed.

Benjamin Menderhall, a farmer, was killed by a train at Yorkshire, Ohio.

THE MARKETS.

Chicago—Cattle, common to prime, $3.75@6; hogs, shipping grades, $3.50@4.75; sheep, fair to choice, $2@4; wheat, No. 2 red, 53@54c; corn, No. 2, 44½@45½c; oats, No. 2, 29@30c; rye, No. 2, 48@50c; butter, choice creamery, 23@24c; eggs, fresh, 19@20c; potatoes, car lots, per bushel, 50@55c.

Indianapolis—Cattle, shipping, $3@5.50; hogs, choice light, $3@4.75; sheep, common to prime, $2@3.25; wheat, No. 2 red, 52@53c; corn, No. 1 white, 43@43½c; oats, No. 2 white, 33@34c.

St. Louis—Cattle, $3@5; hogs, $3@4.75; wheat, No. 2 red, 51@51½c; corn, No. 2, 42@42½c; oats, No. 2, 29½@30½c; rye, No. 2, 52@54c.

Cincinnati—Cattle, $3.50@5.50; hogs, $3.50@5; sheep, $1.25@4; wheat, No. 2, 53@54c; corn, No. 2 mixed, 42½@43c; oats, No. 2 mixed, 32@33c; rye, No. 2, 53@55c.

Detroit—Cattle, $2.50@5.50; hogs, $4@4.75; sheep, $2@3.25; wheat, No. 1 white, 55@56c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 45@46c; oats, No. 2 white, 33@34c; rye, No. 2, 55@56c.

Toledo—Wheat, No. 2 red, 54@55c; corn, No. 2 mixed, 43@44c; oats, No. 2 white, 33@33½c; rye, No. 2, 50@52c.

Buffalo—Cattle, $2.50@5.50; hogs, $4@4.75; sheep, $2@3.50; wheat, No. 2 red, 56½@57c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 46@47c; oats, No. 2 white, 35@36c.

Milwaukee—Wheat, No. 2 spring, 58@58½c; corn, No. 3, 41@42c; oats, No. 2 white, 31@32c; barley, No. 2, 53@55c; rye, No. 1, 49@51c; pork, mess, $11.00@11.50.

New York—Cattle, $3@5.50; hogs, $3.50@5; sheep, $2.50@4; wheat, No. 2 red, 61@62c; corn, No. 2, 51@51½c; oats, white, Western, 38@42c; butter, creamery, 22@25c; eggs, Western, 23@25c.

WEALTH IS IN LAND.

CONSTITUTES 90 PER CENT. OF THE COUNTRY'S ASSETS.

Interesting Report of the Census Bureau Has Been Made Public—Percentage of Farm and Home Owners Compared with Different Nationalities.

Figures Are of Interest.

The Census Office has made public a report showing that the owners of farms and homes, regarded as substantially the landowners of the United States, own more than 90 per cent. of the wealth of the country. Of the white owners and tenant heads more than 51 per cent. are owners; of the negroes, more than 17 per cent.; of mixed white and negro parentage, 25 per cent.; of the Indians, 65, and of the Chinese and Japanese, 14. The white owners of farms and homes that are free from mortgage form 71 per cent. of all white owners; of negroes, 89; of those of mixed parentage, 87; of the Indians, 96; and of the Chinese and Japanese, 97 per cent. The percentages of ownership are slightly higher for women than for men, and free ownership is also higher among women except with the Indians and Chinese and Japanese.

The results for farm properties show that 72 per cent. of the whites are owners, 21 of the negroes, 29 of those of mixed blood, 79 of the Indians, and over 10 per cent. of the Chinese and Japanese, while for home 39 per cent. of the whites are owners, more than 15 of the negroes, 23 of those of mixed blood, 53 of the Indians, and 14 of the Chinese and Japanese. The white farmowners who are free from mortgage are 71 per cent. of all white owners; negroes, 90; those of mixed parentage, 89; Indians, 95; and Chinese and Japanese, 87. The corresponding figures for homes are nearly the same.

In the fifty-eight cities of 50,000 population and over almost 25 per cent. of the white proprietors are owners, and not quite 9 per cent. of the negroes.

For farms and homes 53 per cent. of the native proprietors are owners; from Austria-Hungary, 41 per cent.; from Canada and Newfoundland (English), 47; from Canada and Newfoundland (French), 31; Wales and England, 46; France, 47; Germany, 52; Ireland, 44; Italy, 15; Norway, Sweden and Denmark, 61; Russia, and Poland, 31; Scotland, 45, and from all other countries, over 47 per cent.

The native farm proprietors are exceeded in ownership by the natives of all of these countries except Italy, whose percentage for native owners is 69 and for the Italians 68. The highest percentage is 87, for the Irish. Ownership is more prevalent among native than among foreign-born proprietors in the case of homes than it is among farm proprietors. Of the native proprietors of homes 41 per cent. are owners, and the lowest percentage representing the ownership of homes for places of birth is 12, for the Italians.

The ownership of homes in the fifty-eight principal cities is nearly as great among the foreign born as among the natives. Among the native home proprietors in these cities 23 per cent. are owners. The highest percentage is 32, for the Germans, and the lowest 6, for the Italians.

The result of the inquiry as to nativity of parents of the white native farm and home proprietors shows that for farms and homes 55 per cent. of the proprietors have both parents native born and owners and 43 per cent. those who have one or both parents foreign born. The percentages for farm owners having both parents native born is 69 and in the case of homes 42 per cent. The total for both sexes and for farms and homes shows that of the proprietors under 25 years of age 20 per cent. are owners; from 25 to 29 years, 28 per cent.; from 30 to 34 years, 37 per cent.; from 35 to 39 years, 42 per cent.; 40 to 44 years, 49 per cent.; 45 to 49 years, 53 per cent.; 50 to 54 years, 57 per cent.; 55 to 59 years, 63 per cent., and 60 years and over, 69 per cent. Percentages are generally somewhat higher for women than for men. Farm ownership is more prevalent at all ages than home ownership. Almost 35 per cent. of farm proprietors under 25 years of age are owners and the percentage increases with age up to 83 per cent. for owners of 60 years and over. Among home proprietors of less than 25 years of age 13 per cent. are owners and the percentage increases without interruption to 58 per cent. for owners of 60 years and over.

Ownership is more prevalent among women who are farm and home owners and heads of tenant families than among men, the ownership of the women being represented by 57 per cent. and the men 46. The women exceed the men also in the fifty-eight principal cities, where of the male home proprietors 23 per cent. are owners and of the female 31 per cent. One reason for the difference between the figures for the two sexes is the custom that makes the husband instead of the wife the head of the family. The ownership of farms and homes is divided between the two sexes in the proportion of 83 per cent. to the males and 17 to the females. Slightly more than one-quarter of the 2,928,671 owned homes of the United States are owned by women and about one-tenth of the 3,142,746 owned farms.

LUMBER THIEVES AT THE FRONT

They Take Advantage of Order Permitting Indians to Cut Burnt Logs.

More than one is asking the question: Is there a reward for incendiarism? The Indians of the White Earth and Red Lake reservations in Minnesota have been granted permission by the President, upon the advice of the Secretary of the Interior, to engage in logging and the sale of certain timber. The recent forest fires killed between 25,000,000 and 30,000,000 feet of timber which would have been lost to the Indians but for the permission given them to cut and sell it. While this permit is granted to the Indians, it is well known that it will be entirely assumed by white men. The Indians will not cut or log a stick or tree—the lumber companies will do it all. It is the lumber companies who, ever since last summer's forest fires, have buzzed about to get this order issued "permitting Indians" to cut and log dead timber. These lumber companies have had their way. Instead of being 30,000,000 feet, expert opinion put the burned timber at over 500,000,000 feet covered by the orders to "permit Indians, etc." This lumber is valued at the rate of $4 per 1,000 as it stands in the tree. The whole value would be over $2,000,000.

It would be of interest to note what the Indians get for it. They usually make a fizzle of their financial operations. Last summer Chicago insurance people accused the lumber pirates of burning these forests for their own business purposes. The same charge was made by the secret agents of the Interior Department. Whether the lumber companies burned the woods or not they at least jumped promptly in to take advantage of it and have now succeeded. A famous French detective said: "When you seek to find the criminal who committed a crime think first who would benefit by it, who had the motive."

These woods were purposely and of aforethought set on fire, not only in one, but in forty places. The lumber companies while the forests still smoked came swarming to the Interior Department to get the dead trees in their clutches. They never could have got the trees while the timber was alive. It had to be killed by fire or some other force before the Interior Department could dispose of it. Under this innocent "permission to Indians" to log and cut timber some very black characters, with not a drop of Indian blood in their veins, are going to get rich, and when they have cleaned up from last summer's fires without doubt another accommodating fire will sweep new regions and lay them bare and blackened to their axes.

WHEAT AS FEED.

Some States Disposing of Fully Half the Crop in That Manner.

The Farmers' Review says: Reports have been received by the Review from correspondents in Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Michigan, Kentucky, Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa, Wisconsin, Minnesota, and the Dakotas on the extent to which wheat is being fed to cattle. In some parts of Illinois wheat has been fed largely, especially where markets are not easily reached, or where other feed crops are short. In other parts less has been fed than in some other States, apparently because no other farm product is found so salable. So a good many counties report little or no wheat being fed. Indiana is feeding probably a little larger proportion, and in some of the counties a third of the crop will be disposed of in this way. Ohio is feeding the crop freely and in localities more wheat than corn is being fed. Over a large part of the State half of the crop will be marketed in the form of live stock, and there are counties where the proportion of the crop fed will not be less than 70 per cent. In Michigan the amount fed varies greatly, some counties feeding none and others nearly all of the wheat crop. Reports of 30 and 40 per cent. being fed are quite common. Kentucky reports large quantities being fed, and some counties will dispose of half their crop. Missouri reports a like condition. Kansas and Nebraska are feeding very largely, the low price making it a very economical feed. In some counties in Iowa it is being fed largely, even up to half of the crop, but in other counties it is receiving little attention as a feed. In Wisconsin, Michigan and the Dakotas considerable is being fed, but the practice is far from universal.

15,000 MASSACRED.

Further Details of the Recent Armenian Outrages Received.

At a meeting of the Methodist Episcopal ministers of Boston and vicinity resolutions were adopted expressing sympathy with the Christians in Turkish Armenia, thanking President Cleveland for having appointed a commission to investigate the Armenian outrages, and urging the State Department to prosecute this investigation by every means at its command. A letter received from a point near the seat of the recent outrages in Eastern Turkey, places the number of slaughtered Armenians at fully 15,000. The writer, in part, says:

"The Armenians, oppressed by Kurds and Turks, said they could not pay taxes to both Kurds and government. Plundered and oppressed by the Kurds they resisted them; there were some killed. Then false reports were sent to Constantinople that the Armenians were in rebellion. Orders were sent to the Mushir at Erzengan to exterminate them. The region was surrounded by soldiers, and 20,000 Kurds also are said to have been massed there. Then they advanced upon the center, driving in the people like a flock of sheep, and continued thus to advance for days. No quarter was given, no mercy shown. Men, women and children were shot down or butchered like sheep. The most probable estimate is 15,000 killed, thirty-five villages plundered, razed and burned. Women were outraged and men butchered. A priest was taken to the roof of his church and hacked to pieces and the edifice set on fire. A large number of women and girls, collected in a church, were kept for days, the sport of soldiers, and then murdered. It is said the number was so large that the blood flowed out of the church door."

ORIGINATED THE BLOOMERS.

Death of Mrs. D. C. Bloomer at Council Bluffs, Iowa.

Mrs. D. C. Bloomer died at Council Bluffs, Iowa, the other day, aged 76 years. Mrs. Bloomer was a woman of national renown, being the originator of the dress reform which bears her name. She and her husband celebrated their golden wedding four years ago. They had lived in the same residence in Council Bluffs forty-one years.

MRS. BLOOMER.

It was in 1851 that she began to wear the costume which is now known throughout the English-speaking world as the bloomer. She was then living at Seneca Falls, N. Y., where she was publishing a temperance paper called the Lily. In addition to being a prohibition advocate the paper also devoted considerable space to the subject of woman suffrage. A Mrs. Miller, who in 1851 paid a visit to Seneca Falls, appeared in the bifurcated dress and Mrs. Bloomer published a description of it. She and Elizabeth Cady Stanton adopted the style and advocated its general adoption. Mrs. Bloomer wore the costume on several lecture trips, and in this way it became associated with and finally known by her name. By and by Horace Greeley took the subject up and was followed by other editors, the result being that the bifurcated dress became known all over the country as the bloomer.

LEVI P. MORTON INAUGURATED.

New York State Changes Executives with Simple Ceremony.

Levi P. Morton was inaugurated as Governor of New York at noon on Tuesday. The ceremonies were simple. The new Governor and his full military staff in carriages were escorted to the Capitol by four companies of the National Guard. In the executive chamber the Governor-elect was greeted by the retiring Governor, who was surrounded by his military staff, after which all proceeded to the assembly chamber.

LEVI P. MORTON.

After prayer by Bishop Doane Gov. Flower extended a formal welcome to his successor in office. In a brief reply Gov. Morton complimented his predecessor, both as a man and as an official. There was nothing of a partisan nature in either address. The oath of office was administered by Secretary of State Palmer.

Telegraphic Clicks.

A sneakthief stole $400 worth of jewelry from Herman Lustig's store in Akron, Ohio, carried his plunder through crowded streets, and escaped.

The trial at Clearfield, Pa., of the seven miners charged with conspiracy, riot and the burning of the Coaldale tipple on July 19 ended in a verdict of not guilty.

Capt. Buford A. Tracy, one of Winchester's (Ky.) most prominent citizens, was accidentally killed in an elevator shaft, his neck being broken. Capt. Tracy served on the staff of Col. Breckinridge during the war.

A TRIO OF SENATORS.

MORRILL, PALMER AND HARRIS ALL OLD-TIMERS.

Beginning as Poor Boys, They Forged Their Way Ahead and Have Been in Public Life Nearly Half a Century—Venerable Statesmen.

Nestors of the Senate.

The three oldest men in the United States Senate are Morrill, of Vermont; Palmer, of Illinois, and Harris of Tennessee. For nearly half a century they have been in public life. Men of deep learning, careful observation and sound judgment, they have studied American politics in all its phases and have become thoroughly acquainted with all measures of public concern. Naturally they are looked upon as the Grecian leaders looked upon the sage of Nestor, and whether on the floor of the Senate or in the councils of their parties, the wisdom stored up by years of experience is constantly appealed to by their associates. They have passed beyond the mark of three score and ten, but their venerable frames are yet strong as the sturdy oak and apparently they are fully able to serve their country well through several more sessions.

The oldest of the trio is Justin S. Morrill, the sage of the Senate. His life has been less active than that of Palmer or Harris and has been more closely confined to the halls of legislation. He was born in Strafford, Vt., April 14, 1810, and after receiving a common school education he entered a country grocery store and progressed until he owned one himself. Next he took up farm life and finally in 1854, at the age when most men who achieve fame and public life are already on the road and nearing the goal, he was first elected to Congress. Then began his active political career. His knowledge of commerce and finance brought him at once into prominence and in his second term he was placed on the Ways and Means Committee. In 1860 he became the author of and carried through the Morrill tariff. He remained in the House of Representatives until 1867, when he was elected to the Senate and took his seat at the same time as did Roscoe Conkling. There he has remained ever since and is now serving a term which ends in March, 1897, when, if he lives, he will have completed 42 years of service in Congress. From 1881 until the Democrats came into control he was chairman of the Committee of Finance. He is progressive, is deeply interested in educational matters and has done much for the colleges.

SENATOR MORRILL

The sturdy old Senator from Illinois is a Kentuckian by birth and is 77 years of age. He received a common school education and went with his father to Madison County, Illinois, at the age of 14. Then he took a course in Alton College, paying his expenses by his labor. After graduating he taught a country school and studied law, being admitted to the bar in 1839. He rose gradually from one position to another until 1852, when he was sent to the State Senate. Here he distinguished himself as an opponent of slavery and it was during these years at Springfield that he became the firm friend of Abraham Lincoln. Prior to 1856 he was a Democrat, but when the Republican party was formed he joined it on account of its position toward slavery. In 1861 he was one of the members of the peace conference at Washington. When the war began he went into Missouri as colonel of the Fourteenth Illinois Regiment and soon became a brigadier general. He took part in many important engagements, rose to the rank of major general and commanded the military department of Kentucky from February, 1865, to May, 1866. In 1868 he was elected Governor of Illinois as a Republican, but in 1872 supported Greeley and then drifted back to the Democratic party. He was nominated for several important offices, but the Republicans were too strong for him. In 1890, however, he was sent to the United States Senate by the Democratic Legislature.

SEN'R PALMER.

The aged Senator from Tennessee was born in Tullahoma, that State, in 1818 and grew up, wild and without discipline, on his father's sterile farm. At the age of 14 he he went to Paris, Tenn., and began work as a shop boy. While here he got his schooling. At the age of 19 we find him in Tippan County, Miss., where he has become a successful merchant. For two years he studied law at night, attending to his business during the day, and had accumulated $7,000, when though the failure of a bank he was left penniless. With undaunted enterprise he set to work anew and within two years had repaired his losses. Meanwhile his nights had been given to study of law and in 1841 he was admitted to the bar. Shortly afterward he was elected to the Mississippi Legislature and in 1848 went to Congress. In 1853 he settled at Memphis, Tenn., and in 1857 was elected Governor of Tennessee and re-elected in 1859 and 1861. He took sides with the Confederacy and was driven from the State by the Federal troops. Then he joined the staff of Gen. Albert Sydney Johnston and was with him when he fell mortally wounded at Shiloh. He continued with the Confederate army until the close of the war and then found that his entire fortune of $150,000 had been swept away. He evaded capture on parole, went into exile into Mexico, where he remained 18 months, and thence to England, where he remained a year. Returning to Memphis in 1867 he resumed his law practice and in 1876 was sent to the United States Senate, where he has since been a conspicuous figure. His term expires in March of the coming year, and an effort is being made to defeat him for re-election.

SENATOR HARRIS.

Occurs Once Every 2,500,000 Years.

A remarkable freak in moon phases was noted in the month of February, 1866—a month which has gone into astronomical annals as "the month without a full moon." In that year January and March each had two full moons, but February none. A writer in a leading astronomical journal uses the following language in describing it: "* * * Do you realize what a rare thing in nature it was? It has not happened before since the beginning of the Christian era, or probably since the creation of the world! It will not occur again, according to the computations of the astronomer royal of England, for—how long do you think? Not until after 2,500,000 years from 1866!"—St. Louis Republic.

NEWS OF OUR STATE.

A WEEK AMONG THE HUSTLING HOOSIERS.

What Our Neighbors Are Doing—Matters of General and Local Interest—Marriages and Deaths—Accidents and Crimes—Pointers About Our Own People.

Shop Blown Up.

A natural gas explosion occurred in Elwood, wrecking the building occupied by Milo Zee's barber shop and seriously injuring six men. There were eight persons in the room and all but two were seriously hurt. The furniture and fixtures were all demolished and the loss will reach $2,000. Following the explosion the wreck caught fire and was extinguished with difficulty. Several narrow escapes are reported, among them being that of Frank Holsworth, who had just taken a bath and stepped out of the shop. He came near being caught in the recent power-house explosion, having only just left when it occurred. Had the explosion occurred an hour sooner, several would have been killed outright, as the shop was crowded with customers. The explosion was caused by a leak in the natural gas mains communicating with a sewer. The gas had accumulated under the floor of the building and filled all spaces between the plastering and the walls, and even the air in the rooms was saturated while the barbers were at work on the few remaining customers. The doors had been opened to purify the air in the room and had this not been done the explosion which followed would have killed every one in the room at the time.

Minor State Items.

TIPTON will have a telephone exchange.

EGGS are unusually scarce in the Seymour market.

CAMBRIDGE CITY children are battling with measles.

LITCHFIELD BROS.' veneer works, North Vernon, burned. Loss, $3,500.

VEEDERSBURG authorities are enforcing the saloon screen ordinance.

A BIG rabbit hunt occurred near Crawfordsville, recently, and 570 were caught.

BARTHOLOMEW COUNTY still has outstanding $10,000 in unpaid gravel-road bonds.

THE Soldiers' Home at Marion is so crowded that not another man can be received.

LENA SAUNDERS' clothes caught fire from a cook stove in Brazil, and she was fatally burned.

AN unknown benefactor of a Catholic church in Hammond has donated an $800 altar to the church.

CHARLES MACEY was frightfully burned at Marion, Shelby County, by the explosion of a lamp at a "watch" party.

ANDERSON parties are leasing land at Fortville and will penetrate the earth in hopes of developing an oil field.

ELZA TODERA, a young farmer, residing near Ozalia, accidentally cut off his left foot with an ax, and came near bleeding to death.

IN the damage suit of Mrs. Adda Neal against the city of Bedford for injuries sustained by falling on a defective sidewalk, a Bloomington jury, awarded her $5,000.

CHARLES ULSHAFER was arrested at Wabash, charged with passing forged checks. He confessed and said that the desire to steal and forge other people's names was inherited.

IT took

CHAPTER XI—Continued.

"I would give my life to see my husband a great man, and to help him to become one!" said she, with a suppressed passion which quite startled Roderick. Then, laughing again, as if half ashamed of her own earnestness, "Suppose since we cannot buy books, you were to set to work and write one?"

"You little Solon!" cried Roderick, and said no more. But there was a gleam in his eye, a hope in his heart. Something in his wife's words had stirred in him that ambition which every man has, or ought to have, else he is no true man at all—the wish to do something, to be something, to cease drifting aimlessly down the stream of life, in the passing pleasures of the day, but to take firm root somewhere, strike root downward and bear fruit upward. And the woman that hinders him from doing this is no true wife, but a mere parisite that smothers and impedes the growth of the tree. Ay, even though she may garland him as gorgeously as the lianas do the trees in Western forests, with what she calls love, but which is in truth the merest selfishness.

She was a born mistress of a household, this young Mrs. Jardine; none the less so because of a something in her beyond it all, which made her often stop a moment in her daily labors to look at "the blue hills far away," to listen to the singing of the burn in the glen, or the birds in the garden, and perhaps carol a ditty herself there, when she was gathering flowers or pulling fruit out in the open air, for they had no piano, and she would not hear of buying one till the book was done and they had plenty of money.

"My darling, you are in one thing unlike all women—at least, all that I ever knew. You invariably prefer what you have instead of what you have not. Suppose, now, just for a change, you were to begin worrying my life out because I can not give you half a dozen servants and a carriage and pair, or take you out into society? My wife, do you mind being poor?"

"Do you? When you are a Jardine—we are both Jardines, for that matter—and you are to be a great author, or a great man, some day?"

"Evidently my wife does not believe the two synonymous," said Roderick, laughing and coloring.

"Not quite, because the author may fail; whereas the man who does his work—any work—as conscientiously as you are doing it, must always be, in one sense, a great man. Also the one is the world's property, the other is mine!"

She put her arms round his neck; he leaned against her, for he was, in truth, a good deal tired. His book had been bothering him, and he was not used to being bothered, not accustomed to the endless labor, the perpetual struggle between impulse and perseverance, moods of errant fancy and deliberate, mechanical, matter-of-fact toil, which all professional authors understand but too well.

"It's done at last," said he, almost with a shout, as, one late autumn morning, with the scent of clematis and jasmine coming in at the open window, he finished his book, writing, in his best and neatest hand, "The End" on the final page. "And yet I am half sorry! I have killed them all, or married them—made them quite comfortable, anyhow—and now I rather miss them. They had grown such companions; had they not, dear?"

Silence smiled; but yet, as she tenderly tied up the MS., carefully counting the pages, to be sure that none were missing, a tear fell on the last one. It was so dear to her, this first work of her husband's, done in their first year of married life, and full of so many associations. She was sure, even if it came to the twentieth edition, she should never cease to remember and cherish it, every line.

"Twentieth editions do not come every day, even to celebrated authors," said Roderick, sapiently. "I should be glad to sell even the first five, and get the money."

"Money—I am afraid I had forgotten the money," said Silence—as, indeed, she had. But for a good many days after, when, the excitement of work over, a reaction came, and Roderick looked more pale and ill than she had ever seen him, she began to count over her little store, as if by counting she could double it, and to long, day by day, for the letter which was to bring the hope of that despised necessity—pounds, shillings and pence.

The last and hardest came one day when they had been rather brighter than usual. Silence had persuaded her husband to walk down with her to the obnoxious cotton mill, in which she had become much interested—having instituted, or rather carried on anew, a school for the mill girls, which had been the favorite work of Miss Jardine. "You will let me do it, just because she did it?" was the entreaty which Roderick could not resist. So every Sunday, while he took the long stretch across the country which she had insisted upon after the labors of the week, she had gone down to an empty room at the mill and kept school there for two hours.

To-day the girls recognized her with delight, and her husband, pleased with her pleasure, glad, too, of any relief in his monotonous life, had talked to the "hands," examined the machinery, and acknowledged that there might be a worse lot in life than to be master of a mill.

"At one time I wanted to be an engineer, but my mother thought the profession not 'genteel' enough. She would have put me into the 'house,' but I loved machinery, I hated trade. You would not have wondered, had you ever known my grandfather Patterson——" Roderick stopped. "But he is dead, and he was a clever man, and an honest, in his own way."

It was one of the things which Silence most loved in her husband, part of the infinite respect deepening every day, which would have made her pass over so many little faults in him, that she never heard him speak ill-naturedly or unkindly of any human being.

"I almost wish that I had been in our firm, or some other, that you might—'

'walk in silk attire,
And siller hae to spare.'

But after all, my wife, you would not have cared to see me a millionaire, and a money-grubber—Grub street seems a deal nearer my mark."

They both laughed and entered the house gayly—almost for the first time without looking on the hall table for the vague expectation of something. It was not till Silence had taken off her hat and began to make the tea that she saw a large carrier's parcel with the "eminent publisher's" label outside—one of these neatly done up, innocent-looking parcels which often carry with them a stroke of absolute doom.

"Let me open it," said Silence—and her husband let her.

It was a civil note, a very civil note, placed on the top of the MS., and expressing a great regret that the latter was found "unsuitable." In reading it Roderick's hands shook nervously and his color went and came.

"Never mind, it does not matter; it was what I should have expected," was all he said.

"No, it does not matter," said Silence, firmly. "They only say it is 'unsuitable' to them. It may suit some one else. Let us try."

"Yes, let us try," echoed Roderick, mechanically, his hand before his eyes. "And if we fail—

'We fail;
We screw our courage to the sticking place,
And we'll not fail.'

"My Lady Macbeth," said he, scarcely able to forbear a smile at the sweet, broken English, and the brave heart which tried so hard to keep up his own. "Then let us once more get together to 'murder sleep'—or only a publisher. Whom shall the MS. be sent to next?"

That very day—for Silence never let any grass grow under her feet—she repacked the MS. and sent it to another house. From whence it came back at once, unopened, as all arrangements were made up—in fact, the head of the firm was just starting for Switzerland. He, honest man—for publishers are but men, though poor authors will not believe it—being perhaps a little worn out with a year of worries—the genus irritable are the most worrying folk alive—added a well meant but unnecessary sting to the effect that "he would advise the author to try another tack—historical novels never sold."

"Then I had better burn it," said Roderick, quietly. But as he advanced to the fire there was an expression in his face which his wife had never seen before. She flung herself before him in an agony of tears.

"You shall not. It is mine, mine, whether the world likes it or not. We will never give in; we will try and try again. Don't you remember Bruce and the spider?"

"A good simile; because in the meantime I might lie in this horrid cave and starve. Thank you, my dear. No, I had rather go out, take my sword in hand, and die fighting!"

He laughed loudly, and then he, too, burst into tears.

Without any words, Silence laid her husband's head on her shoulder, soothing him less like a wife than a mother, or rather a combination of both. The worshiped ideal, the "queen" of boyish fancy, had long ago melted into a mere woman—not perfect, but yet trying hard to be "as good as she could," both for love's sake and for the sake of that Love Divine which is at the root of all. And so she was gradually becoming what a man so sorely needs his wife to be—comfort, solace, strength; his fellow-laborer as well as his counselor; neither superior nor inferior to himself, only different.

And in this character she made the wisest suggestion that could have been made, and which the day before he had absolutely scouted—that they should go away for a few days; accept the latest of the many invitations of good Mrs. Grierson, and visit her—not at Richerden, but at the coast.

"You know she said all the Richerden people will have left by now," added Silence, hesitating.

"That means we need not fear meeting any of our relations or friends—we tabooed folk," answered Roderick, bitterly. Nevertheless, in his present condition, the very thought of change had a certain relief in it. "She is a dear soul—old Mrs. Grierson. I told you you would like her, and you did."

"Very much."

"Suppose, then, we were to strain a point and go."

Silence did not tell him that straining a point was, as regarded money matters, more difficult than he knew; but she did somehow manage it, and they went. Not, however, until after many consultations, the luckless MS. had again gone forth on its quest for a publisher; this time almost without hope, but simply in the carrying out of that "dogged determination" which Roderick declared he now for the first time recognized in his wife.

"If I had had it," he said, wistfully, as they sat together on the deck of one of those river steamboats, where all the disagreements of overcrowding and holiday-making cannot neutralize the pleasure of sea and mountain and loch. "If I had had it, how much more I might have done!"

"You never know you have got it till you try."

"My dear heart!" In the sanctity of very private life Roderick sometimes called his wife "my heart," or "my soul"—which was a great deal nearer the truth than many an idle pet-name. "Oh, this is delicious," said he, as he drank in the salt air and amused himself with Silence's delight in a beauty which she declared made Scotland "better than Switzerland," the broad estuary running up into long hill-encircled lochs, where porpoises tumbled and white gulls wheeled screaming overhead, and the lights and the shadows came and went, producing "effects" such as are seen nowhere but in this rainy, sunshiny land; a country which beyond all others seems to be a country with a soul, especially on its coast. And Silence, who, though brought up among mountains, had never seen the sea except when she crossed it at Calais, watched all these wonders with perfectly childish delight.

"How happy you are," said Roderick, looking at her.

"Why not, when we two are together—always together?"

Roderick smiled, not in gratified vanity—he had very little of that; but recognizing—as in selfish passion men never can recognize—the sweetness of being able to make another human being perfectly happy.

Mrs. Grierson's welcome was a treat to get. She was of those old people whom all young people love—sympathetic, unexacting, expending whatever she could, and especially upon anyone that needed it, the warmth of her childless, motherless heart. Narrow she might be in her opinions—at least some of the new generation, even Roderick himself, had thought so; but in her acts she was wide as charity itself. And her house was one of those—not too many in this world—where guests feel entirely "at home."

The young folks were left almost entirely to themselves, sitting out on the lovely shore or climbing the heights—the same where Roderick had a year ago sat and dreamed of the then unseen and incredible She—as he told her once when she sat beside him. They wandered about, perfectly content, till dusk, when they came in, and submitted placidly to the sweet severities of late dinner. Mrs. Grierson belonged to one of the "old" Richerden families, and cherished the refined formality vainly imitated by the nouveaux riches of that society.

"But you seem quite at home," said Roderick to his wife. "You might have been a Richerden lady all your days, so well you play your part."

"I don't play it at all, dear. I really enjoy myself—I enjoy everything—with you. How terrible it must be"—with a sudden shiver—"I hardly know which would be most terrible, having to part from one's husband, or parting, conscious that one was not sorry to part. Now, you and I are not always 'good,' my Roderick. Sometimes we vex one another—I don't believe a bit in your Dunmow flitch of bacon! Why, we have not been married six months, and I am sure we have quarreled at least twelve times."

(To be continued.)

MORE BULLETS THAN BOOKS.

France Staggers Under Enormous Expenses for Military Purposes.

The United States and France—the two great republics of the world—stand at opposite ends of the columns of nations arranged upon the basis of per capita annual expenditure for military purposes. The United States and Russia, the antitheses of each other in every political institution and tradition, stand very naturally at the opposite ends of a column of the nations arranged on the basis of the annual per capita expenditure for purposes of education.

Some very interesting statistics on the comparative expenditures for defense (including preparations for offensive warfare) and education of the different civilized nations are given in a recent number of the Journal of Education, accompanied by a most instructive article on the subject. The United States possesses the honorable distinction of expending annually more money per capita on a basis of the entire population for education and less money per capita for military purposes than any other civilized nation. And the difference in the expenditures in both departments, as compared with those of the nations standing next in order, is so great as to give the distinction a double significance and value from a humanitarian standpoint. Appended is a table, one among several compiled by the author of the article in the Journal of Education, from which may be seen at a glance the relative expenditures in these two widely divergent departments of government of the principal nations of the world:

	Military.	Education.
France	$4 00	$ 70
England	3 72	62
Holland	3 58	64
Prussia	2 04	60
Russia	2 04	3
Austria	1 36	32
Denmark	1 76	94
Italy	1 52	36
Switzerland	82	84
United States	30	1 35

The showing made in the above table by little Denmark is greatly to the credit of that country, whose comparatively slender resources, large population, and peculiar geographical position would go further to justify armament at the expense of education on her part than could the conditions obtaining in several of the other countries, which spend much more for military and much less for schoolbooks than does the little kingdom of the Danes. France's military expenditures are abnormally large, due possibly in part to recent changes in the equipment of all branches of the army, while Russia's disbursements for educational purposes as compared with her liberal expenditures for warlike preparations are so disgracefully small as to well-nigh shut her out of the classification of civilized nations.

A comparison of these relative expenditures of revenue for the purposes of war and education is calculated to induce a doubt of the optimists' claim that the world is growing better and that the human race is improving morally. Barbarism would seem to still retain a large place even in the civilized world, and education, instead of displacing it, but serves when misapplied to make it more formidable. Still there is a silver lining to the cloud. The United States, Switzerland, and little Denmark appear in bright contrast to the other swaggering, swash-buckling powers, and with such an object lesson as this country affords constantly in evidence the ultimate improvement of the conditions of all the others is not beyond hope.

Goose Adopts Pigs.

A goose with remarkable maternal instinct has been found near Berry, in Harrison County, Kentucky. Her brood was recently drowned, and an old sow with a litter of twelve pigs died about the same time. The old mother goose has adopted the little orphan pigs, and persists in her attention toward them. The family is doing well.

MR. M. S. PEMBREY finds by experiment that increase of temperature around a warm-blooded animal lessens its output of carbon dioxide to a remarkable degree, and diminution of temperature increases it. The reverse is true of cold-blooded animals. Up to the twenty-first day a developing chick reacts like a cold-blooded animal and after that like a warm-blooded.

MISS LUCY LEE HILL OF CHICAGO.

Miss Lucy Lee Hill, of Chicago, was the guest of honor at the recent Daughters of Confedracy ball in St. Louis, taking the place of Miss Winifred Davis, daughter of the late Jefferson Davis, the President of the Confederacy, who was unable to attend. Miss Hill is the daughter of Gen. A. P. Hill, who was killed a few hours after the collapse of the Confederacy. She was born during the war Gen. R. E. Lee standing sponsor for her at her baptism.

PERFECT REST FOR THE EAR.

A Sound-Killer that Gives Peace and Quiet Midst the City's Roar.

A man cannot control hearing as he does sight, or feeling, or taste. One can close the eyes if he does not want to see; no one can be compelled to taste or to smell unless he chooses to, but how can any one keep out of noises, near or distant, which in large cities abound in numberless variety?

Railroads, steamboats, factories, foundries, trolleys, street cars, pianos, organs, blacksmiths, and what not unite in making life almost unbearable. To put cotton in both ears, as often suggested, does not give sufficient relief.

An optical concern near Berlin has patented and manufactures a little article which bids fair to become an absolute necessity for many dwellers in large cities. The euphonious name given to it, "antiphone," indicates its usage. In plain English this means "sound-killer," and the object is to give the one sense that needs it most a much-needed rest. It is but a small anchor-shaped piece of metal. The ball at the lower end (figure 1) fits closely into the outer canal of the ear, while the flattened upper part sits snugly in the hollow of the ear.

The human ear varies greatly in shape, and the antiphone is, therefore, made in many sizes to fit anybody; as much care should be taken in fitting antiphones as in eyeglasses.

Soon the rumbling of railroad cars,

THE SOUND-KILLER.

the snorting of engines, the monotonous noise of a steamer's screw and the like will have ceased to disturb the peace of the traveler; the piano next door will be no terror and the antiphone will spread its humane qualities.

A HUMAN LIGHTNING ROD.

A Man's Wonderful Experience with a Thunderbolt in Montana.

Charles B. Hoffman, of Butte, Mont., has had the most wonderful experience with lightning on record. He was standing at the mouth of a mine when lightning struck him. It passed through his hat and ran the length of his body,

THIS MAN WAS STRUCK BY LIGHTNING.

burning the skin to a crisp on the sides and legs. It also cut his left foot on the side and bottom, breaking the bones of the foot. It stripped him of all his clothes, including his shoes, in a twinkling and deposited them in a pile a few feet from where he was standing. The cloth was cut in many places as neatly as if it had been done with a razor.

Hoffman remained unconscious for an hour and a half after the shock, but is now very much a live man. He is now known in Butte as "the human lightning rod."

A Life Insurance Scheme.

A London manufacturing firm has devised a scheme for attracting custom and advertising itself. On Dec. 15 the amount received from each of its customers from Nov. 1 last will be reckoned up. Should it exceed £20 a free life insurance policy available for the whole of next year will be issued for the amount received. Thus, if a retail dealer has paid within that period for goods purchased the total sum of £65 this amount will be paid to his heirs in the event of his death from any cause except suicide during 1895. Similarly, its amount by the value of his purchases during next year, will be issued at the end of it, to be in force during 1896. No individual insurance policy is to exceed £300, and no customer who is more than 60 years of age will, except by special arrangement, share in the benefits of this scheme. In case of partnership the policy will be issued to the youngest member of the firm. The contract is guaranteed by an old-established life office.—Troy Times.

A NEW LIFE PRESERVER.

A Waterproof Suit in Which a Man Can Live a Month.

A Newark (N. J.) genius has invented a new life preserver which will not only keep a man afloat, but which provides him with meat, drink and shelter. It is claimed that in it a shipwrecked person can be kept alive a month. The lower portion of the curious device resembles a life preserving dress; the upper part is a kind of buoy or floating chamber, in which the occupant has some freedom of motion for his head and arms. Inside the enlarged upper chamber it is proposed to place provisions and water.

THE NEW LIFE PRESERVER.
[Showing the hood open and closed.]

The upper portion is made of strong sailcloth, waterproofed and distended on a jointed cylindrical frame. Across the lowest ring a diaphragm is placed in which are two apertures for the legs, which are incased in waterproof pants and boots, covered with metallic rings in order to afford protection against fishes and the sharp rocks. These rings are made to fit one within the other when the dress is folded, so as to enable the device to be stowed in small space.

The top of the upper chamber is inclosed by a hood, in which a window is made. An air pipe is provided leading to a respirator fastened over the mouth of the occupant. An annular air chamber is provided, which keeps the upper part of the apparatus well out of the water.

Want an Eight-Hour Day.

The gravediggers are the latest trade to claim an eight-hour day. They complain that the hours of work at Willesden are no less than thirteen. We do not know how long it takes to dig a grave, but thirteen hours a day seems to point to an alarming mortality. In this case at all events the public will desire to see the hours of labor shortened as much as possible—preferably by the diminution in the demand for graves rather than by the increase in the supply of gravediggers. Moreover, the occupation, as Shakespeare shows us in "Hamlet," should be carried on in a leisurely and philosophical spirit, and this is impossible if the gravedigger is overworked. It will add a new pang to death if we know we are adding to the labors of an already overworked sexton. Philanthropists will all be cremated.—Westminster Budget.

Saw It at Last.

"One day," says an American, "I went into a bookshop in the Strand and asked for Hare's 'Walks in London.' In America the book is sold in one thick volume. The clerk brought it in two. 'Oh,' I said, as I looked at them, 'you part your 'Hare' in the middle, do you?' 'I, sir?' he said, with a bewildered look. 'Oh, no, sir!' I saw he didn't see the joke, so I didn't explain, but bought the books and went away. A week later I went to the same shop. As soon as the clerk saw me, he rushed from the back of the shop, laughing vociferously. 'Good!' he shouted, 'Capital! Part your "Hare" in the middle! That's capital, sir, capital!' "—Tit-Bits.

Battye Is All Right.

Trevor Battye, the naturalist, who was left last summer on the island of Kolguev, off the north coast of Russia, and about whose fate there was much anxiety in England, has reached Archangel in safety with his companions. He lived among the Samoyedes on the island till a Russian trader came, who transported him to the mainland.

Safety in Salt Water.

A man may float in salt water without moving his hands or feet if he has the presence of mind to throw his head back and allow the body to sink to the position which it will then naturally take.

Camels in Australia.

There are at present no fewer than 10,000 camels at work in Australia.

HUMOR OF THE WEEK

STORIES TOLD BY FUNNY MEN OF THE PRESS.

Many Odd, Curious, and Laughable Phases of Human Nature Graphically Portrayed by Eminent Word Artists of Our Own Day—A Budget of Fun.

Sprinkles of Spice.

Most people like to be called bad in a laughing kind of way.—Atchison Globe.

In Algiers when the people desire a new ruler they begin by taking a dey off.—Lowell Courier.

Coroner—And did the deceased leave no friends? All—No. He was an old bachelor.—Plain Dealer.

The butcher is no gambler, but he is always ready to stake the lucky boarding house keeper.—Siftings.

The politician who has been lost in the shuffle does not think much of the pack he has been with.—Picayune.

Politics are full of uncertainties. Today a man is on the stump and next week he may be all up a tree.—Boston Transcript.

Figg—Tell me, is there anything crooked about Gay? Fogg—I don't know, unless it is a corkscrew.—Boston Transcript.

Poet—I have here a little poem "To Phillys." Editor—Sorry, but there is no one on the staff by that name.—Syracuse Post.

"Your sealskin sacque is the finest I have ever seen." "Well, it ought to be, it was made from one of the educated seals."—Judge.

Stella—Just look at Miss Desplaine and Mr. Baldy over there! Miss Potter—Yes; a romance of the middle ages, so to speak.—Vogue.

Fogyduff—I have no money to spend in advertisements. Pacer—Of course you haven't, and that's just the reason.—Boston Transcript.

Supt. Byrnes is after the living pictures in New York, and they'll have all they can do to make a bare living.—Philadelphia Record.

Most men make a great fuss about doing the best they can. With a woman it's what she can't do that bothers her.—Adams Freeman.

Some men show remarkably good taste in their selection of ties until they put their necks into the matrimonial halter.—Boston Gazette.

Uncle—Tell me frankly, Fred, what is the amount of your debts? Fred—Oh, my dear uncle, just as much as you please.—Fliegende Blaetter.

The maiden smiled, as well she might,
For there beside her sat
A youth who owned in his own right
A sixteen-story flat.—Truth.

Clara—Dear me! Those toilet things I ordered haven't come. Maude—Then I don't suppose you'll have the face to go to the ball to-night.—Life.

First Burglar—Sh! There's a cop on the other side of the street! Second Burglar—Lay low, then! There ain't enough in this job to divide.—Judge.

"Don't talk to me about compulsory vaccination!" exclaimed the man who had his arm in a sling. "I'm sore on that subject."—Chicago Tribune.

"Japan says she proposes to demolish China," said Mr. Blykins. "She ought to have our servant girl," replied his wife, wearily.—Atlanta Constitution.

"My," said the bald-headed man, looking over the hairy heads of the football team, "how secure I would feel with a few Yale locks."—Adams Freeman.

In some parts of Kentucky ministers dare not preach from the Acts for fear the male members of their congregation may go off between them.—Richmond Dispatch.

Minnie—What do you understand by the term platonic affection? Mamie—It usually means that the young man feels that he cannot afford to marry.—Omaha Bee.

"Great reforms are seldom accomplished without bloodshed," was the consoling thought of the man who decided to do his own shaving.—Indianapolis Journal.

"Well, you are the first man I ever heard accuse Thimmins of being full of energy." "But he must be. He has been storing it up for years."—Indianapolis Journal.

McSwatters (in dime museum)—How much do you weigh with clothes on? Living Skeleton—Why, if I didn't have me togs on I wouldn't weigh anything.—Syracuse Post.

Peasant (who has just insured his farmhouse)—What would I get if my house should burn down next week? Agent—In all probability three or four years in prison.—Fliegende Blaetter.

"What became of that man who had twenty-seven medals for saving people from drowning?" Wharf Minder—He fell in one day when he had all of 'em on and the weight of 'em sunk him.—Answers.

Newlight—I see Prof. Briggs is quoted as saying that of the 80,000 ministers in this country about 50,000 could be dispensed with. Oldlight—Yes, and the church has decided that he is one of the 50,000.—New York Tribune.

Juniorus—The governor writes me in reply to my last letter asking for money that he is on the verge of giving up in despair. Sophomorocus—That's encouraging. My dad curtly informs me that he doesn't propose to give up at all.—Buffalo Courier.

Mrs. Wickwire—Did you read about that man who has been married for the third time to the woman he has been divorced from twice already? Mr. Wickwire—Yes. Seems to me that a man of that sort ought to take some sort of treatment for the habit.—Indianapolis Journal.

A Mysterious Light.

A strange light has been annoying residents between Melrose and Ashbourne, Pa., for two weeks past. The light, as described by persons who ever having seen and pursued it, has the appearance of a powerful flame. It apparently rises from a quarry, any time between 9 p. m. and 3 a. m. After developing until it is large enough to travel alone, the ignus fatuus moves off.

You Have Met Them.

Chickens and turkeys attain the age of ten years. The duration of a goose's life is fifty years.

PIPER HEIDSIECK PLUG TOBACCO
CHAMPAGNE FLAVOR

Consumers of chewing tobacco who are willing to pay a little more than the price charged for the ordinary trade tobaccos, will find this brand superior to all others.
BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.

DR. MOTT'S PENNYROYAL PILLS

The only safe, sure and reliable Female Pill ever offered to Ladies, especially recommended to married Ladies. Beware of pills put up in tin boxes as they are dangerous. Ask for DR. MOTT'S PENNYROYAL PILLS and take no other. Send for circular. Price $1.00 per box, 6 boxes for $5.00. DR. MOTT'S CHEMICAL CO., Cleveland, Ohio.
Fisher & Son, Auburn, Ind.

FITS!
Brace Up! Don't Lose Courage!!
Your disease is not incurable because your Physician has given you up, and you have not received any benefit from the medicine you have tried, is not any reason you cannot be cured. We can positively cure all kinds of Fits, Epileptic, Convulsion or Spasmodic. WE GUARANTEE A POSITIVE AND PERMANENT CURE IN ALL CASES. We have cured thousands, many cases of long standing, and given up by Doctors as incurable. In our "Allen's Fits Cure" you will find a medicine that has never failed to effect a speedy cure. We back our guarantee with an offer of $100 to any person we cannot cure. Highest Bank references furnished on application.
1 Qt. Bottle, $3.00. 2 Qt. $5.00.
ALLEN MEDICAL CO.,
Washington & Water Sts., BOSTON, MASS.

LADIES
Suffering from Retarded, Suppressed or Painful Menstruation and all irregularities of like nature, will find our FAMALE PILLS an infallible cure. They are entirely safe and can always be relied upon for speedy relief. We have yet to hear of a case where they have failed to produce the desired result. A box should be kept on hand at all times to provide for emergencies. Correspondence Confidential.
By mail, with full directions, securely sealed, $2.00 per box.
ALLEN MEDICAL CO.,
Washington & Water Sts., BOSTON, MASS.

Every Woman
Sometimes needs a reliable monthly regulating medicine.
Dr. PEAL'S PENNYROYAL PILLS,
Are prompt, safe and certain in result. The genuine (Dr. Peal's) never disappoint. Sent anywhere $1.00. Peal Medicine Co., Cleveland, O.
Sold by Fischler & Son., Auburn.

General or local Agents. $75 a week. Exclusive territory. The Rapid Dish Washer. Washes all the dishes for a family in one minute. Washes, rinses and dries them without touching the hands. You push the button, the machine does the rest. Bright, polished dishes and cheerful wives. No scalded fingers, assisted handsor clothing. No broken dishes, no mess. Cheap durable, warranted. Circulars free.
W. P. HARRISON & CO., Clerk No. 13, Columbus, O.

Sex-ine Pills

RESTORE LOST VIGOR
Before and After Using.
New discovery. Will brace you up in a week. Sold with a WRITTEN GUARANTEE to Cure Nervous Debility, Loss of Sexual Power in either sex, Involuntary Emissions from any cause. If neglected, such troubles lead to consumption or insanity. $1.00 per box by mail, 6 boxes for $5.00. With every $5 order we give a written guarantee to cure or refund the money. Address PEAL MEDICINE CO., Cleveland, Ohio.
Sold by Fischler & Son, Auburn.

5,000 ACRES CENTRAL MICHIGAN FARMS
Near Saginaw and Bay City. Soil clay loam, hardwood timber and free from swamps. Railway facilities; schools and markets adjacent. Price, $6 to $8 per acre, on easy payments. Satisfaction assured. Practical farmers and parents who wish to give their sons a start in life, can find No Better Land in Michigan. Maps and Circulars free. JACOB SCHWARTZ or WM. M. TENNANT, SAGINAW, E. S., MICH.

RESTORED MANHOOD.
DR. MOTT'S NERVERINE PILLS

The great remedy for nervous prostration and all nervous diseases of the generative organs of either sex, such as Nervous Prostration, Failing or Lost Manhood, Impotency, Nightly Emissions, Youthful Errors, Mental Worry, excessive use of Tobacco or Opium, which lead to Consumption and Insanity. With every $5 order we give a written guarantee to cure or refund the money. Sold at $1.00 per box, 6 boxes for $5.00. DR. MOTT'S CHEMICAL COMPANY, Cleveland, Ohio.
BEFORE AND AFTER USING.
Sold by Fischler & Son, Auburn.

PATENTS
Caveats, and Trade-Marks obtained and all Patent business conducted for MODERATE FEES. OUR OFFICE IS OPPOSITE U. S. PATENT OFFICE and we can secure patent in less time than those remote from Washington.
Send model, drawing or photo., with description. We advise, if patentable or not, free of charge. Our fee not due till patent is secured.
A PAMPHLET, "How to Obtain Patents," with cost of same in the U. S. and foreign countries sent free. Address,
C. A. SNOW & CO.
OPP. PATENT OFFICE, WASHINGTON, D. C.

FARMERS BANK.

Capital Stock.--
--$40,000.00.

Transacts a general banking business. Interest paid on time deposits by agreement. Collections receive careful attention. Business solicited.

ALBERT ROBBINS, Cashier.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

Capital and Surplus, $60,000.00

Certificates of deposits issued, drawing interest 4 per cent per annum, if left 6 months. County and town orders bought. Money to loan.

C. A. O. McCLELLAN, President.
CHARLES McCLELLAN, Cashier.

Auburn Iron Works,

REPAIRS

All kinds of Machinery, Boilers, Engines Saw Mills, and

BUILDERS FOR THE TRADE:

Pony Saw Mills, Edgers, Rip Saws, Swing Saws, Mounted Picket Mills, Brass Castings Brass Fittings, Pipe and Pipe Fittings, Furnished. All Work Warranted First-Class in All Respects.

☞ Shop One-half mile south of Wabash Depot, AUBURN, IND.

WANTED:--Elm and Oak Hub Timber, by Zimmerman Mfg. Co., Auburn, Ind. Inquire at their office for dimensions. 1-4

TREASURY DEPARTMENT.

Office of Comptroller of the Currency

WASHINGTON, December 19th, 1894.

WHEREAS, by satisfactory evidence presented to the undersigned it has been made to appear that The "First National Bank of Auburn," in the Town of Auburn, in the County of DeKalb and State of Indiana, has complied with all the provisions of the "Act of Congress to enable National Banking Associations to extend their corporate existence and for other purposes," approved July 12th, 1882.

NOW THEREFORE, I, James H. Eckels, Comptroller of the Currency, do hereby certify that "The First National Bank of Auburn," in the Town of Auburn, in the County of DeKalb and State of Indiana, is authorized to have succession for the period specified in its amended articles of association, namely until close of business on December 19, 1914.

In Testimony whereof witness my hand and seal of office this 19th day of December, 1894.

JAMES H. ECKELS.
(SEAL) Comptroller of the Currency.
No. 2238 52-3

Fort Wayne and Jackson Railroad Company.

The Annual Meeting of the stockholders of The Fort Wayne and Jackson Railroad Company, for the election of Directors and such other business as may be brought before it, will be held on the 25th of January, 1895, 10 a.m., at the office of the Company Jackson, Michigan.

The Transfer Books will close on January 12th and remain closed until January 25th.

52-3 R. G. ROLSTON, Secretary.

The New Bond Issue.

Republicans are blaming Cleveland for issuing bonds. But Harrison and his secrtary of the treasury, Charles Foster, started to do the same thing, but finally waited and let the new administration do it. The following is Foster's order, the correctness of which he has lately admitted in a published letter:

"TREASURY DEPARTMENT,
OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY,
WASHINGTON, D.C., Feb.20, 93.

"To the Chief of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing:

"SIR—You are hereby authorized and directed to prepare designs for the 3 per cent. bonds provided in the senate amendment to the sundry civil bill now pending. The denominations which should first receive attention are $100 and $1,000 and $10,000 of the registered bonds. This authority is given in advance of the enactment in view of pressing contingencies and you are directed to hasten the preparation of the designs and plates in every possible manner. I enclose a memorandum for your guidance in preparing the scrip for the body of the bond.

Respectfully yours,
"CHARLES FOSTER, Secretary."

The BEST Boys' Outfits in the World

are offered to the public by THE HUB—Chicago's greatest clothing store! Made of strictly all-wool cloth—well fitting and strong—we can positively guarantee them the Best Bargains for the Money ever given by anybody.

The Hub's Famous Head-To-Foot Outfits

For Boys from 5 to 15 years old.

consist of One Double-Breasted Coat, Two Pairs of Knee Pants, a Stanley Cap, made to match the suit, and One Pair of Shoes, made of solid leather very neat, yet as strong as a brick, and the price of the entire "Head-To-Foot" Outfit is

Only $5.00

Tens of thousands sold to every state of the Union, and everyone is delighted with them. You'll be pleased, too, if you'll let us send you one—all charges prepaid to any part of the U. S. for $5.75, or C. O. D. with privilege of examination before payment—if a deposit of $1.00 is sent with the order.

Samples of Cloth and 60-page Illustrated Catalogue telling you all about the greatest line of Men's and Boys' Clothing, Furnishing Goods, Hats, Shoes for Men and Women, and Ladies' Cloaks and Furs, sent free and postage paid.

THE HUB

N. W. Cor. State and Jackson Sts.,
CHICAGO, ILL.

The Hub has no Branch Stores Anywhere.

THE AUBURN COURIER

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY.

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, postoffice as second-class matter.

THURSDAY....JANUARY 3, 1895.

To Subscribers.

A few have answered our earnest request to settle up the arrears of subscription due, and we feel sure that many of them could, who have not. If a man cannot do it, we can forgive him and extend the time But the greater number could raise these little sums if they tried as hard as we are obliged to, when we go to pay our own bills. Let us get even, or as nearly as possibly, early in the new year. If you cannot come here, send it, or such part as you can. This is not meant for those but little in arrears, but for those who are back two or three or more years. In all New Year reforms, the COURIER should be kindly remembered—we think.

A CORRESPONDENT of the filthy "Kansas City Sun," was shot at Paducah, Ky., last week, by a man he had slandered in an article in that foul paper. People there seem to appreciate decency in newspapers, and the assailant was not arrested.

J. C. BURROWS was last week elected by the legislature of Michigan to fill out the unexpired four years of the late Senator Stockbridge in the U. S. senate. Burrows is the intelligent man who made a speech at Michigan City in 1892, under the belief that he was in Michigan. The present incumbent, McMillan, will probably get the full six year term and succeed himself.

The Indiana Battle Ship.

The Indianapolis News is now working to secure a subscription from citizens of Indiana, to purchase a silver set and a library for the new U. S. battle ship, "Indiana," one of the finest war ships ever launched. It is the custom of each state, when a battle ship is named for it, to get it such an outfit, and Indiana should not be behind. Capt. Kuhlman will receive any subscriptions by citizens of Auburn, and we hope to see a good contribution sent from here. A book with the name of each donor printed in it will go with the library and be kept in the ship in remembrance of our people's liberality.

The Eastern Stars.

This order auxiliary to the Masons, gave a public installation last Friday evening in the masonic rooms. Several invited guests enjoyed the occasion with the brethen and sisters of the two orders. The ceremonies were very fine, and under the management of the retiring worthy Matron, Mrs. D. Y. Husselman, were very impressive. She has made herself master of her work. She is succeeded by Mrs. J. Y. W. McClellan. After the ceremony had closed J. J. Van-Auken announced, that there would be a very enjoyable social feature to follow And this proved true, for a fine lunch was served by the ladies of the "Star" and all pronounced it as grand a success as their conduct of the ceremonies had been, and some one remarked, "Long may the "Stars" shine, brighter and brighter as the years go by.

Teachers' Institute.

The teachers of Jackson township held their fourth institute at No. 7, known as the Boots' school house, Saturday, Dec. 22. The teachers had been invited to hold an institute at that place by the school, and the large attendance showed that the people of that district are interested in the work of the schools. At an early hour pupils, patrons and teachers began to assemble so that by the hour of opening the house was nearly filled. At the usual time for opening the president called the institute to order, and H G. Provines opened the institute by scripture reading. The president then announced that the institute was ready to begin the order of work as previously assigned. Tompkin's Philosophy of Teaching was taken up and discussed by H. G. Provines and S. M. High. The subject, though difficult, was handled in a creditable manner. This subject occupied all of the forenoon session. The institute then adjourned for dinner. The patrons had prepared a bountiful repast for the occasion, and two large tables were filled to overflowing with tempting viands, to which all did justice. After dinner a short time was spent in social chat. The institute was again called to order and began the regular order of work. History was discussed by J. H. Farver and John Moudy, in an able manner which showed that the gentlemen had given the subject some thought Supt. Merica being present, he took up the subject of reading and compared and contrasted the old time method and idea of reading with the modern methods and ideas, on which he made some very strong points. By this time it was growing late, and after returning a vote of thanks to the patrons and pupils for their generous entertainment, the inititute adjourned. In conversation with a number of the patrons after adjournment, the all expressed themselves as highly pleased with the work of the institute, and all thought the day had been spent both pleasantly and profitably. Also a number said that they were going to make an effort to attend more of these teachers' meetings in the future. *

Is It?

Is that excruciating agony pleasant to you? Surely not. Your rheumatism, gout, neuralgia, etc., will be quickly cured by Infallible Scotch Cure (just introduced in America.) It never fails Ask your druggist for it, and accept no substitute. For sale by Fischler & Son.

1894.

DOINGS OF THE YEAR.

A Synopsis Giving a Few of the Chief Items in the Courier in the Past Year.

AUGUST 30. Teachers Institute here and town full of bright young men and women. Supt. Merica has the best institutes in the state. M. E. Krontz injured in a runaway. J. E. Rose and family attend the Rose reunion at Niles, O. Coxey gets $125 from people who need it more than he does, for making a speech here. The Rifles are paid by Mr King.

SEPTEMBER 6. No church services Sunday on account of diphtheria. Ft. Wayne races beat the world's record for trotting and pacing, Robert J. paced in 2:03¾, and Alix trotted in 2:05¼. Mrs T. H. Sprott and children visit in Ohio. Morris Widney and Bert Butler, who sing for "Cyclone" Bennett are home for a few days. Mrs. A. C. Wilson and daughter goes to Little Rock, SEPT. 13. Butler's street fair described. Matheny & Gerke sell their drugstore to John Fischler & Son. Charles DeeWan and Mary Young and Frank Campbell and Sennie Husselman married.

SEPT. 20. Little Martha, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cal. Husselman accidentally killed. H. E. Shilling, of Concord committs suicide. Hugh Sexton fell from a pony and was killed. Butler Record sold to L. H. Higley. A number of ladies assemble and help Mrs. J. R Moody celebrate her 58th birthday.

SEPT. 27. Report of meeting of 11th Ind. battery here Sept. 20. Laura, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Baxter died Sept. 21. Miss Avery, Western Union operator, died Sept. 23. Mrs Rebecca Maurer died. Mrs, Peter Werrick, at Hartville, Mo., died. Tom Taggart, state chairman makes a call on the COURIER to talk over old times. G. W. Reed moves to Michigan.

OCTOBER 4. Obituaries of Samuel Shoup and Mrs. Maria Erehart. Politics getting lively. The COURIER devotes a good deal of space to instrctions about voting. Also enlightens its opponets on political questions.

OCT. 11. Greatest business change Auburn ever had. The big Kiblinger factory passes into the hands of W. H. McIntyre and S. C. Snyder, two able successful business men, both of whom are experienced in the business. It was a big deal and the COURIER predicts unbounded success. Our Butler correspondent visits the home of his childhood in Ohio, and writes an interesting letter about it. Holmes Link died at Chicago, Oct. 5. The Houlton's children of DeKalb's first settler, have a reunion at the old farm home. Waterloo fair this week

OCT. 18. Mrs. L. B. Fretz died at Syracuse. Geo. Hazzard's latest scheme at Tacoma, Wash., ventilated. Walter Britton and Mary Pairan married. Mrs. G. W. St. Clair Branch Co., Mich., here, She is a daughter of the late Henry Lindorfer. Flora Hoffman and Nellie Barns home from attending state C. E. meeting at Indianapolis.

OCT. 25. Eugene Altenberg and Hattie Casebeer married. Home will be Indianapolis. Frank Jones and Mary Loveland married. Our G A. R. captured Monday, by the Garrett Post. Bachtel and Madden make a big ditch to straighten Cedar Creek. All our buggy factories send delegates to the national metting of carriage makers at Philadelphia. Mrs. Roxana Davenport comes home from Tacoma. John Pepple home from Texas for a few days.

NOVEMBER 1. Madden and Bachtel are straightening Cedar Creek The Ladies' Literary Club go to Angola and are royally entertained there by Mrs Lida Leasure and Mrs. Alzein Scott. Ralph Moody goes to Indianapolis to get the state ballots. John Pepple starts back to Texas. The Michael Treesh family have another big annual meeting This time at the home of John Miser. Henry Fulk and C. P. Houser report second crop of fruit. Nora Sexton married.

Nov. 8. Great display of roosters etc., in COURIER. Couldn't help it, as it has become a habit. True we were beaten at the election, But we pick our flint and try it again in '95. Lutherans of North District Conference meet next Monday in St. Marks Church Auburn. Minerva Club of Waterloo entertained by Mrs. F. N Beidler. A box being prepared to send to fire sufferers in Wisconsin. Gentlemen of the Presbyterian church fed a multitude at their social.

Nov. 15. Mrs. Angie Kuhlman brought home from Albion for burial. Morris Widney home from a tour in which he sang for prohibition speakers. We publish the county and state vote as usual. Tramp stole an Auburn lady's umbrella, and she scared him nearly to death, and got it back. E. R. Shoemaker explains the important vote which is an interesting historical fact.

Nov 22, We change Judges, Mr. Penfield taking his seat, and Judge Powers retiring. Rev. Rihbany a Syrian married at the Lutheran parsonage by Rev. J. D. Brosy. The Kiblinger Co., move to their new office. We change Sheriffs, Stroh going in and Ralston out.

Nov. 29. We give a record of the Jackson trustee contest, resulting in Dancer 1 more; McNamara, 5 more, and Mr. Provines remaining as before. Judge Penfield at Columbia to try the South Whitley bank case. Mrs. Luther Hoffman died last Friday. Fin. Gibson moves to Angola. A. B. Richards goes to Indianapolis to grand lodge of Oddfellows.

(The dates of the December numbers are so recent that we omit them.)

Bankrupt Store

Here We Are!

Four Doors North of Kruger's Grocery.

New Goods, Low Prices.

Goods that Suit the Times.

—WE HAVE—

HARDWARE,

TINWARE,

TABLE LINEN,

NOTIONS, ETC.

In Fact, Everything Kept in a Firs class

Notion Store

Come and see our Goods, and learn how very low you can buy almost anything you want.

Will cost you nothing to look at them. We want to make your acquaintance.

A. W. Bates & Son

AUBURN.

You don't have to go outside to smoke; you need no poultice on your neck to get a good "draw," nor anything to "kill the taste" when through smoking a Receipt.

COURT.

Monday, Wm. VanWagoner was tried for stealing two guns and two sets of billiard balls from Sherman Knisely, a saloon keeper at Ashley. He is the man that Ex Sheriff Ralston got over in Ohio about a month ago. It was a hard fought trial. Andy Baxter defended and Mr. Roby assisted Mr. West in the prosecution. The jury was sent out about nine o'clock in the evening and soon decided to give him two years in the pen.

Music Lessons.

I will take a limited number of pupils on the violin, mandolin, banjo, guitar and cornet. Terms reasonable. I am agent for these instruments and can get them sor you at the very lowest prices. Also repair instruments of all kinds and guarantee satisfaction. Those desiring to take instructions, please call on or address me at Auburn, Ind. T. N WILCOX. 52tf

CORRESPONDENCE

SUMMIT.

Mrs. C. Oberlin has been under the Doctor's care the past week.

A. Franks was home over Sunday with his family. A Franks works in Auburn.

Wm. Betts and wife visited his sister, Mrs. Masses near Hamilton Sunday last.

Born to the wife of L. Chapman Dec. 28 a girl.

Protracted meeting commenced at Barkers church last Monday evening, January 7.

M. P Foster went to Auburn last Wednesday evening to hear the Oberlin Glee Club.

Henry Lawson and family were the guests of Wesley Zimmerman and family Sunday.

CORUNNA.

G. H. Miles has added to his entire stock a beautiful shetland pony.

Rev. J. A. Sumwalt commenced a series of meetings at Wayne Center last Sunday night.

We just learned that a cold wave is approaching, so we will lay aside our quill and get in a lot of fuel, hey?

Eld. S. C. Hummel is assisting Eld Frank Minnick in a series of meeting at the Christian church at this place. We hope their efforts may be crowded with success.

Gerry Rudolph whom we mentioned in our items sometime ago as being hurt in the railroad yards in Chicago, has so far recovered that he has returned to the windy city.

Awarded
Highest Honors—World's Fair

DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER

MOST PERFECT MADE.

A pure Grape Cream of Tartar Powder. Free from Ammonia, Alum or any other adulterant

40 YEARS THE STANDARD.

Free book to weak men, box 58, Toledo, O.

One Fourth off Sale! One Fourth off Sale!

G. H. YESBERA'S

Great Slaughter Sale of Clothing and Furnishings FOR JANUARY.

Commencing Jan. 5, I will make a discount of One-Fourth off on my entire stock of Ready Made Clothing and Furnishings, Overcoats, Ulsters, Mackintoshes, Men's, Youths' and Children's Clothing.

A CHANCE OF A LIFE TIME.

Improve it! The largest stock in the county to select from; no old goods, but every thing new and fresh, and going at 25 cents off of every dollar. You cannot afford to miss it, for all of our goods are in season, and now is the time you need them. Remember the date,

JAN. 5 to JAN. 31.

Come while we have your size in a Suit or Overcoat. And don't lose track of the fact that our terms are STRICTLY CASH.

Good Cash for Goods, and Good Goods for Cash.

G. H. YESBERA,

The Leading Clothier and Furnisher.

RUPTURE

Of Men, Women and Children permanently cured in 30 days, without pain or slightest inconvenience by the Fidelity Method. Every case guaranteed. Patient need not pay a dollar until completely cured The truss discarded forever. Over 8,000 cases cured in the last five years. Consultation free. Consul

J. B. CASEBEER, M. D.

Their Authorized Physician

Office opposite Swineford House, Main Street, Auburn, Indiana.

We understand that Dr. O. F. Rudolph and family will move to Los Angeles Cal, in the early spring. The doctor will leave an extensive practice which we hope some good energetic physician will obtain. This is a snap and no mistake.

BUTLER.

James Beaver, of Elkhart, visited over Sunday with Butler friends.

Our people have been very busy the past week harvesting ice.

Russell Stevens is confined to his home by serious illness.

Mrs. Worth's little son Ray, is seriously sick.

School opened Monday with usual interest.

The writer with wife and little daughter took in the sights in Toledo New Years.

One of George Deems' little girls was buried on New Years day. Her death was caused by sore throat.

J. M. Lingenfelter, superintendent of the M. E Sunday school, was prevented from attending Sunday by sickness.

Emlin Campbell and Frank Fanning returned to Ann Arbor the first of the week.

A new store will be opened in the Doshins building in the near future, by J. W. Delinel, of Grand Rapids, Mich.

A new lady boarder has taken up a permanent residence in the family of Oviant Campbell.

Curtis Craun has purchased C. A. Newman's art gallery at St. Joe, and will commence business there in a few days.

A Levy & Company are offering their entire stock at cost, Are they going to retire?

C F. Pinchin has purchased a vacant lot on East Green street, and will start a chicken farm.

A son of Wesley Wyckoff, living two and a half miles east of our city, died last week, caused by a relapse from the measles.

The holidays have passed and many of our citizens have enjoyed visits to different parts of the country, and many of Butler's former residents have enjoyed visits with our people.

A racket on the ice on the Wabash resorvoir among a party of boys, was aired in Justice Petter's court last week A fine of 1 cent was imposed on the offender, but it carried about 1200 cents in costs with it for company.

A neat little surprise awaited the attendants at the M. E and Christian churches last Sunday evening. Rev. Cain, of the M. E. church filled the Christian church pulpit, and Rev. Laird, that of the M. E. church. The M E. friends went home smiling. We have not heard from the other church.

The writer visited Angola and vicinity on Christmas, among the places visited was a point on Long Lake known as "Hog-Back." It is a long, narrow elevation not unlike in its general contour to the back of a hog. It rises abruptly from the water to a height of perhaps seventy five feet, and is covered with a dense growth of small scrub oak trees The top is very narrow and the descent on either side very precipitous, while either end has a long, gradual ascent The place has become quite a noted resort for pleasure seekers, and was visited by many people from long distances last summer. The vicinity has some other attractions besides nice boating and good fishing, among which is another very high mound, rising perhaps a hundred feet above the surrounding country, from whose summit about a dozen lakes may be seen in different directions. A new highway has been opened that climbs well up its steep, but the summit is only reached by leaving the highway and picking one's way among the small trees that cover its sides. The view from the summit is grand indeed, and well rewards one for the difficulty of its steep ascent. This lake is generally known as "Hog Back Lake," and is one of a chain extending from Pleasant Lake a distance of about nine miles, all of which is navigable for small boats, and affords unusual attractions to sportsmen with gun or rod.

CONCORD.

Will Sheldon entertained company from Garrett Saturday.

F. Buchanan and wife drove over to Hicksville Friday.

Mrs. Maxwell, of near Spencerville, is the guest of Mrs. Sheldon.

John Milliman and family have returned from visiting relatives in Hicksville.

George Johnson has bought his bought his brother, J. M. Johnson's property.

S. F. Lutz and Tell Elson were in St. Joe Saturday.

Mrs. Emiline Simonton, of Middleton was the guest of Mrs. Bone Friday.

Richard Ervin is gradually growing weaker.

George Johnson will shortly leave for Warsaw.

Wallace Warson came home from Syracuse last Wednesday.

John Zimmerman and wife, of Auburn are guests of R Ervin.

Romeo Huffman and Lena Melton's wedding was a quiet affair.

Henry Baker has purchased a new safe said to be burglar and fire proof.

Nora Harris is visiting her grandmother, Mrs. Baughman.

Mrs E. Baker and Mrs. D. Bone was visiting relatives in Auburn Wednesday.

Mrs. D. D. Dove and children of Spencerville, were the guests of her mother, Mrs. Hay, New years.

Rev. W. W. Lineberry is holding a series of meetings with a large attendance.

Mrs. Pence ead two strokes of parslysis on Newyears day. The first was slight, but the second was severe.

John Deetz and wife, of west Ohio, are the guests of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs C. Smith.

Nathan Johnson went up to Warsaw last week and purchased two Jersey cows.

Mrs. Mansfield gave a Newyears dinner to their family. Her mother is almost 80 years of age They were all present except Mrs. Phillips, of Chicago.

Some of Mollie Buchanan's are almost always sick just before some good entertainment will occur in Auburn. Buchanan can you not tumble to the racket?

Sunday School officers for the ensuing year are, J. B. Draggoo, Supt; Mrs. F Buchanan, Ass't Supt; C. H Gifford, Secretary; A. High, Treas; Nelia Gifford, Organist; Librarians, Cora High and Ada Cline; Chorister, Mrs. Seberts. Retiring officers, Hattie Draggoo, Mamie Baker, Flossie Buchanan, and Alice Draggoo.

HORSEMEN

SAVE YOUR STOCK BY USING THE CELEBRATED

Morris' English Stable Powder
For Loss of Appetite, Constipation, Rough Hair, Hide Bound, and all Diseases of the Blood. Price, 25c. per package.

Morris' English Stable Liniment
Cures Lameness, Cuts, Bruises, Scratches, Galls, Sweeney, Spavins, Splint, Curb, etc. Price, 50c. per bottle.

Morris' English Worm Powder
Warranted to cure any case of Worms in Horses, Cattle, Sheep or Dogs, also Pin Worms in Colts. Price, 50c. per box.

Craft's Distemper and Cough Cure
A Specific for Distemper, Coughs, Colds, Heaves, Pink Eye, and all Catarrhal diseases of horses. Price, 50c. $1.00 per bottle.

Wells' Hoosier Poultry Powder
Makes Hens Lay, cures Cholera, Gapes and Roup, and keeps poultry healthy. Price, 25c. per package.

Every remedy guaranteed satisfactory or money refunded. Our new book, "The Horse: His Diseases and Treatment," mailed free.
Wells Medicine Co., Lafayette, Ind.

For Sale by, Fischle & Son., Auburn.

©

is stamped in the best watch cases made. It is the trade mark of the Keystone Watch Case Company, of Philadelphia, the oldest, largest and best-known factory in the world—1500 employees, capacity 2000 cases daily. Its products are sold by all jewelers. It makes the celebrated Jas. Boss Filled Watch Cases, now fitted with the only bow (ring) which cannot be pulled off the case—the

Non-pull-off

A WATCH CASE OPENER SENT FREE.

You make no mistake when you take DeWitt's Little Early Risers for biliousness, dyspepsia or headache, because these little pills cure them. Robbins & McCord sell them.

Most people cannot afford to experiment. They want immediate relief. That's why they use One Minute Cough Cure. Sold by Robbins & McCord.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

The name One Minute Cough Cure suggests a medicine that relieves at once, and quickly cures. Its use proves it. For sale by Robbins & McCord.

Take a dose of DeWitt's Little Early Risers just for the good they will do you. These little pills are good for indigestion, good for headache, good for liver complaint, good for constipation. They are good. Sold by Robbins & McCord.

It cures piles, it cures obstinate sores, chapped hands, wounds It does this quickly. Is there any good reason why you should not use DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve? For sale by Robbins & McCord.

T. F. Anthony, ex-postmaster of Promise City, Iowa, says: "I bought one bottle of 'Mystic Cure' for Rheumatism and two doses of it did me more good than all the medicine I ever took." Sold by Robbins & McCord, druggists, Auburn. 41tf

English Spavin Liniment removes all hard, soft or callonsed lumps and blemishes from horses, blood spavins, curbs, splints, sweeney, ring-bone, stifles, sprains, all swollen throats, coughs, etc. Save $50 by use of one bottle, Warranted the most wonderful blemish cure ever known. Sold by Robbins and McCord druggists Auburn. 34tf

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder World's Fair Highest Award.

PILES! PILES! PILES!

Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment will cure Blind, Bleeding and Itching Piles when all other Ointments have failed. It absorbs the tumors, allays the itching at once, acts as a poultice, gives instant relief. Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment is prepared only for Piles and itching of the private parts, and nothing else Every box is warranted. Sold by druggists, or sent by mail on receipt of price, 50c. and $1.00 per box WILLIAMS MFG CO., Prop's, Cleveland, O. Sold on a guarantee by Mathews & Gerke.

Low Rates to Chicago.

Account of National Cycle Exhibition in Chicago, January 7, to 12, 1895, reduced rate tickets to Chicago and return over the Lake Shore R'y, will be sold Jan 4, to 12, on the certificate plan. Good to return until Jan 15, 1895. 1-2

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder
Awarded Gold Medal Midwinter Fair, San Francisco.

Lion COFFEE

A DELICIOUS DRINK

SOLD ONLY IN 1½ LB PACKAGES

A BEAUTIFUL CARD IN EVERY PACKAGE

MANY FINE PREMIUMS GIVEN FREE TO DRINKERS OF LION COFFEE

ELECTRIC TELEPHONE

Sold outright, no rent, no royalty Adapted to City, Village or Country Needed in every home, shop, store and office. Greatest convenience and best seller on earth Agents make from $5 to $30 per day. One in a residence means a sale to all the neighbors. Fine instruments, no toys, works anywhere, any distance. Complete, ready for use when shipped Can be put up by any one, never out of order, no repairing, lasts a lifetime. Warranted. A money maker Write W. P. Harrison & Co., Clerk 10, Columbus O

JAPANESE MANHOOD

Treatment quickly and forever cures Emissions, Drains, Impotency, Varicocele, Self-Abuse and all resulting evils. No C. O. D. or quack schemes. Sealed Sexual Book Free if you mention this paper and describe your case. Address Japan Medical Company, Toledo, O.

BISHOP & LACKEY

Our Great January

HOUSEKEEPING SALE!

COMMENCES

Saturday Jan 12

No thrifty housekeeper can afford to let this sale pass witnout securing some of the many bargains offered.

MARKED REDUCTIONS

All through our immense stock for this sale

BISHOP & LACKEY,

Leading Merchants, Auburn, Ind.

SHULL'S CASH SHOE STORE

Leather Boots, Rubber Boots, Felt Boots,

Best Line in Auburn

Men's Shoes Women's Shoes Children's Shoes
Men's Shoes Women's Shoes Children's Shoes

We have never had such a Line to offer before. Don't fail to see them- Prices lower than ever.

THE CASH SHOE STORE

OP. BISHOP & LACKEY'S.

Spring Curry Comb

Clock Spring Blade. Soft as a Brush. Fits every Curve. The Only Perfect Comb. Used by U. S. Army and by Barnum and Forepaugh Circuses, and Leading Horsemen of the World. Ask your Dealer for It. Sample mailed post paid 25 cents.

See our name on the handle. SPRING CURRY COMB CO., 104 Lafayette St., South Bend, Indiana.

ADMINISTRATOR'S SALE
Of Henry Wartensleben Estate.

I will offer for sale at Public Auction at the late residence in Auburn, on Thursday, January 24th, 1895,

commencing at 10 o'clock a. m. the following personal property belonging to decendent

A lot of Carpenter and Uphdster tools, Household goods, including cook and heating stoves, Carpet, Chairs, Tables, Couches, Upholstered furniture, Bureau, Stand, Bedstead, Mattress and many other things not herein mentioned, Iron Kettle, Hand cart, Wheel barrow, a number of Painter's ladders, including step ladders, Garden tools, including Daisy plow, Grind stone, Sausage grinder and stuffer etc. etc.

TERMS: All sums of $5 and under, cash, On sums over $5 a credit of 6 months with approved security, without interest if paid when due. If not paid when due 6 per cent from date and attorney's fees. No property to be removed until the conditions of the sale are complied with.

JACOB WALBORN, Administrator.

Notice of Final Settlement of Estate

Notice is hereby given to all persons interested in the estate of Mary A. Gragg, deceased, to appear in the DeKalb Circuit Court, held at Auburn, Indiana, on the 28th day of January, 1895, and show cause, if any, why my Final Settlement Accounts with the estate of said decedent should not be approved; and said heirs and all others, interested are notified to then and there make proof of heirship or claim and receive their distributive shares.

Witness my name this 7th day of January, 1895.

WILSON S. DANCER, Administrator.
J. E. & J. H. ROSS, Attorneys for Estate.

CALL FOR TOWN ORDERS,

Upon presentation I will pay all outstanding Municipal Orders up to and including number 465, dated July 17th 1893. Interest will stop January 3, 1895.

CHAS. H. G. JONES, Town Treasurer.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

"Shugers Special"

Elegant Finish! High Grade!

Light Weight. Great Speed maker. No back Numbers.

"Up To Date!" - 1895.

Manufactured at Coldwater, Michigan

CORY SHUGERS, Agt.
Auburn, - - Indiana.

Business. One of the leading Business Colleges of the country is located at Fayette, O. Its Actual Business rooms are marvels of beauty. It is superior in advantages to the city business colleges, while the expenses is only one half or one-third as great. Its courses are thorough; its methods the best, and its graduates SUCCEED. It receives the praise of every student who enters it. Do not delay but act. Write for catalogue to the president of

J. E. DODDS, College, Fayette, Ohio.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

LOCAL NEWS.

See the news on inside pages

Sealed book to men free, box 52, Toledo, O.

Harry Henry is again at home.

Smoke the K. & B. ten-cent cigar.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Irwin, of Union Chapel, Sunday night, a girl.

Dr. Johnston, dentist, has the new method of filling teeth without pain, as well as painless extraction of teeth.

A new kind of T can be had at Neff & Weeks only. It is Royal Satsuma and sells for 50 cents per pound.

Irwin and Lutz of Union Chapel, are in the wood cutting business. They have contracted to cut 100 cords this winter.

MARRIED:—by G. W. Woodcox, at his residence at St. Joe, Jan. 6, 1895 Mr. B. F. Greist and Kittie Ashelman, both of Newville.

Carnahan & Simons are keeping the new Lake Shore stockyards hot. They shipped two carloads of hogs and sheep last week.

T T T T T T

Royal Satsuma is a new tea and is for sale only by Neff & Weeks. Try it. 50 cents per pound.

FOR SALE:—I have two Fire and Burglar Proof Safes, Hall's Patent, either of which I will sell cheap and on terms to suit the purchaser. Call on or address,

CHAS. M. BROWN, Auburn, Ind.

Joseph Johnson, of Avilla, has moved to Auburn and gone into partnership with C C. Walters, in the livery business. He appears to be a good business man, and we hope to see the new firm flourish.

They said he was insane to steal cigars in broad daylight, but when it was found they were Kessler Bros.' Bill Heads no one questioned his sound judgment.

INSURANCE AGENCY:—People desiring good insurance should remember that Geo. Lanning has an office at the Davis Hardware store, and works some of the very best companies in the country. Good farm risks taken. Call on him. 32tf

John Harris at the Junction has had a big business in the jobbing oyster trade so far. But one day last week, they took a jump of ten cents a gallon, more than the week before, and in a few days later went up another ten cents.

FOUND: Friday, Dec. 28, on the road east of town a large package containing a lady's coat. Owner can have by proving property and paying for this notice. Call at this office or on Wm. Hill east of town. 1-3

Saturday evening of this week J. L. Grubb's class in music will give a fine concert at Cedar Chapel beyond New Era. This being the close of this term of lessons it will be a fine entertainment as the best talent in that secton will assist.

Drs. D. J. and Vesta Swarts were at Waterloo Saturday forenoon, and performed an important operation on Mrs Edward Ettinger, removing a tumor from the breast. At last accounts the patient was doing well with every prospect of a speedy recovery.

S. C. Snyder has moved his family from Angola to this place and are located at the Swineford, in the fine suite of rooms formerly occupied by Mr. Coffinberry and family. We are glad to welcome them to Auburn. In spite of an absence of many years, they will find many warm friends.

All diseases of the air passages especially catarrah and chronic, Bronchitis, as well as first stages of consumption can be cured. I am treating these diseases with great success by the use of the latest and most improved medicines and instruments. Dr. W H. Nusbaum, Auburn, Ind. 49tf

Mrs. Maria A. Hamilton, wife of J. J. Hamilton, died at her home at 1 p m Sunday. The funeral occurred at the M E. church Wednesday conducted by Rev A. S. Wooton. Interment was in Woodlawn. She was a kind wife and mother and was highly respected by the large number of friends who knew her. She leaves a husband, one daughter and two sons, together with a host of friends and relatives to mourn their loss.

Dr. Casebeer is busy preparing to move his goods. Whether he gets away this week is uncertain. He has been detained with some surgical cases and with several cases of rupture which he is treating by the new method which he says is yielding better results than he anticipated. Those under treatment are well pleased and pronounce it a great success. We are glad to know he is prepared to give the treatment here and thus saves our people the inconvenience and heavy expense to go away for the treatment. He has promised to return in March or April to treat others who have engaged him.

The DeKalb County Farmers' Institute will be held in St Joe on Wednesday and Thursday, Jan. 23 and 24. A very interesting program has been arranged, and leading farmers from all over the county will take part in the discussions. Prominent among the speakers to be present are Waldo C. Brown, of Oxford, O., and Mrs Virginia C. Meredith, of Cambridge City, both having a national reputation as institute workers. In connection with the Farmers' Institute arrangements are being made to hold a Midwinter Fair in G. A. R. Hall, where various farm products will be on exhibition together with pioneer relics and other curiosities. The business men of St. Joe will make an exibit and the ladies will be invited to make a display of fancy work. Other interesting and attractive features are being arranged. Farmers throughout the county are urgently invited to bring or send any articles to this exibit which they think will be of interest to the public.

Book free despondent men, box 52, Toledo, O

Mr. and Mrs. Olds, of St. Joe, parents of the Olds Bros. are visiting the latter

Mrs. J. E. Rose and daughter Inez, took a trip to Chicago Sunday.

T. C. Ford keeps all kinds of mill feed, flour, corn and oats. 2-4

Mrs. Judge McClellan and Mrs. Swineford went up to Waterloo Monday.

Mrs. Anice Less entertained, the pedro club at her home Friday evening.

Mrs. Dr. Buchtel is home from a visit at Ligonier.

Will Schaab has been on the sick list a few days.

Elsie Caruth has been having an attack of tonsilitis.

A little child of Alphens McClellan's died Sunday morning and was buried Monday afternoon.

Marion Willis and Ernest Benedict went to Chicago Monday night to attend the great bicycle show.

Ex-treasurer Sawvel and wife came home last week from their visit with friends in Michigan.

Mr and Mrs. James Lewis returned from Albion Ind., Monday where they had been visiting relatives.

Try Royal Satsuma Tea at Neff and Weeks. It can be bought no where else in the city. Opposite Swineford house

C. J. Bordner is buying and shipping hay now, baled hay. It goes to New York.

Protracted meetings are in progress at the M. E. church. The attendance thus far is good and it is hoped much good may be accomplished.

Squire Walters' court has been running pretty lively lately. He had to send out warrants for some men in the east part of the county Tuesday.

Valeska Ricciocs died at Garrett Dec. 10, and funeral was held at the German Lutheran church on the 13th, the pastor officiating.

VEIL FOUND: Saturday January 5, near Keeslers' cigar factory. Finder can have same by proving property and paying for this notice.

Vina Cool returned home to Logansport Monday, after a pleasant visit with her young friends here. Her father, I. N. Cool has been laid up for a spell, but nothing serious we believe.

There were no services at the M. E church Sunday evening as there was a break in the current that cut off their lights. It was remedied on Monday, and everything is all right now.

Week of prayer at the various churches this week. At the M. E. church they are having protracted meetings, and a series of meetings will be held at the Presbyterian church next week.

Frank Powers was the happiest man last week we have seen for a long time. A fine boy baby come on Thursday to make glad the hearts of himself and wife.

Miss Grace Baker, daughter of editor Baker, of Columbia City returned home Saturday after a week's visit with friends here. She was the guest of Helen Ralston and Mrs. Will Schaab.

The Jolire Club will give a complimentary ball to a number of invited guests at the Armory this Thursday evening, Jan. 10. It will be a masked ball and promises to be very enjoyable.

Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Hoffman report a big boy baby born Monday morning. They are starting the new year in the right way. The COURIER sends congratulations.

Mr. Garwood received a telegram Sunday from his father at Classapolis Mich., that his mother was dangerously ill, and asking him to come at once. He and Mrs. Garwood started at once, taking the 4 p. m. train going west at Waterloo.

A. W. Bates and Son have opened up a new store in the room four doors north of Kruger's on south Main, and have a large varied stock of hardware, tinware, notions, table linens, etc. etc., and propose to sell at prices to suit the times.

LADIES RUBBER GLOVES, $1 25 pair; Mending tissue 25 cts. package; Water bottles 2 qt $1; Fountain Syringe 2 qt $1. We sell everything in rubber. Big profits to agents. Send stamp for catalogue. ACME RUBBER CO., Toledo, O. (Mention this Paper)

Fred Less, youngest son of the late A. S. Less, has been here a few days, a guest of Mrs. Anice Less, and of his aunt, Mrs Sophie Beard. He found many of the friends of his boyhood to welcome him. He goes from here to visit his people at Ann Arbor. His home is in Nevada

Co K. was re-mustered last Friday evening at the Armory, by Major Bowman, of Waterloo. The officers of the new organization are; A L. Kuhlman, captain; J F. Lahnum, first lieutenant; Geo. C. Clark, second lieutenant; Ulla Brandon, first sergeant.

Theodore Kessler sr. died Saturday of last week and was buried Tuesday. He was born at Farrealeben, Hanover, Germany, March 25, 1817. The funeral was held at the Presbyterian church as the German Lutheran was not large enough to accommodate the friends. The interment took place in Woodlawn.

Mrs. Adaline Fullmer, of Waterloo, was here Monday. She had lately been up to visit the friends in Michigan. Her son Geo. Kersteller is at South Haven, but reports that he and Gust Thomas had their room burglarised, losing some clothing and money which Thomas, she says, has a fine place. She was up there to attend Isaac Cobbler's funeral.

Mrs C. A. O. McClellan gave her mother, Mrs. Long, a very pleasant surprise last Friday. It was Mrs. Long's 84th birthday and her daughter had invited in a number of her old friends to dinner. The afternoon was very much enjoyed by these ladies, who spent the time recalling incidents of 50 or 60 years ago. The bountiful dinner was very much enjoyed too, which was served to some degree in the old fashioned way.

Write Box 52, Toledo, O., free book to men

Best thing for your hens, is ground oyster shells. Cook Ford keeps it.

Mrs. C. A. Rafter spent a few days in Albion Mich., last week visiting her husband's parents.

Go to Ford's feed store to get your baled hay, straw, oil, meal and ground oyster shells. 2 4

Dr. Matheny, and Drs. F. M. and W. R. Hines have formed a partnership in the pratice of medicine. As soon as the rooms can be prepared, they will locate in the Zeigler building north of the Swineford House.

The Sixty-Fourth Sunday School Institute of Richland township will be held in the Christian church Corunna, Saturday, Jan. 29, '95. A good program has been prepared and an interesting time expected.

Mrs. Swineford, Mrs. Forkner, Mrs. A. J. Ralston and Mrs. J. A. Barns took a drive to Garrett last Thursday and were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Coffinberry for the day. They report a very delightful visit with the family including Willie and Johnny, and Mr Coffinberry's mother who is making her home with them, Their lovely new house is commodious and pleasant, and Mr. and Mrs Coffinberry know how to make guests feel at home. The ladies are indebted to Mrs. Swineford for the pleasure of the ride.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

The S. H. G. will meet next Saturday afternoon with Mrs. Henry.

The L. L. C. will meet this week with Mrs. Emanuel.

The C. L. S. C. will meet Saturday afternoon with Mrs. Fitch.

Notice.

For rent or sale after the 21th day of January, I will rent or sell my property known as the Auburn Bakery on Eighth Street. Inquire of

ED BAKER 2tf

Home Missionary Work.

The W. C T. U. have taken up the department of Home Missionary work. Any one knowing of any needy families please report to them. Also anyone wishing to give provisions, clothing, good literature, or money to this cause can do so by leaving the same at the home of Mrs. G. S. McCord or Miss Laura Keeran.

Santa Claus' Visits.

Santa Claus pleasantly surprised the children of District No 5, Keyser township, last Friday, by visiting them with goody-goodies, etc, which was very much enjoyed by the children and friends. Recitations, songs, etc., was the program of the afternoon. Some times the old Saint forgets the older folks, but on this occasion, after treating the little people, the teacher, Mrs. Diana Komp, was presented with a handsome water-set, which was very much appreciated. The teacher desires to thank old Santa and wife, as well as all his kien friends for the handsome present. ***

Surprised.

Mr and Mrs. H. C. Shull's eldest daughter, Carrie was married to Isaish Wert, Dec. 27, but going at once on a visit to her husband's people the threatened "belling" of some of her young friends did not take place. However, on Saturday last, she and Mr Wert returned, and were spending the evening at the old home. Carrie was at work that evening helping her mother when a "sound of revelry" began in the yard outside. By the time these juveniles were disposed of, a second installment began work, and were called in. Then came the Rathbone Sisters of the K. P. order, and the capture was complete. The young couple wanted to flee to the hills, but this was not down on the bills for father-in law, Henry and wife had fixed things up for a good time. In fact they helped to originate the surprise and it was fully carried. It is needless to say all had a splendid time which was rounded out by a big supper, and the hours flew by rapidly till the break-up at nearly midnight.

Notice.

On Monday Jan. 21, we will move our bakery and lunch room into our new quarters on Main street, first door south of John L. Davis hardware store. Kindly thanking the people of Auburn and vicinity for their liberal patronage during the past, we respectfully solicit the same for the future.

ED BAKER & L. L. BAURER 2 2

Courier Agent at Corunna.

We have secured the services of an active agent in the live town of Corunna, Mr. W. A. Cremean, the postmaster there. This will be not only an advantage to the COURIER, but to the good people of that section. He will receive all new subscribers who wish to take the COURIER, and is also authorized to take subscriptions from old subscribers and give receipts for same. Items of news, church notices, etc, may also be handed to him. We have a large list at Corunna, but there are still a few of our Richland and Fairfield friends who have not their names on the COURIER books. We hope to get more of them, for we think we shall give them the best paper in this section. 47tf

Cards of Thanks.

I wish to thank the kind friends and neighbors, who so greatly assisted with aid and sympathy during the last illness and death of my wife. Their kindness will always be remembered.

JACOB MITCHELL.

We desire through the columns of the COURIER to thank our many friends for their kind assistance and care during the sickness and burial of our husband and father.

MRS. THEODORE KESSLER AND CHILDREN

GREAT REDUCTION ON MILLINERY! AT COWAN SISTERS'

BEGINNING

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 15.

This is not upon damaged goods, bought under price, but Every Article Offered is GOOD, SEASONABLE and STYLISH, and will be sold at such LOW PRICES as were Never Before Quoted.

We have a Large Stock which must be CUT DOWN within the next twenty days.

It's the PRICES that will TALK

Hats worth $1.65 and $1 85 for 87c. and 99c.
Hats worth 75c and $1 00 for 39c and 48c,
Children's caps, hoods and bonnets, fancy feathers, birds and pins at correspondingly low prices.

TRIMMED HATS at LESS THAN COST.

Come early and get the Cream of the Goods.

COWAN SISTERS
AUBURN, INDIANA.

DON'T!!!! Buy a dollar's worth of goods until you have seen

Fred J. Yesbera's

ELEGANT STOCK OF

WATCHES, CLOCKS and JEWELRY.

He has the Nicest Goods in Town for Xmas Presents, at Prices that BEAT THE WORLD 1895!

Do you want to know

How to save money during the year 1895?

Do you want to know

Where to buy good goods for a little money during 1895?

If you do

Buy your Gloves, Mittens, Pants and Shirts of

OLDS BROS.

SAY! Do you know That we can sell you

CREAMERY BUTTER for 20 cents per lb
COFFEE for 23 25, 30, 35 cents per lb
TEA from 15 to 60 cents per lb
CRACKERS 7 to 10 cents per lb
Pickles, Onions, Wash Boards, Tubs,
Whips, Oil Cans,
Baking Powders, Soaps and all
FAMILY Supplies at Lowest Cash Prices.

All Goods Warranted as Represented.

Family Grocery, NORTH MAIN STREET.

DR. WILLIAMS' KIDNEY PILLS

A remedy that has no equal in diseases of the Kidneys and Urinary Organs, Have you neglected your kidneys? Have you overworked your nervous system and caused trouble with your kidneys and liver? Have you pains in the loins, side, back, loins and bladder? Have you a flabby appearance of the face, especially under the eyes? Too frequent desire to pass urine? No matter what the cause, we know Dr. Williams' Kidney Pills will cure you. Imparts new life to the diseased organs, tones up the whole system and makes a new man of you. Mailed on receipt of price, $1.00 per box.

WILLIAMS M'F'G CO., Props., Cleveland, O.
Sold by FISCHLER & SON, Auburn. 1y20

The Fayette Normal University has an advertisement in this issue. Those who are thinking of attending a Normal or College should not fail to send for catalogue and make a careful study of the excellent features of this school. 27tf

L. O. BUCHTEL, Homeopathic Physician and Surgeon.

Special attention given to chronic and obscure cases and catarrhal diseases of the nose, throat and lungs; also to diseases peculiar to women and children.

Office and residence over Smith & Madden's marble works, Auburn, Ind. Office apart from residence and private. All calls attended to promptly, night or day.

When wild and withering winter winds warp the weary wanderer, his thoughts turn in sweet anticipation to home, wife and Kessler Bros.' Little Salesman.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNS, - - PUBLISHER.

It appears that all the railroads want is to have pooling legalized. There is a general suspicion that they have the pools already.

That New York youngster who raised thousands of dollars by claiming to be a son of Armour turns out to be merely a son of a gun.

How fortunate that babies are not the vogue! The ladies, God bless them! would never be able to take care of babies and big sleeves at the same time.

It has taken science 6,000 years to discover that kissing is deadly, and it will take science 6,000 years longer to get any one to pay attention to the discovery.

Captain Creedon, of the New York police force, drew $2,750 a year and in two years paid back $15,000 which it cost him to get appointed. He must be a very economical man.

New York Recorder: The dawn or evolution of the new man is noted in Kansas. He loafs while his wife supports the family. Indeed, in these parts he's not altogether new.

A dog in Woodstown, N. J., recently swallowed a gold chronometer and immediately became greatly enhanced in value. Before it he was a worthless cur; afterward he became a watch dog.

The fact that packages sealed call for letter postage has been published so often that everybody ought to know it, yet people go on mailing them, though it is impossible to deliver them until the postage is all paid.

The private secretary of Police Commissioner McClave, of New York, during the last four years has managed, by rigid economy and a strict eye to business, to lay up $75,000 from a salary of $700 a year. Thrift, thrift, Horatio, thrift.

A writer in the Railway Gazette asserts that the canal under construction to connect Lake Michigan with the Mississippi River will add 1,000,000 cubic feet of clear water per minute to the Mississippi, increasing the depth of water at St. Louis 26 per cent.

Sincerity in work in any department certainly forbids all impostures, all quackery, all fraud and pretence; but it does not end there. It also demands an absolute loyalty to the work itself, a faithfulness to its objects, an earnest desire for excellence with all that may be involved therein.

A Japanese writer expects great things from Corea as an independent country. It has valuable gold mines, is unequaled in the manufacture of certain varieties of fine porcelain, and could supply the world with fish from the Pacific Ocean current that runs along its shores.

In fifty years ocean steamers have been lengthened 400 feet, and they are three times as large as they were in 1845. Their speed has kept pace with these changes, and it is gratifying to know that a voyage across the Atlantic is now almost as safe and certain as a trip on a ferryboat.

There is a pleasure that comes without seeking—that which attends loyalty to the truth and faithfulness to the right. Whoever values these above all other things, and will readily sacrifice for their sakes whatever desire or delight conflicts with them, experiences a joy with which no other can be compared.

Since the death of Bowen in New Orleans the question in sporting circles has been, How shall we amuse ourselves now? The president of the Young Men's Christian Association in Woodbury, Pa., comes forward with a suggestion which may solve the difficulty. He has offered to wager money that he can eat eight ordinary lemon pies at one sitting and walk home afterward.

Officials of railroads at Chicago declare that it will be utterly impossible to maintain through grain rates so long as trunk lines persist in billing to fictitious destinations. It is a notorious fact that nearly all the trunk lines make a practice of billing grain to some interior point taking a higher than a seaboard rate, and changing the billing in transit to suit themselves. This manipulation gives trunk lines 3 to 5 cents a hundred to buy business with, as the excess rate is deducted from the through rate before division.

The death of a second pugilist in the ring, or from injuries received therein, ought to strengthen somewhat the sentiment against that brutal institution. It has often been regretted in a savagely humorous way that the contestants in such a fight did not kill each other instead of only pounding each other out of all semblance to humanity, but even if such a wish had ever been expressed seriously it would only be half complied with by the killing of one of the combatants. A trial or two for manslaughter, followed by conviction and sentence, might bring the pugilistic fraternity to a realizing sense of what it is they are doing when they set two men up in a ring to take the chance of killing one another.

Nebraska's appeal for her stricken citizens is a manly one. Continued bad crops along with the general industrial and financial paralysis of the last two years have weighed heavily upon the people of the State. They have gone ahead bravely fighting disaster after disaster, sure that in time the soil would once more yield a generous support. The State itself has not been unmindful of its duty towards its own. But there is a call for outside help which is not unreasonable. Thousands of persons are said to be on the verge of starvation. If they can be aided through the winter they will start in the spring determined to wrest from nature some return for its hardships. There should be no hesitation in answering the appeal which goes up on their behalf.

It should be an important part of the education of every child to form within him a true and worthy conception of heroism, and to enable him to recognize it wherever it exists. Too often his only idea of it is found in the sensational romance, or in the examples around him of men who, for praise or glory or gain, will do daring deeds and manifest a physical bravery, often at a fearful cost to their fellowmen. Let us give him a truer ideal and afford him a higher example.

Madeline Pollard, whose name is known because of the Breckinridge-Pollard scandal, applied for a position as governess in a New York family. When she disclosed her identity the advertiser told her to begone and was greatly shocked because Miss Pollard had had the temerity to respond to her advertisement. The man in the case found a large bunch of beautiful roses on his desk when the present session of Congress opened, and his name is always mentioned when candidates for Senator are named in Kentucky. After Miss Pollard has vainly tried to secure honest employment for a few months she will understand that the world forgives a man and then evens up matters by kicking the woman into the street and bolting the door in her face.

THE BOULDER WAS ALIVE.

An Apache Trick That Nearly Cost a Courier His Life in Arizona.

"Talking of Indians and their stratagems," said D. A. Marston, lately of the United States cavalry, to a New York Sun man, "they are past masters of the arts of skulking and deceiving. An Apache will lie behind a soapweed on the open prairie, and you may ride past two or three hundred yards away and never have an idea that there is a redskin within fifty miles of you, unless he decides to risk a shot at you. As you pass the soapweed he works his body around so as to keep it always in line with the plant and you. Even on the open prairie, with no more shelter than that afforded by some little inequality of surface, he will sift dust over his body, flatten himself out, face downward, against the ground, and, lying as motionless as a stone, will escape the observation of any except sharp and practiced eyes. Sometimes, in a grove of cactus or Spanish bayonet, his buckskin garments blending with the hues of the plants, his face and neck concealed by the head of a Spanish bayonet, he will stand like a post, indistinguishable to the inexperienced eye, even at close quarters, from the grotesque plants about him. A queer experience of this kind occurred to me in my service in Arizona during Gen. Crook's last campaign against the Apaches. Tom Merriam, of my troop, and myself were detailed to carry dispatches from Camp Bowie to Camp Grant, up on the Rio Benito. It was a dangerous service at that time, and we had to keep a sharp lookout and be ready to fight or run at a moment's notice, for there was no knowing at what point on the route the Apaches might not be lying in wait to jump us as we came along. We were on our return to Camp Bowie and had just crossed the wooded canon where the cold spring is and were coming out upon the open prairie that stretches down to the San Pedro River when through the branches of a low tree I saw what I took to be an Indian on the plain, about a half mile ahead. But on spurring my horse forward so as to get a better look nothing was to be seen but the bare prairie, with no sign of man or beast upon its expanse. As we rode along I spoke of the matter to Tom, who laughed at what he called my scare, which he said caused me to see imaginary Indians. We came opposite a low, gray boulder upon the prairie 200 paces or so from the trail.

"'I don't remember ever to have seen that rock before,' said Tom, who had been over the route several times. 'How in the devil did it get there? I'll ride over and take a look at it!' And he reined his horse and rode toward the object. I followed him, a few yards behind.

"His horse had scarcely taken a dozen steps when the seeming gray rock moved slightly upward and there came from its lower edge a flash and report, with the scream of a big caliber ball that flapped Tom's coat with its wind, and caused his horse to plunge so suddenly that Tom, one of the best riders in the troop, not being on the lookout for such a happening, was thrown. At the same instant an Apache leaped from beneath the gray blanket that had served him to masquerade as a boulder, and ran like a deer for the canon, leaping to left and right as he went to avoid the shots that Tom and I sent after him from our repeating carbines. We knocked up the dust about his feet and made him do some tall dodging to the whistling of our bullets, but that was all, for we didn't hit him. To have chased him would have been folly, first, because we were bearing dispatches in haste and needed the last ounce of reserve force in our horses, and, secondly, because with the start he had we should not have overhauled him in his run for the canon, into which we could not have followed him. So we took the trail again and rode our way with another wrinkle added to our experience of Indian trickery and cussedness."

A Witty Priest.

The death of Father Healy, of Bray, removes from Irish life the wittiest Irishman of his time. Even in London he was all but lionized in society, and the shoal of invitations which always followed his visits had generally the effect of shortening his sojourn. He was well known to every public man of both parties, and Lord Salisbury vied with Mr. Gladstone and Mr. Morley with Mr. Balfour in appreciation of his wonderful fund of humor.

His most famous bon mot was probably his answer to a question once put to him by Mr. Balfour. "Tell me frankly, Father Healy," said the then chief secretary, "do the Irish people really hate me as much as their leaders say?" "Well, I'll tell you this," was the response, "if they only hated the devil half as much as they hate you there would be no necessity for us priests in the country." Even on his deathbed his humor did not desert him. A few hours before his death one of his medical attendants had occasion to ask him a question in reference to his breathing. "Are you 'distressed,' father?" was the question. "Not at all, doctor," said the dying wit; "but on the contrary, lots of fellows owe me money."

THE CIRCUIT RIDER.

ITINERANT PREACHERS OF PIONEER DAYS.

How Spiritual Wants of the First Settlers Were Supplied—Labors of Early Preachers—Their Miserable Pay—Hardships Endured.

Parson and People.

Among the many peculiar characters developed in the early days of our national history not the least singular was the traveling preacher, who ministered to the spiritual wants of the settlers in the backwoods. He was a natural product of the times in which he lived and of the country in which his lot was cast. He was in the most emphatic sense of the word one of the people himself, for, in all probability, he had been born and reared in the immediate neighborhood of his "circuit," nine-tenths of his auditors knew him from his boyhood, and his father and the rest of his family, and were prepared to give his pedigree back to the time when the family made its appearance in this country. Earlier than this few knew even their own family history, and nobody cared, for it was a well-established social principle in the early days of the colonies that nobody had a father until he came to America, and when he was here he was as good as anybody, if not a little better. The traveling preacher, or circuit rider, as he was generally called, was a man thoroughly and conscientiously devoted to his calling. He always believed himself to be "called" to the work of the ministry, and, having this conviction, gave up everything else for its sake. His worldly belongings, barring the wife and children, that always lived somewhere within the bounds of his circuit, were generally limited to what he could carry in his saddle-bags, and these usually contained a change of linen, a Bible, a hymn book, in those days called a "hime book," and sometimes a lunch of chicken and corn bread, put up by a kindly sister at the last preaching place. He had a horse, generally a good horse, for no other kind could stand the hardships of the journeys he had to make, and for his living he trusted to Providence and the people of the various "appointments" along his route. And, as a rule, he was as well cared for as the means of the people permitted, for every family counted it an honor to have the preacher stay with them, and as he was usually the bearer of news from one neighborhood to another, he was always a welcome guest.

PERFORMS A PLEASING DUTY.

His circuit was planned, partly by himself, partly by his ecclesiastical superiors, who laid out the general ground and expected him to add to the number of appointments or preaching places as the membership increased and the work broadened. Two preachers, a senior and a junior, were usually assigned to each circuit, and the appointments for the two were arranged in such a way that the people of each station had preaching every other week, at least, or sometimes every week. The labors of these self-sacrificing men were by no means, however, confined to Sunday. They preached every day, sometimes twice a day, reaching one station at 9 or 10 in the morning, holding service, dining with some brother who lived near by, in the afternoon, riding on to another station, where an evening service was to be held, and repeating this round week after week, month after month, during the year until "conference" came, when the appointments were changed and the preachers went to new fields. Twenty or thirty sermons every four weeks were the usual work, together with 200 or 300 miles of the hardest kind of travel. Of roads there were few, the traveler being compelled to rely on bridle paths through the forest, and often on mere tracks aided by "blazes" on the trees, or pieces of bark chopped out, leaving a white place underneath, which could be seen at a considerable distance and materially aided the progress of the wayfarer. When darkness overtook the preacher on his journey, and he could no longer discern the "blazes" on the tres, he trusted to the instinct of his horse, and when this failed, as it sometimes, though rarely, did, he was compelled to pass the night in the woods. If he had flint and steel he made a fire; if not, he sat down at the root of a tree and held his horse until morning. In rainy weather he was often compelled to swim the swollen streams that lay in his route, or make long detours in search of a place where the stream could be forded. Yet all these hardships, and more, including sleeping in lofts where the snow drifted in, in rooms where four beds were placed and the family all slept in the only room the cabin afforded, and the annoyance of having absolutely no privacy but that of the forest during his journey from one appointment to another, were cheerfully endured, and for no compensation save the consciousness of duty well done, and the pittance that the people were able to give in return for the services rendered them. Money in those times were scarce, and many an old preacher has been heard to tell how in the early days of his ministry he received but $25 or $30 from his people for a year's hard work. But this sum did not really represent all they did for him, for his entertainment was free wherever he went, and a pair of stockings here, a pair of shoes there, a wool hat or fur cap from one, a coat from another and a pair of jeans trousers from a third, eked out his scanty support very materially. Nor was this all, for on his "home round"—that is, when on that part of his circuit that brought him toward home—he might be seen with a ham or flitch of bacon on one side of his saddle, a pair of chickens or a wild turkey on the other, and, it may be a haunch of venison or a bag of corn in front, all the contributions of those who gave willingly of what they had to give at all. These, with an occasional wedding fee, a sum varying from 25c to $1, paid by a youth in his first suit of ill-fitting store clothes, constituted his principal reliance for a livelihood. His wife did her own work, and her neighbors brought in supplies from time to time to help out the preacher, so, on the whole, he lived about as well as they, and, what was better, was fully content with what he had, and cheerfully sang:

"No foot of land do I possess,
No cottage in this wilderness."

The "meeting houses" where he preached were as plain as the people and the fare. In Kentucky, Tennessee, and the Southern States generally, the first "meeting houses" were of logs, and in a style of architecture that closely approximated that of the settlers' cabins. Where there were school houses these were used for religious purposes, but where there were none the cabins of the settlers were employed, and almost anyone, whether he was a member of the particular denomination to which the circuit rider belonged or not, was generally willing to open his house for preaching. Where regular houses were built for service, however, the neighborhood was understood to have advanced considerably on the road to refinement. "Quarterly meeting" at one of these wayside log sanctuaries was a great occasion. The presiding elder was always there, with as many of the brethren as could be mustered. Long before the appointed hour for the service the roads were full of primitive vehicles on the way to the meeting house. Antiquated wagons, a man and his wife on the front seat, two or three wooden chairs just behind for invited guests, and the balance of the load made up of children packed in straw, were common, but more frequent were the riders on horseback. They came in twos and threes, men and women, with children in front and behind, and on arriving at the grove in which the church was situated they tied the horses, not always far enough apart to prevent an equine dispute, scattered ear-corn on the ground in front of them to be about equally divided between the steeds and the strolling pigs that always infested the neighborhood on such occasions, and men and women separated into groups. Down at the always convenient spring the former gathered, the elders to smoke their pipes and talk crops, their juniors to discuss politics. In and about the church the old women talked butter and eggs, or discussed the attire of the one "worldly" girl sure to be found in every neighborhood, while their daughters sat silent, for it was a favorite maxim in those days that young girls and children should be seen and not heard.

THE SISTERS AT THE CHURCH.

A stir in the little crowd about the door told of the arrival of the elder and his brother circuit riders, for the elder was just as much a circuit rider as the rest, except that his circuit was bigger, and a few of the nearest filed into the church, whither the preachers had preceded them. The brethren said their prayers, took their seats, conferred among themselves in loud whispers as to the order of service, and then some one struck up a familiar hymn. All joined lustily, and the sound thereof, wafted out of the open windows and down the hill to the spring, notified the brethren there that "meetin' had begun," and induced an instant suspension of crop talk and a stampede in the direction of the meeting house. By the time the hymn was ended the house was filled and the regular service of the day began.

A PASTORAL CALL.

There was preaching in abundance, for preaching was the main feature of the exercises. The preaching would hardly be acceptable in a $100,000 church nowadays, for it often happened that grammar and rhetoric were conspicuous by their absence, but there was always enthusiasm in any quantity, and also plenty of Scripture. The old preachers of those days did not know much about the graces of oratory, but they did know all about the Bible, for it was the one book that they constantly read, and that they were thoroughly conversant with from cover to cover. A proposition was started, and Bible texts in confirmation of it were cited; if it could be proved from the Bible, well and good; if not, no matter what it was, or who stated it, it was rank infidelity, and the proposer was an infidel. The nice distinctions of the higher criticism were unknown quantities; the preachers of those days knew nothing of the Javist, and the Elohist. Where the apostle affirmed "Wives, submit to your husbands," they said that it meant that the women should mind, and not cherish any ideas about being equal to the man and voting. They hated gold chains and rings and silk dresses and boiled shirts and cards and fiddles and whisky, and all these things were, in their sight, almost equally abominable. A man with spotless linen was to them a dandy; a woman with gold chains and jewelry was on the right road to perdition. Some of them preached against these things and denounced unsparingly all who favored them. Cards and fiddles were their pet aversion, and when, as sometimes happened, a mischievous person went to a "protracted meeting" or a camp meeting with a fiddle or a jug of whisky or pack of cards, the preachers were sometimes known to knock down and drag out the offender with as much energy as would be shown by any shoulder-hitting son of Belial in the country.

Their meetings did not lack for vivacity from other causes. In those days no man stirred abroad without his gun and his dog, and a concourse of people was the occasion also for a concourse of dogs. Generally curs of low degree, they had neither patience nor pedigree, and dog fights at meeting were matters of by no means infrequent occurrence. When they took place outside, the curs were generally left to settle their dispute among themselves, unless it became too noisy, but when this occurred some man seated near the door and armed with a good-sized whip, quietly slipped out to act as umpire, and a moment later a series of yelps, followed by silence, gave indication that the war was over. More of an incident were they when they took place within the limits of the congregation, for every other exercise was at once suspended until the belligerents could be parted. The brethren united their forces, however, and by kicking one and half-strangling the other, generally accomplished the desired end in a few moments. When the church had a floor raised a few feet from the ground, the space beneath was not infrequently used by vagrant swine as a place of temporary abode, and when, as sometimes happened, the dogs took into their heads the notion that the hogs were trespassers and ought to be evicted, the trouble was more serious from the difficulty of reaching the battlefield, a difficulty that was finally surmounted by sending in a boy with a cowhide to eject both dogs and pigs. Such trifles as crying babies were never noticed in a congregation of this kind; crying was popularly supposed to be good for the lungs of the infant, and the mother let it cry, with such efforts to soothe it as occurred to her on the spur of the moment, or were suggested by interested friends.

To the people of the present time with their $500,000 churches and $6,000 preachers, with organ and choir and Sunday-school appointments of the most elegant description, such services seem farcical and lacking in proper reverence. But it should not be forgotten that all these things are merely comparative, and that to the people of the latter part of the eighteenth and the early years of the nineteenth century, the religious elegances of the present would have seemed just as inappropriate. The preachers and the singing were to their taste. To them the eloquence of a Talmage and the music of a Handel would have been only words and noise. They could understand their preacher, and could sing their "himes," and were satisfied with both. To them separate hymn books would have been a superfluity, for many of them could not read, and one hymn book, held by the preacher, who "lined" the hymn, that is, gave out two lines of the hymn at a time for the people to sing, was enough for the whole congregation.

The old preachers have mostly passed away, but the results of their works are seen in the thousands of churches that everywhere dot the country districts, many of them on the identical spots where the log cabins once stood that were sanctified by the presence and labors of the early circuit riders. And the system still continues, and some readers may be surprised to learn that many thousands of country people in the North, West and South have now no other religious services than those conducted by the circuit riders. The times have changed for these, too, and now they wear broadcloth and ride in buggies instead of on horseback, to their appointments. Their churches are of boards, or even of brick, and have choirs and cabinet organs, and the women wear feathers in their hats, and the men polish their boots, and the girls have ear-rings and finger rings and beaux, but the principles are the same, and the system is almost identical with that known to our grandfathers.

THE ROAD TO MEETING.

Must Not Dance.

The teachers of Junction City, Kan., have been forbidden by the local educational board to attend more than one dance per week.

Sensible.

Pneumatic tires have been found very serviceable on hospital ambulances.

STEP CHILDREN.

COMING INTO GENERAL USE.

Storage Batteries for Illuminating Popular in Country Residences.

The storage battery is the "dark horse" of electrical engineering. Gradually but surely it is emerging from the hamperings of imperfect mechanical and electrical construction, and the besetment of legal wranglings, and is now growing so rapidly in public favor that it gives greater promise of future possibilities than almost any other article of the industrial world. Until recently, says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, its use has been mainly confined to traction and light power station work, but of late it has been utilized under conditions that give the general public a clearer idea of its practical value. Electric craft propelled by storage batteries will soon be as common as steam and naphtha launches are now, and the owners of country houses that are miles away from every other source of electrical supply are finding that the storage battery is a very important factor in promoting the comfort of their isolated homes. An installation has been made at a summer residence near Lake Forest, Ill., which is an excellent example of a type that will doubtless come largely into vogue in the next few years. The power house, measuring 21 by 27 feet, is erected about 500 feet from the residence. It has three rooms, one for dynamo and battery cells, a workshop and an attic. The wires are carried to the house on cedar poles, which also carry a telephone line, through a wooded grove, which almost entirely conceals them. Two hundred and fifty-six lights are fed, 237 in the residence and the rest in the dynamo room, barn and outlying sheds. In the battery room there are sixty chloride accumulators, or storage batteries, inclosed in glass jars and ranged on shelves 8 inches broad. The whole battery rack occupies a space of but 12 by 6 feet. In charging the batteries a gas engine is used, which has many advantages over the steam engine for this purpose. The usual practice is to run the dynamo during the daytime to charge the storage plant, and to run the house lights direct from the battery. But when needed the dynamo can be brought into service, and will furnish current for the entire capacity in lamps. The whole plant works noiselessly and gives perfect service. It is intended to light the grounds all around the house next year, so that garden parties can be given and lawn games carried on at night.

TRICK OF THE BOOK TRADE.

Low Prices Do Not Necessarily Mean a Loss to the Publisher.

Did it ever occur to you what a reproach to some publishers and some of their methods the book store bargain counter is? says the Rochester Democrat and Chronicle. Somebody is losing money on these "dollar books for 10 cents," and it is not the publisher. Retailers in the book trade buy by list, not by sample, and a publishing house in a fair way of business can count on selling to the trade a pretty large edition of pretty nearly anything it chooses to publish. It is to be feared that once in a while they take advantage of this fact to the loss of the booksellers. They have been known to take, for instance, an advertisement for some well-known summer resort, that, having been written by a somewhat famous author in the guise of a short story, has been presented to the public as literature by a first-rate magazine, possibly by virtue of a pecuniary arrangement with the publishers thereof, and made a reasonably sizable book of it by using big type, double leads, wide margins and many cheap process illustrations. They gild the edges of the leaves, disguise the cheap muslins of the cover with a sprawling design in gold, wherein a quotation from Shakspeare and the writer's well-known name figure prominently and announce to the trade, "Blue, Unclouded Weather, a Romance of Old Point Comfort, by Popular Author, Esq. Edition de luxe; $3.50; 75 off 100; 60 off 75; 50 off 50; 35 and 10 on small orders. No returns." And every bookseller in the land on the strength of the author's name and the expected Christmas trade, orders from five to 100 copies, according to the size of his establishment, and uses bad language as soon as he sees them. He knows they will not sell. Even their outside is unattractive.

They cost the publishers, exclusive of royalty, from 25 cents to 50 cents apiece, according to the size of the edition issued, and they have an unmistakable air of cheapness about them. To put such books on his counter marked $3.50 is almost an insult to the intelligence of his customers, but he does so. And there the never-diminishing pile stays, for the public can protect itself against this sort of imposition, although the bookseller cannot, until it comes to the bargain counter, and "Blue, Unclouded Weather" finds a few purchasers at 17 cents a volume. And the bookseller figues up how much he has lost on it and goes on ordering by list without knowing what he is going to get. Such is one of the reasons all booksellers do not retire on princely fortunes within five years or so after starting in business.

Silver Fox Fur Comes High.

Next to the sea otter, for clothing purposes, the fur of the silver fox brings the highest price, and in this case the Russians are the principal buyers. The silver fox is one of the most precious denizens of the Hudson Bay territory, and as much as £120 has been paid for a single fine skin. The silver fox, however, is really not silvery, and has only a few white hairs mixed with his black ones—indeed, the most highly prized skins are entirely black. The principal use of these skins is for the collars of cloaks of Russian ladies.

Full of Glory.

"O, mamma," cried 5-year-old Dorothy, "I'm just as full of glory as I can be!"

"What do you mean?" inquired her mother, with natural surprise.

"Why-ee," said Dorothy, "there was a sunbeam right on my spoon, and I swallowed it with my oatmeal, mamma!"

Don't Let Your Prejudices Rule.

Don't eat two mince pies, a plum pudding, a duck, lobster salad, and ice cream, and then attribute your sense of fullness to the presence of your mother-in-law in the house.

It Pays.

The writing of "popular songs" is more profitable in this country than is any other.

Rheumatic Pains

Return when the colder weather comes. They are caused by lactic acid in the blood, which frequently settles in the joints. This poisonous taint must be removed. Hood's

Hood's Sarsaparilla Cures

Sarsaparilla conquers rheumatism because it drives out of the blood every form of impurity. It makes pure, rich blood.

"I suffered with rheumatism in my left foot. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla and the pain is all gone." MISS R. R. BLAKE, Mills House, Charleston, S. C.

Hood's Pills prevent constipation.

Making a Meteorological Balloon.

M. Renard thinks he has obtained a cloth and varnish at once sufficiently light and impervious to hydrogen to make a balloon which will put below itself eleven-twelfths of the earth's atmosphere, ascending to a height of twelve miles. His position is to equip such a balloon with a self-registering barometer, thermometer and octinometer and then set it free. The instruments are to be packed in a sort of interior skeleton of light willow work. The weight of the whole thing is only twenty pounds, and nearly half of this is allotted to the meteorological apparatus. The estimated cost of each ascent is $10.—Journal de Physique.

WIFE—Mother is going to have her picture taken to-day. Husband—Is she? May I go with her and see her having it done? Wife—Certainly. Why do you want to go? Husband—The photographer will tell her to look pleasant, you know, and I want to see her that way for once.

DR. KILMER'S SWAMP-ROOT

THE GREAT KIDNEY, LIVER AND BLADDER CURE.

Dissolves Gravel

Gall stone, brick dust in urine, pain in urethra, straining after urination, pain in the back and hips, sudden stoppage of water with pressure.

Bright's Disease

Tube casts in urine, scanty urine. Swamp-Root cures urinary troubles and kidney difficulties.

Liver Complaint

Torpid or enlarged liver, foul breath, biliousness, bilious headache, poor digestion, gout.

Catarrh of the Bladder

Inflammation, irritation, ulceration, dribbling, frequent calls, pass blood, mucus or pus.

At Druggists 50 cents and $1.00 Size. "Invalids' Guide to Health" free—Consultation free. DR. KILMER & CO., BINGHAMTON, N. Y.

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50c and $1 bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound CURES

Irregularity,

Suppressed or Painful Menstruations, Weakness of the Stomach, Indigestion, Bloating, Flooding, Nervous Prostration, Headache, General Debility, Kidney Complaints in either sex. Every time it will relieve

Backache, Faintness,

Extreme Lassitude, "don't care" and "want to be left alone" feeling, excitability, irritability, nervousness, sleeplessness, flatulency, melancholy, or the "blues." These are sure indications of Female Weakness, some derangement of the Uterus, or

Womb Troubles.

Every woman, married or single, should own and read "Woman's Beauty, Peril, Duty," an illustrated book of 30 pages, containing important information that every woman should know about herself. We send it free to any reader of this paper.

All druggists sell the Pinkham medicines. Address in confidence, LYDIA E. PINKHAM MED. CO., LYNN, MASS.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Liver Pills, 25 cents.

Ely's Cream Balm WILL CURE CATARRH

Price 50 Cents.

Apply Balm into each nostril. ELY BROS., 56 Warren St., N. Y.

WANTED Traveling Salesman for Liquor Trade. C. R. HITCHCOCK & CO., Evansville, Ind.

ALL ARE FOR SUGAR.

REPUBLICAN SENATORS VOTE FOR THE TRUST.

Their Talk Is All the Other Way—How Republican Papers Try to Explain It—Some Unblushing Hypocrites—Trusts Gaining Power.

Tools of the Trust.

It is laughable to read the shifty explanations of Republican papers for the fact that all Republican Senators recently voted to retain the present differential duty of 1-10 of a cent per pound on sugars exported from countries that pay an export duty. As usual, the Republicans are preaching against trusts, but are voting to sustain them. If even three Republican Senators had broken loose from their trust alliances and had voted with the Democrats against the trusts, this inexcusable and meddling duty would have been abolished. But they did not do so, and now the Republicans are searching for plausible excuses for such conduct.

The New York Press of Dec. 10 would have its readers satisfied with the explanation that "Republicans are for free sugar"—nothing less and nothing more, except a bounty to sugar growers. If they cannot have all at once they will continue to vote for the trust.

The New York Tribune does not presume quite so much upon the ignorance of its readers. It conjures up two reasons for the misconduct of Republicans. The first is, "to shut out any action on the tariff question, which might under the rules of the Senate be turned at any time into action on the Free Trade bills demanded by the Democratic majority." As absurd and false as is this excuse, the Tribune is bound to conclude that it is "sound and sufficient."

The second reason is "the feeling that the record of the Republican party in favor of a bounty to American producers of sugar should be upheld, and that the repeal of the duty on refined sugar should not be permitted without restoration of the bounty granted in 1890." Contrary to the declarations of the Press, the Tribune has a very poor opinion of this reason. It says:

"The second reason has weight only with those who believe that the duty imposed in the act of 1890 in favor of refiners of sugar was warranted. The Tribune did not so believe when the act passed, and there have been a thousand good reasons since for maintaining that protective duties for refiners of sugar had no good excuse. The duty was palmed off on the Congress of 1890 by representations of refiners who claimed to be opponents of the trust, but who within a few months sold out to it and took part in that outrageous monopoly. The declarations of the sugar trust itself, both in testimony before Congressional committees and in official reports, have abundantly proved that there was never any reason for casting around this monopoly the shelter of protection."

This statement contains several admissions that the Tribune has often made at certain times, viz.: Before the McKinley bill passed and since the passage of the Wilson bill. It admits (1) that a tariff protects a trust; (2) that the sugar trust duped the Republicans in Congress in 1890; (3) that the industry of sugar refining needs no protection; (4) that the sugar trust is an outrageous monopoly which has made a thousand bad uses of its protective duties and has, therefore, forfeited its right to such duties. These are all very rich admissions to come from the leading protection organ of this country. They cannot but awaken the thought of thousands of Rip Van Winkle Republicans whose minds have been asleep during the past thirty years and whose eyes have only been opened enough to read the Tribune once a week. They will rub their drowsy eyes and scratch their stupid heads and wonder how it is that a sugar duty can protect a trust and work so much harm to everybody while other duties are such blessings. Some of these readers may in time call upon the Tribune to explain what duties are, and what are not good, and why.

Our "Pauper" Farm Products.

The protectionists of Germany do not, in plain words, call the American farmer a pauper, but no other meaning can be placed on the following extract from an appeal made by them recently:

"The principle current nowadays, based on an unlimited exchange of products, that the price of grain must be reckoned on the basis of prices that obtain among people on the lowest stage of culture, indicates an essential interference with the evolution of our country as a cultivated people. The degeneration and ruin of German grain production and German agriculture means a surrender of the fatherland to its external and internal foes."

Here we have again the usual presumption of superiority on the part of a class who beg and buy laws wherewith to steal from the people. These German land barons, like American factory barons, demand "culture" at the expense of consumers, most of whom they believe were born to be mere beasts of burden. It will also be noted that protectionists of the fatherland play the old game of "patriotism" to divert the attention of their victims from the real issue. Free trade in grain they loftily characterize as an "interference with the evolution of our country as a cultivated people."

This is the spirit of protectionism the world over. It first hypnotizes the people who work for a living by loud professions of patriotism, and then proceeds to rob industry for the benefit of idleness and cunning.

If American grain should be shut out of Germany at the behest of monopolists there the farmers of this country could not consistently complain. They would be getting a foreign dose of the same medicine which they have so persistently administered to themselves and others on this side of the water.

The Republican party will then be nearer the pinnacle to which it has so long aspired. It will be able not only to dictate high prices for farm machinery, but a low price for farm products. And all for the perpetuation of our "cultivated people," the protectees.—Chicago Herald.

Unblushing Hypocrites.

Chairman William L. Wilson has introduced a bill in the House of Representatives repealing that portion of the new tariff act which imposes a differential duty of 1-10 of a cent per pound on sugars imported from countries paying a bounty on sugar exports. The repeal of this duty was urged by President Cleveland in his last message. This duty is in defiance of existing treaties and is working much harm. It is because of it that the German Government has prohibited the importation of American meats into that country.

This bill will undoubtedly pass the House and give the Republican Senators another opportunity to show their loyalty to the sugar trust. It was only a few weeks ago that every Republican Senator went on record in favor of leaving this duty to benefit the trust and harm our foreign commerce. The Republicans make great anti-trust pretensions, but they always line up on the side of the trusts when it is voting time. More unblushing hypocrites than these self-same Republicans do not exist.

Trusts Gaining Power in the Senate.

Trusts are likely to fare well at the hands of the next United States Senate. To the present quota of trust Senators, which includes all Republicans and a half dozen selfish nondescripts, will probably be added three of the most faithful and unscrupulous representatives of trustdom that ever voted against the welfare of the masses.

"Steve" Elkins owns the Republican party in West Virginia, and is going to send himself to the United States Senate, where he can prevent any further reductions of duties on coal and iron ore, or interference with the lead, sugar or other trusts in which he or his friends are interested. He scruples at nothing when dollars are at stake. The foundations of his fortune were laid in New Mexico, where he, by getting government surveyors and natives to testify falsely as to boundaries, became possessed of the only anthracite coal beds in this country outside of Pennsylvania.

"Gas" Addicks has a first mortgage on the Republican party in Delaware, which will soon be foreclosed. He paid anywhere from $5 to $100 for votes at the last election. Sewell of New Jersey is similarly situated. But few Republican editors in the State have not obtained railroad passes through him, and are willing to support him for the Senate. All three of these men are monopolists and boodleaires of the worst stripe, utterly unfit to sit in the United States Senate, Promise Vs. Performance.

The Republicans during the campaign incessantly reiterated the charge that the Democratic tariff law was made in the interest of the sugar trust, notwithstanding the fact that the protection which the McKinley law gave the trust was one-half a cent, while that given by the present law is only one-eighth of a cent. Since the election they have re-echoed this charge whenever they thought they saw an opportunity to score a partisan point. And yet when Senator Gray moved last week to take up a bill repealing this eighth of a cent protection to the trust not a Republican voted with him. The vote was 23 to 27—the 23 Senators who voted for repeal were all Democrats; three Republicans could have changed the result. Was there ever more unblushing hypocrisy on the part of a political party?

Ashamed of Their Own Party.

The St. Louis Globe-Democrat (Rep.) regrets that for the purpose of embarrassing the Democrats in the Senate the Republican members voted against the motion to take up the sugar bill. "This policy," it says, "is bad morals and bad politics." The Philadelphia Telegraph (Rep.) also says: "This is not statesmanship. It is a kind of business self-respecting men ought to be ashamed of. A proposition should have been made to amend the Democratic bill by making all grades of sugar absolutely free, and the issue should have been forced at this point."

A "Progressive Protectionist."

The Carroll (Ia.) Herald (Rep.) furnishes the following reasons why Senator Allison would make the strongest candidate whom the Republicans could nominate for President in 1896: "He is a protectionist whose views are progressive and in line with the changing needs of our country. He is no hobbyist. He has made the national currency the study of his life. For twenty years he has been an authority on finance in the Senate. He is a conservative, well-balanced man, and is in touch with the demands and requirements of the people."

The Income Tax.

It is apparent, from several manifestations, that capital is preparing to make its last fight against the income tax in the courts.—Indianapolis Sentinel.

If Joseph H. Choate and Clarence A. Seward have really been retained to test the constitutionality of the income tax, their own incomes are likely to be materially increased thereby.—Boston Globe.

If there are any wealthy men who, rather than pay the new tax on their incomes, prefer to spend their money in feeing lawyers for bringing into question the constitutionality of the law that imposes it, they can easily get the thanks of the lawyers without causing any apprehension among the supporters of the law. The essential principle of the tax has already been affirmed by the court.—Providence Journal.

Force of Habit.

"Does the razor hurt you?"
No reply.
"Is the draught too strong?"
No reply.
"Shall I shut the door?"
No reply.
"Awful fire last night!"
No reply.
"Shave you pretty close?"
No reply.
"Getting very chilly now!"
No reply.
"That was a heavy thunderstorm last night!"
No reply.
"Shampoo?"
No reply.
"Trim your hair up a little?"
No reply.
"Brilliantine on the mustache?"
No reply.
"Bay rum?"
No reply.

Then the barber, who was all alone in his shop, sat down, greatly refreshed. He had been shaving himself.—Tit Bits.

TERRIBLE DESTITUTION.

Disease Added to Other Tribulations of Nebraska Drought Sufferers.

Additional dispatches have been received from Western Nebraska telling of the destitution and distress prevailing among the inhabitants of the drought-stricken districts. A dispatch from Hastings says:

"Terrible destitution exists in Perkins, Chase, Dundy, Lincoln, Hayes, Hitchcock and Frontier Counties, and the worst feature of it is that the people in several localities are afflicted with scurvy for want of wholesome food. The State Relief Committee finds itself unable to relieve all the people in distress, so great is the demand for aid. Railroad men report that since the cold snap no less than a dozen people perished in the above counties in the past two days for want of food and fuel."

Hundreds of families are without coal, and in the border counties, where no trees or brush exist, the poor people will have a hard time to keep from freezing to death. In Perkins County the destitution is complete. Over 600 families are appealing for help.

In Hitchcock County the wife of a settler gave birth to twins during the storm, and before neighbors could reach her home the poor woman expired for want of sufficient food and attention. The twins are still living and in charge of charitable neighbors.

North Platte reports that there are many cases of suffering and hunger among drought sufferers in Lincoln and Logan Counties.

Overseers of the poor state that unless aid comes from outside there will be many deaths from hunger and want of clothing this winter.

"The State Relief Commission has fifty families on its list as needing assistance and most distressing reports come in from all over the western part of the State relating to woful lack of food and clothing," says a Lincoln dispatch.

"No deaths certainly attributable to starvation are yet reported, although it is claimed that a woman and two children found dead in a cabin near Niobrara the morning before Christmas died from lack of food and care. Coal is most needed and Mr. Ludden, of the State Relief Committee, and General Manager Holdredge, of the Burlington and Missouri River Railroad, are doing everything in their power to forward supplies to the more destitute localities. Very few farmers in the border counties have any stock left, having let cattle and horses roam at large. The people are living in covered wagons by hundreds rather than face starvation and freeze to death. More or less destitution exists in every county, from the Colorado line east to Hall and Adams Counties, and the various relief committees, although overwhelmed with applications for aid, are doing all they can to relieve the distress."

STRONG IS NOW MAYOR.

He Becomes the Executive Head of New York.

For the first time in twenty-two years a Mayor not of the Democratic faith is at the head of the New York city government. William L. Strong, who was on Tuesday inducted into the office, represents much the same conditions and social elements that asserted themselves in 1872 in the elevation of William F. Havemeyer to the Mayoralty. In both instances there was a revolt against municipal corruption.

WM. L. STRONG.

Upon both occasions public sentiment was crystallized through the medium of a committee of seventy, the main purpose in 1872 being to overthrow the Tweed regime, and in 1894 to correct abuses, known or suspected, in the police and other departments of the city government.

The exposure of the practice of levying blackmail by the police, particularly upon the criminal classes of society, who, in consideration of their payments of money, were granted immunity from arrest, was primarily the work of the Society for the Prevention of Vice, which procured the appointment of the State Senate Committee which has become famous under the name of its Chairman, Mr. Lexow.

Without an enlargement of the powers of the Mayor, it is argued, says a correspondent, Mr. Strong, whatever may be his disposition, is as helpless to combat corruption in the departments as his predecessors in office have been. It is proposed to enact a law giving the Mayor power of removal over heads of bureaus and an absolute control of the police department. Under the present system, while the Mayor appoints members of the police board and other department chiefs, he may not remove them except through processes that practically amount to a deprivation of the power. The framing of new laws touching these points promises to be as important work as any that is likely to come before the State Legislature and to bring out as many conflicting theories.

HORSE-MEAT SAUSAGES.

Three Equine Slaughter Houses Near Chicago.

France may laugh at our cereals and sausage, Germany may grumble about American meats, and Denmark may lay embargo upon our hogs and cattle from Texas, but there is at least one among the countries of Europe which is glad to get a certain kind of food from Uncle Sam, and that is Belgium. But what is still more remarkable, that commodity which Belgium is so glad to buy from us is horseflesh!

And Chicago, ever ready to supply whatever anybody in any part of the world may want, is only too glad to undertake to supply the Belgians with horsemeat sausage, pickled horseflesh and horseflesh in any other form. As surprising as it may seem, there are at present three equine slaughter houses within a few miles of this city, says a Chicago dispatch, which are daily shipping horsemeat to Europe. Two of these are located on the Indiana side of the State line and the other on the Illinois side.

The horse butchers make no secret of their unusual industry. They admit that they buy horses—decrepit brutes, old, worthless, attenuated, disabled, halt, maimed and blind—and kill them for their hides and their meat; for their blood, their offal and their bones. The hides and hoofs and bones find a legitimate home market, apart from popular prejudice; the blood and offal is likewise disposed of; and the meat—well, all the horse butchers swear by the gods that every pound of meat goes to Belgium and through Belgium to France.

There is at least one man who doubts that all the horse meat intended for food goes to Europe. J. P. Davis, who is a justice of the peace at Hammond, Ind., and who also runs an express wagon route, laughs at the idea of the horse product going altogether to Belgium. He says:

"My wagons have carried a good deal of the product up to Archer avenue. Of course it goes there. The sausage meat goes up in pails and tubs and there is a place up there on Archer avenue where they mix it or make it up into sausage. These little Frankfurter sausages—look out for 'em—they're hoss meat."

THE U. S. Government Chemists have reported, after an examination of the different brands, that the ROYAL Baking Powder is absolutely pure, greatest in strength, and superior to all others.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER COMPANY, 106 WALL ST. NEW-YORK.

The Men Were Curious.

It is related that the Duchess of Westminster put in her guest chamber a curious Swiss clock to which was attached a printed notice, "Please do not touch." When M. Joly, the Canadian Liberal, visited her Grace he ventured to inquire the reason for the prohibition. "You are the twentieth man who has asked that question," replied the lady, gleefully. "Women, you know, are supposed to be proverbially curious, and I put the plackard on the clock to test the same weakness in men, and I am happy to say I find them not a whit less curious than the women. I keep a list of all the gentlemen who have asked me the question you have just put, and there has been only one exception among all my guests who have occupied the room; that was Mr. Fawcett, the late Postmaster General, and he, poor man, was blind."

A Jury of His Peers.

Henry W. Paine, the eminent Boston lawyer, once went to one of the interior towns of Maine, where a boy was on trial for arson. He had no counsel, and Mr. Paine was assigned by the court to take charge of his case. He discovered, after a brief interview with the boy that he was half-witted. The jury, however, was composed of good, solid country farmers, who owned barns such as the defendant was alleged to have set on fire, and in spite of the boy's evident weakness of intellect they brought in a verdict of guilty. The presiding justice turned to Mr. Paine and remarked: "Have you any motion to make?" Mr. Paine arose and in his dry and weighty manner answered: "No, your honor; I believe I have secured for this idiot boy all that the laws of Maine and the constitution of the United States allow—a trial by his peers."

Hope Crushed to Earth

Will rise again in the bosom of a dyspeptic wise enough to substitute for the pseudo-tonics, which have bamboozled him out of his belief in the possibility of cure, the real invigorant and stomachic, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. The bilious, the nervous, the dyspeptic, the rheumatic alike derive speedy benefit from this helpful botanic medicine. Persons suffering from indigestion will gain no positive permanent good from the fiery, unmedicated stimulants of commerce, too often used recklessly. The Bitters is immeasurably to be preferred to these as a tonic, since its pure basis is modified by the conjunction with it of vegetable ingredients of the highest remedial excellence. Malaria is prevented and remedied by it, and it infuses vigor into the weak and sickly. A wineglassful three times a day is the average dose.

The Just Fear of God.

"If we work upon marble, it will perish; if we work upon brass, time will efface it; if we rear temples, they will crumble into dust; but if we work upon immortal minds, if we imbue them with principles, with the just fear of God and love of our fellow-men, we engrave on those tablets something which will brighten to all eternity."—D. Webster.

"SO YOU passed yourself as a widow while you were away, eh?" said Mr. Briggs to his spouse, who, by the way, is rather good-looking. "You ought to be ashamed of yourself, but I suppose you are not." "Of course I am not," was her reply. "I did so merely on Johnny's account. You have no idea how kind all the gentlemen were to him."

STATE OF OHIO, CITY OF TOLEDO, LUCAS COUNTY, } ss.

FRANK J. CHENEY makes oath that he is the senior partner of the firm of F. J. CHENEY & Co., doing business in the City of Toledo, County and State aforesaid, and that said firm will pay the sum of ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS for each and every case of CATARRH that cannot be cured by the use of HALL'S CATARRH CURE. FRANK J. CHENEY.

Sworn to before me and subscribed in my presence, this 6th day of December, A. D., 1886.

{SEAL} A. W. GLEASON, Notary Public.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Send for testimonials, free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

Sold by Druggists, 75c.

A GIRL who has been engaged a number of years always looks like a woman who has been married that long.

"Health Insurance."

That is almost as necessary as life insurance. It means reasonable care and occasionally a little medicine—not much. A Ripans Tabule is enough in most cases.

THE world is never interested in a man who talks about his wrongs, or a woman who talks about her rights.

KEEP UP THAT RASPING COUGH at the peril of breaking down your Lungs and Throat, rather let the afflicted immediately resort to Dr. D. Jayne's Expectorant, which cures all Coughs and Colds, and ameliorates all Lung Complaints and Throat-ails.

INDEPENDENCE, like honor, is a rocky island without a beach.

BEAUTIFUL faces are always features of Hood's Sarsaparilla Calendars, and they were never more charming than they are this season. Hood's Sarsaparilla Calendar for 1895 is heart shaped and is ornamented with representations of "Summer" and "Winter." A sweet little face which peeps out from a dainty cap, with snow flakes falling about, represents the season of ice and snow, while the sunshine of summer lights up another face at the left. The design was made by one of the most gifted water color artists in the country, and the work of the lithographer is seemingly perfect. Hood's Calendar, as usual, presents all the desired information about the lunar changes and other astronomical events. Ask your druggist for a copy, and if his supply is exhausted send six cents in stamps for one calendar, or 10 cents for two, to C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

SO MANY wicked spiders down town are regarded as innocent flies by their women folks at home.

I HAVE found Piso's Cure for Consumption an unfailing medicine.—F. R. LOTZ, 1305 Scott St., Covington, Ky., Oct. 1, 1894.

MEN who imagine that they are thoroughbreds, discover finally that they are only plain work animals.

Send your full name and address to Dobbins' Soap Mfg. Co., Philada., Pa., by return mail, and get free of all cost, a coupon worth several dollars, if used by you to its full advantage. Don't delay. This is worthy attention.

A SURPRISING number of people are wearing old clothes this year.

ATTEND the Fort Wayne Business College.

IF you have a secret, you might as well tell it to fifty as to one.

Dr. PIERCE'S Golden Medical DISCOVERY

Cures Ninety-eight per cent. of all cases of Consumption, in all its Earlier Stages.

Although by many believed to be incurable, there is the evidence of hundreds of living witnesses to the fact that, in all its earlier stages, consumption is a curable disease. Not every case, but a large percentage of cases, and we believe, fully 98 per cent. are cured by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, even after the disease has progressed so far as to induce repeated bleedings from the lungs, severe lingering cough with copious expectoration (including tubercular matter), great loss of flesh and extreme emaciation and weakness.

Do you doubt that hundreds of such cases reported to us as cured by "Golden Medical Discovery" were genuine cases of that dread and fatal disease? You need not take our word for it. They have, in nearly every instance, been so pronounced by the best and most experienced home physicians, who have no interest whatever in misrepresenting them, and who were often strongly prejudiced and advised against a trial of "Golden Medical Discovery," but who have been forced to confess that it surpasses, in curative power over this fatal malady, all other medicines with which they are acquainted. Nasty cod-liver oil and its filthy "emulsions" and mixtures, had been tried in nearly all these cases and had either utterly failed to benefit, or had only seemed to benefit a little for a short time. Extract of malt, whiskey, and various preparations of the hypophosphites had also been faithfully tried in vain.

The photographs of a large number of those cured of consumption, bronchitis, lingering coughs, asthma, chronic nasal catarrh and kindred maladies, have been skillfully reproduced in a book of 160 pages which will be mailed to you, on receipt of address and six cents in stamps. Address for Book, World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

WALTER BAKER & CO.

The Largest Manufacturers of PURE, HIGH GRADE COCOAS AND CHOCOLATES On this Continent, have received HIGHEST AWARDS from the great Industrial and Food EXPOSITIONS In Europe and America.

Unlike the Dutch Process, no Alkalies or other Chemicals or Dyes are used in any of their preparations. Their delicious BREAKFAST COCOA is absolutely pure and soluble, and costs less than one cent a cup.

SOLD BY GROCERS EVERYWHERE.

WALTER BAKER & CO. DORCHESTER, MASS.

CALIFORNIA

Weekly Overland Parties—Personally Conducted—In New Pullman Upholstered Tourist Sleeping Cars, without change, leave Chicago every Thursday for all points on the Pacific Coast. For particulars address JUDSON & CO., 195 South Clark St., Chicago.

Mrs. Winslow's SOOTHING SYRUP for Children teething; softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic. 25 cents a bottle.

FOR ALL THE ILLS THAT PAIN CAN BRING .....

ST. JACOBS OIL

..... As CURE IS KING; Alike with ACHES to Everything.

Scott's Emulsion

of Cod-liver Oil, with Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda, is a constructive food that nourishes, enriches the blood, creates solid flesh, stops wasting and gives strength. It is for all like Consumption, Scrofula, Anæmia, Marasmus; or for Coughs and Colds, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Weak Lungs, Loss of Flesh and General Debility. Scott's Emulsion has no equal as Nourishment for Babies and Growing Children.

Wasting Diseases

Buy only the genuine put up in salmon-colored wrapper.

Send for pamphlet on Scott's Emulsion. FREE.

Scott & Bowne, N. Y. All Druggists. 50 cents and $1.

BLACKING

FOR DURABILITY, ECONOMY AND FOR GENERAL BLACKING IS UNEQUALLED. HAS AN ANNUAL SALE OF 3,000 TONS. WE ALSO MANUFACTURE THE WAX PASTE STOVE POLISH FOR AN AFTER DINNER SHINE, OR TO TOUCH UP SPOTS WITH A CLOTH. MAKES NO DUST. IN 5&10 CENT TIN BOXES. THE ONLY PERFECT PASTE. Morse Bros. Prop's. Canton, Mass.

CONFIDENCES.

Yes, Jennie, I have noticed it.
I would not speak of it at all
Were it not for the fact
That I know a remedy.

I had the same experience.
Every now and then,
And always at a time
Most inopportune,
One of those little pimple-like blotches
Would appear on my face
And annoy me
Beyond expression.

I haven't had one for six months now.
I have a talisman
That protects me.
I get it at the drug store.

You have seen the advertisement—
I am pretty sure.

Ripans Tabules

Is the name—three dozen in a box!
Swallow one after dinner,
Or just before bed time,
About once a week and
You will be annoyed no more.
But more beautiful! If you
Would believe that possible.

NICKEL PLATE.

The New York, Chicago & St. Louis R.R.

SOLID THROUGH TRAINS BUFFALO & CHICAGO.

LOWEST RATES.

THROUGH PALACE BUFFET SLEEPING CARS between Chicago, Buffalo, New York and Boston.

For rates or other information, call on nearest Ticket Agent, or address A. W. JOHNSTON, Gen'l Superintendent. D. F. HORNER, Gen'l Passenger Agent. CLEVELAND O.

W. L. DOUGLAS $3 SHOE IS THE BEST.

$5. CORDOVAN, FRENCH & ENAMELLED CALF. $4. $3.50 FINE CALF & KANGAROO. $3.50 POLICE, 3 SOLES. $2.50 $2. WORKINGMEN'S EXTRA FINE. $2. $1.75 BOYS' SCHOOL SHOES. LADIES $3. $2.50 $2. $1.75 BEST DONGOLA. SEND FOR CATALOGUE. W. L. DOUGLAS BROCKTON, MASS.

Over One Million People wear the W. L. Douglas $3 & $4 Shoes

All our shoes are equally satisfactory They give the best value for the money. They equal custom shoes in style and fit. Their wearing qualities are unsurpassed. The prices are uniform,—stamped on sole. From $1 to $3 saved over other makes. If your dealer cannot supply you we can.

TEXAS, MEXICO and CALIFORNIA.

— VIA —

Wabash Line

In connection with the St. Louis, Iron Mountain & Southern Railway, Texas & Pacific Railway, International & Great Northern Railroad, and Southern Pacific Railway, known as the ONLY TRUE SOUTHERN ROUTE, has placed in service a Through First-Class Sleeping Car and Tourist Sleeping Car, leaving Chicago daily at 10:30 A. M., via St. Louis to Little Rock, Malvern (Hot Springs), Austin, San Antonio, Laredo (where a direct connection is made with through sleeping car for the City of Mexico), El Paso, Los Angeles and San Francisco. This is the only line from Chicago which can offer this excellent service. Call or write to any ticket agent of the Wabash or connecting line for printed matter showing time, route, rates, description of cars, etc., or

R. G. BUTLER, D. P. A., Detroit, Mich.
F. H. TRISTRAM, C. P. A., Pittsburg, Pa.
P. E. DONBAUGH, P. & T. A., Toledo, Ohio.
R. G. THOMPSON, P. & T. A., Fort Wayne, Ind.
J. HALDERMAN, M. P. A., 201 Clark St., Chicago, Ill.
J. M. McCONNELL, P. & T. A., Lafayette, Ind.
G. D. MAXFIELD, D. P. A., Indianapolis, Ind.
C. S. CRANE, G. P. & T. A., St. Louis, Mo.

LINENE REVERSIBLE

Raphael, Angelo, Rubens, Tasso

The "LINENE REVERSIBLE" are the Best and Most Economical Collars and Cuffs worn; they are made of fine cloth, both sides finished alike, and, being reversible, one collar is equal to two of any other kind. They fit well, wear well and look well. A box of Ten Collars or Five Pairs of Cuffs for Twenty-five Cents. A Sample Collar and Pair of Cuffs by mail for Six Cents. Name style and size. Address REVERSIBLE COLLAR COMPANY, 77 FRANKLIN ST., NEW YORK. 27 KILBY ST., BOSTON.

...EVERY...

Home-Seeker

SHOULD READ

The pamphlet recently published by the Passenger Department of the Illinois Central Railroad, entitled "Southern Home-Seekers' Guide for 1894." It contains over 50 excellent letters from Northern farmers now located in the South and other authentic and valuable information. For a FREE COPY address the undersigned at Manchester, Iowa:

J. F. MERRY, Assistant General Passenger Agent.

PENSION JOHN W. MORRIS, Washington, D. C. Successfully Prosecutes Claims. Late Principal Examiner U. S. Pension Bureau. 3 yrs in last war, 15 adjudicating claims, atty since.

When Writing to Advertisers, say you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES THE WORST COUGHS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION

LYON'S 7 WONDERS

A SPECIFIC For all DERANGEMENTS of the STOMACH. PRICE $1.00

Manf'd by THE LYON MEDICINE CO. INDIANAPOLIS IND.

FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

The Laboring Man Speaks.

MONON, IND., May 10, 1894.

Lyon Medicine Co., Indianapolis, Ind.:

GENTS—I think it my duty to send this statement to you of the benefit I have received from LYON'S SEVEN WONDERS. I have been afflicted for twenty years with stomach trouble of the severest nature. Would have seasons of the severest suffering from one to two months at a time. Between these times of suffering was never longer than three months. There was never any time that I was entirely free from misery more or less. These spells of great suffering would sometimes come on with sickness and vomiting, and other times would come on in form of rheumatism, but would finally center itself in my stomach. I have doctored with a great many physicians, but none of them could tell me what the trouble was. I was unable to get relief until I got LYON'S SEVEN WONDERS. It is now sixty days since I began taking this medicine, and am now for the first time in twenty years free from pain and misery. I am compelled to say it is a blessing to a poor man.

J. J. HACKETT, Blacksmith.

IVORY SOAP

IVORY = IT FLOATS

FORTY MILLION CAKES YEARLY.

THE PROCTER & GAMBLE CO., CINTI.

Insist on ARM AND HAMMER SODA in packages

BEWARE of imitation trade marks and labels.

ARM AND HAMMER

Costs no more than inferior package soda—never spoils the flour, keeps soft, and is universally acknowledged purest in the world.

Made only by CHURCH & CO., New York.

Sold by grocers everywhere.

Write for Arm and Hammer Book of valuable Recipes—FREE.

TIME TABLE

TRAINS CARRYING PASSENGERS LEAVE

GOING EAST.

Boston Express	5:21 a m—Daily
Detroit Accom'n	2:00 p m—ex Su
New York Limited	7:55 p m Daily

GOING WEST.

Logansport Accommodation	7:15 am—Daily
Mail and Express	12:23 pm—ex Su
Chicago & St. Louis Lim(53)	7:55 pm—Daily

All these trains stop for passengers.

For rates, Tickets, Time Table, etc., apply to I. M. ZENT, Agent, Auburn, Ind.

CHAS M. HAYS, V. Pres. and Gen'l Manager.
C. S. CRANE, Gen'l Pass and Ticket Agent.

L. S. & M. S. R. R.

TIME TABLE—In Effect Nov. 18, 1894.

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

Stations—	Mail.	Exp'ss	Fre'gt
Fort Wayne, ... p	11 45 am	4 45 pm	6 40 am
New Era	12 14 pm	5 14	7 27
Auburn Junc	12 25	5 25	7 58
Auburn	12 29	5 29	8 37
Waterloo	12 41	5 41	9 24
Summit	12 52	5 52	9 45
Steubenville	12 56	*5 56	.....
Pleasant Lake	1 03	6 03	10 12
Angola	1 13	6 14	10 50
Jackson	3 25	8 35	4 30

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Stations—	Freight	Exp'ss	Mail
Jackson ..... dp	6 55 am	11 20 am	6 30 pm
Angola	12 25 pm	2 21 pm	8 51
Pleasant Lake	1 03	2 32	9 01
Steubenville	.....	2 40	9 07
Summit	1 25	2 44	9 11
Waterloo	2 30	3 00	9 24
Auburn	3 00	3 11	9 35
Auburn Junc	3 14	3 14	9 38
New Era	4 05	3 24	9 50
Fort Wayne	5 25	3 55	10 25

For rates on tickets or freight to all points, call on or address E. T. DELAPP, Agent at Auburn

Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

Time Card in Effect May 30, 1894.

Stations—	WEST-BOUND.
	a m	p m	a m	p m
Bellaire lv	*7.00	*11.15	9.51	*3.46	.....
Newark ..... ar	10.15	2.40	1 12	7.05	8.20
	a m
Columbus ..... ar	11 45	3 40	2.15	8.25	8.25
	p m		a m
Mansfield ..... ly	12.05	.....	.....	9 19	10.23
				a m
Deshler	2.35	4.37	10.05	12.10	.....
Defiance	3 15	5.20	11 00	1.10	.....
Hicksville	.....	.....	11.45	1.40	.....
St Joe	.....	.....	12.01	.....	.....
			p m	a m
Auburn Jc	4 12	6.17	12.25	2 12	.....
Garrett	4.25	6.25	12.50	2.25	.....
Avilla	.....	6.40	1.00	‡2.35	.....
Albion	‡4.48	.....	1.16	‡2.50	.....
Syracuse	.....	.....	1.57	3.22	.....
Milford Jct	‡5.22	‡7.30	2.11	.....	.....
Wellsboro	.....	.....	3.45	.....	.....
Chicago ..... ar	9.00	11.05	6.40	7.20	.....

Stations—	EAST-BOUND.
	a m	p m	a m	p m	p m
Chicago lv	*10.45	* 3.00	† 6.05	.....	5
	a m
Wellsboro	‡12.55	.....	8.43		.....
Milford Jct	2.11	‡6.20	10.32		.....
Syracuse	.....	.....	10.45		‡10.26
Albion	2.50	7.00	11.25		.....
Avilla	.....	‡7.15	11.45		.....
Garrett	3.20	7.25	11.55		11.25
	p m		p m
Auburn Jc	3.30	7.35	12.25		11.35
St Joe	.....	.....	12.43		.....
				a m
Hicksville	3.56	8.00	1.00		.....
Defiance	4.30	8.35	1.40		8 m 12.37
Deshler	5.10	9.13	2.43		1.30
Mansfield	7.57	.....	.....		4.25
		a m	a m
Newark ..... ar	9.35	6 15	12 15	p m	5.58
			p m
Columbus	.....	.....	11.15		8.25
	a m		a m
Bellaire ..... ar (Eastern time)	12.55	10 00	3.20	.....	9.08
Wheeling ..... ar	2.35	11 35	4.55	.....	10.45
		p m			p m
Pittsburg	.....	4.15	7.30	.....	4.25
	p m	a m		a m
Washington D.C	2.10	4 02	.....	.....
Baltimore	3.16	5.15	.....	.....	a m
Philadelphia	6.08	6.53	.....	.....
				p m
New York	8 25	10.55	.....	.....

*Trains run daily. †Daily except Sunday. ‡Stop on Signal.

For further information call B. & O. Ticket Agent or address L. S. Allen, Ass't Gen'l Pass'r Ag't, Chicago. City Office, Auburn, Ind.

Rebecca Wilkinson, of Brownsvalley, Ind., says: I have been in a distressed condition for three years from Nervousness Weakness of the Stomach, Dyspepsia and Indigestion until my health was gone. I had been doctoring constantly with no relief. I bought one bottle of South American Nervine, which did me more good than any $50 worth of doctoring I ever did in my life. I would advise every weakly person to use this valuable and lovely remedy; a few bottles of it has cured me completely. I consider it the greatest medicine in the world." Warranted the most wonderful stomach and nerve cure ever known. Trial bottles 15 cents. Sold by Robbins and McCord druggists Auburn Ind. 34tf

Relief in One Day.

South American Nervine relieves the worst cases of nervous prostrations nervousness and nervous dyspepsia in a single day. No such relief and blessing has ever come to the invalids of this country. Its powers to cure the stomach are wonderful in the extreme. It always cures; it cannot fail. It radically cures all weakness of the stomach and never disappoints. Its effects are marvelous and surprising.—It gladdens the hearts of the suffering and brings immediate relief. It is a luxury to take and always safe. Trial bottles 15 cents. Sold by Robbins & McCord druggist Auburn Ind. 50tf

You ought to know this: DeWitts' Witch Hazel Salve will heal a burn and stop the pain instantly. It will cure badly chapped hands, ugly wounds, sores, and a well known cure for piles. Sold by Robbins & McCord.

TEXAS, MEXICO AND CALIFORNIA.

The Wabash Railroad.

In connection with the St. Louis, Iron Mountain & Southern Railway, Texas & Pacific Railway, International & Great Northern Railroad, and Southern Pacific Railway, known as the only true southern route, has placed in service a through first-class sleeping car and Tourist sleeping car, leaving Chicago daily at 10:50 a. m., via St. Louis to Little Rock, Malvern (Hot Springs), Austin, San Antonio, Laredo (where a direct connection is made with through sleeping car for the City of Mexico), El Paso, Los Angeles and SanFrancisco. This is the only line from Chicago which can offer this excellent service. Call or write to any ticket agent of the Wabash or connecting lines for printed matter showing time, route, rates, description of cars, etc., or C. S. CRANE, G. P. & T. A., St. Louis, Mo. F. A. PALMER, Asst. G. P. A., 201 S. Clark St., Chicago. Ills. 46-16w9

LAND SEEKERS' Excursions

to the SOUTH

via

Lake Erie & Western R. R,

Fort Wayne, Cincinnati & Louisville R. R.

(Natural Gas Route)

January 8 & February 5, '95.

One Fare for the Round Trip.

—to points in—

Alabama, Western Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Eastern Louisana, Mississipqi, North and SauthCarolina, Tennesee and Virginia.

This is an excellent opportunity for all those desiring to seek homes in the South as well as for those wishing to spend part of winter in the land of sunshine and flowers.

Besure your tickets read via the "Natural Gas Route," the great through line traversing the wonderful gas and oil regions of Ohio and Indiana, furnishing elegant Reclining Chair Cars between Sandusky and the Missouri river FREE of extra charge.

☐ For tickets, rates, time and general information, call on any ticket agent of the above route, or addree

H. C. PARKER, Traffic Manager, Indianapolis, Indiana.
C. F. DALY, Gen Pas & Tk Agt

Fayette is the seat of a progressive and prosperous Normal University. Its success is due to the high aim and far-reaching wisdom of its founders. It is a school with a purpose. It has something of importance to say to every prosperous student in the country. Normal work is a specialty but there are Preparatory, Commercial, Musical, Elocutionary, Shorthand, Typewriting, and Fine Art Departments, in addition to regular college courses. It has an able faculty, ample equipments, superior location and large attendance. Expenses are less than half what they are in many institutions.

Write for catalogue to President of University
J. E. DODDS, Fayette, O.

BUCKLEN'S ARNICA SALVE.—The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Robbins & McCord. tf

Are You

Lifeless by day and sleepless by night? Have you mental depression, lassitude or any nerve trouble? Have you that terrible "all gone" feeling, or have you had lagrippe which has left you in sore need of renewed life, strength and buoyancy. Take Vitaline and Nervetone, prepared by the Hall Medicine Company, Toledo, Ohio, Druggists sell it. Accept no substitute, headache, toothache and neuralgia cured in an hour. It never fails. Sold by Fischler & Son. 1 2

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

One at Night.

One dose of Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup taken in the evening before retiring will give you a good nights rest. It will cure your cough quicker than any other and is pleasant to take. If you have never tried this remedy, ask your druggist for Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup the next time you buy. It is guaranteed to give satisfaction. Sold by all druggists. 1-5

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder
World's Fair Highest Medal and Diploma.

Never Give Up.

Many cases of so-called consumption have been cured by Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup. Never give up, as long as there is life there should be hope, take this medicine; use it persistently, and you will notice a change for the better, as it is peculiarly adapted to this class of diseases. Do not fail to try this remedy in in time. Sold by all druggists 1-5

Under title of "The Dream City" there comes to us this week a very handsome art series of photographic views. The volume contains 64 high class photo engravings size 11 by 13 inches of selected and representative views of the Columbian Exposition. The cover is handsomely designed in gold and colors, and the work throughout is the perfection of printers' art. The collection of views is offered at a special price of 50 cents, postage paid. The N. D Thompson Publishing Co., 1120 Pine Street, St. Louis, publishers Educational Art Series.

How it Acts.

After using Drummond's Lightning Remedy for rheumatism, according to direction, for ten days, Mr. John W. Boyenton, of Hampton, Va., writes that he can walk and attend to business, which he could not do before. This remedy has a remarkable record of cure—not only relieving pain, but restoring all the functions of the crippled limbs. If you want a cure, send $5 to the Drummond Medicine Co., 48 Maiden Lane, New York, and they will ship to your express address two large bottles of their remedy, with full directions for use. Agents wanted. 1 2

Rheumatism Cured in a Day.—Mystic Cure" for Rheumatism and Neuralgia, radically cures in 1 to 3 days. Its action upon the system is remarkable and mysterious. It removes at once the cause and the disease immediately disappears. The first dose greatly benefits, 75 cts Sold by Robbins & McCord, druggists, Auburn. 41tf

Relief in Six Hours.

Distressing Kidney and Bladder diseases relieved in six hours by the "New Great South American Kidney Cure." This new remedy is a great surprise on account of its exceeding promptness in relieving pain in the bladder, kidneys, back and every part of the urinary passages in male or female. It relieves retention of water and pain in passing it almost immediately. If you want quick relief and cure this is your remedy. Sold by Robbins and McCord druggists Auburn Ind. 34tf

Like a Great Railway

With its branches running in every direction, are the arteries and veins which convey the blood to every part of the system. A cold, sudden changes or exposure, may cause poisonous acids to clog the circulation, and then comes rheumatism. Beware! if you value life remove the obstruction with Dr. Drummond's Lightning Remedy. Send $5 to the Drummond Medicine Co., 48 Maiden Lane, New York, and they will send you two large bottles by express—enough for a month's treatment,—with full special directions. Agents wanted. 1-2

A Chance to Make Money.

In the past week I have made $125 and attended to my household duties. I think I will do better next week. It seems the more Dish Washers I sell, the the more demand I have for them. I think any lady or gentleman, anywhere, can make money in this business. It is something every family wants, and when they can be bought so cheap, they buy them, and the person who has enterprise enough to take an agency is bound to make money. I wish any of your readers that wish to make from $5 to $12 a day, would try this business and report their success. Any one can get full particulars by addressing the Iron City Dish Washer Co., E. E. Pittsburg, Pa. Such a chance is rare—at least I have never struck one.

MARTHA F. B.

A Piano at Normal Price.

Chicago's largest music house, Lyon & Healy, has moved into a magnificent new building. They have a number of slightly used and second-hand pianos returned from World's fair renting, etc., etc., which they have determined to sacrifice rather than to try to make room for. These instruments comprise Square pianos at $40, $65, $90, $100 and $125 Upright pianos at $125, $140, $150, $165, $190, $200, $225, $240 and upward. Grand pianos at $200, $250, $300 and upward. Nearly all originally sold for from two to four times their present price. Almost all prominent makes (in squares and uprights) are represented, including numerous others, Chickering, Knabe, Steinway, Weber, Decker, Steck, Fisher, etc. This is an opportunity that will not occur again, as Lyon & Healy have not moved for twenty years. Immediate attention is therefore necessary. A good plan would be to order a piano, leaving the selection to Lyon & Healy. However, they will send a list and full particulars upon application. Any piano not proving satisfactory may be returned at their expense. Address at their new sales-rooms, corner Wabash Avenue and Adams street, Chicago. Distance is no obstacle in taking advantage of this remarkable chance to obtain a piano, for in proportion to be made the freight charges are insignificant. If you do not already know them by reputation any banker will assure you of Lyon & Healy's entire responsibility and record of over a third of a century for honorable dealing. Write to-day so as to avoid disappointment.

Good Reason for It.

There is good reason for the popularity of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Davis & Buzard, of West Monterey, Clarion Co., Pa., say, "It has cured people that our physicians could do nothing for. We persuaded them to try a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and they now recommend it with the rest of us." 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Robbins & McCord, druggists. 5

They Use it for Colds.

Carlton Cornwell, foreman of the Gazette, Middleton, N. J., believes that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy should be in every home. He used it for a cold and it effected a speedy cure. He says, "It is indeed a grand remedy, I can recommend to all. I have also seen it used for whooping cough, with the best results." 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Robbins & McCord, druggists. 5

HOMESEEKERS' EXCURSIONS, Via the Baltimore & Ohio R. R.

On January 8, and 15 and February 5 the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad will sell 30-day Excursion Tickets to points in Virginia on the Harper's Ferry & Valley Branch, south of and including Winchester, at rate of one fare for the round trip. Excursion Tickets will also be sold to points in the West, South and Southwest, at very low rates, good for return 20 days from date of sale.

For further information on or address any B. & O. Ticket Agent, S. P. Kretzer, Land and Immigration Agent, Philadelphia, Pa., or L. S. Allen, Ass't Gen'l Pass'r Agent Chicago, Ill. 2 6

Always Relieves Pain.

Many stubborn and aggravating cases of rheumatism that were believed to be incurable and accepted as life legacies, have yielded to Chamberlain's Pain Balm, much to the surprise and gratification of the sufferers. One application will relieve the pain and suffering and its continued use insures an effectual cure. For sale by Robbins & McCord, druggists. 5

Is It?

Is that excruciating agony pleasant to you? Surely not. Your rheumatism, gout, neuralgia, etc., will be quickly cured by Infallible Scotch Cure (just introduced in America.) It never fails Ask your druggist for it, and accept no substitute. For sale by Fischler & Son.

For Chronic Diarrhœa.

"I know an old soldier who had chronic diarrhœa of long standing to have been permanently cured by taking Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy," said Edward Shumpik, a prominent druggist of Minneapolis, Minn. "I have sold the Remedy in this city for over seven years and consider it superior to any other medicine now on the market for bowel complaints." 25 and 50 cent bottles of this remedy for sale by Robbins & McCord druggists. 5

We might tell you more about One Minute Cough Cure, but you probably know that it cures a cough. Every one does who has used it. It is a perfect remedy for coughs, colds, hoarseness. It is an especial favorite for children, being pleasant to take and quick in curing. For sale by Robbins & McCord.

A Household Treasure.

D. W. Fuller, of Canajoharie, N. Y., says that he always keeps Dr. King's New Discovery in the house and his family has always found the very best results follow its use; that he would not be without it, if procurable. G. A. Dykeman, druggist, Catskill, N. Y., says that Dr. King's New Discovery is undoubtedly the best cough remedy; that he has used it in his family for eight years, and it has never failed to do all that is claimed for it. Why not try a remedy so long tried and tested. Trial bottles free at Robbins & McCord's drug store. Regular size 50c and $1. 3

Methods of School Supervision.

(A Paper read by Supt. O. M. Marics brfore the County Superintendents' Convention at Indianapolis, and copied from the Biennial Report of the State Superintendent.)

"The great want of our common schools," says Dr. White, "is supervision. It is this which has vitalized the schools of our large town and cities, and raised them to their present high position, and it is this alone which can give character and efficiency to the neglected schools of the rural districts."

The above opinion, I believe, voices the sentiment of every school man of the present day and of every intelligent person who has given the matter any consideration. And while there is a universal opinion that there must be efficient supervision in the various other employments, in commerce and in government, yet in a few localities the people are loth to acknowledge and slow to realize the value of supervision—of a center of responsibility which forms the head and gives unity to the whole system of school work. The schools can reach their maximum progress only when their full strength is concentrated, and this concentration of effort can be brought about only by a thorough system of State and county supervision. The law making powers of this state, however have recognized the needs of centralized effort, and have established the county superintendency, the results of which have been in accordance, almost wholly, with the zeal displayed by the County Superintendent and his methods of work; hence the question with Indiana school men to day is not so much the needs and utility of school supervision, but the methods to be employed.

TEACHING AND SUPERINTENDING.

First of all, in efficient supervision, the Superintendent must distinguish between teaching and superintending. The office of the County Superintendent is not to teach, but to oversee the work and put life and system into it. He must remember that, although he should be a practical and successful teacher, his ability to teach well is no criterion of his ability to superintend, to supervise, to systematize, and direct the movements of the whole system of school work under his charge. He must not only be able to devise a system of work, but he must have the executive ability to inaugurate any plans or system of work that he may propose.

I admire that ambition in any Superintendent which prompts him to the desire and effort to raise the standard and efficiency of his school work in every respect to an equality with the best in the state, and he should raise it to its maximum if possible; yet his zeal should ever be tempered with prudence and judgment, and he should remember that the wealth of the various counties and the intellectual and social condition of the people and their spirit of progress vary so materially as to make a perfectly uniform standard of work throughout the state not only impractical, but impossible. To attempt any work that can not be attained, even if ever so desirable, is suicidal to the influence and success of the Superintendent and will tend to defeat his efforts in accomplishing any other work he may desire to do. Hence, the County Superintendent should carefully study all the conditions of his schools, the means, financial and otherwise, with which he has to work, and his progress should, if necessary, be slow, but sure

OFFICE WORK.

There must be system and method in the "office" work. In order to have this the County Superintendent must provide himself with suitable office records, report blanks, and other necessary supplies and stationery. All this should, of course, be furnished by the county, and has been furnished in DeKalb, without complaint. He can make his work felt in every school by personal and circular letters. The County Superintendent should always have free communication with his teachers, and by this, together with suitable reports, he should keep himself posted upon the condition of each school and of each individual pupil, and his efforts should be, and can be in this way, directed where most needed. The Superintendent should also establish a free and liberal communication between himself and the school officers. He should advise and consult with them upon the needs of the schools, and thoroughly acquaint them with his plans of work, and secure their hearty assistance and co operation. There are objections to the County Superintendent advising his Trustees as to the needs of the schools, and especially as to school apparatus and other supplies; but as certain supplies are necessary, if not indispensable, to proper advancement, I believe this to be one of his duties, for who is in a better position to know the needs of the schools and to give proper suggestions upon this subject than the County Superintendent?

EXAMINING AND LICENSING TEACHERS.

Another important item in the duties of county Superintendent is the examination and licensing of teachers, and there is possibly no other work that so thoroughly tries the stability, firmness, independence and moral worth of the Superintendent as this. All manner and sorts of influences are sometimes brought to bear upon him to license incompetent and unworthy persons, the most prevalent one of which is benevolence to poor, unfortunate and needy persons. The strong, conscientious Superintendent, however, who fully realizes his duty to the pupils of his county, will be governed only by his own judgment of the person's ability to govern and to teach. The examination, as I understand, is designed mainly as a means of assisting the examiner in ascertaining the applicant's literary qualification, and hence I use the written examination almost exclusively. It brings out some very important items in the literary ability of the applicant, such as writing, spelling, punctuation, language, etc., which could not be done so thoroughly by the oral method. The written examination is also the most convenient method, and possibly the only practical one in the examination of large classes.

An applicant should not be given credit upon any question or part of a question not fully and correctly answered. Loose gradation cultivates, in teachers, loose habits of study and thought, and carelessness and indifference in their work. The standard for license would better be low with a close gradation than high with a loose gradation. Answers need not conform to the views of the Superintendent, but they should be definite, clear and intelligent, and sufficiently comprehensive to show the applicant's knowledge of the subjects designed by the question. Close gradation is the only means of establishing anything like a uniform standard of scholarship, as shown by the grades of license, and if thoroughly followed in the various counties, would put a quietus on the complaint of teachers making a good license in one county, and a failure in another. It would also reduce the great superfluity of teachers in some of the counties when the doleful complaint comes up of too low a standard of license and too many teachers.

But while a person must possess a liberal amount of text-book knowledge, yet the literary qualification is one item only to be considered in the granting of a license. Personal appearance, health, manners, morals, successful experience and above all, professional interest and studentship are equally as necessary. A person with limited text-book knowledge, but filled with life and enthusiasm, I find, does more genuine good in the school-room than the learned one who lacks push and energy. The Superintendent, then, should carefully estimate and weigh all these items in the issuing of a license, and if he finds an "applicant possesses a knowledge which is sufficient to enable him to teach successfully the common branches, and, from other evidences," he truly believes him to possess all the qualities requisite in a successful teacher, he should grant him a license, but under no other circumstances.

OTHER DUTIES.

There are many other important duties of the county Superintendent, the success of either of which will depend upon well defined, well matured and practical, systematic methods of work and supervision. There is the management and work at county and township institutes, grading the schools, the reading circle work,—Young People's and Teachers'—raising the moral, intellectual and professional standard of teachers, educating the public opinion to the needs of the schools, and school visitations, of the last of which only my limited time will permit me to speak, and that in a very brief manner.

SCHOOL VISITATION.

School visitation is one of the most important, and doubtless one of the most difficult items among the Superintendent's duties. The various ways of governing and teaching, the variety of habits, manners and customs of the pupils, and the vast and peculiar notions and opinions of patrons of each district all put the Superintendent to a thorough test as to tact, judgment, skill, and supervising, and executive ability in accomplishing good results in his visits. As has been said above, the Superintendent should have a thorough system of communication with teachers and school officers, and in this way, as far as possible, make his visits where most needed and where he can best economize his time and efforts. In his visits he should ascertain the feeling existing between parents and teacher, encourage friendly visits to the schools on the part of the patrons and to the homes of the pupils by the teacher, and he should make every audable effort to secure harmony and co-operation. He should ascertain as nearly as possible the real needs of the schools and their actual condition. This he can do by close and diligent observation and inspection. He should examine into the condition of each school-room, school grounds, out-houses, etc., as regards the sanitary condition, such as light, heat, ventilation, cleanliness, seating, and the healthfulness of location and surroundings in general, and place the responsibility of any defect upon the officers, teachers, or persons to whom they belong.

He should also make careful investigations of the organization, classification and discipline of the school, commend all good work, and in a spirit of fairness criticise and correct the poor and bad work. To ascertain the organization and classification of the school, the Superintendent should carefully question the teacher as to his real and ready knowledge of the school. He can thus not only correct any defects in the school work, but he can ascertain and correct any mistaken notions the teacher may have of his duties and his work. The Superintendent should examine the program and the attendance and class records, and see that all are neatly kept, full and complete. He should note the attendance, class standing, deportment, and progress of each pupil, and point out and help to correct any mistakes, and to make good any defects in any way of each pupil's work. In discipline he should carefully note the conduct, manners, etc., of all the pupils, and the teacher's method of discipline. A method that I used the past year in my visitation I think has been productive of more good in advancing the teacher's ability to teach and to govern that any other method I ever tried. The outline for grading upon the item of "success," as adopted by the Superintendents' Convention in 1888, is used. Tablets are furnished by the county and carried by the County Superintendent. One side of each sheet has the blank for grading upon success, and the other side is used for writing remarks, comments and criticism. At the close of the Superintendent's visit the blank upon success is filled out, and this, with its accompanying remarks and criticisms on the back, is given to the teacher. This method gives the Superintendent a good opportunity to make suggestions, and to point out and discuss personally with the teacher any defects in the school work. A duplicate of the report is kept in the visiting record, and is used in making up the item of success in the teacher's license, and also for reference in the recommendation of a teacher. The Superintendent, too, in these annual visits can learn more of the general condition and needs of the schools than he can by any other way, and can thus utilize these visits in devising and arranging any general methods of supervising he may desire to pursue.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

Did You Ever

Try Electric Bitters as a remedy for your troubles? If not, get a bottle now and get relief. This Medicine has been found to be peculiarly adapted to the relief and cure of all female complaints, exerting a wonderful direct influence in giving strength and tone to the organs. If you have loss of appetite, constipation, headache, fainting spells, or are nervous, sleepless, excitable, melancholy or troubled with dizzy spells, Electric Bitters is the medicine you need. Health and strength are guaranteed by its use. Large bottles only fifty cents at Robbins & McCord. 3

Busy people have no time, and sensible people have no inclination to use a slow remedy. One Minute Cough Cure acts promptly and gives permanent results. Sold by Robbins & McCord.

HEART DISEASE!

Fluttering, No Appetite, Could Not Sleep, Wind on Stomach.

"For a long time I had a terrible pain at my heart, which fluttered almost incessantly. I had no appetite and could not sleep. I would be compelled to sit up in bed and belch gas from my stomach until I thought that every minute would be my last. There was a feelling of oppression about my heart, and I was afraid to draw a full breath. I could not sweep a room without resting. My husband induced me to try and am happy to say it has cured me. I now have a splendid appetite and sleep well. Its effect was truly marvelous."

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure

MRS. HARRY E. STARR, Pottsville, Pa.

Dr. Miles Heart Cure is sold on a positive guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. All druggists sell it at $1, 6 bottles for $5, or it will be sent, prepaid, on receipt of price by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

Free sexual book to men, box 53, Toledo, O.

Full off with starch and gloss serene,
The linen collar starts the morn;
Full off at noontime it is seen
All wilted, wrinkled and forlorn.

That's what you must expect of such a collar; it's the linen of it. The stand-up collars won't stand up, and the turn-down collars will wilt down. The easy, cheap, and pleasant way out of this is to wear "CELLULOID" COLLARS AND CUFFS. These goods are made by covering linen collars or cuffs on both sides with "CELLULOID," thus making them strong and durable, and waterproof, not affected by heat or moisture. There are no other waterproof goods made this way, consequently none that can wear so well. When soiled simply wipe them off with a wet cloth. Every piece of the genuine is stamped like this:

TRADE CELLULOID MARK.

Insist upon goods so marked if you expect full satisfaction, and if your dealer does not keep them, send direct to us enclosing amount and we will mail sample. State size, and whether a stand-up or turned-down collar is wanted. Collars 25c. each. Cuffs 50c. pair.

The CELLULOID COMPANY
427-29 Broadway, New York.

THE AUBURN COURIER.

VOLUME XXV. AUBURN, DE KALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, JANUARY 17, 1895. NUMBER 3.

THIS IS NEW.

READ!

WHAT WE HAVE TO SAY ABOUT MNOEY.

The Indiana Mutual Building Loan Association, which we represent in this part of the state, have again reduced their interest, which has always been from 2 to 5 per cent less than any other Building Loan Association Do you know that if you are about to borrow money and give a mortgage on your home, you should take the time and trouble to investigate the plan of different associations, so that you may know, regardless of what any agent may tell you, which is the cheapest and the best?

There are three items which should also be considered and thoroughly understood, especially by the borrower, before he makes his application for a loan:

First: The rate of interest and premium he is charged per annum.

Second: What the earnings of the Association are.

Third: How economically the Association is conducting its affairs.

We are prepared always to compare our company with any other, and can prove to your entire satisfaction that we are the cheapest, and

REMEMBER

That in our company you have no membership fee to pay, no advance payments to make and there will be no delays, so that should your loan for any reason be declined, you will lose no money. We are prepared to make loans where the security is sufficient; for any amount from $ 00 to $25,0 .

If you have a loan in any other company will pay you to call on us and compare our figures and

Close your Loan at Once

We are also prepared to make

FARM LOANS

at from

3 to 6 per cent

interest.

We are still in line for Insurance, and Cheap R. R Tickets, and have now on hand more bargains in

REAL ESTATE

than ever before.

CALL ON OR ADDRESS

RICKEL & SPROTT

AUBURN, IND.

If you are handling your

MONEY!

Carefully you will not overlook the following statement.

We are more than anxious to exchange our goods for CASH and for spot CASH you can buy of us at a less price than ever before.

NOTE THE FOLLOWING:

Four Tined Forks, Long and Short handles, -	45 cts.
Shovels, Round and Square point, - - - -	55 cts.
Galvanized Fence Wire, - - - -	$1.95 per cwt.
Black Fence Wire, - - - - - -	1.55 per cwt.
Webb Halters, - - - - - - - -	20 cents.
Cant Hooks, - - - - - - - -	$1.00.
Clothes Ringers, - - - - - - - -	1.75.

We have a surplus stock of

SASH, DOORS & PAINTS

And will offer Special Inducements to buyers now.

SEE FORMER QUOTATIONS.

W. H. KIBLINGER COMPANY.

WINTER SCENES.

THE COURIER ARTIST TAKES A FEW SNAP SHOTS OF A VERY SEASONABLE CHARACTER.

LOWING in December has been a leading industry among farmers till within a few days, and though this picture does not look like a winter scene, all our readers know t is true for the fall and early winter of '94. A vast amount of this work was done, for the ground was in good shape and the weather favorabl. But the scene was suddenly shifted. It turned cold soon after New Years, the streams froze and ice cutting became the order of the day and

SKATING WAS THE RAGE.

COMING down hard does not discourage the ordinary Auburnite, especially if that Auburnite is a young man, or more likely a boy. He reverses his position for a moment, but is soon all right again. At the moment our artist took this fellow, he thought no one was looking. Hence the undignified expression an his otherwise handsome face. The boys and girls made things lively as long as the ice remained free from snow, and only sighed because Cedar Creek was not wider and longer. But a change came.

THURSDAY EVENING, JAN. 10.

THAT afternoon the snow began to fall and spoiled the skating. As night approached the careful citizen went out pretty well muffled up to do his chores and get in the wood, for he saw the snow would be deeper in the morning. He did'nt mind having his "pictur tuck," tracks, milk pails and all. No, this is'nt Henry Shull. He is'nt afraid of a storm.

FRIDAY MORNING.

BEHOLD the man who had been sighing for "an old fashioned winter!" He is tickled at the chance for some fun shoveling snow. It is about seven inches deep, and he enjoys it for the first half hour or so. He didn't see our artist, but that makes no difference. There he is. A half hour later, he dropped his old barn shovel and went to the Kiblinger hardware and got a snow scraper. And he was only "one among a thousand" who had "fun" with the snow that morning and were lame all day to pay for it. We don't say whether it represents Clapp or Vest Zimmerman.

SATURDAY MORNING

WHEN the Auburn man now went up town Saturday morning to do some marketing for Sunday's supplies, he left deeper tracks in the snow, and the air had a way of snifing and biting at one's ears, that made him think something was wrong. He held his mittened hand over first one ear and then the other and the first man he met holled "Dreadful cold mornin', aint it?" The next one said, "Is it cold enough to suit you?" And these expressions were repeated a score of times before he had finished his trip. Everybody asked him about the same thing and he answered in about the same way. We all do that. After he had found out that the mercury was 8 or 10 below he thought it was "cold enough for him" and went home. Then a few cases of

JINGLING SLEIGH BELLS

SOUNDED sweetly on the wintry air and a few turnouts could be seen at different hours of the day. By nightfall, however, the increasing storm, the deepening snow and the severe weather discouraged even pleasure lovers and there were but few on the streets. But our people began to realize it "was winter, far and wide," and coal bins and woodpiles became popular points of attraction. Business men hurried to their homes that evening as early as they could. Absent ones returned, and even the hardy and venturesome COURIER artist went to his home, for had not old Boreas whispered with icy breath, the well worn direction, "you press the button. I'll do the rest?" All of which is written for the delectation of our DeKalb friends who are fanning themselves under the vines and orange trees of California. It is no news here.

OWING to the unfavorable condition of Weather and Roads the past week we have decided to continue our Grand

SAUGHTER SALE

OF

Dress Goods and Clothing

UNTIL

JAN. 1, '95.

This sale is running far ahead of our greatest expectations. If you are needing anything in DRESS GOODS or CLOTHING you cannot afford to miss it.

We have a fine assortment of

UMBRELLAS, NECKWEAR, HANDKERCHIEFS, SHIRTS, RUGS, PORTIERES. CARPET SWEEPERS,

And many other useful articles suitable for Christmas presents. We will try to please you, both in

QUALIT AND PRICE

COME AND SEE US.

Schaab & Bro.

Vitaline and Nervetone

Speedily cures all nervous affections nerve exhaustion, debility, lassitude, loss of nerve and brain power, weakness, mental depression, that "all gone" feeling. Cures headache, toothache, neuralgia and all nerve pains in an hour's time. It never fails nor disappoints. Ask Fischler & Son for it, and accept no other. The Hall Medicine Company, Toledo Ohio. 3 5

What Ails You?

If you have sudden darting pains in the joints or muscles, and it recurs every time you get cold, and appears in new places without leaving any of old ones, the best thing to do is to send five dollars to the Drummond Medicine Co., 48 Maiden Lane, New York, for a month's treatment of Dr Drummond's Lightning Remedy for Rheumatism. They will send you two large bottles of their remedy by return express. If you have the above symptoms you have the Rheumatism, and should begin at once with the known cure. Delay with any disease is dangerous—with Rheumatism it is simply suicidal. Agents wanted. 3 5

A Mail Agent's Experience

Louis D. Brennecke, Wallhalla S. C, had Rheumatism for fifteen years, and during that time had never been free from pain. He tried the Hot Springs and physicians without benefit. After taking two bottles of Drummond's Lightning Remedy he wrote that he was free from pain, and able to take several long walks. If you want a cure, send $5 to the Drummond Medicine Co., 48 Maiden Lane, New York, and they will ship to your express address two large bottles—one month's treatment. Agents wanted.

Free Pills.

Send your address to H. E Bucklen & Co., Chicago, and get a free sample box of Dr. King's New Life pills. A trial will convince you of their merits. These pills are easy in action and are particularly effective in the cure of constipation and sick headache. For Malaria and liver troubles they have been proved invaluable. They are guaranteed to be perfectly free from every deleterious substance and to be purely vegetable. They do not weaken by their action, but by giving tone to stomach and bowels greatly invigorate the system. Regular size 25c per box. Sold at Robbins & McCord drug store. 4

They Use it for Colds.

Carlton Cornwell, foreman of the Gazette, Middleton, N. J., believes that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy should be in every home. He used it for a cold and it effected a speedy cure. He says, "It is indeed a grand remedy, I can recommend to all. I have also seen it used for whooping cough, with the best results." 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Robbins & McCord, druggists. 5

Look This Way,

If suffering with rheumatism in any form, gout, neuralgia, etc. Infallible Scotch Cure, just introduced in the United States, cures these dread diseases in every form. It never fails. It is curing scores of sufferers to-day. Druggists sell this new and wonderful remedy. Ask for it, and take no substitute. Prepared only by the Hall Medicine Co., Toledo Ohio. For Sale by Fischler & Son. 3 5

Always Relieves Pain.

Many stubborn and aggravating cases of rheumatism that were believed to be incurable and accepted as life legacies, have yielded to Chamberlain's Pain Balm, much to the surprise and gratification of the sufferers. One application will relieve the pain and suffering and its continued use insures an effectual cure. For sale by Robbins & McCord, druggists. 5

For Chronic Diarrhœa.

"I know an old soldier who had chronic diarrhœa of long standing to have been permanently cured by taking Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy," said Edward Shumpik, a prominent druggist of Minneapolis, Minn. "I have sold the Remedy in this city for over seven years and consider it superior to any other medicine now on the market for bowel complaints." 25 and 50 cent bottles of this remedy for sale by Robbins & McCord druggists. 5

You ought to know this: DeWitts' Witch Hazel Salve will heal a burn and stop the pain instantly. It will cure badly chapped hands, ugly wounds, sores, and a well known cure for piles. Sold by Robbins & McCord

All Free.

Those who have used Dr. King's New Discovery know its value, and those who have not, have now the opportunity to try it, free. Call on the advertised druggist and get a trial bottle free. Send your name and address to H. E. Bucklen & Co, Chicago, and get a sample box of Dr. King's New Life Pill free, as well as a copy of Guide to Health and Household Instructor, free. All of which is guaranteed to do you good and cost you nothing. Robbins & McCord's drug-store. 4

Relief in One Day.

South American Nervine relieves the worst cases of nervous prostrations nervousness and nervous dyspepsia in a single day. No such relief and blessing has ever come to the invalids of this country. Its powers to cure the stomach are wonderful in the extreme. It always cures; it cannot fail. It radically cures all weakness of the stomach and never disappoints. Its effects are marvelous and surprising—It gladdens the hearts of the suffering and brings immediate relief. It is a luxury to take and always safe. Trial bottles 15 cents. Sold by Robbins & McCord druggist Auburn Ind. 50tf

Rebecca Wilkinson, of Brownsvalley, Ind., says: I have been in a distressed condition for three years from Nervousness Weakness of the Stomach, Dyspepsia and Indigestion until my health was gone. I had been doctoring constantly with no relief. I bought one bottle of South American Nervine, which did me more good than any $50 worth of doctoring I ever did in my life. I would advise every weakly person to use this valuable and lovely remedy; a few bottles of it has cured me completely. I consider it the greatest medicine in the world." Warranted the most wonderful stomach and nerve cure ever known. Trial bottles 15 cents. Sold by Robbins and McCord druggists Auburn Ind. 34tf

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNS, - - PUBLISHER.

DOINGS OF THE DAY.

SUMMARY OF THE NEWS OF THE WEEK.

Eventful Happenings in Every Known Land—Capture of the Outlaw, Bill Cook—A Crooked Cashier Kills Himself—Street Car Strike in Brooklyn—Killed for a Nickel.

BILL COOK CAPTURED.

Notorious Outlaw Taken Prisoner by Deputy Marshals.

Fort Stanton (N. M.) special: Bill Cook, the notorious Oklahoma train robber, murderer and outlaw, was safely landed in the county jail at Rosewell, N. M., and is heavily guarded. United States Marshal Hill, of New Mexico has instructed Deputy Marshal Perry, who made the capture, to bring Cook to Socorro, N. M., on the Santa Fe road, from where he will be shipped east as soon as arrangements for his removal to the scene of his crimes can be perfected. Marshal Hill is in communication with the United States authorities of Oklahoma, Arkansas, and Texas, in all of which States Cook is badly wanted. The rewards for his capture by railroads, express companies, and State authorities aggregate $15,000. He was taken by surprise and surrendered without a fight.

Street Car Strike.

At 5 o'clock Monday morning all the trolley cars in Brooklyn were tied up, the employes refusing to take out the cars. Over 5,000 men quit work. This includes motormen, conductors, electricians, switchmen, and others employed at the various power houses. All but one of the surface roads, and that a comparatively minor concern, are affected. It is claimed that the strike will yet extend to the lines of the Brooklyn Elevated Railway Company.

A clash occurred at Fifth avenue and Twenty-third street. At that point is the car house of the Atlantic avenue line. President Norton ordered that a car bearing the sign "United States mail" be taken out and run over the line. Strikers mobbed the car, and although the police drew revolvers it had to be backed in.

A French Ministerial Crisis.

Paris special: Premier Dupuy has handed the resignations of the French Ministry to President Casimer-Perrier. The defeat of the ministry came about on the railroad bill. President Casimir-Perrier tried vainly to induce Premier Dupuy to reconsider his resignation. The premier would not listen to any proposals looking to his retention in office, and, after a conference of forty minutes, his resignation was accepted. If a radical ministry be formed, M. Bourgeois, Minister of Justice during the Panama scandal, or Eugene Delfrey Cavaignac will be Premier. Those near the President are making strenous efforts to assure the choice of Bourgeois.

Two Seamen Drowned.

The steamer Utopia, while coming in port at Seattle, Wash., from San Juan Islands, and while running from Deception Pass, passed a submerged schooner, the Lily and Maud of Deception Island, and saw two men clinging to the wreck. The steamer was brought around, and when within twenty-five feet of the wreck Capt. O'Brien and one of the crew threw two lines, with life buoys attached, but the poor fellows, evidently too cold to take them, were washed off and drowned.

Killed for a Nickel.

At Cairo, Ill., two negroes, Wade Hampton and John Hovey, quarrelled over 5 cents with the result that Hovey is now dead and Hampton is in jail. The men had been paid off for unloading a barge of lumber and in the division of the money Hovey had 5 cents the best of it. Hampton requested him to invest it in tobacco and give him his share. On his refusal to do so Hampton struck him over the head with a club. Hovey was taken to the hospital, where he died.

Crisis at Homestead.

Over one hundred employes of Carnegie's Homestead steel plant, who attended Sunday's meeting for the purpose of forming a labor organization, were summarily dismissed by the company. It is expected that all of the 800 steel workers who attended Sunday's meeting will be discharged. The dismissal of the men has caused the most intense excitement in Homestead, and a general suspension of the plant is freely discussed.

Shot Himself.

Dover (N. H.) special: A notice was posted on the doors of the Dover National Bank announcing that the institution has suspended. To an Associated Press reporter Examiner Dorr said that Cashier Isaac F. Abbott's accounts were badly mixed and there was a shortage which might amount to between $60,000 and $90,000. Cashier Abbott shot and killed himself in his house as soon as the shortage was discovered.

Homage to Prince Bismarck.

Chancellor Prince Hohenlohe carried to Bismarck recently, an invitation to visit the imperial family in Berlin on Jan. 28, the Emperor's birthday. His Majesty is said to have intimated that he would be pleased to return such a visit on April 1, Bismarck's eightieth birthday. Bismarck will accept if his heath permits.

His Wish Gratified.

John Hadley, an old, well-known, and respected citizen of Nashville, Ohio, while kneeling in prayer at the M. E. Church, was stricken with paralysis and shortly died. Mr. Hadley had been a member of the church for sixty years, and had often said he wanted to "start to Heaven while on his knees praying."

River Steamer Sunk.

The steamer Boaz, bound from Pittsburgh to New Orleans, with a tow of coal, sunk thirteen boats just above Cannelton, Ind. The fleet struck the bank in a fog. The loss is estimated at $40,000.

Populist Treasurer Unable to Give Bond.

A special from Tacoma, Wash., says: King County's Populist treasure-elect, Maple, is unable to furnish bonds and so notified the Commissioners. They will appoint a Republican.

Dastardly Attempt to Rob a Train.

Carrollton (Miss.) special: As a westbound passenger train, in charge of Engineer Lindsay and Conductor Tom A. Slaughter, was pulling out from Indianola, a town forty-five miles west of this place, a bold and dastardly attempt was made to flag, and no doubt rob it, by an unknown number of desperate novices, but Engineer Lindsay quickly gathered in the situation, and, throwing the thottle of his engine wide open, sped by the inexperienced bandits at a rapid advance of schedule time. Following the example of the recently captured Pantherburn bandits, they emptied a volley of shots at the passenger coaches and one shot made a slight flesh wound on the neck of Mr. C. H. Ewing. Several bricks were thrown in the colored coaches and one colored man sustained quite a painful wound. The doors of the express car were also bombarded.

BOLD HOLD-UP

On the Burlington Road at Ottumwa, Iowa.

Ottumwa (Iowa) special: Highwaymen got in their work here. It was one of the most daring train robberies ever attempted. It was executed on the Burlington passenger train No. 4, near this city. No. 4 is the Burlington through passenger train from Denver and Chicago, and carries a large quantity of mail and baggage. It was not known that the train carried a more valuable cargo of mail or express than usual, or, if it was, it was kept quiet, but it seems that the bold robbers knew that the express would make a valuable haul and they planned to bag it. They held up the train, but molested nothing but the express car, though after they had finished this job they stood for 10 minutes and waited for the train to stop long enough to have robbed the mail cars or the passenger coaches.

The agent at Chillicothe, a small village seven miles west of here, says he saw two men about the depot in the afternoon, and when No. 4 arrived at 6 o'clock they were on the platform, but they disappeared while the trian was standing at the station. When the heavy string of cars began to move out of the station the two express messengers and baggageman shut the side doors of the car, for the wind was blowing strong and cold. Express Messenger John Page stepped to the door at the front of the car, which though usually securely fastened, was left unlocked by some one passing through it. He meant to lock it, and was just stepping to do it when the door opened and two men sprang inside. They cried: "Hold up your hands!" one running to the rear of the car to cover the assistant, L. Hawk, and Baggageman Ed Wright. The trainmen, taken by surprise, threw up their hands. The robbers compelled them to "bunch" in a corner of the car, and one kept them covered with two big pistols, while the other bound and gagged them. He then turned his attention to the safe, which he unlocked with the keys taken from Fage's pockets, stuffing the contents into a big sack which they had with them. A feer filling the sacks the robbers quietly waited until the train whistled and slackened speed for the Milwaukee Railroad crossing, a mile west of town, showing by every action a perfect familiarity with the lay of the land and the habits of the train. When the train stopped for the crossing they both jumped to the door, sprang out, and started on a run across the frozen Des Moines River.

CRUELLY SLAIN.

Burglars Interrupt a Happy Family Circle Near Columbus.

Columbus (O.) special: A dastardly murder was committed in this county the other night. Near Dublin on the Worthington road lived James Jameison, a well-to-do farmer, aged 82 years. About 6 o'clock two men, with drawn revolvers, entered the room where Jameison, his wife, two daughters, and a farm hand named Cornelius were at supper, and demanded the old man's money. Mr. Jameison produced some silver, and as he was about to hand it over one of the men, either through accident or malice, fired and the old man fell dead with a bullet through his brain. One of the murderers kept the family under cover while the other searched the body and the house and secured about $8 as a reward for their awful work. They then left the house and were joined by a third man, who had been on watch, and the trio fled in the direction of Columbus. One of the men wore a mask and a cardigan jacket. It was he who fired the fatal shot. It is supposed that he is a resident of the neighborhood. The other two were strangers. The aged widow is prostrated from the shock, and is in a critical condition.

Dreadful Fate of a Lady Pupil.

A horrible accident occurred at the Western Female Seminary, Oxford, Ohio, and one of the young lady students, Miss Gertrude Van Emen of Missouri, is now a corpse. The young lady had washed her hair and was seated with her back to the oven of the large range in the cookroom for the purpose of drying the same, when her dress, it is supposed, caught fire from coals which had fallen from the furnace, and was in a blaze before she realized the fact.

Mrs. Jackson, a colored cook, rushed to her assistance and succeeded in partly extinguishing the flames, but the excitement was so great that Miss Van Emen ran out into the hall, her screams attracting the attention of several pupils, who took in the situation at once and turned, running back after blankets. The unfortunate girl thinking that she was being deserted by her classmates ran down the hall, but was stopped by her friends and the remaining burning clothing torn away. She was at once taken to her room and a physician summoned. She died soon afterward.

Town Raided by Robbers.

Wilberton, I. T., was raided by a gang of five robbers the other night. The principal loser was George Rider, a prosperous Indian, who did not believe in the safety of banks. The robbers knocked at his door and upon being admitted, covered him with Winchesters and compelled him to give up $2,000. Then after warning him not to tell, they appropriated three of his best horses and rode away. Several other men were held up for small amounts. Robert Hall was caught seven miles from town, compelled to dismount, and his horse, saddle, and bridle were taken from him. A posse of citizens was organized and is in pursuit of the outlaws. The robbers wore masks, and their is no clew to their identity. It is thought, however, they are of local talent, as they exhibited thorough familiarity with the surroundings, even to pointing to Rider where his $2,000 was hidden.

A Tragdey at Belleville.

A bloody crime occurred at Belleville, Ind. The Rev. W. E. Henshaw and wife awoke to find two thieves making away with the former's clothing, containg $100. Seeing that they had been detected, one of the burglars turned upon Mrs. Henshaw and sent three bullets into her head. The husband grappled with the thief and was shot down, the bullet piercing his left lung. He arose and continued the struggle. The desperate thief drew a knife and cut Henshaw seventeen times about the head and chest. Hinshaw fought both robbers into the door-yard, and was again shot in the shoulder. Mrs. Henshaw is dying, and her husband cannot recover. They were prominent in church circles, and two of the best-known residents in Hendricks County. The country is being scoured for the murderers, and blood hounds will be put in use.

A Million Dollar Fire.

Fire started in the Osgoodby building, on Melinda street, Toronto, Ont., in close proximity to the ruins of S. F. McKinnon & Co., where the disastrous fire of last week burned itself out. The Osgoodby building was soon entirely destroyed. The flames spread west and southwest to Wellington street, and in less than an hour burned out the following places: R. H. Gray & Co., furnishing goods; Brecton & Manning, furs; Thomas Dunnett & Co., furs; E. Boisseau & Co., clothing; Robert Darlington & Co., wholesale woolens. The loss is over a million dollars.

Pullman Memorial Church.

One of the finest memorial churches ever built in this country is soon to be dedicated at Albion, N. Y. The church has been built by George M. Pullman in memory of his father and mother, both of whom were born in Albion. Mr. Pullman, when a young man, started in business as a house-mover there. The plans for the church were prepared by S. S. Beeman of Chicago, architect of the town of Pullman. It is said to have cost $125,000. The church will probably be opened to the public a week from Sunday, but the day for the dedication has not yet been set. At the Pullman office in the Hulls building, it was said that Mr. Pullman might arrive in New York from Chicago some day this week.

Barnesville, Ohio, Fire-Swept.

The business portion of Barnesville, Ohio, was almost entirely destroyed by fire. The Enterprise printing office, R. M. Gunning's saddlery store, W. E. Grant's Novelty store, J. W. Judkins' shoe store, R. M. Patterson's grocery store, McKeever & Stevenson's jewely store, F. R. Lane & Son's drug store, Kenney & Taylor's grocery, John Hill's millinery store, Baker & Watton's dental office, Drs. G. S. and J. W. Wellon's office, Mrs. Lena Myers' residence and Louis Myers' residence have been licked up by the flames. The loss will reach $100,000 on part of which there was insurance.

To Sail for Madagascar.

Washington special: Secretary Herbert says that preparatory orders have been issued to the Castine to sail for Madagascar. The original orders to the Castine were to go to China, and it may be that she will continue her journey in case matters become more quiet in Madagascar. The orders to the Castine have been issued as the result of advices from the United States Consul at Tamatave, representing the advisability of having a United States man-of-war there to protect American interests in the present warlike state of affairs.

Terribly Burned.

While Mrs. John Lorain, who resides in New Haven, a village six miles east of Fort Wayne, Ind., was out carrying water, her little girl, aged 6, and son, aged 2 years, got to playing with fire. Their clothing was ignited and when their mother returned she found both children enveloped in flames. The baby boy was burned to a crisp and lived in great agony a few hours, when it died. The girl was also frightfully burned, but the attending physician thinks there is ground for hope of her recovery.

Japanese Win.

Yokohama special: An official dispatch says that Major General Nogis (Sie) Nogis' division, began an attack upon the Chinese position at 5:30 p. m. Saturday. At 9 p. m. Kai Ping was taken. The Chinese fled toward Has Shak Sai, with the Japanese in pursuit. The numbers killed and wounded on either side are not known. The first army was welcomed by the inhabitants while moving its headquarters to Shenyin with manifestations of a strong desire to remain under Japanese rule.

Kansas City Bankers Frightened.

There was consternation in the Kansas State Bank at Kansas City, Mo., when August Ellsner, an avowed Anarchist, pulled three pieces of bar iron from his pocket and threw them through the plate glass windows from the sidewalk in front of the bank. The bars were mistaken for dynamite. At the police station Ellsner said he sought that method to get arrested for shelter and food.

A Child Burned to Death.

Near Eaton, Ind., the three year-old daughter of Samuel Hartel was burned to death. The child stood too close to a red hot stove and her dress took fire. Mrs Hartel succeeded in quenching the flames, but was badly burned in doing so. The little one died in a short time.

Stephen B. Elkins for Senator.

Ex-Secretary of War Stephen B. Elkins was nominated for United States Senator by the republican caucus of West Virginia. He had no opposition and was put in nomination by State Senator Whitaker, who had been talked of for United States senator.

Fatal Flames.

At Omaha, Neb., Mrs. Charles A. Thieman, wife of the councilman of that name, was burned to death while attempting to escape from the flames which enveloped her home. In jumping from a window Mr. Thieman broke his leg and sustained other serious injuries.

French Victorious.

Tamatavia special: The French have bombarded Fara Fatra, about four miles inland from Tamatavia. The Houvas answered with seven guns, but the French were successful and the Houvas retired with heavey loss.

Food for Starving Miners.

Governor McKinley, Friday, caused $800 worth of food to be shipped to certain miners in the Hocking Valley who are reported by their comnittee to be in a state of starvation. Nelsonville raised $500.

Brakeman Ground to Pieces.

Charles Connor, a Toledo and Ohio Central yard brakeman, fell between the cars at Columbus, and was literally ground to pieces. He is a married man.

Senator Perkins Renominated.

In joint caucus of the California Legislature George C. Perkins was declared the choice of the Republican party for United States Senator.

Floods Shut Off City Water.

The Bellaire, Ohio, water works power house was flooded recently and the entire water supply of that city was shut off.

Farmer Found Dead.

Archibald Jobe, a farmer, aged 60, was found dead in bed near Waynesville, Ohio having retired in good health.

Child Cremated.

At Hopkinsville, Ky., a little daughter of Mrs. Lizzie Oldham, while standing near a grate, was burnt to death.

THE MARKETS.

Chicago—Cattle, common to prime, $3.75@6; hogs, shipping grades, $3.50@4.75; sheep, fair to choice, $2.00@4.00; wheat, No. 2 red, 54@55c; corn, No. 2, 45@46c; oats, No. 2, 28@29c; rye, No. 2, 50@51c; butter, choice creamery, 24@25c; eggs, fresh, 18@20c; potatoes, car lots, per bushel, 60@75c.

Indianapolis—Cattle, shipping, $3@5.50; hogs, choice light, $3@4.75; sheep, common to prime, $2@3.50; wheat, No. 2 red, 52@52½c; corn, No. 1 white, 40@41c; oats, No. 2 white, 32½@33½c.

St. Louis—Cattle, $3@6; hogs, $3@4.75; wheat, No. 2 red, 53@53½c; corn, No. 2, 43@43½c; oats, No. 2, 30@31c; rye, No. 2, 51@52c.

Cincinnati—Cattle, $3.50@5.50; hogs, $3.50@5; sheep, $1.25@4; wheat, No. 2, 55@56c; corn, No. 2 mixed, 42@43c; oats, No. 2 mixed, 32@33c; rye, No. 2, 54@55c.

Detroit—Cattle, $2.50@5.50; hogs, $4@4.75; sheep, $2@3.25; wheat, No. 1 white, 56@57c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 43@43½c; oats, No. 2 white, 33@34c; rye, No. 2, 51@52c.

Toledo—Wheat, No. 2 red, 55@56c; corn, No. 2 mixed, 43@43½c; oats, No. 2 white, 32@33c; rye, No. 2, 51@53c.

Buffalo—Cattle, $2.50@5.50; hogs, $4@5; sheep, $2@3.50; wheat, No. 2 red, 59@59½c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 47@47½c; oats, No. 2 white, 35@36c.

Milwaukee—Wheat, No. 2 spring, 55@56c; corn, No. 3, 44@45c; oats, No. 2 white, 31@32c; barley, No. 2, 53@56c; rye, No. 1, 50@51c; pork, mess, $11.50@11.75.

New York—Cattle, $3@6; hogs, $3.50@5.00; sheep, $2@4; wheat, No. 2 red, 63@64c; corn, No. 2, 52@53c; oats, white Western, 38@42c; butter, creamery, 18@26c; eggs, Western, 21@22c.

MATTHEWS' MESSAGE.

MANY IMPORTANT SUBJECTS VIGOROUSLY DISCUSSED.

The Governor Tells the Legislature of Conditions in the State—The Militia Complimented for Their Conduct During the Strikes—Roby Denounced—State Institutions—Finances, Etc.

Governor Reads His Message.

Gov. Matthews appeared before a joint convention of the two branches of the Legislature at 10:30 o'clock Friday morning and delivered his biennial message to the body in person, thus departing from the usual custom, which has been for the executive's private secretary to read the document.

Gentlemen of the Senate and House of Representatives:

Once again you are assembled, the chosen representatives of an intelligent and progressive people, to consider the measures which concern and may promote the general welfare of the people, and enact such laws as may advance the interests of your State.

I trust you may realize to the fullest extent the grave responsibilities which rest upon you. Our legislatures have done much in recent years to place Indiana in the front rank of States in adoption of great reform measures, by keeping step with the advancing march of a more perfect civilization, and meeting the increasing demands of a people growing rapidly in wealth, in general prosperity and enlightenment. It is to be hoped that the work of the Fifty-ninth General Assembly may not fall short of those that have passed.

It becomes my duty under the constitution to give such information touching the condition of the State, and recommend such measures as shall be judged to be expedient.

Of the financial condition of the State—the management of its public institutions, and of the several State offices during the past two years, it will not be expected that I should in this paper go into the fullest details, and I would, therefore, refer you for this more extended information to the several reports, which will be submitted to you.

Finances.

It affords me unqualified satisfaction to announce that the finances of the State are in a sound and healthy condition. Notwithstanding the fact that the last General Assembly reduced the levy 2½ cents, a greater revenue was derived than under the old levy. This was largely due to the assessment of property under the tax law of 1891. I am of the opinion that a still further reduction can be safely made—at least 2 cents in the school tax levy. The State institutions have been generously provided for under their judicious and economical management; there has not been the annual deficit. It has not been necessary to borrow money to meet the annual interest upon the State debt; but, on the other hand, during the past two years, demands upon the treasury have been promptly honored, interest incl, and the sum of $910,000 already paid upon the State debt, and the further sum of $400,000 called in and will be canceled in a few days, making a total paid on the State debt of $1,310,000.

GOVERNOR MATTHEWS.

Domestic Troubles.

The Governor recites the suppression of the Roby Columbian Athletic Club, the summoning of the militia to stop its progress at a cost of about $4,000, and he adds:

"I would here earnestly urge upon you the importance of enacting a more stringent law upon prize fighting, making it a felony to those who may participate, either as principals or seconds. It should also be more clearly defined as to what may be considered prize fighting, and what exhibition contests in places of amusement. The advertising of a prize fight should be unlawful and punishable with fine."

The Strikes.

After dealing with the troubles in the coal regions of the State and the calling out of the militia to guard against and suppress violence, he deals with the more recent railway troubles.

"A strike originating at Pullman, Ill., was in sympathy joined in by the American Railway Union in Chicago, and from there spread to the towns and cities of Indiana. It is, often true a vicious element, unable to appreciate the institutions of a free people, whose only idea of liberty is license and respecting no law save that of force, availed themselves of the opportunity to commit depredations." The 750 Indiana troops in this strike cost the State $52,807 and this amount the Legislature is asked to provide. The message commends the support of the Loyal Legion and the Grand Army of the Republic in their prompt offer of service to suppress the strike troubles. An increase of the Governor's contingent fund is asked for.

Section 46 "should be amended," the message says, "so that a military officer in command would have more discretion in giving the order to fire, when it becomes necessary, rather than to leave him entirely subject to the discretion of the civil officer."

He pays high compliment, too, to the militia of the State, in these words:

"It will not be unbecoming here to say that Indiana's militia compares favorably with that of other States, and in proportion to the money expended by the State is surpassed by none. On each occasion when it has become necessary to call them into action, their soldierly bearing, gentlemanly conduct, courtious behavior, and brave, yet tolerant spirit has commended them to their fellow citizens. To both officers and men the highest commendation is due."

A new code of military law is suggested.

Winter Racing.

Winter racing is deplored by the Governor, and a law forbidding meetings between the 1st day of November and the 1st day of April should be enacted.

Whitecapism is decreasing, and belief is expressed that strict enforcement of present laws will finally eradicate it.

School for Feeble Minded Youth.

Concerning the School for Feeble Minded Youth, he says:

The report of the Indiana School for Feeble Minded Youth, to which I invite your attention, shows this school to be in a satisfactory condition. The zeal and earnestness of the superintendent, with the sympathetic co-operation of the Board of Trustees, has contributed much to its present high standing. The trustees have conducted the affairs of the school within its income.

There was an increase in the number of pupils during the past year of thirty-three. The total number cared for at this time is 488. The experiment in dairy farming during the past year has proved satisfactory, the receipts exceeding the expenses. Aside from the pecuniary consideration, it affords a healthful, pleasant, and needed work to the pupils. The success is so gratifying that the recommendation to purchase a farm for the use of the school merits your consideration.

Eastern Hospital for the Insane.

The report of the Eastern Hospital for the Insane shows that its capacity to receive patients has been reached. The number of patients during 1893 was 422, and for 1894, 431. The district tributary to this hospital embraces sixteen counties, and it is estimated that there are now 160 insane people needing treatment in this district, an average of ten to the county, who cannot be received. Many of these are in the poor houses or confined in the county jails, quite a number probably curable if given immediate hospital care.

Indiana has practically declared that it is the duty of the State to care for the insane. I would ask your prompt attention to the recommendation of the medical superintendent for additional room. Fortunately, this hospital is so constructed that an increased capacity can be obtained much below the cost of establishing a new hospital. Especially do I recommend the suggestion that separate buildings be provided for the treatment of tuberculosis patients, owing to the infectious nature of the disease.

Highways.

There will probably come before you numerous measures concerning the improvement of roads. There are few questions of greater importance that will engage your attention. It is being widely discussed by the people of the entire country. National and State road congresses are being held, the discussions taking a wide range. Many of the remedies proposed would doubtless accomplish the result. I fear in too many of the propositions that in the desire to secure improved roads, due consideration may not be given to the cost, nor to that class of our citizens—the farmers—upon whom will necessarily fall the heavier burden in the expense of construction.

I do not underestimate the value of a system of good roads to the public, and believe there is great need for such improvement, but in the framing of laws to this end, the interests and desires of those who will at least have the cost to bear, should be chiefly considered, especially at a time when the profits from farming are not so large as they should be.

In this day of electricity we may reasonably expect, in the near future, electric lines to branch out through the country. A law should be enacted restricting County Commissioners in their right to grant rights-of-way along our public thoroughfares, to their injury and ruin, for the travel of those compelled to use them, and who have born the cost of their construction.

The Tax Law.

Time and experience have approved the wisdom of the tax law of 1891. It met with an active opposition from a large an influential class of our citizens and taxpayers, and caused expensive litigation to the State. But in all the courts its validity has been sustained from the lower courts to the Supreme Court of the United States.

The application of this tax law was the means of adding considerably and justly to the taxables of the State. Property not heretofore properly assessed, or not assessed at all, was placed upon the tax duplicates, adding millions in value to assist in bearing the burden of tax, and relieving the tax-payer who had been more fully assessed upon his property.

By means of this law, annual deficits in the State Treasury have ceased, the State debt is being extinguished and a lower levy for State purposes is made possible. Indeed, there is reason to believe that a reduction in the levy could be made in all the counties, unless for the most extraordinary local necessities.

While the law has been sustained by the courts and indorsed by the people, yet there are a few points wherein it could be strengthened, or at least its provisions more clearly defined.

Fees and Salaries.

In response to a needed and demanded reform, the General Assembly of 1891 enacted a law regulating the fees and salaries of State and county officers. Through a clerical blunder, whether intentional or otherwise, the purpose of this law are liable to be defeated. The recent decision of the Supreme Court of the State relative to this law places it in the condition which calls for your earnest consideration. That the public demand this law to be perfected so that it may stand the test of the courts, there can be no doubt. It therefore becomes your duty to remedy the weaknesses or inequalities of this law at the earliest moment.

While it is right and proper that no greater amount should be taken from the people in the way of fees and salaries than is necessary, yet the public will be found to be just and willing to allow compensation, but no more, which will give efficient and reliable service. This law should be just to both the official and the public, and should not be delayed in the time of its taking effect.

Relative to ship canals, the message recommends that Indiana representatives in Congress be urged to secure from the general government a survey for a ship canal connecting Lake Michigan with the Ohio River.

The Legislature is asked to pass a resolution calling upon Indiana United States Senators to combine to advocate the election of United States Senators by a direct vote of the people.

Methuselah's Fate.

While studying the earlier chapters in the book of Genesis the other evening, and more particularly those chapters which treat of the generations of Adam, I was led to investigate the life of Methuselah, whose 969 years have out-spanned any other recorded human life, and much to my surprise I found that all we know of this long life is found in five verses, the twenty-first, twenty-second, twenty-fifth, twenty-sixth, and twenty-seventh, of the fifth chapter of Genesis. In the course of my investigation, however, I chanced upon some curious figures, which seem to me to shed light upon the cause of his death, and to indicate that Methuselah was drowned in the flood.

It appears from the twenty-fifth verse of the fifth chapter that Methuselah was the father of Lamech, and that after the birth of Lamech he lived 782 years. Lamech was the father of Noah, and was 182 years old at the the birth of the latter. Hence Methuselah lived just 600 years after the birth of Noah.

In the sixth verse of the seventh chapter we read: "Noah was 500 years old when the flood of waters was upon the earth." Therefore we are justified, claims the contributor to the San Francisco Chroniele, in surmising that the ancient patriarch Methuselah, was among those who were swept from the earth by the great deluge, and more particularly so when we read a little further on that it was in the second month of the sixth hundredth year that the flood occurred. For Methuselah must have died within those two months, and it is therefore almost a certainty that he perished in the "flood of waters."

Not only do these calculations point to the probable cause of the death of Methuselah, but they also furnish an explanation for the silence of the sacred nararative regarding his life, for the verses immediately succeeding those already quoted are to the effect that the peopie of the earth were destroyed because of their corruption, and we are thus driven to the conclusion that the gray in the cause of righteousness, and that, therefore, there was nothing good to be written concerning him such as was written of his godly father Enoch or his righteous descendant Noah.

Kiss Made His Fortune.

A kiss once played an important part in the life of the famous Belgian statesman, Frere-Orban, who is now seriously ill at his country place, says the New York Tribune. In his youth the future minister was a poor student, bearing the simple name of Frere. He had great difficulty in earning enough money to keep him at the university till he was ready to pass his examination in the department of law.

The young man fell in love with a Fraulein Orban, the daughter of a wealthy and aristocratic family, who opposed his suit.

"If you pass your examination well to-morrow," said Fraule in Orban, on the eve of the trial, to her lover, "come to the theater and to the box in which I shall be setting with my parents."

"Will they' allow me?" asked the student.

"I shall see to that," was the determined young woman's answer.

Frere was successful and entered the box in the evening, happy but frightened. The pretty girl, as soon as he had crossed the threshold, stood up, rushed toward him before a word was spoken, and kissed him heartily on the lips. The astonished parents were soon informed of the significance of the kiss by the daughter. As many other people had seen the young girl's action, the parents decided to make the best of it and accepted young Frere as a son-in-law on condition that he add Orban to his name. This he did as a matter of course and made it famous.

Broke the Spell.

Dumas, the elder, had a dog, as hospitable as was his master, and that dog once invited twelve other dogs to Monte Cristo, Dumas's palace, named after his famous novel. Dumas's factotum-in-chief wanted to drive off the whole pack. "Michel," said the great romancer, "I have a social position to fill. It entails a fixed amount of trouble and expense. You say I have thirteen dogs, and that they are eating me out of house and home. Thirteen! That is an unlucky number." "Monsiur, if you will permit me, there is nothing left for me to do. I must chase them away." "Never, Michel, never. Go at once and find me a fourteenth dog."

THERE are forty-eight different materials used in constructing a piano, from no fewer than sixteen different countries, employing forty-five different hands.

WHAT has become of the old-fashioned boy who called his father "Pap?"

AROUND A BIG STATE.

BRIEF COMPILATION OF INDIANA NEWS.

What Our Neighbors Are Doing—Matters of General and Local Interest—Marriages and Deaths—Accidents and Crimes—Personal Pointers About Indianians.

The Legislature.

The Senate met Thursday, Lieutenant Governor Nye in the chair, and organized by the election of the following officials:

Secretary, R. B. Oglesbee of Marshall.

Assistant Secretary, W. S. Ennes of Gibson.

Doorkeeper, George W. Faweette of Orange.

After the appointment of the standing committees the Senate adjourned.

The House organized by the election of the following officers:

Speaker, Justus C. Adams of Marion County.

Clerk, Robert A. Brown of Johnson County.

Doorkeeper, John L. Wright of Washington County.

There was a brief discussion as to temporary rules. It was decided to abide by the rules of the fifty-eighth session, after a few minor changes have been made, until a committee can agree upon rules for the permanent government of the body.

THE Senate held a half hour's session Friday morning before going into joint convention, and several bills of importance were introduced and read a first time. Among them was one by Senator Haggard, providing for the appropriation of $150,000 for the establishment of a soldiers' home near Lafayette. The people of Tippecanoe County have donated the ground and the State is asked to furnish the money to erect the buildings and beautify the grounds. A number of petitions from counties were offered with the bill asking that it be passed. Senator Way introduced a bill fixing a penalty of forfeiture of office and $100 fine for any State, county, city, town, or township officer, Judge of a court, or Senator, or Representative in the Legislature to ask for or accept a pass from a railroad company or other common carriers. The bill also fixes a fine of $100 for issuing a pass to any of the persons named.

Senator Humphreys offered a bill to make greenbacks taxable as other property. A bill providing $105,000 for the expense of the present session was passed under a suspension of rules. Senator Haggard introduced a resolution asking for an investigation of the offices of the Attorney General, the Auditor, and Secretary of State, the Superintendent of Public Instruction and the Bureau of Statistics. The Democratic senators asked that the resolution be amended so as to include the time that the offices were in charge of Republicans, but the amendment was not agreed to. At 10:30 o'clock the Senate adjourned to go into joint convention with the House to hear the Governor's message. Lieutenant Governor Nye presided over the convention.

The House convened at 4 o'clock in the afternoon and passed the legislative appropriation bill providing for the expenses of the session. The Soldiers' Home bill was also introduced in that body.

A bill providing for the payment of the money borrowed by the Governor to pay the militia was also introduced. Both houses adjourned until Monday.

Minor State Items.

SOUTH BEND had over 400 funerals, last year.

NAPPANEE people are anxious for an opera house.

FOXES are numerous in Bartholomew County near Hope.

THE business portion of Carpentersville was visited by a $6,000 fire.

THE Columbia Rifles of Anderson, will remuster in the State militia.

OVER 500 marriage licenses were issued in Madison County during '94.

IT is said that there are 4,000 cases of measles in the State at present.

MRS. JOHN SULLIVAN, 72, dropped dead of heart disease at Martinsville.

CAPT. SAM J. HALL'S residence, near Westport, is in ashes. Loss, $4,000.

JOSEPH SELF, farmer near French Lick, was found dead in a field near his house. Supposed that he accidentally shot himself while hunting.

ALBERT MARBERRY has been arrested at Anderson charged with stealing two gold baptismal cups from the altar of St. Mary's Catholic Church. He confessed his guilt.

RAY EDWARDS, a young man of Greensburg who wears his hair very long, was caught on the street by several masked men, and his beautiful tresses were clipped short.

IN a head-end collision on the L. E. & W. road near Tipton, between two freight trains, both engines were wrecked and fifteen cars demolished. One engineer was slightly hurt in jumping.

TWO COLORED men entered a South Bend hardware store, the other day, and asked to see some revolvers and cartridges. They loaded the weapons, covered the proprietor, looted the money drawer and skipped.

THE date of the State G. A. R. encampment to be held in Muncie, next March has been changed from the 27th and 28th to the 28th and 29. The change is made to enable the encampment to get the Wyser Grand Opera House for the campfire. The theater seats 1,500 people, being the largest available room in the city.

THERE was a tragic occurrence at Charlestown, twelve miles north of Jeffersonville. Dr. Charles M. Bottorf is the proprietor of a drugstore at that place. He lives in apartments in the rear of his establishment, and his little boy and daughter spent a great deal of time in the store. The latter was sick, and her brother played "doctor," administering a deadly poison to the child. At the time the children were alone, and shortly afterward Dr. Bottorf found the little one in convulsions. It was readily ascertained that the child was suffering from the effects of some drug, but the boy, after replacing the bottle in the prescription case, was unable to again find it. The father was thus placed at a disadvantage in not knowing what emetic to administer. The child lingered in intense agony for several hours before death relieved it.

A son of John McClintick, who resides west of Albion, was putting a colt in harness, when the animal became frightened and ran away, catching the young man in the harness and dragging him over the ground until death resulted.

THE Jeffersonville Board of Police Commissioners has decided that, in the future, all saloons must be closed on Sunday. A demand to this effect was made on the Commissioners several days since by a committe of the ministers. This will lead to a bitter fight, as it is expected that the saloon keepers will retaliate and demand that business of all kinds be entirely suspended on Sunday.

MRS. GEORGE ZIGLER, aged 52, residing in the country, but staying at the home of her brother-in-law, John Zigler, of South Bend, started for her bed-room, but in passing down a dark hall mistook the cellar door for that of her bed-room. She fell to the basement and died instantly from a fracture at the base of the skull.

Secretary Metcalf, of the State Health Board, has received no official notice of the existence of smallpox at Roby, and he will leave for that point at once to investigate. Dr. Metcalf reports that if he finds the disease has received a lodgment at Roby he will ask for an investigation as to the prevalence of smallpox at Chicago, with a possible view of quarantining the State against the city.

SENATE AND HOUSE.

WORK OF OUR NATIONAL LAWMAKERS.

Proceedings of the Senate and House of Representatives—Important Measures Discussed and Acted Upon—Gist of the Business.

The National Solons.

In the Senate Monday Mr. Ransom was elected President pro tem. and Mr. Mitchell replied to Mr. Turple's criticisms of the Nicaragua Canal bill. Both House and Senate adopted resolutions of respect to the memory of Genral Post and appointed committees to scort the remains to Galesburg, Ill. The House ordered investigation of charges that Judge Ricks prostituted his office to further a conspracy by which S. J. Ritchie was robbed of $6,000,000. The caucus of House Democrats indorsed the substitute for the Carlisle currency bill by a vote of 81 to 50 after a spirited debate. The bill intended to take the distribution of seeds out of the hands of Congressmen has been prepared by Secretary Morton. At an informal meeting of the Republican steering committee it was ageed there should be no tariff legislation at this session.

Representative Sibley made an attack on the President in a speech in the House Tuesday in opposition to the currency bill. Discussion of Mr. Lodge's Hawaiian resolution was continued in the Senate, Messrs. Palmer and Gray opposing its adoption. The House Committee on Rules agreed to report a resolution providing for a vote on the currency bill. "General" Jacob S. Coxey explained his non-interest bearing bond plan to the House Ways and Means Committee. The Senate Committee on Appropriations ordered favorable reports on the army and urgent deficiency bills.

By refusing to adopt a rule to limit the debate the House Wednesday practically rejected the Carlisle currency bill. In the Senate Mr. Quay advocated amending the income tax law to provide for publication of names and salaries of corporation employes. In a message submitting Hawaiian correspondence to Congress the President urges the granting of permission to lease one of the islands to Great Britain for a cable station. The diplomatic and consular and the post-office appropriation bills were passed by the House. The latter carries $89,442,952.

The income tax came up for considerable discussion in the Senate on Thursday in the course of the debate on the urgent deficiency bill, which contains a provision for carrying the law into operation. Mr. Hill offered an amendment designed to afford an opportunity

CHAPTER XI—Continued.

"Not quarreled, only differed," answered he, laughing. "And I suppose all people do differ, and yet love one another to the end. You love me still?"

"Yes"—with a sudden gravity—"because I respect you. I think there is one only thing which could kill my love—if I ceased to respect you. I should do my duty still, but all love would go dead out, like a fire when one tramples on it. And then I think no power on earth could ever light it up again."

"God forbid!" Roderick said, startled by a kind of sad sternness which came into the gentle face. But it did him good, after all, to feel that there was that in his wife which would never suffer any man to make her either into a plaything or a slave. The next minute she had slipped her hand into his.

"Don't let us talk such nonsense, my Roderick; you will always love me and hold me fast. I can bear anything so long as you hold me fast."

He did hold fast, and through more trials than she guessed. To his sensitive nature, the continual dread of meeting Richerden people—old acquaintances who might speak to him or her of painful things—became a perfect bugbear. And though Mrs. Grierson, with her usual delicate tact, had managed to let him understand that his own family had all returned to town—that is, Richerden—for the winter, still he caught himself looking into every carriage that passed along the one beautiful seaside road, every steamer that stopped at the now half-deserted quay, with a nervous anxiety lest he should see some familiar face; familiar still, but welcome no more.

Suppose he did meet them—he only said "them" without individualizing—what should he do? Would nature and instinct triumph over reason, so that he could not ignore them, his own flesh and blood, look and pass by, as if they were common strangers? And once, Silence, who after a time began to divine his unspoken thoughts, brought him face to face with them by a sudden question, put with a tender anxiety, but very earnestly.

"Roderick, I have often wanted to ask—what should you do if you were to meet your mother?"

"If we were to meet her, you mean; for we are never apart." In truth he took care they never should be apart, lest somebody or something should chance to wound her, the defenseless creature whom every day he felt more bound to cherish, and concerning whom his indignation continually higher rose. A "tragedy in a teapot" may be, but none the less a tragedy that was always coming between them and the sun; and worse here, after a little, when the first pleasantness of the change had worn off—worse certainly than at Blackhall. By and by, he spoke of going back to Blackhall, but good Mrs. Grierson entreated they would stay on a little longer.

"It would do your wife good, and me too," she said. "Remember I have no daughter, and she no mother."

"That is true, poor child!" And he looked sadly across to where, in sweet unconscious peace, Silence sat, making with her deft fingers a cap for the old lady.

"Why call her 'poor?' Pardon me, my dear Roderick, but may I ask one question—has your mother ever seen your wife?"

"No."

"She ought to see her. Do you not think so?"

"What do you mean, Mrs. Grierson? But, excuse me, this is a subject upon which we had better not speak."

"I agree with you, and should never have spoken," said the old lady nervously, "were it not almost my duty to tell you that Mrs. Jardine is at Fairfield, close by, come unexpectedly on a three days' visit. She may not come to see me, and she may. If she does——"

"We will leave immediately," said Roderick, rising. "Indeed, my dear Mrs. Grierson, it is much better so. We should grieve to cause you a moment's inconvenience."

"My dear," laying her hand on his arm, and looking at him with sweet calm eyes that were so near the other world as to have half forgotten the sorrows of this, "my dear, I knew you as soon as you were born. Forgive an old woman who never had a child; but mothers are mothers—don't you think that instead of going away, you should rather stay, on the chance of seeing your mother?"

"See my mother? what, she— But, indeed, I cannot talk over these things, which, I suppose, you know all about. Everybody does know everybody else's affairs in Richerden."

"Yes, I know."

"Then it is kind not to have spoken to me before. Let us continue that wholesome silence. Let me take my wife and go."

"Suppose your wife and I were to settle that question. She is the dearest little woman in the world. I only wish I had her for my daughter. Women understand women best," she added with a gentle smile. "I think, my dear boy, you had better walk away."

Roderick did not walk away, but he suffered Mrs. Grierson to go over and speak to his wife. Finally, the ice once broken, they were able to talk over these painful things all three together. The younger ones poured out their grief and wrath; at least Roderick did; Silence said nothing. The older woman listened patiently and tenderly, yet took a little the opposite side, for there are two sides to every subject, and those are the wisest people who in youth can see with old—in age with young eyes.

Deep as her sympathy was, seventy views things a little different from twenty-seven. The warm, motherly heart could not choose but put itself in the mother's place—the mother who had so wholly lost, or persuaded herself she had lost, her beloved and only son.

"I have known Mrs. Jardine ever since her marriage," Mrs. Grierson explained to Silence. "She is a woman of strong prejudices, strong passions, but generous and kindly; doing wrong things sometimes, as we all do, but doing them with the best intentions, which not all of us do. But I beg your husband's pardon for criticizing his mother, who is so totally opposite to his wife that, on the principle that extremes meet, I should not wonder if, when you do meet, you were to like one another amazingly."

Roderick made no answer; but whether he believed it or not, the idea certainly seemed to comfort him. He listened with patience that surprised himself to a further homily and many gentle arguments; ending with one which youth is slow to understand, that life is too short for anything but love and peace.

Yielding, at last, to her earnest entreaty, and to the mute appeal of his wife's eyes, Roderick consented that Mrs. Grierson should write a brief note to his mother, mentioning formally what guests she had in her house, and how happy she would be to see Mrs. Jardine, "were it convenient and agreeable."

The next six hours, spent within doors—they shrunk from the chances of the road without—were not very happy hours to any of the trio.

It was nearly night—a red, stormy sunset fading over the sea, the "white horses" rising, a gale beginning to blow and dash the waves wildly against the rocks under the drawing-room windows. Roderick and Silence had been watching the twilight shadows upon the mountains, beyond which lay Blackhall and home.

"I almost wish we were at home," she whispered; and he had put his arms tenderly round her, when suddenly Mrs. Grierson entered with a letter in her hand.

"Read that, my dears. It is, I own, rather surprising."

It was—from a mother. "Mrs. Jardine's compliments to Mrs. Grierson, and she does not intend going out today; but if Mr. Roderick Jardine has anything to say to her he may come, provided he comes alone, at ten o'clock to-morrow."

These brief lines were passed round, and then the three regarded one another, doubtful who should speak first, and still more doubtful what to say.

At last Roderick, pressing his hostess' hand, bade her not to be troubled, She had done her best. "But you see, dear Mrs. Grierson, that I was right. We had better go home."

"And not go and see your mother?"

"Certainly not without my wife. Dear," turning to her affectionately, "we did not have it in our Swiss marriage service, though, I believe, it is in the English one; but there is a text—'What God hath joined together let no man put asunder.' I do not mean to be put asunder from my wife—not even by my mother."

He spoke smilingly, caressing her the while, but Silence burst into tears.

"And it is I that have been the cause of this—I, who—— Does she know, Roderick, that my mother is dead? And would any one whose mother is dead wish to keep a son away from his living mother? Go to her with or without me—only go!"

Roderick thought differently. To him it appeared the most arrant cowardice; desertion of the wife he had deliberately chosen; acknowledgment of an error he had never committed. Besides, it was a weak truckling to the stronger side—the wealthier side.

"For (you may not know it, Mrs. Grierson, though it seems to me that everybody does get to know everything, especially at Richerden) my mother's money is all in her own hands; and I—we—are as poor as church mice."

Mrs. Grierson smiled. "Money is a good thing and a bad thing, but not half such an important thing as some folks imagine. It need not hinder a man from going to see his own mother."

Roderick winced slightly. "Then you think my pride wrong?"

"Not pride for her," with a tender glance at Silence. "But as for yourself—a man satisfied of his own real motives should be indifferent to any imputed ones. That is not his concern at all."

"You are right—I admit it. Still, as to my wife——"

But Silence flung herself, in one of her rare outbursts of emotion, on her knees beside her husband. "Go, I beseech you, go! She is alive—you can hear her speak—you can make her understand you love her. Oh, Roderick, you don't know what it is to call when there is none to answer—to weep when there is none to comfort you. Go, go! You have no idea what it is to feel that one's mother is dead!"

He kissed and comforted her into calmness; but something struck and startled him, something which, under all her sweet cheerfulness, he had never found out before—that mystery of being "acquainted with grief." He himself had known vexation, annoyance, disappointment—but sorrow, heart sorrow he had never known. She had. Young as she was, he felt from that hour that in many things his wife was both older and wiser than he.

"I will do exactly as you wish," he said. "Mrs. Grierson, will you write to my mother, and say I shall be with her at the appointed hour? But, remember it is wholly and solely because my wife desires it."

So he went. When he came back, which was almost immediately, he sat down beside Silence, and kissed her without a word.

"Well, my love, I have done as you wished, and—there is an end of it."

"What did she say?"

"We had neither of us an opportunity of saying anything. She had, or discovered, important business at Richerden, and left at 8 this morning."

"Without any letter or message?"

"Without one single word. And now, my wife, that page is turned over. Let us close the book and begin again. Is it not best, Mrs. Grierson?"

The old lady hesitated. There were tears in her kindly eyes.

"It shall be best," said Roderick, firmly. "Come, my darling, let us thank our dear friend here for all her goodness to us. Let us pack up our boxes and return to Blackhall."

To Roderick, as perhaps to most men, anything was easier than a thing uncertain. He recovered in spirits sooner than Silence, who was greatly distressed, could at all have expected. Perhaps, like many of us, having resolved to do a painful thing, he was not sorry when fate stepped in to prevent his doing it. And he listened patiently to Mrs. Grierson's arguments against rashly judging what might have been pure accident or unavoidable necessity.

"We shall see," he said. "In the meantime, need we say any more. My wife and I have an equal dislike to talking it over. Let us all forget it, and spend a happy last day together."

It was happy, and the next day, too. Mrs. Grierson, who, while consenting to their departure, had sorely regretted it, had accompanied him a part of the way on their journey, and made it as easy as she could. Her farewell words, too, were given with unmistakable, earnest affection. "Roderick, take care of your wife."

He did take care of her, with an instinct new, but strangely sweet. Most men have passion in them; many have a kindly good-nature, and a sort of ever-craving affectionateness which passes for love; but very few have that tenderness—that generous devotion of the strong to the weak, the helpful to the helpless, which constitutes the highest manliness, and which is best described by the scripture phrase, "I was an husband unto them." Roderick had it.

Lovely as the day was—one of those rare late autumn days which in Scotland make earth look like paradise—and beautiful as was the scenery through which they passed, Silence was so tired with her journey that for the last few miles she lay with her head on Roderick's shoulder, scarcely speaking a word, and only rousing herself when she saw, glimmering like stars in the distance, the window of Blackhall.

"Ah!" she sighed, "that must be home."

"'East or west, home is best.' 'Home is home, be it ever so homely,'" said Roderick, as he lifted her in-doors, and sat her in the large arm-chair by the blazing fire, seeing nothing, heeding nothing, except the little pale face which to him was so infinitely dear.

Not until tea was over and her cheerful smile had fully returned, did he notice, among the small heap of papers lying waiting for him, the fatal well-known book-packet—the MS. returned.

He tried to cover it over, and not let his wife see it, but her eye was too quick. Vain, too, was the innocent deception of his protest that he "fully expected this," and "did not care."

"But I care," said Silence, mournfully. And then the poor young things sat down face to face with their bitter disappointment, and tried to bear it as well as they could.

(To be continued.)

Old Autocrat.

William King, the first Governor of Maine, who was a resident of Bath for over fifty years, must have been a royal dictator in town affairs. There was "no nonsense" about him, and no toleration of nonsense.

At one time a meeting was held to arrange for a celebration of Independence Day, and General King presided. The customary resolutions were prepared by Judge Ames, who was a man of wide attainments, and who had seized upon the occasion as an opportunity to air his rhetorical gifts. He had written a long and flowery preamble to his resolutions, which had been greatly admired by his friends; but he had hardly completed reading the first sentence before the meeting when General King exclaimed, in his decisive way:

"Never mind the preamble, Judge: never mind the preamble! It's always about the same thing, you know. Give us the resolutions."

One morning, when the stage drove up to his door and his wife was about to enter it, the General discovered inside the vehicle a Frenchman and his dog.

"Driver," he thundered, "take this dog out!"

The frightened foreigner leaped from the stage, taking his dog with him.

"I have seen the King of England and the King of France," he muttered, "but this King of Bath is the biggest king I ever saw."

Although he was friendly to the cause of temperance, he never gave up the use of wine, and always had it on his own table. Yet so absolute was he in his way of thinking that he had no patience with the "trimmers" who waver between two sides of a question.

A certain judge was one day dining with him, and refused wine on the ground that he was a member of a temperance society. Melons were brought in at dessert, and the General prepared his with wine. The guest did the same. A short time after, a physician was dining with the General, and he, too, refused wine.

"Won't you have a spoon, Doctor?" asked General King, bluffly. "Judge Blank was dining with me recently, and he wouldn't drink my wine, but he ate it with a spoon."—Youth's Companion.

The Women of Ushant.

In character the headdress is more Italian than Breton. The coif is small and square-shaped, with a wide flap hanging down behind, and it is white when the wearer considers herself dressed and not in mourning. Bright colors, chiefly scarlet and blue, are often introduced at the side of the head, especially in the case of children. But the strong singularity of the coiffure is the manner in which the hair is worn. It hangs loose upon the back of the neck to the length of six or eight inches.

The first impression the women make is that they are recovering from a fever and a cropping. Their hair is generally lank and wiry, like a horse's mane, and very dark. It is rare to see it really gray, even on the head of a very old woman. The short and thick locks are often without a silver thread, although the face of the wearer may be as furrowed as a block of sea-worm granite. Baby girls, young women, and old women have their heads dressed in exactly the same way. After her swaddling wraps, the child is given the style of coif and other clothing that she will keep through life; consequently, as she toddles about in front of the cottage door, she is one of the oddest of little figures.

In full dress the gown is always black, but a brilliantly colored handkerchief, in which scarlet predominates, is so worn underneath as to show a little down the front of the bodice. A small shawl, generally blue or red in the case of children and young girls, completes the costume.—Temple Bar.

MASSACRE OF CHRISTIANS BY TURKS IN ARMENIA, ASIA.

Scene in the Government of Bitlis, where Mohammedan Kurds swooped down upon inoffending Christians, shooting and stabbing over 10,000 of them.

HOW TORPEDOES SINK SHIPS.

The Aquidaban's Steel Sides Crushed Like Paper.

The terrific destructive power of a modern torpedo when exploded against the side of a first-class battleship received its first practical illustration in sinking of the Brazilian insurgent war ship Aquidaban, which was sent to the bottom of Santa Catharina bay by a torpedo fired from one of the loyal vessels soon after the surrender of Da Gama and his fleet. The photographs of the Aquidaban's terrific wounds, herewith reproduced, have just been received by the navy department from Admiral Kirkland, commanding the South Atlantic station.

HOLE IN THE PORT BOW.

The Aquidaban was the finest ship of the Brazilian navy. She was the only battle ship in the naval review at New York. But for her the insurgent cause would have come to an end months sooner. The Government fleet sent a torpedo at her, which plunged through her sides, and in a few minutes the great battle ship went to the bottom.

Torpedoes have been used before in modern wars, but the sinking of the Aquidaban was the first instance where a great war ship was sunk by one of them.

Some valuable lessons have been taught to American naval officers as to the effect of torpedoes, when accurately used in modern warfare, by the destruction of the Brazilian war ship. The photographs sent to the navy department were accompanied by an interesting report made by Admiral Kirkland, who was instructed by the Secretary to visit the ship on the ways and examine the injuries caused by the torpedo.

The report shows that the ship was struck on the port bow, well forward, between the sixth and seventh frames, the injury extending from the bow on the twelfth frame, and below the protected deck to the keel. The deck was shown to have been uninjured. All the bilge frames and interior work on the port side were crushed as though they had ben made of paper, the torpedo plunging through the vessel to the starboard side and tearing away her sides and splintering the great steel plates with apparent ease. The watertight bulkheads were entirely carried away, the two forward compartments were flooded, and the vessel filled and went down like a rock.

EFFECT ON THE STARBOARD BOW.

On the starboard side two feet above the keel and near the seventh frame a hole was made fully two feet in diameter, the ragged edges of which flanged outward and aft, showing the direction of the missile to have been broad off the port bow. This hole believed to have been made by the head of the torpedo being blown completely through the ship in its original direction. The frames, longitudinals and plating near the explosion were greatly twisted, but the remainder of the hull is in good condition, and was apparently not injured by the explosion.

The Aquidaban has since been raised by the Government and taken to dry dock, where she is now being repaired. Her name has been changed to the 24th de Maio.

Games of the Old World.

An Italian editor has been investigating the principal games in fashion in Europe during the dull weather. He finds the present craze in England is clay modeling, the selected victims—and generally misunderstood—being Mr. Gladstone and "Sir Harcourt." In Belgium, especially in the "Rockers-clubs," slow smoking races are the fashion. These lend themselves favorably to bets. Big Flemish pipes are loaded with half an ounce of tobacco, and he is winner who can smoke his own through in the longest time without relighting. Present record, sixty-seven minutes to one pipe. Leaping beans are the amusement of Italy and Southern France. The inventor has had whole fields of them sown in Mexico and the larvae carefully preserved. The bean leaps best on hot plates, but the Southerners paint them as kings and queens and use a little gunpowder. Then the figures go into convulsions and the game is called "L'anarchie." Germany, of course, is occupied with the war game, and France has selected "divinertes," or guesses of the future.

The Dublin Brogue.

Frances Power Cobbe, in her "life," gives amusing illustrations of the Dublin brogue in which Irish Protestant clergymen, educated at Trinity College, used to preach fifty years ago. One, concluding a sermon on the "Fear of Death," exclaimed:

"Me brethren, the doying Christian lepps into the arrums of Death, and makes his hollow jaws ring with eternal hallelujahs!"

There was a chapter in the Acts which Miss Cobbe dreaded to hear by a certain clergyman, so difficult was it to help laughing when told of "Pertheans and Mades, and the dwellers in Mesopotemia and the part of Libya about Cyraine, streengers of Roum, Jews, Proselytes, Crates, and Arabians."

An Effective Weapon.

Below is shown an awful weapon recently patented in this country by Louis L. Picard, of Paris. It consists of a combination of revolver and knife. After the contents of the pistol have been exhausted, and it is desired to use the knife, it is released by a spring worked by a mere touch.

KNIFE AND PISTOL COMBINED.

The Sovereign's Body-Guard.

The most extraordinary precautions are taken in Spain to provide for the safety of the sovereign at night. His slumbers are watched throughout the night by the Monteroe de Espinosa, a body of men who for 400 years have enjoyed the exclusive privilege of guarding their royal master or mistress from sunset to sunrise. They are bound by tradition to be natives of the town of Espinosa and to have served with honor in the army. They lock the palace gates with much ceremony and solemnity at midnight and open them again at 7 o'clock in the morning. Their fidelity to the person of their sovereign does not admit of question.

Murray's Home.

The house in which Lindley Murray, the famous grammarian of early American days, was born, is still standing about twelve miles south of Harrisburg, Pa. It is a somewhat pretentious log house with three rooms and a sleeping loft, built on the southern slope of a hill and facing the Swatara River, of which Whittier sings. Murray's father settled there about 1730.

A HISTORIC STRUCTURE.

Old St. Luke's Church, Newport Parish, Va., Reconsecrated.

The oldest Protestant Church in the United States stands in Smithfield, Isle of Wight County, Va. It was erected in 1632, twenty-five years after the landing of the English colonists at Jamestown, and until the early part of this century was known as the old Brick Church. It is now called St. Luke's. Until 1830 the church was in regular use, but then a new church was erected and the old one abandoned. In 1877 the ancient edifice was damaged by storm, but repairs are now being made, and when they are finished services will again be regularly held in the building.

A VENERABLE STRUCTURE.

What He Was At.

A boy in St. Louis was recently presented with a jack-knife, with which, boy-like, he cut and marked everything that came in his way, from the dining-room table to the cat's tail. A few days after he had become the happy possessor of the knife, his father was startled by seeing two men bring home the young hopeful in a very dilapidated condition. His face seemed to be cut and bruised and covered with blood. The father, of course, was very much alarmed, and inquired of the boy who had hit him. "Nothing didn't hit me," the boy answered between his sobs; "it was only a mule kicked me in the eye." "A mule kicked you in the eye, eh?" echoed the father. "Haven't I told you a thousand times or more that mules and gunpowder were not fit things for boys to fool with? What were you doing to the mule?" "I wasn't foolin' with him at all," said the boy; "I was only trying to cut my name on his back."

An "Ex."

It is rather hard to believe this story of a Boston child of 8 years, but it is related on good authority. The child, who is a little girl named Dorothy, had been behaving very badly, as even Boston children have been known to do; and her mother said to her, childingly:

"Dorothy, really, I cannot be your mamma any more!"

The child made no reply, but gave her mother a quick and very arch look. By and by, after a half hour of silent and well-behaved play, she came with her hat in her hand to her mother, and said soberly:

"My dear ex-mamma, do you think I've been good enough so I could go out now?"

Flow of Blood.

Dr. Zakharin, the late Czar's physician, has lately devised a new method of stanching the flow of blood. Steam is injected into the wound by a catheter for a minute or less. The patient, under chloroform, feels neither pain nor any evil effects from the steam.

FOR PEOPLE WITH LONG NOSES.

THIS IS HOW MR. AND MRS. WIMMEL ACTUALLY LOOK.

AND THIS IS HOW THEIR PHOTOGRAPHS APPEAR.

—Th. Grosz, in Fliegende Blätter.

PIPER HEIDSIECK
PLUG TOBACCO
CHAMPAGNE FLAVOR

Consumers of chewing tobacco who are willing to pay a little more than the price charged for the ordinary trade tobaccos, will find this brand superior to all others.
BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.

DR. MOTT'S
PENNYROYAL PILLS

The only safe, sure and reliable Female Pill ever offered to Ladies, especially recommended to married Ladies. Beware of pills put up in tin boxes as they are dangerous. Ask for Dr. Mott's PENNYROYAL PILLS and take no other. Send for circular. Price $1.00 per box, 6 boxes for $5.00. DR. MOTT'S CHEMICAL CO., - Cleveland, Ohio.
Fisher & Son, Auburn, Ind.

FITS!
Brace Up! Don't Lose Courage!!
Your disease is not incurable because your Physician has given you up, and you have not received any benefit from the medicine you have tried, is not any reason you cannot be cured. We can positively cure all kinds of Fits, Epilepsy, Convulsion or Spasmodic. WE GUARANTEE A POSITIVE AND PERMANENT CURE IN ALL CASES. We have cured thousands, many cases of long standing, and given up by Doctors as incurable. In our "Allen's Fits Cure" you will find a medicine that has never failed to effect a speedy cure. We back our guarantee with an offer of $100 to any person we cannot cure. Highest Bank references furnished on application.
1 Qt. Bottle, $3.00. 2 Qt. $5.00.
ALLEN MEDICAL CO.,
Washington & Water Sts., BOSTON, MASS.

LADIES
Suffering from Retarded, Suppressed or Painful Menstruation and all irregularities of like nature, will find our FAMALE PILLS an infallible cure. They are entirely safe and can always be relied upon for speedy relief. We have yet to hear of a case where they have failed to produce the desired result. A box should be kept on hand at all times to provide for emergencies. Correspondence Confidential.
By mail, with full directions, securely sealed, $2.00 per box.
ALLEN MEDICAL CO.,
Washington & Water Sts., BOSTON, MASS.

Every Woman
Sometimes needs a reliable monthly regulating medicine.
Dr. PEAL'S
PENNYROYAL PILLS,
Are prompt, safe and certain in result. The genuine (Dr. Peal's) never disappoint. Sent anywhere, $1.00. Peal Medicine Co., Cleveland, O.
Sold by Fischler & Son., Auburn.

General or local Agents. $75 a week. Exclusive territory. The Rapid Dish Washer. Washes all the dishes for a family in one minute. Washes, rinses and dries them without wetting the hands. Top pops the bottom, the machine does the rest. Bright, polished dishes, and cheerful wives. No scalded fingers, mottled hands or clothing. No broken dishes, no mess. Cheap, durable, warranted. Circulars free.
W. P. HARRISON & CO., Cert No. 12, Columbus, O.

Sex-ine Pills

RESTORE LOST VIGOR
Before and After Using.
New discovery. Will brace you up in a week. Sold with a WRITTEN GUARANTEE to Cure Nervous Debility, Loss of Sexual Power in either sex, involuntary Emissions from any cause. If neglected, such troubles lead to consumption or insanity. $1.00 per box by mail, 6 boxes for $5.00. With every $5 order we give a written guarantee to cure or refund the money. Address PEAL MEDICINE CO., Cleveland, Ohio.
Sold by Fischler & Son, Auburn.

5,000 ACRES CENTRAL MICHIGAN FARMS
Near Saginaw and Bay City. Soil clay loam, hardwood timber and free from swamps. Railway facilities; schools and markets adjacent. Price, $6 to $8 per acre, on easy payments. Satisfaction assured. Practical farmers and parents who wish to give their sons a start in life, can find No Better Land in Michigan. Maps and Circulars free. JACOB SCHWARTZ or WM. M. TENNANT, SAGINAW, E. S., MICH.

RESTORED MANHOOD,
DR. MOTT'S NERVERINE PILLS

BEFORE AND AFTER USING.

The great remedy for nervous prostration and all nervous diseases of the generative organs of either sex, such as Nervous Prostration, Failing of Lost Manhood, Impotency, Nightly Emissions, Youthful Errors, Mental Worry, excessive use of Tobacco or Opium, which lead to Consumption and Insanity. With every $5 order we give a written guarantee to cure or refund the money. Sold at $1.00 per box, 6 boxes for $5.00. DR. MOTT'S CHEMICAL COMPANY, Cleveland, Ohio.
Sold by Fischler & Son, Auburn.

PATENTS
Caveats, and Trade-Marks obtained and all Patent business conducted for MODERATE FEES. OUR OFFICE IS OPPOSITE U. S. PATENT OFFICE and we can secure patent in less time than those remote from Washington.
Send model, drawing or photo., with description. We advise, if patentable or not, free of charge. Our fee not due till patent is secured.
A PAMPHLET, "How to Obtain Patents," with cost of same in the U. S. and foreign countries sent free. Address,
C. A. SNOW & CO.
OPP. PATENT OFFICE, WASHINGTON, D. C.

FARMERS BANK.

Capital Stock,--
--$40,000.00.

Transacts a general banking business. Interest paid on time deposits by agreement. Collections receive careful attention. Business solicited.

ALBERT ROBBINS, Cashier.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

Capital and Surplus, $60,000.00

Certificates of deposits issued, drawing interest 4 per cent per annum, if left 6 months. County and town orders bought. Money to loan.

C. A. G. McCLELLAN, President.
CHARLES McCLELLAN, Cashier.

Auburn Iron Works,

REPAIRS

All kinds of Machinery, Boilers, Engines Saw Mills, and

BUILD FOR THE TRADE:

Pony Saw Mills, Edgers, Rip Saws, Swing Saws, Mounted Picket Mills, Brass Castings Brass Fittings, Pipe and Pipe Fittings, Furnished. All Work

Warranted First-Class in All Respects.

☞ Shop One-half mile south of Wabash Depot, AUBURN, IND.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT.

Office of Comptroller of the Currency

WASHINGTON, December 19th, 1894.

WHEREAS, by satisfactory evidence presented to the undersigned it has been made to appear that The "First National Bank of Auburn," in the Town of Auburn, in the County of DeKalb and State of Indiana, has complied with all the provisions of the "Act of Congress to enable National Banking Associations to extend their corporate existence and for other purposes," approved July 12th, 1882.

NOW THEREFORE, I, James H. Eckels, Comptroller of the Currency, do hereby certify that "The First National Bank of Auburn," in the Town of Auburn, in the County of DeKalb and State of Indiana, is authorized to have succession for the period specified in its amended articles of association, namely until close of business on December 19, 1914.

In Testimony whereof witness my hand and seal of office this 19th day of December, 1894.

JAMES H. ECKELS,
(SEAL) Comptroller of the Currency.
No. 2238 52 3

Commissioners' Sale of Land.

Notice is hereby given, that by virtue of an order of the DeKalb Circuit Court, the undersigned commissioner appointed by said court in a case in said court, wherein Louisa Davis was plaintiff and Melvin W. Johnson and others were defendants for partition,

I will offer for sale at auction, on the premises on

FRIDAY the 15th day of FEBRUARY, 1895,

at 1 o'clock p. m. of said day, the following described land to wit: Part of lot twenty-four (24) block twenty-five (25) in the original plat of the town of Garrett (now the City of Garrett,) DeKalb county Indiana, more particularly described as follows to-wit:

Commencing at a point sixty feet west of the north-east corner of said lot number twenty-four, (24) thence west nineteen feet, thence south to the south line of lot twenty-four, (24) thence east on the south line of said lot nineteen feet, thence north to the place of beginning.

TERMS OF SALE:—One-third (⅓) cash in hand on day of sale, one-third (⅓) in nine months and one-third (⅓) in eighteen months, deferred payments to be evidenced by the purchaser's notes bearing interest at the rate of six per cent without relief from valuation or appraisement laws, and secured by mortgage on the premises, with the option of the purchaser paying cash on the day of sale, or before the notes are due.

DON A. GARWOOD,
Commissioner

A Free Offer to Our Readers.

"The Heart" is the title of an excellent paper lately published. Not until we read this instructive treatise did we have the true conception of how wonderful is the work of the human heart. We quote by special permission of the author the following from the perface:

"Very few people have ever given the attention to their hearts that this important organ warrants. This wonderful little machine which is not much larger than your hand, and only about two and a half inches thick, labors day and night without rest, performing such an enormous amount of work as to be almost beyond belief. Physiologists say each pulsation, or contraction of the heart exerts 50 pounds of force, which amounts to 3 600 a minute, 216,000 an hour, and the inconceivable number of 5,184,000 in a single day! Now, it is necessary that all this vast amount of labor should be done, and well done every day. The health will surely suffer in consequence of the least failure on the part of the heart to properly perform its duties. When it is weak or deranged it directly affects every organ in the human body and they are unable to perform their duties from lack of blood and nerve force. Those organs that are more intimately associated with the heart are usually first to feel the effects when it is irregular and fails to perform its proper functions."

This treatise is very artistically illustrated with colored plates, and although strictly scientific, is written in a popular language, making it very interesting reading for all. The editor of this paper has made special arrangement with the publishers to have this treatise sent free to any reader who sends a postal card and mentions this paper to.

THE MILES COMPANY, ELKHART, IND.

Literary Note.

The relation which price bears to quality in literature is made obscure by the Christmas Cosmopolitan. Stories by Rudyard Kipling, Wm Dean Howells Mrs. Spencer Trask, Mrs. Burton Harrison, and Albion W. Tourgee, are interpersed with poetry by Sir Edwin Arnold, Edmund Clarence Stedman, and James Whitcomb Riley, while through the number are scattered illustrations by such famous artists as Remington, Toche, Reinhart, Turner, Van Schaick, Gibson, and Stevens. A series of portraits of beautiful women of society illustrate an article on The Relations of Photography to Art; a travel article by Napoleon Ney, grandson of the famous Field Marshal; one of the series of Great Passions of History, to which Froude and Gosse have already contributed, and half a dozen others equally interesting, go to make up the attractions of the number. The Cosmopolitan people say: "We might charge you more for this number, but, in all frankness, could we give you better material, better illustrated, if we charged you a dollar a copy?"

You don't have to go outside to smoke; you need no poultice on your neck to get a good "draw," nor anything to "kill the taste" when through smoking a Receipt.

THE AUBURN COURIER

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY.

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, post office as second-class matter.

THURSDAY....JANUARY 3, 1895.

CONGRESS should hurry up and take that extra one tenth of a cent off of refined sugar. It is unfair to our own people and to other countries.

SENATOR PEFFER, populist, has bills prepared, which, if made into laws, would add 92 billions of paper money and silver to our circulation.

RUSSIA is borrowing 75 millions in gold, and Austria, 27 millions. Speculators are sending American gold abroad. This is partly the cause of so much of it leaving this country.

REPUBLICAN papers speak sneeringly about the reopening of the "malodorous Hawaiian matter. Well, nobody but republican members of congress have asked to have it "reopened." No one else seems to consider it of any importance or of any interest.

SOUTH DAKOTA is reliably republicans, If this were not so, all the republican papers would be howling about the disapearance the Taylor, the state treasurer, with all the much needed state funds, $353,000. It is a bad case, for the people, especially the schools, need this money.

THE pension bill that has just passed the House provides for 141 millions to be paid out this year. How will republican editors account for such action from a democratic congress which they say delights to cut pensions down, and even stop them?

GEN. REUB WILLIAMS has returned fully to his first love, the "Northern Indianian" for his very able paper. This was the name it formerly had, and under which it grew to its most prosperous heights of popularity. Then he and Mr. Hosler separated, the latter starting the "Republican." A few years after this, the two papers were consolidated and called the "Indianan-Republican." Now Mr. Hosler is dead, and the paper goes back to its original name. This we think is the proper thing to do. These double names mean so little that they ar never popular.

ALBERT GALL, treasurer of state, will probably lose every cent he has accumulated in a busy life. We met him the other day at the state capital, and the first thing he said was "I have had a world of trouble since I saw you last, but thank God, not a penny of the state's money is in danger." This last thought was to him the most important, and stamps him what the people have always believed, an honest man. He will compare well with the treasurer of South Dakota, who about the same time skipped with $353,000. Mr. Gall lost his own money by the failure of the bank in which he had dealings.

GREENBACKS are now being used to draw gold from the treasury. Since the resumption act they have been payable in gold. They have been popular with the people because they were good money and represented 346 millions of non-interest-bearing debt. But now, that wealthy parties have discovered they can use them to get gold with, it is certain they will not be so popular. A financial system should be devised, under which a man cannot go to one window in the treasury, and pass in his gold for bonds, then sell his bonds for greenbacks, and go to another window and get back his gold for them, and then go buy more bonds, and go over this again and again.

The Art Amateur.

Unlike too many periodicals which seem to exhaust themselves with their Christmas issue, The Art Amateur, maintaining its steady level of excellence, opens the new year with every indication that during 1895 the artist, art student, and art lover will find as useful a teacher as ever in this always practical magazine. One of the color plates for January is an exquisitely delicate reproduction of the profile of a beautiful woman by Albert Lynch; and there is a sunny landscape called "The Old Sugar House in the Woods," by D. F. Hasbrouck. Eight pages of practical and not too difficult Working Designs as usual are given for Wood-Carving, Embroidery, China and Glass Painting, Pyrography, etc., and there are many more working designs scattered through the profusely illustrated pages of the text. Among the practical are "Drawing for Reproduction," "Drapery upon the Human Figure," "Pen Work for Photo Engraving," "Flower Drawing in Pen-and-Ink," 'Flower Painting," "The Value of Criticism," "Figure Painting," "Designing for Lithographers," "The Abuse of Color," "Glass Painting in Vitrifiable Colors," numerous articles on China Painting, "Painting on Tapestry Canvas," "Hints for Amateur Metal-Workers," "The Care and Framing of Pictures," "A Mother's Bed-room," "Notes and Hints for Art Workers," "A Useful Book Case,' and "Talks on Embroidery." Nearly all these articles are practically illustrated. The special artist for the month is William Adolphe Bouguereau, numerous examples of whose work are shown, including a very fine double page wood engraving of the famous "Voices of Spring." There is the first chapter of "An Art Student's Year in Paris," which will make many an American girl long to join her, and the editor in his "Note Book" as usual gives some very valuable points to art connoisseurs as well as some timely cautions to those who would like to become connoisseurs. Price 35 cents Montague Marks Publisher, 23 Union Square, New York.

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder
Awarded Gold Medal Midwinter Fair, San Francisco.

I Made $75.00 in a Week,

I have bought several plating machines, but they were either not large enough for some articles or they did not work easy, and I have never made much money until I obtained the Practical Plating Dynamo. This is the electrical machine used in all the great gold and silver plating factories, and does the work every time No sooner did people hear that I had this electrical Dynamo, than I had more spoons, knives, forks and jewelry than I could plate in a month. The first week I cleared $31.50, and the second week I cleared $75.00, and I think by the first of January I will have a thousand dollars in cash and give my farm considerable attention too. The Plating Dynamo is the thing to use, and you can learn to use it in about an hour. Anyone can write to W. P. Harrison & Co., Columbus, Ohio, who makes these machines, for circulars. As this is my first lucky streak, I give my experience, hoping others may be benefited as much as I have been.

A Postmaster Gone Wrong

Fawcett, the Lagrange postmaster, has got himself into trouble, or rather, he has been caught at what has long been believe, but not fully exposed. Sunday, Jan. 6, at about 11 in the forenoon, after he had closed the postoffice, a young woman, whose name had been associated with his in a scandal for two or three years, was seen to enter. It was the means of attracting a crowd, and they were besieged till long after dark that evening, though the postmaster was gallant enough to venture out to a restaurant and get a lunch for himself and fellow prisoner. When they at last came out, there was a scene. The girl was escorted home by Fawcett, but she then broke down and made a sworn statement as to the facts. She had worked for Fawcett while he was in the printing business, and this intimacy had been going on she she And since his appointment as postmaster they had used the postoffice for their meetings. The citizens held an indignation meeting and condemned Fawcett in the strongest terms, and demanded his resignation. If he does not resign they will ask his removal, as his holding the office is an insult to the people. Fawcett denies any improper conduct, but their being locked up all day in the postoffice, and her own sworn confession are against him. He has long had a cloudy reputation in this regard, as well as the reputation of being a gambler and active patron of saloons, the truth of which we have no means of knowing. But all these things were urged against him when Mr McNagny decided to make him postmaster. But with McNagny charges and objections like these have seemed only to confirm him in the determination to appoint the man objected to. The respectful requests and wishes of the better elements have received no recognition at his hands. While Fawcett is the guilty one, it should not be forgotten, that this scandal in a U. S. office, the most public place in the town, was made possible by the unheard of tastes and methods of Congressman McNagny. Since writing this we have seen a communication sent by Fawcett to the Ft. Wayne Journal. He again denies all, and lays the blame on his old enemy, Ballou. But he fails to give a reason for his being locked up with the girl in the office all day long, and till between 7 and 8 that evening. This part, he does not deny, and it will be difficult for him while this fact remains, to prove his innocence of the entire charge. The Lagrange people can surely find men enough to conduct their public business, who are not under charges of this kind. And it is high time that the people in general should quit giving public positions to men of questionable character.

A Big Suit.

Angola Magnet.

There is a suit set down for trial on the 21st of this month, in the Circuit Court at Auburn, which promises to be somewhat sensational. Some two or three years ago, Frank M. Kelly, who is now a Justice of the Peace in Ashley, had a leg crushed in a Wabash wreck and was taken to the Company's hospital for treatment, His leg was amputated at the outset, and later it was amputated a second and then a third time, before the stump healed. In his complaint for damages, Kelly alleges that he was injured by reason of the fault of and negligence of the Company, in the first instance; and further, that his recovery was not only seriously retarded, but his life jeopardized by incompetent surgical treatment in the hospital, the allegation being that the surgeon in charge was a man of intemperate habits and that he was intoxicated when he amputated the plaintiff's leg. Frank S. Roby of Angola and John F. Shuman of Waterloo are plaintiff's attorneys.

THE sugar trust has just declared another dividend of 3 per cent. Now will republicans in the Senate show their sincerity by uniting to take off that extra duty on foreign refined sugar so as to give these sugar monopolists a set back? Hardly. This is after election.

Awarded
Highest Honors—World's Fair
DR.
PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER
MOST PERFECT MADE.
A pure Grape Cream of Tartar Powder. Free from Ammonia, Alum or any other adulterant.
40 YEARS THE STANDARD.

Bankrupt Store

Here We Are!

Four Doors North of Kruger's Grocery.

New Goods, Low Prices.

Goods that Suit the Times.

—WE HAVE—

HARDWARE,

TINWARE,

TABLE LINEN,

NOTIONS, ETC.

In Fact, Everything Kept in a Firs class

Notion Store

Come and see our Goods, and learn how very low you can buy almost anything you want.

Will cost you nothing to look at them. We want to make your acquaintance.

A. W. Bates & Son
AUBURN.

Court.

We have room for but the most important. VanWagner who stole the guns at Ashley, got a year. In his trial, Meehan who had received a sentence of one year, was taken from jail as a witness in the case, and told a story directly opposite what he had sworn to before, and when the judge caught him at it, he became impudent. The judge at once changed his sentence to five years. He will be wiser. Haman Kemery on Tuesday, got a year for stealing the wool in Newville township. His young wife was heartbroken, and her sobs and tears were pitiful. Her brother, Patterson who, helped to steal the wool was caught at Coldwater, the same day, and reached here yesterday. His first name is Dennis, and it will likely continue so.

The Robber Told The Truth.

Frank Fisher the very popular marshal, of Waterloo, had a tramp ask for lodgings Monday night. The fellow said he was not a tramp, but was a crook, and that he had robbed a man at Pana, Ill., of several hundred dollars, and that a reward of $500 was offered for his arrest. But as his money was gone and he was tired of this kind of life he gave the marshal these facts, so he could have the reward if he chose to telegraph to Pana. The marshal gave him his supper and lodgings and though he thought the fellow was lying to get accommodations, he sent a dispatch. Next morning the tramp wanted a breakfast, but as Mr. Fisher had got no answer from Pana, he turned the fellow away, as being the usual fraud Half an hour later, the answer came, to hold the man, and he could have the reward. But the thief could not be found, and the officer missed getting the reward.

An Old Offender.

A. D. Barnes, who was so brutally murdered at Chicago about six weeks ago, formerly lived in the north part of this county, in Smithfield township, and is a brother of A. M. Barnes who still lives there. The latter is a respectable man, but A. D. always was a tough one. Attorneys J. E Rose and Will Less were calling up old memories of him, while talking in the grand jury waiting room Monday after court was over for the day. Mr. Less remembered, of Barnes stealing old Mrs Kelley's hog, or at least brood sow. In order to conceal the crime, he skinned the hog, and buried the skin, thinking that would make him safe. But it proved his undoing for some hogs found out the treasure and rooted it up, and were busy chewing it just at the time when parties were looking for the lost hog. They recognized the skin, and in this way, the crime was fixed on Barnes. He was arrested, and the result was, he got a year in the penitentiary. Mr. Rose recalled a queer incident at the trial. Barnes stood up in court and was asked by the judge, Pap Tousely was on the bench then, if he had any means to help him to make a defense He replied he had not, but that his relatives particularly, his brother, had. The brother he said was wealthy. He was asked if this brother would not help him. Barnes said he did not want to let his brother know how he had disgraced the family. But he added, "If he knew of it, he would be here, and he has money enough to buy up this whole d—d court." Judge Trousely tried hard to frown, but the laugh that went up all over the room, was too much for him. Barnes was not fined for "contempt," but the attorneys laugh when the incident comes up as it occasionally does. And queer things are always occurring in court. Every attorney has a store of them and generally tells them with a grace that comes only by practice.

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder
World's Fair Highest Medal and Diploma.

One Fourth off Sale! One Fourth off Sale!

G. H. YESBERA'S

Great Slaughter Sale of Clothing and Furnishings

FOR JANUARY.

Commencing Jan. 5, I will make a discount of One-Fourth off on my entire stock of Ready Made Clothing and Furnishings, Overcoats, Ulsters, Mackintoshes, Men's, Youths' and Children's Clothing.

A CHANCE OF A LIFE TIME.

Improve it! The largest stock in the county to select from; no old goods, but every thing new and fresh, and going at 25 cents off of every dollar. You cannot afford to miss it, for all of our goods are in season, and now is the time you need them. Remember the date,

JAN. 5 to JAN. 31.

Come while we have your size in a Suit or Overcoat. And don't lose track of the fact that our terms are STRICTLY CASH.

Good Cash for Goods, and Good Goods for Cash.

G. H. YESBERA,

The Leading Clothier and Furnisher.

RUPTURE

Of Men, Women and Children permanently cured in 30 days, without pain or slightest inconvenience by the Fidelity Method. Every case guaranteed. Patient need not pay a dollar until completely cured The truss discarded forever. Over 8,000 cases cured in the last five years. Consultation free. Consul.

J. B. CASEBEER, M. D.

Their Authorized Physician.

Office opposite Swineford House, Main Street, Auburn, Indiana.

THE LEGISLATURE.

The 59th "General Assembly of Indiana" as it is called met at Indianapolis last Thursday, Jan. 10th, the day set in the constitution for the beginning of its biennial sessions. They had as usual party caucuses the evening before, at least the party in the majority. At this caucus they decided the speakership of the House and other important offices to be filled by it. There was a big lot of candidates, 12 for speaker and 60 to 70 for state librarian and so on down through all the minor places. This reminds us that republican papers say a great deal about the hankering for office among democrats, but they never saw a struggle for little or big places like the one last week, take place among democrats when they had the opportunity It was always bad enough with us, but there was nothing like the crush, pain, wrangling and profanity one could see last Wednesday by a brief call at the Denuison House where they struggled all day. But the caucus that evening selected for speaker, Justus C. Adams of Marion county and next day he was duly elected. Later on a librarian was chosen to succeed the present efficient officer, Miss Ahern. The choice fell on Mrs. Emma L. Davison of Peru. She is said to be a worthy lady, but wholly without experience or any special qualifications for the place. W. W. Spangler of Bloomington, son of Lewis Spangler at Auburn Junction was a candidate and his 14 years experience as the librarian of the State University, and his wide range of knowledge in languages and books would have made his selection most desirable. But merit does'nt count for much in such a struggle. The other offices were filled, but a horde of hungry and clamorous partisans still linger about asking for something. So they talk now of changing the law so as to increase the number of door keepers, clerks, etc.

GOVERNOR'S MESSAGE.

Friday both houses held a joint session in the Hall of Representatives and Gov. Mathews read his message to them. It was very long but he had many important subjects to treat. He spoke of the payment on the state debt. $1,310,000 has now been paid in the last two years of a democratic administration. He spoke of the prize fights at Roby last year and its gambling race tracks now asked for laws to help him put a stop to such things without calling on the militia. He also spoke of the great strike and paid a compliment to the states soldiers. He wants the legislature to memorialize congress, asking the survey of a ship canal across Indiana from Chicago to the Ohio river. To the astonishment of all fair minded people of all parties, when the usual motion to have the message printed, was made, the legislature refused. It was a step so unusual, that all parties have condemned it. Gov. Mathews is very popular with all the people, and this insult comes in the way of an unpleasant surprise. Had he been an active and aggressive partisan, there might have been more excuse. But in any case, there is a point beyond which, partisan feelings should not extend. A great many bills are being introduced, some good and some foolish, as is always the case. It was laughable to see the crowd of members at the railroad offices, as they started home Saturday evening, all asking for o..., although one of their number had that very day, introduced a bill against receiving any passes from any ro..s.

HOMESEEKERS' EXCURSIONS,

On January 15 and February 5 the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad will sell 30-day Excursion Tickets to points in Virginia on the Harper's Ferry & Valley Branch, south of and including Winchester, at rate of one fare for the round trip. Excursion Tickets will also be sold to points in the West, and Southwest, on January 15, and to points in the South on February 5, at very low rates.

For further information on or address any B. & O. Ticket Agent, S. P. Kretzer, Land and Immigration Agent, Philadelphia, Pa., or L S Allen, Ass't Gen'l Pass'r Agent Chicago, Ill. 3 5

RESPONDENCE

WATERLOO.

Miss Ada McEuterfer is visiting friends in Ligonier.

Mr. and Mrs Clyde Reed are happy in the addition of a son to their family.

Grandma Willis who burned herself so badly last week is improving slowly.

Mrs. Dan Less has a sister visiting her from Angola.

Mrs. Josiah Imhoff who has been in ill health for the past five years was buried on Tuesday. Aged 71 years.

There was no service at the Presbyterian church Sunday evening, the weather being so inclement.

Mrs. Emma Plum drove over to Auburn Tuesday morning to see her mother who is not well.

Robert Patterson, whose headquarters are at Howell Mich., has been home on a visit and enjoying the meeting with old friends.

Mrs Bemenderfer has been obliged to give up teaching for several days on account of sickness She is better now, and in school again.

L. S Goodwin was elected postmaster of the House of representatives at Indianapolis. The DeKalb man is always at hand.

W A. Patterson has sold his store building to Boyer & Less, who will occupy it shortly. They contemplate putting many improvements upon it, first however.

Mrs. Hall has been quite sick and helpless. She could not move her lower limbs in the least, and her eyes were so much affected, she could see but little, but is improving somewhat at this time.

Mrs. Klotz is rejoicing in the possession and comfort of a new, beautiful and expensive couch, a Christmas gift from her youngest son Wilson Trout of New York City.

All of the churches observed the week of prayer, but after one or two days the weather became too inclement for any whose health was not robust, to venture out The United Brethren have continued their meetings for an indefinite time.

We have winter enough in the past few days, the snow storm commenced Friday evening, and increased severity until cold did not begin to express its intensity; snowing constantly, and blowing until some time Sunday night it subsided and Monday morning the sky was clear. For two days most people considered themselves snowed in.

Your correspondent was taken quite by surprise, but enjoyed a delightful call from Mrs S. E. Wood, of Chicago, and her sister Mrs. J. C. Boyer. Mrs. Wood was on her way to New York, where her daughter is, and only remained in Waterloo from one day until the next, Mrs. Wood is an old friend, and we always enjoy meeting.

Melvin Thomas express agent here went to Archbald O., to get some money belonging to him the first of this week. He received the money and coming home on the train went to sleep, when he arrived home, found his money gone. He telegraphed to the conductor who had found the pocketbook in the car but the money was gone.

Old Mrs. Maxwell, mother of William, B. F. and Phil. Kennedy, died at the home of the last named, the old Wasson farm near Spencerville, Monday night. Her home is at Waterloo, but she had gone down to Phila for a visit. She was over 80 The news was brought here Tuesday by B. F. Wasson, who telephoned from Auburn to relatives at Waterloo.

CORUNNA.

The trains were all late on the Lake Shore last Saturday on account of the storm.

Reynolds Brothers are getting their mill yard pretty well filled up with logs, and are now running the mill full blast

The business men who use ice in the summer season here, were busy putting up a supply last week.

Levi Harman is repairing his house on South Bridge street, which will soon be occupied by the family of G. C. Weimer.

Elmer Hawes, formerly night operator at this place, was back here last Wednesday on a short visit with his chums.

JAPANESE MANHOOD

Treatment quickly and forever cures Emissions, Drains, Impotency, Varicocele, Self-Abuse and all resulting evils. No C. O. D. or quack schemes Sealed Sexual Book Free if you mention this paper and describe your case. Address Japan Medical Company, Toledo, O.

You make no mistake when you take DeWitt's Little Early Risers for biliousness, dyspepsia or headache, because these little pills cure them. Robbins & McCord sell them.

Most people cannot afford to experiment. They want immediate relief. That's why they use One Minute Cough Cure. Sold by Robbins & McCord.

The name One Minute Cough Cure suggests a medicine that relieves at once, and quickly cures. Its use proves it. For sale by Robbins & McCord.

Take a dose of DeWitt's Little Early Risers just for the good they will do you. These little pills are good for indigestion, good for headache, good for liver complaint, good for constipation. They are good. Sold by Robbins & McCord.

It cures piles, it cures obstinate sores, chapped hands, wounds. It does this quickly. Is there any good reason why you should not use DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve? For sale by Robbins & McCord.

T. F. Anthony, ex-postmaster of Promise City, Iowa, says: "I bought one bottle of 'Mystic Cure' for Rheumatism and two doses of it did me more good than all the medicine I ever took." Sold by Robbins & McCord, druggists, Auburn. 41tf

English Spavin Liniment removes all hard, soft or calloused lumps and blemishes from horses, blood spavins, curbs, splints, sweeney, ring-bone, stifles, sprains, all swollen throats, coughs, etc. Save $50 by use of one bottle. Warranted the most wonderful blemish cure ever known. Sold by Robbins and McCord druggists Auburn. 34tf

We might tell you more about One Minute Cough Cure, but you probably know that it cures a cough. Every one does who has used it. It is a perfect remedy for coughs, colds, hoarseness. It is an especial favorite for children, being pleasant to take and quick in curing. For sale by Robbins & McCord.

Business. One of the leading Business Colleges of the country is located at Fayette, O. Its Actual Business rooms are marvels of beauty. It is superior in advantages to the city business colleges, while the expenses is only one half or one-third as great Its courses are thorough; its methods the best, and its graduates SUCCEED. It receives the praise of every student who enters it. Do not delay but act. Write for catalogue to the president of

J. E. DODDS, College,
Fayette, Ohio.

NOW REALLY, DOESN'T THIS STRIKE YOU AS A

BIG BARGAIN?

A BOY'S SUIT,
consisting of a double breasted coat and short pants All Wool, mind you, first-class—good and strong.

A PAIR OF EXTRA PANTS
to match the suit.

A PRETTY CAP
made of the same cloth as the coat and two pairs of pants are made from.

AND A PAIR OF SHOES,
of solid leather—neat, stylish, yet as strong as a brick.

ALL FOR

$5.00

We call them the

HUB'S "HEAD-TO-FOOT" BOY'S OUTFITS.

You'll call them the greatest bargain of your life when you see them.

LET US SEND YOU ONE.

$5.75 will bring one all charges prepaid to any part of the U. S., or we'll send you one C. O. D. with privilege of examination before acceptance, if you'll send us $1.00 on account to secure express charges.

SAMPLES OF CLOTH and 60-page Illustrated Catalogue FREE on application.

THE HUB,

N. W. Cor. State and Jackson Sts., CHICAGO, ILL.,

America's Largest Retail Dealers in Men's Clothing, Boys Clothing, Furnishing Goods, Hats, Shoes for both Sexes, and Ladies' Cloaks and Furs in the United States.

The Hub has no Branch Stores anywhere.

GREAT Midwinter EVENT!

BISHOP AND LACKEY

GREAT JANUARY HOUSEKEEPING SALE.

Tremendous Cash Bargains In Desirable Merchandise,

Special Attractions!

IN

Table Linens,
Napkins, Towels,
White Spreads,
Made Sheets and
Pillow Cases, Wide
and Narrow Muslins.

WE RECEIVE THIS WEEK

100 Dozen Ladies Muslin Underwear.

Will be sold VERY CHEAP during this sale.

We Receive this Week

225 PIECES NEW DRESS GOODS.

75	Pieces, All New Colors, 29 c.	Former Price	50 c.
75	Pcs. New Serge, Black & Colors, 50c.	" "	75 c.
75	Pcs. New Serge, Black & Colors, 55c.	" "	100.

Our stock of Underwear and Blankets is large and full of Desirable Goods.

100 Doz. Gloves and Mittens.

Seasonable Goods.

BISHOP & LACKEY.

SHULL'S CASH SHOE STORE

Leather Boots, Rubber Boots, Felt Boots,

Best Line in Auburn

Men's Shoes Men's Shoes

Women's Shoes Women's Shoes

Children's Shoes Children's Shoes

We have never had such a Line to offer before. Don't fail to see them- Prices lower than ever.

THE CASH SHOE STORE

OP. BISHOP & LACKEY'S.

Spring Curry Comb

Clock Spring Blade. Soft as a Brush. Fits every Curve. The Only Perfect Comb. Used by U. S. Army and by Barnum and Forepaugh Circuses, and Leading Horsemen of the World. Ask your Dealer for It. Sample mailed post paid 25 cents.

See our name on the handle. SPRING CURRY COMB CO., 104 Lafayette St., South Bend, Indiana.

ADMINISTRATOR'S SALE
Of Henry Wartensleben Estate.

I will offer for sale at Public Auction at the late residence in Auburn, on Thursday, January 24th, 1895,

commencing at 10 o'clock a. m. the following personal property belonging to decendent

A lot of Carpenter and Upholster tools, House hold goods, including cook and heating stoves, Carpet, Chairs, Tables, Couches, Upholstered furniture, Bureau, Stand, Bedstead, Mattress and many other things not herein menticned. Iron Kettle, Hand cart, Wheel barrow, a number of Painter's ladders, including step ladders Garden tools, including Daisy plow, Grind stone, Sausage grinder and suffer etc. etc.

TERMS: All sums of $5 and under, cash. On sums over $5 a credit of 6 months with approved security, without interest if paid when due. If not paid when due 6 per cent from date and attorney's fees. No property to be removed until the conditions of the sale are complied with.

JACOB WALBORN, Administrator.

Notice of Final Settlement of Estate

Notice is hereby given to all persons interested in the estate of Mary A. Gragg, deceased, to appear in the DeKalb Circuit Court, held at Auburn, Indiana, on the 28th day of January, 1895, and show cause if any, why my Final Settlement Accounts with the estate of said decedent should not be approved; and said heirs and all others interested are notified to then and there make proof of heirship or claim and receive their distributive shares.

Witness my name this 7th day of January, 1895.

WILSON S. DANCER, Administrator.
J. E. & J. H. ROSE, Attorneys for Estate.

Notice to Non-Residents.

State of Indiana, DeKalb Co., ss:

In the DeKalb Circuit Court, March term, 1895.

Eldridge Hursh impleaded with anothers is hereby notified that an action has been commenced against them in said court, for maintainance and support by Matilda Hursh, and that the same will be heard and determined on the 11th day of March 1895, being the 11th juridical day of the next term of said court, which commences March 4th, 1895.

Witness, the Clerk of said Court, this 12th day of January, 1895

DANIEL D. MOODY, Clerk.
C. A. O. McClellan, Attorney.

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned has been appointed by the Judge of the DeKalb Circuit Court, of the state of Indiana, Administrator de-bonis-non of the estate of David Rice, deceased, late of said county.

Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

JACOB WALBORN, Administrator.
January 14, 1895.

"Shugers Special"

Elegant Finish! High Grade!

Light Weight. Great Speed maker. No back Numbers.

"Up To Date!" - 1895.

Manufactured at Coldwater, Michigan.

CORY SHUGERS, Agt.
Auburn, - - Indiana.

WANTED:--Elm and Oak Hub Timber, by Zimmerman Mfg. Co., Auburn Ind. Inquire at their office for dimensions. 1-4

They said he was insane to steal cigars in broad daylight, but when it was found they were Kessler Bros.' Bill Heads no one questioned his sound judgment.

All diseases of the air passages especially catarrah and chronic, Bronchitis, as well as first stages of consumption can be cured. I am treating these diseases with great success by the use of the latest and most improved medicines and instruments. Dr. W H. Nusbaum, Auburn, Ind. 42tf

LOCAL NEWS.

See the news on inside pages.

Sealed book to men free, box 53, Toledo, O.

Smoke the K. & B. ten-cent cigar.

Capt. Scott, father of T. P. Scott is lying at the home of the latter, very sick.

Did you see the moon with its bright pillar Sunday night.

Dr. Johnston, dentist, has the new method of filling teeth without pain, as well as painless extraction of teeth.

Mrs. Boland, who has been visiting at Laporte and Elkhart for the past two weeks, came home Tuesday.

The M. E. and Presbyterian churches are each having a series of meetings this week.

A new kind of T can be had at Neff & Weeks only. It is Royal Satsuma and sells for 50 cents per pound.

Mrs. J. R. Moody has been quite sick lately and her daughter, Mrs. Zent in Minnesota has been sent for.

The protracted services began at the Lutheran church last Sabbath evening, a good interest manife ted.

T T T T T T

Royal Satsuma is a new tea and is for sale only by Neff & Weeks. Try it. 50 cents per pound.

The Pedro Club of this place went over to Garrett last evening, where they were pleasantly entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Coffinberry.

Parties having accounts with Cowan Sisters' are kindly asked to settle the same without further notice.

ANICE LEAS. 3-4

Laura Ober came home Monday night. She has been absent about five months, the most of the time visiting friends at Beatrice, Neb.

MARRIED: At the home of Mr Slater one and a half mile east of Auburn Jan. 12, by J. D. Brosy, Enoch Slater and Edith Stout.

FOR SALE:—I have two Fire and Burglar Proof Safes, Hall's Patent, either of which I will sell cheap and on terms to suit the purchaser. Call on or address,

CHAS. M. BROWN, Auburn, Ind.

W. H. Kuhn, who formerly was agent for the Singer Sewing Machine, at this place, is now working for the Prudential Insurance Company. His office is over Rant & Co's. shoe store.

WANTED:—In Auburn, an energetic young man to represent us. An excellent opportunity for a wideawke News Gatherer. Address at once, "Northern Indiana Press Bureau, Laporte, Indiana.

Marshal Baker with the town team took a big sleigh load of the small school children on a sleigh ride yesterday, and there were about a million of shouts in as many different sharps and flats.

INSURANCE AGENCY:—People desiring good insurance should remember that Geo. Lanning has an office at the Davis Harware store, and works some of the very best companies in the country. Good farm risks taken. Call on him. 32tf

Rev. Cyrus Nusbaum, a brother of Dr Nusbaum preached Sunday forenoon in the M. E. church, and the same evening in the Presbyterian church. Both sermons received many compliments. He is pastor of a church in Wichita, Kansas.

LADIES RUBBER GLOVES, $1.25 pair; Mending tissue 25 cts. package; Water bottles 2 qt $1; Fountain Syringe 2 qt $1. We sell everything in rubber. Big profits to agents. Send stamp for catalogue. ACME RUBBER CO., Toledo, O. (Mention this Paper.)

Hon. and Mrs. C. A. O. Mc Clellan entertained a very pleasant dinner party last Thursday. Mrs. and Mr. Woodhull and Mrs D. R. Best, of Angola, Mr. and Mrs. J. E Rose and Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Barns, of Auburn, were among the favored ones.

Dr. W. E. Newton, of Ligonier is here, the guest of Dr. Buchtel, who was a student of his. The Doctor has fallen into ill health, and has been spending some time in Chicago, for treatment. We presume he will be under Dr. Buchtel's charge while in Auburn.

We received, several weeks ago, a notice that our friend Milton P. Parker had been united in marriage to Mrs. Hannah Loutzenheiser. But as the notice did not say what date, we did not publish it. We now learn it was Dec. 2 We are not acquainted with the fortunate lady, but can vouch for the groom that he is worthy of the good wishes we send.

As noted in the COURIER last week, Mr and Mrs. Garwood went up to Cassopolis, called there by the critical condition of his mother. They found her extremely low, having in addition to the disease that had sapped her strength, fallen, and broke a limb. The shock of the accident added to the critical character of her condition, and at last accounts there was no hope for her recovery.

The DeKalb County Farmers' Institute will be held in St. Joe on Wednesday and Thursday, Jan. 23 and 24. A very interesting program has been arranged, and leading farmers from all over the county will take part in the discussions. Prominent among the speakers to be present are Waldo C. Brown, of Oxford, O., and Mrs. Virginia C. Meredith, of Cambridge City, both having a national reputation as institute workers. In connection with the Farmers' Institute arrangements are being made to hold a Midwinter Fair in G. A. R. Hall, where various farm products will be on exhibition together with pioneer relics and other curiosities. The business men of St. Joe will make an exibit and the ladies will be invited to make a display of fancy work. Other interesting and attractive features are being arranged. Farmers throughout the county are urgently invited to bring or send any articles to this exibit which they think will be of interest to the public.

Book free despondent men, box 53, Toledo, O

T. C. Ford keeps all kinds of mill feed, flour, corn and oats. 2-4

A. J. Shutt, of Jackson, was in town Monday.

Jeff Boyle, of Butler, was in town on some business matters Tuesday.

Miss Wildred Kline is assisting Miss Nettie Ernest in the recorder's office this week.

Try Royal Satsuma Tea at Neff and Weeks. It can be bought no where else in the city. Opposite Swineford house.

J. W. McCrory, of Angola, was here last week, a witness in a trial going on at court, we suppose.

Helen Ralston and Nellie Barns go to Angola to visit a few days this week with Mrs. Harry Scott, Mrs C. H. Jackson, Dr. Lida Leasure and other friends.

Charles Kruse, son-in-law of Ed. Morell, has moved back from Wolcottville. He has occupied Mr. Morell's house here and will make this his home.

VEIL FOUND: Saturday January 5. near Kesslers' cigar factory. Finder can have same by proving property and paying for this notice.

There will be communion services at the Lutheran church next Sabbath morning Jan. 20. To this service every body is invited to attend.

The masked ball last Thursday evening proved a very pleasant affair and Jolite Club got an abundance of compliments on all sides.

A surprise party was given Jos. Cullers Monday evening. It being his 50th birthday. The G. A. R. and W. R. C. were invited and all report a pleasant evening.

AGENTS WANTED: To sell the New Hardy Rose, Belle Siebrecht, pronounced by authorities as the best ever introduced. Ready For Sale. Reliable Agents may apply with references to Siebrecht & Wadley, New York City.

S. S Noel sends cash for the COURIER to be forwarded to West Branch, Butte Co., California. We did not know he was in the west, and would be glad to have a letter from that distant point to publish for our home readers.

The rates of taxation are published this week in both the Dispatch and COURIER, as this is considered the proper way, both parties being interested alike in knowing what rates they are to pay for each of the purposes for which taxes are collected.

James Provines met with a queer accident Tuesday. He had taken off his well pump, to fix it, and in putting it back on, he slipped and fell head first into the well hole, which was the usual depth used in driven wells. He fortunately struck in such a way that he was not seriously hurt, but it was a pretty dangerous plunge.

If you want to write right, write us right away; then write right along and not stop to dip. Our new invention converts any kind of pen into a Fountain Pen. 50 cents will get you one sample dozen by return mail. Ten thousand salesmen wanted. Sells on sight. Hustler Novelty Co., Luray, Va., Inventors, Patentees, Manufacturers, Manipulators and Introducers of Novelties.

D. C, Caruth came near having a serious runaway Tuesday noon. A boy tried to jump onto his sleigh, and the horse got frightened and ran up town along Seventh street. He guided the horse up against the stoping post that is used as a stay to the electric light post by the Kiblinger factory, and stopped her, but she kicked loose and got away. The cutter was somewhat injured.

The Angola Magnet wants to know if we meant their "Frank Powers" to whose family a nice little boy was added a short time ago. Not at all. Our Frank is happily married and has a right to these additions, while the Magnet's Frank is a jolly bachelor, and of course wouldn't think of such a thing. But we never could understand, with as many good looking girls as Angola has, how Frank has remained single till his hair is getting thin, with no one to pull it.

John Keeran has bought out his partner, Mr. Delong at the Union Bakery, and Lin Thomas, who has been baking for them for some time has taken an interest in the business. Mr DeLong has proved a good business man, and made many friends. We do not know what he will go into, but an active man like him will not remain idle. Mr. Keeran has always done his share to make the establishment popular, and we have no doubt the "Union" will continue its run of prosperity. We wish the new firm success.

The First National Bank of this place has received the new bills to which they are entitled under the recent change in their charter. These new bills come in strips, each strip having one $20 and three $10's, or $50 in a strip. When signed by the president and cashier and cut apart, they are ready to use. At the recent election of officers of the bank Judge McClellan was continued as president, Charles McClellan as cashier and D. A. Garwood as assistant cashier. The directors also remain the same, except that Dr. Ford takes the place of Isaac Hague.

Nicholas Ensley was suddenly taken ill at the time we called on him at his office in Indianapolis last Wednesday. He had been feeling ill for a day or two and just at that hour had a severe fit of vomiting which appeared to bring on something like heart trouble. His physician was summoned and by active measures Mr. Ensley was soon so far recovered that he could be taken to his home. But for a time his case looked serious. Later advices to the friends here say his condition has continued to improve and he will soon be fully recovered. His physician believes he needs rest, as he has been confining himself very closely to his duties as manager of the National Union Building & Loan Association, of which he was one of the founders.

Write Box 53, Toledo, O., free book to men

Delayed this week by the delinquent tax list.

Best thing for your hens, is ground oyster shells. Cook Ford keeps it.

P. K. David, of Garrett, was in town Tuesday.

A boy was born to Mrs. Donny Richards Theda, Friday of last week.

Walter Penfield returned to Lima, Monday to resume his studies.

L. S. Goodwin, of Waterloo, has been made postmaster of the House of representatives at Indianapolis.

Ed. Morrell of Wolcottville was in town over Sunday, the guest in the family of his son-in-law, Chas. Kruse.

Lafe Miller's little ponies are in training and we presume will be utilized for sleigh rides as they seem to be handy for any kind of business

He hired a neat little sleigh,
And rode about feeling quite geigh;
But when the bill came
He called it a shame,
And very near fainted aweigh.

A letter from J. D. Lahnum at Chicago, states that all the DeKalb colony are well, at least those near him. He is still with A. H. Revell & Co., the great furniture dealers, and we gather from his letter he has had an advance in wages. Sam Buss and family are well.

Snow came on in earnest last week, on Thursday evening. Friday morning it lay on the ground to the depth of about six inches. That evening it started up again, and by Saturday morning it was seven inches deep, and the mercury down 8 or 10 below. Saturday more snow fell and on Sunday morning it was 14 inches deep. Monday morning the mercury was again below zero, but the day was bright and still.

John Weaver and his men are at work on the room next south of the Davis hardware store, now owned by Rev. Henry Johnson. It will be fully refitted and put in proper shape for the bakery that Baker and Bauer will put in as noticed elsewhere in this paper. It will make them a fine location. Mr. Baker offers for rent, the room he now occupies, and which has been his location for so many years.

Free sexual book to men, box 53, Toledo, O.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

The L L C. will meet this week with Mrs. Mollie Rose. Lesson from page 15 to 25.

The C. L. S. C. will meet Saturday with Mrs. Mollie McClellan.

Free book to weak men, box 53, Toledo, O

Notice.

For rent or sale after the 21th day of January, I will rent or sell my property known as the Auburn Bakery on Eighth Street. Inquire of

ED BAKER. 2tf

Roses in Bloom.

The loveliest roses we have seen this winter, are those now in bloom at Fleming's greenhouse, and he has an abundance of them His white ones are the finest we have seen. He also has an abundance of carnations in bloom. We do not need to go out of town now to get the choicest flowers.

Notice.

On Monday Jan. 21, we will move our bakery and lunch room into our new quarters on Main street, first door south of John L. Davis' hardware store. Kindly thanking the people of Auburn and vicinity for their liberal patronage during the past, we respectfully solicit the same for the future.

ED. BAKER & L. L. BAUER. 2-2

Fire.

Insure against it in some one of the following responsible and liberal companies represented by Walter C. Hartman; Franklin of Philadelphia, Continental of New York, North America of Philadelphia, German American of New York, Manchester of Chicago, North British & Mercantile of U. S. & England. Hamburg Bremen of U. S & Germany, Any insurable property accepted. Call on or address

WALTER C. HARTMAN,
Auburn Ind. 3tf

The First Jackson Ry Ticket.

We have been shown the first ticket sold at Auburn by the Ft. Wayne & Jackson railroad. It was purchased Sept. 14, 1870, by W. H. Dills, and is now in possession of his widow, Mrs. May Dills. The road had been completed, but was not in operation all along the line till that date, when a train was run from Ft. Wayne to Jackson, the entire length of the road, as the Michigan State fair was being held there that week. Mr. Dills went to take in this excursion and managed to purchase the first ticket ever sold from here, as will be seen by its number, which is "nought," the next one sold, as is the custom with railroads, being "No. 1." Mr. Dills kept this ticket as a souvenir, and of course it is highly prized. The conductor on that train was Mr. Mogford, who is still in the service. Mr. Rafter, son-in-law of Mrs. Dills, showed the ticket to Mr. Mogford recently, and he at once recalled the incident.

Here is a fac-simile of the ticket, which we might add, will be exhibited at the "Midwinter fair" at St. Joe, the 23d and 24th of this month.

Ft. W., J. & S. R. R.

AUBURN.

Good for one Passage and Return within the time Specified in the Posters.

STATE FAIR
AT JACKSON
O

GREAT REDUCTION ON MILLINERY! AT COWAN SISTERS'

BEGINNING

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 15.

This is not upon damaged goods, bought under price, but Every Article Offered is GOOD, SEASONABLE and STYLISH, and will be sold at such LOW PRICES as were Never Before Quoted.

We have a Large Stock which must be CUT DOWN within the next twenty days.

It's the PRICES that will TALK

Hats worth $1.65 and $1.85 for 87c. and 99c.

Hats worth 75c. and $1 00 for 39c. and 48c.

Children's caps, hoods and bonnets, fancy feathers, birds and pins at correspondingly low prices.

TRIMMED HATS at LESS THAN COST.

Come early and get the Cream of the Goods.

COWAN SISTERS
AUBURN, INDIANA.

DON'T ! ! ! ! Buy a dollar's worth of goods until you have seen

Fred J. Yesbera's

ELEGANT STOCK OF

WATCHES, CLOCKS and JEWELRY.

He has the Nicest Goods in Town for Xmas Presents, at Prices that BEAT THE WORLD.

5 & 10 CENTS.

We want to call your attention this week to our 5 and 10 Cent Goods. We have so many articles in this line that housekeepers are always in need of that it will pay you to call and see them. We offer you bargains in Tinware; Glassware and Novelties that will surprise you. Give us a chance to sell you a pair of Gloves or Mitttens.

OLDS BROS.

SAY! Do you know That we can sell you

CREAMERY BUTTER for 20 cents per lb

COFFEE for 23, 25, 30, 35 cents per lb

TEA from 15 to 60 cents per lb

CRACKERS 7 to 10 cents per lb

Pickles, Onions, Wash Boards, Tubs,

Whips, Oil Cans,

Baking Powders, Soaps and all

FAMILY Supplies at Lowest Cash Prices.

All Goods Warranted as Represented.

Family Grocery, NORTH MAIN STREET.

Go to Ford's feed store to get your baled hay, straw, oil, meal and ground oyster shells. 2 4

The Fayette Normal University has an advertisement in this issue, Those who are thinking of attending a Normal or College should not fail to send for catalogue and make a careful study of the excellent features of this school. 27tf

Fort Wayne and Jackson Railroad Company.

The Annual Meeting of the stockholders of The Fort Wayne and Jackson Railroad Company, for the election of Directors and such other business as may be brought before it, will be held on the 25th of January, 1895, 10 a. m., at the office of the Company Jackson, Michigan.

The Transfer Books will close on January 12th and remain closed until January 26th.

23-3 R. G. BOLTON, Secretary.

L. O. BUCHTEL, Homoeopathic Physician and Surgeon.

Special attention given to chronic and obscure cases and catarrhal diseases of the nose, throat and lungs; also to diseases peculiar to women and children.

Office and residence over Smith & Madden's marble works, Auburn, Ind. Office apart from residence and private. All calls attended to promptly, night or day.

When wild and withering winter winds warp the weary wanderer, his thoughts turn in sweet anticipation to home, wife and Kessler Bros.' Little Salesman.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNS, - - PUBLISHER.

It begins to look as if Boss McKane were "not dead but only gone before."

Seeley got eight years and $354,000—$44,250 a year. Pretty good wages for an ordinary bookkeeper.

If New York has an honest police captain he can double his salary by resigning and entering the dime museum field.

Mrs. Grannis tells of a New York woman who won four husbands by a generous display of pretty neck.—Boston Herald.

Simultaneously?

Carmencita sold about a carload of bric-a-brac last week, including a fine silver shaving set. Heavens! Can it be possible that ——? No; perish the thought!

Captain Schmittberger of the New York police force says "the whole department is rotten to the core." From our point of view it looks as if the core also is badly decayed.

James Whitcomb Riley has been honored by a brand of cigars named for him. And yet England sneeringly says that this country does not appreciate genius or fittingly reward literary lights.

A New York paper says that a recent street railway franchise in that town cost only $3,000 per Alderman. This shows how the markets have become demoralized since the Lexow committee began work.

If Superintendent Byrnes is an honest man and knows nothing of the wholesale corruption of the force he commands he hasn't enough brains to hold such a position. If he does know of it he should be bounced. There is fun ahead.

Superintendent Byrnes' friends now claim that he made about a quarter of a million dollars in one year in Wall street speculating in some stock the name of which, unfortunately, has slipped from his memory. Queer, isn't it?

Barings, when it failed in 1890, owed in all $140,000,000. This whole sum has been liquidated by the combination headed by the Bank of England, and only $7,500,000 is now left of these vast liabilities, which have been taken up by strong hands. There has never been a more signal proof that co-operation is necessary to save the greater interests of society when competition has brought them to the verge of ruin.

Dover, N. H., one of the prettiest of the smaller cities of New England, is one of the largest consumers of snuff among all the cities of the country. The population is something like 10,000, and last year more than five tons of this form of tobacco was used there. The habit of snuff dipping is not usual in New England, and it was brought to Dover, so it is said, by soldiers just after the war, and has increased to its present proportions.

Dr. Barthou and Mr. Jaures are members of the French Chamber of Deputies, the latter being a socialist and the former a ministerialist. In the course of a debate in the chamber, which became somewhat animated and personal, Mr. Jaures asserted that the ministers had attempted to protect a gang of railroad exploiters of unsavory reputation. "You lie!" was the prompt interjection of Dr. Barthou, resulting, of course, in a challenge. The duel was fought, with the usual result that nobody was hurt. A French duel appears to be a very appropriate way of celebrating sunrise.

At last an important fact comes out about Hetty Green. She has breakfasted on crackers, not because she was parsimonious and crackers were cheap. She has preferred an egg fried by herself to a sumptuous repast, not on account of the difference in the price. She thought some one wanted to poison her. It would be hard to put poison inside of an egg, and if she bought the egg and broke the shell herself, and was her own cook, that was one thing she could eat with confidence. If she bought crackers at the casual grocery store, she might be safe. Dick and Harry, with just enough money to buy a good dinner, have gone on revelling in roast beef and roast turkey and corned beef and hash, having no end of comfort in it all, and the richest woman in America has never enjoyed that plain little delight. And now will rise before her a worse specter still than that of death in the dish. Now may come up a commission de lunatico, etc., for all this may be hallucination. It is a common form of insane delusion. It will also invalidate her will. Poor Hetty!

The Chicago Herald recently printed a sketch of the proposed apartment house to be built in New York to accommodate 2,500 families. It is expected to house in the one structure under a single roof 20,000 people. The sketch looks like a block of segments of honeycomb with space between them for light and a little air. There is nothing new under the sun. Randelier, the archaeologist who has studied with so excellent effect the ruins of New Mexico, can point out just such dwellings among the pueblos. There is one such apartment house of stone at Pecos. It has, as its ruins show, a circuit of 1,480 feet. It is five stories high. It was once a town and sheltered all the inhabitants. There is a honeycomb dwelling on the Rio Checos, 1,716 feet in circuit. It housed 3,000 persons. Each of these ancient honeycombs constitute a village, being also a single house built around a court. The plaza around which some of these honeycomb dwellings faced was often large enough for all sorts of games, equestrian as well as pedestrian. Gotham architects must have exhausted their power to invent ideas when they propose to go back to the aborigines for styles of habitation.

Professor Langley's flying machine on the trial trip flew 200 feet and dropped. Whereupon the critics are inclined to poke fun at the ship and the inventor. But before the hilarity proceeds further perhaps it would be well to remember that when the first Atlantic cable was laid it worked for a few minutes and then went on a strike and quit work for many months, while the scientific world called it a flat failure and a chimerical scheme.

Science is being resorted to generally to help political reform. As the concealed stenographer furnished for Chicago convicting evidence of John Powers' solicitation of a bribe of $25,000 from a cigarette company, the camera is furnishing proof of lawlessness in Brooklyn. Mayor Schieren has been dallying with the ordinance closing saloons on Sunday, which is also required under a State law. A Law Enforcement Society has been organized to see that the saloons are closed and they have adopted the camera as the means of accomplishing their object. "Snap shots" were taken at many resorts last Sunday, showing that the Mayor is either in collusion with violators of the law or that the Brooklyn police are not carrying out his orders. A concealed camera is capable of as dire mischief as a concealed stenographer. Rogues who do not fear the Lord can be brought into comparative dread of the law by reason of their fear of what science may accomplish in behalf of both the law and the Lord.

A BRITISH SPAT.

One of the Charming Amenities of Travel on an English Railroad.

"There are several things that strike the American traveler on English railroads as being curious," said a returned New-Yorker to a New York Sun reporter, "but none more so than the custom that obtains of the passengers talking at each other. There is a sliding window set in the door at each end of the transverse compartment, as you know, and there is no other airhole in the whole outfit. The persons who sit by these door windows control the ventilation of the compartment. Generally, too, there is a diversity of opinion on the subject of ventilation between those who sit by the window; the party who travels with his back to the engine declaring in favor of having the window open, while the other man who would sit in the draught is in favor of having the window closed. The stupid faults of construction are primarily responsible for these inconveniences, but the Briton perpetuates them by refusing to attempt anything in the line of concession. Nobody ever, or rarely ever, thinks of appealing to a fellow-passenger's idea of the fitness of things, and they content themselves with growling at each other or else appealing to the guard and talking at each other through that official.

I saw a very amusing instance of this while traveling on the Great Western Railroad. I was one of two passengers in a second-class car, the other being a chunky, middle-aged man, with a very red face, a stubby, iron-gray mustache, and the bluest blue necktie I ever saw. At one station, Bath, I think it was, a third passenger got into our compartment. This was a lady, also of middle age, as prim, chilly and severe as a new granite gravestone in a snowstorm. Both the gentleman and myself had been sitting with our backs to the engine and with the windows way down, so that there was plenty of fresh air for both of us without our being in it.

"When the lady got in it was on the other fellow's end of the compartment, and as he did not attempt to move she arranged her parcels and her cage and herself on the seat opposite him, facing the engine. As soon as the train started the wind rushed in and nearly blew the tail feathers out of her parrot. She at once reached over and pulled the window up. The fellow, who had been watching her over the top of his paper, instantly reached over and let the window down. Out streamed the ribbons of her bonnet, away spread the tail feathers of her parrot, and up flew the window. This sort of thing was kept up continuously, with short intervals of glaring at each other, but without a word, until the next station was reached.

"The fellow jammed the window down—it happened to be an up spell—and yelled for the guard.

"'Look 'ere, guard,' he cried, as soon as that official presented himself, 'ham I to be smothered to death because there 'appens to be a rheumatic ole critter in 'ere who caunt bear a breath of fresh hair?'

"'Mr. Guard,' screamed the lady, 'there is no reason, even if I am unprotected, why I should be insulted by a rough-faced brute.'

"So they went at it hammer and tongs, larruping each other over the guard's back until the gentleman knocked the lady out by telling the guard that he knew it was against the company's rules to allow parrots in the passenger's compartments, and threatening to report him unless he immediately took the thing away. At that the conductor whispered to the lady, and seizing the parrot and parcels she hurried away with him, evidently to some promised seclusion, giving her late antagonist a Parthian shot as she swept out about 'traveling hogs.' It was the funniest thing I ever saw and certainly could never have happened any where outside of an English railroad."

Pat Obeyed Orders.

While in front of Petersburg, General Butler received word that his favorite horse, Almond Eye, had been accidentally killed by falling into a ravine. Upon the departure of his informant, he ordered an Irish servant to go and skin him. "What! is Almond Eye dead?" asked Pat. "What's that to you? Do as I bid you, and ask no questions." Pat went about his business, and in an hour or two returned. "Well, Pat, where have you been all this time?" sternly demanded the general. "Skinning the horse, your honor." "Does it take nearly two hours to perform such an operation?" "No, your honor; but then, you see, it tuck 'bout half an hour to catch him," replied Pat.

Railroads.

Automatic machines have been devised for use on a moving train which mechanically record he condition of every foot of the track.

SHOW UP THE SOUTH.

PREPARATIONS FOR ATLANTA'S GREAT EXPOSITION.

Arrangements for the First International Exhibition Which the Cotton States Have Ever Held—Show to Open Next September.

Site and Buildings.

Atlanta, Ga., correspondence:

When in the face of hard times, with cotton a drug on the market at five cents a pound, Atlanta said, "Let us have an exposition," people were thunderstruck with the audacity of the proposition. When the Queen City of the South went further, and said, "Let us make our exposition national—yea, international—in character and scope," then the people thought it was a mammoth joke. But Atlanta has gone on with the project, and as a result all those who once laughed so loud at the idea have been struck with awe by the wonderful success which seems assured for the Cotton States and the International Exposition which will open its gates to the world September 18 next, to close them on the last day of 1895.

C. A. COLLIER.

There is every prospect that the Cotton States and International Exposition will be ahead of the Centennial Exhibition in splendor and usefulness. Even with its excellent exhibit at the World's Fair in 1893 the South could not hope to bring as prominently as it wished before the world its advantages in the industrial and agricultural fields, and so a fair for the special reason of attracting wide attention to these things will be of especial utility. And if superior organization were all that were needed to insure its success that is a foregone conclusion, for the men and women in whose hands the management of the exposition has been placed stand at the head of the business people of the South. All things of a purely local character have been put in the background as far as Atlanta and Georgia are concerned, and the aim of the exposition will be the advancement of the interests of the country in general and the South in particular.

ATLANTA, LOOKING SOUTH FROM THE EQUITABLE BUILDING.

UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT BUILDING.

Site of the Exposition.

Piedmont Park, the site of the exposition, is located two miles from the geographical center of the city. The 189 acres within the exposition enclosure stretch over immense hills of gentle acclivity and vales of surpassing loveliness. The landscape gardening, rich in the profusion of Southern foliage and flowers, which will form part of the display, will be one of the most pleasing attractions. A beautiful artificial lake, to be navigated by electric launches and gondolas, will be to the exposition what the lagoons were to the World's Fair. The main buildings, with their dimensions, are as follows: United States Government Building, 180x260 feet; Manufactures and Liberal Arts, 216x370 feet; Machinery, 100x500 feet; Minerals and Forestry, 80x220 feet; Agriculture, 150x300 feet; Transportation, 126x413 feet; Woman's Building (according to the original plans to be 124x134 feet, but these dimensions will probably be materially increased); Fine Arts, 100x245 feet; Negro Building, 100x300 feet.

One of the novelties of the exposition will be a building, as above mentioned, for the use of the negroes and to contain exhibits for their benefit. The negroes of the South will probably form no small part of the attendants at the exhibition, and the forethought of the management in thus providing for them is to be commended.

MRS. THOMPSON.

A different plan as to the construction of the exposition buildings will be followed from that adopted by the World's Fair managers, for the buildings are to remain after the close of the fair to adorn the park and form one of the future attractions of this city. Georgia pine will be the principal material employed, the inside of the buildings being for the most part finished in yellow pine.

The exposition will not be without its Midway Plaisance, that part of the grounds devoted to such exhibits as were to be found on the Midway of Jackson Park in Chicago being known as the Terrace. The principal features of the Chicago Midway and many others will be there to furnish amusement to those surfeited with sight-seeing of a higher order in the other parts of the grounds.

The Demand for Space.

There need be no fears that all the space which can be furnished will be in demand, for already applications are in for much more room than can be set apart for exhibitors. The management is wisely putting these applications through a sifting process and will grant space only to the best of those who desire to exhibit. Not alone is the United States expected to have splendid exhibits at the exposition, but other countries as well will without doubt take advantage of it to show the world what they can grow and make. The three months and a half through which the exposition will be open are those during which the greatest number of people from the North and West and from other climes are seeking the Southeast for health and pleasure, and these people will aid materially in making the exposition a success financially. Its success along other lines is already assured.

Charles A. Collier, the President and director general of the Cotton States and International Exposition, has had a large experience in public affairs and in exposition work. He was born in 1848, being the son of one of the pioneers of Atlanta. Most of his life has been devoted to business enterprises, in which he has been uniformly successful. His greatest achievement was the successful conduct of the Piedmont Exposition of 1887. Only 104 days elapsed from the first suggestion to the opening day of this exposition. At the close of the exposition, after paying all expenses, the treasurer had a balance of $56,000.

CURRENCY BILL IS DEAD.

Carlisle-Springer Measure Ignominiously Killed in the House.

Washington special: The Carlisle currency bill, which has been under debate in the House for about two weeks, was ignominiously ditched Wednesday. It had not strength enough to surmount the first parliamentary obstacle placed in its path.

The Committee on Rules, in obedience to the decree of the Democratic caucus on Monday, brought in an order to close general debate and proceed under the five-minute rule until Saturday, when the final vote should be taken, but the supporters of the bill showed lamentable weakness. They were unable to order the previous question, the demand therefor being refused, first by a rising vote of 92 to 101, and then on a yea and nay vote of 124 to 129.

The advocates of the bill were dumfounded when they discovered that they had been beaten in the parliamentary skirmish, and the order was withdrawn. This was the first reverse the Committee on Rules had suffered in four years. An analysis of the vote showed that all of the 124 votes in favor of the motion were cast by Democrats, while 82 Republicans, 39 Democrats and 8 Populists voted against it.

Mr. Bland and others loudly protested that the adoption of the rule would cut them off, Mr. Outhwait rejected all suggestions for amending the rule and demanded the previous question. The Republicans voted solidly with the Democratic opponents of the measure against ordering the previous question and it was defeated on a rising vote, 92 to 101. Among the Democrats who voted against ordering the previous question were Cockrell, of Texas; McGann, of Illinois; Hooker, of Mississippi; Ellis, of Kentucky; Money, of Mississippi; Bailey, of Texas; Bland, of Missouri; Hall, of Missouri; Holman, of Indiana, and Conn, of Indiana.

Mr. Outhwait hurriedly demanded the yeas and nays and the roll was called. The roll call was watched with intense interest, but announcement of the result of the vote only confirmed the defeat of the advocates of the measure. The supporters of the bill made a desperate effort to secure a majority of the votes, but the previous question was again rejected, 124 to 129. The advocates of the bill had suffered their first parliamentary reverse. The failure to order the previous question threw the special order open to amendment. Though there was no demonstration from the opponents of the bill, its advocates were panic-stricken, realizing that the vote given probably sealed the doom of the currency bill. Mr. Outhwait immediately arose and withdrew the special order.

ALL THE MONEY GONE.

Ex-Treasurer Taylor of South Dakota Is a Defaulter and Fugitive.

The most startling failure that has ever occurred in South Dakota or the Northwest was revealed Wednesday morning, when word was received at Redfield from William Walter Taylor, the out-going State Treasurer and president of the First National Bank and Northwestern Mortgage Trust Company of that city, that he would not appear to make his settlement at Pierre with his successor, Treasurer-elect Phillips of Deadwood. The news and the closing of his bank came like a thunderclap from a clear sky, because both Taylor and the financial institutions with which he was connected were regarded as firm and reliable beyond question. The news from Pierre demonstrates that no money is held there to the credit of the State Treasurer and none is held in the bank at Redfield.

It is estimated that about $350,000 is missing with Taylor.

Taylor, says a Redfield dispatch, was last seen in Chicago Jan. 4 by a citizen of this place. He went from Chicago to New York, since which time no information has been received as to his whereabouts, and it is not known whether the State or his bondsmen have been protected in any way or not by him. No bank elsewhere is involved in the default. Pierre banks were suspicious of Taylor's absence and withdrew their deposits from the bank before it closed. Next to the State, the blow falls terribly hard on his principal bondsmen. They qualified in sums representing all they have in the world. The entire city used the bank for a depository, hence a deadly paralysis has seized all the arteries of trade and social life.

Taylor is about 41 years old, married, but has no children. He came to Redfield from Lafayette, Ind., in 1885, and opened a banking business. He soon secured the entire field for business, two banks here going out of business. Taylor got into politics and secured the nomination for State Treasurer at the Republican convention at Mitchell in 1890 and in 1892 secured renomination for the same office at Madison. As an indication of his general standing heretofore in the State and the utter lack of suspicion as to any questionable designs it is noted that Gov. Sheldon pays a compliment to Taylor's efficiency in his message to the Legislature. Comptroller Eckels has wired that Examiner Zimmerman has been ordered to come here at once and take charge of the bank.

News by Wire.

William Jackson was killed by a boiler explosion in Selma, Ala.

Ivy Bobo, colored, was hanged at Friars Point, Miss., for the murder of his wife. He confessed on the gallows.

Thomas Albert, a member of Company C at Bradford, Pa., was found dead near the rifle range with a bullet in his heart. It is not known whether it is an accident or not.

MISTAKES OF COL. BOB

INGERSOLL NOT AUTHORITY ON INTERNATIONAL TRADE.

He Is Not the Only Person, However, Who Has Exhibited in Public His Ignorance of the Statistics Relating to Our Export Trade.

Truth Told in Figures.

Our attention has been called to the following, which was recently published in the New York Tribune:

"In his remarks on the political situation, in Chicago, the other day, Col. Robert G. Ingersoll said: 'What are the markets of the world? We manufacture nothing that we can sell at a profit in England, France, Germany, Belgium, or any country in Europe.'"

Col. Ingersoll is not commonly regarded as an authority concerning the course of international trade, but we presume that a considerable number of persons have been led to believe that he is giving them facts when he makes, in public addresses, such assertions as the one which we have quoted from our neighbor's columns.

The truth is that the value of the manufactured goods exported in the year ending on June 30, 1893, was $158,023,118 (out of a total of $831,030,785), and that in the year ending on June 30, 1894, the value of exported manufactures rose to $183,910,547. We set forth below the values of some of the leading exports:

	1893.	1894.
Manufactures of iron and steel	$30,106,482	$29,214,393
Agricultural implements	4,657,333	5,027,828
Clocks and watches	1,204,181	1,302,778
Manufactures of cotton	11,809,355	14,340,683
Manufactures of flax, hemp, and jute	1,778,746	1,712,024
Manufactures of india rubber	1,609,406	1,461,792
Leather and manufactures of	11,912,154	14,282,936
Musical instruments	1,824,107	972,115
Jewelry	881,893	851,008
Lamps, etc.	561,358	650,409
Paints	700,308	822,932
Manufactures of paper	1,540,886	1,904,218
Manufactures of wood	6,258,896	6,767,829

These items are chosen merely to indicate the scope of our export trade in manufactures. There may fairly be added to the Government's list such products as wheat flour, ($75,000,000), refined oils, ($42,000,000), and others which might be mentioned. The reports show that the exports of manufactures are widely distributed. They go to all the countries of Europe. We may reasonably except a considerable increase of the value of the exported products of certain industries in the near future. The price of iron is lower here to-day than it is in England, the reduction having been caused chiefly by discoveries of enormous deposits of raw material that can be worked at very low cost, and to the perfection of processes. The statistics relating to our export trade are both interesting and important, and Col. Ingersoll is not the only person who has exhibited in public his ignorance of them.—New York Times.

Under the Red Flag.

De Tocqueville defined a plutocracy as a government of wealth, where "the offices are put up at a sort of auction." This system is not mitigated but rather aggravated when the auction is avoided through the action of corporations and ambitious millionaires in buying up the legislators in advance.

One or the other of these plutocratic methods of acquiring a Senatorship has been adopted by the Republicans in several of the States which they carried at the last election. The red flag of the mortgage foreclosure symbolizes their procedure.

In Nebraska the Republican Legislative caucus unanimously nominated John M. Thurston for Senator. He is the general solicitor of the Union Pacific Railroad. In other words, he is to be transferred from the lobby to the floor of the Senate to "look after the interests" of a corporation that is in default of millions of dollars due to the United States. This is the use which the Republican party in Nebraska makes of its recovered power!

In New Jersey the Pennsylvania Railroad is using a pliant Republican Legislature to make a similar transfer of its lobbyist and agent Sewell to a seat in the Senate. In West Virginia the corporations and corruptionists are preparing to put Steve Elkins where he can serve them—and himself—best. In Delaware Gasman Addicks would have foreclosed his mortgage on the Senatorial seat if The World had not exposed him. In Michigan and Minnesota brains are contesting with barrels for the Senatorships, with the barrels rather ahead.

Really, the short-sighted and conscienceless Republican politicians are starting the Democratic campaign for next year in fine shape.—New York World.

German Protectionists Get Even.

Protection for American farmers would require a bounty to be given from the public treasury on every bushel of grain, cotton, potatoes, etc., produced, for the reason that we export these articles. If we imported them, a tariff tax on the competing imported products would be effective as a bounty, as in the case of manufactures under our present tariff. In Germany the farmers are in the latter position. Germany produces no surplus grain for export, but must import large quantities. There is a chance for protective tariff duties, and they are being demanded and granted. The agrarians, finding themselves ruined by foreign competition, are fighting mad. They are, in fact, by executive action, getting what they demand. The Government is working the sanitary racket in their interest. Not long ago it was American hay that was pronounced by sanitary experts unfit for consumption. Next our cattle are found to have Texas fever, and our fresh meat must be excluded on a like sanitary verdict. Our one-tenth differential on German sugar gives the German agricultural protectionists a fresh war cry. Their beet-raising industry is attacked by our discrimination and must be vindicated. The demand will be next that our grain be taxed higher, or excluded from Germany by some sanitary decree. It is a matter of retaliation which high-tariff policies are sue to bring about.—Baltimore Sun.

Cursing Lower Prices.

Every sound and logical protectionist is the enemy of low prices. They see nothing but evil in low prices. Thus the manufacturer, after observing that pig iron is selling at $9.50 and steel billets at $15 per ton—lowest prices ever reached in Pittsburg—asks, as a clincher, "why, pray tell us, is this continued tendency to lower prices? And who can prosper in such times?"

It is probably useless to suggest that manufacturers of structural steel and steel for bridges and buildings, of steel rails, of harvesters, mowers, locomotives, engines, sewing machines, and of thousands of other implements, tools, etc., into which iron and steel enter, might possibly do a larger business if prices of pig iron were halved than if they were doubled. It is also probably useless to suggest that cheaper steel rails, structural iron and steel, and implements and tools would lessen the cost of production of railroads, bridges, buildings, and of other articles and products, and lead to greater production and the employment of more labor, and therefore to better wages.

Such a process of reasoning is lost on those who assert that cheap coats make cheap men, that cheap and nasty go together, and that cheapness is un-American. It cannot be appreciated by those who build tariff walls to double the prices both of raw materials and of finished products—to pet a little imported infant industry and kick and cuff a dozen big, full-grown, self-supporting, genuine American industries.

If prices of food, clothing and shelter should decline to nothing, the blue-blooded protectionist would be horrified at the spectacle of so many cheap, nasty, un-American men. "What," he would cry, "are these millions of people to help themselves to all of these good things? Who can prosper in such times? Is it possible that these millions can live without begging employment in our protected mills? Are we never more to have the satisfaction of providing employment and of reducing wages? No more tariffs, no trusts to close mills and raise prices, no strikes, no Homestead affairs, no gifts of free libraries or colleges, no bids for charity of any kind, no chance to accumulate or display wealth or to lord it over anybody? What a dreary, stale world this is. This curse of cheapness is unbearable! Oh, if I could only emigrate to Mars or some other place where McKinley prices are still in vogue!"—B. W. H.

Free Trade Bogie Man.

What is this free trade for which Bright and Cobden fought victoriously, and for which Sir Robert Peel went to his political grave and to imperishable renown?

It is simply the exercise of the right given to his children by Almighty God to deal with whomsoever they choose and where they can make the best bargains—a right freely exercised and greatly to their advantage every day of the world by American citizens among themselves and which they would exercise with all mankind just as freely and advantageously were it not for the unwise, the unwarranted, the wicked interference of the national Government.

Nevertheless, righteous as free trade is, it has been used for a generation as a "raw head and bloody bones" whereby to frighten the wage-earners of the country into voting for protection. The tariff barons and their supple tools have held free trade up before the eyes of the laboring people as the great Bogie Man. At every election they go through the land, saying to the working man:

Hush! hush! hush!
Here comes the Bogie Man.
You've got no show,
You'd best lay low,
He'll catch if he can.
Hush! hush! hush!
Here comes the Bogie Man!"

And to keep the dread Bogie Man from catching them the poor fellows go to the polls and vote the clothes from off their backs, the bread from out their mouths and the roofs from over their heads.

Instinctively every human being is a free-trader, because free trade is the plan of nature and of common sense. It is only by false education that he become a protectionist, but on economic questions there was nothing but false education in this country for nearly a quarter of a century, and there is a good deal of it yet. Thousands and thousands of people are protectionists because they do not know what free trade is.—Hon. Champ Clark, in Philadelphia, Dec. 23, 1894.

Coal Agents' Cool Meeting.

On Dec. 28—the coolest Dec. 28 in fourteen years—the various sales-agents of the railroad companies in control of the anthracite coal trade (queer business for transfer companies!) met at No. 1 Broadway, New York. It was decided to restrict the output during January to 45 per cent. of the capacity, and to maintain the prices fixed at the meeting held one month previous. At the previous meeting the output was restricted to 50 per cent. of the mining capacity, or about 2,600,000 tons, and tide-water prices were advanced about 25 cents to the folowing bases: Broken, $3.50; egg and chestnut, $3.60, and stove, $3.75 gross. The November agreements were adhered to during December, and the December agreements will, undoubtedly, be adhered to during January.

Thousands of freezing consumers and hungry miners, kept idle by this despotic trust, must feel thankful to Gorman, Quay & Co. for leaving a duty on bituminous coal which fosters and protects this trust. When will trusts come to an end and people come to their own?

Republican Sugar Trust Fraud.

Havemeyer claims that he had to discharge 25,000 workmen because the Democratic tariff bill forces him to do this or run his refineries at a loss. The next thing heard of the trust was the declaring of a dividend of 7 per cent. on preferred stock and 12 per cent. on common stock. This is the fraud which the Republican side of the Senate voted solidly the other day not to disturb in the enjoyment of its booty.

ROB AN IOWA TRAIN.

DARING ACT OF TWO BANDITS NEAR OTTUMWA.

Bind the Clerks and Take All of Value in Sight, Probably More than $8,000—Robbers Thought to Be Local Desperadoes.

Rob the Express Car.

Probably the most daring train robbery ever committed in Iowa was perpetrated early Saturday evening, almost under the very eyes of the Ottumwa authorities. It was one of the most consummate in boldness and successful in execution in the annals of train robbery. No. 4 mail express train on the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Road was the train selected, and the Adams Express Company is the loser of a good sum of money, the exact amount of which cannot be definitely ascertained. It is thought, however, to be more than $8,000.

No. 4 is the Burlington through train from Denver to Chicago. Its express business is largely local, but many times it carries large sums of money. If this train was rich in big amounts no one knew it, but the daring highwaymen evidently suspected so, and almost in broad daylight relieved the messenger of all the packages in the safe that looked like money.

Chillicothe, the place where the robbers boarded the train, is a little village eight miles west of Ottumwa. When the train arrived there two men jumped on the front platform of the express car, and were the same men, it is believed, whom the agent says he saw at that place early in the afternoon. The train leaves Chillicothe at 6:30, and arrives at Ottumwa just twenty minutes later, a portion of this time being consumed by stopping at the Milwaukee junction. The robbers evidently knew the custom of the train, as the consummation of their plan evidences.

When the train left Chillicothe Messenger John S. Page was sitting near the safe, and his assistant was chatting carelessly with Baggageman Ed Wright. Suddenly the front door of the express car, which is usually locked, was thrown open and two masked men, each with two revolvers, called on the men to throw up their hands. While one man covered the trainmen the other quickly bound and gagged them and threw them in one corner. Then they coolly rifled the safe, placed the contents in a big sack and waited ten minutes for the train to whistle for the stop at the junction.

Jump Off with the Booty.

While waiting Postal Clerk John Umphreys came in from the mail car and was treated like the rest of his fellows. When the train slackened its speed at the junction the robbers jumped off with their booty, crossing the Des Moines River on the ice to the island, which has been the rendezvous of highwaymen and tough characters from time immemorial. The mail clerk released the express messenger from his thongs, and when the train pulled into the station at Ottumwa he had unloosed all his comrades, and the word was given quickly to the sheriff and police.

Sheriff Stodgbill, Chief of Police Vanderveer and one posse started out on an engine for Chillicothe. Detective Jim Harrison, who shot the bandit at Batavia two weeks ago, headed another posse to trail the robbers if possible to their hiding place. The robbers wore no hats, but hoods with masks seemingly attached. Both had brown overcoats and one wore gray jeans trousers, while the other had encased his legs in overalls.

It is the belief of the railroad men that they belong to a gang of moonshiners, counterfeiters and desperadoes generally who inhabit some of the abandoned mines in the eastern edge of Monroe County, and that they were met on the other side of the river by their pals who had horses in waiting and they easily escaped.

NORTHWESTERN OHIO SHAKEN.

Nitroglycerine Magazine Explodes and Wrecks Houses at Gibsonburg.

The nitroglycerine magazine of the Ohio and Indiana Torpedo Company, located twelve miles west of Fremont, Ohio, and about one and a half miles east of Gibsonburg, blew up Sunday morning about 3 o'clock. The magazine contained 1,500 quarts of the explosive, which was to be used in shooting oil wells in the oil fields surrounding, and went off with terrific force, the shock being felt plainly for miles around in all of the neighboring towns with more or less force.

In Fremont the people were awakened and half scared to death by the shaking of the houses and doors and rattling of windows. At the central telephone office all of the annunciators were dropped. No one was injured at the scene and no one appears to be reported missing, and if anyone was there when the explosion occurred nothing is left to tell the tale unless covered up by the falling snow. The magazine rested on a bed of limestone, and only a small hole shows where it formerly stood. An oil stove was burning at the time to thaw out frozen explosives, and the cause is attributed to this.

Gibsonburg, in close proximity, suffered the worst from the shock. Doors were blown from their fastenings, windows blown in, chimneys tumbled down, plate-glass fronts shivered, while the houses rocked and creaked, moved by the upheaval. People were terrified and huddled together. The damage to the company will perhaps reach $3,000, while in Gibsonburg it cannot yet be accurately estimated.

MANY FIREMEN HURT.

Bradford Loses $150,000 by Fire—One Hundred Men Badly Frozen.

In Bradford, Pa., two large business blocks were burned at an early hour Sunday morning, causing a loss of $150,000. One hundred of the firemen were badly frozen in the battle with the flames, two are in a critical condition, and one woman, the guest of the Sheehan House, where the fire originated, jumped from a window and broke an arm and leg. The fire originated in the Sheehan House, a hotel at 99 Mechanic street, and spread with great rapidity. There was a fierce wind blowing at the time, and the thermometer registered several degrees below zero, making the difficulties before the firemen unusually great. Chief Repp called out all of his force and also the independent companies, but the battle for the control of the fire was a fearful one. The intense cold froze several of the hydrant drips and thus added to the danger and troubles of the men who were striving to stay its progress. The fire spread from the Sheehan House to the wooden buildings adjoining, consumed them and then destroyed the Columbia and Nussbaum blocks, two large business buildings filled with tenants, many of whom barely escaped with their lives. For several hours the entire business portion of the city was threatened, but the good work of the half-frozen but plucky firemen kept the fire within the block where it began.

Brevities by Wire.

Coal has been found near Emporia, Kan.

Earthenware manufacturers in the United States have combined to keep up prices.

At Every Twinge

Of Rheumatism you should remember that relief is at hand in Hood's Sarsaparilla. Rheumatism is caused by lactic acid in the blood, which settles in the joints. Hood's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood and removes this taint. Therefore Hood's Sarsaparilla cures rheumatism when all other remedies have failed. Give it a fair trial.

Hood's Sarsaparilla Cures

"I suffered intensely with rheumatism, but Hood's Sarsaparilla has perfectly cured me." HARRY F. PITTARD, Winterville, Ga.

Hood's Pills are the best family cathartic.

French English.

"And speaking of tight money," said the traveled man, "I remember, hearing that word 'tight' used in a funny way in Paris once. It was at a party in a hotel, as they call their houses over there, that was much too small for the crowd they had there. My host spoke his best English to me as I pushed through a jam for a how-do-you-do, and this is what he said the first thing: 'I am afraid you will find we are very much too tight here!'"—Boston Transcript.

"THINGS are getting lively in this region," says the Atlanta Constitution. "We have been turned out of the church because we couldn't pay for the organ, blackballed in the Farmers' Alliance because we didn't know how to manage a mule, arrested on suspicion of having collected $6, put off the top of a freight train because we didn't have our pass with us and sued for breach of promise by seven aged widows. We are growing up with the town and the town means business."

Ailing Women, Why Do You Hesitate?

"All I have to say is, any woman who continues to suffer with any of those trying diseases peculiar to our sex is largely responsible for her own suffering, for if she will only apply to Mrs. Pinkham, relief will follow at once.

"This I know absolutely from my own personal experience. Her Vegetable Compound is a miracle. I have seen it cure womb troubles when all the wisest doctors failed.

"My sisters, don't hesitate. Write at once; relief is waiting for you."—Mrs. Jennie Street, San Francisco, Cal.

Get Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound from your druggist. It will save you. Twenty years of unparalleled success.

★ WORLD'S-FAIR ★
HIGHEST AWARD!

"SUPERIOR NUTRITION—THE LIFE"

IMPERIAL GRANUM

THE GREAT MEDICINAL FOOD

Has justly acquired the reputation of being The Salvator for INVALIDS and The-Aged.

AN INCOMPARABLE ALIMENT for the GROWTH and PROTECTION of INFANTS and CHILDREN

A superior nutritive in continued Fevers, And a reliable remedial agent In all gastric and enteric diseases; often in instances of consultation over patients whose digestive organs were reduced to such a low and sensitive condition that the IMPERIAL GRANUM was the only nourishment the stomach would tolerate when LIFE seemed depending on its retention;— And as a FOOD it would be difficult to conceive of anything more palatable.

Sold by DRUGGISTS. Shipping Depot, JOHN CARLE & SONS, New York.

The Greatest Medical Discovery of the Age.

KENNEDY'S MEDICAL DISCOVERY.

DONALD KENNEDY, OF ROXBURY, MASS., Has discovered in one of our common pasture weeds a remedy that cures every kind of Humor, from the worst Scrofula down to a common Pimple.

He has tried it in over eleven hundred cases, and never failed except in two cases (both thunder humor). He has now in his possession over two hundred certificates of its value, all within twenty miles of Boston. Send postal card for book.

A benefit is always experienced from the first bottle, and a perfect cure is warranted when the right quantity is taken.

When the lungs are affected it causes shooting pains, like needles passing through them; the same with the Liver or Bowels. This is caused by the ducts being stopped, and always disappears in a week after taking it. Read the label.

If the stomach is foul or bilious it will cause squeamish feelings at first.

No change of diet ever necessary. Eat the best you can get, and enough of it. Dose, one tablespoonful in water at bedtime. Sold by all Druggists.

INTEREST IN TARIFF.

CONGRESSMEN SEEM TO BE VERY INDIFFERENT.

Doubtful If Any Action Will Be Taken Regarding the Prohibition of Meat Imports by Germany and Other Foreign Countries.

Capital City Chat.

Washington correspondence:

WHAT action Congress will take to end the growing tariff complications between this Government and European powers, or whether any measures will be adopted for that purpose, are questions clouded in uncertainty. Considering the importance of the tariff war to commercial interests, attention given to it by members of Congress is noticeably slight.

Chairman Wilson, of the Ways and Means Committee, recently introduced a bill, in accordance with the recommendation in the President's message, to repeal the one-tenth of a cent differential on sugar which evoked protests from Germany and Austria, and which it is stated inspired the retaliatory action by the former Government in the form of prohibition of American beef. But it is not altogether certain that the Ways and Means Committee will report this bill to the House, nor is it at all assured that the House will pass it in case it emerges from the committee and is given a hearing.

Mr. Wilson was asked about the prospects of the bill, but did not speak enthusiastically of them. He said, in answer to a question, that its claims for consideration might be brought to the attention of the Rules Committee after the currency bill had been disposed of, but added that the remaining time of this Congress was very short, and there would be a great pressure for allotments of time for various bills.

Illinois being the stronghold of the meat business, the representatives from that State have been appealed to to do something in the interest of their constituents. Representative Aldrich, of Chicago, is receiving many communications on the subject, and intends to talk with his colleagues not to suggest legislation but to ascertain what will be their attitude toward whatever the Democrats may propose.

Whether the Republicans will co-operate with the Democrats in remedial legislation becomes an open question, since it is known that the Democrats are not agreed upon their course, a fraction of them thinking with Mr. Whiting that any tariff legislation will be unwise.

The annual seed distribution at the Agricultural Department has resulted so far in sending out 1,300,000 papers of vegetable seeds throughout the country. The work will probably not be completed before May, and no flower seeds have been sent out this season. There are still about 6,000,000 papers of seeds awaiting distribution.

Another Reservation to Be Opened.

The Yankton Reservation in South Dakota probably will be opened for settlement early in the spring. The date has not yet been determined upon, but some action is expected in a few weeks. The total amount to be paid by the Government for the lands is $621,475, $500,000 of which is to be held in the Treasury as a permanent fund drawing interest at 5 per cent., payable per capita twice a year. Part of the money has already been paid, and the remainder will be disposed of within two or three weeks.

The annual meeting of the Board of Indian Commissioners will soon be held here, and at the conference Indian work will be discussed by representatives of the Woman's National Indian Association, and all religious bodies conducting work among the Indians. Commissioner of Indian Affairs Browning will probably address the conference.

Secretary Smith is giving a great deal of attention to the management of the Indians, and has been in consultation with members of the Indian committees of the Senate and House upon features treated of in his report. Representative Wilson, of Washington, the senior member of the House Indian Committee, has been conferring with the Secretary regarding the coming Indian appropriation bill, and the possibility of securing legislation in accordance with the Secretary's recommendations. Mr. Wilson says that many of the Secretary's recommendations meet with his approval, especially regarding the sale of lands, which sales are not directly for the benefit of the Indians.

A general investigation on the advance of machinery in the industrial world and its effect on labor has been begun by the Bureau of Labor. The object of the inquiry is to determine what modern machinery has done as compared to hand labor and what inroads machinery has made in the field formerly occupied by hand labor. It is the first time an investigation on this line has ever been attempted by the Government, and it is expected to prove an immense undertaking, though less difficult to accomplish than some of the inquiries already made by the Labor Bureau. Several of the agents have been already sent out on the work, provided with circular inquiries calling for collection of various specific instances of hand labor, the time, cost and labor involved in the production of various articles, compared with the corresponding conditions in the modern factories. The work will require a year or more and the whole force of twenty or twenty-five agents of the bureau in the field will be engaged on it after a few weeks, when the collection of statistics of strikes from 1887 to July last is completed.

The "Sundown Doctor."

A "sundown doctor" is a clerk in one of the government departments who practices medicine after office hours. There are also "sundown" lawyers, stenographers, clerks, and teachers, and other classes who utilize the time that is not required by Uncle Sam by adding a little to their incomes and acquiring experience that is expected to be useful to them in after days. Washington is a good place for a person without means to obtain a professional education if he can obtain a clerkship in one of the departments. The lectures at the law and medical schools are arranged so as to accommodate those who are employed during the daytime, and a large portion of the students in such institutions hold government positions. Many of them resign as soon as they have taken their degrees and begin their professional careers elsewhere. Others resign and remain in Washington, but a good many cling to their positions as long as possible and hold their professional education in reserve until they are compelled to seek a living elsewhere.

A large proportion of the examiners in the patent office intend at some time or another to become patent lawyers, and no school furnishes a better practical education in patent law than can be obtained by such experience. In the medical divisions of the pension office are many young physicians. Some of them obtained their diplomas before they came here; others have studied medicine in the Washington schools while holding their positions. You will also find young doctors in the land office, Indian office, the war and navy departments and the treasury, and many of them enjoy quite a lucrative practice after office hours. Some make as much as $1,200 and $1,500; others $500 and $600. They charge the same fees as the regular physicians, and with one or two patients a day they can add to their salary quite a welcome little revenue.

The regular practitioners have made a fuss about this for a long time. They have refused to admit to the medical association of the district any man who does not devote his entire time to the practice of his profession. They have repeatedly appealed to the president and to the heads of departments to prohibit this "sundown" business, and at one time they got a bill through the senate making it unlawful for an employe of the government to engage in any other business, but it failed in the house.

Now they have induced the commissioner of pensions to issue an order prohibiting the employes of his bureau from practicing medicine. The ostensible reason for this is the danger of communicating contagious diseases to their fellow-clerks, but it is really the result of the efforts of the regular local physicians to limit competition.

Trials of a Congressman.

I found a millionaire member of Congress sitting in his hotel the other day surrounded by gloom so dense that it could have been shoveled away like snow from the sidewalk, and asked him what had happened. "I was just thinking," he said, "what a fool I was to come to Congress. It cost me $12,000 cash to pay my campaign expenses, in addition to two month's neglect of my business. When I am at home about two-thirds of my time is taken up by people who come to ask for offices. I have had candidates for foreign missions, consulates, department bureaus, United States marshalships, United States attorneys, pension agents, about forty postoffices and no end of Indian agents and land offices, and all I've succeeded in getting is one assistant keeper of a lighthouse, a place for which there was no candidate, and they asked me to hunt up a man. I scarcely dare to go home. I am being cursed all over my district by people who think I'm indifferent to their interests and ungrateful to my friends. It will take six weeks' steady talking to explain why I haven't been able to get all the officeholders in the district turned out and new ones put in, and not half the people who hear the explanation will believe me. Until now I have never sought anything that couldn't be bought, but I've spent $10,000 worth of my time trying to get a $1,200 consular appointment for the son of one of my constituents, and can't make it. My business is going to ruin for want of attention, and there is a basket of letters on my desk at home that I have never had time to read."

A BLESSING TO CHINA.

That's What John W. Foster Thinks the War Will Prove.

To the average American Gen. John W. Foster, who was Blaine's successor as Secretary of State under President Harrison, has appeared to be a statesman of no more than mediocre ability. As a matter of fact, however, he is one of the finest diplomats America has had in recent years, and his selection by China as one of her representatives in the conference for the establishment of peace between the two great Eastern empires is a demonstration that his work is appreciated by foreign countries. Mr. Foster has accepted the invitation of China. At Tokio he will meet the two Chinese plenipotentiaries, Chen Fen Huan and Shao, and together they will perfect a treaty with the Japanese Government.

GEN. JOHN W. FOSTER.

Gen. Foster is 58 years old. A journalist by profession, he left his desk in 1873 to accept the United States mission to Mexico and served there until 1880, when he was sent as Minister to Russia and subsequently became Minister to Spain. In 1890 he was selected by President Harrison to represent the United States Government in various reciprocity treaties, and when Blaine resigned the Secretaryship in 1892 he was made his successor. Gen. Foster has represented China in diplomatic dealings with the American Government and has the full confidence of the oriental Government. He has made a study of Asiatic politics and has great faith in China's future. "I think," he says, "that this war will prove a blessing to China. It will wake her up. The Chinese are capable of doing wonderful things. With the general introduction of railroads and telegraph lines China will become a far greater power than now. She is, even at the present time, a wonderful nation, but bound down by conservatism. She has loyal, patriotic soldiers enough, but is wofully lacking in officers and men skilled in handling modern appliances of warfare.

"As for Japan I have only the kindest feeling. She, too, is a wonderful country, and she has made more progress in the last few years than any other nation on earth. Her people are capable of great cultivation, and she deserves every recognition from Western nations for the efforts she has made and the actual progress she has already attained in her efforts towards civilization."

News of Minor Note.

Morris J. Tomlinson, of Greenville, Ohio, charged with embezzling $1,500, was acquitted.

The Sheriff of Erie, Pa., has closed the shoe store of R. P. Joslin on writs amounting to $21,000.

J. A. Williamson, ex-sheriff of Barbour County, West Virginia, committed suicide on account of financial troubles.

G. M. Acree, a wealthy planter of Benoit, Miss., accidentally shot and killed himself while cleaning a pistol.

Spencer Costello, a negro burglar and desperado, was lynched near Flora, Miss., for killing a young man named Dewes.

Masked men entered S. A. Kistler's meat market at Tiffin, Ohio, and at the point of a revolver compelled him to hand over $50.

Ralph W. Bond, aged 27 years, was sent to the Philadelphia hospital suffering from insanity brought about by cigarette smoking.

James L. Dick, defaulting ex-treasurer of Ellsworth County, Kansas, who is short in his accounts $86,000, has been arrested in Texas.

Frank Smith, serving a term at the St. Louis workhouse, has been identified as one of the robbers who got away with $4,000 from Brethauer's jewelry store in Chicago.

A Dramatic Scene.

The "Friends of the Constitution," grew daily more numerous, more powerful, and more radical in Valence; and and when the great solemnity of swearing allegiance to the new order was to be celebrated, that place was chosen as a convenient and suitable one for a convention of twenty-two similar associations from the neighboring districts. The meeting took place on July 3, 1791; the official administration of the oath to the civil, military, judicial, and ecclesiastical authorities occurred on the fourteenth. Before a vast altar erected on the drill-ground, in the presence of all the dignitaries, with cannon booming and the air resounding with shouts and patriotic songs, the officials in groups, the people in mass, swore with uplifted hands to sustain the constitution, to obey the National Assembly, and to die, if need be, in defending French territory against invasion.

Scenes as impressive and dramatic as this occurred all over France. They appealed powerfully to the imagination of the nation, and profoundly influenced public opinion. "Until then," said Buonaparte, referring to the solemnity, "I doubt not that if I had received orders to turn my guns against the people, habit, prejudice, education, and the King's name would have induced me to obey. With the taking of the national oath it became otherwise; my instincts and my duty were henceforth in harmony."—W. M. Sloane's New Life of Napoleon in the Century.

Too Sick to Brace up.

The naval battalion had a great time of it on the high seas recently. Had they been in full command of the stout steamer Dora there is no knowing where they would have brought up, but as there was always one of the regular crew ready to pick up a rope that a seasick naval reserve man was compelled to drop, no serious accident occurred. About the only one of the battalion who was not afflicted was Capt. Louis Turner, of Company C. He encouraged his men by calling out: "Brace up, boys; take your heads aboard. Go to work and you'll soon be all right." The "boys" made valiant effort to "brace up," but they were of no avail. They would return to their work for a few moments, but the Dora would make a pitch and a roll, and over the side they would go again. It was originally the intention to go as far as the Farallones, but when the nine-fathom buoy was reached Capt. Turney took pity on his seasick crew and hurried back to port.—San Francisco Chronicle.

Curiosities of Courage.

There are curious subdivisions both of moral and physical courage. Marshal Saxe, the victor of Phillsburg and Fontenoy, had an absurd fear of assassination, and in his fortified place of Chambord kept two constables for the purpose of scrutinizing every unknown visitor. The Duke of Alva got nervous at the mere sight of a dog, and during his residence at Ghent ordered his patrols to shoot every unmuzzled specimen of the obnoxious quadruped. There are men whose actions defy the wrath of public opinion, but who turn pale with thought of seeing their names in the local newspapers; and others who advance fearlessly to the brink of a precipice, but shudder at the sight of a spider.—Lippincott's.

Somewhat of an Anachronism.

A peripatetic exhibitor of the phonograph in Holland seems determined to outdistance all competitors as regards the excellence of his records. He was exhibiting the machine in the streets of Utrecht, and a number of customers were listening to selections of tunes. Suddenly the tune ceased, and there was a pause. Then in a loud, clear tone was heard the one word: "Halt!" delivered in a tone bespeaking authority. "What is that?" asked one of the listeners. "That," was the reply, "is the voice of Napoleon Bonaparte giving an order at the battle of Waterloo?"—London Daily News.

Horsepower.

The difference between nominal, indicated and effective horsepower often puzzles people. Nominal horsepower is an assumed quantity, used for the convenience of makers and buyers in describing the dimensions of the engines. Indicated horsepower is the amount shown by computations of the indicator diagram. Effective, or actual, horsepower is the work an engine can do, or the difference between the indicated horsepower and the horsepower required to drive the engine when unloaded.—New York Tribune.

Not of a Nervous Temperament.

A good story is told of a lazy and loquacious farmer whose farm lies just outside Worcester. He called at a neighbor's house recently. "Sit down, sit down," exclaimed the neighbor. "I don't know as I ought," replied the farmer; but nevertheless he sat down. After some talk about the crops and the value of an adjoining piece of ground the farmer said, slowly: "I don't know as I ought to be sitting here. I came to see if I could get a ladder; our house is afire!"—London Telegraph.

Very Much off Color

Are people who are troubled with chronic liver complaint. Bile in the blood tinges the cuticle and even the eyeballs, and also manifests its presence by uneasiness in the right side and beneath the right shoulder blade, furred tongue, nausea, sick headache and an unpleasant breath. It is usually accompanied by costiveness and dyspepsia. For the ailment itself, and its various manifestations, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is a speedy and complete remedy. This standard medicine also prevents and cures chills and fever, rheumatism, nervousness and the infirmities incident to declining years. It builds up an enfeebled physique and fortifies it against disease. Appetite and nightly slumber are promoted by it, and it is a protector against the effects of a wetting, of overwork, exposure and unwholesome food or water.

How Chinese Cities Fight Fire.

When a fire starts in a certain locality in cities protected by walls extending from one end of the town to the other, a large wooden gate is swung across the street. In this way the fire is confined to definite limits. Generally the fire is uninterrupted until there is nothing left within the inclosure but ashes, and in the ashes the owner must seek his property. He has no insurance methods, and unless helped by his own family is left to start anew. The rebuilding is not a difficult matter, as there are no foundations or cellars.

A SENSITIVE paint has been invented which should prove useful for detecting hot bearings in machinery. It is always bright yellow when cold, but gradually changes color on being heated, and at 220 degrees becomes bright red.

WHEN silence reigns it is necessary to carry an umbrella?

The Rise of the Buckwheat Cake

The leaven of yesterday ruins the cake of to-day. Don't spoil good buckwheat with dying raising-batter—fresh cakes want Royal Baking Powder. Grandma used to raise to-day's buckwheats with the souring left over of yesterday! Dear old lady, she was up to the good old times. But these are days of Royal Baking Powder—freshness into freshness raises freshness.

And this is the way the buckwheat cake of to-day is made: Two cups of Buckwheat, one cup of wheat flour, two tablespoons of Royal Baking Powder, one half teaspoonful of salt, all sifted well together. Mix with milk into a thin batter and bake at once on a hot griddle.

Do not forget that no baking powder can be substituted for the "Royal" in making pure, sweet, delicious, wholesome food.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., 106 WALL ST., NEW-YORK.

Tallest Building in the World.

The famous Capitol at Albany, which has cost so much money already and is not yet finished, according to the American Title and Register Journal, is nothing in some respects compared with the new Philadelphia City Hall, now nearing completion. The New York State building is famous chiefly for the millions which have been absorbed in building and rebuilding it, and it has cost more than twice what the Philadelphia structure will require when done. Some phases of the Philadelphia building are worthy of special note, and among them is the fact that when finished it will be the tallest building on this continent, with the exception of the Washington Monument, which can hardly be called a building, and therefore is not to be compared with it. There is a great bronze statue of William Penn which goes on top of the tower, and the cap upon that statue will be 520 feet from the street below.

Flower Ghost.

Anyone who wishes to see a ghost of a flower has only to make a very simple experiment Let him go up to a cluster of blossoms and look very intently for several minutes at one side of it. Then very suddenly he must turn his gaze upon the other side of the same cluster. He will at once distinctly see a faint and delicate circle of colored light around this second half of the cluster. The light is always in the hue which is "complementary" to that of the flower. The spectre of the scarlet poppy is of a greenish white. The ghost of the primrose is purple. The ghost of the blue fringed gentian is of a pale gold tint. In these circles of color the shapes of the flower's petals are always faintly but clearly seen.

Catarrh Cannot Be Cured

with LOCAL APPLICATIONS, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you must take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Cure is not a quack medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years, and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucous surfaces. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing Catarrh. Send for testimonials, free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Props., Toledo, O.
Sold by Druggists, price 75c.

IN Germany and Hungary magic qualities are attached to the lime or linden tree. In some villages it is usual to plant one before a house to prevent a witch from entering.

Market Gardeners Grow Rich!

There is lots of money made in early vegetables. Everybody admits that the very earliest vegetables are produced from Salzer's Northern Grown Seeds. Think of having radishes in fourteen days; lettuce in twenty days; potatoes in forty days; peas in forty-six days, and splendid cabbage in fifty-five days from day of sowing seed!

If You Will Cut This Out and Send It with $1 money order to the John A. Salzer Seed Company, LaCrosse, Wis., you will get free thirty-five packages earliest vegetable seeds and their great seed catalogue, or for six cents postage a package of Fourteen Day Paris Radish seed and their seed catalogue. C. N. U.

A MAN is always indignant at other men who treat their wives as mean as he treats his.

Are You Car-Sick When Traveling?

Car-sickness is as trying to most people as sea-sickness. It comes from a derangement of the stomach. One of Ripans Tabules is an insurance against it, and a box of them should be in every traveler's outfit.

SOME people would be awfully nice if they could get over one or two bad habits.

SOONER OR LATER a neglected Cold will develop a constant cough, shortness of breath, failing strength, and wasting of flesh, all symptomatic of some serious lung affection, which may be avoided or palliated by using in time Dr. D. Jayne's Expectorant.

MANY men wreck both fortune and health trying to earn a dollar they do not need.

Send your full name and address to Dobbins' Soap Mfg. Co., Philada., Pa., by return mail, and get free of all cost, a coupon worth several dollars, if used by you to its full advantage. Don't delay. This is worthy attention.

JUDGMENT in extreme cases should be guided by precedent.

EDISON says there is practically no limit to the speed that can be attained on a railroad. He thinks the greatest speed will come when electricity is obtained direct from coal.

IN OLDEN TIMES

People overlooked the importance of permanently beneficial effects and were satisfied with transient action; but now that it is generally known that Syrup of Figs will permanently cure habitual constipation, well-informed people will not buy other laxatives, which act for a time, but finally injure the system.

BY the time a couple reaches its golden wedding, you bet it needs the gold.

WE think Piso's Cure for Consumption is the only medicine for Coughs.—JENNIE PINCKARD, Springfield, Ill., Oct. 1, 1894.

IT is the popular belief that pugilists should travel in a box-car.

ATTEND the Fort Wayne Business College.

A MAN never knows how to be a son until he has become a father.

LEAVES ITS MARK

—every one of the painful irregularities and weaknesses that prey upon women. They fade the face, waste the figure, ruin the temper, wither you up, make you old before your time.

Get well: That's the way to look well. Cure the disorders and ailments that beset you, with Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

It regulates and promotes all the proper functions, improves digestion, enriches the blood, dispels aches and pains, melancholy and nervousness, brings refreshing sleep, and restores health and strength. It's a powerful general, as well as uterine, tonic and nervine, imparting vigor and strength to the entire system.

MRS. ULRICH.

MRS. ANNA ULRICH, of Elm Creek, Buffalo Co., Neb., writes: "I enjoy good health thanks to Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I was under doctors' care for two years with womb disease, and gradually wasting in strength all the time. I was so weak that I could sit up in bed only a few moments, for two years. I commenced taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and his 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and by the time I had taken one-half dozen bottles I was up and going wherever I pleased, and have had good health and been very strong ever since—that was two years and a half ago."

A book of 168 pages on "Woman and Her Diseases" mailed sealed, on receipt of 10 cents in stamps for postage. Address, WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

One of my children had a very bad discharge from the nose. Physicians prescribed without benefit. After using Ely's Cream Balm a short time the disease was cured.—A. O. Cary, Corning, N. Y.

ELY'S CREAM BALM

Opens and cleanses the Nasal Passages. Allays Pain and Inflammation, Heals the Sores, Protects the Membrane from Colds, Restores the Senses of Taste and Smell. The Balm is quickly absorbed and gives relief at once.

A particle is applied into each nostril and is agreeable. Price 50 cents, at druggists or by mail.

ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren Street, New York.

SHOEMAKER'S POULTRY ALMANAC

Contains 80 pages; over 70 illustrations in colors. Sure remedies and recipes for all known diseases in poultry; also valuable hints on poultry raising. Full information and prices on all leading varieties. Finest descriptive Poultry Book ever issued. Sent postpaid for 15cts to any address. C. C. SHOEMAKER, Freeport, Ill. U.S.A.

PATENTS. TRADE-MARKS.

Examination and Advice as to Patentability of Invention. Send for Inventors' Guide, or How to Get a Patent. PATRICK O'FARRELL, Washington, D. C.

KIDDER'S PASTILLES. Sure relief. Price 25 cts. ASTHMA. by mail. Stowell & Co. Charlestown, Mass.

Mrs. Winslow's SOOTHING SYRUP for Children teething; softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic. 25 cents a bottle.

WANTED Traveling Salesman for Liquor Trade. C. K. HITCHCOCK & CO., Evansville, Ind.

St. Jacobs Oil CURES Aches & Pains

HE SWALLOWS IT WHOLE.

Better than mineral waters?
Well, I should smile.
Three dozen in a box, and
You can carry six
In your vest pocket.

Take one every night,
After dinner, or at bed time.
It beats Congress water all hollow,
Or Kissengen.

You always have it handy,
The effect is better, and
When you travel it saves freight.

I am an old traveler
And I get things down fine.

A • Ripans • Tabule

Is worth more
Than any spring in existence —except a door spring—
I hate a draught!

TEXAS, MEXICO and CALIFORNIA.

— VIA —

Wabash Line

In connection with the St. Louis, Iron Mountain & Southern Railway, Texas & Pacific Railway, International & Great Northern Railroad, and Southern Pacific Railway, known as the ONLY TRUE SOUTHERN ROUTE, has placed in service a Through First-Class Sleeping Car and Tourist Sleeping Car, leaving Chicago daily at 10:30 A. M., via St. Louis to Little Rock, Malvern (Hot Springs), Austin, San Antonio, Laredo (where a direct connection is made with through sleeping car for the City of Mexico), El Paso, Los Angeles and San Francisco. This is the only line from Chicago which can offer this excellent service. Call or write to any ticket agent of the Wabash or connecting line for printed matter showing time, route, rates, description of cars, etc., or

R. G. BUTLER, D. P. A., Detroit, Mich.
F. H. TRISTRAM, C. P. A., Pittsburg, Pa.
P. E. DONBAUGH, P. & T. A., Toledo, Ohio.
R. G. THOMPSON, P. & T. A., Fort Wayne, Ind.
J. HALDERMAN, M. P. A., 201 Clark St., Chicago, Ill.
J. M. McCONNELL, P. & T. A., Lafayette, Ind.
G. D. MAXFIELD, D. P. A., Indianapolis, Ind.
C. S. CRANE, G. P. & T. A., St. Louis, Mo.

W. L. DOUGLAS $3 SHOE IS THE BEST. FIT FOR A KING.

$5. CORDOVAN, FRENCH & ENAMELLED CALF.
$4. $3.50 FINE CALF & KANGAROO.
$3.50 POLICE, 3 SOLES.
$2.50 $2. WORKINGMEN'S. EXTRA FINE.
$2. $1.75 BOYS' SCHOOL SHOES.
LADIES. $3. $2.50 $2. $1.75 BEST DONGOLA.

SEND FOR CATALOGUE. W. L. DOUGLAS, BROCKTON, MASS.

Over One Million People wear the W. L. Douglas $3 & $4 Shoes

All our shoes are equally satisfactory. They give the best value for the money. They equal custom shoes in style and fit. Their wearing qualities are unsurpassed. The prices are uniform,—stamped on sole. From $1 to $3 saved over other makes. If your dealer cannot supply you we can.

...EVERY...

Home-Seeker

SHOULD READ

The pamphlet recently published by the Passenger Department of the Illinois Central Railroad, entitled "Southern Home-Seekers' Guide for 1894." It contains over 50 excellent letters from Northern farmers now located in the South and other authentic and valuable information. For a FREE COPY address the undersigned at Manchester, Iowa:

J. F. MERRY, Assistant General Passenger Agent.

When Writing to Advertisers, say you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION

L. S. & M. S. R. R.

TIME TABLE—In Effect Nov. 18, 1894.

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

Stations	Mail	Exp'ss	Fre'gt
Fort Wayne	11 45 am	4 45 pm	6 40 am
New Era	12 14 pm	5 14	7 27
Auburn Junc.	12 25	5 25	7 38
Auburn	12 29	5 29	8 37
Waterloo	12 41	5 41	9 24
Summit	12 52	5 52	9 45
Steubenville	12 56	5 56	.....
Pleasant Lake	1 08	6 03	10 12
Angola	1 13	6 14	10 50
Jackson	3 25	8 35	4 30

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Stations	Freight	Exp'ses	Mail
Jackson	6 55 am	11 20 am	6 30 m
Angola	12 25 pm	2 21 pm	5 51
Pleasant Lake	1 03	2 32	9 01
Steubenville	.....	2 40	9 07
Summit	1 25	2 44	9 11
Waterloo	2 30	3 00	9 24
Auburn	3 00	3 11	9 36
Auburn Junc.	3 14	3 14	9 38
New Era	4 05	3 24	9 50
Fort Wayne	5 25	3 55	10 25

For rates on tickets or freight to all points call on or address E. T. DeLAPP, Agent at Auburn

Busy people have no time, and sensible people have no inclination to use a slow remedy. One Minute Cough Cure acts promptly and gives permanent results. Sold by Robbins & McCord.

There is one thing colder than the tomb—a room warmed by a grate fire.

Relief in Six Hours.

Distressing Kidney and Bladder diseases relieved in six hours by the "New Great South American Kidney Cure." This new remedy is a great surprise on account of its exceeding promptness in relieving pain in the bladder, kidneys, back and every part of the urinary passages in male or female. It relieves retention of water and pain in passing it almost immediately. If you want quick relief and cure this is your remedy. Sold by Robbins and McCord druggists Auburn Ind. 34tf

More than half the street railway mileage in the United States is now operated by electric power.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

Good Reason for It.

There is good reason for the popularity of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Davis & Buzard, of West Monterey, Clarion Co., Pa., say, "It has cured people that our physicians could do nothing for. We persuaded them to try a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and they now recommend it with the rest of us." 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Robbins & McCord, druggists. 5

Byron was immoderately fond of ham and eggs.

Under title of "The Dream City" there comes to us this week a very handsome art series of photographic views. The volume contains 64 high class photo engravings size 11 by 13 inches of selected and representative views of the Columbian Exposition. The cover is handsomely designed in gold and colors, and the work throughout is the perfection of printers' art. The collection of views is offered at a special price of 50 cents, postage paid. The N. D Thompson Publishing Co., 1120 Pine Street, St. Louis, publishers Educational Art Series.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

Rheumatism Cured in a Day.—Mystic Cure" for Rheumatism and Neuralgia, radically cures in 1 to 3 days. Its action upon the system is remarkable and mysterious. It removes at once the cause and the disease immediately disappears. The first dose greatly benefits, 75 cts Sold by Robbins & McCord, druggists, Auburn. 41tf

One at Night.

One dose of Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup taken in the evening before retireing will give you a good nights rest. It will cure your cough quicker than any other and is pleasant to take. If you have never tried this remedy, ask your druggist for Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup the next time you buy. It is guaranteed to give satisfaction. Sold by all druggists. 1-5

Never Give Up.

Many cases of so-called consumption have been cured by Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup. Never give up, as long as there is life there should be hope, take this medicine; use it persistently, and you will notice a change for the better, as it is peculiarly adapted to this class of diseases. Do not fail to try this remedy in time. Sold by all druggists 1-5

PILES! PILES! PILES!

Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment will cure Blind, Bleeding and Itching Piles when all other Ointments have failed. It absorbs the tumors allays the itching at once, acts as a poultice, gives instant relief. Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment is prepared only for Piles and itching of the private parts, and nothing else. Every box is warranted. Sold by druggists, or sent by mail on receipt of price, 50c. and $1.00 per box. WILLIAMS MFG. CO., Prop's, Cleveland, O Sold on a guarantee by Matheny & Gerke.

BUCKLEN'S ARNICA SALVE.—The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Robbins & McCord. tf

Fayette is the seat of a progressive and prosperous Normal University. Its success is due to the high aim and far-reaching wisdom of its founders. It is a school with a purpose. It has something of importance to say to every prosperous student in the Normal work is a specialty country. but there are Preparatory, Commercial, Musical, Elocutionary, Shorthand, Typewriting, and Fine Art Departments, in addition to regular college courses. It has an able faculty, ample equipments, superior location and large attendance. Expenses are less than half what they are in many institutions.

Write for catalogue University to President of J. E. DODDS, Fayette, O.

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder World's Fair Highest Award.

DR. WILLIAMS' KIDNEY PILLS

A remedy that has no equal in diseases of the Kidneys and Urinary Organs, Have you neglected your kidneys? Have you overworked your nervous system and caused trouble with your kidneys and liver? Have you pains in the loins, side, back, loins and bladder? Have you a flabby appearance of the face, especially under the eyes? Too frequent desire to pass urine? No matter what the cause, we know Dr. Williams' Kidney Pills will cure you. Imparts new life to the diseased organs, tones up the whole system and makes a new man of you. Mailed on receipt of price, $1.00 per box.

WILLIAMS M'F'G CO., Props., Cleveland, O. Sold by FISCHER & SON, Auburn. 1y26

DELINQUENT TAX SALE.

LANDS AND TOWN LOTS returned Delinquent for the non-payment of taxes for the year 1893, by the County Treasurer of DeKalb County, Indiana, including the interest and penalty thereon, and also the taxes for the year 1894.

NAMES OF OWNERS	DESCRIPTION.	Section	Township	Range	Acres	Hundredths	Am'unt of sale $	cts
	BUTLER TOWNSHIP.
Lung Jonhn E	s e ¼ s w qr	17	33	12	40	00	57	79
do	pt n e ¼ n w qr	20	33	12	12	50
	JACKSON TOWNSHIP.
Bailey John	n ½ s e ¼ n w qr	29	33	13	20	00	13	65
Kester John	w pt n w qr	26	33	13	84	00	56	10
Thomas Sophia	in n fr ½ n w qr	5	33	13	1	50	46	48
do	pt n e qr	5	33	13	8	95
Ankney Joseph	Stamets add Auburn lot 22						8	46
	CONCORD TOWNSHIP.
Erick Beeks	in w side s w qr	28	33	14		33	6	45
Hursh Benj	in w ½ n w qr	33	33	14	1	00	13	99
Hetty Wm & S A	ff n end w ½ n w qr	16	33	14	30	37	86	56
do	off w side e ½ n w qr	16	33	14	60	00
Hoffman Francis J	n e ¼ n e ¼ s e qr	8	33	14	10	00	34	70
do	pt n w ¼ s w qr	9	33	14	36	00
Morr Geo W & Peter	in n w ¼ s w qr	7	33	14	6	83	5	84
Potts F A C	n e ½ s w qr	28	33	14		22	5	21
Tindall W C	n end e ½ s w qr	28	33	14	21	25	16	72
Wilmot G W	s ½ n e qr	22	33	14	80	00	63	77
do	in w side n w qr	23	33	14	1	00
Allen Emma A	F add Spencerville lot 24						4	27
Erick Beeks	N add.. " " 21						9	81
do	O P 82 ft mid pt " 1
Rhodes Jeremiah	N add " " 9						2	52
do	N add " " 10
Spitler Emily	F add n ½ " " 2						9	07
do	F add n ½ " " 3
Tindall Wm C	O P " " 15						7	54
Lochner John	J D L add St Joe " 17						10	31
do	J D L add " " 18
Meek Henry	O P " " 10 block 4						22	07
Shuff Hilery	O P " " 8 " 4						15	95
	NEWVILLE TOWNSHIP.
Akins Julia A	n ½ n w ¼ s w qr	17	33	15	20	00	27	96
Baird Emma E	w ½ s w ¼ s w qr	20	33	15	20	00	16	85
Koch L F & C R Headley	pt w ½ s w qr	30	33	15	11	43	10	36
Kemery Sibyl	pt w ½ s w qr	30	33	15	11	43	9	55
Larned State Bank	in n pt s w qr	6	33	15	1	28	14	26
Levy Jacob	in s pt s w qr	6	33	15	41	96	54	32
Mogle Simon hrs	in n e ¼ s w qr	6	33	15		15	2	14
Friend Nancy	Vienna lot 3						1	16
Greist Lewis	Vienna s ½ lot 10						1	01
do	Vienna s ½ lot 15
Larned State Bank	Vienna lot 1						1	14
Walden Guy D hrs	Vienna n e pt 74						1	16
	STAFFORD TOWNSHIP.
Gaff John	in s cor e ½ s w qr	7	34	15	9	50	20	69
Repp F H & Mary	n side s w qr	29	34	15	98	00	58	49
Wilber Benj	in n e cor n e qr	30	34	15	70	00	59	72
Oberlin Isaac E	pt n ¼ s e qr	18	34	15	39	25	40	97
	WILMINGTON TOWNSHIP.
Brown John	w ½ n w qr	13	34	14	82	40	71	20
Babb Thomas	e pt s e qr	14	34	14	120	00
do	in mid pt s w ¼ s w qr	13	34	14	1	00	257	71
do	pt s e ¼ s w qr	13	34	14	17	00
Berry Winfield S	mid 4-5 e ½ w ¼ n e qr	25	34	14	16	00	32	67
Brunson A D & Jennie	in s e cor s w qr	34	34	14	22	00	27	13
Eakrigh Hattie	mid ½ n e ¼ n e ¼ n w qr	23	34	14	3	33	5	20
Haskins Esther M	e ¾ s w ¼ s w qr	21	34	14	30	00	650	41
do	w ¼ s e ¼ s w qr	21	34	14	10	00
Kline A F & C	s ½ w ¼ s e qr	14	34	14	30	00	27	24
Metz Harriet E	in n w cor n e qr	32	34	14	6	33	5	46
Thomas B F	pt w ½ s w qr	34	34	14	79	72	108	82
Woods Chas W et ux	n pt e ½ n e qr	21	34	14	60	00	104	26
Warner Marcia L	mid 1-5 e ½ n w ¼ n e qr	25	34	14	4	00	5	16
Haas Geo et al	in s e cor s e qr	13	34	14	8	00	42	98
Caruth Cornelia C	s ½ n e qr	30	34	14	80	00	97	46
	UNION TOWNSHIP.
Geeting Ezra et al	n e ¼ n e qr	24	34	13	40	00	7	97
Raub Margaret	n w ¼ n w qr	20	34	13	38	25	63	37
Hackett T W	O F Auburn Juct lot 21						2	42
Hunt Theodore jr	C R &B add Auburn lot 2						2	55
Jones Marietta	in s w cor n w qr	29	34	13	10	22	54	14
Waggoner George	in n w cor s w qr	29	34	13	5	60	33	40
	KEYSER TOWNSHIP.
Allman Nelson	pt s w ¼ s w qr	33	34	12	18	65	24	51
Falkenburg G W	in n pt n w qr	4	33	12		25	10	15
Martin Stephen T.	in n e ¼ n e qr	3	33	12	1	00	5	63
Nickey A B & S M	pt w ½ n e qr	12	33	12	30	32	18	76
Offen M A & L S Hudson	in n e pt n e qr	4	33	12		25	6	54
Powell Sarah A	in s e cor s e qr	36	34	12	1	00	12	21
Reeves Hattie A	in s w cor s w ¼ s w qr	33	34	12	1	00	26	45
Schnitzer J E & E	pt n w qr	4	33	12	1	28	8	84
Thompson Mary A	in s e cor w ½ e ½ n e qr	10	33	12	1	00	1	70
Whitford S & Helen	in n pt n w qr	4	33	12		50	31	15
Barnes J H	B add Garrett lot 5						15	06
Graham Samantha	B add " " 4						8	45
Myers Samuel	M & H add" " 63						3	47
Barrett E S & L L	East add Altona lot 12						1	73
Householder E N	R add " " 25						20	19
do	R add " " 30
Pence Ann C	L 2d add " " 1						16	35
do	L 2d add " " 2
Phister Eliza	D 2d add " " 15						2	93
do	D 2d add " " 16
Valleau Chas	L 2d add " " 3						13	30
Hathaway Page	pt n e ¼ n w qr	4	33	12		25	23	18
Glenowich Jno & C	in s pt e ½ s w qr	33	34	12		40	19	21
	RICHLAND TOWNSHIP.
Gonser George	in n w qr	1	34	12		50	1	51
Rice David	e end w ½ n e qr	2	34	12	25	00	57	65
Treesh J J & C	in e side s e ¼ s e qr	2	34	12	1	60	6	61
Gonser G D et al	O P Lawrence lot 72						9	85
do	O P " " 73
Jarvis John B	O P Corunna " 89						1	91
	SMITHFIELD TOWNSHIP.
Bradley W H	n ½ n e qr	3	35	13	80	00	79	98
	FRANKLIN TOWNSHIP.
Chappell Mary A	in n e ¼ n w qr	2	35	14	4	93	12	44
Clark Margaret	w pt s e ¼ n e qr	12	35	14	30	00	25	20
Enzor Stephen	s ½ n ½ n e ¼ n e qr	14	35	14	10	00	52	35
Enzor Catherine	s ½ s e ¼ s e qr	11	35	14	20	00	54	25
Gnagy Jerry	n w pt s w qr	1	35	14	7	00	3	87
Gnagy John S	n e ¼ n e q	11	35	14	40	00
do	w pt s end e ¼ s e qr	2	35	14	35	00
do	n end e pt w ½ s e qr	2	35	14	13	43	104	55
do	s e cor w ½ n e qr	2	35	14
do	n end e ½ s e qr	2	35	14	25	00
Hamman A C	n ½ n e qr	7	35	14	80	00	44	03
do	s w ¼ n e qr	7	35	14	40	00	5	86
Nichols Milo	s w ¼ s e qr	6	35	14	40	00	31	77
Rose Elnora	e ½ " ½ s w qr	32	35	14	40	00	85	62
Matson O R & Geo	s w fr qr	30	35	14	141	00	183	36
do	n fr ½ n w fr qr	31	35	14	72	00
	GRANT TOWNSHIP.
Albright John	mid pt n e qr	1	34	13	40	00	66	00
Gingerich Jesse	n e ¼ s e qr	12	34	13	40	00	12	11
Gardner Catharine	n w fracl qr	18	34	13	111	81	104	48
Stroh Mary	in n pt s w qr	4	34	13	1	42	20	69
	WATERLOO TOWN.
Brand John C	W add lot 6						13	84
Bundy Mary L	H add " 188						22	52
Ingersoll J & M E	Cen add " 2						4	75
McIntosh Gilbert	L 1st add " 4
do	L 1st add " 5						13	31
do	L 1st add " 6
Oehn Theodore	O P n ½ " 29						6	48
Rigby Ed	H add " 217							75
Smith S S	B & McC add " 3						15	17
do	B & Mc. add " 4
Wyatt Elmer	in n e pt s w qr	3	34	13	1	50	9	69
Acton P J & J H	O P Uniontown n ½ lot 23						7	56
Kelsey Alfred	C add " lot 5						7	10
Vogtman Wm	W add " lot 19						11	20

	ASHLEY TOWN.
Bowles W T	Lot 6 Block 28				24 87
Burgess Thomas E	" 8 " 32				12 61
Gonser Daniel	" 10 " 20				17 31
Green Julia A	" 10 " 28				6 61
do	" 11 " 28				7 03
do	" 33 " 38				8 32
do	" 34 " 38				13 50
do	" 6 " 39				7 68
do	" 2 " 45				8 75
do	" 3 " 45				8 75
do	" 4 " 45				8 75
Getts Mary	" 16 " 39				6 20
Indiana Improvement Co	" 8 " 18				8 75
do	" 2 " 19				7 89
do	" 8 " 19				17 31
do	" 22 " 19				14 10
do	" 5 " 21				14 10
do	" 9 " 21				27 09
do	" 6 " 22				7 68
do	" 29 " 22				10 88
do	" 14 " 23				7 03
do	" 5 " 24				8 75
do	" 5 " 25				18 37
do	" 2 " 28				7 89
do	" 16 " 28				19 45
do	" 1 " 37				10 89
do	" 32 " 38				8 32
do	" 1 " 39				7 68
do	" 14 " 40				4 47
do	" 7 " 41				5 26
do	" 2 " 43				6 82
do	" 5 " 45				10 44
do	" 12 " 45				7 46
do	" 11 " 46				9 81
do	" 12 " 51				7 89
do	" 11 " 60				7 03
Smith Susan	" 9 " 28				12 61
	GARRETT CITY.
Archbold Milling Co	O P Lot 3 Block 17				8 32
Andrews J E	" " 11 " 29				45 54
do	" " 12 " 29
Burns Jno J	" " 15 " 28				43 22
do	" " 16 " 28
Bishop E B	K Add " 2 " 83				5 84
Benwood Oliver	" " 7 " 64				22 08
Bloomfield Jas & J	O P " 11 " 21				39 46
do	" " 12 " 21
Bushey Mary & J	Uhl's ad " 2				28 47
Balto Land & Imp Co	O P " 15 " 22				2 32
do	" " 1 " 11				6 37
do	" " 2 " 11				5 49
do	" " 14 " 12				5 57
do	" " 18 " 12				5 57
do	C add " 12 " 36				5 57
do	" " 17 " 36				5 57
do	" " 19 " 36				5 57
do	" " 17 " 38				2 35
do	" " 8 " 44				26 07
do	" " 11 " 58				3 77
do	" " 12 " 58				3 77
do	K add " 19 " 65				4 41
do	" " 20 " 65				16 38
do	" " 8 " 73				7 36
Champion F M & A A	O P " 18 " 28				52 62
do	T S add " 4 " 2
Coffill Wm A	O P " 17 " 24				29 14
Capital Investmend & Building & Loan Ass'n	T S add " 10 " 1				23 49
Cross John A	O P " 11 " 13				11 82
Cannon Rosa	Oz 2d ad " 4				14 16
Dawson John F	O P " 13 " 21				23 52
do	" " 14 " 21
Eppert Thos S & C A	C add " 11 " 44				36 27
Erixson Wm D	K a 40 ft w side pt 18 80
do	" " 19 " 80				41 44
do	" " 20 " 80
Frederick Wm J	C add " 10 " 43				10 05
Fulmer G S	" " 9 " 46				28 76
Graham Samantha	O P " 16 " 3				23 41
do	" " 17 " 3
Hoyles R & Mary R	C add " 10 " 44				34 74
Hampton John C	" " 13 " 36				23 81
Henney Josiah	Oz 1st a " 4 " 5½				55 44
Hopper Chas	T S add " 10 " 6				25 87
King Chancey	O P " 22 " 31				30 67
Kagey D E & Mary	" " 3 " 10				36 53
do	" " 4 " 10
Kreuder Theo	C add " 9 " 36				26 05
Keyser H I Trustee	O P " 14 " 31				10 95
Mills James H	K add " 3 " 74				21 71
Metzler John	K add " 13 " 76				27 86
Merica Thos S	C add " 15 " 55				59 61
Miller Wesley	K add " 4 " 64				24 41
do	K add " 5 " 64
Nummey Philemon	O P " 9 " 10				29 37
do	O P " 10 " 10
Niner John M	K add " 16 " 61				35 79
do	K add " 17 " 61
Neff George	K add " 11 " 75				18 54
Olden Daniel P	O P " 17 " 33				32 15
do	O P n ⅔ " 16 " 33
Onderdonk Andrew	O P " 3 " 26				15 88
Parker S A	C a mid ⅓ " 17 " 34
do	C a mid ⅓ " 18 " 34				32 09
do	C a mid ⅓ " 19 " 34
do	C a mid ⅓ " 20 " 34
Parker Lewis E	O P s ⅓ " 14 " 33
do	O P " 15 " 33				33 92
do	O P n ⅓ " 16 " 33
Phelps Chas W	T S add " 7 " 1				29 91
do	T S add " 8 " 1
Read A J	C add " 3 " 36				7 36
Sapp John	Oz 1st ad" 2 " 3				12 31
Stinson M A	O P " 19 " 28				19 91
Sapp Lewis M & E E	Oz 1s ad" 4 " 1
do	" " 5 " 1				55 03
do	" " 3 " 1
Stoner Oscar O	C add " 4 " 36				41 69
Strauss S & S A	T S add " 5 " 2				34 14
do	" " 6 " 2
Tarney Louisa	O P " 1 " 18				60 44
do	" " 2 " 18
Treesh Philip J	T S add " 4 " 8				17 04
Wolf Susan S	O P " 2 " 10				9 12
	AUBURN TOWN.
Baxter & McClellan	McC & B add Lot 22				5 62
do	" " 31				13 17
Brown & Culbertson	O P " 22				31 57
Bender Ida O	E 2nd add " 33
do	" n pt " 13				34 82
do	" in n e cor " 14
Clark Wm	B & A add " 39				57 02
Cool Alice A	McF add pt " 14				41 50
Griffin E A	McI add " 12				55 30
do	" " 13
Gregg Isaac	O P " 19				33 77
Green Ruth A	" " 122				33 40
Howey Mary J	N G add " 4				16 07
Halm J C et al	G & D add " 8				44 57
Hollopeter Andrew	McF add " 16				42 45
Mochamer Albert S	E 3rd add " 3				26 15
McClellan C A O	N G add " 92				3 36
do	" " 83				3 00
Mason Edward	O P " 185				26 07
Reed George W	N G add " 103				66 19
Seery J & Ellen	E 2nd add " 75				26 92
Sherlock Chas C	K 2nd add So ½ " 8				9 16
Witmer Geo F	K add " 36				30 41
McClellan Jas W et al	" e pt " 6				21 27
	BUTLER TOWN.
Blaker John & M L	O P Lot 289
do	" " 290				27 27
do	N add 16 ft w side " 4
do	" 29 ft e side " 5
Bratton O D	O P 20 ft mid pt " 273				70 07
Bubb Sidney F	D add " 42				29 44
Brunkhart F K	E add " 229				13 92
Benner Augustus	J add " 20				33 12
Beggs David	E 3rd add " 236				14 53
Baker Thomas	E add " 153				10 53
Campbell John A	T add So ½ lot 7 block 7				7 04
do	" So ½ lot 8 block 7
do	D add " 29				1 64
do	" " 30				1 64
do	" " 86				12 76
Campbell Sarah E	E 2nd add " 273				99 22
Crane C H et ux	O P w 1 5 " 263				8 31
Cook Belle	" " 21				41 51
Dickerhoof Samuel	J add " 107				10 84
Delevan Elizabeth	E add " 182				14 99
Egnew Geo hrs	" " 139				19 39
Funk J J & M	O P 50 ft w side " 85				31 45
Funk Mary	" e ½ " 86
do	" e ½ " 57				53 64
Fanning F W & C M	" w ½ " 192				5 48
Fosdick E N	" w ½ " 193
do	" " 278				6 70
do	" " 280				3 56
do	" " 282				19 62
do	" " 283
do	" " 30				1 36
Fales Minerva	L add " 136				5 23
Funk Jacob J	O P 2 ft w side " 137
do	" 48 ft e side

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

Fisher Barbara	O P " 281				8 32
Garber John	E add " 204				14 00
do	" " 221
Gaumond A & S J	O P 68x110 ft n e pt " 145				41 03
Handy Cyrus	" " 177				20 45
Hopkins S A & E M	" " 38				26 08
Homan David	E add " 225				9 80
Haskins George	O P 44x100 in " 131				121 17
Handy George D	M add " 3				15 66
Learned Laura E	E add " 111				83 71
do	" " 112
Mason W A	M add " 21				8 46
Myers Mary A	" " 8				4 03
Norford Jay R & J A	L add " 4				32 87
North Almira E	J add " 9				3 51
Packer G W & N E	M add " 16				13 96
Pinchon Obas F	E add " 89				15 24
Packer E & M E	M add " 9				11 38
do	" " 24
Perew Geo S. et al	N add w pt " 6
do	O P " 285				17 59
do	" " 286
Rank Alice M	E add " 105				13 13
Reese Margaret	O P " 27				11 73
Smurr Daniel	pt n w ¼ n w qr 12 34 14 18				13 70
Shaffer Walton	O P exc 18 ft e side " 34				7 58
Staples Ralph E	" " 271				5 35
Sanders Arvilla M	L add " 47				13 69
Steward Arminn M	O P " 229				14 69
Sanders Thomas J	E 3rd add " 215				14 69
do	" " 228				11 43
Searight S G	E add 66x132 ft w pt " 146				57 14
do	D add 44x46½ ft n e pt " 6
Steward F H	E add " 237				15 14
Skinner D L	O P " 113				18 23
Scoville Geo E & M	J add " 18				14 99
Scoville Charles	E add " 85				4 77
Stevens R & M M	O P s ½ " 233				17 84
do	" s ½ " 234
Sise Francis	T add lot 3 block 8				19 78
Sawyers Sabina B	S add " 17				14 99
Taylor Levi B	H add " 17				2 69
Werrbaugh L A & A M
Stewart	D add " 31				36 63
do	E add 55x122 ft n e pt " 147
Young Emma J	O P " 220				38 32

I, Frank A. Borst, Auditor in and for said County of DeKalb, do hereby certify that the foregoing is a true and complete list of all the lands and town lots in said county returned delinquent for the taxes for the year 1893, with the delinquent tax, penalty and interest, and also the tax for the year 1894, to the best of my knowledge and belief.

Notice is therefore hereby given that so much of the foregoing lands and town lots as may be necessary to discharge the taxes, interest and penalty, and charges due thereon or due from the owners thereof at the time of the sale, will be sold at public auction at the court house door, in the town of Auburn in said county, on the second Monday in February, A. D. 1895, (the same being the 11th day of said month,) unless such taxes, penalty, interest and charges are previously paid. Sale to commence at 10 o'clock a. m., on said day and continue until all have been offered for sale.

FRANK A. BORST, AUDITOR.

Auburn, Ind., Jan. 14, 1895.

TAX RATES FOR 1894.

To The Tax Payers Of DeKalb County, Indiana.

In compliance with the laws of the state of Indian, I, DAVID W. FAIR, Treasurer of said county, hereby notify the Tax Payers thereof that the rates of taxation for the year, A. D 1894, are correctly stated in the following table, showing the amount of taxes in cents levied upon each One Hundred Dollars valuation and on each poll, in the several townships and incorporated villages in said county, as the same appears on the Tax Duplicate of DeKalb county for said year:

TOWNSHIPS AND TOWNS.	State Tax	Benev Institutions	St Debt Sinking Fd	State School Tax	Perm. Endowm't F.	County Tax	Township Tax	Tuition	Special School	Road	Special road	Corporation	Au Special School	Bond Sinking	Special Dog	TOTAL	First Installment	Second Installment
Butler Township	10	05	03	13½	½	55	10	10	05	10	05					127	71	56
Poll	50			50				25								125
Jackson Township	10	05	03	13½	½	55	10	05	20	10	05					137	76	61
Poll	50			50				50	50							200
Concord Township	10	05	03	13½	½	55	10	10	20	05	10					142	78½	63½
Poll	50			50				50	25							175
Newville Township	10	05	03	13½	½	55	15	10	20	10	05					147	81	66
Poll	50

THE AUBURN COURIER.

VOLUME XXV. AUBURN, DE KALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, JANUARY 24, 1895. NUMBER 4.

THIS IS NEW.

READ!

WHAT WE HAVE TO SAY ABOUT MNOEY.

The Indisna Mutual Building Loan Association, which we represent in this part of the state, have again reduced their interest, which has always been from 2 to 5 per cent less than any other Building Loan Association Do you know that if you are about to borrow money and give a mortgage on your home, you should take the time and trouble to investigate the plan of different associations, so that you may know, regardless of what any agent may tell you, which is the cheapest and the best?

There are three items which should also be considered and thoroughly understood, especially by the borrower, before he makes his application for a loan:

First: The rate of interest and premium he is charged per annum.

Second: What the earnings of the Association are.

Third: How economically the Association is conducting its affairs.

We are prepared always to compare our company with any other, and can prove to your entire satisfaction that we are the cheapest, and

REMEMBER

That in our company you have no membership fee to pay, no advance payments to make and there will be no delays, so that should your loan for any reason be declined, you will lose no money. We are prepared to make loans where the security is sufficient; for any amount from $2. 00 to $2,0)

If you have a loan in any other company it will pay you to call on us and get our figures and

Change your Loan at Once

We are also prepared to make

FARM LOANS

at from

3 to 6 per cent

interest.

We are still in line for Insurance, and Cheap R. R Tickets, and have now on hand more bargains in

REAL ESTATE

than ever before.

CALL ON OR ADDRESS

NICKEL & SPROTT

AUBURN, IND.

If you are handling your

MONEY!

Carefully you will not overlook the following statement.

We are more than anxious to exchange our goods for CASH and for spot CASH you can buy of us at a less price than ever before.

NOTE THE FOLLOWING:

Four Tined Forks, Long and Short handles,	45 cts.
Shovels, Round and Square point,	55 cts.
Galvanized Fence Wire,	$1.95 per cwt.
Black Fence Wire,	1.55 per cwt.
Webb Halters,	20 cents.
Cant Hooks,	$1.00.
Clothes Ringers,	1.75.

We have a surplus stock of

SASH, DOORS & PAINTS

And will offer Special Inducements to buyers now.

SEE FORMER QUOTATIONS.

W. H. KIBLINGER COMPANY.

Creameries and Canneries.

It will always pay our people to look carefully into any investment. Here is an article we clip from an exchange that should be carefully read:

Five years ago a syndicate established creameries throughout Indiana. The concerns were scattered from Lake Michigan to the Ohio. In each place the agent succeeded in raising a considerable amount of money. It is averred that of all these creameries established but one is in operation at this time. The farmers who were induced to put their money into the concerns declare that they were swindled. It is said that Indiana was not the only state worked by the creamery scheme, and that altogether the men behind the scheme made several million dollars. The creamery craze has been followed by the canning factory fever, which is now at its height. Within the past two months dozens of these establishments have been scattered throughout the state. There were sixty-two of them in operation during the past season, and there are between twenty-five and forty in course of construction at the present time.

The rapid increase in the number of these factories is due to the plausible representations of men who make it a business of locating them. They go into a community, make arrangement with the local newspapers to picture the large profits accruing to stockholders in a concern of this kind and the benefits derived by farmers who raise produce for the concern By figures they show that the average farmer can make more off an acre in raising produce for the canning factory than he can make off ten acres by pursuing methods followed by the average farmer. They get the farmers and business men interested, then propose that a committee be appointed to go to a factory that is in active operation in order that they may see for themselves the practical workings of the scheme.

A committee is appointed to accompany the agent, he paying railroad fare, hotel bills and being exceedingly liberal with cigars and other incidentals. He is careful to take them to an establishment that is sure to give them a favorable impression. The result is that the committee returns home and makes a glowing report favorable to the establishment of the institution proposed. The books are then opened and stock is subscribed, generally in shares of $100. In some instances farmers have been so interested that a half-dozen of them subscribed enough stock to build a factory. In each instance the agent of the firm guarantees that the factory will turn out first class stuff. The factory does this, but the agent, does not guarantee a sale for all the manufactured goods.

The result is that all the canning factories in Indiana to-day are loaded to the guards, with very little prospect of unloading more than one-half of their stock unless they dump it at a loss on the market. The average canning factory will turn out 1,000,000 cans per annum. The sixty-two canning factories will turn over 60,000,000 cans this season. There is scarcely a newspaper in the state that is not picturing the beauties and glories of a canning factory, and unless the fever is speedily checked Indiana alone will be equipped with enough canning factories to supply the entire market with canned goods. The work of establishing these factories is in the hands of the same men who sowed the creamery seed throughout the state.

France's New President.

France has just passed through another crisis. President Casimir-Perier who had been made president after Carnot was assassinated, got tired of the disagreement of the various political factions and suddenly resigned. A few days later, last Thursday, the two Houses of their parliament, the Senate and the House of Deputies, met in joint session, and voted in a new man Felix Faoure, the minister of Marine, got it on the second ballot. He is considered a good man for the place.

Father of the House.

An exchange says: The honorary title "Father of the House" conferred upon the representative who has been a member for the longest consecutive time, was first bestowed upon Lewis Williams of North Carolina, who served in fourteen consecutive congresses, from Dec 4, 1815 to Feb. 23, 1842. His successors to that title were Dixon H. Lewis, John Quincy Adams, Joshua R. Giddings, John S. Phelps, Elihu A. Washburne, Henry L. Dawes, Wm D Kelley, and W. S. Holman, the present bearer of the title. In the next congress the Father of the House will be David B Culberson, of Texas, who has been a member continuously since 1864.

Our Weather.

Capt. J. E. Braden has furnished the Ligonier Leader with the following notes on the weather for 1895: Rain fall 34½ inches; snow fall, 49½ inches. Frost August 15 and 22, with temperature at 48 degrees each morning, rising from 75 to 83 at noon. Coldest day, January 25, 5 degrees in the morning, 12 above at noon, 6 in the evening; December 28 and February 25, down to zero. Hottest day July 19, 70 degrees above in the morning and 96 at noon. 29 clear days in July, with north-west winds prevailing. Daily average temperature, January, 30, February, 23½, June, 71½, July, 75, August, 70½, November, 34 and December, 32.

OWING to the unfavorable condition of Weather and Roads the past week we have decided to continue our Grand

SAUGHTER SALE OF Dress Goods and Clothing UNTIL

JAN. 1, '95.

This sale is running far ahead of our greatest expectations. If you are needing anything in DRESS GOODS or CLOTHING you cannot afford to m ss it.

We have a fine assortment of

UMBRELLAS, NECKWEAR, HANDKERCHIEFS, SHIRTS, RUGS, PORTIERES, CARPET SWEEPERS,

And many other useful articles suitable for Christmas presents. We will try to please you, both in

QUALIT AND PRICE

COME AND SEE US.

Schaab & Bro.

Vitaline and Nervetone

Speedily cures all nervous affections nerve exhaustion, debility, lassitude, loss of nerve and brain power, weakness, mental depression, that "all gone" feeling. Cures headache, toothache, neuralgia and all nerve pains in an hour's time. It never fails nor disappoints. Ask Fischler & Son for it, and accept no other. The Hall Medicine Company, Toledo Ohio. 3 5

What Ails You?

If you have sudden darting pains in the joints or muscles, and it recurs every time you get cold, and appears in new places without leaving any of old ones, the best thing to do is to send five dollars to the Drummond Medicine Co., 48 Maiden Lane, New York, for a month's treatment of Dr Drummond's Lightning Remedy for Rheumatism. They will send you two large bottles of their remedy by return express. If you have the above symptoms you have the Rheumatism, and should begin at once with the known cure. Delay with any disease is dangerous—with Rheumatism it is simply suicidal. Agents wanted. 3 5

Relief in Six Hours.

Distressing Kidney and Bladder diseases relieved in six hours by the "New Great South American Kidney Cure." This new remedy is a great surprise on account of its exceeding promptness in relieving pain in the bladder, kidneys, back and every part of the urinary passages in male or female. It relieves retention of water and pain in passing it almost immediately. If you want quick relief and cure this is your remedy. Sold by Robbins and McCord druggists Auburn Ind. 34tf

They Use It for Colds.

Carlton Cornwell, foreman of the Gazette, Middleton, N. J., believes that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy should be in every home. He used it for a cold and it effected a speedy cure. He says, "It is indeed a grand remedy, I can recommend to all. I have also seen it used for whooping cough, with the best results." 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Robbins & McCord, druggists. 5

One at Night.

One dose of Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup taken in the evening before retireing will give you a good nights rest. It will cure your cough quicker than any other and is pleasant to take. If you have never tried this remedy, ask your druggist for Dr, Marshall's Lung Syrup the next time you buy. It is guaranteed to give satisfaction. Sold by all druggists. 1-5

Old People.

Old people who require medicine to regulate the bowels and kidneys wi l find the true remedy in Electric Bitters This medicine does not stimulate and contains no whisky nor other intoxicant, but acts as a tonic and alterative. It acts mildly on the stomach and bowels, adding strength and giving tone to the organs, thereby aiding nature in the performance of the functions. Electric Bitters is an excellent appetizer and aids digestion. Old people find it just exactly what they need. Price fifty cents per bottle at Robbins & McCord drug store. 5

Always Relieves Pain.

Many stubborn and aggravating cases of rheumatism that were believed to be incurable and accepted as life legacies, have yielded to Chamberlain's Pain Balm, much to the surprise and gratification of the sufferers. One application will relieve the pain and suffering and its continued use insures an effectual cure. For sale by Robbins & McCord, druggists. 5

For Chronic Diarrhœa.

"I know an old soldier who had chronic diarrhœa of long standing to have been permanently cured by taking Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy," said Edward Shumpik, a prominent druggist of Minneapolis, Minn. "I have sold the Remedy in this city for over seven years and consider it superior to any other medicine now on the market for bowel complaints." 25 and 50 cent bottles of this remedy for sale by Robbins & McCord druggists. 5

You ought to know this: DeWitts' Witch Hazel Salve will heal a burn and stop the pain instantly. It will cure badly chapped hands, ugly wounds, sores, and a well known cure for piles. Sold by Robbins & McCord

Relief in One Day.

South American Nervine relieves the worst cases of nervous prostrations nervousness and nervous dyspepsia in a single day. No such relief and blessing has ever come to the invalids of this country. Its powers to cure the stomach are wonderful in the extreme. It always cures; it cannot fail. It radically cures all weakness of the stomach and never disappoints. Its effects are marvelous and surprising.—It gladdens the hearts of the suffering and brings immediate relief. It is a luxury to take and always safe. Trial bottles 15 cents. Sold by Robbins & McCord druggist Auburn Ind. 50tf

Rebecca Wilkinson, of Brownsvalley, Ind., says: I have been in a distressed condition for three years from Nervousness Weakness of the Stomach, Dyspepsia and Indigestion until my health was gone. I had been doctoring constantly with no relief. I bought one bottle of South American Nervine, which did me more good than any $50 worth of doctoring I ever did in my life. I would advise every weakly person to use this valuable and lovely remedy; a few bottles of it has cured me completely. I consider it the greatest medicine in the world." Warranted the most wonderful stomach and nerve cure ever known. Trial bottles 15 cents. Sold by Robbins and McCord druggists Auburn Ind. 34tf

Byron was immoderately fond of ham and eggs.

Good Reason for It.

There is good reason for the popularity of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Davis & Buzard, of West Monterey, Clarion Co., Pa., say, "It has cured people that our physicians could do nothing for. We persuaded them to try a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and they now recommend it with the rest of us." 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Robbins & McCord, druggists. 5

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BAHNS, - - PUBLISHER.

FROM EVERY CORNER

OF THE WORLD THIS FRESH NEWS WAS GLEANED.

The Brooklyn Street Car Strike Becoming Serious—Strikers Fired Upon by the Militia—The Japs Gain a Victory Over the Chinese—Serious Accident.

VIOLENCE AND BLOODSHED.

The Militia Fire Into the Street Car Strikers at Brooklyn.

A special from Brooklyn, dated Monday, says: Violence and bloodshed constitute the record for the eighth day of the electric street railway operatives' strike. Three militiamen are in the hospitals with broken heads, two having suffered at the hands of riotous men or women, while a third is the victim of his own carelessness, having fallen out of a second story window. A score or more of policemen are suffering from bullet wounds or contusions about the head and body, disabling them badly. To what extent the rioters suffered cannot even be conjectured. Dozens were carried off by sympathizers, some, no doubt, mortally wounded.

Riots occurred at 6:30 at Rostrand avenue. A conference of police captains was held and it was determined to charge on all mobs. At 6:15 o'clock three cars on the Gates avenue line at Rostrand avenue were attacked by a mob of 2,000 men and boys. Sticks and stones were thrown and a number of shots fired by the mob. The police reserves were soon at the scene and after hard fighting the mob was dispersed. Two policemen were badly injured. Three cars were wrecked and the motormen and conductors taken to the station house for protection. Near Ridgewood station two volleys were fired by light files of militiamen. Other soldiers fired desultorily at the command of their officers. Two police officers from the second precinct, named Collins and Degan, were shot at by a mob at Stuyvesant and Gates avenue at 7 p. m. Degan's wounds are serious, and are in the breast and arms. Superintendent Kitzer learned the shots came from a house in the neighborhood. He forced his way up stairs with his men and arrested a woman named Carney, who either did the shooting or was aware who did it. The woman was put in the patrol wagon, but the mob intercepted and pelted it with stones. Mrs. Carney was struck on the head with a rock and received a severe wound.

Dispersed the Chinese.

Hiroshima (Japan) special: Gen. Nodzu, commander of the first Japanese army, telegraphs as follows: "The Chinese commenced an attack on Hai Chang at 8 o'clock on the morning of January 17, advancing from three roads—Liau Yang, Pulangton and New Chang. At about noon they extended their front five miles, coming within 1,500 meters or our advance line. The third army division, after maintaining the defense of the north side of Hai Chang until 4 o'clock in the afternoon, assumed the offensive and attacked the enemy's right wing. Shortly after 6 o'clock we succeeded in dispersing the Chinese. The enemy's strength was over 100,000. The main force is retreating north and west and the remainder toward New Chwang. Seven guns were taken besides other spoils."

Serious Accident.

Several people were badly injured by the falling of a portion of the scaffolding on the new Fort Dearborn building at Clark and Monroe streets, Chicago. The heavy timbers were blown from position and, falling fourteen stories, buried two men, one of whom, J. D. Burke, a ticket broker, was thought to be fatally injured. The others more seriously injured were: A. J. Donaldson, clerk, shoulder crushed; Frank Woodward, teamster, arm crushed; Wm. Lucius, printer, scalp wound; H. S. Fiseer, restaurant employe, badly bruised. A half dozen other people were struck by flying timbers but not seriously hurt.

The Sheriff Assaulted.

Charles Shirk, convicted of arson and sentenced to seven years' imprisonment at Warsaw, Ind., induced the Sheriff to enter his cell on the pretense that he was sick. When the Sheriff was within range the prisoner knocked him down with a piece of lead pipe which he had twisted off a wasteway, the blow rendering the official unconscious. Shirk then donned a false beard and made his escape, leaving the Sheriff locked in his cell.

Chicago Aldermen Quarrel.

The Republicans and Democrats came to blows in the Council Chamber at Chicago. The Republicans introduced a measure to reduce the police force. Democrats made a rush for the door to break a quorum, while Chairman Gallagher shouted the order was carried. In the row at the door Alderman Chapman, Republican, received a smash on his jaw, and Alderman Lammers struck Kelly, Democrat, a stunning blow on the head.

Bourgeoise Fails.

Paris special: M. Bourgeoise has renounced the task of attempting to form a new ministry. President Faure probably will ask M. Bourgeoise to try again to form a ministry, omitting MM. Poincare and Cavaignac, whose disagreement on the income tax seems hopeless.

Slight Shock of Earthquake.

A slight shock of earthquake was felt at Wabash, Ind, recently. It lasted but for a second, and caused windows to rattle, and many people stepped out of doors, thinking from the low, rumbling noise that an explosion had occurred.

Damaged by Cyclone.

A cyclone struck Covington, Tenn., blowing off the tower of the Court-house and wrecking several stores and residences. Total damage about $50,000. Nobody hurt.

Ordered Released.

The Supreme Court of the United States has ordered that Eugene V. Debs and his associates, in jail in Illinois, be admitted to bail in the sum of $2,000 each, the hearing to show cause to be held on the 25th of March.

5,000 Men to Go to Work.

The Riverside Iron Works at Benwood, W. Va., for the first time in two years, was placed in operation the other day in all its departments, affording 5,000 men employment.

Crucified an Aged Squaw.

San Francisco special: Four Indian murderers came down from Alaska recently to spend terms in San Quentin prison. The most noted criminal is So-Scan-Doo, a big medicine man, who was convicted because he was responsible for the killing of a woman accused of witchcraft. The grip attacked his tribe and swept off about one-third. His "medicine" failed to work, and deaths continued, whereupon he declared that a witch was causing the trouble. He pointed out one old woman and she was crucified to a tree. The poor creature was nailed to a tree and allowed to hang till she died of starvation. Two white prisoners also came down. One was sentenced for steanlig amalgam from the Treadwell mine, and the other for selling liquor to Indians.

CHARGED THE CROWD.

The Militia Attack the Brooklyn Strikers and Many Are Wounded.

The striking street-car employes were rioting most all day Sunday, and were charged frequently by the militia and police. At 10 o'clock at night Major Cochrane, of the Thirteenth Regiment, with three companies, relieved Col. Eddie of the Forty-seventh Regiment, who was on duty with two companies at the stables of the Brooklyn Heights railroad at Alabama and Jamaca avenues. After Col. Eddie had started away with his men a number of spectators gathered. Maj. Cochrane ordered his men to charge. The crowd scattered in all directions and the soldiers pursued the fugitives for several blocks. In the chase several persons were knocked down and trampled on, and several were injured by having bayonets thrust into them. One man was stabbed in the groin and is now in St. Mary's Hospital likely to die. After the charge, however, the crowd became thicker and as a last resort to keep them back Major Cochrane recalled Col. Eddie. In the charge Milittman Wood was hit with a stone and is now in the hospital suffering with a fractured skull. Four companies are now stationed at the stables with 100 policemen and a squad of twenty-five mounted men. The police closed all saloons in the neighborhood at midnight.

SOME GOOD SIGNS,

But They Do Not Yet Extend to the General Business of the Country.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says: There are some good signs, but they do not yet extend to business generally, which hesitates as much as it has done for months. Gold continues to go abroad, $2,550,000 having gone last week and the deficit of revenue is already over $9,500,000 for the month. This state of facts with the failure of Congress to make provision for borrowing or for increasing the revenue, still operates to retard wholesome recovery, and the volume of domestic trade represented by exchanges through clearing houses is again about 7 per cent. larger than last year, as it was in the first week of the month, but is 33.7 per cent. smaller than two years ago, a higher rate of decrease than for some time past. Industries are getting a larger demand for some products since the new year began, but rather less for others and no definite improvement appears in the prices of manufactured products or in wages. In the main it is a waiting condition, with much hope that positive improvement is not far off, but not very satisfactory evidence of it as yet.

PRESIDENT FAURE.

The National Assembly of France Elects Him.

Paris special: M. Chalem-Lacour, President of the Senate, the presiding officer of the National Assembly, called the Senators and Deputies together at 1 p. m., Thursday, and ordered that the first ballot for President be immediately taken. This was proceeded with amid considerable excitement in the galleries and in the great hall which were crowded to their utmost capacity with notabilities representing every profession. The following is the official vote of the first ballot for President: M. Henri Brisson, 344; M. Felix Faure, 216; M. Waldeck Rousseau, 195. The number of scattering votes is not announced. A majority of the total number of votes cast is required to elect. M. Waldeck Rousseau retired in favor of M. Felix Faure after the first ballot. The following was the result of the second ballot, so far as the leading candidates are concerned: M. Felix Faure, 435; M. Henri Brison, 363. There were violent socialistic protests when the result was announced. Faure was declared elected.

A Bogus Pardon.

Topeka (Kas.) special: The discovery has been made since Gov. Morrill took charge of the executive office, that December 7, 1894, John B. True, who was supposed to be serving a life sentence in the penitentiary for murder, had been pardoned. The pardon, it is claimed, was not issued by Gov. Lewelling but by Private Secretary Fred J. Close. The Governor had repeatedly refused to pardon True. The crime for which True was serving his sentence was the murder, November 1, 1877, of the Rev. Samuel Woolpert, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church of Wakefield, Clay County. True pleaded guilty. Judge Morton, in sentencing, said that the crime was the most unprovoked and inhuman that had ever come under his observation. Since that time there have been frequent attempts to secure a pardon for him. The pardon, when finally granted was not made public, but it is said that True has already been released and is in Kentucky where he has relatives.

Bold Robery at Toledo.

A robbery in true Bill Cook style was perpetrated in a populous part of Toledo, Ohio. Two masked men entered the grocery store of William McGuthrie, on Oak street, and, pulling three revolvers on the proprietor, his wife and a customer, proceeded to help themselves to the cash in the till. The drawer was locked, but the robbers compelled the astonished groceryman to open it instanter. The money secured, they searched the pockets of the proprietor and his customer, obtaining in all about $180. Warning them against giving an alarm, the two robbers then disappeared. The police have no clue, save the description given by the groceryman.

Mexico and Guatemala.

City of Mexico special: It is reported again that negotiations between Mexico and Gautemala over the international boundary dispute have come to a complete stand still. The particular reason for the cessation of diplomatic negotiations is not altogether known, but it is generally conceded that nothing more will be done until the arrival of the Central American Envoy named by two of the Southern Republics to assist in a pacific way in the settlement of the question at issue. Senor Arras, the Envoy from Honduras, has left Tegueeigalpa to sail for Mexico, where he will establish a legation until the Guatemala affair has been decided.

Eighteen Years.

On July 12, 1894, Winifred E. Smith, a wealthy young man about town, stabbed Westen B. Thomas of Anderson, to death at Brighton Beach club-house, near Indianapolis, Ind. Thomas was Secretary of the American Wire Nail Company of Anderson, and very wealthy. Smith was indicted for murder, and his trial began ten days ago. The jury returned a verdict of eighteen years in the penitentiary. An appeal was taken and the case goes to the Supreme Court.

A Horrible Tale.

The people of Texcoce, Mexico, are greatly excited over the dissection of a peon named Antonio Vangos while still alive. While a medical student was making a dissection the supposed corpse writhed in agony, and sprang to his feet, shouting: "Don't kill me!" The dissector endeavored to put back pieces of flesh and sew up the incisions. The effort was of no avail, and the man was a genuine corpse in two days.

Catholics Opposing the Papal Decree.

Anderson (Ind.) special: Several of the Catholics here who heard Father Mulcahey and the papal decree that they must withdraw from the Knights of Pythias, Odd Fellows, and Sons of Temperance have announced that they will hesitate in obeying the order, and those of them will ignore it or else petition for the withdrawal of the decree in St. Mary's Church. Their action has created a sensation among Catholics here. It is believed that those taking such a stand will find many supporters in the church.

Dog Instead of 'Possum.

James Bryant, a fruit and poultry dealer, was imprisoned at Muncie, Ind., upon the charge of selling unwholesome meat to Mrs. Daniel Keif. She purchased what she thought was an opossum from Bryant, and put the animal into the pot for a stew. It was seasoned with delicacies and placed upon the table ready to carve, when Mr. Keif came home and discovered that the meat did not taste right. He investigated, and he charges that the animal was a dog. Mrs. Keif was not familiar with 'possum meat, but she knew that her husband was, and she planned a surprise for him.

Horrible Death.

Joe Cunningham, the 13-year-old son of the Chief of Police of Gadsen, Ala., and nephew of Mayor Rhodes, was killed in a horrible manner at Wharton's sawmill, four miles from that place. The boy was playing in the mill and crawled under the buzz saw to get a base ball that had been thrown at him. Just at the moment when he was beneath the machinery one of his companions called to him, and he looked up, forgetting his perilous position, when the revolving saw struck him in the back of the head and split it to the shoulder.

Rear End Collision.

A rear-end collision between two freight trains occurred on the Lake Shore road, eight miles west of Elkhart, Ind. Both trains were going west when the rear freight struck the forward train. The engine was rendered useless. The caboose and seven cars on the forward train were broken and derailed. The engineer and fireman on the ill-fated engine jumped, or they would have been killed. The engineer on the rear train did not see the forward train until it was too late to stop.

Another Explosion.

A terrible accident took place at the Manuel Hamilton saw mill, seven miles east of Alto, Texas. A boiler exploded resulting in the death of four men, Tobe Richards, Alex and Will Lewis, and Abner Lee. The injured are: Alexander Hamilton, arm broken; Richard Loflin, leg broken; Noah Miller, Peter VanBuren, and Manuel Hamilton, badly bruised. Several others whose names could not be learned, were badly scalded. All the parties are colored.

Muddy Water Was the Cause.

Two boilers in the thirty-inch mill at the Carnegie Steel Works, Homestead, Pa., exploded. Henry Brenneman and John Gerke were instantly killed. John Beraak was fatally injured, and William Banks seriously hurt. The explosion is said to have been caused by muddy water getting into the boilers. The loss will amount to about $8,000.

Death in Flames.

After extinguishing a fire which destroyed the building by A. W. Stiefel, plumber, 928 Frederick avenue, Baltimore, the firemen found Mr. Stiefel's charred body in the ruins. No one suspected that any person was in the building when the flames started. The victim of the fire was well known in athletic and base ball circles.

Morganfield Sent Back to Virginia.

The Circuit Court at Cincinnati decided the appeal of Charles Morganfield, the alleged train robber, and affirmed the decision of Judge Wilson remanding him to the Virginia authorities. He was at once taken in a wagon on a cot to the Chesapeake and Ohio depot and left for Virginia in charge of the Sheriff of Stafford County.

American Yacht to Compete for Honors

Mr. William K. Vanderbilt, Commodore E. D. Morgan and Mr. C. Oliver Iselin of the New York Yacht Club, have decided to build a yacht to defend the American cup in the coming yacht race between the New York Yacht Club and the Royal British Squadron. Mr. Iselin will be placed in charge of the cup defender.

A Chest of Gold.

A special from San Luis Potosi, Mexico, says: Two children playing east of here discovered a cavern. Several men explored the cave, revealing an iron chest filled with Spanish gold coin, amounting to between $250,000 and $350,000. It is believed that the money was placed in the cave by Franciscan monks.

Rioting at Brooklyn.

Several conflicts between the strikers and new employes of the trolley lines occurred at Brooklyn Friday. Motor men were driven from their cars and beaten by mobs, and E. A. Spink, a passenger on a Putnam avenue car, was assaulted and seriously injured by the strikers for denouncing them.

Queer and Fatal.

At Spencerville, Ohio, Mrs. C. B. Crites attempted to empty a large bottle of acid into the stove. The bottle exploded, and one piece of the glass entered her right breast. Her clothing caught fire, and her body, face, and hands were terribly burned. She will die.

Accused of Murder.

Detectives Wolfe and Schlessinger of Columbus, Ohio, arrested John Redman, colored, on suspicion of having committed a murder at Marion, Ohio, seven years ago. The victim of the crime was Adam E. Uhl.

Will Be Admitted to Bail.

Chief Justice Fuller said the order for admission to bail in the Debs case would be signed. It is expected the court will act upon the stipulation before adjournment.

Fatally Kicked.

At Shelbyville, Ind., Charles Sheffler, a well-known farmer, will die from the effects of kicks received from a horse he was leading.

THE MARKETS.

Chicago—Cattle, common to prime, $3.75@6; hogs, shipping grades, $4.50@5.00; sheep, fair to choice, $2.00@4.00; wheat, No. 2 red, 54@55c; corn, No. 2, 45@46c; oats, No. 2, 28@29c; rye, No. 22, 51@52c; butter, choice creamery, 24@24½c; eggs, fresh, 18@20c; potatoes, car lots, per bushel, 60@75c.

Indianapolis—Cattle, shipping, $3@5.50; hogs, choice light, $3@4.75; sheep, common to prime, $2@3.50; wheat, No. 2 red, 52@52½c; corn, No. 1 white, 40@41c; oats, No. 2 white, 32½@33½c.

St. Louis—Cattle, $3@6; hogs, $3@4.75; wheat, No. 2 red, 53@53½c; corn, No. 2, 43@43½c; oats, No. 2, 30@31c; rye, No. 2, 53@55c.

Cincinnati—Cattle, $3.50@5.50; hogs, $3.50@5; sheep, $1.25@4; wheat, No. 2, 55@56c; corn, No. 2 mixed, 43@43½c; oats, No. 2 mixed, 32@33c; rye, No. 2, 53@55c.

Detroit—Cattle, $2.50@5.50; hogs, $4@4.75; sheep, $2@3.25; wheat, No. 1 white, 56@57c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 43@43½c; oats, No. 2 white, 33@34c; rye, No. 2, 51@52c.

Toledo—Wheat, No. 2 red, 55@56c; corn, No. 2 mixed, 43@44c; oats, No. 2 white, 32@33c; rye, No. 2, 51@53c.

Buffalo—Cattle, $2.50@5.50; hogs, $4@5; sheep, $2@4.50; wheat, No. 2 red, 59@59½c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 47@47½c; oats, No. 2 white, 35@36c.

Milwaukee—Wheat, No. 2 spring, 57@57½c; corn, No. 3, 44@44½c; oats, No. 2 white, 31@32c; barley, No. 2, 54@56c; rye, No. 1, 50@51c; pork, mess, $11.25@11.75.

New York—Cattle, $3@6; hogs, $3.50@5.00; sheep, $2@4; wheat, No. 2 red, 63@64c; corn, No. 2, 52@53c; oats, white Western, 38@42c; butter, creamery, 16@24c; eggs, fresh, 21@23c.

WANT MORE SALARY.

UNCLE SAM THREATENED WITH A DIPLOMATIC STRIKE.

Ambassadors to Foreign Lands Must Have Better Pay or Give Up Their Jobs—Say They Are Annually Out of Pocket.

Money Upholds Dignity.

Washington correspondence:

IN a general way it has been understood for some time that our diplomatic service is not in a flourishing condition. Things have gone from bad to worse until now a crisis has been reached in the affairs of the five ambassadors stationed in European capitals by the United States Government. Secretary Gresham has intimated to the President that the position of the ambassadors is such as to warrant immediate action by Congress. Should no action be taken by that body it is almost certain that Clifton R. Breckinridge, our ambassador to Russia, and Theodore Runyon, who holds the same post in Germany, will resign. There has been circulated a statement to the effect that Mr. Breckinridge has already announced his intention of abandoning his post. That statement, however, is premature.

The whole trouble is the result of the long-standing salary grievance. As everybody knows, our ambassadors receive a very inadequate stipend. Their salary is $17,500 a year each, but $50,000 is pronounced barely sufficient to maintain the dignity of the position. Mr. Runyon in Germany and Mr. Eustis in France have, even with the exercise of the closest economy, spent twice their respective salaries and more in expenses connected with the posts they fill. These details will surprise no one. But it will be news to announce that the ambassadors have held two conferences abroad, one in London and another in Paris, for the purpose of making unanimous representation to the State Department that their usefulness is almost nominal. On his way to St. Petersburg Mr. Breckinridge saw both Mr. Runyon and Mr. Eustis. Mr. Breckinridge had heard that his expenses in Europe would be very heavy—far more than his salary. As he is a man of very moderate means he felt the necessity of getting their advice. He expressed his feelings with candor when he was informed of the humiliating straits to which his fellow-diplomats were reduced. Then it was that a premature rumor of the resignation of the ambassador to Russia was circulated.

A Plea for the Strikers.

Meanwhile, however, Thomas F. Bayard, ambassador to the court of St. James, had been in the United States, and one of the express objects of his visits here was to impress upon the State Department the manner in which our national dignity is being compromised abroad. Mr. Bayard had three conferences with the Secretary of State on the subject of ambassadorial salaries. Mr. Gresham, during these interviews, had opportunity to read letters from Wayne MacVeagh, Mr. Eustis and Mr. Runyon, all setting forth the fact that their positions were little short of ridiculous. Their own wish had been to resign, but as the demission, to use a diplomatic term, of all our ambassadors at once might create an unpleasant impression, it was deemed best that the retirement should take place at intervals of a few months.

As an illustration of the position in which our ambassadors are placed, the following itemized statement of Mr. Eustis' expenses is interesting:

House rent in Paris, per year	$12,000
Ambassador's coach and livery	5,000
Diplomatic dinners and entertainments	3,000
One ball per annum	2,000
Entertaining American naval officers	2,000
Attending state department functions	1,000
Official presentations	2,000
Total	$27,000

In reality, however, Mr. Eustis has spent a good deal more than $27,000 a year since he went to Paris. He is out of pocket about $50,000 as a result of being American ambassador to France. It might be observed that Mr. Eustis has chosen a rather expensive house. But were he to go out of the expensive quarter of Paris his usefulness as a diplomat would be gone. And house rent in fashionable Paris is high. The ambassadorial coach is also a necessity, and the entertaining must be kept up or the diplomat will lose caste. Were Mr. Eustis, for example, to decline an invitation to a state function or a minister's entertainment it would be deemed a grave breach of etiquette. Were the offense repeated the minister would find himself without influence, and might even be reported to Washington as persona non grata. Having once accepted the courtesies, he is bound to reciprocate them.

Must Go the Royal Pace.

In the holiday and vacation season his post is even more trying. He must go where the powers go. He is obliged to lease a chateau, or, at the humblest, a villa. There are always American interests needing the support of an ambassador at a foreign power. Were the social side of diplomatic life neglected, American interests would be deprived of all protection. A conspicuous instance of this is the manner in which American beef and hams were allowed entry into Germany for years in spite of domestic agitation, solely owing to the personal influence of our minister to Berlin.

The other ambassadors are in an equally sorry plight. Mr. Bayard is out, so far, about $25,000 on his mission. Mr. MacVeagh spent $20,000 in Rome during the first three months of his stay. The money question has reached a crisis owing to the recent elevation of our ministers to the capitals of Great Britain, France, Germany, Italy and Russia to the rank of ambassadors. When we had ministers only the situation was bad enough, but now it has become well nigh intolerable.

At the same time our ambassadors have urged their claims with great moderation. It is well known to them all that the administration concurs fully in their view of the matter, but Secretary Gresham made a personal plea to Mr. Bayard to use his influence with his colleagues in Europe to remain patient until the time when their situation can be made known to Congress. This Mr. Bayard has already done, for on his arrival in London he sent letters, which he had previously written in this country and shown to his official superior, in which the hope of amendment of their situation was held out.

At the present time Mr. Gresham has received communications from the ambassadors setting forth that their positions are absolutely untenable. At their conference, the American diplomats agreed upon a representation to the State Department that, in their opinion, it would be advisable in the interests of our national dignity to reduce at once the grade of our foreign establishments to its former level. This would save each diplomat $10,000 a year, since a minister is saved coach expenses and the cost of entertaining other ambassadors. Unfortunately, however, such a proceeding would leave the ambassadors from the five foreign powers in Washington in a very undignified position. Their governments would undoubtedly recall them and the entente cordiale would be jeopardized.

PERIER IS OUT.

The President of France Suddenly Resigns His High Office.

M. Casimir-Perier, President of the French Republic, has resigned his office. Prime Minister Dupuy imparted President Casimir-Perier's decision to the Presidents of the Senate and Chamber of Deputies, who will forthwith call urgency sittings of those bodies. When the facts became known consternation, amounting almost to stupor, seized everyone. There had been ominous hints in the press in the recent days that M. Casimir-Perier was growing tired of his position, yet nobody paid any attention to them. The high character, experience, firmness, and integrity of the President inspired the confidence of even the advanced Republicans.

The long conference which M. Casimir-Perier had with M. Challemet-Lacour, President of the Senate, is now explained. He had already resolved to resign. M. Challemet-Lacour employed his utmost eloquence in a vain endeavor to persuade the President to reconsider his decision and quitted the palace of the Elysee under a sense of deep distress. All the members of the cabinet, from Prime Minister Dupuy down, followed Challemet-Lacour and exhausted every argument to induce Casimir-Perier not to resign. Their efforts were without success. Dupuy again visited the palace of the Elysee later in the evening and was closeted with the President for forty-five minutes urging every possible inducement and appealing to every patriotic sentiment in order to get him to reconsider his determination. All was without avail. After interviews of the prefect of the Seine and the prefect of police with M. Casimir-Perier, they received from Dupuy instructions to be followed during the crisis. The report of the resignation of the President became generally known at 11 o'clock, but was universally discredited, and a general movement was made toward the newspaper offices with a view to learning the truth. Soon the papers exhibited lantern transparencies of the official note. Even then many persons refused to believe that the event was positive. Finally they became convinced that the President had really retired and assembled in groups, discussing the chances of those who would be named to succeed him.

M. CASIMIR-PERIER.

AGAINST JUDGE RICKS.

Committee Votes to Impeach—May Be Tried Before the Senate.

Washington dispatch: Congress was given a decided surprise Tuesday by the House Committee on the Judiciary, which decided by a vote of 7 to 6 to report a resolution for the impeachment of Judge Augustus J. Ricks of Cleveland for malfeasance in office. Not for many years has a United States Judge been called before the bar of the Senate to defend his right to wear the ermine of office against criminal charges, and only three or four times in the history of the government has an impeachment trial of a member of the Federal judiciary been conducted. Few members had looked into the charges preferred by the Central Labor Union of Cleveland, the accuser of Judge Ricks, that while sitting on the bench he paid to himself fees which he claimed he had previously earned as clerk of the court, and to which it is now asserted he was not entitled. The number of years which have elapsed since the transaction and the contention of the Judge's friends that the proceedings were inspired by a ruling prejudicial to the interests of labor unions which he made recently, tended to lessen the interest which ordinarily would have been taken in the case.

Now that the Judiciary Committee has deemed the matter of sufficient gravity to warrant impeachment, it has become suddenly a decided sensation. The friends of Judge Ricks declare that there are large possibilities that the impeachment may not be undertaken.

A PEACE AMBASSADOR.

Chang-Yen-Huan Recently Granted Plenipotentiary Powers.

The indications are that there will be an early settlement of the difficulties between China and Japan. Accompanying this sketch is a portrait of Chang-Yen-Huan, whom the Emperor of China has granted plenipotentiary powers. He will attempt to make peace with Japan. Chang-Yen-Huan is Vice President of the Tsung-li-Yamen. As he was once minister at Washington he is well known there. He came as Chinese Minister in 1886 and resided in Washington for four years. The Japanese Government expressed its readiness to receive Chang-Yen-Huan as peace ambassador, and the war is believed to be practically at an end.

CHANG-YEN-HUAN.

Hundreds of prospectors are swarming into the Wichita mountains in the Kiowa and Comanche Indian Reservation, caused by the discovery of rich deposits of gold and silver. Troops have been ordered from Fort Reno to eject them and serious trouble is looked for.

SINKS IN THE OHIO.

New Orleans Packet State of Missouri Goes Down.

BOAT STRIKES A ROCK

Thirty of the Passengers and Crew Are Drowned.

Panic-Stricken People Trample Each Other to Death in Their Frantic Efforts to Escape—One of the Yawls Overcrowded and Sunk.

Die in Sight of Shore.

The great Cincinnati and New Orleans steamer State of Missouri went to the bottom of the Ohio River at Wolf Creek, seventy miles below Louisville, Ky., at 6 o'clock Saturday night and it is reported that thirty people met death. The steamboat was one of the largest steamers belonging to the Cincinnati and Memphis Packet Company, and was a new boat worth $60,000. She left Louisville, Ky., at 10 o'clock Saturday morning, bound for New Orleans, with twenty-three passengers and a crew, making seventy-eight people. She had about half a cargo of furniture, nails, acids, etc., and ran smoothly until her dreadful accident that sent many souls to eternity.

The trip was uneventful until the dreaded point known as the horseshoe bend, near Alton, Ind., was reached. Here the pilot slowed down, as the current was very swift, and turned his wheel so as to avoid an obstruction known as Bullock rock. The rudders failed to respond to the wheel and there was a grinding, crashing sound. The boat soon filled and sunk.

The shock was terrific and the boat trembled from bow to stern. Consternation seized upon the passengers and in a moment they were frantic. Without regard to consequences they rushed to the upper decks in the hope of delaying the inevitable, as the boat was rapidly sinking. Women and children were trampled upon, but it is believed all got out of the cabin. Then the scramble for seats in the yawls began. It was a fight for life, in which many combatants are believed to have gone to their death. The first yawl launched was sunk within twenty feet of where it struck the water. It is believed everyone in it was drowned in sight of the affrighted people huddled together on the sinking steamer. A second yawl was then pushed off. It contained four women. This is believed to have reached shore.

Just when there seemed some hope that by means of this yawl the passengers could be saved, the steamer gave another terrific lurch and literally broke into pieces, and in ten minutes from the moment the rock was struck nothing but the hull remained. The cabin, texas and pilot-house floated away, dragging down into the water everyone upon it. The lighter freight was washed from the main deck, and on this men, women and children clung as best they could, many, however, only to fall back into death's icy embrace. Several succeeded by this means in getting into the willows and trees and were rescued by farmers and passing steamers.

In less than ten minutes from the time the boat struck she had gone down. At Rockport and Owensboro, as well as at all intermediate points, the bank is lined with skiffs picking up pieces of furniture and watching for dead bodies, but the current is too swift for small craft to get out far. Four passengers were saved by clinging to a mule which swam ashore. The passengers were all ticketed through to New Orleans.

The State of Missouri was built at Madison, Ind., in 1890, by the Kansas City syndicate, for the Missouri River trade, at a cost of $40,000. She was one of a trio of fine steamers built by the same company—the State of Kansas and the A. L. Mason being the others. She was 250 feet long, with a forty-four foot beam and six foot hold. She was never launched on the Missouri, but placed on the Ohio and Mississippi, plying between Cincinnati and New Orleans, with occasional trips to St. Louis.

GOOD NEWS FOR GOOD ROADS.

Highway Improvement Promises to Have a Boom.

Gen. Roy Stone, chief of the Good Roads Bureau of the Agricultural Department, is now visiting one State Legislature after another as he finds them in session and urging upon them prompt and intelligent action in some way for the beginning of the great work, and as a consequence the department is giving out the cheering information that the prospects are good for a lively agitation this year of the question of the improvement of the highways in all parts of the country.

The bureau already has a list of about thirty Legislatures in which bills for this purpose have been or will be introduced, the trend of intention in most cases being in the direction of the appointment of State commissions and conferring on the counties the power to issue bonds and levy a money tax in place of the primitive system of allowing farmers to "work out" their road tax when and how they pleased.

Many of the bills introduced also contain provisions either compulsory or suggestive in regard to the use of wagons with broad tires, but, as it is thought that a compulsory law would be offensive to many farmers, those who have made a study of this phase of the matter favor a certain discount of the tax for every person who puts into use the broad tire.

Some time since consuls in various parts of Europe and in the United Kingdom were requested to transmit to the Government a description of the systems in vogue abroad, which have resulted in such excellent highways, and the result was an elaborate series of papers which must prove invaluable to the people of this country, in view of their healthy awakening to the importance of the subject. These consular reports have been collected by the department and published in one volume, which is being extensively distributed among members of the Legislatures of all the States and to the newspapers of the country.

Genius and Madness.

Jurieu, the biblical student, became crazy from studying the apocalypse. He fancied that the ten-horned beast was inside of him.

Lamartine was of an exceedingly gloomy temperament, and during his spells of dejection nothing could in the least raise his spirits.

Cowper's madness is well known. Once he tried to hang himself, and at another time endeavored to commit suicide by drowning himself.

Both Charles and Mary Lamb were dwellers in the borderland of madness. The latter was frequently placed in an asylum, the former but once.

Masaniella became crazed by the success of the revolution of 1647 in Naples. He gave many symptoms of insanity before he was assassinated.

WAR ON IN HAWAII.

ROYALISTS START A REVOLUTION AND BLOOD IS SHED.

At Least Twelve Natives Killed and Several Hundred Revolutionists Under Arrest—Carter, One of the Annexation Commissioners, Killed.

Lil's Side Is Loser.

The steamer Alameda which arrived in San Francisco from Auckland and Sydney via Honolulu Friday afternoon brought news of a revolution and bloodshed at Honolulu. Charles L. Carter, who was one of the annexation commissioners, was killed and other government supporters were wounded. There has been much fighting, and at least twelve natives have been killed. Nearly two hundred revolutionists are under arrest. Robert Wilcox is the leader of the rebels. The fighting was still in progress when the Alameda left Honolulu Jan 11, but the government forces had practically overcome the revolutionists. The following Honolulu correspondence has been received:

There were no fresh developments in the threatened uprising until last Sunday, the 6th inst., when the marshal's detectives brought in news for that officer immediately to summon the cabinet and leading officers of the military and citizens' guard for consultation. In a few minutes after their arrival Deputy Marshal Brown and a squad of police under Captain Parker left for the beach at Waikiki with orders to search the premises of Henry Bertlemann, a prominent royalist, for arms and ammunition. Just previous to reaching the place the posse was joined by Charles L. Carter, Alfred Carter, and J. B. Castle, who lived near by, all members of the Citizens' guard.

On approaching the house the deputy marshal left the squad on the lawn while he entered the house and, finding Bertlemann and a strange white man there, proceeded to read his warrant. When half way through shots were heard from the rear of the house. The officers asked quickly: "What does that mean?"

Bertlemann replied: "I know nothing about it; there are no arms here."

Brown rushed out to join the squad just as Charles Carter shouted: "There they are under the boat shed," pointing to a shed in the rear of the lot and rushing forward, followed by his cousin, Castle, and the others.

Fired On by Natives.

At that instant a volley was fired by a crowd of natives under the shed and Charles Carter and Lieutenant Holi fell wounded. The police charged and drove the natives out on the beach, when the latter retreated to the brush, keeping up a desultory firing. As the police only numbered eight, and there were three or four times as many natives, they returned to the house, taking with them three of the rebels whom they had captured in the melee, during which some sixty shots were fired. Caring for the wounded men as well as possible, they searched the prisoners, placing Bertlemann under arrest. The first one was recognized as John Lane. He had a heavy revolver, a belt of cartridges and a rifle. The second had a pocket pistol and a belt of cartridges. The other was unarmed, but a short rifle was found behind the door, which evidently belonged to him, as Holi says he was the man who shot him. There is no doubt that Carter's three wounds came from Lane's pistol, it having three empty chambers.

Citizens Under Arms.

As soon as it was known in Honolulu on Sunday afternoon that there was organized resistance to the government no time was lost in communicating the fact to its supporters both by telephone and messenger. No general alarm was given, it not being deemed necessary. In response four companies of militia donned their uniforms and repaired to their armories, the members of the Citizens' guard reported at their respective rendezvous, and yet so quickly was everything done that many in the city were unaware that anything unusual had happened.

The news of the death of Carter, who was a popular young lawyer and was recently elected a member of the legislature, intensified the general feeling and the assassins would have been lynched had they not been strongly guarded.

All Arms Seized by the Government.

By noon Monday all the stores were closed and there were few persons on the streets. The street cars and busses were stopped, and the only excitement was at the marshal's office, where arms were being distributed. The announcement that the writ of habeas corpus was suspended was quickly followed by one requiring all persons not engaged in the military or police forces to deliver all arms or ammunition in their possession to the marshal within twenty-four hours. After conferring by telephone with Capt. Murray at noon on Monday Capt. Ziegler and a company of regulars were dispatched to his aid, taking with them one Austrian fieldpiece. The ten-pound shells from this gun scattered the natives in every direction, but did not seem to hurt any of them. At 2 o'clock the troops advanced and forced the rebels into the brush. Lieut. Ludwig and ten men were then detailed for a flank movement. As soon as Ludwig got into position the natives were beaten and scattered into the dense brush, followed by the troops.

It is certain that many were wounded, as blood, shreds of clothing, etc., were seen everywhere. The only man wounded on the government side was Ludwig, who received a flesh wound in the thigh. Then the first prisoners were taken, seven in number, and from them it was learned that the leaders of the rebels were Sam Nowlin, former colonel of the Queen's household guard, and Robert Wilcox, who was the leader of the revolution in 1887. The prisoners claimed they had 600 rifles, but only 500 men were arrested.

NEWS RECEIVED IN WASHINGTON

Creates Great Surprise in Diplomatic Circles—Was Unexpected.

The news of the insurrection was a great surprise in diplomatic circles at Washington. Neither the Hawaiian minister nor any members of the foreign relations committees of the Senate and House had any expectation of such an occurrence. The general impression seems to be that no revolution can be serious in its results unless aided and abetted by some foreign power. The forces at the command of the government are said to be ample to suppress any possible native rising or uprising of disorderly foreign elements.

Speaking of the matter Minister Thurston said: "The whole matter is a great surprise to me. Our last advices showed everything to be entirely peaceable. There were no warships of any nation at Honolulu, the Champion having left some time before."

Secretary Herbert said: "We have

CHAPTER XI—Continued.

The third "stony-hearted" publisher had taken a good deal of trouble over the rejected MS. He had read it carefully, and inclosed the "reader's" opinion, a shrewd, kindly, and, if severe, no unjust analysis of the whole; holding out a hope that after long years of study the author might succeed in finding a public, not for that but for something else of a different sort.

"Very kind of him," said Roderick, passively; "and in the meantime we may starve."

"Not quite that, dear," said Silence, gently. "You know we have enough for ourselves, if we live wholly to ourselves. Remember that Mrs. Grierson was saying the other day that the greatest evil of poverty was because people will not spend their money upon their own family and its needs, but in making a show before the eyes of the world. Now, this might be necessary at Richerden, but here, where we live so quietly——"

"Quietly, quietly! Blackhall will soon drive me mad with its quietness! To vegetate here upon a pound or two a week, so long as there was the remotest chance of working my way to something better! I can't do it; no man could."

"And no woman who really loved her husband would let him do it."

"Thank you, my darling. I thought you would say so. Even though you are a woman, you can understand. You will not be a coward? You will buckle on my breastplate, and let me plunge into the fight? Then, like our friend Macbeth——

"'At least I'll die with harness on my back.'"

She laughed—they both laughed. Ay, even through all their distress. There was in them that wonderful, ever-renewed spring of hope, which in pure natures is long before it runs dry.

"So that is settled. I will see Mr. Black to-morrow about the possibility of letting Blackhall, and then, if we can let it, we will go to London at once."

Silence made no reply. Her drooped face turned white—then scarlet—then white once more.

"Come, wise little woman, what is the matter with you? You have given your consent, now give your opinion. Where shall we go, and when?"

"I think, if you will let it be so, I should like us to stay quietly here until the spring."

"Why? What possible reason——"

Silence put both her arms around her husband's neck, and looked at him, right into his eyes, a strangely solemn, tender, absolutely speechless look.

Then he knew.

CHAPTER XII.

The very day after their return to Blackhall, Roderick, with a cheerful countenance, put his luckless MS. on the topmost shelf of the old oaken press in the dining-room, where nobody could get at it by anything short of a most resolute will and a step-ladder.

"Lie there, my magnum opus! till I have gathered sufficient opes to publish you at my own expense, and distribute a copy each to all my friends, who then will have become so numerous that I shall clear off thereby at least the first edition. For the rest," seeing, though his wife tried to smile, her eyes were brimming, "never mind, love, even if your husband was not born to be a writer—at any rate, a novel writer—I may come out in another line, as a moral essayist, perhaps; or, who knows! having, they say, a little of my grandfather in me, I may drop, or rise, into a capital man of business after all."

"What do you mean?" she asked, timidly.

"Something of what I have been thinking all night, and am going to speak to Black about this morning," said Roderick, taking down his hat. "Never let grass grow under your feet when you have made up your mind to a thing. I may not have much 'mind'—according to our friends, the publishers—but I have got a will of my own; and I am determined to be a rich man yet. At least, rich enough to keep Blackhall from dropping into ruins. Not this century, please God, shall any enterprising author write an improving work on 'The Last of the Jardines'."

Gayly as he spoke, there was a deep earnest beneath the jest—the earnestness of a man who has courage enough to take his fate in his hands, and however heavily weighted, prepare to run the race of lift without complaining. True, the race is not always to the swift, nor the battle to the strong—many a one, without fault of his own, flags, staggers, drops, and dies; still, that man is not half a man who, with youth and health on his side, shrinks at the outset from either disappointed ambition or fear of poverty, or any other of those nameless terrors which come with later life. Especially when he has not to fight single-handed, or for himself alone.

There is a creed abroad that a young man is better alone, free from all incumbrance of wife or children; but in the old times it was not so. Then, children were esteemed "an heritage and gift that cometh from the Lord;"—now, selfish luxury, worldliness, and the love of outward show have brought our young men—ay, and some women, too—to such a pass that they feel, nay, openly declare, every child born to them is a new enemy; and marriage, instead of being "honorable" to all, is a folly, a derision, or a dread.

Why is this? And is it the men's fault or the women's? Both, perhaps; yet, I think, chiefly the women's. Feeble, useless, half-educated; taught to believe that ignorance is amusing, and helplessness attractive; no wonder the other sex shrinks from taking upon itself not a help but a burden—charming enough before marriage, but after? The very man who at first exulted in his beautiful ornamental wife, will, by and by, be the first to turn round and scorn her.

No man could ever scorn Silence Jardine. In spite of her sacred feebleness, she resumed at once the business of life—harder than anybody knows who has not tried the experiment of making six-pence do the work of a shilling. And she did it cheerfully, and without any outward sign. Brain never idle; feet never still, or, if compelled to stillness, hands always busy at something or another; full of endless care and thought for others, most of all for Roderick, who never thought of himself or his own pleasures at all; even in her room, or on her sofa, Mrs. Jardine managed to be the very soul of the house, planning everything, arranging everything, and, it often seemed, doing everything.

It was a solitary life she led, for her husband took to going down to the mill every day, and all day long; it "amused" him, he said, and indeed he always came home looking so busy and cheerful that she was glad of the change for him. But it was a life of perfect ease. And then, it was full of day-dreams.

"Are you not dull sometimes?" said Roderick one day, when he came in a little earlier than usual, and found her sitting sewing by the fading October light, but with such a placid smile on her lips, such bliss in her eyes.

"Dull? How could I be? I was only thinking."

"I have been thinkink, too; only I would not tell you till I was quite sure of myself," said he, as he sat down beside her. "Silence, I do really believe your husband is not such a goose as he seems. Black says so; and Black, though an oddity, is by no means a bad fellow."

Silence smiled. She had oftentimes battled against her husband's dislike to the honest man, whose roughness "rubbed him up the wrong way," as he said, even worse than Mrs. Maclagan. Now under the rough rind he had discovered the pleasant kernel. Things had evidently righted themselves.

"He objected strongly to me at first because I was a gentleman, which was as great a delusion in his way as my setting him down a boor because he wore a rough coat, and had manners to match. Now, we both understand one another better. I have been working with him at the mill for fourteen days, and what do you think is the result?"

He spoke with a buoyancy of tone and manner such as Silence had not seen in him for weeks.

"Something is going to happen—that is, if my wife does not object, which, being a very sensible woman, I don't think she will. I am actually going to earn my daily bread."

She turned round—her lips quivering.

"Now, don't begin to cry about it, Mrs. Jardine, my dear; it isn't breaking stones upon the road, or anything very dreadful; and the bread I shall earn will not be too luxurious—only two pounds a week—one hundred pounds a year, which is my precise value just at present. Flattering?—but it is something. I am rather proud of my position as bread-winner—I, that never earned a half-penny in all my days."

He spoke a little fast, and with a flushed cheek. She put her hand upon his and held it, with a soft, firm hold.

"Tell me all."

"There is not much to tell. You know how fond I always was of machinery—indeed, once I begged to be made an engineer, but my—they at home (he never named his mother now) thought the profession was not 'genteel' enough, and it is too late now, Black says. But he also says, as a mill-owner I might find my turn for mechanics extremely useful. I could watch, examine, perhaps even invent; indeed, during these two weeks I have made a suggestion or two which he is pleased to consider 'admirable.' 'Mr. Jardine,' he said to me this morning, 'if you were but a capitalist and could start a mill, or a workingman, who required to earn your bread as overseer or foreman—you'd do.' And I startled him by telling him I was a workingman, and I did require to earn my bread; and if he thought I deserved foreman's wages, I would take them gratefully, and— Why Silence, my darling! Not crying?"

But she was, though she dried her tears at once. "Oh, Roderick! and this is done for me!"

"For you and—it," he whispered, and then there was a long pause of speechless peace.

"I don't wish to make myself out a martyr, not the least in the world," said Roderick at last. "I like my work—I like all work, indeed, but this especially. And Black is by no means a bad fellow to work with when you only know him. There is that great difference in our ages which prevents jarring—and then, he has such a veneration for the family."

"Yes, that is it. But there, too, lies the difficulty. To be foreman at a cotton-mill. You, a gentleman and a Jardine! Have you considered?"

"It is because I am a gentleman and a Jardine that I do not need to consider," he answered, with that slight air of hauteur which, whether it was right or wrong, his wife loved, could not help loving, for it was a bit of himself. "No, dear; in my worst, that is, my idlest days, I never was so foolish as to think there was any disgrace in work, any dignity in idleness; and now, when I have to earn my bread by the sweat of my brow, like old Adam and all the rest, down to poor Grandfather Paterson, I'll do it, and not be ashamed of it, either."

"Nor I. Nothing that my husband did could make me ashamed of him, except his doing something wrong. But now—"

She stopped, her voice choking; and again, weak-minded little woman that she was, she cried—they both cried. Then they gathered up their courage for the new life which began the next Monday morning.

It might have been—possibly any person more worldly wise than these young folks would have said it was—that this two pounds a week, so important to them, came out of the softest bit in old Black's heart, rather than his full and usually tightly shut purse; seeing it would be some months before an ignorant "gentleman," however capable, could be equal in value to an experienced workingman, even as foreman at a mill. But they did not know this, and without another word both cheerfully accepted the new life which was to begin the next Monday morning.

The hardest bit of it was the long hours—the separation from the dusk of the morning till after nightfall. Sometimes Roderick came in so tired that, instead of talking, he would just throw himself down—not on the sofa, that he always left for her, but on the rug at her feet—and fall asleep till bedtime, while she, anxious to use her busy fingers to the last available minute, sewed silently, watching him the while. If he had seen that watch! Does a man ever thoroughly comprehend how a woman loves him?

But, the working days done, there were the blessed Sundays, he never knew how blessed, he said, till he became a "working-man." Church over, his wife sent him to take a long stroll over the hills, while she gathered round her for an hour the little class of mill girls, taught for so many years by Miss Jardine. Roderick sometimes grumbled at this, but she said, gently, "We each do our work. I think this is mine; let me do it." And by the time he came to tea it was done, and the jealous fellow had his wife to himself for the whole evening.

Those sweet Sunday evenings, when "the rain was on the roof"—for winter set in early that year—how comfortable they were! The two, shut in together, had to learn the great secret, and go through the hardest test of married life—even such young married life as theirs—constant companionship; not love, not passion, scarcely even affection—for all these can sometimes exist without it, at least for a long time—but simple companionship, that priceless friendship which is "love without his wings."

"Suppose you had been a goose, Silence," he said one day. "Suppose you had expected me to be always making love to you, instead of talking to you like a sensible woman; suppose you had not cared for the things I care for, but wanted something totally different—say dressing and dancing and going out of evenings—what in the world would have become of me?"

She laughed merrily. "And suppose you had been a man of the world, who liked good dinners and brilliant society, and was ashamed of his poor little wife because she was not clever——"

"Nonsense!"

"Not clever," she repeated, with a sweet decision, "after the fashion that is called clever; nor beautiful, nor grand; had brought him no money and given him no position—I don't speak often of this, but I know it all. Suppose, Roderick, you had been different from what you are; I wonder what would have become of me! No, no!" And her gayety melted into an almost sad seriousness. "Whatever the future brings we have the present. Let us rejoice in it, and—let us thank God."

In his old life Roderick had seldom thought of this. Now, when every night he saw his wife kneel down by her bedside, he had come instinctively to kneel beside her, "saying his prayers," as the children do; or, rather, since with her always near him there seemed nothing left to pray for, just whispering in his heart, "Thank God!" As he did now—ay, and many a time in the day, in the midst of his work, which was not too pleasant sometimes. But it grew pleasant and easy when there flashed across him the vision of the sweet face at home—no longer the ideal mistress of his dreams, but the dear wife of his bosom, always at hand to lighten his burdens and divide his cares.

(To be continued.)

The Kissing of Stones.

Around the center of Jerusalem where the religious growths of centuries gather like crystals around a rod, a half-sedentary, half-floating population is to be found, whose chief object is the pursuit of piety and the veneration of the traces of Jesus, the Nazarene. Here is a world within a world—a Christian picture in a Moslem frame. In this city, where the religion of Mohammed, thirteen centuries ago, overcame that of Christ, and where, at present, its followers prevent the rival Christians from fighting for the possession of the venerated spots, we have a little area of ground which has been arranged by the sects of Christianity to suit the brief descriptions of the Testament, but in which no single place exists that can be proved to have been the scene of the events ascribed to it.

All things which are offered for veneration are venerated in this place of faith, where both native and European Christians become seized with what I am constrained to term a lithophilematic mania, since they are seen to be constantly engaged in kissing enshrined stones of the most doubtful authenticity.—The Fortnightly Review.

Plan for Improving Steamers.

If the owners of the Campania pulled out all her boilers and for every five pulled out put back two new boilers same diameter, same length, same heating surface—in fact, each new boiler an exact fac simile of the old one, except that the iron must be three times as heavy, so as to fit it for raising 500 pounds of steam instead of 180 pounds of steam, and if they alter the first and possibly the second cylinders of their engines (leave the last cylinders alone; they are the true measures of the steam consumed) so as to fit them for working 500 pounds of steam and expanding it down to the same pressure as at present, then I say they will save three-fifths of their present boiler room, they may dismiss three stokers out of five, retaining only two, and they may reduce their quantity of coal and space for coal to about two-fifths of the present quantity—say from 3,000 tons (if that is the quantity) down to 1,200 tons, and they will still drive the Campania at her present speed—25 miles an hour. But the saving of coal will be on the coal used for the actual propelling of the ship.—Industries and Iron.

Sympathetic Butter.

It is the way of poets—poets and children—to attribute their own feelings to natural objects. For them the wind sighs, the brooks laugh, and the landscape smiles or frowns.

"Mister Green," said a venerable negro, entering the store of the village grocer and provision dealer one morning, "here's some butter my missus made, an' I done toted it in to see if yo'd hab de opp'tunity to sell it, sah."

"Good butter, is it?" said the storekeeper, as he took the package.

"Yas, sah, prime butter," responded the old darky; "on'y I's feared it mought 'a' melted jess a bit on de way."

"Oh, I guess not," said the grocer; "this is a pretty cool morning."

"Yas, sah," said the darky, wiping his face with his big handkerchief, "dis am a mighty pleasant, cool mawnin'; but yo' see, I toted it down here pooty fast."

Tennyson and Wellington.

In Tennyson's ode on the death of the Duke of Wellington are the lines:

"Not once or twice in our fair island-story,
The path of duty was the way to glory."

The lines, thrice repeated, with slight variations, are a paraphrase of a remark of the Iron Duke which had deeply impressed the poet.

Some one told Wellington that the word "glory" never occurred in his dispatches.

"If glory had been my object," he answered, "the doing my duty must have been the means."

Selfish Tommy.

Compliments and kind wishes should be swallowed at once, and no questions asked.

A little Chicago boy, according to the Record, had greeted his grandfather with a very politely expressed birthday greeting. The old gentleman thanked him, but being of a facetious turn, felt bound to ask a question.

"And why do you hope that I may have many happy returns of the day?" he inquired.

"'Cause you always give me something," answered the innocent Tommy.

Americans who have traveled in Tyrol and Switzerland will remember native women in trousers mowing grass from the edges of steep descents and along the edges of precipices while dangling on the end of a line which is attached to a long pole in the hands of their co-laborers above. These women don trousers because it would be impossible for them to pursue their work in skirts, which might catch on trees or rocks and thus endanger their lives.

Their example has been followed by the maids of the great Elbing dairies in West Prussia. This establishment is the largest in that country and employs nearly 300 milkers, all of whom are females. For years the management has been experimenting with different kinds of costumes for the women, trying to design one that was warm, useful and becoming at the same time.

The skirts, were they long or short, full or narrow, always proved a hindrance to the work, and often a dangerous adornment, too, for once in a while it happened that an enraged cow would take offense at the frock or else step on it and upset the milk pail and the milker at the same time. Finally the management adopted the dairy-maid costume, as represented in the accompanying picture. Its design, it will be observed, is after those of the "advanced" bicycle and fencing costumes for women.

The costume is of blue and white striped linen for summer wear and of flannel in similar colors for winter. The girls wear no corsets, and the modern hygienic principle of combining warmth with the smallest possible weight in woman's dress is well exemplified.

MILKMAIDS IN THEIR NEW COSTUME.

woman, the shrinking, shy creature left in the background by her bolder sisters, we constantly see brought to the front by the man who has won her love. And men prefer to any such coquettish invitation as that extended by Mrs. Bond of the nursery rhyme to her ducks when decoying them to come and be killed, the uncertainty hanging around a being to whom they have to sue.

Every man's ideal of a wife—I mean the normal, honest citizen of our republic, who looks forward to making of himself and his line stones to support its bulwark—is a girl who may be pretty, who might be brilliant, but who must be good. He also recognizes instinctively that her grace should not be too costly to wear every day. That she shall be cheerful of temper, inclined to take short views of human infirmity, and sound of health, he is apt gravely to consider, within himself, as essential. If all those who, before marrying, omitted to think about these things had done so, it is possible we should hear less to-day of the incompatibility of man and woman.

Look Out, Girls.

An important decision has just been pronounced in Vermont as to engagement rings. A young man sued to recover one that he had given to a young woman who, after accepting the ring, repudiated the engagement. The judge decided that it must be returned or else that the recipient must fulfill the conditions under which it was presented. The English courts some years ago decided that an engagement ring is not recoverable under any circumstances.

A New Church Tea.

Church entertainments in which children take part are always attractive, and a Colonial tea given by little people is one of the most delightful suggestions that can be offered as an idea for a church festival, writes Mrs. A. G. Lewis in the Ladies' Home Journal.

Children from five to ten years of age should be chosen, and their costumes ought to be suited both to the Colonial period and to the characters assumed. The costumes should be true in every detail to the period represented. If it is not possible or practicable to hire costumes, they may be all, even to the wigs, designed and made without the aid of a costumer. Patterns for each garment required may be ordered by mail from any one of the pattern stores. The special feature of the entertainment is the supper or "tea."

When Women Vote.

When women vote the air will ring
With arguments on everything—
They'll rack their proud, progressive souls
To plunge us into mental holes,
And spank their babies at the polls,
When women vote.

When women vote, each man will find
A duplicate in womankind—
Their weaker sisters they will "bluff,"
And with hairpins and power puff
The ballot boxes they will stuff,
When women vote.

When women vote, this life will seem
One large nightmarish, fearful dream—
Our modest wives will all grow rash,
Their politics with ours will clash,
And God knows who will cook our hash,
When women vote.

When women vote, we men will be
But specters of humanity;
Like ghosts we'll flit from place to place,
A hungry, thirsty, desperate race—
For we'll have nothing left but space
When women vote.

—New York World.

French Toilet Jacket.

Make a Pair of Leggings.

A little time and ingenuity will enable one to cut a pair of leggings. Take a stocking the right size and cut a pattern by it of old muslin. Baste and fit this to the leg, allowing enough for good seams. When a desirable fit is secured cut a pattern by it and save it for future use.

The legging is composed of three pieces, one reaching from the middle of the leg in front to the middle in the back. The second extends from the middle of the back to the side, where it buttons, and the third is the lap, extending from the middle of the front to the side. The best parts of old trousers or coats may be used for leggings if one does not wish to purchase new goods. The pieces left from cloaks and overcoats are also useful and make harmonious suits. If the cloth is not very thick, it is well to line them with cotton flannel or other warm material. There should be a strip of linen or drilling laid under the place both for buttons and buttonholes, as the frequent buttoning would otherwise soon tear them out.

Cooking Cereals.

Water alone can be used for cooking any of the cereals, but most of them are richer and finer flavored when the liquid used is milk and water, mixed in about equal proportions. Especially is this the case with barley, rice, hominy and farina. The quantity of salt that should be used in cooking cereals is largely a matter of individual taste, as some people like considerable, and others very little salt in their food. A safe, general rule, however, to follow is to add half a teaspoonful of salt to each pint of liquid.

All cereals can be cooked very perfectly in an ordinary agate ware or porcelain-lined stew pan, if carefully watched and stirred; but, as much stirring renders cereals starchy, and robs them of a good deal of their finest flavors, a double boiler, frequently called a farina boiler, is much the best and most convenient utensil for cooking mushes and grains of every kind. To cook cereals in a double boiler: Fill the outside boiler two-thirds full of boiling water, put the necessary quantity of liquid in the inside kettle, add the requisite amount of salt, and, when it boils, sprinkle in the grain or meal, stirring slowly until it swells or thickens enough to keep it from settling to the bottom of the kettle. Then cease stirring and let it boil slowly until thoroughly cooked. All mushes thicken in cooling, and in preparing cereals to be eaten cold, the proportion of liquid should be increased at least one-third.—Good Housekeeping.

Girls Who Attract Men.

The girls who attract the best men are almost always a source of surprise to their feminine friends, who are often lost in wonder as to why so many more patent charms should have been passed over in such selections, writes Mrs. Burton Harrison in the Ladies' Home Journal. It is the little mouse of a Baby Diet.

When a baby is six or seven months old the milk should be thickened with barley water, and a year-old baby should eat bread and butter, farina, hominy, etc., made into porridge, lightly boiled eggs, and have milk to drink. This affords a variety, and one or two articles can be given at each meal. It is a great mistake to allow a baby of a year to eat meat or vegetables.

Miss Florida Cunningham, a member of the World's Fair Board of Lady Managers from South Carolina, in a late address declared the serfs of Russia and the negroes of the South were free, but woman alone remained in civil bondage. The women do not aspire so much to sit in legislative halls as they do to vote for clean men to hold the offices.

To purify a cistern tie charcoal in a bag and drop it in.

ODDITIES OF AN ARMY.

Regiment of Giants, Another Blondes and a Third of Turn-Up Noses.

The Russian army is full of strange features. Thus the biggest fellows are detailed for duty in the bodyguard regiment, "Preobrashenski," founded by Peter the Great, and originally composed of that monarch's personal friends, all giants in their way. The Czar's family take great pride in this regiment, and on the named day of its patron saint attend the festivities in a body, usually re-enforced by foreign ambassadors and ministers. Then there is the Ismailkowski regiment, where only blondes are tolerated, and the well-known Pawlow Guards, all of whom must have turn-up noses. The regulations of the Guard Chasseurs, on the other hand, admit only dark-haired men. The guard officers, being privileged by birth as well as rank in their chosen profesions, treat their colleagues in the line almost as badly as the latter treat their subalterns. Up to a few years ago, says the Pittsburg Dispatch, the distinction between them was such that a guard lieutenant had precedence over the captain of the line. The late Czar's father changed the state of things somewhat, but not much. A major of the guards would, even today, rank higher than a line colonel, if there were such a person. But the advancement of the regular army officer seldom surpasses the rank of battalion chief. Men having attained that distinction are generally made "commanders" of small precincts, while disgraced guard officers or general staff officers obtain the colonelship or lieutenant colonelship of the regiment to which they devoted their lives.

Only very rarely does a line officer succeed in obtaining a commission in the war academy, and eventually in the general staff. It should be mentioned, however, that the majority are unfitted for such advancement. The requirements of the officer's examination in the line are considerably less stringent than those upon which the admission to the guard's officers' corps are based; the aspirant's social standing is not at all considered, and, to complete the wretchedness of the line officer, his pay is ridiculously small and inadequate, especially that of the infantry officer, the lieutenant receiving not more than $200 per year, all told. The captain has a little over $300, the major $450. The most abject poverty prevails among them, and only a few of the younger officers own more than one uniform, which must do service both on and off parade. The infantry private of the line receives in money 15s per year, including the Czar's and others' presents.

MRS. GRANT'S HOME.

Where the Widow of the Dead General Will Pass Her Remaining Days.

A San Diego, Cal., correspondent writes that Mrs. Gen. Grant's family evidently propose to make their permanent home in that city. U. S. Grant, Jr., bought a handsome home there last winter, in which his mother and family live, save when Mrs. Grant takes excursions eastward and elsewhere. This mansion is one of the finest houses in town. It stands on a hill overlooking the city and bay of San Diego.

A second Grant house is nearly completed. It is the property of Jesse Grant, to whom San Diego is a delightful home, summer and winter. The new house occupies a quarter of a block on the western edge of the 1,400-acre park. The accompanying picture shows the front of the house. It is colonial in design, unpretentious, and built for comfort rather than display. From its windows can be seen the snow capped Cuyamaca mountains, sixty miles away, which protect San Diego from the hot winds of the desert. Mountain peaks forty miles away, in Mexico, are visible from the porch of the new house. Mrs. Grant will live in this house when in San Diego.

WHERE MRS. GRANT WILL LIVE.

IT WAS A SNAP SHOT.

A Michigan Photographer Does Something Unusual.

Richard Rea, a photographer of Menominee, Mich., recently succeeded in catching a photograph of a bolt of lightning as it struck a telegraph wire, and his picture was reproduced in the Electrical Review.

The picture was taken about 9 o'clock p. m. The bolt struck the neutral wire on a low tension three-wire system. The only damage was the blowing out of the safety plugs in about one dozen dwellings in the immediate vicinity of where the bolt struck.

STRIKING THE WIRE.

Ten a Minute.

One man can make about 6,000 tin cans in a day by the aid of improved machinery.

Specific Gravity Great.

Fifteen species of American wood, when perfectly seasoned, will sink in water.

London's Project.

London is discussing the project of a world's fair in that city in 1896.

PIPER HEIDSIECK
PLUG TOBACCO
CHAMPAGNE FLAVOR

Consumers of chewing tobacco who are willing to pay a little more than the price charged for the ordinary trade tobaccos, will find this brand superior to all others.
BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.

DR. MOTT'S
PENNYROYAL PILLS

The only safe, sure and reliable Female Pill ever offered to Ladies, especially recommended to married Ladies. Beware of pills put up in tin boxes as they are dangerous. Ask for Dr. Mott's PENNYROYAL PILLS and take no other. Send for circular. Price $1.00 per box, 6 boxes for $5.00.
DR. MOTT'S CHEMICAL CO., - Cleveland, Ohio.
Fisher & Son, Auburn, Ind.

FITS!
Brace Up! Don't Lose Courage!!
Your disease is not incurable because your Physician has given you up, and you have not received any benefit from the medicine you have tried, is not any reason you cannot be cured. We can positively cure all kinds of Fits, Epilepsy, Convulsion or Spasmodic. WE GUARANTEE A POSITIVE AND PERMANENT CURE IN ALL CASES. We have cured thousands, many cases of long standing, and given up by Doctors as incurable. In our "Allen's Fits Cure" you will find a medicine that has never failed to effect a speedy cure. We back our guarantee with an offer of $100 to any person we cannot cure. Highest Bank references furnished on application.
1 Qt. Bottle, $3.00. 2 Qt. $5.00.
ALLEN MEDICAL CO.,
Washington & Water Sts., BOSTON, MASS.

LADIES
Suffering from Retarded, Suppressed or Painful Menstruation and all irregularities of like nature, will find our FAMALE PILLS an infallible cure. They are entirely safe and can always be relied upon for speedy relief. We have yet to hear of a case where they have failed to produce the desired result. A box should be kept on hand at all times to provide for emergencies. Correspondence Confidential.
By mail, with full directions, securely sealed, $2.00 per box.
ALLEN MEDICAL CO.,
Washington & Water Sts., BOSTON, MASS.

Every Woman
Sometimes needs a reliable monthly regulating medicine.
Dr. PEAL'S
PENNYROYAL PILLS,
Are prompt, safe and certain in result. The genuine (Dr. Peal's) never disappoint. Sent anywhere $1.00. Peal Medicine Co., Cleveland, O.
Sold by Fischler & Son., Auburn.

General or local Agents. $75 a week. Ladies or gents. Exclusive territory. The Rapid Dish Washer. Washes all the dishes for a family in one minute. Washes, rinses and dries them without wetting the hands. You push the button, the machine does the rest. Bright, polished dishes, and cheerful wives. No soaked fingers, no soiled hands or clothing. No broken dishes, no mess. Cheap, durable, warranted. Circulars free.
W. P. HARRISON & CO., Clerk No. 13, Columbus, O

Sex-ine Pills

RESTORE LOST VIGOR
Before and After Using.
New discovery. Will brace you up in a week. Sold with a WRITTEN GUARANTEE to Cure Nervous Debility, Loss of Sexual Power in either sex, involuntary Emissions from any cause. If neglected, such troubles lead to consumption or insanity. $1.00 per box by mail, 6 boxes for $5.00. With every $5 order we give a written guarantee to cure or refund the money. Address PEAL MEDICINE CO., Cleveland, Ohio.
Sold by Fischler & Son, Auburn.

5,000 ACRES CENTRAL MICHIGAN FARMS
Near Saginaw and Bay City. Soil clay loam, hardwood timber and free from swamps. Railway facilities; schools and markets adjacent. Price, $6 to $8 per acre, on easy payments. Satisfaction assured. Practical farmers and parents who wish to give their sons a start in life, can find No Better Land in Michigan. Maps and Circulars free. JACOB SCHWARTZ or WM. M. TENNANT, SAGINAW, E. S., MICH.

RESTORED MANHOOD.
DR. MOTT'S NERVERINE PILLS

The great remedy for nervous prostration and all nervous diseases of the generative organs of either sex, such as Nervous Prostration, Failing or Lost Manhood, Impotency, Nightly Emissions, Youthful Errors, Mental Worry, excessive use of Tobacco or Opium, which lead to Consumption and Insanity. With every $5 order we give a written guarantee to cure or refund the money. Sold at $1.00 per box, 6 boxes for $5.00. DR. MOTT'S CHEMICAL COMPANY, Cleveland, Ohio.
BEFORE AND AFTER USING.
Sold by Fischler & Son, Auburn.

PATENTS
Caveats, and Trade-Marks obtained and all Patent business conducted for MODERATE FEES. OUR OFFICE IS OPPOSITE U. S. PATENT OFFICE and we can secure patent in less time than those remote from Washington. Send model, drawing or photo., with description. We advise, if patentable or not, free of charge. Our fee not due till patent is secured. A PAMPHLET, "How to Obtain Patents," with cost of same in the U. S. and foreign countries sent free. Address,
C. A. SNOW & CO.
OPP. PATENT OFFICE, WASHINGTON, D. C.

FARMERS BANK.

Capital Stock.--
--$40,000.00.

Transacts a general banking business. Interest paid on time deposits by agreement. Collections receive careful attention. Business solicited.

ALBERT ROBBINS, Cashier.

Commissioners' Sale of Land.

Notice is hereby given, that by virtue of an order of the DeKalb Circuit Court, the undersigned commissioner appointed by said court in a case in said court, wherein Louisa Davis was plaintiff and Melvin W. Johnson and others were defendants for partition,

I will offer for sale at auction, on the premises on

FRIDAY the 15th day of FEBRUARY, 1895,

at 1 o'clock p. m. of said day, the following described land to wit: Part of lot twenty-four (24) block twenty-five (25) in the original plat of the town of Garrett, (now the City of Garrett,) DeKalb county Indiana, more particularily described as follows to-wit:

Commencing at a point sixty feet west, of the north-east corner of said lot number twenty-four, (24) thence west nineteen feet, thence south to the south line of lot twenty-four, (24) thence east on the south line of said lot nineteen feet, thence north to the place of beginning.

TERMS OF SALE:—One-third (⅓) cash in hand on day of sale, one-third (⅓) in nine months and one-third (⅓) in eighteen months, deferred payments to be evidenced by the purchaser's notes bearing interest at the rate of six per cent without relief from valuation or appraisement laws, and secured by mortgage on the premises, with the option of the purchaser paying cash on the day of sale, or before the notes are due,

DON A. GARWOOD,
Commissioner

Notice to Non-Residents.

State of Indiana, DeKalb Co., ss:

In the DeKalb Circuit Court, March term, 1895.

Eldridge Hursh impleaded with anothers is hereby notified that an action has been commenced against them in said court, for maintainance and support by Matilda Hursh, and that the same will be heard and determined on the 11th day of March 1895, being the 11th juridical day of the next term of said court, which commences March 4th, 1895.

Witness, the Clerk of said Court, this 12th day of January, 1895.

DANIEL D. MOODY, Clerk.

C. A. O. McClellan, Attorney.

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned has been appointed by the Judge of the DeKalb Circuit Court, of the state of Indiana, Administrator de-bonis-non of the estate of David Rice, deceased, late of said county.

Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

JACOB WALBORN, Administrator.

January 14, 1895.

License Notice.

Notice is hereby given to the citizens of the city of Garrett and Keyser township, DeKalb county, Indiana, that the undersigned, a male inhabitant of the State of Indiana, over the age of twenty-one years will apply to the Board of Commissioners of said county, at its March session, 1895, for a license to retail vinous, malt and spirituous liquors in less quantity than a quart at a time, and with the privilege of permitting the same to be drank on the following premises, to-wit:

Lot No. four (4), in block nineteen (19) in the original plat of the incorporated city of Garrett DeKalb county, Indiana.

GEORGE REHLER.

Garrett, Ind., Jan, 21, 1895.

NOTICE TO NON-RESIDENTS.

State of Indiana, DeKalb Co. ss:

In the DeKalb Circuit Court, March term, 1895.

Cicero Millington, if living, if not living then the unknown heirs, decendants and legatees of said Cicero Millington. ——Millington, whose true christian name is unknown to the plaintiff, wife of said Millington, if living; if not living, the unknown heirs, descendants and legatees of said wife. Thomas M. Town and Lydia Ann Town, his wife, if living, if not living, then the unknown heirs, descendants and legatees of said Thomas M. Town and Lydia Ann Town. William Ansley, if living, if not living, then the unknown heirs, descendants and legatees of said William Ansley. James Wood, if living, if not living, then the unknown heirs, descendants and legatees of said James Wood. —— —— Wood, whose true christian name is unknown to the plaintiff, wife of said James Wood, (November 24, 1883,) if living, if not living, then the heirs, descendants and legatees of said wife, are hereby notified that an action has been commenced against them in said court, by John Myers, to quiet title to real estate in said county, and that the same will be heard and determined on the 16th day of March 1895 being the 13th juridical day of the next term of said court, which commences March 4, 1895.

Witness, the Clerk of said Court, this 23d day of January, 1895.

D. D. MOODY, Clerk.

F. L. WELSHEIMER, Attorney.

DOINGS AT COURT.

There was a case of quick justice last week. It will be remembered that we mentioned that the sheriff had gone after Patterson, one of the men who stole the wool near Hicksville. He found his man near Coldwater and brought him home and that same day he was sentenced and the next evening he was in the prison at Michigan City. The men who have been sentenced are all there now. This week the big railroad case came on, the one spoke of in a clipping we had last week. Frank Kelley, then a fireman on the Wabash road, had a leg cut off and now sues for damages. It would appear that his foot slipped, or that he made a false step in getting off his engine up at Delrey, near Detroit, getting his foot under the wheels. He was taken to the hospital, but claims the surgeon did not do his duty, and so he has had it amputated in all, three times. His attorneys are Roby, Shuman and Wickwire, while those for the road are Stuart and Judge Hammond, of Lafayette, and J. E. Rose, of this place. This means a hot fight The plaintiff, Kelley was on the stand all day yesterday, and the case seems only fairly begun. It may last all next week.

The Minerva Club Annual.

The editor and wife had the pleasure of attending the 11th annual reunion of the Minerva Club at Waterloo Tuesday evening as the guests of Miss Rose Blair, one of the members. It was at the home of W. F. C. Francis and he and his wife spared no pains to make it enjoyable. The literary work was in charge of the president, Mrs. F. W. Willis, and secretary Mrs. Herman Boozer. Both did their parts well, as in fact did all the members. This part of their entertainment was fine, original and sparkling and was heartily enjoyed, as was also a splendid luncheon that followed. Then came charades, conundrums and other laughable exercises. In such a way the hours speed rapidly, of course. We met scores of the old neighbors among whom we lived many years and gladly renewed old acquaintances. The Minervas have thanks for a happy evening that went away too soon. Space and time forbid as full a notice of their work as it deserves.

List of Patents

Granted to Indiana Inventors this week. Reported by C. A. Snow & Co., Solicitors of American and Foreign Patents, Opp. U. S. Patent Office, Washington, D. C.

G. F. Dickinson, Orland, Loading machine, A. Doran, and G. B. Goochenouer, Burket, Tongue support. O. H. Woodworth, Columbia City, Leveling instrument, F. Zuckrieger, Tell City, Ballot box.

THE AUBURN COURIER

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY.

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, postoffice as second-class matter.

THURSDAY....JANUARY 3, 1895.

Washington Letter.

[From our regular Correspondent]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21, 1895

The Republicans in Congress have another bad case of Hawaiian fever, brought on by the news of the very feeble revolt against the republic of Hawaii, which was published in Saturday's papers. In their ravings against the administration the republicans forget that the absence of a U. S. warship from Honolulu at the time of the revolt was directly due to a request made by President Dole, of Hawaii; also, that Minister Willis in his official dispatch to Secretary Gresham, giving news of the revolt and of its failure, says: "President Dole expressed to me his gratification that no national ship has been in port during this disturbance" In other words, that the President of Hawaii was glad that he had been able to demonstrate, to the world his ability to put down a revolt without the moral support which the presence of a foreign war vessel or vessels would have given him. But these are facts, something the republicans never trouble themselves about when they start to abusing the administration The cruiser Philadelphia has been ordered to Hawaii.

There has been no apparent change as to the outlook for financial legislation during the past week. Efforts to reach an agreement on some bill that can be passed are still being made, but prospects are not encouraging.

Representative-elect Fitzgerald, of Mass., was probably the first man to ask President Cleveland the direct question: "Will there be an extra session of Congress?" Anyway he is the first man who has asked the question and made known the President's reply thereto, which was as follows: "I have not yet made up my mind. If nothing is done at this session of Congress, and the best interests of the country demand it, I shall not hesitate to convene Congress again, without regard to any party feeling and uninfluenced by any consideration save that of the public good." Mr. Fitzgerald then said to the President: "But suppose that the republicans undertake to pass a tariff bill and send it to you to sign." To which Mr. Cleveland answered: "I cannot be responsible for what they do. There are questions to be settled and it is the duty of Congress to legislate upon them in its own way. If the new Congress is convened, my responsibility will begin when a measure that has passed both Houses is sent to me for action"

The Naval appropriation bill, which has been reported to the House, carries, in accordance with Secretary Hebert's recommendations, $12,000,000 for the construction of three coast-line battleships; also provision for the construction of twelve torpedo boats of from 100 to 300 tons each. The bill provides that one of the battl ships and three of the torpedo boats shall be built upon the Pacific Coast or in adjacent waters, if it can be done at a fair cost; abolishes speed premiums, and says that one of battle-ships shall be named Kearsage. When the proposition to build these battleships was first made many Congressmen were disposed to oppose it on account of the slim condition of the Treasury, but upon consideration of the fact that the largest part of the money for them will be paid for labor, thus giving needed employment to many, the most of them have withdrawn their opposition, and it is now regarded as certain that the bill will go through practically as reported.

Secretary Hoke Smith decided some time ago that the Interior department was paying the Bell telephone monopoly entirely too much money for the telephones in use between the main department building, and its branches, the Geological Survey, the Bureau of Ethnology, the Pension Bureau, the Census office, the Bureau of Education and several others. The telephone company refused to reduce its charges and Secretary Smith has made a contract with other parties for the erection of a telephone line which will belong to the government and will save a considerable sum of money, as there will be no charges to pay after the line is up except for its being kept in repair The Bell Telephone Company is threatening legal complications.

Although the re-opening of the case raises a doubt as to whether the committee on the Judiciary of the House will report that impeachment resolution against Judge Ricks of Ohio, it may yet do so, unless the hearing of Judge Ricks and any witnesses he may introduce shall put a more favorable aspect on the charges against the Judge, which the committee has once decided were proven. Time need cut no figure in the matter, as according to Senator Gorman, who is good authority, impeachment proceedings when once formally brought before the Senate by the House would not be affected by the expiration of the session, but would be taken up at the next session and carried to a conclusion. There have only been seven impeachment trials in our history, four, of them being of judges, one of a Senator—Blount, of Tenn,—one of a President—Johnson—and one of a Secretary of War Belknap.

Speaker Crisp, who has not been well recently, has by advice of his physicians gone away for a few days rest.

They said he was insane to steal cigars in broad daylight, but when it was found they were Kessler Bros.' Bill Heads no one questioned his sound judgment.

ADDITIONAL LOCALS.

Book free despondent men, box 52, Toledo, O.

Cut prices to make room for new goods arriving at Mrs Jones & Son's. 4-6

Mrs. F. A. Borst went to Ft. Wayne Monday to have her eye treated.

A new kind of T can be had at Neff & Weeks only. It is Royal Satsuma and sells for 50 cents per pound.

Mrs. C E. Marvin fell Sunday afternoon and broke her wrist. Drs. Matheny & Hines are attending.

VEIL FOUND: Saturday January 5 near Kesslers' cigar factory. Finder can have same by proving property and paying for this notice.

Kruger's rooms are not only stocked full of groceries, but he is selling large amounts of tinware, notions, drygoods, etc. Call and see for yourself.

J. F. Harter, Wm Dawson and A. W. Bair are among the "struck jury" in the big railrord case now on. They are likely to have a job for all next week.

Parties having accounts with Cowan Sisters' are kindly asked to settle the same without further notice.

ANICE LEAS. 3-4

Mrs. McNabb, the aged mother of Mrs. L J. Miller, is quite sick with the grip. Mrs. Miller herself is not in good health this winter.

FOR SALE:—I have two Fire and Burglar Proof Safes, Hall's Patent, either of which I will sell cheap and on terms to suit the purchaser. Call on or address,

CHAS. M. BROWN, Auburn, Ind.

AGENTS WANTED: To sell the New Hardy Rose, Belle Siebrecht, pronounced by authorities as the best ever introduced. Ready For Sale. Reliable Agents may apply with references to Siebrecht & Wadley, New York City.

Homer Williams, son of Charles Williams, in Jackson township, and who had a leg amputated some time ago, is now able to use a wooden leg, which is better than none. A fever sore caused the trouble.

INSURANCE AGENCY:—People desiring good insurance should remember that Geo. Lanning has an office at the Davis Harware store, and works some of the very best companies in the country. Good farm risks taken. Call on him. 32tf

L. S. Goodwin, who is now postmaster of the legislature writes us from Indianapolis that he is well fixed in the new business, and as it is the most sensible and pleasant job in the gift of the Assembly we are glad he has got it.

All diseases of the air passages especially catarrah and chronic, Bronchitis, as well as first stages of consumption can be cured. I am treating these diseases with great success by the use of the latest and most improved medicines and instruments. Dr. W H. Nusbaum, Auburn, Ind. 42tf

C. P. Houser is in Miama county, with headquarters at Peru, where he is writing and taking orders for a work similar to the biography of soldiers that was taken here about a year ago. He has a large amount of territory, and Mrs. Houser expects to assist him He has sold his fruit farm and may move to Indianapolis to be nearer his field of work

C. F. Thompson, of Smithfield was brought before Justice Walter last week on charge of stealing the money taken from the trunk of his hired man Kessler, a note of which we had a short time ago. There was not enough proof, however and he was let off. There is a rumor that he has left the country, but we can not vouch for its truth.

While at Waterloo yesterday, Marshal Fisher showed us a letter from Mr. Kline the head of the Lake Shore telegraph department, in which they virtually admit their fault in failing to deliver that dispatch. They were generous (?) enough to offer him back his fifty cents if he would sign off for all claims for damages. Of course he did not do this. We have no doubt but he has a good case against them. They got the message at night, and let it lie in the office till the next forenoon. Then the tramp was gone, and he missed his $500 reward, as we mentioned last week.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., has a big strike on its hands. It is the city railways this time. The strikers began the destruction of cars, and stopping their running, and as the police, could not control things, the militia was called out, till over 8,000 were in service. And even then the strikers could not be easily handled.

SENATOR BOYD, of Noblesville, wanted his daughter to be assistant librarian, and it is claimed he tried to make this deal with Miss Baker, a candidate from Indianapolis. Miss Baker, however, refused to "sell," and Boyd then made the same offer to Mrs. Davidson who agreed to it. Boyd then helped her to get elected, and his daughter will be assistant. Boyd's son is made a page in the senate. He evidently proposes to get all he can out of politics.

Awarded
Highest Honors—World's Fair
DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER
PERFECT MADE.
No Cream of Tartar Powder. Free from any other adulterant
40 YEARS THE STANDARD.

FREE BREAD.

On Saturday, January 26th, we will give free a loaf of our new milk Vienna bread to every lady who will call on us at our new store on Main street, first door south of J. L. Davis' hardware store and to every man one of Kessler Bros. fine cigars.

BAKER & BAUER,
Props Auburn Bakery & Confectionery.

A Soldiers' Monument.

This has been talked of so long, that many have become discouraged. But the project is now, at last taking definite shape. Henry Shafer, during his life, had prepared a fine circular lot, centrally located, in Woodlawn, and had intended to donate this for the location of a soldiers' monument. His death interfered with the plan, but now, the lot has been secured from the administrator Commissioner Hague, and steps are being taken to raise the means. DeLong Post, G. A. R. of this place will undertake to raise the needed money, with the help of their friends, including as they hope, all our patriotic citizens who desire to see the memory of our heroes suitably honored. The proposed monument will be surmounted by a statue of a soldier "at parade rest," and will be about 14 feet high, and 4 feet square at the base. It will be of white bronze, a material that is not affected by heat, cold rust or moss, and will always remain as when new. It has been pronounced by scientists as indestructible. There will be space for tablets for nearly 100 names of soldiers' as well as of the chief battles of the war. Each soldier who contributes will be entitled to a place on the monument. It is expected to cost $800, and the Post will be glad to receive such sums as are contributed for thus honoring their comrades. This enterprise should enlist every citizen. The soldiers have already subscribed liberally, and they want to have the monument ready by next decoration day.

Money to Loan.

By F. L. Welsheimer. Best Building and Loan Association represented in Auburn. Money to loan in large or small sums on good security.

Notice.

For rent or sale after the 21th day of January, I will rent or sell my property known as the Auburn Bakery on Eighth Street. Inquire of

ED BAKER. 2tf

Fire.

Insure against it in some one of the following responsible and liberal companies represented by Walter C. Hartman: Franklin of Philadelphia, Continental of New York, North America of Philadelphia, German American of New York, Manchester of Chicago, North British & Mercantile of U S. & England Hamburg Bremen of U. S & Germany, Any insurable property accepted. Call on or address

WALTER C HARTMAN,
Auburn Ind. 3tf

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder
Awarded Gold Medal Midwinter Fair, San Francisco.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

The S H G. will meet next Saturday afternoon with Mrs. Hebel.

The L. L. C. will meet this week with Mrs. W. B. Brown at 2:15 standard time.

The C L S. C. meets Saturday with Mrs. Jones.

WANTED:--Elm and Oak Hub Timber, by Zimmerman Mfg. Co., Auburn Ind. Inquire at their office for dimensions. 1-4

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder
World's Fair Highest Medal and Diploma.

Bankrupt Store

Here We Are!

Four Doors North of Kruger's Grocery.

New Goods, Low Prices.

Goods that Suit the Times.

——WE HAVE——

HARDWARE,

TINWARE,

TABLE LINEN,

NOTIONS, ETC.

In Fact, Everything Kept in a Firs class

Notion Store

Come and see our Goods, and learn how very low you can buy almost anything you want.

Will cost you nothing to look at them. We want to make your acquaintance.

A. W. Bates & Son

AUBURN.

One Week More | We Are Still in it. | One Week More

Our One-Fourth Off Sale is nearly at an end.

One Week More (ONLY.)

This Great Sale Positively Closes the 31st of January.

Have you Made the Purchases that you intended?

Thousands have gone home very thankful that they came to see the Largest line of Clothing and Furnishings ever in Auburn. You can not afford to miss this great sale. Buy your underwear and clothing for two years in advance 25 per cent interest on your money, stop and think of it. You must see to believe. Examine our stock and you will spend your last cent nipping bargains. One Fourth off for the few remaining days of January. Nothing reserved.

Children's short pants 19, 38 & 57 cents. Men's underwear at 38 cents a suit of working pants warranted not to rip, at 64 cents.

And everything in our entire line at prices that sell the goods without talking.

G. H. YESBERA,

The Leading Clothier and Furnisher.

RUPTURE

cured The truss discarded forever. Consultation free. Consul,

OtMen, Women and Children permanently cured in 30 days, without pain or slightest inconvenience by the Fidelity Method Every case guaranteed. Patient need not pay a dollar until completely cured. Over 8,000 cases cured in the last five years.

J. B. CASEBEER, M. D.
Their Authorized Physician.

Office opposite Swineford House, Main Street, Auburn, Indiana.

Obituary.

Jared Calvin Wilks was born Aug. 30, 1873, and departed this life January 16, 1895 at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs Henry Wilks near Jackson Center, Ind He leaves father, mother and four sisters and four brothers to mourn for him. At some time we must give up our loved ones, when death calls The funeral services were at Rehoboth church Jan 18, at 11 a. m conducted by Rev R V. Gilbert, and he was laid to rest in the Leo cemetery In this connection the family wish to thank all the kind friends who gave their assistance and sympathy.

HOMESEEKERS' EXCURSIONS,

On January 15 and February 5 the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad will sell 30-day Excursion Tickets to points in Virginia on the Harper's Ferry & Valley Branch, south of and including Winchester, at rate of one fare for the round trip Excursion Tickets will also be sold to points in the West, and Southwest, on January 15, and to points in the South on February 5, at very low rates.

For further information on or address any B. & O. Ticket Agent, S. P. Kretzer, Land and Immigration Agent, Philadelphia, Pa., or L S. Allen, Ass't Gen'l Pass'r Agent Chicago, Ill. 3 5

WANTED:—In Auburn, an energetic young man to represent us. An excellent opportunity for a wideawke News Gatherer. Address at once, 'Northern Indiana Press Bureau, Laporte, Indiana.

Most people cannot afford to experiment. They want immediate relief That's why they use One Minute Cough Cure. Sold by Robbins & McCord.

BUTLER.

J. M. Lingenfelter has been quite sick, but is around again.

The basket factory is running on full time again and with full force.

Dan. Tombow has recently occupied J A Campbell's dwelling near the U. B. church.

Quite a few country schools are holding forced vacations on account of measles.

The chimney in the Hensler business building burned out one day last week, and came near causing a fire alarm.

The fire loss in Butler last year was less than $100, the smallest perhaps in twenty years.

Considerable sickness prevails in town and vicinity and our doctors are kept quite busy.

The Grand Rapids "Racket" store opened up last Saturday and did quite a business in the sale of small things.

A few cases of measles are scattered through town, but not enough to stop the schools.

It is reported that Geo Douse and family, who went to Nebraska several years ago, are on their way to this vicinity again.

Abraham Corbin, living 4½ miles west of Butler, who has been suffering with a cancer for the past year, died last Thursday. His funeral took place at Hamilton, and was conducted by Rev. McKee, of that place.

The week of sleighing was one of the greatest activity among all our people, especially the young folks who made every night count, in visiting neighboring towns, and country friends. Their joyous song and laughter, made us older ones almost envy them in their enjoyments.

ST. JOE.
LAST WEEK.

The family of Wm. Draper are all down with the measles.

B. A. Woodcox has been confined to his room for the last two weeks with rheumatism.

Frank Rhodes, who has been sick for the past ten days, is reported some better.

Dr. H W. Bowman has so far recovered from his late illness as to be able to resume his practice.

Charley Johnson will return to Ann Arbor the first of February to resume his studies which were broken off last fall by a long spell of typhoid fever.

Owing to the sickness of Frank Rhodes of the intermediate department of our school, there was no school last week. Some other teacher will take his place this week.

During the two weeks vacation of our schools the township trustee has had some finishing touches put on the school rooms. A nice heater has been attached to all the stoves, and glass has been put into all the hall windows.

The I O O F. held a banquet at their hall last Tuesday night. A good attendance and a jolly good time is reported. To make the affair more entertaining Em Jenkins took a bare back ride on the hall goat.

Last Monday evening about dark some sneak thief stole a pail of oysters that were standing in front of the Tustison grocery. Mr. Tustison missed his goods when about to close up for the night. An alarm was raised at once and different parties started out to investigate. The party suspected was found at Spencerville but not the oysters. Tuesday morning the tub of oysters was found under one of the blacksmith shops where it had undoubtedly been placed by the one suspected of the crime. It was also learned that the same party was in the saloon at Spencerville offering to trade oysters for the drinks. Tustison got about one half of his oysters back and seems to be thankful for even that. Through fear of harm to self or property he refuses to prosecute, although he told the writer that he was sure he had spotted the right party. Talk about the Market Street gang of Chicago! If all the stories we hear are true, we have a gang that as far as thieving goes are as bad as theirs, when it comes to such a state of things that such things must be allowed to pass for fear of harm to ourselves or property If we mistake not this will or ought to be a clear case for our Vigilance Committee.

ST. JOE.

Frank Bishop is at home on a visit.

Frank Rhodes is reported some better.

Auditor Borst was in town Friday posting delinquent tax notices.

B A. Woodcox is still laid up with rheumatism.

Don. Vanfleet wife and baby visited over Sunday under the parental roof.

William Draper's who have had a tussle with the measles are slowly improving.

J. A. Campbell, of Butler, was in town the fore part of last week. J. A. is a hustler from a way back.

Surveyor J. J. VanAuken assisted in the location of some farm lines for Wm. Simonton the fore part of last week.

Miss Lina Sheffer is teaching the intermediate department of the St Joe school. Frank Rhodes having resigned on account of poor health.

John Woodcox who has been attending school at Ypsilanti as been obliged to quit school and go to Ann Arbor for treatment by an aurist.

Henry Malone who has been farming his father's farm for the last few years, moved to Ohio last week bag and baggage,

Mrs. C. J. Yarnell goes to Oklahoma this week to visit her daughter, Mrs. Becks Erick. Before her return she will visit B. F Hoyt's family at Witchita, Kansas.

The new firm of White & Beers in the furniture business will open up this week with a big stock of new goods, and in addition they have a bran new hearse which they are willing to use should occasion require. No suicides taken.

"Shugers Special"

Elegant Finish! High Grade!

Light Weight. Great Speed maker. No back Numbers.

"Up To Date!" - 1895.

Manufactured at Coldwater, Michigan.

CORY SHUGERS, Agt.
Auburn, - - Indiana.

You make no mistake when you take DeWitt's Little Early Risers for biliousness, dyspepsia or headache, because these little pills cure them. Robbins & McCord sell them

The name One Minute Cough Cure suggests a medicine that relieves at once, and quickly cures. Its use proves it. For sale by Robbins & McCord.

Take a dose of DeWitt's Little Early Risers just for the good they will do you. These little pills are good for indigestion, good for head che, good for liver complaint, good for constipation. They are good. Sold by Robbins & McCord.

It cures piles, it cures obstinate sores, chapped hands, wounds. It does this quickly. Is there any good reason why you should not use DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve? For sale by Robbins & McCord.

T. F. Anthony, ex-postmaster of Promise City, Iowa, says: "I bought one bottle of 'Mystic Cure' for Rheumatism and two doses of it did me more good than all the medicine I ever took." Sold by Robbins & McCord, druggists, Auburn. 41tf

English Spavin Liniment removes all hard, soft or calloused lumps and blemishes from horses, blood spavins, curbs, splints, sweeney, ring-bone, stiffs, sprains, all swollen throats, coughs, etc. Save $50 by use of one bottle. Warranted the most wonderful blemish cure ever known. Sold by Robbins and McCord druggists Auburn. 34tf

We might tell you more about One Minute Cough Cure, but you probably know that it cures a cough. Every one does who has used it It is a perfect remedy for coughs, colds, hoarseness It is an especial favorite for children, being pleasant to take and quick in curing. For sale by Robbins & McCord.

Business. One of the leading Business Colleges of the country is located at Fayette, O. Its Actual Business rooms are marvels of beauty It is superior in advantages to the city business colleges, while the expenses is only one half or one-third as great Its courses are thorough; its methods the best, and its graduates SUCCEED. It receives the praise of every student who enters it. Do not delay but act. Write for catalogue to the president of

J. E. DODDS. College,
Fayette, Ohio.

The Greatest Offer Yet Made!

Last season THE HUB delighted thousands of buyers all over the United States with its "Head-to-Foot" Boy's Outfit at $5.00 consisting of Coat, Cap, Shoes and only one pair of pants.

We'll do better yet this season!

The Hub's "Head-to-Foot" Boy's Outfit

for the full season contains as follows:

One Double Breasted Coat,
One Stanley Cap to Match,
One Pair of First Class Shoes and
Two Pairs of Knee Pants,

$5.

and still the price will remain the same.

Remember, the cloth is all wool, the workmanship and trimmings first-class, everything strictly guaranteed—and your money back if you want it.

Send for samples of cloth, or better yet, let us send you one of the Head-to-Foot Outfits with charges prepaid for $5.75 or C. O. D. with privilege of examination before payment, provided $1.00 on account is sent with the order.

THE HUB,
Clothiers to the World,
Cor. Clark and Jackson Sts.,
CHICAGO, ILL.
Mention this paper. Mail Orders a Specialty.

GREAT Midwinter EVENT!

BISHOP AND LACKEY

GREAT JANUARY HOUSEKEEPING SALE.

Tremendous Cash Bargains In Desirable Merchandise.

Special Attractions!

IN

Table Linens,
Napkins, Towels,
White Spreads,
Made Sheets and
Pillow Cases, Wide
AND Narrow Muslins.

WE RECEIVE THIS WEEK

100 Dozen Ladies Muslin Underwear.

Will be sold VERY CHEAP during this sale.

We Receive this Week

225 PIECES NEW DRESS GOODS.

75 Pieces, All New Colors, 29 c. Former Price 50 c.
75 Pcs. New Serge, Black & Colors, 50c. " " 75 c.
75 Pcs. New Serge, Black & Colors, 55c. " " 100.

Our stock of Underwear and Blankets is large and full of Desirable Goods.

100 Doz. Gloves and Mittens.

Seasonable Goods.

BISHOP & LACKEY.

SHULL'S CASH HOE TORE

Leather Boots, Rubber Boots, Felt Boots,

Best Line in Auburn

Men's Shoes Men's Shoes | Women's Shoes Women's Shoes | Children's Shoes Children's Shoes

We have never had such a Line to offer before. Don't fail to see them- Prices lower than ever.

THE CASH SHOE STORE

OP. BISHOP & LACKEY'S.

Auburn Bakery

AND

CONFECTIONERY

Is now established in its new quarters on Main street, 1st door south of J. L. Davis Hardware store. We will have a full line of

BREAD, ROLLS, PIES & CAKES

Fresh every day. We bake any kind of cake to order. Weddings and parties supplied on short notice at reasonable rates. Try our

VIENNA BREAD AND CREAM

Which are made of Milk.

Each day after 8 o'clock in the morning we will sell all the Bread and Rolls left over from the day before at Half Price.

LUNCH SERVED

At all times of the day, also hot coffee, tea and chocolate.

All our baked goods are sold by Hebel Bros, who will deliver them to any part of town

We respectfully solicit the patronage of the people of Auburn and vicinity.

BAKER & BAUER, Proprietors.

LOCAL NEWS.

See the news on inside pages.

Sealed book to men free, box 52, Toledo, O.

Smoke the K. & B. ten-cent cigar.

Dress goods very cheap at Mrs. M. Jones & Son's. 4 6

Calvin Hosler of Ft. Wayne, was the guest of Miss Libbie Hosler Saturday.

Mrs. North, mother of Mrs. Will Francis, of Waterloo was here last Saturday.

T. C. Ford keeps all kinds of mill feed, flour, corn and oats. 2-4

Mrs Nill went to Toledo Saturday to visit relatives

Dr. Johnston, dentist, has the new method of filling teeth without pain, as well as painless extraction of teeth.

Charlie Groscup got his fingers mashed last week handling ice. Two blocks came together with his fingers between Miss Carrie Kelley went up to Waterloo Saturday to visit her brother Douglas Kelley at the old home.

The G. D. Chicago Waist,
The G. D. Bust Supporter,
at Mrs. M. Jones & Son's.

Miss Sadie Shearer is at Macy, Ind., spending two weeks with her friend Miss Laura Collins.

Try Royal Satsuma Tea at Neff and Weeks. It can be bought no where else in the city. Opposite Swineford house.

Mrs. Frank Beidler went up to Waterloo Tuesday evening to attend the annual of her club, the Minerva Club, returning next day.

A letter from Peter Wiyrick at Hartville, Mo., brings word of his good health, but he has had his ups and downs out there as well as others. We hope to hear that brighter days come to him.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Baldwin, Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Potter, and Mr and Mrs. J. C. Lochner drove to Hamilton, Sunday and were the guests of Eugene and Mrs. Kinney.

The St. Joe circuit of the Methodist Protestant church, made a canvass for the Nebraska sufferers, which resulted in sending to them four barrels of clothing and $40.54 in cash. Good for St. Joe.

"Teet" Ashelman and his best girl were over to Garrett on a sleigh ride Saturday evening and had a brisk little runaway. He had to get another rig to get home with. But neither one was hurt.

Mrs. Margaret and Miss Kate Newton, of Ligonier, mother and sister of Dr. W. E. Newton are the guests of Dr. and Mrs. Buchtel for a few days this week, while visiting Dr. Newton who is a patient of Dr. Buchtel.

Garrett Republican:—Gov. Matthews will ask the legislature for power to suppress Roby. He ought to be granted anything he would ask in this direction. Roby is the state's disgrace, and Gov. Matthews has won a state's gratitude by his warfare on it.

Dr. Casebeer writes us he is now established in practice in Indianapolis, his address being 468 College Ave. We hope he and his family will find their new home pleasant and his profession profitable. At this rate there will soon be quite a DeKalb colony at the state capital.

If you want to write right, write us right away; then write right along and not stop to dip. Our new invention converts any kind of pen into a Fountain Pen. 50 cents will get you one sample dozen by return mail. Ten thousand salesmen wanted. Sells on sight. Hustler Novelty Co., Luray, Va., Inventors, Patentees, Manufacturers, Manipulators and Introducers of Novelties.

We have received an invitation to attend the Tenth Annual Ball of the locomotive Firemen at Wagners Hall in Garrett next Monday evening, Jan. 28. The firemen always have a pleasant meeting at their annual, and this bids fair to come up to their best. The programmes, etc, were gotten up by the Republican office there, and are neat specimens of the printer's art.

The Butler Record's North Franklin items has this:—Obe Less, of Waterloo, had meant to ship 4 or 5 car loads of baled hay from Hamilton station the last of last week, but in consequence of not having enough cars on Friday and the snow storm on Saturday the hay was not all delivered but will be the first of this week. Those who sold the hay are Messrs. Taylor, Waterman, Boyer, Lantzenheiser, Mottinger and perhaps others. The hay will be shipped to New York.

Mrs. Wierman, of Corunna, was here last Wednesday to inspect the fine monument that Madden Bros. have made for her, and which she will erect in memory of her husband, the late Nicholas Wierman. It is a very tasty design, though not gaudy, but is in every way appropriate. The material is of the best grade of Barry granite from Vermont. We commend Mrs. Wierman's judgment in the selection. Mr. Wierman was interred in Kendallville, and of course the monument goes there.

The Ligonier Banner of last week says: Drs. A. L. Fisher, of Elkhart, and I. O. Buchtel, of Auburn, assisted by Dr. G. A. Whippy performed a surgical operation on Dr. W. E. Newton last Friday in hopes of curing the paralysis from which the doctor is suffering. In order that he might have the proper surgical after treatment he went to Auburn on Saturday with Dr. Buchtel, who has taken him to his own home and will care for him until he is improved.

Dr. W. E. Newton is one of the foremost Physicians of Northern Ind., is located at Ligonier and is the preceptor of Dr. Buchtel. The Dr. was stricken with paralysis while attending to an unusually large volume of business. We learn from Dr. Buchtel that Dr. Newton has made a decided gain in every way during the week. This will be pleasant news to the doctor's many patients and friends who deeply sympathize with him in this severe and untimely affliction.

Free sexual book to men, box 52, Toledo, O.

Ladies and Misses Combination suits at 48 cents at Mrs. M. Jones & Son. 4-6

Will Schaab is at the store again, having fully recovered his health.

Best thing for your hens, is ground oyster shells. Cook Ford keeps it.

Jack Dorland is here on a visit again with his cousin, Mart Sheets.

Kruger & Son have no old bankrupt goods to offer to you. But they will give just as good bargains. 4-6

D. D. Henney, of Fairfield, was here about a week ago being among the very first to pay his taxes for the coming year.

Elton Campbell has moved from Butler to Detroit and is now running on a passenger train and well pleased to be back at railroading again.

Kruger & Son have reduced their 5 cent counter goods to 3 cents, and their 10-cents counter goods to 8 cents Don't forget this. This continues for 30 days.

Bro. Fulmer, pastor of the Baptist church of Elkhart Ind., will help in the meeting at the Baptist church after this week.

T T T T T T

Royal Satsuma is a new tea and is for sale only by Neff & Weeks. Try it. 50 cents per pound.

Baker & Bauer, in their new room, have an opening Saturday, when they will present each lady a loaf of nice bread, and to each gentleman a good cigar, one of Kessler Brothers' best.

W. B. Campbell goes to Anderson today where he will join his wife who is there attending a teachers' meeting. They then go to Indianapolis where they will attend a meeting of the editorial association and also the legislature.

D. Y. Husselman, in addition to his law and collection business, is now manager for this vicinity for a first class building and loan association. As it offers most favorable terms, those interested should investigate his company before deciding.

After several days of thaw and rain, the weather suddenly turned cold Monday, and a fierce wind and driving snow made it very unpleasant. The next morning it was very cold with an inch or two of snow. It was the most disagreeable storm we have had.

Ira B. Goetschius has purchased the E. S. McDowell farm in Richland township, and will soon move there. The place was sold in settling up the estate, on Saturday of last week. It will be remembered that Mr. Bowers bought the old Goetschius homestead a short time ago.

Bishop & Lackey took a big, wholesale sort of a sleigh and gave all their employes a splendid sleighride Thursday evening of last week. They went over to Garrett, where Mr. Lackey entertained them at his home. It was a graceful thing to do, and their corps of faithful clerks appreciate it.

P. J. Lockwood reached here Thursday for a business visit of a few days. He brings good word from the DeKalb folks down there. J. R. Lamson has been promoted in his department, public printing, having now a better job and better pay. His Auburn friends will be glad to hear it.

John R Moody who has been teaching at No. 2, in Jackson township is lying very low with the measles. It would appear that he went to his school several days with a high fever and as a result of exposure the measles have gone in on him. The school children are also exposed. There is but little hopes of Mr. Moudy's recovery.

J. R. Moody is in rather poor health this winter, but is able to get about. Mrs. Moody is recovering slowly from her recent illness. Their daughter, Mrs J. J. Zent came home last week, so as to be with them. In their poor health they need her care, and when she left to join her husband at Mankato, it was with the understanding that she was to come home when needed.

The S. H. G. and C. L. S. C. were entertained very pleasantly at the home of Mrs. D. S. Ober last Thursday afternoon. A program was given; then were quotations by the class, music by Nellie Ober, Mrs. Ernest Sheets and Mrs. Moss; Recitation by Mrs. Nickey, papers by Mrs. Moody and Mrs. Olds. Mrs. Henry gave a poem. After a social time Mrs. Ober served a very nice lunch. A pleasant part of the meeting was Miss Laura Ober's being present, she being a graduate of last year, but has been in the west for some time.

We have a late copy of the Seattle Post Intelligencer, the leading paper of the new state of Washington. It was furnished us by John W. Shaffer, of this place, it having been sent to him by his son, Orrie, now a resident of that far off coast. The chief feature of interest, is a graphic description of the recent ascent of Mt. Rainier, which is near that city. The newspaper fitted out a party, and the ascent was made to find some facts about the mountain. Smoke had been rising from it, and the ascent proved it to be a real volcano. This trip they did not reach the top, as the weather at that time, Christmas, was too cold. The top had been reached before, several times, by the leader of the party.

The Pythian Sisters went up to Waterloo Friday evening of last week, and were entertained by Mrs. Phil Plum, at her home there. They had a good visit, plenty of fun and several accidents There was a sleighload from "South Auburn," and one from "North Auburn" and each broke down on the way up. South Auburn, broke down at the cider press at the south side of Waterloo, and walked in from there to Plum's on South Wayne street. South Auburn broke their sled just at the north part of Auburn, and came back and got another with which they got through all right, Both parties agree that the "walking is good" and that they were well entertained.

Write Box 52, Toledo, O., free book to men

Mrs. Flemming is reported as being quite sick, the result of taking a very bad cold.

Protracted meetings still continue at the M. E, Presbyterian and Lutheran churches.

Miss Bertha Loath of West Unity, O., is the guest of her friend Miss Laura Sawyel.

Kruger & Son have reduced their prices to compete with the lowest. New goods arriving daily, and all their goods are fresh, new and desirable. 4 6

Read carefully the advt. of Baker & Bauer, for they are in the new room now on Main street. They moved Monday and Tuesday.

MARRIED:—At the Lutheran parsonage, Jan. 17, 1895, by Rev. J. D. Brosy, Frank Batdorf to Emma C. Heitz, both of Butler township.

The Ladies' Literary Club, always among the first in matters of reform, have decided to begin their sessions by standard time.

Kruger & Son sell notions, dry goods and tinware, and can compete with anybody in price and quality. If you doubt it, try them. 4-6

Our friend M. P. Barker has moved up into Franklin after living in Smithfield since he was 11 years old. It is quite a change, but he will no doubt find his new home very pleasant.

The editor and wife enjoyed the hospitalities of A. J. Ralston and family Sunday in company with Mr. Eichelberger of Mansfield. A few hours were spent most delightfully.

A bird flew into the Presbyterian church Sunday, just as the forenoon services were beginning, and surprised the audience by trilling a sweet little bird song.

Our friend, Fred. Huetsenbeck, of Avilla, was in town a few days ago, doing some trading, which included a new dress for the goodwife. Fred thinks a Holiday present will be just as much appreciated if it does come a few days late.

The electric light company have made a good reduction in the service where a meter is used if it amounts to over $2. All above that is 25 per cent off. If the meter shows $4, we count off the $2 and then the next $2 is reckoned at $1.50. On large sums this ¼ off will be a big item.

John McCune, one of Auburn's oldest citizens, died Tuesday evening, Jan. 22. He had been ailing some time and was quite blind. He was quite old. He was elected recorder of this county August 5, 1850, that being the last set of county officers elected under the old constitution.

J. E. Roee was at Goshen last week, where he had a case in court, defending against a suit brought against the B & O. road for damages. After the plaintiff had brought in all his witnesses the judge dismissed the case as there was no case made out and he did not care to waste more time.

At the meeting Tuesday of the agricultural society at Waterloo, the secretary, J. G. Johnson, resigned, as he is going to Angola. Mike Kiplinger, who has served several years, was elected to the vacancy. The new executive committee are, G. T. Abby, Wm. Patterson, R. N. Crooks and Herman Boozer.

John Leasure and his wife, Dr Lida Leasure drove down from Angola Sunday with a sleigh. They realized before they got home that "all is not snow that glitters." In other words there was some ice and a good deal of water. We are pleased to know that both are doing well, Mr. Leasure in the grocery business and Mrs. Leasure in the practice of medicine.

Rev. W. L. Meese is home from Chicago where he has been for some months with Mr and Mrs. Eaton. He returns in some better health having taken treatment while there. He now has rooms with his son Orin, on west Fifth street, next door west of Chas. Bartel's or second west of Albert Robbins'. He will be pleased to have his friends call on him at his rooms at any time.

James W. Garnette and Mary M Sheffer were united in marriage at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Sheffer, Jan. 22, 1895, by Rev. A. S. Wooton. Mr. Garnette lives at Trumbull, Neb. He is a good farmer. Mrs. Garnette is well known in Auburn. She is a most worthy young lady, an earnest christian, a cultured lady and efficient in all the duties of the home. She will be greatly missed by the young people of the M. E. Church.

Rev. Henry Johnson continues to win his way to prominence and usefulness. The latest is an urgent invitation to accept his appointment as a delegate to one of the most noted church meetings in the world, the "General Council of Alliance of Reformed Churches throughout the World holding the Presbyterian System." This meeting is to be at Glasgow, Scotland, between June and and October of 1896. We believe he has not yet decided whether to accept or not, but the offer is surely a flattering one.

R. W. Cobb announces that a large jobbing house in Detroit has purchased the "League Chainless" for Indiana, Ohio and Michigan, and through this arrangement he will discontinue business in Auburn, though he will still hold an interest in the wheel and will go on the road the coming year in its interest. Mr Cobb certainly deserves well of the company, for he gave it a wide and thorough advertising last year, not only in the papers but in the use of the chainless and in talking it up and bringing it into prominence in the century runs and elsewhere. Perhaps no wheelman in Indiana is ignorant as to the chainless wheel, and it has been mainly through Mr. Cobb's enthusiastic and constant efforts in its favor. And Auburn itself has been widely advertised, being as it was last year, the distributing point from which the business was worked up over a territory of twelve counties.

GREAT REDUCTION ON MILLINERY! AT COWAN SISTERS'

BEGINNING

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 15.

This is not upon damaged goods, bought under price, but Every Article Offered is GOOD, SEASONABLE and STYLISH, and will be sold at such LOW PRICES as were Never Before Quoted.

We have a Large Stock which must be CUT DOWN within the next twenty days.

It's the PRICES that will TALK

Hats worth $1.65 and $1.85 for 87c. and 99c.
Hats worth 75c. and $1 00 for 39c. and 48c.
Children's caps, hoods and bonnets, fancy feathers, birds and pins at correspondingly low prices.
TRIMMED HATS at LESS THAN COST.
Come early and get the Cream of the Goods.

COWAN SISTERS
AUBURN, INDIANA.

DON'T ! ! ! ! Buy a dollar's worth of goods until you have seen

Fred J. Yesbera's

ELEGANT STOCK OF

WATCHES, CLOCKS and JEWELRY.

He has the Nicest Goods in Town for Xmas Presents, at Prices that BEAT THE WORLD

5 & 10 CENTS.

We want to call your attention this week to our 5 and 10 Cent Goods. We have so many articles in this line that housekeepers are always in need of that it will pay you to call and see them. We offer you bargains in Tinware; Glassware and Novelties that will surprise you. Give us a chance to sell you a pair of Gloves or Mittens.

OLDS BROS.

SAY! Do you know That we can sell you

CREAMERY BUTTER for 20 cents per lb
COFFEE for 23, 25, 30, 35 cents per lb
TEA from 15 to 60 cents per lb
CRACKERS 7 to 10 cents per lb
Pickles, Onions, Wash Boards, Tubs,
Whips, Oil Cans,
Baking Powders, Soaps and all
FAMILY Supplies at Lowest Cash Prices.
All Goods Warranted as Represented.

Family Grocery, NORTH MAIN STREET.

Free book to weak men, box 52, Toledo, O.

Go to Ford's feed store to get your baled hay, straw, oil, meal and ground oyster shells. 2 4

The Fayette Normal University has an advertisement in this issue, Those who are thinking of attending a Normal or College should not fail to send for catalogue and make a careful study of the excellent features of this school. 27tf

You don't have to go outside to smoke; you need no poultice on your neck to get a good "draw," nor anything to "kill the taste" when through smoking a Receipt.

I. O. BUCHTEL, Homœopathic Physician and Surgeon.

Special attention given to chronic and obscure cases and catarrhal diseases of the nose, throat and lungs; also to diseases peculiar to women and children.

Office and residence over Smith & Madden's marble works, Auburn, Ind. Office apart from residence and private. All calls attended to promptly, night or day.

When wild and withering winter winds warp the weary wanderer, his thoughts turn in sweet anticipation to home, wife and Kessler Bros.' Little Salesman.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNS, - - PUBLISHER.

Georgia Cayvan has gone to Paris for "rest and quiet." Why this slight to Philadelphia and this needless expense of an ocean voyage?

Hannibal and Alexander will probably be served up by the magazines as soon as the Napoleonic revival is over, so their friends will do well to be prepared.

The New Orleans aldermen who were willing to consider a bribe of $1,000 will be regarded as very small potatoes by the average member of the New York police force.

Stepniak, the nihilist, says that the Czar is safe. The same is probably true of Stepniak so long as he remains away from Russia and indulges in nothing more dangerous than conversation.

John L. Sullivan tried to bulldoze an express messenger at Lima, Ohio, and narrowly escaped being shot. Some day the celebrated slugger will repeat this trick once too often and the country will be able to give a sigh of relief.

The great-grandson of George IV. of England is a lineman in Portland. This is an instance of development proving anew the truth of evolution. Had George IV. tried to shin up a telephone pole, he would have failed; he couldn't even have found the pole.

Sufficient time has now elapsed since the scandalous disclosures of the dishonesty connected with the Panama canal project for the world at large to give to M. de Lesseps the credit that is due to him as a great engineer and a man of gnius. It is not to be doubted that if the enormous funds which were raised for this great work had been honestly administered the isthmus would long ago have been pierced and the two oceans joined. The later cloud on the fame of De Lesseps should not blind the world to his great talents, which were amply demonstrated by the splendid success of the Suez Canal. In the case of the Panama project the difficulties to be overcome were much greater, and so the talented engineer fell into the hands of unscrupulous speculators whose dishonesty necessarily reflected on his own integrity.

Derby, Conn., has a most inconsiderate ghost. It went calling the other night and made all sorts of trouble. Among other things it waked up John Connors and told him that his aunt was dying and wanted to see him. Then it hustled him six miles through the snow, clad only in his night robe. From the standpoint of the ghost this may have been all right, but it is not regarded as a proper proceeding by others. No ghost of standing in the community would call for a man under such circumstances without providing him with furs and good warm boots. It is an imposition to do anything else, and it may as well be understood now that any man is justified in refusing to stroll out with an unknown ghost that does not display a little consideration. Should one call it is perfectly proper to tell it to get some clothes and a carriage.

Nearly every winter a great insane asylum burns, usually with loss of life. The destruction of the institution at Anna brings home to the people of Illinois with much force the fact that no matter how much money may be expended or how many employes may be in service there is no reasonable hope that their great public buildings will escape the fate which, through universal blundering and incompetency, seems to be reserved for all of them. There must be criminal carelessness in the construction and safeguarding of these institutions or their destruction would not be so general and so frequent. The Illinois Assembly should make a searching inquiry as to the responsibility for the Anna fire. Somebody is to blame for it and for the inadequate means for resisting its progress, and it would have a very wholesome effect if an example could be made of him.

The Japanese are vicious little beasts and their civilization is a gloss, but some one of them must have brains. It would be exceedingly interesting to know just who the Japanese Moltke is. Troops do not lead themselves; forts with Krupp guns need taking. The care of troops with the temperature 20 degrees above zero requires sense. Who is the little brown savage back of all this good fighting? It is probably not the champagne-drinking Mikado. It cannot be one of the older Japs—one of those who used a short time ago to wear a Vantine sword and a Liberty blouse. It must be some new-style Japanese, some young man with a modern education. That young man is worth watching. Of course it is quite probable that he is not a Jap at all, but some wise, spectacled German, handling the Mikado's little fighting brownies like chessmen. A Japanese Moltke, with little black tufts of whiskers, would be attractive.

Bulgaria has furnished the world with numerous sensations for ten years past, but none was so dramatic as that reported from the sobranje or national assembly at the capital, Sofia, where ministers, opposition leaders and members engage in mutual execration and some flourish of arms. The incident was sufficiently startling to justify belief that Russian intrigue is at work again to involve Turkey, to which Bulgaria is tributary, with the Berlin treaty signatories. There is a strong Russian party in the country, sustained by the sympathy of the most intelligent portion of the Bulgars, while the Turks are but a fifth of the population. More than two-thirds of the people belong to the orthodox Greek church. An amnesty agreed to by the sobranje indicates that Russian political conspirators, who are to be benefited by it for the most part, will be free henceforth to ply their trade, which is carried on in Bulgaria and Roumelia with an unscrupulousness equal to anything at Constantinople.

The estimate of the corn crop in the Southern States this year is 490,000,000 bushels, an increase of 50,000,000 bushels over last year. Here is a gold mine, the yield of which can be made better and better if planters can only be persuaded to drop cotton to some extent. The day ought to be near at hand also for the South to pack its own hogs by the aid of cold storage.

The system of retribution established on this earth is almost enough to shake our faith in the necessity of future punishment. For instance, the man who drinks too much is afflicted with disease that forbids his drinking at all, the miser who saves too diligently is unable to enjoy the possession of yellow gold. Here is Mrs. Green, mentioned several times a day by newspapers as the richest woman in America. She travels about from one wretched abode to another, fearing the plots of poisoners and other evil things. Her millions lie and rust. Her life is a nightmare. Look from her to the Baroness Burdett-Coutts. There is a woman whose mind is forever looking for useful ways of getting rid of her money. She gives it to life-saving stations, builds poor-houses, encourages the breeding of high-grade goats that the poor may have milk, and looks on money only as a machine for doing good. No dreams of poison disturb her. She does not imagine that men are trying to throw pieces of wood on her from windows. Virtue is indeed well rewarded.

John Drew's Race for a Train.

John Drew's arrival at the Richelieu caused some surprise the other afternoon, as he was supposed to be playing out West. He was in Burlington Tuesday night, and the cause of his visit to Chicago was a mistake. Mr. Drew and company were to go from Burlington to Rockford, by the way of Aurora. A call was left with the hotel clerk for 5 o'clock. Early in the morning Mr. Drew was awake, and his watch, which had probably stopped the night before, indicated 5:45. His train left at 6, and this left him but fifteen minutes to dress and reach the station in time. He pulled on his clothes like a fireman and ran downstairs, scoring the hotel, the clerks, and porters for not calling him in time. Outside the office was a bicycle, and, next to acting, Mr. Drew can ride a bicycle. He is said to be the fastest wheelman in the dramatic profession.

"Whose wheel?" he shouted to the clerk.

"Mine."

"Send down to the station for it," and away he went.

He was just in time. As the train began to pull out slowly Mr. Drew jumped on the rear platform, shouting to the station master that the wheel would be called for. He was well nigh exhausted and sat down to rest before looking for his companion players Presently the conductor came around.

"Ticket," he said.

"My manager has our tickets."

"Whose manager?"

"Why, the John Drew Company."

"Guess again."

"What do you mean?"

"You can't work that game; there's no troupe on this train."

"Great Scott! what train am I on?"

"The Chicago express."

"And you don't stop at Aurora?"

"Naw."

Mr. Drew out his watch and it was still 5:45. The conductor informed him that it was but 5:30 and that the train he wanted did not leave Burlington for another half hour. There was no way to return and Mr. Drew was forced to come to Chicago. He was able to catch a train for Rockford, which got him there in time for the evening performance.

Some Curious Trees.

There are many vegetable wonders in this world of ours. Certain tropical trees furnish clothes as well as food, and the inner bark of others is smooth and flexible enough for writing paper. The bread tree has a solid fruit, a little larger than a cocoanut, which when cut in slices and cooked can scarcely be distinguished from excellent bread. The weeping tree of the Canary Islands is wet, even in a drought constantly distilling water in its leaves, and the wine tree of Mauritus Island furnishes good wine instead of water. A kind of ash in Sicily has a sap which hardens into sugar and is used as such by the natives without any refining. The product of the wax tree in the Andes resembles beeswax very closely. Then there is the butter tree of Africa, which produces as much as a hundred pounds at once, only to be renewed in a few months. This secretion when hardened and salted is difficult to distinguish from fresh, sweet butter. Closely rivaling this is the milk tree of South America, the sap of which resembles rich cow's milk and is used as such by the natives. China can boast of a soap tree, the seeds of which, when used as soap, produce strong suds and remove dirt and grease readily. In direct opposition to these useful trees is the man-eating plant of the tropics, which resembles Venus' fly-trap in its nature. It has a short, thick trunk armed with narrow, flexible, barbed spines.

A Survivor of the Grand Armee.

It is seriously stated in the Russian papers that a survivor of Napoleon's grand army which went to Russia on the disastrous campaign of 1812 has died at Saratoff, on the Volga, at the age of 126 years. The man's name was Nicholas Savin. He was captured by Cossacks during the retreat across the Beresina. It is said that he was born in Paris on the 17th of April, 1768, that his father was in the regiment called the Gardes Francaises in the reign of Louis XV., and that he was educated at the Jesuit college at Tours. He used to speak of the reign of terror and the execution of Louis XVI., which he well remembered. After his release from captivity Savin settled down in Saratoff, where he is said to have been greatly respected. In 1887 the late czar presented him with 1,000 rubles on his birthday.—London Daily News.

The Hair.

The root bulb of every hair has five or six small white filaments, which are to the bulb what the roots of an onion are to that vegetable, the means of collecting and bringing it to the proper nourishment.

CLOTHING MEN HAPPY

TRADE NOW OPENING UP WITH A GREAT BOOM.

Greatest Demand in Ten Years for Wearing Apparel—Free Wool Reduces Cost About One-fifth—Mills Hardly Equal to Orders.

Woolen Mills Busy.

The opening of spring trade has been awaited with much anxiety by manufacturers of men's clothing. On Jan. 1 the new wool schedule went into effect, and aside from the new order of things brought about by free wool, the condition of the trade was such as to keep the oldest man in the business guessing. For two years the wholesale clothing industry, in common with almost every other, has felt the effect of hard times. A great many people have been doing what Jay Gould once said they would have to do under certain contingencies—"buy only one suit where they would otherwise buy two." Having passed through two years of one-suit times, the clothing manufacturers have been very anxious to know how soon the days of two suits would return.

Last year was a particularly severe one on most of the large manufacturers. Their credit losses were not so heavy as might have been expected, but still were larger than usual. Customers simply refused to buy. They brushed up old stock, making it as attractive as possible, and offered it frequently at lower prices than new stock would have cost, rather than make new debts. This naturally made wholesale business very dull. Several big houses, whose financial standing is such that they need have no fear of telling the truth about their losses in 1894, quit the year almost $60,000 to the bad. Expenses ran on, but good sales were few and far between.

The opening this year, according to leaders of the Western trade, is all that could be desired. All the traveling salesmen are out now, taking orders for spring and summer goods. The reports they send in show that customers are buying more liberally than at any time in years. The revival of business is most general in Western and Northwestern States.

Two reasons are assigned for the boom in clothing. The one to which the trade attaches the more importance is that stocks were almost sold out all over the country. Retail dealers are simply compelled to buy new goods, having run through two seasons on slender purchases. The second reason, which is regarded as quite as important as the first, is that free wool prices will prevail on all goods sold this year. The saving to purchasers, under the new tariff law, varies with the weight of a suit, but in a general way it will be from one-sixth to one-fourth of the cost less than formerly. Ready-made suits that formerly brought $15 ought to be had this year for from $12 to $13. These prices naturally tempt retail dealers, and the result is a decided boom in the clothing industry.

The outlook is most promising for American woolen mills. Already most of the standard mills have all the contracts they can handle. Orders have been tumbling in at such a rate that doubts are expressed whether the American mills will be able to turn out cloth as fast as the manufacturers require it. It is customary among all the big manufacturers to place a preliminary order for cloth, and then wait and see how the suits are selling before they order more. This first order varies, but it is generally about 60 per cent. of the season's supply. The remainder is ordered when salesmen make their first trips. Already these preliminary orders have almost reached the total capacity of American mills, and serious doubts are expressed by some manufacturers whether the second or final orders for cloth can be promptly filled. There hasn't been a time in ten years when business opened so prosperously in the spring trade. Salesmen have been out since the first of the year—just long enough to get the temper of the trade. They are being favored with heavy orders everywhere.

"Coal-Barons" and Miners.

The Herald publishes to-day a masterly letter from Mr. B. D. Spilman, of Parkersburg, W. Va., on the question of encouraging coal miners and even "coal-barons" by granting them as a great boon the liberation of soft coal from all tariff duties.

This may seem a paradoxical position. But it is not. Hitherto the coal kings and miners have had few who could or would advocate their cause intelligently and show that every coal miner and coal mine owner would be greatly benefited by free coal. "Protectionist" politicians and newspapers have long posed as champions of mine labor and capital, clamoring against free trade in coal. Mr. Spilman, however, demonstrates from the facts and figures of the coal trade (in which he is evidently an expert) that "coal ought to be free in order to put the coal industry on a better footing."

He shows that "protection" is a fearful impediment and injury to the labor and ownership of coal mines. It seems to us, no disinterested man can read his letter without being convinced that the inaction of the United States Senate respecting the free coal bill is in direct and deadly hostility to the real interests of the coal industry and coal trade. Mine owners ought to memorialize the Senate to pass this bill at once.—New York Herald.

Spain's Tariff on Rats.

Spanish customs laws make no special provision for a duty on rats. This might at first apear strange; for duties, if high enough, will keep the articles on which they are levied out of the country. Rats being an undesirable importation, very high duties should be levied upon them in order that very low duties might be levied upon the goods which are desirable importations. But tariff makers in all countries adopt some very mysterious system of reasoning; or at least no trace of ordinary logic can be found in any tariff system.

But to return to the rat duty. The other day an animal trainer, with 300 trained rats, encountered the Spanish customs officials on the frontier of Portugal. They were certain the trainer ought to pay duty on his rats, but they could find no rats on their schedules. After adjourning to a wine-shop, they decided to tax rats at about 40 cents each under the classication of "savage beasts." The trainer refused to pay and threatentd to turn his rats loose. It was not until another session had been held in the wine-room, in which the trainer took an active part, that the officials concluded that the rats might pass free of duty.

Essence of Selfishness.

Protection is the essence of selfishness and greed. It was illustrated by the farmers of Middlesex, the county in which London is situated, when in the last century they petitioned Parliament against improving the abominable roads of England, on the grounds that so long as the roads were bad they would have a monopoly of the London markets for their produce, and that if the roads were improved the farmers of other counties could bring their stuff to London, thereby interfering with the industries of Middlesex. There wasn't much Christian charity in that, but it was protection—and protection is not a Christian institution. It is of heathen origin and flourishes in greatest perfection in heathen China and most heathen Africa.

When Sir Robert Peel was about establishing free trade a man engaged in the business of curing herring wrote to him as follows:

"I am a free-trader in every other respect, but with regard to herrings I caution you against the general ruin which you are about to inflict on those engaged in that branch of trade."

When illuminating gas was first used in the city of Paris, a tallow candle maker petitioned the city council to prohibit its use on the ground that it would break up his business of making tallow-candles. That fellow was a protectionist.

When the Christian religion was first proclaimed in this world Demetrius, the silversmith, fought it on the ground that it would break up his business of manufacturing silver images for the pagans to worship. He was the great, great grandfather of the whole protection gang, and his descendants are entirely worthy of such a sire.—Hon. Champ Clark, in Philadelphia, Dec. 23, 1894.

"Not Ashamed of Protection."

The open rebellion of some protectionist newspapers against high protection duties and the half-hearted way in which many others advocate such duties is a source of annoyance to the comparatively few newspapers which remain faithful to McKinleyism. The New York Press is much worried at the outlook and devotes much space to bracing up its contemporaries. It says "the Republican party is not ashamed of the McKinley law." It declares that "the McKinley law was based on a righteous and enduring principle" (selfishness), and that "the principle of protection must be the basis of all future Republican tariff legislation." "It is not a matter of favoritism to any section or to any class. It is a broad, definite and imperishable doctrine to which the Republican party has been inflexibly loyal since its birth." "Every intelligent American citizen knows that the Republican party is pledged to restore adequate and impartial protection to all American industries as soon as it has the opportunity to do so. That pledge will be faithfully kept in letter and in spirit. The Republican party does not apologize or retreat."

Perhaps also it will not advance. If it does not it will soon be out of touch with the people who are moving rapidly towards that goal towards which Garfield, Grant and Arthur pointed—ultimate free trade. If The Press wishes to keep in the procession it must soon get aboard the free trade band wagon.

Protection and Vote Buying.

The discussion of vote-buying in Delaware, provoked by the attempt of Addicks, the rich speculator, to purchase the Senatorship, has brought out an interesting bit of history, says the New York Evening Post. A prominent citizen who was looking over some old papers the other day discovered a letter from a Massachusetts manufacturer, written more than fifty years ago, which stated that he had just sent a check for $500 to Delaware to help the cause of protecton. The process of "frying the fat" out of protected manufacturers is thus shown to be one of long standing. Indeed, it is safe to say that it is of still greater antiquity than half a century, and that its beginning dates back to the time when it was first shown that a manufacturer could make money out of the Government by securing the passage of special legislation in his favor. Of course the evil grew as the system was developed and extended, until the time came when immense contributions were made to the campaign fund of a party on the understanding that, if successful in the election, it would frame a tariff bill which would enable the manufacturer to recoup himself in a short time. The connection between the protective system and the practice of buying votes is an interesting subject for study.

Indian Shipping and Tariff.

The Committee of the Legislative Council of India has just recommended "the admission free of duty of all vessels intended for use in inland waters."

It thus seems that India also has found it to her profit to adopt absolute free trade in ships. The last thing monopoly will consent to is the freedom of ships "used in inland waters" or for the coasting trade. Though England adopted the policy of free trade generally in 1846, it took eight years to sweep away a preposterous and barbarous old law which secured a monopoly of the British coasting trade to British ships. The statute books of all countries contain such relics of mediaeval barbarism—venerated by the ignorant, but not venerable.

The present movement to sweep away every vestige of protection, and to allow vessels built in any foreign country to ply the inland waters of India, is an evidence of good sense in the Indian government, by which the United States would do well to profit. Our navigation laws are now as preposterous and ruinous as were those of England or her colonies a century ago. If we are ever to have a share in the splendid empire of the ocean which England won by adopting the freeships policy we must follow in her wise footsteps.—New York Herald.

In a cubic foot of phosphorescent sea water there have been found 25,000 living creatures

SENATE AND HOUSE.

WORK OF OUR NATIONAL LAWMAKERS.

Proceedings of the Senate and House of Representatives—Important Measures Discussed and Acted Upon—Gist of the Business.

The National Solons.

Monday was a field day in the Senate. Mr. Gorman of Maryland scored the opponents of the income tax, and Messrs. Allison and Hill retorted in bitter terms. A few minor bills were introduced, but nothing of real importance was done. In the house the bill to provide for the enlargement of the judicial system of Indian Territory was passed.

Debate on the income tax item in the deficiency appropriation bill was continued in the Senate Tuesday. The Senate adopted resolutions calling for information as to the amount of sugar imported and the quantity of spirits taken out of bond during the sixty days previous to the taking effect of the tariff bill. The day in the House was devoted, after the morning hour, to the Indian appropriation bill, but no progress was made before adjournment. General Grosvenor presented a reply to a memorial sent to the Judiciary Committee by Mr. Ritchie, of Akron, Ohio, containing supplementary charges against Judge Ricks and involving ex-Senator H. B. Payne and Judge Stevenson Burke. He asked for an investigation of the charges.

During the debate on the Indian appropriation bill in the House Wednesday Messrs. Walker, Warner and Reed engaged in a discussion of the currency question. The Senate passed the deficiency appropriation bill after adopting an amendment limiting the interrogatories of officers seeking to collect the income tax. The printing bill, which has been passed by both Houses and signed by the President, is found to revive the franking privilege.

The currency question was the chief topic in the Senate Thursday, the debate being general. The pension bill, carrying $141,000,000, was passed. The army bill appropriating $23,250,000 was then taken up. At the opening of the session of the House a bill was passed on motion of Mr. Henderson, of Illinois, to grant Mrs. Sarah A. Clapp the pay and allowance of a surgeon for services as such in the Seventh Illinois Infantry. The Senate amendments to the urgent deficiency bill were disagreed to and the bill sent to conference. The House then went into committee of the whole for the further consideration of the Indian appropriation bill.

The Senate Friday passed the army appropriation bill, carrying $23,000,000, and the bill which in effect advances General Schofield, in command of the army, to the rank of lieutenant general, held by Generals Sherman and Sheridan. Aside from this the day was given to the debate on the Nicaraguan Canal. In the House the Senate bill granting to the Gila Valley Railroad Company a right of way through the San Carlos Indian reservation was passed. Also a bill to expend a portion of the appropriation made in the last river and harbor act for St. Joseph's harbor, Michigan, to complete the connection between St. Joseph and Benton Harbor. Consideration of the Indian bill was then resumed. At a night session there was a sharp contention over the pension bill.

NAPOLEON OF JOURNALISM.

Title Applied to Brilliant and Brainy John A. Cockerill.

John A. Cockerill, the brilliant journalist whose name and fame have pervaded this continent, leaves for Japan in a short time, to be the war correspondent of the New York Herald and to establish a foreign edition of the Herald. Colonel Cockerill has been termed the "Napoleon of Journalism," and he deserves the title. To him more than any other man belongs the credit of building up in rapid succession the Cincinnati Enquirer, St. Louis Post-Dispatch, and New York World. Colonel Cockerill is brainy, brilliant and original in his methods, impulsive and quick-tempered, but seldom vindictive. He is about 45 years of age and a man of fine physique.

JOHN A. COCKERILL.

Place Names.

Onondaga, the name of a New York lake, means the "Marsh at the Foot of the Hills."

Saranac, the name of the New York stream, means, "River that Flows Under Rocks."

Cape Fear was so named by Sir Walter Raleigh, who found bad weather there in 1585.

The Conemaugh river, Pa., was named by the Indians. The word means "Otter Creek."

Nansemond, the name of a Virginia river, signifies the "place from which we ran away."

The Kentucky river was first named the Louisa, in honor of the Duchess of Cumberland.

The translation of Potomac is "Place of the Burning Pine," an allusion to a grand council.

Croton is an Indian word meaning "The Wind." The river was named for an Indian chief.

The Indians called the Des Moines river the Inyanshoh-shahwopka, "River of Red Stones."

Blackwell's Island was named from James Blackwell, its former owner. The Indians called it Minnehannock, the "island place."

The St. Croix river, in Maine, was named from the cross made by two rivers at its mouth.

The Colorado River took its name from the color of its waters, the Spanish word meaning red. It is muddy only at high water.

Point Comfort was named by the first colonists in 1607. The name was bestowed on account of the good channel and safe anchorage.

Cape Canaveral, in Florida, was named by the Spaniards from the abundance of flowers in the vicinity. The name means "Land of the Rose Tree."

INDIANA INCIDENTS.

SOBER OR STARTLING, FAITHFULLY RECORDED.

An Interesting Summary of the More Important Doings of Our Neighbors—Weddings and Deaths—Crimes, Casualties and General News Notes.

Condensed State News.

LAPORTE COUNTY has a hamlet known as Squat Ham.

MRS. MAHALA LEWIS, aged 78, near Martinsville, is dead.

THE American wire nail works at Anderson, has resumed operations.

FRANK K. KENDRICH, Northern Indiana pioneer, died at Rochester.

THE Cumberland Presbyterian Church near Princeton is in embers. Loss, $2,500.

MADISON claims the smallest per cent. of deaths of any city of its size in the State.

WILLIAM SHAY was knocked from an oil derrick near Boyleston, and probably fatally injured.

WAKARUSA boasts of the acquisition of nine residences, a flouring mill and an elevator during 1894.

PLEASANT travelers who pass bogus checks and sell gold bricks are plying their vocation in Daviess County.

FRANK A. WILD, Anderson, will build his new opera house after the plan of the Moorish palace at the World's Fair.

SEVERAL of the big glass plants in the gas belt have refused to enter into a State combine to close down for sixty days.

THE Van Buren, Grant County, authorities have paid $200 for a pair of bloodhounds to be used in running down criminals.

GEORGE STEELE of Waverly, went home drunk and abused his wife. He set fire to her hair and she was badly burned. He was arrested.

CONNERSVILLE is having a good deal of trouble for want of gas. The gas is piped from the Carthage field, a distance of twenty-six miles.

WILLIAM P. THOMPSON, an insurance agent, had a foot crushed at Marion while attempting to board a moving train on the Big Four Railroad.

ROBERT CONNOR, employed in a packing house at Hammond, received word that his uncle had died in Edinburg, and left him a fortune of $185,000.

JOSEPH B. CLOUD, aged 72, living north of Goshen, died from the effects of a terrible beating given him New Year's by his youngest son, a lunatic.

JOHN MCCLANNAHAN and Ed. Williams, prisoners in the Wabash jail, engaged in a quarrel, and Williams seriously cut McClannahan on the face and neck with a knife.

THE Richmond Gas Company has announced to its consumers using mixers that it will reduce gas bills for January when paid next month, on account of the feeble supply of gas during the cold weather.

AT Shelbyville, William Reece, prominent farmer, sustained fatal injuries in a runaway. His right arm was broken, hip dislocated and internal injuries sustained, which the physicians say will result fatally.

JOHN MINTON, aged 65, was stricken with apoplexy while in O'Harra's blacksmith shop at Muncie. He fell to the floor as if dead, but rallied and may recover. Mr. Minton is a popular Delaware County farmer.

A SEVEN-YEAR-OLD son of H. H. Leathors of Brooklyn, was in the wagon sitting on a scoop board with his feet hanging inside. The horses moved up under a shed, the boy was caught between cross pieces in the shed and the scoop board, being injured internally so that he died.

A SUIT was begun at Peru against the Lake Erie and Western for $10,000 for the death of Engineer Henry Griffin, who was killed at the Wabash River bridge wreck several years ago. There was also a suit for $2,000 by Frank Wade, fireman, who was permanently injured in the same wreck.

AT Lafayette, while workmen were raising three immense trusses to be used in supporting the roof of the new Monon paint shop, the rope broke and the derrick and trusses fell to the ground, carrying down Charles F. Mack, who was superintending the hoisting. Mr. Mack's jawbone was broken and he was hurt internally.

AN immense deal has been completed at Dunkirk by which the Dunkirk Land Company agrees to dispose of $200,000 worth of real estate and thereby secure the location of a mammoth steel plant, which will give employment to 1,500 hands. The enterprise is backed by Chicago and Marion capitalists, who expect to have 500 men at work constructing the buildings by February 15.

MRS. ELIZA OLDHAM of Van Buren Township, Shelby County, has just commenced cutting her third set of teeth, a phenomenon not often met with. She is 65 years old, and some time ago had all her teeth extracted and a false set made. In a short time after this she cut a tooth which has since grown entirely through and is perfectly developed. Others are now pushing through.

MR. J. B. HOLMES one of the prominent men of Jeffersonville, died recently of consumption. He had been ill for fifteen years, but several years since gave himself into the cure of a faith cure man, Rev. Buckley, and it was claimed he was cured. At that time the faith cure was being agitated and a great many of the citizens were much exercised over it. After a few years the condition of Mr. Holmes again became critical, and he suffered greatly until his death. He was 65 years old, and for years was in the grocery business.

REAL ESTATE men of Alexandria and Elwood are projecting a scheme to unite the two cities and thus control absolutely the gas territory of two of the best townships in the field. It is reported that the primary object is to shut out the Fort Wayne Gas Company, better known as the New York syndicate, which recently purchased many of the Indiana plants. Monroe Township is five by six miles, and lies in the center of the best producing gas belt in the State. Nearly every farmer in the township has been importuned to join the enterprise, being promised exemption from city taxes for several years.

CARL C. BEARDSLEY, son of ex-Senator Charles Beardsley of Elkhart, who mysteriously disappeared, some time since, has been located in Australia, where he is engaged in missionary work.

A DISTRESSING accident occurred at the home of James Swanson, Anderson. Swanson is an employe in the American wire nail mill and worked till midnight. When he arrived home he found an infant, two days old, smothered to death. The mother had fallen asleep with the babe in her bed. The bed clothes, in some manner, had fallen over the little one in such a manner that it suffocated. The mother's life is in danger because of the shock.

GEORGE A. MCCLUNG was arrested at Eaton, for refusing to shut down his straw board works, election day, in order to give his employes a chance to vote.

EX-COMMISSIONER PACKWOOD of Clark County, states that the cold snap has killed all the peaches in that vicinity. Cherries and other fruits are also damaged considerably. This is very discouraging to the fruit growers, as this is one of the principal industries of that section, and for several years past the weather has interfered to a great extent with the fruit crop. This opinion is endorsed by several authorities on the subject. Hon. H. C. Poindexter, Representative from Clarke County, is one of the principal fruit growers in Southern Indiana.

INDIANA LEGISLATURE.

MONDAY the Legislature got fairly started into the work of the session.

The following bills were introduced in the Senate: For the establishment of "The Indiana School for Unfortunate Children." The bill is strongly recommended by the State Board of Charities, and especially by Secretary Bicknell, who has given the subject much study. The purpose of the bill is to collect the unfortunate children that are lodged in the poor-houses of the State, educate them and secure their adoption into good families.

Senator Wishard introduced a bill repealing the legislative apportionment act of two years ago. This is intended as paving the way for the enactment of an apportionment law in place of the present one.

Senator Baker introduced a bill to prevent the pollution of the lakes and streams of the State. It is aimed at the strawboard and other factories which, during the last few years, have killed all the fish in the Mississinowa, Wabash, and Whitewater Rivers. The penalty imposed is a fine of from two to five hundred dollars.

Senator Haggard introduced a bill providing for the appointment of a commission of three members to canvass and report upon the practicability of constructing a ship canal from Lake Michigan to the head waters of navigation on the Wabash.

Other bills were introduced as follows: Providing for two cents a mile on all railroads; providing for the appointment of humane inspectors; requiring insurance companies to keep a certain sum of money on deposit in the State to be taxed; limiting the charge of companies that operate stock-yards within three miles of a city; amending the voluntary associations act by striking out the section under which the Roby Athletic Association was formed; abolishing the death penalty; providing for the removal of habitual drunkards to institutions that practice the Keeley cure; providing for a license of $60 for wholesaling cigarettes, and a license of $25 for the retailing of the same; placing all the insane hospitals under the management of one board.

THE much-mooted question of calling a constitutional convention took definite shape in the House Tuesday, when a resolution was offered and referred to a committee calling attention to the necessity of radical changes in the organic law of the State, and asking that a proposition be submitted to the people at the next election for the assembling of such a convention. The resolution provides for the appointment of a committee of five from each house, who shall draw a call for such convention and report not later than Feb. 4.

An amendment was also proposed to the constitution which would make a radical change in respect to the election of senators and representatives to whom it alone relates. It provides that the State Senate shall consist of sixty members instead of fifty as at present, and the sixty members shall be elected from twenty districts, but only two senators of the same political party shall be chosen at the one time for the same district. The scheme is practically minority representation in the Senate, and under its operations the minority party would have one-third of the members. Each county is to have representatives in the House ranging from one to six, according to population, thus making a body of about 130 members.

Speaker Adams announced his committees, the list of chairmanships is as follows:

Elections, Crozier; ways and means, Allen; judiciary, Robinson; courts, Lambert; banks, Elliott; education, Adams of Parke; prison, south, Landy; claims, Terhune; trust lands, Thomas; fees and salaries, Van Arsdell; sinking fund, Lloyd; rights and privileges, Pettit; railroads, Hamrick; manufactures and commerce, Vonnegut; county and township business, Ross; agriculture, Beeker; benevolent and scientific institutions, Remy; temperance, Nicholson; mileage and accounts, Narker; corporations, Merritt; canals, Howe; public expenditures, Harris; federal relations, Willoughby; city of Indianapols, Leedy; cities and towns, Holloway; roads, McCray; statistics, Laidlaw; insurance, McBeth; printing, Harrison of Elkhart; reformatory institutions, Moore; drains and dikes, Jackson; labor, O'Brien; congressional apportionment, Stutesman; legislative apportionment, Newhouse.

The following bills were introduced in House Wednesday:

To prohibit the location of a saloon within one mile of a State or National Soldiers' Home; to erect permanent meridian lines at county seats; to regulate the laying of gas and steam pipes across and along public highways; providing for the relief of soldiers and sailors confined in the poor-houses of the State; requiring insurance companies to publish their annual statements in two papers of each county where they do business; providing penalties for the receiving of monies in State banks when such banks are known to be insolvent; to prevent corruption in elections and to limit the expenses of candidates; regulating charges for natural gas; to amend the election law by doing away with the printing of sample ballots.

The following is a summary of the bills introduced in the House: A bill prohibiting the shipment of woodcock from the State; providing for the abolition of the office of natural gas inspector; forbidding the preference of creditors by insolvent debtors, and providing for the settlement of their estate; to place employes of the State institutions under civil-service regulations; prescribing the manner of electing officials in cities under 35,000 inhabitants; to legalize the acts of notaries public; to destroy noxious weeds on public highways; to compel street railroad companies in cities over 100,000 to pay 15 per cent. of gross receipts into the city treasury; concerning the reclamation of lands and the location of ditches; to amend the election law, providing for beginning of terms of trustees and assessors elected in 1894; to protect rights of employes; to regulate travel on public highways; to provide for the wellbeing of street car employes by compelling use of vestibules in winter months; providing for licensing and examing stationary engineers; Regulating the sale of intoxicating liquors; amending an act concerning interest and usury, limiting the rate of interest to 6 per cent.; To clear the public highways of obnoxious weeds.

THE Senate Thursday killed the bill which recommended the abolition of capital punishment, after a short discussion. Quite a lively time was had in the House and several hours were passed in the discussion of the proposition to reduce the salaries of the employes, but the measure failed to pass and there will be reduction.

Among the numerous bills recommended by the House committees for passage were various insurance measures, and one providing for boiler inspection.

The feature of the day was the introduction of the Nicholson saloon bill, one of the most rigid measures that has been presented to the General Assembly for years.

The Senate was in session but a short time Friday. The work of the Senate is at that stage where the accomplishment of results depends more on committee work than it does on open sessions. Senator Schneck introduced a bill the theory of which is to reform criminals rather than to punish them. It provides for the establishment of not less than five or more than six intermediary or reformatory prisons.

Senator Wishard introduced a bill to amend co-employers' liability act. The bill was drafted by the labor organizations, and that element is earnestly advocating its passage.

Other bills were introduced in the Senate as follows: Amending the act providing for the opening and widening of streets; providing for the recovery of real estate lost through the foreclosure of a mortgage.

Scrofulous Taints

Lurk in the blood of almost every one. In many cases they are inherited. Scrofula appears in running sores, bunches, pimples and cancerous growths. Scrofula can be cured by purifying the blood with Hood's Sarsaparilla. This great remedy has had wonderful success in curing this disease. It thoroughly eradicates the humor from the blood. Hood's Sarsaparilla cures the sores and eruptions by removing their cause—impurities in the blood.

Hood's Sarsaparilla Cures

Hood's Pills cure all liver ills. 25c.

New Terror for French Convicts.

Life in the French penal colony at New Caledonia has been pictured as so agreeable, both by reason of the climate as well as the leniency with which convicts have have been treated, that transportation seems to have lost most of its terrors. Criminals do not conceal their preference for a long sentence in the beautiful Pacific island to a much shorter term with hard labor in one of the penitentiaries at home, and when perpetrating a misdeed have sought as a rule to render their offense as serious as possible, so as to entail transportation if captured. It is with a view of putting an end to this sentiment that the French Government has now decided to stop sending convicts to New Caledonia, and is making arrangements to deport them instead to the Gaboon, the fever-stricken and most pestilential of all districts of French Congoland, in Africa.—New York Tribune.

A WOMAN is a bride as long as her husband takes her along to a show.

DR. KILMER'S SWAMP-ROOT

TRADE MARK

THE GREAT KIDNEY, LIVER AND BLADDER CURE.

Biliousness

Headache, foul breath, sour stomach, heartburn, pain in chest, dyspepsia, constipation.

Poor Digestion

Distress after eating, pain and bloating in the stomach, shortness of breath, pain in the heart.

Loss of Appetite

A splendid feeling to-day and a depressed one to-morrow, nothing seems to taste good, tired, sleepless and all unstrung, weakness, debility. Swamp-Root builds up quickly a run down constitution and makes the weak strong.

At Druggists 50 cents and $1.00 size.

"Invalids' Guide to Health" free—Consultation free.

DR. KILMER & CO., BINGHAMTON, N. Y.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

CURES ALL

Ailments of Women.

It will entirely cure the worst forms of Female Complaints, all Ovarian troubles, Inflammation and Ulceration, Falling and Displacements of the Womb, and consequent Spinal Weakness, and is peculiarly adapted to the Change of Life.

It has cured more cases of Leucorrhœa than any remedy the world has ever known. It is almost infallible in such cases. It dissolves and expels Tumors from the Uterus in an early stage of development, and checks any tendency to cancerous humors. That causing pain, weight, and backache, is instantly relieved and permanently cured by its use. Under all circumstances it acts in harmony with the laws that govern the female system, and is as harmless as water.

Bearing-down Feeling

All druggists sell it. Address in confidence, LYDIA E. PINKHAM MED. CO., LYNN, MASS.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Liver Pills, 25 cents.

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50c and $1 bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

Ely's Cream Balm

Cleanses the Nasal Passages, Allays Pain and Inflammation, Restores the Senses of Taste and Smell. Heals the Sores.

Apply Balm into each nostril. ELY BROS., 56 Warren St., N. Y.

A CITY OF INTEREST.

QUEBEC, ITS HISTORY AND ASSOCIATIONS.

Once the Bulwark of French Power, It Passed After Memorable Sieges Under English Domination—Some of Its Scenery.

The City To-day.

There are few cities in North America the history of which is more interesting than that of Quebec, and perhaps none which are provided by nature with such a fine and spacious harbor. Originally intended and still maintained as a fortress, it has played an important part in the military annals of North America. For more than a century it was the bulwark of French power on the continent, and then it passed into English hands to become the Gibraltar of Great Britain's ascendancy. It has stood many memorable sieges, and against its walls have broken the tides of French, English, Indian and American invasion. Before it, in 1759, the victorious Wolfe and the defeated Montcalam fell, and before it, too, the brave Montgomery, leading his scanty band of Americans, was instantly killed. The scars of war still remain, but the flourishing city of the St. Lawrence is unmindful of them in its busy and extensive commercial and industrial life.

FALLS OF MONTMORENCY.

Quebec was founded in 1608 by Samuel de Champlain, the celebrated French geographer and navigator, and who gave to the beautiful sheet of water—Lake Champlain—the name it still bears. The early history of the settlement is the struggle waged for existence, in a new and unsettled land, against the inroads of the savage Iroquois, the Indian allies of the English colonists in what is now the United States, and the hereditary enemies of the Algonquins, the friends and allies of the French. In those long and disastrous wars England and France exchanged many cruel blows, the scars from which may never be wholly healed. In 1629 Quebec fell into the hands of the English, but three years later it was restored to the French by the treaty of St. Germain-en-Laye, together with the ill-fated Acadian Peninsula and Cape Breton. In 1690 it stood a memorable siege by Sir William Phips, royal Governor of Massachusetts. Phips was one of a family of 26 children and in 1684, while in England, was enabled to fit out an expedition in quest of a Spanish plate vessel, which was wrecked off the Bahamas. He succeeded in obtaining the treasure in 1687 and on his delivery of it—$3,000,000 worth—to the English treasury he was knighted and made Governor of Massachusetts. Soon afterward he captured Port Royal, N. S., and emboldened by success attacked Quebec. He was defeated, however, and after displaying himself, with Cotton Mather, in the witchcraft trials was summoned to England, where he died in 1695. Again in 1711 Quebec had an almost providential deliverance from the fleet of Sir Horsenden Walker, an English admiral. He set sail from Boston with a powerful force to capture Quebec and bring the providence into subjection to England. But eight transports, containing nearly 1,000 men, were wrecked and lost on Egg Island in the lower St. Lawrence, and Quebec continued under the rule of France. In 1795 the colony of Quebec, deserted by France and left to struggle against all the powers of England, succumbed to the inevitable and the same day that saw Wolfe die in the arms of victory on the Plains of Abraham also saw his adversary in arms, Montcalm, receive his fatal wound. The following day the gallant French general died, rejoicing that he should not live to see the surrender of Quebec. Again in 1775 Quebec was menaced by the Americans. After the capture of Fort Chambly, St. Johns and Montreal by the Americans the forces of Gen. Montgomery and Arnold united and marched on Quebec. Too weak to attempt a siege they decided on a coup de main, but a battery discharge instantly killed Montgomery and his disheartened troops fell back in confusion. Quebec was saved to the British.

MONUMENT ERECTED TO WOLFE AND MONTCALM.

MONTCALM'S HEADQUARTERS, BEAUFORT.

Although Quebec has ceased to be a garrison town its strategic position has been greatly strengthened by the English, to whom are due its modern citadel and surrounding walls, its casemated forts and its armament of rifled artillery. It is one of the few walled cities on the continent and is believed to be the strongest fortress in North America. Both inside and without the city are many landmarks of its warlike past. There is much picturesque scenery, also, and many objects of interest to the traveler. Perhaps the Montmorency Falls, in the Montmorency River, which falls into the St. Lawrence, eight miles below Quebec, is the greatest natural attraction around Quebec. Near its mouth the river takes a perpendicular fall of 250 feet, with a width of 50 feet, and forms one of the most beautiful cateracts in the world. A cone of ice is formed every winter below the falls and sometimes attains a height of 200 feet.

Quebec is yearly adding to the diversity of her industries, but her chief business from the beginning of the century has been ship-building. As many as 20 or 30 vessels, of from 500 to 2,000 tons burden, are built during one winter.

MAKING HIM USEFUL.

The Indoor Cyclist Is No Longer Simply an Ornament.

An ancient proverb very wisely recommends us to combine the useful with the agreeable. The invention of indoor training machines for cyclists permits of putting this proposition in practice in the happiest manner. For some time the question has been put whether in-door bicycle training can be made of benefit to anybody? This is evidently what was asked by the author of the device shown in our engraving, and who, with much intelligence, and very appositely, has discovered a practical process of preventing a very appreciable source of energy from remaining unemployed.

In his system, the driving wheel, instead of revolving idly, is connected by an endless cord with the flywheel of a sewing machine or any other small apparatus that requires a moderate force to set it in motion.

Owing to this arrangement, each kick of the pedal is utilized, and the cyclist experiences the sweet satisfaction of knowing that, while training himself in view of a coming race, he is also doing something useful. As may be seen, nothing could be better. But who would ever have expected to see the bicycle thus converted into an apparatus of domestic and practical utility?—Scientific American.

PUTTING THE BICYCLE TO PRACTICAL USE.

Snake-Eating Snake.

A wonderful snake has been added to the collection of the London Zoo. This is the ophiophagus elaps, which Sir Joseph Fayrer denominates as "probably the largest and most formidable venomous snake known," growing, as it does, to a length of twelve or fourteen feet or more. The technical name ophiophagus means "snake-eater;" and there seems to be no doubt that the snake eats other ophidians, although it also devours birds, fish, frogs and other small quadrupeds.

It is found in India, Burmah and the Phillippines, in Java, Borneo and Sumatra, and is more common in Bengal, Burmah, Assam and Southern India than in the northwest and central part of the Indian region. The snake is a near relation of the famous cobra di capello, and, like the latter, possesses a hood, which, however, is narrower than in the cobra. Most snakes get out of a man's way and will avoid rather than court an attack; but the snake-eater is said to be an aggressive ophidian, and not only attacks of its own free will, but will even pursue an enemy.

Good Horses Still Valuable.

Horses by the million, but of small value, are to be found in the United States. Many believe that the days of equine usefulness are about numbered, except in a limited way, owing to the wide use of electricity as a motive power, and to the bicycle as a "roadster." As a result of present conditions, horseflesh in most parts of the country is very cheap, and many farmers and breeders take a gloomy view of the situation. It is possible, however, that the horse market, like the fruit market, is overburdened with common stuff, and that really good stock will still bring a fair price. Apropos of this view of the case, the Horseman, a journal able to speak with some authority, says:

"Dealers in fine carriage and draft horses report a great scarcity of really desirable individuals; in fact, many complain that they experience much difficulty in filling orders. At the great marts a superabundant supply of common stock may be found any day of the year, but good carriage or coach horses, fine gentlemen's roadsters or heavy draft teams are scarce and bring fairly remunerative prices."

A Lord's Wine Bill.

Lord Clancarty, the husband of Belle Bilton of Drury Lane celebrity, is once more before the public, this time as the defendant in a suit brought by a wine merchant against the peer for an unpaid wine bill. The case was decided against the earl, and he has been condemned to pay the full amount, together with heavy costs, running, together with the judgment, to some $4,000. Lord Clancarty endeavored by every means in his power to avoid paying this debt, and even went to the length of trying to saddle the responsibility of the account upon his former friend, Brown Cave, who was his partner in the ill-fated Junior Travelers' Club, which they founded. There is no earthly reason why Lord Clancarty should not now pay this judgment and all his other debts, since he at present is in affluent circumstances, owing to his mother having compromised the lawsuits which he brought against her by surrendering to him the larger portion of the estates and money which had been left to her, and not to him, at the death of the late earl.

The water of the Strait of Gibraltar is 150 fathoms deep.

Christopher Columbus, Cat.

A cat in an Indiana avenue flat insists on receiving attention. When his mistress has callers the cat is in the parlor ahead of her and inspects the visitors by jumping into their laps and purring. If he is put out he sets up a caterwaul which discounts anything heard on the back fence at night.

When the domestic retires the cat makes such demonstrations at the door of her bed room that she cannot sleep until she lets the feline into her apartment. If she turns out the gas he puts up another wail, which is continued until she lights up. As he is a pet he is never permitted to leave the house, particularly at night. When a baby visitor comes to the house the cat has the sulks and cannot be coaxed from his retreat while the baby remains. A doll was recently brought to the house and the cat watched his opportunity and tore it to pieces. During the day he is as meek as a dove, except when there are callers, but at night he is the terror of the apartments. He is fond of music, and while the girls play on an old jewsharp the cat will sit and listen entranced.

This cat is one of a litter that was born at Jackson Park Chicago day of the Columbian Exposition in the engine-house near Choral Hall. He was christened Christopher Columbus. There is a resemblance, in the opinion of some persons, between the pictures of Columbus and the cat's face. At any rate, the cat is a sort of discoverer, and prowls the live-long night. But he is permitted to live in spite of the fact that he is an incorrigible nuisance. —Chicago Tribune.

The Lass oExperts of Mexico.

The cowboys of New Mexico, Texas and Arizona are all skilled in the art of using the lasso. I used to be in the ranching line myself, and once thought I could throw a rope as straight as any man living. But that was before I mixed to any extent with the Mexicans. As good as the American cowboys are, they can't hold a candle to a greaser when it comes to the roping business. They can do things with hemp that no other mortals can ever hope to accomplish.

A Mexican will chase a steer at full speed, and, while he guides his bronco with one hand, whirl his rope with unerring aim with the other, and it isn't once in a thousand times that the noose will fail to catch just where the rider meant. A favorable trick with them is to stick a lot of long-handled knives in the ground close together within the limits of a narrow circle, and bet with outsiders that they can ride past at racehorse speed and pick up any one of the knives designated with a rope. They are good marksmen with the rifle, too, but in this regard the coyboys are fully their peers.

MICHIGAN'S BENEFACTOR.

AN OFT REPEATED STORY OF TRUE PHILANTHROPY.

What Chas. H. Hackley Has Done for Western Michigan.

(From Grand Rapids, Mich., Evening Press.)

The most beautiful spot in all this city is inseparably associated with the name of Hackley. Chas. H. Hackley has been in the lumber business here continuously since 1856, and in that time has amassed a fortune which gives him a rating among the wealthy men of the nation. But with wealth there did not come that tightening of the purse strings which is generally a marked characteristic of wealthy men.

It is no wonder, then, that the name of Charles H. Hackley is known at home and abroad. His munificence to Muskegon alone represents an outlay of nearly half a million. For the past twenty years he has been a constant sufferer from neuralgia and rheumatism, also numbness of the lower limbs, so much so that it has seriously interfered with his pleasure in life. For some time past his friends have noticed that he has seemed to grow young again and to have recovered the health which he had in youth.

To a reporter for the Press Mr. Hackley explained the secret of this transformation. "I have suffered for over 20 years," he said, "with pains in my lower limbs so severely that the only relief I could get at night was by putting cold water compresses on my limbs. I was bothered more at night than in the day time. The neuralgic and rheumatic pains in my limbs, which had been growing in intensity for years, finally became chronic. I made three trips to the Hot Springs, with only partial relief, and then fell back to my original state. I couldn't sit still, and my sufferings began to make life look very blue. Two years ago last September I noticed an account of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People and what they had done for others, and some cases so nearly resembled mine that I was interested, so I wrote to one who had given a testimonial, an eminent professor of music in Canada. The reply I received was even stronger than the printed testimonial and it gave me faith in the medicine.

"I began taking the pills and found them to be all that the professor had told me they would be. It was two or three months before I experienced any perceptible betterment of my condition. My disease was of such long standing that I did not expect speedy recovery, and was thankful even to be relieved. I progressed rapidly, however, towards recovery, and for the last six months have felt myself a perfectly well man. I have recommended the pills to many people, and am only too glad to assist others to health through the medium of this wonderful medicine. I cannot say too much for what it has done for me."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are for sale by all druggists, or may be had by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y., for 50c. per box, or six boxes for $2.50.

Encouraging.

When Judge Buxton, of North Carolina, as a young lawyer made his first appearance at the bar, the solicitor, as is customary in that State, asked him to take charge of a case for him. The young lawyer did his best, and the jury found the defendent, who was charged with some petty misdemeanor, guilty. Soon after one of the jurors, coming round the bar, tapped him on the shoulder. "Buxton," said he, "the jury did not think that man was guilty, but we did not like to discourage a young lawyer."

No Indorsement.

One of the judgements of Sir Francis Johnson, Chief Justice of the Superior Court of Province of Quebec, was appealed to the Court of Appeals and sustained. On being met by Judge M——, the latter said: "Well, Frank, I have just sustained a judgment of yours." "Yes? Well, my dear M——, I still think I was right."

THE temptation is never so great to slight the truth as when a man is telling about himself.

ATTEND the Fort Wayne Business College.

THEY always speak of it as Love's young dream, because it so rarely lives to be old.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

Chasing a House on a Bicycle.

Monday afternoon an inspector left the office of the health department with orders to inspect a frame house over on the island. The house was on the sight of a projected elevator, and was about to be removed to a point near by. The health authorities deemed it wise to look into its sanitary condition before it was planted elsewhere, so they instructed the inspector to make a rigid investigation. He went there yesterday morning, but found no house. Upon inquiry he learned that the structure had been quietly removed on a flatboat several hours before to some unknown spot. He reported the fact to his superiors. They investigated further, and learned that it was moving up the Blackwell Canal far beyond the Tifft farm. It is said that Dean Wilson went after it on a bicycle.—Buffalo Courier.

Remarkable Devotion.

One remarkable trait in Beaconfield's character was his noble demeanor to his wife. From the day of his marriage to the day of her death he treated her with a chivalrous devotion. And yet she was a most repulsive woman—flat, angular, underbred, with a harsh, grating voice; and though by no means a fool, yet constantly saying stupid things, most frequently about him, which tended to make him ridiculous; as, for instance, when the conversation turned on some man's fine complexion. "Ah," she said, "I wish you could only see my Dizzy in his bath, then you would know what a white skin is."

Nelson's Loyalty.

Nelson's attachment to his friends was as ardent as his courage. When he was presented to King George the Third at his levee, his majesty congratulated him on his great actions; after this eulogium, he condoled with him on the loss of his arm. Nelson turned round to Capt. Berry, who had been the companion of many of his exploits, and introduced him to the King, with this remark: "My loss, I assure your majesty, is not so great as you imagine, for here is my right hand."

Before a Full Head of Steam

Is gathered by that tremendously destructive engine, malaria, put on the brakes with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which will check its progress and avert disaster. Chills and fever, bilious remittent, dumb ague and ague cake are promptly relieved and ultimately cured by this genial specific, which is also a comprehensive family medicine, speedily useful in cases of dyspepsia, biliousness, constipation, sick headache, nervousness, rheumatism and neuralgia. Against the hurtful effects of sudden changes of temperature, exposure in wet weather, close application to laborious mental pursuits, and other influences prejudicial to health, it is a most trustworthy safeguard. It fortifies the system against disease, promotes appetite and sleep, and hastens convalescence after debilitating and flesh wasting diseases.

Did Him Injustice.

After the death of George Canning, the English statesman, there was erected to his memory a bronze statue of heroic size, with that green incrustation known as verd-antique. One day Judge Tauton, coming out of Westminster Hall with Thesiger, the able lawyer, pased before the statue and began criticising it. He found fault with the likeness, and then, with emphasis, said: "Besides, Canning was not so tall!" "No, nor so green," retorted the lawyer.

How's This!

We offer One Hundred Dollars reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

We the undersigned have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions and financially able to carry out any obligations made by their firm.

WEST & TRUAX, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O.
WALDING, KINNAN & MARVIN, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Testimonials sent free. Price 75c. per bottle. Sold by all Druggists.

PRINCE ALBERT of Prussia, the Prince Regent of Brunswick, has become a large landowner in east Africa in order to encourage German colonial enterprise. His estates cover a square mile.

$300 for a Name.

This is the sum we hear the Salzer Seed Co. offer for a suitable name for their wonderful new oats. The United States Department of Agriculture says Salzer's oats is the best of 300 varieties tested. A great many farmers report a test yield of 200 bushels per acre last year, and are sure this can be grown and even more during 1895. Another farmer writes us he cropped 112 bushels of Salzer's Marvel Spring Wheat on two and one-half acres. At such yield wheat pays at 30c per bu. One thing we know, and that is that Salzer is the largest Farm Seed grower in the world and sells potatoes at $2.50 per barrel.

If You Will Cut This Out and Send It with 10c postage to the John A. Salzer Seed Co., La Crosse, Wis., you get free his mammoth catalogue and a package of above $300 Prize Oats. C. N. U.

SOME men's idea of disgrace is to get whipped in a fight.

ASTONISHING, BUT TRUE.

Some Wonderful Things Can Be Accomplished in This World.

A number of our great and most inveterate tobacco smokers and chewers have quit the use of the filthy weed. The talismanic article that does the work is No-to-bac. The reform was started by Aaron Gorber, who was a confirmed slave for many years to the use of tobacco. He tried the use of No-to-bac, and to his great surprise and delight it cured him. Hon. C. W. Ashcom, who had been smoking for sixty years, tried No-to-bac and it cured him. Col. Samuel Stoutner, who would eat up tobacco like a cow eats hay, tried this wonderful remedy and even Samuel, after all his years of slavery, lost the desire. J. C. Cobler, Lessing Evans, Frank Dell, George B. May, C. O. Skillington, Hanson Robinett, Frank Hershberger, John Shinn, and others have since tried No-to-bac, and in every case they report not only a cure of the tobacco habit but a wonderful improvement in their general physical and mental condition, all of which goes to show that the use of tobacco had been injurious to them in more ways than one. No-to-bac is popular with the druggists, as they all sell under absolute guarantee to cure or refund the money.—From the Press, Everett, Pa.

Sure to Crib It.

The following story about Oscar Wilde and plagiarism dates from a Whistler breakfast in Site street, Chelsea. Whistler said some witty thing in which Oscar delighted, and said he: "Oh, Jimmy, I wish I had said that." To which Whistler rejoined: "Never mind, Oscar, you will."

WEAK LUNGS ARE STRENGTHENED. Pleurisy Pains relieved, and Asthmatic symptoms subdued by Dr. D. Jayne's Expectorant, a sovereign remedy for all Coughs and Colds.

VERDI is said to have declared that he has composed his last work and has finally laid down his pen. On the ninth day of this month the veteran completed his eightieth year.

I BELIEVE Piso's Cure for Consumption saved my boy's life last summer.—MRS. ALLIE DOUGLASS, LeRoy, Mich., Oct. 20, 1894.

PEOPLE who rank the same do not flatter each other, but they fight a good deal.

Send your full name and address to Dobbins' Soap Mfg. Co., Philada., Pa., by return mail, and get free of all cost, a coupon worth several dollars, if used by you to its full advantage. Don't delay. This is worthy attention.

IF the girl is pretty enough, most men do not care how ignorant she is.

"A Fresh English Complexion."

That healthy pink and white might just as well be the typical American complexion if people would take reasonable care of their health. Ripans Tabules go to the root of the trouble, because a stomach in good order produces good blood.

EVERY man suffers wrongs for which there is no remedy.

A Gentle Corrective

is what you need when your liver becomes inactive. It's what you get when you take Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets; they're free from the violence and the griping that come with the ordinary pill. The best medical authorities agree that in regulating the bowels mild methods are preferable. For every derangement of the liver, stomach and bowels, these tiny, sugar coated pills are most effective. They go about their work in an easy and natural way, and their good lasts. Once used, they are always in favor. Being composed of the choicest, concentrated vegetable extracts, they cost much more than other pills found in the market, yet from forty to forty-four are put up in each sealed glass vial, as sold through druggists, at the price of the cheaper made pills.

"Pleasant Pellets" cure biliousness, sick and bilious headache, dizziness, costiveness, or constipation, sour stomach, loss of appetite, coated tongue, indigestion, or dyspepsia, windy belchings, "heart-burn," pain and distress after eating, and kindred derangements of the liver, stomach and bowels. Put up in sealed glass vials, therefore always fresh and reliable. Whether as a laxative, or in larger doses, as a gently acting but searching cathartic, these little "Pellets" are unequaled.

As a "dinner pill," to promote digestion, take one each day after dinner. To relieve the distress arising from over-eating, nothing equals one of these little "Pellets." They are tiny, sugar-coated, anti-bilious granules. Any child readily takes them.

Accept no substitute that may be recommended to be "just as good." It may be better for the dealer, because of paying him a better profit, but he is not the one who needs help.

A free sample (4 to 7 doses) on trial, is mailed to any address, post-paid, on receipt of name and address on postal card.

Address WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Buffalo, N. Y.

Other remedies may

ST. JACOBS OIL

Will cure Sprains, Bruises, and a Backache

For Twenty Years

Scott's Emulsion has been endorsed by physicians of the whole world. There is no secret about its ingredients. Physicians prescribe because they know what great nourishing and curative properties it contains. They know it is what it is represented to be; namely, a perfect emulsion of the best Norway liver Oil with the hypophosphites of lime and soda.

Scott's Emulsion

For Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Weak Lungs, Consumption, Scrofula, Anæmia, Weak Babies, Thin Children, Rickets, Marasmus, Loss of Flesh, General Debility, and all conditions of Wasting.

The only genuine Scott's Emulsion is put in salmon-colored wrapper. Refuse inferior substitutes!

Send for pamphlet on Scott's Emulsion. FREE.

Scott & Bowne, N. Y. All Druggists. 50 cents and $1.

THE RISING SUN STOVE POLISH

FOR DURABILITY, ECONOMY AND FOR GENERAL BLACKING IS UNEQUALLED. HAS AN ANNUAL SALE OF 3,000 TONS.

WE ALSO MANUFACTURE THE SUN PASTE STOVE POLISH

FOR AN AFTER DINNER SHINE, OR TO TOUCH UP SPOTS, WITH A CLOTH. MAKES NO DUST. IN 5 & 10 CENT TIN BOXES. THE ONLY PERFECT PASTE.

MORSE BROS. PROP'S. CANTON, MASS.

SHE WAS BLIND.

A blindness comes to me now and then. I have it now. It is queer, I can see your eyes but not your nose. I can't read because some of the letters are blurred; dark spots cover them; it is mighty uncomfortable.

I know all about it; it's DYSPEPSIA. Take one of these; it will cure you in ten minutes.

What is it?

A • Ripans • Tabule.

WALTER BAKER & CO.

The Largest Manufacturers of PURE, HIGH GRADE COCOAS AND CHOCOLATES On this Continent, have received HIGHEST AWARDS from the great Industrial and Food EXPOSITIONS In Europe and America.

Unlike the Dutch Process, no Alkalies or other Chemicals or Dyes are used in any of their preparations. Their delicious BREAKFAST COCOA is absolutely pure and soluble, and costs less than one cent a cup.

SOLD BY GROCERS EVERYWHERE.

WALTER BAKER & CO. DORCHESTER, MASS.

TEXAS, MEXICO and CALIFORNIA.

— VIA —

Wabash Line

In connection with the St. Louis, Iron Mountain & Southern Railway, Texas & Pacific Railway, International & Great Northern Railroad, and Southern Pacific Railway, known as the ONLY TRUE SOUTHERN ROUTE, has placed in service a Through First-Class Sleeping Car and Tourist Sleeping Car, leaving Chicago daily at 10:50 A. M., via St. Louis to Little Rock, Malvern (Hot Springs), Austin, San Antonio, Laredo (where a direct connection is made with through sleeping car for the City of Mexico), El Paso, Los Angeles and San Francisco. This is the only line from Chicago which can offer this excellent service. Call or write to any ticket agent of the Wabash or connecting line for printed matter showing time, route, rates, description of cars, etc., or

R. G. BUTLER, D. P. A., Detroit, Mich.
F. H. TRISTRAM, C. P. A., Pittsburg, Pa.
F. E. DOMBAUGH, P. & T. A., Toledo, Ohio.
R. G. THOMPSON, P. & T. A., Fort Wayne, Ind.
J. HALDERMAN, M. P. A., 201 Clark St., Chicago, Ill.
J. M. McCONNELL, P. & T. A., Lafayette, Ind.
G. D. MAXFIELD, D. P. A., Indianapolis, Ind.
C. S. CRANE, G. P. & T. A., St. Louis, Mo.

W. L. DOUGLAS $3 SHOE IS THE BEST. FIT FOR A KING.

$3. CORDOVAN, FRENCH & ENAMELLED CALF.
$4. $3.50 FINE CALF & KANGAROO.
$3.50 POLICE, 3 SOLES.
$2.50 $2. WORKINGMEN'S. EXTRA FINE.
$2. $1.75 BOYS' SCHOOL SHOES.
LADIES. $3. $2.50 $2. $1.75 BEST DONGOLA.

SEND FOR CATALOGUE. W. L. DOUGLAS, BROCKTON, MASS.

Over One Million People wear the W. L. Douglas $3 & $4 Shoes

All our shoes are equally satisfactory They give the best value for the money. They equal custom shoes in style and fit. Their wearing qualities are unsurpassed. The prices are uniform,—stamped on sole. From $1 to $3 saved over other makes. If your dealer cannot supply you we can.

...EVERY...

Home-Seeker

SHOULD READ

The pamphlet recently published by the Passenger Department of the Illinois Central Railroad, entitled "Southern Home-Seekers' Guide for 1894." It contains over 50 excellent letters from Northern farmers now located in the South and other authentic and valuable information. For a FREE COPY address the undersigned at Manchester, Iowa:

I. F. MERRY, Assistant General Passenger Agent.

LINENE REVERSIBLE

Raphael, Angelo, Rubens, Tasso

The "LINENE REVERSIBLE" are the Best and Most Economical Collars and Cuffs worn: they are made of fine cloth, both sides finished alike, and, being reversible, one collar is equal to two of any other kind. They fit well, wear well and look well. A box of Ten Collars or Five Pairs of Cuffs for Twenty-five Cents. A Sample Collar and Pair of Cuffs by mail for Six Cents. Name style and size. Address

REVERSIBLE COLLAR COMPANY, 77 FRANKLIN ST., NEW YORK. 27 KILBY ST., BOSTON.

CALIFORNIA

Weekly Overland Parties—Personally Conducted—in New Pullman Upholstered Tourist Sleeping Cars, without change, leave Chicago every Thursday for all points on the Pacific Coast. For particulars address JUDSON & CO., 195 South Clark St., Chicago.

PENSION JOHN W. MORRIS, Washington, D. C. Successfully Prosecutes Claims. Late Principal Examiner U. S. Pension Bureau. 3 yrs in last war, 15 adjudicating claims, atty since.

Mrs. Winslow's SOOTHING SYRUP for Children teething; softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic. 25 cents a bottle.

F. W. N. U. - - - - - No. 4—95

When Writing to Advertisers, say you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

BEST COUGH SYRUP. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION

L. S. & M. S. R. R.

TIME TABLE—In Effect Nov. 18, 1894.

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

Stations—	Mail.	Exp'ss	Fre'gt
Fort Wayne, — p	11 45 am	4 45 pm	6 40 am
New Era	12 14 pm	5 14	7 27
Auburn Junc.	12 25	5 25	7 38
Auburn	12 29	5 29	7 37
Waterloo	12 41	5 41	9 34
Summit	12 52	5 52	9 45
Steubenville	12 56	5 56	.....
Pleasant Lake	1 03	6 03	10 12
Angola	1 13	6 14	10 30
Jackson	3 25	8 35	4 30

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Stations—	Freight	Exp'ss	Mail
Jackson — dp	6 55 am	11 20 am	6 30 pm
Angola	12 25 pm	2 21 pm	8 51
Pleasant Lake	1 03	2 32	9 01
Steubenville	.....	2 40	9 07
Summit	1 25	2 44	9 11
Waterloo	2 30	3 00	9 24
Auburn	3 00	3 11	9 35
Auburn Junc.	3 14	3 14	9 38
New Era	4 05	3 24	9 50
Fort Wayne	5 25	3 55	10 25

For rates on tickets or freight to all points call on or address E. T. DeLAPP, Agent at Auburn

Busy people have no time, and sensible people have no inclination to use a slow remedy. One Minute Cough Cure acts promptly and gives permanent results. Sold by Robbins & McCord.

There is one thing colder than the tomb—a room warmed by a grate fire.

A Mail Agent's Experience.

Louis D. Brennecke, Wallhalla, S. C., had Rheumatism for fifteen years, and during that time had never been free from pain. He tried the Hot Springs and physicians without benefit. After taking two bottles of Drummond's Lightning Remedy he wrote that he was free from pain, and able to take several long walks. If you want a cure, send $5 to the Drummond Medicine Co., 48 Maiden Lane, New York, and they will ship to your express address two large bottles—one month's treatment. Agents wanted.

More than half the street railway mileage in the United States is now operated by electric power.

Two Lives Saved.

Mrs. Phœbe Thomas, of Junction City, Ill., was told by her doctors she had consumption and that there was no hope for her, but two bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery completely cured her, and she says it saved her life. Mr Thomas Eggers, 139 Florida St., San Francisco, suffered from a dreadful cold, approaching consumption. He tried without result, everything else, then bought one bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery and in two weeks was cured. He is naturally thankful. It is such results, of which these are samples, that prove the wonderful efficacy of this medecine in coughs and colds. Free trial bottles at Robbins & McCord's drugstore. Regular size 50c. and $1. 5

Under title of * "The Dream City" there comes to us this week a very handsome art series of photographic views. The volume contains 64 high class photo engravings size 11 by 13 inches of selected and representative views of the Columbian Exposition. The cover is handsomely designed in gold and colors, and the work throughout is the perfection of printers' art. The collection of views is offered at a special price of 50 cents, postage paid.  The N. D Thompson Publishing Co., 1120 Pine Street, St. Louis, publishers Educational Art Series.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

Rheumatism Cured in a Day.—Mystic Cure" for Rheumatism and Neuralgia, radically cures in 1 to 3 days Its action upon the system is remarkable and mysterious. It removes at once the cause and the disease immediately disappears. The first dose greatly benefits, 75 cts Sold by Robbins & McCord, druggists, Auburn. 41tf

Look This Way.

If suffering with rheumatism in any form, gout, neuralgia, etc. Infallible Scotch Cure, just introduced in the United States, cures these dread diseases in every form. It never fails. It is curing scores of sufferers to-day. Druggists sell this new and wonderful remedy. Ask for it, and take no substitute. Prepared only by the Hall Medicine Co., Toledo Ohio. For Sale by Fischler & Son. 3 5

Never Give Up.

Many cases of so-called consumption have been cured by Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup. Never give up, as long as there is life there should be hope, take this medicine; use it persistently, and you will notice a change for the better, as it is peculiarly adapted to this class of diseases. Do not fail to try this remedy in in time. Sold by all druggists 1-5

PILES! PILES! PILES!

Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment will cure Blind, Bleeding and Itching Piles when all other Ointments have failed. It absorbs the tumors allays the itching at once, acts as a poultice, gives instant relief. Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment is prepared only for Piles and itching of the private parts, and nothing else. Every box is warranted. Sold by druggists, or sent by mail on receipt of price, 50c. and $1.00 per box WILLIAMS MFG. CO., Prop's, Cleveland, O Sold on a guarantee by Matheny & Gerke.

BUCKLEN'S ARNICA SALVE.—The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Robbins & McCord. tf

Fayette is the seat of a progressive and prosperous Normal University. Its success is due to the high aim and far-reaching wisdom of its founders. It is a school with a purpose. It has something of importance to say to every prosperous student in the Normal work is a specialty country. but there are Preparatory, Commercial, Musical, Elocutionary, Shorthand. Typewriting, and Fine Art Departments, in addition to regular college courses. It has an able faculty, ample equipments, superior location and large attendance. Expenses are less than half what they are in many institutions.

Write for catalogue to President of University J. E. DODDS, Fayette, O.

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder World's Fair Highest Award.

DR. WILLIAMS' KIDNEY PILLS

A remedy that has no equal in diseases of the Kidneys and Urinary Organs, Have you neglected your kidneys? Have you overworked your nervous system and caused trouble with your kidneys and liver? Have you pains in the loins, side, back, loins and bladder? Have you a flabby appearance of the face, especially under the eyes? Too frequent desire to pass urine? No matter what the cause, we know Dr. Williams' Kidney Pills will cure you. Imparts new life to the diseased organs, tones up the whole system and makes a new man of you. Mailed on receipt of price, $1.00 per box.
WILLIAMS M'F'G CO., Props., Cleveland, O, sold by FISCHLER & SON, Auburn, Ind

DELINQUENT TAX SALE.

LANDS AND TOWN LOTS returned Delinquent for the non-payment of taxes for the year 1893, by the County Treasurer of DeKalb County, Indiana, including the interest and penalty thereon, and also the taxes for the year 1894.

NAMES OF OWNERS	DESCRIPTION.	Section	Township	Range	Acres	Hundredths	Am'unt of sale $	cts
	BUTLER TOWNSHIP.
Lung Jonhn E.	s e ¼ s w qr	17	33	12	40	00	57	79
do	pt n e ¼ n w qr	20	33	12	12	50
	JACKSON TOWNSHIP.
Bailey John	n ½ s e ¼ n w qr	29	33	13	20	00	13	65
Kester John	w pt n w qr	26	33	13	84	00	56	10
Thomas Sophia	in n fr ½ n w qr	5	33	13	1	50	46	48
do	pt n e qr	5	33	13	8	95
Ankney Joseph	Stamets add Auburn lot 22						8	46
	CONCORD TOWNSHIP.
Erick Beeks	in w side s w qr	28	33	14		33	6	45
Hursh Benj	in w ½ n w qr	33	33	14	1	00	13	99
Hefty Wm & S A	off n end w ½ n w qr	16	33	14	60	00	86	56
do	off w side e ½ n w qr	16	33	14	10	00	34	70
Hoffman Francis J	n e ¼ n e ¼ s e qr	8	33	14	36	00
do	pt n w ¼ s w qr	9	33	14	6	83	5	84
Morr Geo W & Peter	in n w ¼ s w qr	7	33	14		22	5	21
Potts F A C	in e ½ s w qr	28	33	14		22	5	21
Tindall W C	n end e ½ s w qr	28	33	14	21	25	16	72
Wilmot G W	e ½ n e qr	22	33	14	80	00	63	77
do	in w side n w qr	23	33	14	1	00
Allen Emma A	F add Spencerville lot 24						4	27
Erick Beeks	N add.. " " 21						9	81
do	O P 82 ft mid pt " 1
Rhodes Jeremiah	N add " " 9						2	52
do	N add " " 10
Spitler Emily	F add n ½ " " 2						9	07
do	F add n ½ " " 3
Tindall Wm C	O P " " 15						7	54
Lochner John	J D L add St Joe " 17						10	31
do	J D L add " " 18
Meek Henry	O P " " 10 block 4						22	07
Shuff Hilery	O P " " 8 " 4						15	95
	NEWVILLE TOWNSHIP.
Akins Julia A	n ½ n w ¼ s w qr	17	33	15	20	00	27	96
Baird Emma E	w ½ s w ¼ s w qr	20	33	15	20	00	16	85
Koch L F & C B Headley	pt w ½ s w qr	30	33	15	11	43	10	86
Kemery Sibyl	pt w ½ s w qr	30	33	15	11	43	9	55
Larned State Bank	in n pt s w qr	6	33	15	1	28	14	26
Levy Jacob	in s pt s w qr	6	33	15	41	96	54	32
Mogle Simon hrs	in n e ¼ s w qr	6	33	15		15	2	14
Friend Nancy	Vienna lot 3						1	16
Greist Lewis	Vienna s ½ lot 10						1	01
do	Vienna s ½ lot 15
Larned State Bank	Vienna lot 1						1	14
Walden Guy D hrs	Vienna n e pt 74						1	16
	STAFFORD TOWNSHIP.
Gaff John	in s cor e ½ s w qr	7	34	15	9	50	20	69
Repp F H & Mary	n side s w qr	29	34	15	98	00	58	49
Wilber Benj	in n e cor n e qr	30	34	15	70	00	59	72
Oberlin Isaac E	pt n ¼ s e qr	18	34	15	39	25	40	97
	WILMINGTON TOWNSHIP.
Brown John	w ½ n w qr	13	34	14	82	40	71	20
Bubb Thomas	e pt s e qr	14	34	14	120	00
do	in mid pt s w ¼ s w qr	13	34	14	1	00	257	71
do	pt s e ¼ s w qr	13	34	14	17	00
Berry Winfield S	mid 4-5 e ½ w ¼ n e qr	25	34	14	16	00	32	67
Brunson A D & Jennie	in s e cor s w qr	34	34	14	22	00	27	13
Eakrigh Hattie	mid ½ n e ½ n e¼ n w qr	23	34	14	3	33	5	20
Haskins Esther M	e ¾ s w ¼ s w qr	21	34	14	30	00	650	41
do	w ¾ s e ¼ s w qr	21	34	14	10	00
Kline A F & C	s ¾ w ¼ s e qr	14	34	14	30	00	27	24
Metz Harriet E	in n w cor n e qr	32	34	14	6	33	5	46
Thomas B F	pt w ½ s w qr	33	34	14	79	72	108	82
Woods Chas W et ux	n pt e ½ n e qr	21	34	14	60	00	104	26
Warner Marcia L	mid 1-5 e ½ n w ¼ n e qr	25	34	14	4	00	5	16
Haas Geo et al	in s e cor s e qr	13	34	14	8	00	42	98
Caruth Cornelia C	s ½ n e qr	30	34	14	80	00	97	46
	UNION TOWNSHIP.
Geeting Ezra et al	n e ¼ n e qr	24	34	13	40	00	7	97
Raub Margaret	n w ¼ n w qr	20	34	13	38	25	63	37
Hackett T W	O P Auburn Juct lot 21						2	42
Hunt Theodore jr	O R &B add Auburn lot 2						2	55
Jones Marietta	in s w cor n w qr	29	34	13	10	22	54	14
Waggoner George	in n w cor s w qr	29	34	13	5	60	33	40
	KEYSER TOWNSHIP.
Allman Nelson	pt s w ¼ s w qr	33	34	12	18	65	24	51
Falkenburg G W	in n pt n w qr	4	33	12		25	10	15
Martin Stephen T.	in n e ¼ n e qr	3	33	12	1	00	5	63
Nickey A B & S M	pt w ½ n e qr	12	33	12	30	32	18	76
Offen M A & L S Hudson	in n e pt n e qr	4	33	12		25	6	54
Powell Sarah A	in s e cor s e qr	36	34	12	1	00	12	21
Reeves Hattie A	in s w cor s w ¼ s w qr	33	34	12	1	00	26	45
Schnitzer J E & E	pt n w qr	4	33	12	1	28	8	84
Thompson Mary A	in s e cor w ½ e ½ n e qr	10	33	12	1	00	1	70
Whitford S & Helen	in n pt n w qr	4	33	12		50	31	15
Barnes J H	B add Garrett lot 5						15	06
Graham Samantha	B add " " 4						8	45
Myers Samuel	M & H add" " 63						3	47
Barrett E S & L L	East add Altona lot 12						1	73
Householder E N	R add " " 25						20	19
do	R add " " 30
Pence Ann C	L 2d add " " 1						16	35
do	L 2d add " " 2
Phister Eliza	D 2d add " " 15						2	98
do	D 2d add " " 16
Valleau Chas	L 2d add " " 3						13	30
Hathaway Page	pt n e ¼ n w qr	4	33	12		25	23	18
Glenowich Jno & C	in s pt e ½ s w qr	33	34	12		40	19	21
	RICHLAND TOWNSHIP.
Gonser George	in n w qr	1	34	12		50	1	51
Rice David	e end w ½ n e qr	2	34	12	25	00	57	65
Treesh J J & C	in e side s e ¼ s e qr	2	34	12	1	60	6	61
Gonser G D et al	O P Lawrence lot 72						9	85
do	O P " " 73
Jarvis John B	O P Corunna " 89						1	91
	SMITHFIELD TOWNSHIP.
Bradley W H	n ½ n e qr	3	35	13	80	00	79	98
	FRANKLIN TOWNSHIP.
Chappell Mary A	in n e ¼ n w qr	2	35	14	4	93	12	44
Ciark Margaret	w pt s e ¼ n e qr	12	35	14	30	00	25	20
Enzor Stephen	s ½ n ½ n e ¼ n e qr	14	35	14	10	00	52	35
Enzor Catherine	s ½ s e ¼ s e qr	11	35	14	20	00	54	25
Gnagy Jerry	n w pt s w qr	1	35	14	7	00	3	87
Gnagy John S	n e ¼ n e qr	11	35	14	40	00
do	w pt s end e ¼ s e qr	2	35	14	35	00
do	n end e pt w ½ s e qr	2	35	14	13	43	104	55
do	s e cor w ½ n e qr	2	35	14
do	n end e ½ s e qr	2	35	14	25	00
Hamman A C	n ½ n e qr	7	35	14	80	00	44	03
do	s w ¼ n e qr	7	35	14	40	00	5	86
Nichols Milo	s w ¼ s e qr	6	35	14	40	00	31	77
Rose Elnora	e ½ e ½ s w qr	32	35	14	40	00	35	62
Matson O R & Geo	s w fr qr	30	35	14	141	00	183	36
do	n fr ½ n w fr qr	31	35	14	72	00
	GRANT TOWNSHIP.
Albright John	mid pt n e qr	1	34	13	40	00	66	00
Gingerich Jesse	n e ¼ s e qr	12	34	13	40	00	12	11
Gardner Catharine	n w fracl qr	18	34	13	111	81	104	48
Stroh Mary	in n pt s w qr	4	34	13	1	42	20	69
	WATERLOO TOWN.
Brand John C	W add lot 6						13	84
Bundy Mary L	H add " 188						22	52
Ingersoll J & M E	Cen add " 2						4	75
McIntosh Gilbert	L 1st add " 4
do	L 1st add " 5						13	31
do	L 1st add " 6
Oehn Theodore	O P n ½ " 29						6	48
Rigby Ed	H add " 217						75
Smith S S	B & McC add " 3						15	17
do	B & McC add " 4
Wyatt Elmer	in n e pt s w qr	3	34	13	1	50	9	69
Acton P J & J H	O P Uniontown n ½ lot 23						7	56
Kelsey Alfred	C add " lot 5						7	10
Vogtman Wm	W add " lot 19						11	20

NAMES OF OWNERS	DESCRIPTION.			Am'unt of sale $	cts
	ASHLEY TOWN.
Bowles W T	Lot 6 Block 28
Burgess Thomas E	" 8 " 32
Goneer Daniel	" 10 " 20
Green Julia A	" 10 " 28
do	" 11 " 28
do	" 33 " 38
do	" 34 " 38
do	" 6 " 39
do	" 2 " 45
do	" 3 " 45
do	" 4 " 45
Getts Mary	" 16 " 39
Indiana Improvement Co	" 8 " 18
do	" 2 " 19
do	" 8 " 19
do	" 22 " 19
do	" 5 " 21
do	" 9 " 21
do	" 6 " 22
do	" 29 " 22
do	" 14 " 23
do	" 5 " 24
do	" 5 " 25
do	" 2 " 28
do	" 16 " 28
do	" 1 " 37
do	" 32 " 38
do	" 1 " 39
do	" 14 " 40
do	" 7 " 41
do	" 2 " 43
do	" 5 " 45
do	" 12 " 45
do	" 11 " 46
do	" 12 " 51
do	" 11 " 60
Smith Susan	" 9 " 28
	GARRETT CITY.
Archbold Milling Co	O P Lot 3 Block 17
Andrews J E	" " 11 " 29
do	" " 12 " 29
Burns Jno J	" " 15 " 28
do	" " 16 " 28
Bishop E B	K Add " 2 " 83
Benwood Oliver	" " 7 " 64
Bloomfield Jas & J	O P " 11 " 21
do	" " 12 " 21
Bushey Mary & J	Uhl's ad " 2
Balto Land & Imp Co	O P " 15 " 22
do	" " 1 " 11
do	" " 2 " 11
do	" " 14 " 12
do	" " 18 " 12
do	C add " 12 " 36
do	" " 17 " 36
do	" " 19 " 36
do	" " 17 " 38
do	" " 8 " 44
do	" " 11 " 58
do	" " 12 " 58
do	K add " 19 " 65
do	" " 20 " 65
do	" " 8 " 73
Champion F M & A A	O P " 18 " 28
do	T S add " 4 " 2
Coffill Wm A	O P " 17 " 24
Capital Investment & Building & Loan Ass'n	T S add " 10 " 1
Cross John A	O P " 11 " 13
Cannon Ross	Oz 2d ad " 4
Dawson John F	O P " 13 " 21
do	" " 14 " 21
Eppert Thos S & C A	C add " 11 " 44
Erixson Wm D	K a 40 ft w side pt 18			80
do	" " 19 " 80
do	" " 20 " 80
Frederick Wm J	C add " 10 " 43
Fulmar G S	" " 9 " 46
Graham Samantha	O P " 16 " 3
do	" " 17 " 3
Hoyles R & Mary R	C add " 10 " 44
Hampton John C	" " 13 " 36
Henney Josiah	Oz 1st a " 4 " 5½
Hopper Chas	T S add " 10 " 6
King Chancey	O P " 22 " 31
Kagey D E & Mary	" " 3 " 10
do	" " 4 " 10
Kreuder Theo	C add " 9 " 36
Keyser H I Trustee	O P " 14 " 31
Mills James H	K add " 3 " 74
Metzler John	K add " 13 " 76
Merica Thos S	C add " 15 " 55
Miller Wesley	K add " 4 " 64
do	K add " 5 " 64
Nummey Philemon	O P " 9 " 10
do	O P " 10 " 10
Niner John M	K add " 16 " 61
do	K add " 17 " 61
Neff George	K add " 11 " 75
Olden Daniel P	O P " 17 " 33
do	O P n ⅔ " 16 " 33
Onderdonk Andrew	O P " 3 " 26
Parker S A	C a mid ⅓ " 17 " 34
do	C a mid ⅓ " 18 " 34
do	C a mid ⅓ " 19 " 34
do	C a mid ⅓ " 20 " 34
Parker Lewis E	O P e ⅓ " 14 " 33
do	O P " 15 " 33
do	O P n ⅓ " 16 " 33
Phelps Chas W	T S add " 7 " 1
do	T S add " 8 " 1
Read A J	C add " 3 " 36
Sapp John	Oz 1st ad" 2 " 3
Stinson M A	O P " 19 " 28
Sapp Lewis M & E E	Oz 1st ad" 4 " 1
do	" " 5 " 1
do	" " 3 " 1
Stoner Oscar O	C add " 4 " 36
Strauss S & S A	T S add " 5 " 2
do	" " 6 " 2
Tarney Louisa	O P " 1 " 18
do	" " 2 " 18
Treesh Philip J	T S add " 4 " 8
Wolf Susan S	O P " 2 " 10
	AUBURN TOWN.
Baxter & McClellan	McC & B add Lot 22
do	" " 31
Brown & Culbertson	O P " 22
Bender Ida O	E 2nd add " 33
do	" n pt " 13
do	" in n e cor " 14
Clark Wm	B & A add " 39
Cool Alice A	McF add pt " 14
Griffin E A	McI add " 12
do	" " 13
Gregg Isaac	O P " 19
Green Ruth A	" " 122
Howey Mary J	N G add " 4
Halm J C et al	G & D add " 8
Hollopeter Andrew	McF add " 16
Mochamer Albert S	E 3rd add " 3
McClellan C A O	N G add " 92
do	" " 83
Mason Edward	O P " 185
Reed George W	N G add " 103
Seery J & Elen	E 2nd add " 75
Sherlock Chas C	K 2nd add So ½ " 8
Witmer Geo F	K add " 36
McClellan Jas W et al	" e pt " 6
	BUTLER TOWN.
Blaker John & M L	O P Lot 289
do	" " 290
do	N add 16 ft w side " 4
do	" 29 ft e side " 5
Bratton O D	O P 20 ft mid pt " 273
Bubb Sidney F	D add " 42
Brunkhart F K	E add " 229
Benner Augustus	J add " 20
Beggs David	E 3rd add " 236
Baker Thomas	E add " 153
Campbell John A	T add So ½ lot 7 block 7
do	" So ½ lot 8 block 7
do	D add " 29
do	" " 30
Campbell Sarah E	E 2nd add " 86
Crane C H et ux	O P w 1 5 " 273
Cook Belle	" " 263
Dickerhoof Samuel	J add " 21
Dekvan Elizabeth	E add " 107
Egnew Geo hrs	" " 132
Funk J J & M	O P 50 ft w side " 139
Funk Mary	" e ½ " 85
do	" e ½ " 86
Fanning F W & C M	" " 57
Fosdick E N	" w ½ " 192
do	" w ½ " 193
do	" " 278
do	" " 280
do	" " 282
do	" " 283
do	L add " 30
Fales Minerva	O P 2 ft w side " 136
Funk Jacob J	" 48 ft e side " 137
do
Fisher Barbara	O P " 281
Garber John	E add " 204
do	" " 221
Gaumond A & S J	O P 68x110 ft n e pt " 145
Handy Cyrus	" " 177
Hopkins S A & E M	" " 38
Homan David	E add " 225
Haskins George	O P 44x100 in " 131
Handy George D	M add " 3
Learned Laura E	E add " 111
do	" " 112
Mason W A	M add " 21
Myers Mary A	" " 8
Norford Jay R & J A	L add " 4
North Almira E	J add " 9
Packer G W & N E	M add " 16
Pinchon Chas F	E add " 89
Packer E & M E	M add " 9
do	" " 24
Perew Geo S. et al	N add w pt " 6
do	O P " 285
do	" " 286
Rank Alice M	E add " 105
Reese Margaret	O P " 27
Smurr Daniel	pt n w ¼ n w qr	12	34	14	18
Shaffer Walton	O P exc 13 ft e side " 34
Staples Ralph E	" " 271
Sanders Arvilla M	L add " 47
Steward Armina M	O P " 229
Sanders Thomas J	E 3rd add " 215
Showalter S & J	" " 228
Searight S G	E add 66x132 ft w pt " 146
do	D add 44x46½ ft n e pt " 6
Steward F H	E add " 237
Skinner D L	O P " 113
Scoville Geo E & M	J add " 18
Scoville Charles	E add " 85
Stevens R & M M	O P s ½ " 233
do	s ½ " 234
Sise Francis	T add lot 3 block 8
Sawyers Sabina B	S add " 17
Taylor Levi B	B add " 17
Werrbaugh L A & A M
Stewart	B add " 31
do	B add 55x122 ft n e pt " 147
Young Emma J	O P " 220

I, Frank A. Borst, Auditor in and for said County of DeKalb, do hereby certify that the foregoing is a true and complete list of all the lands and town lots in said county returned delinquent for the taxes for the year 1893, with the delinquent tax, penalty and interest, and also the tax for the year 1894, to the best of my knowledge and belief.

Notice is therefore hereby given that so much of the foregoing lands and town lots as may be necessary to discharge the taxes, interest and penalty, and charges due thereon or due from the owners thereof at the time of the sale, will be sold at public auction at the court house door, in the town of Auburn in said county, on the second Monday in February, A. D. 1895, (the same being the 11th day of said month,) unless such taxes, penalty, interest and charges are previously paid. Sale to commence at 10 o'clock a. m., on said day and continue until all have been offered for sale.

FRANK A. BORST, AUDITOR.

Auburn, Ind., Jan. 14, 1895.

TAX RATES FOR 1894.

To The Tax Payers Of DeKalb County, Indiana.

In compliance with the laws of the state of Indiana, I, DAVID W. FAIR, Treasurer of said county, hereby notify the Tax Payers thereof that the rates of taxation for the year, A. D 1894, are correctly stated in the following table, showing the amount of taxes in cents levied upon each One Hundred Dollars valuation and on each poll, in the several townships and incorporated villages in said county, as the same appears on the Tax Duplicate of DeKalb county for said year:

TOWNSHIPS AND TOWNS.	State Tax	Benev. Institutions	St. Debt Sinking Fd	State School Tax	Perm. Endowm't Fd	County Tax	Township Tax	Tuition	Special School	Road	Special road	Corporation	Ad. Special School	Bond Sinking	Special Dog	TOTAL	First Installment	Second Installment
Butler Township	10	05	03	13½	½	55	10	10	05	10	05					127	71	56
Poll	50			50				25								125
Jackson Township	10	05	03	13½	½	55	10	05	20	10	05					137	76	61
Poll	50			50				50	50							200
Concord Township	10	05	03	13½	½	55	10	10	20	05	10					142	78½	63½
Poll	50			50				50	25							175
Newville Township	10	05	03	13½	½	55	15	10	20	10	05					147	81	66
Poll	50			50				25								125
Stafford Township	10	05	03	13½	½	55	10	05	05	10	05					122	68½	53½
Poll	50			50				25	25							150
Wilmington Township	10	05	03	13½	½	55	05	05	05	15	05					122	68½	53½
Poll	50			50				50								150
Union Township	10	05	03	13½	½	55	02	05	10							104	57	47
Poll	50			50				25	25							150
Richland Township	10	05	03	13½	½	55	05	08	10	10	05					125	70	55½
Poll	50			50				25	25							150
Fairfield Township	10	05	03	13½	½	55	05	10	05	10	05					122	68½	53½
Poll	50			50				25	25							150
Smithfield Township	10	05	03	13½	½	55	10	10	15	10	05					137	76	61
Poll	50			50				25	25							150
Franklin Township	10	05	03	13½	½	55	10	10	15	10	10					142	81	61
Poll	50			50				25	50							175
Troy Township	10	05	03	13½	½	55	10	10	05	05	05					122	66

THE AUBURN COURIER.

VOLUME XXV. AUBURN, DE KALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, JANUARY 31, 1895. NUMBER 5.

THIS IS NEW.

READ!

WHAT WE HAVE TO SAY ABOUT MNOEY.

The Indiana Mutual Building Loan Association, which we represent in this part of the state, have again reduced their interest, which has always been from 2 to 5 per cent less than any other Building Loan Association Do you know that if you are about to borrow money and give a mortgage on your home, you should take the time and trouble to investigate the plan of different associations, so that you may know, regardless of what any agent may tell you, which is the cheapest andthe best!

There are three items which should also be considered and thoroughly understood, especially by the borrower, before he makes his application for a loan:

First: The rate of interest and premium he is charged per annum.

Second: What the earnings of the Association are

Third: How economically the Association is conducting its affairs.

We are prepared always to compare our company with any other, and can prove to your entire satisfaction that we are the cheapest.

REMEMBER

That in our company you have no member hip fee to pay, no advance payments to make and there will be no delays, so that should your loan for any reason be declined, you will lose no money.

We are prepared to make loans where the security is sufficient; for any amount from $2.00 to $25,00

If you have a loan in any other company it will pay you to call on us and get our figures and

Change your Loan at Once

We are also prepared to make

FARM LOANS

at from

3 to 6 per cent interest.

We are still in line for Insurance, and Cheap R. R. Tickets, we have now on hand more bargains in

REAL ESTATE

than ever before.

CALL ON OR ADDRESS

NICKEL & SPROTT

AUBURN, IND.

If you are handling your

MONEY!

Carefully you will not overlook the following statement.

We are more than anxious to exchange our goods for CASH and for spot CASH you can buy of us at a less price than ever before.

NOTE THE FOLLOWING:

Four Tined Forks, Long and Short handles,	45 cts.
Shovels, Round and Square point,	55 cts.
Galvanized Fence Wire,	$1.95 per cwt.
Black Fence Wire,	1.55 per cwt.
Webb Halters,	20 cents.
Cant Hooks,	$1.00.
Clothes Ringers,	1.75.

We have a surplus stock of

SASH, DOORS & PAINTS

And will offer Special Inducements to buyers now.

SEE FORMER QUOTATIONS.

W. H. KIBLINGER COMPANY.

THE MIDWINTER FAIR.

When it came time to prepare for the Farmers' Institute, the people of St. Joe and vicinity made up their minds to add new attractions, and someone suggested a "midwinter fair." It would be "midwinter" of course, but to get up a fair at that season, looked like a difficult undertaking. But this very condition settled the question in the affirmitive, for if there are any difficulties to overcome, the St. Joe and Concord township folks are happy. So they set at work. M E. Olds of the "Big Four" and general utility man of the "News" was made chairman of the committee on arrangements. At once, the kettle began to simmer. It soon boiled. The people became interested, and took hold. Old relics were brought to light and many collections of these were arranged for the show. Merchants and other business men, erected booths in which to show their goods, and then filled them with the choicest and most attractive. The farmers brought in their products, and the thing started out into full life. It is but justice to these painstaking parties that we mention as many as we could get notes of, for between the greetings of old friends and our admiration for the displays, we feel sure we missed some. The "fair" was in "G. A. R Hall" which the old veterans had loaned for the occasion, and occupied two rooms. At the head of the stairway, we came first to the curios and displays of that kind.

J. H. Conrad showed an old German testament of 1796, an India skull from Kansas, also copper and iron ore, and many specimens of the ancient sea corals and fossils of this county.

Dr. Bowman had specimens of various minerals from Mammoth Cave, an Indian pipe etc. etc.

Hon. S. S. Shutt's collection included fine specimens of gold, mementoes we suppose, of his early California experiences; collections of minerals and other curious specimens from the Yellowstone Park, a curiously ornamental Japanese gong, and many other curious things.

Clyde Hart, had a collection of arrow points, those made of flint or "chert" that are picked up in our fields. There were several varies of these, as well as shells, and cut stones of Indian or Mound Builder work.

Mrs. Swark had a plate over fifty years old which showed, as did the other ancient dishes, how greatly the fashions in shape and coloring have changed.

C. A. Patterson showed specimens of furnace slag, copper ores, crystals of quartz, and a case of old and unusual coins.

Mrs. Freese had on exhibition a home manufactured linen towel over 100 years old

S. S. Widney, had a copy of the old "Ulster County Gazette" about which so much has been said. It is one of those papers that had more of life after its death, than it had in all the years of its earthly existence before. He also had a collection of silver money, etc.

Mrs. J. B. Gibford had a collection that we were examining, when our attention was drawn away, and it never got o nour book. But it was there, and formed a part of the showing.

There was an old manscript dated in 1799, written, we believe by Elias Olds, grandfather of the Olds brothers, of St. Joe and Auburn.

Herbert Abel had shells etc brought from southern waters—Florida, fossil shells gathered in the creek at Coburntown, and shells and fossil stones from Lake Michigan.

Rich. Culbertson had some contributions among which we recall an old paper.

Dr. B. S. Sheffer had a collection of shells, corals and other products from Florida.

Fred, Johnson had a section of a monster cornstalk he had bought from Mercer county, over in Ohio, in 1862. It must have grown on rich ground.

P. A. Shur's had some harrow teeth, to show "the evolution of the drag." The one of earliest days was large and solid, while that of the present day was light and sharp. Many an old farmer recognized an acquaintance familiar in his younger days.

Jonathan Boyle had a brick from the first kiln burned in DeKalb county. It looked a little rough, but is good for a thousand years yet. And near by were two old "hatchels" for hatcheling flax, an old reel for winding yarn, and an old flax spinning wheel, such as our mothers and grandmothers used.

O. J. Baker had some of the little glass sauce dishes that first came into use 50 years or more ago, his dating at 1843. They look funny now.

Cornelius Woodcox had some old

(Continued on Fourth page.)

Schaab & Bro.

Our CLEARANCE SALE has been a hummer. We still have a number of bargains to offer in

DRESS GOODS, CLOTHING AND LADIES' WRAPS.

We are making room for by far the Largest and Finest stock of Spring Goods We have ever shown.

This week we open a complete line of

GENTS' HATS AND NECKWEAR.

These patterns and styles are fine and prices much lower than ever before.

We invite you to call and inspect our stock. We will try to make it to your interest to trade with us.

Schaab & Bro.

Vitaline and Nervetone

Speedily cures all nervous affections nerve exhaustion, debility, lassitude, loss of nerve and brain power, weakness, mental depression, that "all gone" feeling. Cures headache, toothache, neuralgia and all nerve pains in an hour's time. It never fails nor disappoints. Ask Fischler & Son for it, and accept no other. The Hall Medicine Company, Toledo Ohio. 3 5

What Ails You?

If you have sudden darting pains in the joints or muscles, and it recurs every time you get cold, and appears in new places without leaving any of old ones, the best thing to do is to send five dollars to the Drummond Medicine Co., 48 Maiden Lane, New York, for a month's treatment of Dr. Drummond's Lightning Remedy for Rheumatism. They will send you two large bottles of their remedy by return express. If you have the above symptoms you have the Rheumatism, and should begin at once with the known cure. Delay with any disease is dangerous—with Rheumatism it is simply suicidal. Agents wanted. 3 5

Relief in Six Hours.

Distressing Kidney and Bladder diseases relieved in six hours by the "New Great South American Kidney Cure." This new remedy is a great surprise on account of its exceeding promptness in relieving pain in the bladder, kidneys, back and every part of the urinary passages in male or female. It relieves retention of water and pain in passing it almost immediately. If you want quick relief and cure this is your remedy. Sold by Robbins and McCord druggists Auburn Ind. 34tf

They Use it for Colds.

Carlton Cornwell, foreman of the Gazette, Middleton, N J., believes that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy should be in every home He used it for a cold and it effected a speedy cure. He says, "It is indeed a grand remedy, I can recommend to all. I have also seen it used for whooping cough, with the best results." 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Robbins & McCord, druggists. 5

One at Night.

One dose of Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup taken in the evening before retiring will give you a good nights rest. It will cure your cough quicker than any other and is pleasant to take. If you have never tried this remedy, ask your druggist for Dr, Marshall's Lung Syrup the next time you buy. It is guaranteed to give satisfaction. Sold by all druggists. 1-5

It May Do as Much for You.

Mr. Fred Miller, of Irving, Ill, writes that he had a severe kidney trouble for many years, with severe pains in his back, and also that his bladder was affected. He tried many so called kidney cures but without any good result. About a year ago he began the use of Electric Bitters and found relief at once. Electric Bitters is especially adapted to the cure of all kidney and liver troubles and often gives almost instant relief. One trial will prove our statement. Price only 50 cents for large bottles at Robbins & McCord's drug store. 6

Always Relieves Pain.

Many stubborn and aggravating cases of rheumatism that were believed to be incurable and accepted as life legacies, have yielded to Chamberlain's Pain Balm, much to the surprise and gratification of the sufferers. One application will relieve the pain and suffering and its continued use insures an effectual cure. For sale by Robbins & McCord, druggists. 5

T. F. Anthony, ex-postmaster of Promise City, Iowa, says: "I bought one bottle of 'Mystic Cure' for Rheumatism and two doses of it did me more good than all the medicine I ever took." Sold by Robbins & McCord, druggists, Auburn. 41tf

For Chronic Diarrhœa.

"I know an old soldier who had chronic diarrhœa of long standing to have been permanently cured by taking Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy," said Edward Shumpik, a prominent druggist of Minneapolis, Minn. "I have sold the Remedy in this city for over seven years and consider it superior to any other medicine now on the market for bowel complaints." 25 and 50 cent bottles of this remedy for sale by Robbins & McCord druggists. 5

Relief in One Day.

South American Nervine relieves the worst cases of nervous prostrations nervousness and nervous dyspepsia in a single day. No such relief and blessing has ever come to the invalids of this country. Its powers to cure the stomach are wonderful in the extreme. It always cures; it cannot fail. It radically cures all weakness of the stomach and never disappoints. Its effects are marvelous and surprising.—It gladdens the hearts of the suffering and brings immediate relief. It is a luxury to take and always safe. Trial bottles 15 cents. Sold by Robbins & McCord druggist Auburn Ind. 30tf

Rebecca Wilkinson, of Brownsvalley, Ind., says: I have been in a distressed condition for three years from Nervousness Weakness of the Stomach, Dyspepsia and Indigestion until my health was gone. I had been doctoring constantly with no relief. I bought one bottle of South American Nervine, which did me more good than any $50 worth of doctoring I ever did in my life. I would advise every weakly person to use this valuable and lovely remedy; a few bottles of it has cured me completely. I consider it the greatest medicine in the world." Warranted the most wonderful stomach and nerve cure ever known. Trial bottles 15 cents. Sold by Robbins and McCord druggists Auburn Ind. 34tf

Byron was immoderately fond of ham and eggs.

Good Reason for it.

There is good reason for the popularity of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Davis & Buzard, of West Monterey, Clarion Co., Pa., say, "It has cured people that our physicians could do nothing for. We persuaded them to try a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and they now recommend it with the rest of us." 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Robbins & McCord, druggists. 5

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNS, - - PUBLISHER.

A RAILROAD HORROR.

TERRIBLE WRECK ON THE VANDALIA NEAR INDIANAPOLIS.

Two Killed and Scores of Passengers Injured—A Man and Wife Killed by a Falling Building—Lovers Instantly Killed by a Train—Fire at Wheeling, W. Va.

RAILS SPREAD,

And the Result Was the Death of Several and the Injury of Many.

Indianapolis special: A terrible wreck, causing loss of life and maimed limbs, occurred at Coatsville, Ind. Vandalia train No. 2, due here 2:35 p. m., was wrecked by the spreading of rails. Two were killed and thirty or forty were seriously injured. The train was running at full speed being twenty minutes late. It had just passed Coatsville, and was rounding a curve when the tracks spread. The private car of President R. W. McKeen, in the rear, jumped the tracks. It was followed by the parlor car, then the ladies' car. All went off the track, the two rear cars going down an embankment ten feet before the train could be stopped. The smoker left the track, but did not go over. The two rear cars caught fire, but the flames were extinguished when the work of rescue began. A man died soon after being taken from the car. In his pocket were letters indicating his name to be John W. Norton, manager of the Grand Opera House, St. Louis. He was carried to a school-house unconscious, and lived a short time, but did not speak. Mrs. W. S. Towers of Carthage, Mo., was carried from the car and died while being taken to the school-house. The injured were carried up an embankment to the houses and soon townspeople and physicians gathered to give assistance.

The wreck and the cries of the injured and frightened passengers created a panic from which no one recovered for several minutes. Those in the day coaches were the first to recover their self-possession and hasten to the relief of the victims. In the chair car they found the injured passengers pinned down by a mass of broken and twisted chairs, groaning in their agony. The stove was seen to be igniting the woodwork of the car, but a few pails of water extinguished the fire. Then the imprisoned dead and injured were extricated from under the heavy chairs.

Passengers who were in the forward car say that not less than fifty persons went into the ditch with the four cars and that not more than a dozen of them escaped injury.

Lovers Instantly Killed.

Pittsburgh special: John Snyder and Bridget Murphy, lovers and engaged to be married, were struck and killed by the New York and Chicago limited express on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, near Coultersville Station. They were returning from church along the B. & O. tracks. They saw the West Newton accommodation coming down the track they were on and stepped over to the other side. At that point there is a sharp curve. They did not hear the express coming behind them as its rumble was drowned by the other train. The express knocked both in the air. The dead bodies were picked up about thirty feet from the track. They died in a few minutes.

Fatally Crushed.

The Jaynes Block on Center street, Green Springs, Ohio, a two-story brick, partly finished, was blown down by the heavy wind. The falling walls caught Elmer Zane and his wife, who were passing along the street, burying both in the debris. They were quickly taken out, Zane in a dying condition and Mrs. Zane probably fatally hurt. Zane lived but a short time, his skull being fractured, besides his sustaining internal injuries. His wife has concussion of the brain.

Guatemala Gives In.

City of Mexico special: It is known that the Guatemalan Minister has been instructed to make concessions. Neither he nor any member of the Cabinet would comment upon this report. The opinion gains ground that war will be averted. However, all the concessions must come from Guatemala as Mexico has declared her program and will stand by it in every detail. Should Guatemala revert to her evasive and dilatory policy the rupture probably would come at once.

Very Hard Luck.

John Henry Smith, wife, child, and a neighbor lady, living near Petrea, Ohio, on the B. & O. S. W. Railroad, started to Jackson in a wagon. The horses became frightened at a train, running away and throwing all from the wagon, seriously injuring them. They were picked up and carried home. When reaching there it was found the house had caught fire and was totally destroyed, including the entire contents.

Wheeling Blaze.

Fire destroyed the buildings occupied by Bachman Bros., cigars and tobacco; J. W. Farrell, agent for Wannamaker & Brown, Philadelphia; Bradford's extensive stables, and a number of small buildings north of Twentieth street and west of Market, Wheeling, W. Va. J. W. Farrell was asleep in his office and was rescued by the police with difficulty. Several families are homeless.

Fitzsimmons Unable to Give Bond.

Robert Fitzsimmons, the pugilist, was arraigned before Justice Vann at Syracuse, N. Y., on the indictment charging him with manslaughter in the first degree in causing the death of Con Riordan, by a blow struck during a sparring exhibition at Jacob's Opera House on November 16, last. He pleaded not guilty and was held in $10,000 bail, which he is unable to give as yet.

Coal Mines Shut Down.

Wilkesbarre (Pa.) special: All the collieries of the Lehigh & Wilkesbarre Coal Company will be idle during the coming week. Eight thousand men will be without employment. Superintendent Lawell says the coal trade was never known to be so dull.

A Centenarian Dead.

Patrick Donnelly, aged 102, died at Toledo, Ohio. He remembered clearly events during the close of Washington's second administration.

THE CHICORA LOST

And Twenty-Nine Lives Were Sacrificed.

Benton Harbor (Mich.) special: All hope for the safety of the Graham & Morton screw steamer Chicora has been abandoned here by the finding of wreckage from the vessel off South Haven. The fate of twenty-six men who are known to have been aboard when the steamer left Milwaukee for this port Monday morning, is believed as hopeless. Veteran mariners number every man with the dead. The ill-fated vessel was caught while crossing the lake and fell an easy prey to the seventy-mile an hour hurricane which swept the icy waters of Lake Michigan throughout Monday, and which continued with little moderation for another twenty-four hours.

Capt. Donohue, the lighthouse keeper, noticed through the hazy weather portions of what seemed to be wreckage floating abreast and on each side of the harbor here, a couple of miles outside and close to open water. Capt. Matthews of the life-saving station, led a party of volunteers on a dangerous trip over the moving ice until they came into a lot of fresh wreckage. Some of it was wedged between the ice, but the greater portion was seen underneath the ice. The parts which were brought here were easily recognized by vesselmen as belonging to the Chicora. A perilous gale is still blowing, the weather is thick and the darkness combines to prevent another search for further proof of the disaster.

The number of dead may be twenty-nine, positive statements being made that four St. Joseph business men, instead of one, Joseph Pearl, were guests of Capt. Stines. "Doc" Ballinger, a manufacturer, is the name of one who is said to have been on board.

WILL WELCOME WAR.

A Warlike Feeling Prevails Throughout Mexico.

City of Mexico special: Public sentiment here is very warlike. Rumors are that something definite will be known soon. The Gil Blas says that a telegram was received here stating that an envoy from Guatemala has arrived at Tegucigalpa to negotiate a secret alliance with Honduras, Nicaragua, and Guatemala, and, if there should be no war with Mexico, they will make war against Salvador, a small republic, which the other three Central American States propose to attack in combination and divide the spoils between them.

The President and several members of the Cabinet have been in secret session all day, but nothing can be learned as to the result of their deliberations. It is stated that the Government is now studying the treaty of 1882, which Guatemala ignores. Article 4 in the treaty calls for arbitration. It is rumored that Mexico will not arbitrate.

The feeling is general here among the Americans that Mexico's case is right, and that she has justice on her side; also that all through the controversy President Diaz and the Mexican Government have acted kindly, and have been very lenient with Guatemala. It looks as if Guatemala was trying to gain more time to organize the federation of Central American Republics.

Gen. Hinojosa, Secretary of War and Navy, went to Vera Cruz, where Gen. Beriozabal, senior commander of the army, is at present.

Capt. McDonald of the Texas Rangers, has tendered his services to Col. R. C. Pate, with 300 scouts, in case of war.

Guatemala special: The populace here is very much excited, and it is openly stated that unless Barrios makes peace proposals now and at once to Mexico he will be asked to resign the presidency.

AMERICANS IN DANGER.

Those in the Vicinity of Chefoo Likely to Be Murdered.

London special: A dispatch from Chefoo says that sailors from all the foreign war ships have been landed to protect the consulates of the different countries they represent. Advices to the Pall Mall Gazette, under date of December 4, says that a panic was existing then among the inhabitants of Chefoo on account of the proximity of the Japanese soldiers to that city, and the Chinese troops were said to be upon the point of mutiny. It is added that owing to diplomatic objections the plan was not to land any blue jackets from the foreign warships without urgent necessity for so doing. But the signal men ashore and afloat were to remain on the lookout day and night so long as the weather was clear and safe. It is added that frequent gales of snow and spray obscured the signals in town. Continuing, the Pall Mall Gazette's correspondent says: "All the male foreigners, numbering about thirty, are armed, and they are able to hold the Chinese in check until help arrives. But," he adds, "God help the outlying American missions."

Catholics Kick.

Logansport (Ind.) special: At a secret meeting held here all the members of the Catholic churches in this city who were forbidden membership in the order of Odd Fellows and Knights of Pythias by the recent edict of the Pope unanimously adopted resolutions expressing their disapproval of the decree. The resolutions, which are not yet made public, are also said to request that the edict be withdrawn, as it is believed not to be consistent with the church's established doctrines. The indications are that the majority of the Catholic Knights of Pythias and Odd Fellows of the diocese will at once follow this example, and that the movement will become widespread.

Negroes Going to Mexico.

San Antonio (Texas) special: One hundred thousand negroes will be removed from the States of Alabama, Georgia, and Louisiana to Northern Mexico within the next six months. This is the statement made by W. H. Ellis, the manager of the Mexican Colonization Company, who has just returned from Atlanta, Ga. Mr. Ellis states that the missionary work among the negroes is meeting with the greatest success and the first 100 families will pass through here this week en route for the promised land. The Mexican citizens living in the section to be colonized by the negroes have protested to the Mexican Government against the scheme.

Another Bank Official Gone.

A special from Winona, Minn., says: J. F. Kingsland, President of the bank of St. Charles, closed recently under order of State Bank Examiner Kenyon, has left with his wife for parts unknown. The bank had 152 depositors, and held in trust funds to the amount of $65,000. The other business transacted was in proportion. It is alleged Kingsland overdrew his account to the amount of $25,000, and that before his departure he offered 10 per cent. for money. A widow, hearing of this, loaned him $3,000 she had received as life insurance. Now money and interest are both gone. How much more were secured is problematical.

Destructive Fire at Indianapolis.

Fire started in the Stout building on West Washington street, Indianapolis. The upper floors were used for living purposes, and many inmates had narrow escapes. One woman, after reaching the street, dashed up the stairway to save her jewelry and was dragged out by two policemen, who rescued her in an unconscious condition. Fireman McDonald, while groping about the roof in the dense smoke, stepped onto a skylight, below which the flames were burning fiercely. He went through, but caught the framework with his hands and drew himself out. The total loss is about $15,000.

They Love Their Work.

The Misses Lucy and Carrie Sullivan, daughters of the late Stille M. Sullivan of Dayton, Ohio, have returned from their missionary work at Lucknow, India. Miss Lucy had charge of the Deaconess Hospital at that place, and has been there for the past six years. In her absence both parents died. Miss Carrie had been absent about eighteen months. Both sisters are members of the Grace M. E. Church, and are deeply wedded to their mission work.

It Stooped Short.

Death removed Rev. Stephen Heard of Warren, Ohio. He was 81 years old, and previous to his retirement from working membership in the Erie M. E. Conference was among the best known ministers of the country. His fields of labor were principally in Ohio and Western Pennsylvania. The old house clock, which has been in the family for years, stopped running the same moment that he died.

Bomb Throwers.

Brussels special: During a concert in a cafe at Bumetz, three miles north of Charlesrol, a bomb was thrown into the middle of the hall. The missle exploded, wrecking the furniture and extinguishing the lights. Several persons were hurt by flying splinters, etc., and others were thrown down and trampled upon in the panic which followed the explosion. No one, however, was seriously injured.

Fatal Fire at Brooklyn.

Fire occurred on the top floor of the four-story brick building Nos. 11 and 13 Schenck street, Brooklyn, N. Y., owned and occupied by Fred Lenhard as a morocco factory. Three employes were burned to death. The names of the dead are: Antonio Graff, aged 50; Tony Schultz, aged 25; Frank McShorley, aged 15. Fred Oliver and Albert Huser, both aged 16 years, were probably fatally burned.

Army Landed.

The Secretary of the Navy has received the following cablegram from Admiral Carpenter, dated at Chempulo, the 21st inst: "Army has landed on the Shanghing promontory, China, under cover of the Japanese fleet. The Baltimore leaves Chempulo for Chefoo."

This places the Japanese forces between Pekin and the important fortress of Wei-Hai-Wei.

Freight Train Wreck.

A south-bound freight train on the Big Four Railway was wrecked five miles south of Rushville, Ind., a tree falling across the track immediately in front of the engine. The collision derailed seven cars, making kindling-wood of two of them. The track was blocked and passenger trains were sent to Greensburg via Shelbyville, using the Pan Handle.

The French Cabinet.

A Paris correspondent says that the following Cabinet has been announced: Premier and Minister of Finance, Ribot; Justice, Triraux; Foreign Affairs, Hanotaux; Interior, Legues; Instruction, Poincare; Public Works, Dupuy-Du Temps; Commerce, Andre Ledon; Husbandry, Gadeau; Colonies, Chau-Temps; War, Gen. Jamont; Marine, Admiral Bernard.

Wants To Be a State.

Santa Fe (N. M.) Special. A memorial to Congress praying the immediate passage of the New Mexico statehood bill has passed the lower House of the Assembly by a vote of 19 to 4. It will be unanimously adopted in the Council and hurried forward to Washington in the hopes that the Senate may take favorable action at the present session.

Blind Man Murdered.

John Evans, an aged blind man, who made his living by begging through the country and selling music in Kentucky towns, was killed several nights since by unknown parties in Hopkins County, Kentucky. He had about $10 in money on his person at the time, and is thought to have been murdered for this.

Peacemaker Shot and Killed.

Rufus Stone, residing near Decaturville, Mo., was shot at Zion Church by Lum Farmer. At religious services Farmer and another man became embroiled, when Stone interfered as a peacemaker. Farmer drew his revolver and shot Stone in the right side, from the effects of which he died.

Compromise All Around.

The lockout at the nail mill in Salem, Ohio, was compromised, and the men returned to work. The men had refused a 20 per cent. cut in wages; consequently they were shut out. The compromise affects the mills at Newcastle, Findlay, and Salem, in all employing over 600 men.

New Counterfeit.

The Secret Service officials have discovered a new photographic counterfeit $10 silver certificate of the series of 1891, check letter B. J. Four Tillman, register; D. N. Morgan, treasurer; portrait of Hendricks, small scalloped carmine seal.

Firemen Killed.

By the overturnig of hook and ladder No. 1 of the Albany, N. Y., fire department at Green and Waterloo streets, while on the way to answer an alarm of fire, Robert Gilmore was killed and John Kanary probably fatally hurt.

Lord Randolph Churchill Dead.

Lord Randolph Churchill died at his home in London. His death was a painless one, and he passed away in the presence of Drs. Roose and Keith, with all the members of this family grouped around his bedside.

Run Down in a Storm.

Barney Wermes, one of Logansport's best-known German citizens, was struck by a Pan-handle passenger train, while walking on the tracks, in a blinding snowstorm. He was instantly killed.

Five Men Killed.

An explosion occurred at the mines of the Tradewater Coal Company, Sturgis, Ky. Five kegs of powder exploded inside the mines, killing five men and two mules and caving the mines in on them.

Cherokee Bill Killed.

Guthrie (Okla.) special: Near Tulia, Cherokee Bill, the notorious outlaw, was killed by his brother-in-law, who blew his whole head off with a shotgun.

Earthquake in Montana.

An earthquake occurred at Helena, Mont. Houses shook, windows rattled, and some articles were shaken off shelves and sideboards.

THE MARKETS.

Chicago—Cattle, common to prime, $3.75@6.00; hogs, shipping grades, $3.00@4.75; sheep, fair to choice, $2.00@4.00; wheat, No. 2 red, 51½@52½c; corn, No. 2, 43@44c; oats, No. 2, 28@28½c; rye, No. 2, 51@52c; butter, choice creamery, 23@24c; eggs, fresh, 18@20c; potatoes, car lots, per bushel, 60@75c.

Indianapolis—Cattle, shipping, $3@5.50; hogs, choice light, $3@4.50; sheep, common to prime, $2@3.50; wheat, No. 2 red, 53@54c; corn, No. 1 white, 41@42c; oats, No. 2 white, 32½@33½c.

St. Louis—Cattle, $3@5.75; hogs, $3@4.50; wheat, No. 2 red, 51@51½c; corn, No. 2, 40@41c; oats, No. 2, 28@29c; rye, No. 2, 52@53c.

Cincinnati—Cattle, $3.50@5.50; hogs, $3.50@4.75; sheep, $1.50@4; wheat, No. 2, 54@54½c; corn, No. 2 mixed, 41@42c; oats, No. 2 mixed, 32@32½c; rye, No. 2, 54½@55½c.

Detroit—Cattle, $2.50@5.50; hogs, $4@4.50; sheep, $2@3.25; wheat, No. 1 white, 54@55c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 42@43c; oats, No. 2 white, 33@34c; rye, No. 2, 51@52c.

Toledo—Wheat, No. 2 red, 55@56c; corn, No. 2 mixed, 42@42½c; oats, No. 2 white, 32@32½c; rye, No. 2, 52@54c.

Buffalo—Cattle, $2.50@5.50; hogs, $3@4.50; sheep, $2@4; wheat, No. 2 red, 57@57½c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 45@46c; oats, No. 2 white, 35@35½c.

Milwaukee—Wheat, No. 2 spring, 52@53c; corn, No. 2, 42@44c; oats, No. 2 white, 31@31½c; barley, No. 2, 53@55c; rye, No. 1, 51@52c; pork, mess, 10.25@10.75.

New York—Cattle, $3@5.50; hogs, $3.50@5.00; sheep, $2@4; wheat, No. 2 red, 59@60c; corn, No. 2, 49@50c; oats, white Western, 37@41c; butter, creamery, 16@23c; eggs, fresh, 21@22c.

THE PRICES OF COAL

ARE CONSIDERABLY LOWER THIS YEAR THAN LAST.

Prices Advanced in 1892 While Wages Declined—Congressman Adams Quibbles, Squirms and Denies Facts, When Questioned by Mr. Warner.

Wilson Bill Did It.

The Wilson bill reduced the duty on bituminous coal from 75 to 40 cents per ton. Coal has been 50 cents per ton cheaper this year than last. As about 44,000,000 tons of anthracite coal alone are consumed annually in this country the saving to the people is $22,000,000. This is half the labor cost of mining the coal. That the present reduced price of coal need not, and does not, affect the wages paid to miners is evident from two facts: (1) more coal is consumed when prices are low, and more labor is needed in the mines. Increased demand for labor means steadier employment and higher wages and not lack of employment and lower wages; (2) wages were higher before the passage of the McKinley bill in 1890 than now, while prices of coal were even lower than at present, as will be seen by the following prices:

	Sept. 1890.	Jan. 1892.	Sept. 1892.	Jan. 1894.
Coal.
Stove	$3.50	$3.45	$4.75	$3.75
Chestnut	3.25	3.10	4.65	3.60
Egg	3.50	3.30	4.40	3.60
Grate	3.40	3.25	4.00	3.50

In 1892, when the coal trust raised prices of coal $1.25 per ton—about 40 per cent.—not only were thousands of miners thrown out of employment because of restricted production, but wages were actually reduced for those not thrown out. The relations between cause and effect are so apparent in this case as to be almost self-evident, even without the facts. Yet there are men who have lived in Pennsylvania during the last four years who deny the facts and dispute the logic. Strange to say, one of these men is in Congress. The following interesting colloquy ensued, on January 3, between Congressmen Adams of Pennsylvania and Warner of New York. Adams had complained, in a speech in the House, that coal had averaged fifty cents per ton less in price this year than last.

Mr. Warner—If I understood the gentleman, he said that the people of this country have been getting coal fifty cents per ton cheaper than before the passage of the Wilson bill, but he complained (and in that I sympathize with him) that perhaps some of the poor miners had been getting less for their work than they had received before. Now, I wanted to ascertain from the gentleman how much the miners had had to lose per ton in order to enable the people to get their coal fifty cents per ton cheaper. I was simply asking for information.

Mr. Adams of Pennsylvania—I will answer the gentleman from the papers of this morning, which announce that one of the largest collieries in Pennsylvania has been compelled to shut down and throw its men out of employment because there is no market for the coal.

Mr. Warner—Have there been as many collieries shut down this winter as there were the winter after the McKinley bill was passed?

Mr. Adams—Yes, sir.

Mr. Warner—Has the gentleman any facts on that subject?

Mr. Adams—Mr. Chairman, I cannot go on answering the gentleman's questions all day. I try to be courteous, but—

Mr. Warner—I simply wish to ask the gentleman whether his statement is based on a general estimate or opinion, or whether he really knows the facts. Have you the Dun statistics of that period also?

Mr. Adams—The collieries have been shutting down ever since the Democratic party came into power. (Applause on the Republican side.)

Mr. Warner—Were they not shutting down before the Democratic party came into power?

Mr. Adams—And if the Democratic party continues in power, they will all shut down. (Laughter and applause on the Republican side.)

Mr. Warner—Were not more of them shut down under the McKinley bill than there ever have been since?

Mr. Adams—There was not a man who lost a day's work by the passage of the McKinley bill, but the workingmen have been losing wages ever since the passage of the Wilson bill.

And declined to yield further to Mr. Warner.

A little later in the day, however, Mr. Hendrix yielded two minutes of his time to Mr. Warner, who said:

"Mr. Chairman, in return for the courtesy of the gentleman from Pennsylvania who was so kind as to give me a little information, I will read the following note, which I have upon authority for which I am willing to vouch, and which, I think, will accord with his own knowledge of the state of affairs in the coal mines of the State of Pennsylvania at this very time of year, immediately after the passage of the McKinley bill:

"January 8, 1895.—The Frick Coke Company have given notice that they will shut down 1,100 more coke ovens indefinitely next week. No cause is given for the shut down.

"My next entry is this:

"The coke companies of Pennsylvania reduced wages 10 per cent.; 16,000 men struck.

"Mr. Chairman, that was the climax of a series of reductions of wages and shut-downs in the coal mining regions of the State of Pennsylvania which commenced immediately after the passage of the McKinley bill." (Applause on the Democratic side.)

Mr. Adams—Will the gentleman give us some statistics as to the condition of things after the McKinley law had been in operation for six months or a year?

Mr. Warner—At the coke ovens wages never afterwards rose so high as they were before the passage of that bill. After its passage the actual fact was that a large proportion of the miners were driven into riot and beggary. And there has been no period since when wages have been equal to the old rates which prevailed at the time when the McKinley bill was passed in order that the operatives might have the full benefit of a protective tariff.

Mr. Adams—Does the gentleman know what the duty on coke is?

Mr. Warner—Coke, as is perfectly well known, is made from bituminous coal; and it is the coal production of Pennsylvania that the gentleman has been talking about; and it is the price of coal at the mines that determines the price of, and the market for, both coke and coal, as the gentleman knows even better than I do.

Mr. Adams—I challenge the gentleman's statement. I have asked him to state what was the condition of things after the McKinley bill had been in operation six months or one year, and he does not do it.

Mr. Warner—I have told you that the wages of the men engaged in the coke ovens were never brought back to the point at which they were before the McKinley bill was passed. There were more reductions made shortly after the passage of the McKinley bill than were made during the remaining period down to the present time.

Facts vs. Theories.

The American Economist of Jan. 11 says: "Under the new woolen duties which went into effect on Jan. 1 manufacturers must reduce prices, otherwise foreign goods will take the place of the American product. Of course, the prices of American goods will be reduced to meet the exigencies of the situation, but along with reduced prices of cloth there must come reduced prices of labor."

That settles it. The foreigner doesn't pay our tariff taxes. The Economist having been converted on this point, the demonstration is probably clear enough to be understood by the greatest muddle-headed Republican chump in the remotest backwoods district in Pennsylvania. Lower duties mean cheaper woolen goods. Other things being equal, cheaper woolens are certainly desirable. The most important other thing is wages.

"Along with reduced prices of cloth there must come reduced prices of labor," says the Economist. Is it right this time, any more than it was in 1890, when it said that increased duties meant increased wages? It will be recalled that the Reform Club, in 1892, published a list of about 600 wage reductions in protected industries from October, 1890, to October, 1892. This list has since been doubled for the same period. It will also be recalled that the Economist, in 1892, was unable to find any case of wage advances in protected industries due to increased duties. The three or four actual cases where wages had been advanced slightly were due to labor organizations.

If now we can produce a list of a dozen wage advances in large woolen and textile mills, which have occurred during the first four months under the Wilson bill, it will be in order for the Economist, if it places any value on veracity, to explain how it is that the facts are directly opposed to its theories. The following is a partial list of textile mills in which wage advances were reported in leading trade papers in September, October, November and December, 1894: Rawitzer Bros., Stafford Springs; Riverside Knitting Mills, Cohoes, N. Y.; Alexander Crow's Woolen and Worsted Mills, Philadelphia, Pa.; Woodstock Mills, Norristown, Pa.; Blackinton Woolen Mills, North Adams, Mass.; Cocheco Mills, Dover, N. H.; North Adams Manufacturing Company, Braytonville, Mass.; Pontoosuc Woolen Company, Pittsfield, Mass.; Briggsville Woolen Mill, near North Adams, Mass.; Broad Brook Woolen Mill, Connecticut; Berkshire Knitting Mill, Pittsfield, Mass.; Greenwoods Company, Pine Meadow, Conn.; Lowell Manufacturing Company, Boston, Mass.; Linwood Mills, Briggsville, Mass.; Hathaway Mill, New Bedford, Mass.

Tens of thousands of textile workers now have higher wages or steadier employment, or both, than they have had for years.

We challenge the Economist to produce a similar list for the whole McKinley period. If it cannot produce such a list we ask it in all fairness to tell its readers plainly that, contrary to its theories, there have been more wage advances in four months of low tariffs than there were in four years of high tariffs. Will it tell the truth to its readers?—Byron W. Holt.

The Golden Rule in Commerce.

Under the impression that the removal of the duty on wool by this Government would be a special or exclusive concession to the Argentine Republic, the Government of that country prepared a revision of the tariff on goods imported from the United States for purpose of making reciprocal concessions to us. When it learned that the duty on wool was repealed, whether the wool came from the Argentine Republic or any other country, this special concession to the United States was dropped. But our Minister in Buenos Ayres has informed our Government that the Argentine Congress has passed a tariff bill which is greatly in our favor. It does not appear to give us any exclusive advantages, but it cuts the duties on articles that we export and we alone are likely to export to any considerable quantity. The Argentine Republic cuts off $250,000 of its revenue by removing duties from yellow and pitch pine lumber, and this ought to add materially to our exports. No reduction is reported on refined petroleum, but the crude is said to have been put on the free list, and the duty on farm wagons reduced from 60 to 10 per cent. We have already exported a large quantity of agricultural implements and machinery to the Argentine Republic. There is a large reduction on canned goods, which may benefit France as well as the United States, but we certainly ought to be able to get the most of the advantage. In this case we get some of the more important results of a reciprocity agreement without subjecting our revenues to foreign interference or complicating our relations with nations whom we have agreed to treat on a par with the "most favored nations."—Journal of Commerce and Commercial Bulletin.

A Whale's Jawbones.

The jawbones of a whale are sometimes 20 feet in length, and the mouth, when wide open, is 12 by 18 feet. The throat, however, is so small as scarcely to admit a hen's egg. The whale gets his living by straining the animalculae and small fish out of the water he takes into his capacious mouth. It must be slow work, but then he has plenty of time and nothing else to do, so he attends to his eating so regularly that he often accumulates a ton of oil in his bulky system.

AROUND A BIG STATE.

BRIEF COMPILATION OF INDIANA NEWS.

What Our Neighbors Are Doing—Matters of General and Local Interest—Marriages and Deaths—Accidents and Crimes—Personal Pointers About Indianians.

Minor State News.

TERRE HAUTE Protestant churches will erect a new hospital.

ELWOOD lient-wood works have been purchased by C. K. D. Ross, Elwood.

THE Indiana Midland Railroad, from Brazil to Anderson, will be opened Feb. 3

SOUTH BEND is putting in a new telephone service that costs subscribers but $12 a year.

MRS. EMMA BEONY, aged Muncie lady, was probably fatally injured by falling down stairs.

MRS. LUCY DAY, colored, Rushville, was fatally burned by her dress catching fire from a gas stove.

MRS. WILLIAM HOUSE, Crawfordsville, attempted suicide by taking morphine. Doctors saved her.

SHELBYVILLE is to have telephone service at $1 a month for residences and $2 a month for business houses.

CHARLES SHEFFLER, while leading a horse at Shelbyville, was kicked in the stomach and died in a few hours.

FIFTEEN glass-blowers of the DePauw window-glass factory, have filed suits against the company for wages aggregating $10,000.

STEPHEN COATLEY, living near Crawfordsville, has lost three horses from hydrophobia. His animals were bitten by a mad dog, and it also has bitten several other animals in the same neighborhood.

THE Coroner of Clay County in his finding for the death of Smallcomb, killed in a cave-in in a coal mine at Brazil, recently, charges the company with violating the law in failing to provide timbers for securing the roof.

AT Kokomo, the 2-year-old child of David Downhour was fatally burned by building a bonfire of papers in the house while its mother was at a neighbor's. The family lost their residence by fire only a short time ago.

RUFUS JONES, colored, charged with horse stealing, broke loose from two officers at Anderson, and jumping into White River escaped by swimming to the opposite shore. He was shot at three times, one bullet striking his hand.

THE Pan-handle Railroad Company was sued recently at Anderson for $10,000 damages for the death of R. H. Frank's son. The jury awarded him $2,500. The company now asks that the verdict be set aside, claiming that Frank bribed a juror.

GREENTOWN is to have a new bank with $50,000 capital and Lawrence Simpson as president. Greentown has had no bank since the collapse of the Paris-Dwiggins concern in May, 1893. The latter paid but 20 cents on the dollar. Local business men and wealthy farmers are backing the new enterprise.

LORENZO TODD, aged 20, fell down the shaft at the Prospect Hill coal mines near Vincennes, dropping 235 feet to the bottom, and was instantly killed. Todd was a spectator, and was not employed at the mines. He attempted to step on to the elevator, but missed his footing and fell down the open shaft.

PATENTS have been granted to the following residents of Indiana: Leo F. Berheiden, Richmond, feed cutter; Frederick G. Dokkenwadel, Union City, bowling pins; Maurice Howe, Wabash, packer for natural gas or oil wells; Horatio Keyes, Terre Haute, mine trap door; John T. Little, Borden, tombstone; James E. Mustard, Glen Hall, butler for grain binder; John S. and C. W. Reid, Muncie, packing box or crate; Fred W. Shacke, assignor to Sinker-Davis Company, Indianapolis, centrifugal high-speed governor (reissue;) Simon Vivian and F. A. Rider, assignors to J. H. Bass, Fort Wayne, valve for gas engines; William W. Wainwright and J. H. Morrison, Connersville, device for producing cyclodial curves; George W. C. Woolery, Bedford, sash fastener.

JOHN H. SWAIN, 98 years old, was brought to Warren from Columbus, Ohio, recently. He left his home, wife, and nine children in Salem, N. C., about 1840, and for years all trace of him has been lost. Several years ago the living children, four in number, instituted a systematic search and at last found him at Columbus, Ohio, but other parties by the same name had a guardian appointed for him, claiming to be his heirs, since which time they have been keeping the old man in confinement. The children yet living are Robert Swain of Jasper County, Indiana; Mrs. Sarah Jones of Wells County, Indiana; Mrs. Nancy Ricketts of Blackford County, Indiana, and Mrs. Synthia E. Crum of Warren, at whose home he now is. The children were all present when he arrived, and he readily recognized them, calling them by name. He retains his mental faculties to a remarkable degree for one of his age. Proceedings will be instituted to recover his property.

THE Indiana Republican Editorial Association held interesting two days sessions at Indianapolis. Among other business transacted was the adoption of a new constitution. The radical changes are that applicants for membership hereafter must be either publishers, editors, or associate editors of a Republican newspaper in the State of Indiana, of general circulation and acknowledged respectability. After discussing matters of interest to the association, the election of officers resulted as follows: President, C. B. Landis, Journal, Delphi; First Vice President, A. C. Beeson, Journal, Winchester; Second Vice President, C. W. Stivers, Herald, Liberty; Secretary, J. A. Kemp, Republican Leader, Salem; Treasurer, W. W. Lockwood, Republican, Peru. Executive Committee: C. B. Landis, Journal, Delphi; J. A. Kemp, Leader, Salem; F. B. Hitchcock, Mail, Bedford; J. F. Wildman, Times, Muncie; F. H. Nauer, Banner, North Vernon. Delegates to the National Editorial Association were named as follows: W. H. Staley, H. A. Strohm, J. A. Kautz, C. B. Landis, G. H. Hamilton, alternates, A. C. Beeson, E. G. Thompson, E. J. Marsh, Edward Jeregan, J. A. Kemp, M. J. Beckett.

WILLIAM WEIKLE, an alleged detective of Vincennes, recently wired a Vincennes undertaker from St. Louis, that he had been killed, using an assumed name. The undertaker prepared everything for the funeral, and as Weikle has turned up alive and well, he will be made to pay the undertaker's bill.

AUDITOR OF STATE HENDERSON has ordered the National Fire Insurance Company, of Fredericksburg, Va., put upon the blacklist of the State for failure to comply with the State laws. The company has been flooding the State with circulars advertising its business without proper State authority.

AN accident occurred at the Parker City handle factory four miles from Farmland, in which several hands nearly lost their lives. A coupling on the engine broke, causing it to "run off" and tearing everything to pieces. Those injured are Charles Miller, Col. Miller, John Harter, and J. Manderbach. The damage done to the factory will be several hundred dollars, besides throwing several hands out of work for a few weeks.

THREE THOUSAND DOLLARS' unsolicited damages were paid by the Citizens' Natural Gas Company of Peru, for the death of John Zelgraft, killed by a gas explosion several days ago. The company was liable through escape of gas from mains in street into the cellar of Zelgraft's residence.

INDIANA LEGISLATURE.

THE order of business in the House Monday, was reports from committees. The committee on national resources reported in favor of the passage of House bill No. 117, for the repeal of the law providing for the appointment of a natural gas inspector. The report was concurred in. The following bills were introduced: To appropriate $42,500 for home for feeble minded; concerning grand jurors, restricting their inquiry; for an act relating to construction of roads; to provide for a Canvassing Board for the canvassing of votes at elections; concerning mechanics' liens; to regulate the charges for consumption of natural gas. Relating to granting of charters; an act to abolish office of county assessor; for an act concerning the incorporation and government of cities and towns with a population of less than 80,000; for an act fixing the time of election of county superintendents of schools; a bill concerning public offenses and their punishment; fixing the age of consent at eighteen years; to regulate the employment of women in factories; to abolish contract labor in State prisons and establish public contract system; defining desecration of Sabbath; to prevent the killing of quail between "now and January 1, 1896."

THE House of Representatives, Tuesday, defeated the bill for placing flags on all the school-houses of the State, and also refused to appropriate $3,000 for the Gettysburg memorial.

Representative Stutesman offered a resolution condemning the foreign policy of the national administration and favoring the annexation of the Hawaiian Islands under the terms of the treaty adopted by the Harrison administration. He followed the resolution with a speech intended as a caustic review of the present policy. A motion was made to lay the resolution on the table, but was voted down and the resolution was adopted by a vote of 79 to 15, all the Democrats present voting against it.

The bill of Representative Stotzenberg requiring the application of parties for marriage licenses to be signed by one freeholder, was favorably reported from the Judiciary Committee. The bill aimed principally at eloping couples, who have found it so easy to evade the laws of Indiana and get married by justices in the Ohio River towns.

Representative Dinwiddie's bill, repealing the section of the McHugh law under which the Columbian Athletic Club grew up and flourished as a prize-fighting resort, was favorably reported by the Judiciary Committee; also the bill providing for the incorporation of tobacco warehouse companies.

The resolution for calling a constitutional convention was adversely reported and the report concurred in.

By a vote of 29 to 16 the Senate refused to concur in the report of the Judiciary Committee to indefinately postpone the bill providing for from $50 to $500 fine and from ten days to six months' imprisonment for carrying concealed weapons. A long debate followed the committee's report, but the majority believed that a more stringent law was needed and the bill went to a second reading, thus indicating its final passage.

Senator Cramer introduced a congressional apportionment bill which gives the Republicans seven and the Democrats six districts, but it will doubtless be set aside by the caucus measure yet to be reported.

The protests of the people of Indianpolis against the methods which have been in vogue in the city School Board for the past two years found an echo Wednesday, in a resolution in the House to inquire into its affairs. An important departure from the original purposes of the common school system, and one that will provoke bitter opposition, was suggested in a bill offered providing for the teaching of German in all public schools where twenty-five patrons shall sign a petition requesting the same.

A bill whose object is to overcome the rigor of the Grubbs' libel law was introduced in the house and was recognized as one which has been before every legislature for the past ten years. It provides that before any suit shall be filed for libel the aggrieved party shall notify the publisher of the paper of the injustice done him and shall give him an opportunity to retract the statements. If this is done within three days, where the paper offending is a daily, and in ten days, where the paper is a weekly, the plaintiff shall recover only actual damage sustained.

A bill making Laporte County a separate circuit, and providing for the election of a judge and prosecutor, was introduced.

THE following bills passed the Senate, Thursday: An amendment to the libel law, which provided that where justification is the defense in a case for libel or slander, it shall be sufficient to prove the justification by a fair preponderance of the evidence, instead of beyond a reasonable doubt, as under the present rule; prohibiting railroad or street car companies from building their lines through cemeteries in cities having a population of a hundred thousand or over; providing that street car companies shall construct vestibules on the fronts of their motors for the protection of motormen in cold or inclement weather; legalizing Sheriffs' sales in cases where the rents and profits have not been appraised; fixing the number of employes of the House and their salaries; appropriating $100,000 for the erection of a Soldiers' Home at Lafayette; fixing the salaries of Coroners in counties with a population

CHAPTER XII—Continued.

"Poor old Black!" he said one day—or rather night—when, after toiling, soaked through, up the steep brae, he sat down a few minutes after, dry and warm, by the bright fire, holding the little hands which had served him so lovingly. "Poor Black, whom I left in his large, handsome, empty house. I am quite sorry for all old bachelors."

"Thank you, dear."

"Though he told me once, in a confidential moment, that his life had been so hard he was often glad there had been no one to share it."

"He was mistaken."

"I think he was mistaken," Roderick said, pressing his lips on the smooth brow and bright grave eyes, that looked on life utterly without fear, so long as it was a life with love in it. "I cannot believe that any man is the weaker, but the stronger, for having a woman to help him. Only he must choose a woman who can help him—as I did."

"You are very conceited," she said, gayly, and then clung to him passionately. "Two together; I can bear anything if we are two together. But if you had left me to go through my life alone——" A kind of shiver passed through her. "Some have to bear it, and do. Cousin Silence did. And I would have borne it, too—I told you so once. I would have lived a busy, useful life. I would not have died. But, oh!—the difference, the difference!"

"And, oh! the difference to me!" he said, as he clasped her to his heart, and felt the peace and felt the strength she gave him. And then, coming back to common things, he added, "Poor old Black! He has been just a trifle 'difficult' of late; he is not the best temper in the world, and he likes you so much, you perhaps might smooth him down. If I bring him home with me to-morrow, can you give us some supper, Mrs. Jardine?"

So, in the dusk of the next evening, the tall young fellow, handsome and strong, and the bent old figure with the brown wig and yellow gaiters, appeared at the front door, which the mistress always herself opened for her husband.

"I was going to introduce the visitor," said he, "for we never have any other; but look here! I feel like Robinson Crusoe when he saw the footmarks on the shore. Wheels! horses' feet! Mrs. Jardine, you must have been entertaining a carriage and pair?"

"Two carriages and pairs! They have only just gone. And they were so very nice."

"The carriages?"

"No, the people. Such 'nice' people; is not that your English word—gentil, agreable, charmant?"

"She is going back to her French again—the renegade!"

"No, I am thoroughly Scotch now, Mr. Black knows it," said she, as with gentle, almost filial hands, she took off the old man's plaid and bonnet, and sat him in the arm-chair, he submitting with astonishing meekness; but all old people, just as all children, loved and submitted to Silence.

"How bright your eyes look! Did your visitors talk French with you, my darling?"

"A little, for they had been a great deal abroad. But they were so simple and kindly, not grand or overdressed like——" She stopped.

"Like other friends of ours, whom being friends we will not criticise," said Roderick, with a kind of sad dignity. It had been a sore vexation to him that, except the Griersons, nearly all the Scotch women his wife had met were of the class of Mrs. Maclagan, that exaggeration of national qualities which people of one country constantly make the type of another. "But, my dear, who are your visitors? Mr. Black will be sure to know them."

"Ou, ay; but they would never condescend to know me," said the old man, fingering with a half-comical awe the cards on the table. "Sir John and Lady Symington, of Symington; Mr. and Mrs. MacAlister, of Castle Torre. I told you, sir"—he always addressed Roderick out of business hours as "sir," and Silence as "madame"—"the gentry of the neighborhood would soon be finding out that there were again Jardines at Blackhall. Besides, Sir John and your father were lads thegither, and MacAlister of Torre—he was a bit bairn then."

"Yes," said Silence, after a puzzled pause at the Scotch words, which when he forgot himself the old man continually brought in. "Yes, they told me so. They spoke of him—Roderick, you would have liked to hear how they spoke of your father. And they said they hoped we should be good neighbors and meet very often."

Roderick looked pleased—it is but human nature to enjoy being "respeckit like the lave"—but suddenly he clouded over. "Don't let us talk of this; it is impossible."

Silence was so astonished at the tone as well as the words that the natural, innocent "Why?" died on her lips. She turned away and began talking to Mr. Black of something else, asking no more questions, nor referring again to the visitors, who, Roderick saw with pain, had evidently charmed her and been a little brightness in the long empty day.

He told her so, when the old man departed—after a rather dull two hours; for the master of the house was very silent, and when he did speak, there was once or twice the faintest shade of discontent in his tone, a sort of half apology for their simple menage and frugal fare, of which Silence took no outward notice. She had given her guest the best she had—given it with a warm heart, too, and a grateful—for Mr. Black had been very kind, and many a brace of grouse and bunch of grapes had found their way from the Mill-house to Blackhall.

"And I think he knows our ways, and does not expect us to requite him with turtle and venison," said the young hostess.

"Perhaps not; he knows the barrenness of the land," answered Roderick, sharply—very sharply for him. "But other folks do not know and need not. Your magnificent visitors, for instance. I hope you did not let them penetrate beyond the drawing-room, or invite them to stay to tea, lest they might quote the famous lines,

'Love in a hut with water and crust,
Is—Love, forgive us!—cinders, ashes, dust.'"

"I think you may well ask Love to forgive you, dear," Silence answered, not echoing the laugh, which was scarcely a merry laugh. "Yes, I offered them tea, for I liked them, and I wanted them to stay till you came home, thinking you would like them, too. They did stay, as long as they possibly could, and we had a pleasant talk, and Janet was baking, so I gave them some hot scones, and—"

"What charming hospitality! It must have reminded them of Caleb Balderstone's. Why, my dear wife, we shall soon have to set up a Caleb Balderstone, since Blackhall has grown into a sort of Wolf's Hope. Silence, my darling"—taking her face between his hands and trying hard to curb his excessive irritation—"you are the sweetest and simplest of women; but—you must not invite people here again. Not people such as these. They would only go home and laugh at us. I don't care for myself; I can dine off porridge and salt—it would not harm me—but I can not bear the world to know it. We must put the best on the outside."

She looked up, more than surprised—startled. Evidently there was something in the woman's nature—larger or smaller, who shall decide?—which could not understand the man at all.

"Never mind, however, for this once. We'll hire a fly—a carriage and pair perhaps, in noble emulation—return these visits, and any others with which the 'gentry of the neighborhood,' as old Black called them, may condescend to honor us—and so end it all. To keep up acquaintance with them is, as I said, simply impossible."

"Why impossible?"

"Can you not see? Birds of a feather must flock together—it is natural law. These people are the 'magnates of the county,' and we the impoverished Jardines of Blackhall. Besides, did you tell them—it was just like you, my innocent one, to do it—that I am also foreman of the cotton mill?"

Again she looked at him in quiet surprise. He seemed so very unlike himself. "If I had told them, would it have mattered very much?"

"Certainly not—to me. But I think it would to them. Dear, a man is always despised for being poor; and—I will not be despised. I can live upon bread and water, dress in fustian—or rags, if necessary; but my wife will prevent that," added he, tenderly. "Only our poverty must not betray itself. If we appear in the world at all, it must be as Mr. and Mrs. Jardine of Blackhall. Whatever we suffer, let us 'die and make no sign.' Or, even to go a little further, let us imitate that very reserved gentleman of whom his valet said, 'Master's dead, sir—but he doesn't wish it to be generally known.'"

Silence did not laugh at the stale joke, which indicated a long undercurrent of bitter thought now welling up to the surface; but she attempted no remonstrance.

"My friend"—the old tender "mon ami"—"do not be angry with me. I liked these people because I thought you would like them, too, and that a little society would be good for you; but since it cannot be——"

"Since it cannot be," he repeated, decisively, "we will not trouble ourselves about it, or them. Doubtless our neighbors will trouble themselves very little about us—at least, as soon as they know all the facts concerning us, which of course they very soon will. Never mind, my wife. Kiss me and be happy! We are happy, are we not? Let the world go its way—who cares?"

But it was evident that he did care; and when after a week or two he found he had been mistaken, and people did "trouble themselves" about the young Jardines, inasmuch that by and by, either from friendliness, respect, or curiosity, they had called at Blackhall—whether pleased or vexed, Roderick was certainly interested.

"Well, and who has been here to-day?" was always his first question on coming up from the mill; sometimes adding, with a bitter earnest underlying the jest, that he hoped that she had told all her grand neighbors that her husband was "out at work," his work as foreman of the mill.

"Yes. I thought you wished everybody to know? It could not matter, you being a gentleman and a Jardine. You once said so."

"And I say so still, in my best moments; but in my worst— Well, I suppose we men are great cowards—moral cowards. No matter, I am glad the murder's out. You did it for the best, my wife; and it is the best, for they will never come again, depend upon it."

But, strange to say, they did; and at last it became absolutely necessary to return these friendly visits.

"I will beg a holiday from my master"—poor Roderick! he sometimes took a savage pleasure in the word—"we will hire the village fly and go in state; appearing for once as respectable people—Mr. and Mrs. Jardine, of Blackhall."

"I think we are respectable people," the wife answered; she had learned not to be hurt at these accidental bitternesses. "We are well-born, well-bred; we live in our own pretty house; we pay our debts; and we stint nobody—except ourselves, perhaps."

Herself she might have said, for her husband, simple as he was in his ways, wonderfuly so, considering his up-bringing, never suspected how many domestic and personal sacrifices were necessary, that she might in a sense, though not in the sense he had meant it, really "put the best on the outside" for him when he came home.

He was at home so little now that the whole day's holiday—they two together—was quite a treat to look forward to. But when, instead of the village fly, which Mr. Black had offered to order for them, there came up his own well-appointed but rarely used carriage, with his compliments, and the horses had not been out for a week, would Mrs. Jardine oblige him by using them? Then Roderick's pride rose up at once.

"Take Mrs. Jardine's compliments to Mr. Black, and she regrets extremely that——"

A hand laid on his arm—a whisper which always fell on his jarring nerves like a soft finger-touch on a quivering harp-string.

"Dear, yesterday when I was thanking Mr. Black for all his kindness, he said—you know his quick, husky way of speaking—'Madame, you may have a hard life—I rather think you will—but I hope you will never know one hardship; to find yourself in your old age without one single human being whom you have a right to be kind to.'"

"Poor old fellow!" said Roderick, much moved. "My little Conscience! you are right. John, tell your master he is exceedingly kind, as he always is; and Mrs. Jardine will enjoy her drive exceedingly."

So she did—to an almost pathetic degree—for it was weeks since she had been outside the garden gate. And the whole world was so lovely that still November day—November, but bright as June; it often is so in Scotland—all the fading landscape looked as beautiful as an old face sometimes looks to eyes that loved it when it was young.

These two, sitting side by side and hand in hand, though they hid the litter fact under a kindly plaid from John the coachman, were young still; to them the dying year brought only a charm of sadness. They were very happy, and all the happier, Roderick declared, because in their circuit of nearly twenty miles, owing to the rarely fine day, they found everybody "out" except one family—the Symingtons.

Sir John—a "fine old Scottish gentleman" of the last generation—with his old wife beside him, still keeping the remains of that delicate English beauty which had captured him fifty years ago, were, even Roderick owned, quite a picture. And they remembered his father; and they had known Cousin Silence. Their greeting was more than courteous—friendly; and their house, upon which, being childless, they had expended all they had to spend, was full of art treasures collected abroad, each with a history and an interest. The old couple seemed still to have the utmost enjoyment in life, and to have the faculty of making others enjoy life too.

"I knew you would like them," said Silence, when, having sent the carriage away, they walked home through the wood-path, which, Sir John carefuly pointed out to them, made Symington only a quarter of an hour's distance from Blackhall.

"Yes, I like them. That is just the sort of house I should care to go to, if I could go. Lucky folk those Symingtons. They seem to have had everything heart can desire."

"Not quite. Did you see a miniature over Lady Symington's arm-chair? She saw me looking at it, and said—you should have heard the tone, quiet as she is—'That was our only son—my one child! He died at seven years old.' I think," Silence continued, softly, "if you do not mind, I should like now and then to go and see Lady Symington."

Her husband pressed her arm, and then said, suddenly, "My innocent wife, what a happy way you have of taking everything."

"It is because I am so happy."

"And I—yes, I ought to be happy, too, God knows! But——"

She put her hand upon his lips. "God does know. And I know, too. Many things are very hard for you to bear—much harder for you than for me. We will not speak of them; we will just bear them. We can bear them, I think, together."

"Yes, my darling."

And after that he made no more "misanthropic" speeches for the whole evening.

(To be continued.)

Rather a Damper.

A newly-married pair who arrived on their honeymoon trip at a certain celebrated watering place, at a time when accommodation was at a premium, had a mattress spread for them by a compassionate innkeeper in one of his baths. In the middle of the night the house was alarmed by loud shrieks proceeding from the nuptial chamber. What was th matter? Well, this—the young bride, wishing to ring the bell for her maid, had caught hold of what she supposed to be a bell rope, and pulled it smartly.

Unhappily for her and her spouse, it was the cord of the shower bath above their heads, and forthwith down plumped such a deluge of cold water as would throw a damper upon the most devoted of honeymoon couples.

Her husband, in his dismay, caught frantically at another cord on his side of the extemporized couch, but the only response was an equally liberal deluge of water, this time nearly boiling hot. The unhappy pair screamed in unison. The bride, in the excitement of the moment, uttered sentiments anything but complimentary to her spouse.

When the servants came they were just in time to rescue the unhappy pair from drowning, for the room was already full of water, and the wife was perched like a monkey on her husband's neck, uttering lamentable cries, while her good man was fumbling in the dark trying to find the door. Let us hope that the subsequent wedded life of this unfortunate couple may be happier than its commencement.

Conveyed a Wrong Impression.

Justice Gaynor of the Supreme Court addressed the students of the law department of the University of the City of New York at their last commencement in Carnegie Hall. He read his address from manuscript. It was a long address, and when he got well into it he had occasion to make this statement:

"The first thing I did when I became a lawyer was——"

Here he paused, took up a glass of water and swallowed a mouthful. The effect was electrical. The audience roared with laughter and applauded for a full five minutes. Justice Gaynor was stunned for a few minutes at the outburst. Then he found voice to say:

"Well, better that than something else." He then went on with his address, and it appeared that he really intended to say that he attributed a great deal of his success to the fact that he was especially prompt in turning over some money which he had collected to the man to whom it belonged.—New York Sun.

Which?

That the average negro is inclined to be lazy, and that he also has a keen sense of the ludicrous, is shown by the following story received directly from the lips of an old "uncle," who vouches for its truth:

"Unc' Toby," a man for whom Bartlett's Creek has more attractions than the hot and grassy cotton field, not long ago took a "day off" in pursuit of his favorite amusement. He baited his hook, and long and patiently sat upon the bank of the stream, vainly waiting for a bite. At last, under the combined influence of the warmth of the day and the sluggish movements of the stream, Unc' Toby fell asleep.

Eternal vigilance is the price of trout, and while our weary angler slept, an enormous fish took the bait and pulled him into the creek.

Of course this awakened the old man, and he was overheard to inquire, as he floundered about in the water:

"For de Lord's sake, Toby, am dis niggah a-fishin', or am dis fish a-niggerin'?"

Untrod by Human Foot.

The Devil's Tower is a geological wonder on the Belle Fouchre River in the Black Hills region, of which a geologist of international reputation said: "It is a remarkable freak of nature and appears not to have been repeated elsewhere on the earth's surface, but stands alone, unique and mysterious." It is believed to be the cone of a cooled down volcano. At a distance it looks like a huge cask or barrel made of gigantic timbers, the sides being roughly furrowed with crystals of trachyte. Its height is 625 feet and the walls on all sides are so nearly smooth and perpendicular that no human being has ever been able to climb to the top. Its diameter at the base is 796 feet and at the summit (estimated) 350 feet.—St. Louis Republic.

THE BALLOON IN WAR

HAS FRANCE SOLVED THE AIR-SHIP PROBLEM.

Wonderful Structures that Can Be Accurately Steered Are Now Turned Out—Used for Observation and as Awful Engines of Destruction.

Death Soars in Them.

Balloons are likely to play an important part in future warfare, and today every leading nation in Europe recognizes the great use that balloon service may render. France, however, seems to be the nation that has progressed the furthest in this new science of destruction. One of her engineers, Mr. Yon, is conducting a mammoth shop in Paris and from it balloons are being rapidly turned out for the military service of Russia, Italy, Spain and Portugal. It is altogether unlikely that the balloons thus supplied embody in them the best results attained by French researches. A great deal of what has been accomplished is supposed to be kept concealed for the benefit of the French Government. Regular schools of ballooning have been established at Meudon, near Paris, and at other places by the French War Department and important discoveries are known to have been made. But they are jealously guarded. Now and again the people of Paris see a cigar-shaped airship rise slowly from the heights of Meudon, sail with even motion over the city, and then, bearing to the right or left, swing back in a great circle many miles in diameter to the very point from which it started, descending to the earth as easily and lightly as a bird settles down upon a ranch. This is the latest balloon perfected by the War Department and it is said to have reached the highest point of development.

A FRENCH CIGAR-SHAPED AIRSHIP.

Captive Balloons.

The chief use of the military balloon will be to keep watch over the movements of a hostile fleet or army, a service which can be rendered without danger to the balloon and with vastly better results than can be obtained by any system of spies. As the small balloons will be held captive by cables reeled out from below, maps and photographs of the enemy's territory can be sent down to the commanding officer by letting them run down the cable, as boys send "travelers" along their kite-strings. At a height of a mile the aeronaut, with powerful glasses, could scour the surrounding country, hills permitting, for a radius of eighty miles, and exact photographs of the hostile camp, of the forts, of the enemy's forces—in a word, of the exact situation—could be taken, and every detail produced with unerring fidelity. Running up with the cable is a telephone wire, so that communication is maintained between the balloon and the ground.

The larger military balloons, which will not be held captive by cable, but allowed to soar whither the aeronaut wills, will carry dynamite bombs and deadly explosives, which they will shower down upon the buildings and people lying helpless three or four miles beneath. In thousands of ways they will be utilized in the destruction of human life and the horrors of war will be augmented.

Naval Airships.

It is not alone on the shore that the military balloon has been found valuable. Frequent and successful experiments have been made on board the French men-of-war to utilize the balloon in naval warfare. As may be imagined the maneuvering of a captive balloon is a much more delicate operation on board a vessel that it is upon solid earth. Nevertheless, the attempt has been made, and the difficulties vanquished one by one, so that to-day the French Government is constructing in every iron-clad in its navy, steel reservoirs calculated to carry thousands of cubic feet of pure hydrogen gas, compressed to 20 atmospheres, to be used in inflating the military, or rather, naval balloon. Recently during some naval maneuvers a lieutenant in the balloon, deciding to demonstrate the perfect control he had over his airship, deliberately cut the connecting cable while out at sea. Allowing his balloon to rise to the height of two miles, he opened the valve and allowed the balloon to sink until it reached the water, and there floated like a piece of cork—for these balloons are constructed with buoyancy baskets—until he was picked up safe and sound, although his little balloon had only about 1,000 feet of cubic contents.

France is by no means the only nation that is devoting scientific study to the airship. Germany, too, is paying much attention to the business, and has developed captive balloons that can soar to a great height and make accurate maps of the surrounding country.

A CAPTIVE WAR BALLOON.
Showing the method of aerial observation in use in the German army.

Japanese Battle Songs.

Like most nations, the Japanese have had their war songs from the time they had any existence as a people, but we are told that the lyrics which were used by the soldiers in the time of the first great Emperor of Japan, Jimmu Tenno, 660 B. C., were particularly rhythmical and finished. Japanese songs, with the exception of the heroic or historical ones, are all short, and when these are sung in times of peace, they are set to the Koto.

The first of these up-to-date martial songs is entitled "Gallant Warriors."

If warriors go to war by land, the turf shall receive the bodies of the slain. If warriors go to war by sea, the ocean shall receive the bodies of the slain. From time immemorial our gallant warriors have gone forth in swarms. Human life lasts but for fifty years; who would wish to purchase a few miserable years of life at the cost of dishonor? March and fire as long as breath remains, for our lives are at the disposal of the sovereign, our bodies are to be sacrificed to the glory of the country; let soldiers die with all their wounds in front. The souls of those who thus defy death shall be through the ages to come the guardian angels of Oriental tranquility. So, go forth, go forth, ye warriors; warriors, go forth!

The second battle song, which is distinctly of very recent date, is "To Pekin."

China is a country where in bygone days teachings of sages prevailed; but as time rolled on the country has become retrogressive. It boasts of itself as the Celestial Kingdom, but its heart is barbarous and is the very reverse of celestial. Till its ignorance is dispelled the sky of the Orient must ever be dark. Now is the time to plant the flag of the Rising Sun on the walls of Pekin, and to illuminate its darkness. This is the duty of our glorious empire, the Land of the Rising Sun. Go forth, go forth, imperial army! March in emulation till Pekin is taken!—The Nineteenth Century.

Tibetan Monasteries.

Of all the wonders of the Tibetan religion, none is so striking as the abundance of monasteries. These great assemblages of religious houses are full of monks, or Lamas, and the marvels associated with them are truly surprising. Their number is amazing; they literally swarm in the inhabited portions of Tibet, and a traveler journeying through the country passes monastery after monastery in endless succession.

So numerous are they that Mr. Rockhill, the indefatigable American explorer of Tibet, tells us that, while the population of Eastern Tibet is but small, one-fifth of it consists of Lamas. He also says that, in his journey from Jyekundo in Tibet to Tachien-lu, on the frontier of China, a distance of 600 miles, he passed thirty-six large monasteries, five of which contained from 2,000 to 4,000 Lamas. Many monasteries in other parts are equally large.

The great monastery of Kumbum, near the Lake Koko Nor, contains 4,000 monks. Chiamdo, which is one of the chief towns in Eastern Tibet, and contains 12,000 inhabitants, seems to be half composed of a gigantic monastery, and Captain Bower, in his recent journey through Tibet, passed the large town of Riuchi, which seemed to him to be all monastery. The wealth of some of these monasteries is astonishing.—All the Year Round.

Dromedaries Beat Bovines.

A camel has twice the carrying power of an ox. With an ordinary load of 400 pounds he can travel twelve or fourteen days without water, doing forty miles a day. They are fit to work at 4 years old, but their strength begins to decline at 25.

Tough on the Doctor.

An Indian in Madera, Cal., has killed a doctor who had agreed to cure his wife and did not do so, but who yet collected his fee—took the man's horse—for professional services.

Early Night Keys.

Keys made of bronze and iron were in use in Greece and Italy as early as the seventh century.

A NON-BLOCKING COAL CART.

Stands Alongside of the Curb Without Interfering.

One of the most serious drawbacks in the way of rapid surface transit is the coal wagon backed up against the curb unloading. A great many of the streets of this city are too narrow to permit of the passage of a street car past a wagon thus drawn up. This is entirely disposed of by the patent of John McBride, of Philadelphia, who has designed a coal cart which is not backed up to unload, but which deposits its cargo from the side.

THE COAL IN TRANSIT.

The body of the wagon is of such a form as to easily pour the coal into the chute, which is enclosed, so as to confine the dust and can be turned over to either side by powerful hoisting gearing of simple and most substantial construction. All of the stress of the hoisting gear is within the metal frame, and this frame strongly braces the wooden frame. The load, when traveling, rests upon strong metal girths, so that it is evenly supported, and is as low down as is consistent with the turning of the front wheels under the wagon, a feature that is necessary to turn in narrow streets or cartways.

EMPTYING THE LOAD WITHOUT BLOCKING TRAFFIC.

These upright supports are made with a telescopic action, and, as the chain passes over the wheels therein, in raising the tank, the uprights are automatically lengthened, and the tank raised higher so that it is emptied entirely without the aid of a shovel or other implement.

HOW TO BUY A HORSE.

An Old Horseman Utters a Few Words of Warning to the Inexperienced.

If you want to buy a horse don't believe your own brother. Take no man's word for it. Your eye is your market. Don't buy a horse in harness. Unhitch him and take everything off but his halter, and lead him around. If he has a corn or is stiff, or has any failing, you can see it. Let him go himself away, and if he walks right into anything you know he is blind. No matter how clear and bright his eyes are, he can't see any more than a bat. Back him, too.

Some horses show their weaknesses or tricks in that way when they don't in any other. But, be as smart as you can, you'll get caught sometimes, says an old horseman, in the Scientific American. Even the expert gets stuck. A horse may look ever so nice and go a great pace, and yet have fits. There isn't a man who could tell it until something happens. Or he may have a weak back. Give him the whip and off he goes for a mile or two, then all of a sudden he stops on the road. After a rest he starts again, but he soon stops for good, and nothing but a derrick can start him. The weak points about a horse can better be discovered while standing than while moving. If he is sound, he will stand firmly and squarely on his limbs without moving them, with legs plumb and naturally poised; or if the foot is taken from the ground, and the weight taken from it, disease may be suspected, or, at least, tenderness, which is the precursor of disease. If a horse stands with his feet spread apart, or straddles with his hind legs, there is a weakness in the loins and the kindeys are disordered. Heavy pulling bends the knees. Bluish, milky cast eyes in horses indicate moon blindness or something else. A bad tempered one keeps his ears thrown back; a stumbling horse has blemished knees. When the skin is rough and harsh and does not move easily to the touch, the horse is a heavy eater and digestion bad. Never buy a horse whose breathing organs are at all impaired. Place your ear at the heart, and if a wheezing sound is heard it is an indication of trouble.

PROPOSED CHILDS MAUSOLEUM

Description of the Last Resting Place of the Noted Philanthropist.

The last resting place of George W. Childs, the Philadelphia publisher and philanthropist, is about to be built in the Quaker City. Mrs. Childs has had plans made for a handsome mausoleum and it is now being erected at Central Laurel Hill Cemetery. It is to be constructed of granite, with decorations of bronze, and is to cost upwards of $30,000. The doors are seven feet three inches high and three feet three inches wide. Each door will be ornamented with an oblong grille of scroll work. Three handsome columns are placed on either side. Over the door will be the inscription, "George W. Childs." The massive cornice will be ornamented with a handsome wreath of bay leaves, cast in bronze. The sides will be of rough stone, their monotony being broken by pillars. A bronze ventilator and a bronze window, rich with figured cathedral glass, and a circular grille, richly carved, will be placed in the rear.

PROPOSED CHILDS MONUMENT.

A man likes best to be with those who are most indulgent with him.

PIPER HEIDSIECK
PLUG TOBACCO
CHAMPAGNE FLAVOR

Consumers of chewing tobacco who are willing to pay a little more than the price charged for the ordinary trade tobaccos, will find this brand superior to all others.
BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.

DR. MOTT'S
PENNYROYAL PILLS

The only safe, sure and reliable Female Pill ever offered to Ladies, especially recommended to married Ladies. Beware of pills put up in tin boxes as they are dangerous. Ask for Dr. Mott's PENNYROYAL PILLS and take no other. Send for circular. Price $1.00 per box, 6 boxes for $5.00. DR. MOTT'S CHEMICAL CO., - Cleveland, Ohio.
Fisher & Son, Auburn. Ind.

FITS!
Brace Up! Don't Lose Courage!!
Your disease is not incurable because your Physician has given you up, and you have not received any benefit from the medicine you have tried, is not any reason you cannot be cured. We can positively cure all kinds of Fits, Epileptic, Convulsion or Spasmodic. WE GUARANTEE A POSITIVE AND PERMANENT CURE IN ALL CASES. We have cured thousands, many cases of long standing, and given up by Doctors as incurable. In our "Allen's Fits Cure" you will find a medicine that has never failed to effect a speedy cure. We back our guarantee with an offer of $100 to any person we cannot cure. Highest Bank references furnished on application.
1 Qt. Bottle, $3.00. 2 Qt. $5.00.
ALLEN MEDICAL CO.,
Washington & Water Sts., BOSTON, MASS.

LADIES
Suffering from Retarded, Suppressed or Painful Menstruation and all irregularities of like nature, will find our FAMALE PILLS an infallible cure. They are entirely safe and can always be relied upon for speedy relief. We have yet to hear of a case where they have failed to produce the desired result. A box should be kept on hand at all times to provide for emergencies. Correspondence Confidential.
By mail, with full directions, securely sealed, $2.00 per box.
ALLEN MEDICAL CO.,
Washington & Water Sts., BOSTON, MASS.

Every Woman
Sometimes needs a reliable monthly regulating medicine.
Dr. PEAL'S
PENNYROYAL PILLS.
Are prompt, safe and certain in result. The genuine (Dr. Peal's) never disappoint. Sent anywhere $1.00. Peal Medicine Co., Cleveland, O.
Sold by Fischler & Son., Auburn.

General or local Agents. $75 a week. Exclusive territory. The Rapid Dish Washer. Washes all the dishes for a family in one minute. Washes, rinses and dries them without wetting the hands. Washes the butter, the machine does the rest. Bright, polished dishes and cheerful wives. No scalded fingers, mangled handsor clothing to broken dishes, no mess. Cheap durable, warranted. Circulars free.
W. P. HARRISON & CO., Clerk 35, Columbus, O.

Sex-ine Pills

RESTORE LOST VIGOR
Before and After Using.
New discovery. Will brace you up in a week. Sold with a WRITTEN GUARANTEE to Cure Nervous Debility, Loss of Sexual Power in either sex, Involuntary Emissions from any cause. If neglected, such troubles lead to consumption or insanity. $1.00 per box by mail, 6 boxes for $5.00. With every $5 order we give a written guarantee to cure or refund the money. Address PEAL MEDICINE CO., Cleveland, Ohio.
Sold by Fischler & Son, Auburn.

5,000 ACRES CENTRAL MICHIGAN FARMS
Near Saginaw and Bay City. Soil clay loam, hardwood timber and free from swamps. Railway facilities; schools and markets adjacent. Price, $6 to $8 per acre, on easy payments. Satisfaction assured. Practical farmers and parents who wish to give their sons a start in life, can find No Better Land in Michigan. Maps and Circulars free. JACOB SCHWARTZ or WM. M. TENNANT, SAGINAW, E. S., MICH.

RESTORED MANHOOD.
DR. MOTT'S NERVERINE PILLS

The great remedy for nervous prostration and all nervous diseases of the generative organs of either sex, such as Nervous Prostration, Failing or Lost Manhood, Impotency, Nightly Emissions, Youthful Errors, Mental Worry, excessive use of Tobacco or Opium, which lead to Consumption and Insanity. With every $5 order we give a written guarantee to cure or refund the money. Sold at $1.00 per box, 6 boxes for $5.00. DR. MOTT'S CHEMICAL COMPANY, Cleveland, Ohio.
BEFORE AND AFTER USING.
Sold by Fischler & Son, Auburn.

PATENTS
Caveats, and Trade-Marks obtained and all Patent business conducted for MODERATE FEES.
OUR OFFICE IS OPPOSITE U. S. PATENT OFFICE and we can secure patent in less time than those remote from Washington.
Send model, drawing or photo., with description. We advise, if patentable or not, free of charge. Our fee not due till patent is secured.
A PAMPHLET, "How to Obtain Patents," with cost of same in the U. S. and foreign countries sent free. Address,
C. A. SNOW & CO.
OPP. PATENT OFFICE, WASHINGTON, D. C.

THE AUBURN COURIER

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY.

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, post office as second-class matter.

THURSDAY.... JANUARY 3, 1895

Court.

In a case now pending in which S. J. Peabody is plaintiff and the Indiana Dimension Co. are defendants, F. M. Powers of Angola is appointed special judge to try it when it comes up, as Judge Penfield had been in the case as counsel before the election. In the case of Fred Schulthess and others for an allowance to be paid to them by the receiver of the J. L. Davis estate $319 was ordered paid, being in the nature of fees for services rendered the estate and for expenses. The case of Reuben Lockwood vs Monitor Mfg. Co. came up with Frank Powers as judge. The receiver, M. E Griswold was directed to secure a settlement with Albert and Edward Mitchell and an allowance of $150 was made to Judge Penfield as fees for his services when he was attorney for the receiver.

Frank Powers also tried another case in which Judge Penfield had been counsel. It was the case of settling up the Milo Calkins matters by Marion Franks the receiver. The reports made were all approved and the receiver discharged.

Wm. Brown of Angola took the bench in the case of Eclipse Wind Engine Co. vs Zimmerman Mfg. Co. judgment for defendants. Plaintiffs appeal to supreme court. Bond must be filed in 40 days.

H. Fales vs Thomas Lasher replevin. Finding of $3 for plaintiff. Judge Adair of the 33d circuit is appointed to try the replevin case of Isaac Grate estate vs Geo. Grate. L. J. Miller vs H. R. Yates et al resulted in a judgment for $1758 against Yates and the appointing of a receiver.

T. J. Knisely vs the Butler Mfg. Co. A. G. Jones receiver, was tried by Hon. E. D. Hartman. The receiver was directed to pay out to the several claimants, pro rata, the $1900 he had received on the property that had been sold.

Peter Kiplinger estate (C. Bowman and Eli Walker administrators) vs Edward Kiplinger. The latter did not appear and a judgment of $225 was entered against him.

Henry Vogtman's case against the town of Waterloo will be sent up to the Appellate Court. Judge Adair presided

Emma and George Craig were divorced, she getting $15 a year. Cora Arnold was divorced from Geo. Arnold and given custody of child.

Nicholas & Sheppard Co. vs Fales, was settled by the parties, Fales securing the amount due plaintiff.

The replevin case of the Kimball Co. vs Lettie M. Reichelderfer was dismissed.

Rosa Mabus vs Renton, judgment was for defendant.

Belle Moody was divorced from Wm. A. Moody and takes her maiden name, Belle Ackley.

Judge Adair is chosen to try Mary Shondel's damage case against the Lake Shore road.

Tri-State Loan Co vs Bushey, $650 against Bushey and a second lien of $129 against them is due the Fostoria Stone Co. Lydia Cassler was divorced from Henry and name changed to Avery,

The Myers partition case has G T. Abbey appointed commissioner to sell the real estate

Anna and Fred Sodtman were divorced.

Margaret Milligan vs John Rosenberry, gave her a decree of foreclosure against him.

Robert and Lucinda Cochran were divorced, as were also Stella and Richard Haskins.

Ida Clark was appointed guardian of Henry F. Clark. Later Mr. Clark died Saturday

The case of Kelley against the Wabash railroad is still on trial.

The Gold Flower.

This flower, so fittingly called Gold Flower, was produced by M. Moser, of Versailles, France, and introduced in Europe last season, the plants selling at a very high figure, only a few plants coming to America. The flowers are two to three inches across, of a bright, shining, golden yellow and bearing numerous handsome stamens. The plant is of low, spreading, branching growth, with handsome leaves, the upper side much darker than the lower. It is perfectly hardy, forms an excellent border, or is grand for bedding, while as a single pot plant it is charming with its clean, bright green foliage as a back-ground for the flowers, great shiny yellow disks, brilliant in their reflections as burnished gold.

This year an enterprising firm is offering it at the price of ordinary plants, viz, 25 cents a plant.

By sending 10 cents to James Vick's Sons, Rochester, N. Y., for Vick's Floral Guide, (which amount may be deducted from first order), you will learn all about this beautiful plant Hypericum Moserianum, and also regarding their offer of $300 cash for a name for the New Double Sweet Pea.

INDIANA ought to build a Soldiers' Home, but Tippecanoe county has already been favored with a state institution. Give this to some other county.

QUEER things happenin the whirligig of politics. Senator Brice who was chairman of the democratic national committee in the great campaign of 1862, will after March 5, have a seat next to the new Senator from Wyoming, Thomas H. Carter, who was the chairman of the republican national committee in '92. Brice and the democrats got everything in '92, but the republicans came near getting the earth in '94.

THE MIDWINTER FAIR.

(Continued from first page.)

relics of various sorts.

Morris Headley, F. H. Gee and Mrs. Tustison had several pieces of old dishes, table crockery, that showed the great change we have made in that line.

There was an ancient grain sack 50 years old, one of the long, slim kind so hard to "shoulder" when full of wheat, and also an old fashioned basket, with the bottom mended by a patch of strong cloth, showing the habits of saving that people used to practice in order to prevent "hard times." They were shown by Geo. Wilmot.

Then there was the old iron pot in which was cooked the first dinner eaten in this county by John Leighty, father of J. D. and Wm. Leighty. A lot of carpenter tools used for many years by Alva Lawrence, and an interesting set of matching planes made by old Mr. Bleeks, the grandfather of the Bleeks brothers, George and William. He made them by hand and they would last 100 years yet. There were many old guns used in pioneer hunting, old swords captured or found on battle fields in the rebellion, including a revolver that Frank Filley picked up at Pittsburg Landing.

An interesting reminder of the war, was the big revolver that Tom Crise captured from the rebel, with whom he had that famous hand-to-hand fight. It has an unusual history.

After these, came the collections of farm products. There were fine vegetables, such as turnips, potatoes, etc. We were particulary struck with some immense tubers, of the popular "Solanum tuber sum" that were marked as "contributed by M. E. Olds, and sold to P A. Shurtz." They were fine examples of evolution in plants, for we could imagine them in their wild state in the South America Cordilleries in the 17th century, before the editorial shears had touched and improved them.

There were quantities of canned fruit, jams, preserves, etc, and good exhibits of grains, including corn. There was one lot of corn, we forget the name of the exhibitor, that was valuable as a lesson on last year's corn crop. The "string" all came from one field. The first part was of large ears that grew on low land, and the ears grew smaller and shorter, as they came from higher and higher, as well as dryer parts of the field And a singular freak of the dry weather was, that the very "nubbins" were sound, with sound kernels over onto the ends, and many of them were as large around as the large ears.

THE BOOTHS.

Passing into the front room, we found it filled with the "booths" of the various firms that had goods on exhibition. These exhibits were fine and arranged in excellent taste. We give them as we saw them:

J. H. Conrad had a booth full of tinware, galvanized iron pipes and similar goods, as he is a tinner and these things are in his line.

Filley & Bishop had a booth with specimens of the work of their planing mill including a board made of glued and polished specimens that contained sixteen varieties of hardwood. It made a nice study. They also had some of the lovely "pressed board" in which the figures are made by pressing under enormous pressure, so as to resemble carving.

White & Bearss had a boothful of their fine furniture.

The "Big 4" had lovely goods shown in their booth, and S. & F. Barney had a similar display. Neither house seemed afraid their delicate fabrics would suffer, by an effort to keep up St Joe's reputation for enterprise.

Mart Tustin had his grocery represented by a suitable display of goods, to which he had added a collection of shells, fossils etc.

A. Kinsey had an exhibit of goods from his undertaking establishment, that was very fine.

The bakery of Lake Brothers had a good assortment of all sorts of baked goods.

F. A. Zeigler had his booth full of harness, robes and other goods in that line, as well as some fine stuffed animals

Prof. Bonnell, principal of the St. Joe schools had on exhibiton quite an assortment of scientific instruments and similar high school appliances.

Curtis Craun, the phographer had an extensive collection of photos and similar things in his line.

The ladies had a large booth in which was a profusion of lovely needle work, embroidery, etc. etc, in a bewildering abundance, and more than a mere, mortal man can comprehend. They deserved and received many compliments. They also had a booth in which were displayed many articles, dishes, etc, useful in the dining room.

And the band had a decorated stand, where they came together now and then and furnished excellent music for the ever passing crowds that came and admired and went each day.

CONCLUSION.

We have tried our best to describe all this exhibit, but it should have been seen, That is the only way to get a fair knowledge of it.

The Farmers' Institute.

St. Joe News.

For the second time in annual succession, the DeKalb County Farmers' Institute met in the Lutheran church at St. Joe, Wednesday morning at half past nine o'clock. There was a very good attendance at the beginning of the session, and the number kept increasing until the church was well filled. The institute was called to order by the chairman, R M. Lockhart, and opened with a song by the chorus, followed with prayer by Rev. W. W. Lineberry. The welcome address was made by J. E. Dermott and responded to by R M. Lockhart. Then came a very interesting paper on the important subject, "Does Farming pay?" by B. A Hadsell. The paper enumerated some of the drawbacks and hindrances to farming, and also showed many of its advantages. In the main, it proved that farming does pay if rightly managed. S S Shutt, Mrs. Merideth, Samuel Mills and others took part in the discussion that followed. The subject "Cultivation of Strawberries," was discussed by L. C. Hine, W. H. Northrup and others. After announcements the meeting adjourned for noon. The afternoon session opened with a full house, and a rousing song by the chorus. A. D. Moore read a very interesting paper on the "Breeding and Rearing of Fine Sheep." A discussion followed in which J. C. Hodges, Emory Johnson, Mrs. Merideth and others took part. Waldo F. Brown, of Oxford, Ohio, then gave an excellent address on "The Farmer as a Business Man" It contained much valuable information for the farmer and was attentively listened to. Discussion by J. C. Hodges and others. Plowing was the next topic and was very interestingly presented by G. I. Patterson, of Auburn, who seemed to think that shallow plowing was the most profitable. C. Curie, W. F. DeVibbis and others then discussed the matter. Mrs. Virginia Merideth then gave a very interesting and pratical talk on "Using the corn crop." The lady owns a farm of two hundred acres near Cambridge City, and as she manages it herself, she knew what she was talking about when she told how to use the corn crop to the best advantage and profit. After attending to miscellaneous business the meeting adjourned. The evening session was opened with a solo by Morris Widney, and it pleased the audience so well that they called him back for a second song. After attending to some preliminary business, Chairman Lockhart appointed the following committee on resolutions to be presented to the legislature: O. H. Widney, J. C. Hodges and B. A. Hadsell. Samuel Mills of Harlan then told "What a farmer can do to make money more plenty in this country." Waldo F Brown followed in a most excellent address on the subject, "Wanted, a man." His talk was splendid, and highly appreciated Mrs Merideth's remarks upon "Country schools and scholars," was a very timely subject, and what she said was right to the point and of a practical nature. The music for the evening was furnished by the Coburntown choir, and as everybody knows it was first-class.

The institute was opened Thursday morning with a lively song by the chorus, and prayer by Rev. Lineberry. Emory Joonson of Ashley, handled the subject, "Feeding Stock—Feeding Wheat" in a very satisfactory manner, followed by an excellent paper by N. B. Hall of Hicksville, on "Stock Feeding." Discussions followed these two subjects which were taken part in by quite a number. B. A. Hadsell asked how many present would try some experiment and report at the meeting of institute next year. The following persons agreed to do so: Emory Johnson, J E. Dermott, A. B. Walsworth, John Henderson, Phil Ginder, Mack Leighty, A. D. Moore, W. F. Brown, P. A. Shurts, W. H. Northrup, H. M Widney.

Following this came a very interesting address on the subject, "The Clover Crop" by Waldo F. Brown of Oxford. After a brief discussion and attending to miscellaneous business the meeting adjourned for noon.

The afternoon session was opened with a couple of solos by Morris Widney, greeted with applause. "Care of the Farm and its results" was a subject ably presented by Amos Forlow, of Hicksville. Mrs. Merideth combined two of her subjects in one, and gave the most interesting talk of the institute. "Incidental Profits of the farm," was the subject of another very interesting address by Waldo F. Brown, followed by a discussion by J. C. Hodges and others. The following committee on resolutions for local purposes was then appointed: L. W. Treesh, A. B. Walsworth, Amos Forlow, J. J. Eakright and Edward Kelham jr. After transacting other business, the institute adjourned until evening.

The Thursday evening session was the last and if anything the best of all. After a song by the chorus, the annual election of officers took place which resulted as follows: President, R. M. Lockhart, Waterloo; vice president, J. E. Dermott, St. Joe; secretary, S. H. Hine, Sedan; treasurer, J. W. Jackman, Waterloo. Care and Cultivation of the orchard, by W. F. Devilbiss, was then presented, followed by a paper on "Russian Thistle, Wild Lettuce and other Noxious Weeds," by J. W. Jackman. Mr Brown then gave a couple of excellent recitations. The committee on resolutions then reported. After miscellaneous business and music the institute adjourned to meet next year at Butler. The music throughout the institute was accorded universal praise, and a standing vote of thanks was tendered those who furnished it. Chairman Lockhart deserves special mention for the able manner in which he presided at the meetings and the committee who arranged the program as well as all others who assisted in the work, are to be congratulated on the success of the institute.

(Tuesday morning we received a well written account, of the Institute from S. H. Hine, the secretary, which embodys a full and correct statement of the proceedings But as we had feared it would not reach us in time, we had put the clipping from the News nearly all in type by that time. We are under just as much obligations to Mr. Hine for his kindness and will try and get even with him some day in the same friendly spirit.)—Ed.

Great Opportunity to Make Money.

I have had such splendid success that I can't help writing to you about it. I have not made less than $5, and some days from $15 to $25 I am really elated, and can't see why others do not go into the Dish Washer business at once. I have not canvassed any; sell all my washers at home. They give such good satisfaction that everyone sold, helps to sell many others I believe in a year I can make a profit of Three Thousand Dollars, and attend to my regular business besides. When a Climax Dish Washer can be bought for $5, every family wants one, and it is very easy selling what everybody wants to buy. For particulars, address The Climax Mfg. Co., Columbus, Ohio. I think any lady or gentleman, anywhere, can make from $5 to 10 a day. I would like to have your readers try this business, and let us know through your columns how they succeed.

CORRESPONDENCE.

CONCORD.

Jack Johnson has the daisy sleigh.

Erne Johnson has purchased a new sleigh.

Bad colds and sore throats are quite prevalent.

Marie Baker has entirely recovered from her recent illness.

Mrs S T. Lutz is quite sick with the grip.

Ira Bone now occupies the G W. Morr property.

Rev. Lineberre's protracted meeting closed last Tuesday evening with quite good success

Mrs N. A. Ervin is able to be in the store again Celia Morr is superintending her household affairs.

Notwithstanding the cold blast of last Saturday Mrs. Mansfield drove to Auburn, a distance of 7 miles.

J W. May and wife were called to Ashley by the serious illness of her mother, Mrs. N A Hoffman.

Mrs. Will Smurr and children visited her brother, Dr. Morr, of Spencerville, Sunday.

Those who attended the Midwinter fair at St Joe last week speak in glowing terms.

Wilber Lutz is having quite a serious time with the measles. He had just recovered from having the mumps and Job's afflictions

G W Morr and daughter Mary returned to their home in Crystal City, Mich, last Tuesday Mary's health was not materially improved.

Tell Elson says some more bad luck attends him The ice threw him down and he had to pull up 225 pounds of flesh and no one to help him.

Mrs E. Lutz, who has been treated by Dr. Buchtel for a cancerous formation on the right cheek, is in high hopes she has a permanent cure It is all nicely healed over.

Alex Culbertson is going to have a sale of personal property including farming implements, some time in the near future What he expects to turn his attention to we have not learned.

Richard Ervin has so far recovered as to eat his five meals a day Dr Hines thinks he must be of the blood hound species No one ever thought he could be brought through this attack, but he thinks he will shortly be able to come to the store again.

NATAL STATISTICS.

M A. High steps high and higher. It is a boy.

Mr. and Mrs. John H Farver are all hitched up. A little blue eyed miss came to their house to stay.

ST. JOE.

Miss Anna Sechler has been quite sick for some days

The little daughter of Mac Leighty has the measles.

Frank Rhodes is reported as rapidly convalescing

Mrs Wm. Smith has been quite sick for the last few days

Layton Lake our popular baker is at his father's home, sick with the measles.

Mrs C J. Yarnell started to Oklahoma last Tuesday. While there she will be at home with her daughter Mrs. Beeks Erick

Professor Bonnell, C H. Brown, Otto Widney and Sam. Tustison drove to Maysville Saturday to attend the joint institute of Springfield and Concord townships.

Samuel White, of the firm of White & Draggoo, drove to Ft. Wayne Friday night taking with him the horse and wagon that Frank Johnson was peddling fish with.

In the matter of voting for St Joe's "prettiest girl" at the mid winter fair, we think it was hardly proper that out of a total of 653 votes one young man should cast 300 for his favorite That is not what the G. O. P. would call a fair test, to much imidation

In a letter from Mrs. Viola Eurick of Watonga Okla, we see that Newt Horsh who went to that country last summer is very sick with very little prospect of a recovery. It seems that he has been freighting or teaming between Watonga and Kingfisher and caught cold from camping out.

M E. Olds called our attention to the word aurist as used by us last week in the item about John Woodcox and wanted to know if that was the proper word to use saying that he had never before seen the word. Well now we do not profess to be away up in Greek matters but for his instruction will say that the word means, "One skilled in the disorders of the ear, or one who professes to cure them"

In the death of John Spitler at Spencerville last Monday is another sad lesson to the users and dispensers of intoxicating liquors we are told by those who knew the man well that he was an unusually hard drinker, and especially of late, hard ever was from under the influence of liquor and of this fact those that sell the stuff at Spencerville well know. And yet in the face of all this and of the law against selling to drunkards they still continue to sell to the others who were in the crowd and came near the same end. We would think the lesson would never be forgot.

SLAUGHTER SALE

CONTINUED:

For the benefit of the Shop and Factory hands we have concluded to extend our

One-Fourth Off Sale to Saturday, Feb. 2d

Giving them a last chance to embrace an opportunity that comes once in a life time. Remember our whole stock of Ready made

Clothing, Overcoats and Furnishings

are included in this great Slaughter sale of One Fourth off. We respectfully solicit comparison of

VALUES & PRICEC

In our entire line, knowing that we give you goods at our first price as cheap as any competitors and until Saturday, Feb. 2d you get them at one-fourth off.

G. H. YESBERA,
The Leading Clothier and Furnisher.

RUPTURE

Of Men, Women and Children permanently cured in 30 days, without pain or slightest inconvenience by the Fidelity Method Every case guaranteed. Patient need not pay a dollar until completely cured The truss discarded forever. Over 8,000 cases cured in the last five years. Consultation free. Consul

J. B. CASEBEER, M. D.
Their Authorized Physician.

Office opposite Swineford House, Main Street, Auburn, Indiana.

Notice of Vacation.

Notice is hereby given that a petition has been filed in the auditor's office of DeKalb county, state of Indiana, praying for the vacation of lots 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19 and 20 in Hubbell's addition to the town of Butler, DeKalb county, Indiana, and Hickory street, along the south side of said lots, beginning at lot thirteen and thence extending west to the place where lot 22 of said Hubbell's addition, now vacated, was situated The said vacation will affect the following to-wit: Alice L. Stoy, Corinthia C. Hubbell, Levi S Taylor, the Incorporated town of Butler DeKalb county, and that the said petition will be heard at the next session of the board of Commissioners of DeKalb county, state of Indiana, which will be held begining March 4th, 1895.

Witness my hand and official seal this 29th day of January A. D, 1895.

WILLIAM H. LEAS, Attorney for petitioner. FRANK A. BOEST, Auditor.

Notice of Administration

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned has been appointed by the Judge of the DeKalb Circuit Court, of the state of Indiana, Administrator de bonis-non of the estate of David Rice, deceased, late of said county.

Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

JACOB WALBORN, Administrator.

January 14, 1895.

License Notice.

Notice is hereby given to the citizens of Waterloo, Grant township, DeKalb county, state of Indiana, that the undersigned, will make application to the Board of Commissioners of DeKalb county, Indiana, at their next regular session, commencing on Monday, the 4th day of March, 1895 for a license to sell spirituous, vinous and malt liquors in less quantities than a quart at a time, with the privilege of permitting the same to be drank on the premises where sold.

The premises where I desire to sell are located on the north one-third (⅓) of lot number forty-three (43) on the north-west corner of said lot on the east side of Wayne street in the original plat of the town of Waterloo, DeKalb county, Indiana.

January 29, 1895. ALLEN PARKS.

License Notice

Notice is hereby given to the citizens of the incorporated town of Auburn, DeKalb county and state of Indiana, that the undersigned will make application at the next regular session of Commissioners' court of said DeKalb county, commencing the first Monday in March, 1895, for a license to sell spirituous, vinous and malt liquors in a less quantity than a quart at a time, with the privilege of permitting the same to be drank on the premises where sold, as follows:

In a one-story frame building situated on the west end of lot No. sixty-seven (67) in the original plat of the town of Auburn, in DeKalb county and state of Indiana, more particularly described as follows:

Commencing at the south-west corner of said lot, thence east twenty (20) feet, thence north sixty-six (66) feet, thence west twenty (20) feet, thence south to place of beginning.

ALBERT ZIRWES.

Auburn, Indiana, January 29, 1895.

License Notice.

Notice is hereby given to the citizens of the incorporated town of Auburn, DeKalb county, and state of Indiana, that the undersigned will make application at the next regular session of Commissioner' court of said DeKalb county, commencing the first Monday in March, 1895, for a license to sell spirituous, vinous and malt liquors in a less quantity than a quart at a time, with the privilege of permitting the same to be drank on the premises where sold, as follows:

The north-east one-fourth (¼) the same being 35 feet east and west and 66 feet north and south of lot No 28 in the original plat of the town of Auburn, Union township DeKalb county, Indiana.

EMMETT P. REFNER.

January 30, 1895.

Table Talk.

The January issue of Table Talk, that bright little magazine published in Philadelphia, for housekeepers and now entering its tenth year, is again before us and while, as usual the dining room and kitchen are brought prominently to the front, the literary part of the magazine is exceptionally good touching upon the new year "A Breakfast with the Auroras," "Fashion's Horoscope for 1895," "A pretty story of Napoleon and the all popular Violet," "The Life Line," (in which the pathetic story of "Captain Jim" of the Life Saving Station is made illustrative of the importance of understanding and using the life lines thrown out to each and all of us), and so on. A chapter on Dietetics is a new and valuable addition to the subject matter of the magazine and will appear every month during 1895

Awarded Highest Honors—World's Fair.

DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER

MOST PERFECT MADE.

A pure Grape Cream of Tartar Powder. Free from Ammonia, Alum or any other adulterant.

40 YEARS THE STANDARD.

GRAND RAPIDS AND INDIANA RAILROAD COMPANY.

Notice to Stockholders.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Grand Rapids and Indiana Railroad Company for the election of thirteen directors to serve for the ensuing year, and for the transaction of such other business as may be presented at the meeting, will be held in the General office of the company, in Grand Rapids, Mich., on Wednesday March 6th, 1895 at 10 o'clock a. m.

The books for the transfer of stock will be closed February 22d, 1895.

F. A. GORHAM, Secretary.

NOTICE TO NON RESIDENTS.

State of Indiana, DeKalb Co. ss:

In the DeKalb Circuit Court, March term, 1895.

Cicero Millington, if living, if not living then the unknown heirs, decendants and legatees of said Cicero Millington. ——Millington, whose true christian name is unknown to the plaintiff, wife of said Millington, if living; if not living, the unknown heirs, descendants and legatees of said wife. Thomas M. Town and Lydia Ann Town, his wife, if living, if not living, then the unknown heirs, descendants and legatees of said Thomas M Town and Lydia Ann Town. William Ansley, if living, if not living then the unknown heirs, descendants and legatees of said William Ansley. James Wood, if living, if not living, then the unknown heirs descendants and legatees of said James Wood. —— Wood, whose true christian name is unknown to the plaintiff, wife of said James Wood. [November 24, 1883] if living, if not living, then the heirs, descendants and legatees of said wife, are hereby notified that an action has been commenced against them in said court, by John Myers, to quiet title to real estate in said county, and that the same will be heard and determined on the 18th day of March 1895 being the 13th juridical day of the next term of said court, which commences March 4, 1895.

Witness, the Clerk of said Court, this 23d day of January, 1895.

D D. MOODY, Clerk.

F. L. WELSHEIMER, Attorney.

License Notice.

Notice is hereby given to the citizens of the city of Garrett and Keyser township, DeKalb county, Indiana, that the undersigned, a male inhabitant of the State of Indiana, over the age of twenty-one years will apply to the Board of Commissioners of said county, at its March session, 1895, for a license to retail vinous, malt and spirituous liquors in less quantity than a quart at a time, and with the privilege of permitting the same to be drank on the following premises, to-wit:

Lot No. four (4), in block nineteen (19) in the original plat of the incorporated city of Garrett DeKalb county, Indiana.

GEORGE BEHLER.

Garrett, Ind., Jan. 21, 1895.

Notice to Non-Residents.

State of Indiana, DeKalb Co., ss:

In the DeKalb Circuit Court, March term, 1895.

Eldridge Hursh impleaded with another is hereby notified that an action has been commenced against them in said court, for maintainance and support by Matilda Hursh, and that the same will be heard and determined on the 11th day of March 1895, being the 11th juridical day of the next term of said court, which commences March 4th, 1895.

Witness, the Clerk of said Court, this 12th day of January, 1895

DANIEL D. MOODY, Clerk.

C. A. O. McClellan, Attorney.

Commissioners' Sale of Land.

Notice is hereby given, that by virtue of an order of the DeKalb Circuit Court, the undersigned commissioner appointed by said court in a case in said court, wherein Louisa Davis was plaintiff and Melvin W. Johnson and others were defendants for partition,

I will offer for sale at auction, on the premises on

FRIDAY the 15th day of FEBRUARY, 1895,

at 1 o'clock p. m. of said day, the following described land to wit: Part of lot twenty-four (24) block twenty-five (25) in the original plat of the town of Garrett, (now the City of Garrett,) DeKalb county Indiana, more particularily described as follows to-wit:

Commencing at a point sixty feet west, of the north-east corner of said lot number twenty-four, (24) thence west nineteen feet, thence south to the south line of lot twenty-four (24) thence east on the south line of said lot nineteen feet, thence north to the place of beginning.

TERMS OF SALE—One-third (⅓) cash in hand on day of sale, one-third (⅓) in nine months and one-third (⅓) in eighteen months, deferred payments to be evidenced by the purchaser's notes bearing interest at the rate of six per cent without relief from valuation or appraisement laws, and secured by mortgage on the premises, with the option of the purchaser paying cash on the day of sale, or before the notes are due.

DON A. GARWOOD, Commissioner

Notice to Contractors.

The Board of Commissioners of DeKalb county, State of Indiana will receive sealed proposals until February 26, 1895, at 1 p. m., for building and erecting three iron bridges.

One span 176 feet from center to center of end pins, divided into 11 panels of 16 feet each.

Heighth of truss to be 26 feet from center of chords Roadway 16 feet in the clear. Capacity of strain 100 lbs per sq. ft. of floor surface on the trusses, and 200 lbs per sq. ft. on floor system; 9 lines of steel joists; floor three inch oak plank; hub guard lattice 24 inches deep; wheel guard 4 x 6 inch oak or pine

The two 40-foot spans to have a capacity of 200 pounds per sq ft of floor surface for trusses and floor system, drawn in 4 panels of 12½ feet each. Roadway 16 feet in the clear; 9 line steel joists; floor 3 inch oak plank; hub guard 14 inches deep; wheel guard 4x6 inches.

Bridges to be proportioned for iron throughout, in accordance with Cooper's Specifications for Highway Bridges

Bidders must furnish their own plans and strain sheets

And also at the same time and place we will receive bids for the erection of the stone abutments for the above named bridges, according to the plans and specifications now on file in the auditor's office in DeKalb county, Indiana

Each bid must be accompanied with a certified check, not less than $500 for security to enter into contract within ten days, if the contract is awarded to him.

The Commissioners will reserve the right to reject any or all bids

By Order of the Board,

JAMES HENDERSON, P. E.

"Shugers Special"

Elegant Finish! High Grade!

Light Weight. Great Speed maker. No back Numbers.

"Up To Date!" - 1895.

Manufactured at Coldwater, Michigan.

CORY SHUGERS, Agt

Auburn, - - Indiana.

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder
World's Fair Highest Medal and Diploma.

English Spavin Liniment removes all hard, soft or calloused lumps and blemishes from horses, blood spavins, curbs, splints, sweeney, ring bone, stifles, sprains, all swollen throats, coughs, etc. Save $50 by use of one bottle. Warranted the most wonderful blemish cure ever known. Sold by Robbins and McCord druggists Auburn. 34tf

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder
Awarded Gold Medal Midwinter Fair, San Francisco.

Business. One of the leading Business Colleges of the country is located at Fayette, O. Its Actual Business rooms are marvels of beauty. It is superior in advantages to the city business colleges, while the expenses is only one half or one-third as great Its courses are thorough; its methods the best, and its graduates SUCCEED. It receives the praise of every student who enters it. Do not delay but act. Write for catalogue to the president of,

J. E. DODDS College,
Fayette, Ohio.

NOW REALLY, DOESN'T THIS STRIKE YOU AS A

BIG BARGAIN?

A BOY'S SUIT,
consisting of a double breasted coat and short pants All Wool, mind you, first-class—good and strong.

A PAIR OF EXTRA PANTS
to match the suit.

A PRETTY CAP
made of the same cloth as the coat and two pairs of pants are made from.

AND A PAIR OF SHOES,
of solid leather—neat, stylish, yet as strong as a brick.

ALL FOR

$5.00

We call them the

HUB'S "HEAD-TO-FOOT" BOY'S OUTFITS.

You'll call them the greatest bargain of your life when you see them.

LET US SEND YOU ONE.

$5.75 will bring one, all charges prepaid to any part of the U. S., or we'll send you one C. O. D. with privilege of examination before acceptance, if you'll send us $1.00 on account to secure express charges.

SAMPLES OF CLOTH and 60-page Illustrated Catalogue FREE on application.

THE HUB,
N. W. Cor. State and Jackson Sts.,
CHICAGO, ILL.,

America's Largest Retail Dealers in Men's Clothing, Boys' Clothing, Furnishing Goods, Hats, Shoes for both Sexes, and Ladies' Cloaks and Furs in the United States.

The Hub has no Branch Stores anywhere.

GREAT Midwinter EVENT!

BISHOP AND LACKEY

GREAT JANUARY HOUSEKEEPING SALE.

Tremendous Cash Bargains In Desirable Merchandise.

Special Attractions!

IN

Table Linens, Napkins, Towels, White Spreads, Made Sheets and Pillow Cases, Wide AND Narrow Muslins.

WE RECEIVE THIS WEEK

100 Dozen Ladies Muslin Underwear.

Will be sold VERY CHEAP during this sale.

We Receive this Week

225 PIECES NEW DRESS GOODS.

75 Pieces, All New Colors, 29 c. Former Price 50 c.
75 Pcs. New Serge, Black & Colors, 50c. " " 75 c.
75 Pcs. New Serge, Black & Colors, 55c. " " 100.

Our stock of Underwear and Blankets is large and full of Desirable Goods

100 Doz. Gloves and Mittens.

Seasonable Goods.

BISHOP & LACKEY.

IF You want a Pair of

TAKE YOUR FEET TO SHILL

The POPULAR SHOE MAN

Auburn Bakery

AND

CONFECTIONERY

Is now established in its new quarters on Main street, 1st door south of J. L. Davis Hardware store. We will have a full line of

BREAD, ROLLS, PIES & CAKES

Fresh every day. We bake any kind of cake to order. Weddings and parties supplied on short notice at reasonable rates. Try our

VIENNA AND CREAM BREAD

Which are made of Milk.

Each day after 8 o'clock in the morning we will sell all the Bread and Rolls left over from the day before at Half Price.

LUNCH SERVED

At all times of the day, also hot coffee, tea and chocolate.

All our baked goods are sold by Hebel Bros, who will deliver them to any part of town.

We respectfully solicit the patronage of the people of Auburn and vicinity.

BAKER & BAUER, Proprietors.

IVORY SOAP

IVORY

- IT FLOATS -

FORTY MILLION CAKES YEARLY.

THE PROCTER & GAMBLE CO., CINTI.

LOCAL NEWS.

Free book to weak men, box 52, Toledo, O

Best thing for your hens, is ground oyster shells. Cook Ford keeps it.

J. W. Baxter was in Ft. Wayne the first of the week, we presume called there by law matters.

Mrs. Rebecca Dickinson, on north Jackson street, is reported as being very sick.

Ha there! where are you going? I'm going to the Union Bakery to get some of that fine cream bread, we use no other.

Mr. and Mrs. Lew Cullers and children of Elkhart came down Saturday to visit a week or ten days with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Shaffer.

Mr and Mrs. Hiram Dunkle returned from Warsaw Saturday where Mrs. Dunkle has been several days visiting relatives. Mr. Dunkle is now on the road selling medicine.

Miss Bertha Shaffer writes from American Fork, Utah, that she is greatly improved in health and well pleased with the country and will probably remain there until spring.

Mrs. J. E. M. Hodge, Mrs. Cal Haselman, Mrs. A. J. Ralston, Mrs. Elias Zimmerman and Mrs. J. A. Barns spent the day last Wednesday with Mrs. T. C. Ford.

J. A. Quince, of Ft. Wayne, who has been reported as being very low with la grippe, is slowly recovering. Word reached here last week that an operation was performed on him, but we have been informed this was not correct. We are glad to note his recovery.

Barney Wissmantle, who has been working in the tailoring department at G. H. Yeoberas, left Tuesday for Fort Wayne where he has accepted a similar position. He was prominent among the young people of Auburn and has their best wishes in his new field of labor.

The young people's society of Butler Center will give a "hard tack" social at the residence of Wm. Snyder near St. John's, Thursday evening, Feb 7th Supper 10 cents. A fine musical and literary program is being prepared and will be rendered in connection with the supper, which altogether promises to be an interesting evening.

Dr. Nusbaum was called up to Daniel Blucher's near Sedan Monday evening. Mr. Blucher had "lodged" a tree and in trying to get it down was struck on the head by a falling limb and rendered unconscious. The doctor dressed his wounds for he was bleeding freely and badly hurt both on the head and from some internal injury. He hopes the injured man may recover but it is difficult to tell as yet, how it may end.

There were twenty four accessions to the Presbyterian church at the Sunday services. They were Mr. and Mrs Fiethler, Mrs Dr Johnston, Mrs Zorah Shafer, Mrs R. A. York, Mrs Virgil DeWitt, Geo. Bender, Geo. Stealy, Mrs. Marietta Borst, Nelson Merr, Mrs J D Davis, Joseph Messick, Della Pinkly, Katie and Georgia Cool, Dollie Hussel man, Charlie Borst, Eddie Little, Eddie Baker, Mrs Charles Hodge and her daughters, Ellie and Ethel Hodge; Miss Alspeicher and Lizzie Otto.

James Griswold's chicken house caught fire last Thursday afternoon and before it could be extinguished was about half consumed. The worst feature of it was that about twenty five chickens were burned to death The engine was on hand in time, with steam up in good shape, but they were bothered a little by having made a change in the manner of fixing the hose It will be handy enough when they get used to it. When the fire was out and the crowd had dispersed, Mr. Griswold missed, and still misses a bran new ax. He thinks someone carried it home, who has a job of cutting wood, and hopes to have it returned as soon as they are done, as he needs it greatly.

Mrs. W. B. Campbell was at Anderson last week where she attended a teacher's meeting The week before she was at Columbia City and gave one of the lectures of the "City Teachers' Lecture Course" She was highly complimented by the city papers. The Mail said: "Mrs. Melhench, principal of the high school, introduced Mrs. Campbell. For almost an hour the speaker addressed her audience in a manner that was sufficient to command the strictest attention during the entire time. Every word and thought was absorbed by those present. The subject of the address, "Life in Literature" being broad and lofty, Mrs. Campbell made her address interesting, instructive and full of good advice from beginning to end. Surely no better subject could have been selected or no better person to present it to the pupils of our public schools."

Free sexual book to men, box 52, Toledo, O.

See Shull's boot and shoe ad.

Ladies and Misses Combination suits at 48 cents at Mrs M Jones & Son. 4 6

Borst's orchestra played for a charity ball at Ashley last Thursday evening.

Hon. J. M. Barrett, of Ft. Wayne, was in the court room Tuesday.

Mrs Wm. Elson, of Jackson township, is in poor health.

A pair of twin boys was born to Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Stebing Wednesday.

C. E. Emanuel went to Ft. Wayne Tuesday on some legal matter.

Try that homemade bread made at the Union Bakery.

Keeran & Thomas, Props.

Rush & Spake have dissolved partnership. Mr. Spake goes back to Monroeville where he will buy a hardware store.

Miss Laura Collins, of Macy, Ind, has accepted a position in the bakery and confectionery of Baker & Bauer.

Mrs. Cora McIntosh has moved to Chicago Junction where she will reside with a sister.

Kruger & Son have reduced their prices to compete with the lowest. New goods arriving daily, and all their goods are fresh, new and desirable. 4 6

Schaab Brothers have more big bargains to offer in all lines. They are going to make room for the big stock of spring goods.

Kruger & Son sell notions, dry goods and tinware, and can compete with anybody in price and quality. If you doubt it, try them. 4-6

Frank Clark, son of Orin Clark died Saturday at Garrett and was buried Tuesday. He had been paralyzed for several years.

Dr. Matheny indulged in the luxury of a runaway Monday. He was thrown out, but not so seriously hurt as to prevent his going out next day.

The A. M. I. held a reception to a number of invited guests at the home of Miss Edna Davis, last evening A very pleasant evening was enjoyed by those who were so fortunate as to be invited.

The Auburn Musical Club scored another victory in its visitors' night entertainment, last Monday evening. The program was good and well rendered and the attendance larger than on any previous evening.

All diseases of the air passages especially catarrah and chronic, Bronchitis, as well as first stages of consumption can be cured. I am treating these diseases with great success by the use of the latest and most improved medicines and instruments. Dr. W H. Nusbaum, Auburn, Ind. 42tf

Mrs. Annice Leas took her little son, John, to Ft. Wayne Tuesday, to have his injured eye treated. It was the second trip, and he seems to be getting on all right. He and Jay Nusbaum were playing last week, when Jay accidentally hit John in the eye with his knife The eye lid was cut open, but the ball not injured, but it requires careful treatment.

The good people here are doing a work to help the suffering people of Nebraska, but don't forget that a family amid the abundance of Auburn, were out of provisions on Monday, at the same hour that committees were going over town. We have heard of another man who has not sufficient clothes for this severe weather. An inspection might reveal other cases.

MARRIED: At the room of the officiating Rev W. L Meese on Fifth St., Auburn, January, 29, 1895, Mr. Sherman I. Funk and Miss Blanche A. Metcalf. The groom is a resident of Wilmington township and the bride a daughter of James Metcalf of the same township. The young couple take a trip to Sandusky City Ohio, to visit the bride's sister Maude, now Mrs. Andy Dancer who lives there,

Those who went from here to attend Frank Clark's funeral are hot at the way, the Garrett liverymen acted. They flatly refused to let a team go out because three covered rigs, so much needed this severe weather, had been ordered from Auburn. They had no such rigs themselves. So many of the orders who went along had to walk out and back, a distance of 2½ miles each way. Comment is unnecessary.

While at St. Joe last week we were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Olds, and what they don't know and practice in the line of hospitality wouldn't be worth hunting for. In several instances we have had this particular quality of theirs brought to our notice and it didn't come at "second hands" either And we wish further to thank them for a very pleasant visit, though brief, with Mrs. Virginia Meredith who was their guest while lecturing at the Farmers' Institute.

We have had another severe pull of winter since our last issue. I was cold and rough then, but Friday it got warm enough to snow, and that evening there was a terrible snow storm, which abated by next day, but continued getting colder till we had the most severe cold spell of the season. Sunday morning the mercury was 5 below zero, and it kept cold all day, and by next morning was 12 below. Some thermometers did not show as cold as this, but people seemed to feel the cold more severely and things in many houses froze where they had not before

Mrs. Merideth, who lectured before the Farmers' Institute at St. Joe last week is one of the ablest women in the state. She represented Indiana on the Woman's board at the World's fair, and has been otherwise very prominent. Her family on both sides stand high, being herself, one of the well known Claypool family, and her late husband, was Hon Henry C. Meredith, at one time a member of the legislature. His father, was the popular soldier, Gen. Sol Meredith, the original colonel of the 19 h Indiana in which were several DeKalb men, including C. K. Baxter, Elias Fisk, Alvin Seary, and others we cannot recall.

Write Box 52, Toledo, O., free book to men

Shull's new add is a blazer. Read it and profit by it.

Mrs Wm. Dailey and two children are visiting friends at Corunna.

Fancy baking a specialty at the Union Bakery.

A muffler has been left at this office. Owner may have same by calling.

Mrs. E C. Foltz who has been ill for some weeks is recovering.

Frank Lahnum has been visiting a few days in Ft. Wayne.

J. K. Stafford and Geo. McKay are off on a business trip to Lima, Ohio.

The L. L. C. is making arrangement for a day in which they will entertain the children of the club.

Miss Anna Iiger of Mt. Vernon, Ohio, arrived here last evening, and will visit her young friends for a time.

Charlie DeLagrange a former Auburnite was on the north bound Jackson train Tuesday, coming up to Academie with his father.

Wm. Dawson, of Corunna, was in last week. He is on the jury, but admits that his business of stock buying has been a little uncertain late years.

Geo. Foster reports that his wife has been in poor health all winter. We hope that milder weather will bring a return of her usual good health.

Michael Kline was called to Mansfield by a telegram Thursday announcing the critical illness of his sister who lives there. He started on the first train, the noon mail.

Mrs. C. A. O. McClellan and Mrs. J A. Barns went to Waterloo Monday and spent a short time with the Patterson family. The funeral of Emma Patterson took place at the M. E. church at 3 p. m

Geo Stealy, the well known carriage painter is here now, and full of business at the big Kiblinger factory We have known George since we were both younger, and we hope he will find Auburn just the place.

Dr. Wood, of Angola, came down Tuesday and went to Garrett, to assist his brother, Dr. Fred B. Wood to operate on a case of strangulated hernia. It is a critical case, and a recovery not probable.

Now let the legislature right some matters for the building and loan companies. Let this stock be taxed as other property is, and the expenses should as in other business come out of the profits of the business.

Mrs. Mansfield, of Concord, drove up here Saturday through the fierce winds and driving snow. She said she did not think it was so bad till she got started, and out in the open road, but did not suffer much. Many a man hesitated to take a 7-mile trip that day.

Low Rates South.

On February 5, the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern Ry., will sell low rate excursion tickets to points in the Southern states. Inquire of ticket agents.

WATERLOO.

Miss Emma Patterson died very suddenly Saturday night, Jan 26, at 3 a. m. She has been suffering somewhat from rheumatism about the shoulders. Her family, and probably she herself did not consider it anything serious. At 10 o'clock when she retired she seemed as well as usual but later on became worse—alarmingly so until her death. We hear there was an apoplectic condition, and possibly a blood vessel broke in the head, which would of course cause death in a very short time. The funeral took place Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The family circle is growing smaller, yet a father, four brothers and two sisters are left to mourn the loss of a good daughter and sister, faithful in her duties at home as well as her church duties. She was an active member of the M. E. church. Many friends sympathize with the bereaved.

SUMMIT.

LAST WEEK.

Mrs. F. Gfellers has lung fever.

Sol. Gear is layed up with rheumatism

Frank Thomas, of Hamilton, was in our town last Friday.

Oliver Gramling went to Waterloo on business last Friday.

Aunt Betsy Yothers is able to be around again.

Mrs. Nancy Forney was the guest of Mrs. Emma Lawson last Friday.

Geo. Heachtel, of Elkhart, visited his cousin, Mrs. Joseph Rohm a few days last week.

Mrs. Margaret McDougle is visiting her son, Wes. McDougle at Pleasant Lake.

CORUNNA.

Mrs. Samuel Lindsey is very sick with measles.

Charley Mercer was in Toledo last week on business.

James DeLong and family visited friends near Waterloo last Saturday night and Sunday.

We'll bet a goose egg against a pint of soap that Milo Thomas, our hardware man, sells more goods than any hardware man in the county.

Perry Foot, who is teaching school in district No. 3, was taken sick with the measles right in the school room one day last week, and now nearly the whole school has them

It is worth a quarter to see the big "grin" spread all over Andy Hosler's face, And do you know why he smile such a big smile? Why, because there is a big girl baby at his house.

Finch, Quince and Dawson have bought and shipped about all the cattle in this section of the country So last Wednesday Mr Quince went to Chicago and bought a car load of nice young steers, and brought them to Corunna and after feeding them awhile will ship them to Buffalo.

Among the many pleasant hours spent by some of the young people of Fairfield township, were those of January 24, from the hours of early evening until after midnight, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs W. E. Sherlock, one and a half miles northwest of Corunna The surprise was on the birthday of their daughter, Vida. Several hours had hurriedly passed when the guests were all sumptuously entertained at the oyster supper in the dining room. After many games were played and a pleasant time spent the guests returned to their homes. There were a great many present and the time will be long remembered as a pleasant one.

SAY! Do you know That we can sell you

CREAMERY BUTTER for 20 cents per lb

COFFEE for 23, 25, 30, 35 cents per lb

TEA from 15 to 60 cents per lb

CRACKERS 7 to 10 cents per lb

Pickles, Onions, Wash Boards, Tubs, Whips, Oil Cans, Baking Powders, Soaps and all FAMILY Supplies at Lowest Cash Prices.

All Goods Warranted as Represented.

Family Grocery, NORTH MAIN STREET.

Money to Loan.

By F. L. Welsheimer. Best Building and Loan Association represented in Auburn. Money to loan in large or small sums on good security.

Notice.

For rent or sale after the 21th day of January, I will rent or sell my property known as the Auburn Bakery on Eighth Street. Inquire of

ED BAKER. 2tf

Finger Cut Off.

Jacob Cole an employe of the band saw mill met with a serious accident last Thursday. He was working on the edger at the mill when he caught his finger in the saw. It was so horibly mangled that it was immediately amputated below the knuckle by Drs. Matheny & Hines.

Chop Feed Mill.

We will grind chop feed on Thursday of each week, at my place 4 miles east of Auburn. Can grind 40 bushels per hour. Toll, 1 tenth. 5-7

MOORE & MCCLELLAN.

To School Children and Parents.

It is desired that all young pupils coming of school age, or who will soon reach that age, come forward and be enrolled now, as Mrs Clifton is just forming a new chart class into which they can enter and later on they could not be so accommodated. It is hoped that parents will see to this matter at once. Also all who have been out on account of sickness, will find this the proper time to re-enter the schools. The Board hope to see this matter looked after.

B. B. HARRISON, Supt.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

The C. L. C. will meet with Mrs. Mollie McClellan Saturday afternoon.

The S H. G. will meet next Saturday afternoon with Mrs. Hebel.

The L. L. C. will meet this week with Mrs. Mollie Rose at 2:15 standard time.

Book free despondent men, box 52, Toledo, O

See the news on inside pages.

Smoke the K. & B. ten-cent cigar.

Sealed book to men free, box 52, Toledo, O.

Cut prices to make room for new goods arriving at Mrs. Jones & Son's. 4-6

Dress goods very cheap at Mrs. M. Jones & Son's. 4 6

T C Ford keeps all kinds of mill feed, flour, corn and oats. 2-4

Dr. Johnston, dentist, has the new method of filling teeth without pain, as well as painless extraction of teeth.

Miss Alda Martin of Fort Wayne was the guest in the family of Geo Snyder several days last week.

The G. D. Chicago Waist,
The G D. Bust Supporter,
at Mrs. M. Jones & Son's.

Mrs. T. J. Cuppy and Zorah Shafer were at Butler Monday, the guests of friends,

Kruger & Son have no old bankrupt goods to offer to you. But they will give just as good bargains. 4-6

Go to Ford's feed store to get your baled hay, straw, oil, meal and ground oyster shells. 2 4

Kruger's rooms are not only stocked full of groceries, but he is selling large amounts of tinware, notions, drygoods, etc. Call and see for yourself.

Parties having accounts with Cowan Sisters' are kindly asked to settle the same without further notice.

ANICE LEAS. 3 4

FOR SALE:—I have two Fire and Burglar Proof Safes, Hall's Patent, either of which I will sell cheap and on terms to suit the purchaser. Call on or address,

CHAS. M. BROWN, Auburn, Ind.

Kruger & Son have reduced their 5 cent counter goods to 3 cents, and their 10 cents counter goods to 8 cents. Don't forget this. This continues for 30 days.

When wild and withering winter winds warp the weary wanderer, his thoughts turn in sweet anticipation to home, wife and Kessler Bros.' Little Salesman.

AGENTS WANTED: To sell the New Hardy Rose, Belle Siebrecht, pronounced by authorities as the best ever introduced. Ready For Sale. Reliable Agents may apply with references to Siebrecht & Wadley, New York City.

They said he was insane to steal cigars in broad daylight, but when it was found they were Kessler Bros.' Bill Heads no one questioned his sound judgment.

INSURANCE AGENCY:—People desiring good insurance should remember that Geo. Lanning has an office at the Davis Hardware store, and works some of the very best companies in the country. Good farm risks taken. Call on him. 32tf

You don't have to go outside to smoke; you need no poultice on your neck to get a good "draw," nor anything to "kill the taste" when through smoking a Receipt.

WINTER BARGAINS!

We call your attention this week to three articles in our stock that is worth looking after just now:

1ST Is that Heavy Winter SHIRT For only 50 cents.

2ND Is those Heavy Fleece Lined Mittens for only 25 cents.

3RD Is those extra Heavy Cotton Socks for only 10 cents.

Come in. We have the goods that will do you good.

OLDS BROS.

Auburn.

Bankrupt Store

Here We Are!

Four Doors North of Kruger's Grocery.

New Goods, Low Prices.

Goods that Suit the Times.

WE HAVE

HARDWARE,
TINWARE,
TABLE LINEN,
NOTIONS, ETC.

In Fact, Everything Kept in a First-class

Notion Store

Come and see our Goods, and learn how very low you can buy almost anything you want.

Will cost you nothing to look at them. We want to make your acquaintance.

A. W. Bates & Son

AUBURN.

I. O. BUCHTEL, Homeopathic Physician and Surgeon.

Special attention given to chronic and obscure cases and catarrhal diseases of the nose, throat and lungs; also to diseases peculiar to women and children.

Office and residence over Smith & Madden's marble works, Auburn, Ind. Office apart from residence and private. All calls attended to promptly, night or day.

FARMERS BANK.

Capital Stock,—
—$40,000.00.

Transacts a general banking business. Interest paid on time deposits by agreement. Collections receive careful attention. Business solicited.

ALBERT ROBBINS, Cashier.

Fire.

Insure against it in some one of the following responsible and liberal companies represented by Walter C. Hartman: Franklin of Philadelphia, Continental of New York, North America of Philadelphia, German American of New York, Manchester of Chicago, North British & Mercantile of U. S. & England, Hamburg Bremen of U. S & Germany, Any insurable property accepted. Call on or address

WALTER C. HARTMAN,
Auburn Ind. 8tf

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNS, - - PUBLISHER.

John L. Sullivan's performances continue to be too spirited for the modern stage.

If it is true that some fellow has beaten Hetty Green out of $1,500,000, we would like to see him.

Embezzler Seeley says he never took a vacation in his life. But he took enough other things to make up for it.

General Cassius M. Clay has hired a young woman to teach his wife. Cassius knows better than to attempt it himself.

Breckinridge attributes the failure of his lecture tour to bad weather. There can be no doubt that badness has a great deal to do with it.

Madeline Pollard writes a letter to the press asking the world to forget her. How thoughtful! Otherwise we might have overlooked the matter entirely.

The Scientific American says it takes a snail exactly fourteen days and five hours to travel a mile. We will wager it was a Philadelphian who found this out.

It is charged that a Brooklyn policeman has been stealing a pocketful of eggs every day for many years. This is indeed tough; couldn't he find anything better?

The young man who has compiled a list of Chicago's "400" and managed to squeeze into it 30,000 names should be hired to get up the next census report. He is an artist.

A Cincinnati purist has just won $100 on a wager that farmers do not "husk" corn but "unhusk" it. That fellow probably would unbark his shin, unpeel a potato and unskin a cat.

In the light of the fate of the crooks of 1894 bookkeepers and cashiers can well afford to start their ledgers and cash books right in 1895, and keep them right. It doesn't pay to be crooked.

We clip the following clear and succinct statement from the Chicago Times referring to the personal characteristics of a local millionaire;

"He spends fully as much, if not more, for his wearing apparel than the millionaire street-car magnate.

"-ooothimcoose oui:u-nei, 'lh;ryQ gkqj"

The queer thing about this is that it was put into type before the New Year celebration began.

We admire the cautious, conservative man who never acts from impulse, but always from careful judgment and mature reflection. But there are times when this may be carried to extremes. John Little, of Exeter, N. H., came home to dinner recently and found his wife hanging by the neck and kicking vigorously. She evidently had decided to commit suicide and, putting a bed-cord about her neck, stepped upon a chair, tied the rope around a beam and kicked the chair from under her. We believe our readers will admit that the discovery of his wife under such circumstances placed Mr. Little in a very embarrassing position. He did not want to make any mistake and he could recall no rule in his "Handbook of Etiquette and Rules for Action" which gave directions how to proceed under such circumstances. So he sat down to think it over. He reasoned that, as he had not lived very happily with his wife, the neighbors would be sure to criticise him if he failed to conform to the uses of polite society. He thought it would be better to have a witness. He went out to find one. Forty-five minutes later, when he returned with a neighbor, Mr. Little was pained and shocked almost beyond measure to find that his wife was dead. It was a very sad case. But Mr. Little, in this hour of his bereavement, at least, has the proud satisfaction of knowing that through it all he was entirely calm, cool and collected, and acted with the careful deliberation which marks the true gentleman.

In the face of the continued low price of wheat it is rather remarkable that the farmers of the country have just planted a larger acreage than last year's. As if the over-supply from 23,518,795 acres in 1894 were not sufficient lesson, they have now planted 24,224,858 acres in wheat—an increase of 705,563 acres over last year. And this they have done while that grain was selling at 55 cents in Chicago, and when in Oregon and the Puget Sound country the elevators are full of wheat that was going begging at 20 cents a bushel. There is every reason to believe that on all but the largest wheat farms these prices do not cover the cost of production. One is therefore forced to accept Secretary Morton's theory of the why and wherefore of this blind tempting of fate by the farmers. He says that wheat is the lazy man's crop, and that the American farmer unwisely insists on raising the crop involving the smallest amount of manual labor, trusting to luck to bring him out with a profit. This, added to the superstition that two years of plenty will be followed by a short harvest, has led the Northern farmers to repeat with wheat the very mistake the Southern farmers have for years perpetrated with regard to cotton. It is possible, however, that not enough allowance has been made for the important discovery forced upon the farmers during the last year, of the value of wheat as feed for farm animals. It is not improbable that many of them have determined to put in wheat for feed purposes where they formerly planted corn, arguing that wheat, which can be planted with a drill, cultivated with a harrow, harvested with a self-binder, all drawn by horses, and threshed by steam, will be easier to raise and just as useful as corn. Until the corn-harvesting machine, recently invented by a Chicago manufacturing house, shall have proved itself a success, it is not impossible that the corn crop of the country may have to hide in diminished ears.

The New York fire department is not charged with corruption. The Chicago fire department is the finest in the world. Why cannot fire department methods be introduced into police department service?

When a balloonist is precipitated from his parachute the man is invariably surprised, but he cannot plead that he did not know the parachute was loaded.—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

Generally he cannot plead at all.

A New York preacher recently asserted that every ninth man is a drunkard; every seventh person an opium fiend; every fifth woman a victim of hysteria, and every fourth man a slave of tobacco. That preacher is an exaggerator, or the associate of people who have bad habits to a much greater extent than ordinary people do.

ANCIENT EGYPTIAN SOLDIERS.

Discoveries That Have Lately Been Made in the Tomb of Assiut.

Mention was recently made of the discovery in the tomb of Assiut (fifth dynasty) of wooden models of two companies of Egyptian soldiers. Further details have just been received, sent by the Egyptian Exploration fund. Each company consists of forty figures, about thirteen inches high, fixed to a wooden board in squads of four. The figures are colored and have the loin cloth. They are equipped with spear and shield. The spears are as long as the men, and the butts carried on a level with the knee. The bronze heads are about one-sixth the total length of the spear, and are shaped like those of the Baggara Arabs of to-day. The shields have a square base and come to a point, and are eight inches long. Across the narrow portion is a batten, through which the hand passes. The second squad are black-skinned, smaller men, and wear a scanty loin cloth. Their arms are bows and arrows tipped with flint, with edges chisel-shaped and the tips not sharp. The Egyptian contingent marches in regular order, "locked up;" the negro soldiers straggle. The latter must have been the irregulars, because to use the bow and arrow must have required a loose formation.

Greenland Woman Boats.

As their name implies, these boats are rowed by women. They are open, flat-bottomed, inconvenient affairs, but large enough for the family and the family goods—tents, household implements, dogs, children and the rest. They are rowed by as many as half a score of oarswomen, and sometimes make a run of fifty English miles a day. They are generally steered by the father of the family, while the other male members follow in their kairks. In their woman-boats, says Dr. Nausen, the Greenlanders used to move from one hunting-ground to another all through the summer. For one or two months they always went far up the fiords in search of reindeer, and there they lived on the fat of the land. In those days they often undertook long journeys up and down the west coast, as to this day on the east coast. These journeys are sometimes five hundred miles in length. As a rule they do not travel quickly. Two years are sometimes spent in covering a distance of one hundred and eighty miles. But, as soon as the Eskimos come to a place where there are plenty of seals, they go ashore, pitch their camp, take to hunting, and live at their ease. At the approach of autumn, they choose a good site, build a winter house, and continue their journey in the spring or summer as soon as the ice permits.

Told Him to Never Sleep.

Charles M. Kneippe of Painesville, O., said he was in a cell at the Harrison street, Chicago, police station last night only as a blind. He would there, he explained, have the opportunity to look over the prisoners that he had longed for many months. Kneippe was arrested by Officer McGovern for making trouble on a Wabash avenue street car, the conductor refusing to honor a pass rudely written on a scrap of an envelope and addressed generally to all street car conductors in this wide land. Kneippe protested that he had come from Painesville, where he had worked as a deputy sheriff, and intended to get work as a detective from a private agency. He grimaced grotesquely in order to prove that he could entirely conceal his identity without the use of disguises. Kneippe has been victimized by a "fake" detective agency in St. Louis, which sent him a tin star and engrossed commission in return for $3, with the advice "never to sleep." Kneippe told how he trained himself to keep awake. He is now insane. He was arrested a few days ago, but released by the city physician, who thought him a harmless monomaniac.

A Pair of Boots.

A business man in Tasmania failed, and was compelled to call a meeting of his creditors. Among his assets were a number of tin mine shares, which were regarded as worthless. It was the first tin mine discovered in Tasmania, and the output was not as heavy as the prospectus declared it would be. The shares dropped in value, and when the debtor offered them to his creditors, the latter smiled and refused to touch them. Among the creditors was a poor shoemaker, who had supplied the man with a pair of shoes. He offered to take the shares in payment of his debt. No one raised any objection, and he took them, saying, "They may turn out well some day." Five years later, under proper management, the mine developed into a valuable property. It was a veritable mountain of tin, and the shares sprang up to an astonishing point. Eventually the metal was "cornered" by a French syndicate, and the shares reaching a fabulous price, the once indigent shoemaker sold out and realized a fortune. In return for a pair of shoes he is now receiving an income of several thousand dollars a year.

Irrevocably Gone.

"I set four pies out on the window sill to cool," said Mrs. Hunker to her husband, "and they have all been stolen." "Then we must number them among the lost tarts," was the philosophical reply.—Detroit Free Press.

Duplicity.

"So you think she is two faced?"

"Certainly. I have seen her when her own showed through."—Detroit Tribune.

SENATOR CLARENCE LEXOW.

State Senator Clarence Lexow, of Rockland County, New York, is prominent as chairman of the committee that is investigating the police corruption in New York City. Clarence Lexow was born in Brooklyn forty-two years ago. His father, who was a native of Sleswick Holstein, was editor of the New York Belletristisches Journal and planned to have his son succeed him in that position. With this purpose in view young Clarence was sent at the age of 16 to the University of Bonn on the Rhine. He did not fancy journalism, however, so returned to New York and became a lawyer.

DISCOVERED BY A WOMAN.

A Gold Mine that Is One of the Richest in the Black Hills.

One day during the latter part of last June William Franklin and his daughter, Mrs. Frank Stone, happened to stroll up a gulch in Pennington County, and, stopping to rest, Mrs. Stone idly broke in two a small piece of rock, which in the break, upon examination, showed some particles of gold. A little digging, says a Chamberlain, S. D., correspondent of the St. Paul Pioneer Press, exposed more of the rock, which, upon being panned, proved very rich. Everybody in the vicinity, having nothing to do, visited the spot, and for pastime were allowed to dig out some of the rock and pan out the gold. As every man in that vicinity was in bad condition financially and without means of raising the money for the proper celebration of the approaching Fourth of July, quite an opening was made and the proceeds were devoted to that purpose.

From this little incident dates the discovery of gold in the Holy Terror mine, which from day to day causes greater excitement in mining circles. With five stamps the owners recently pounded out $3,500 in gold in ten hours. Much of the ore runs $500 to the ton. Persistent prospecting revealed no other place where the vein came to the surface save this one spot, which has been walked over every day for years. Mr. Franklin took in T. C. Blair as partner and a shaft was begun, the ore taken out being treated in the Keystone mill and returned value much above the expense of sinking the shaft. When the shaft reached the depth of forty feet, developing a well-defined vein, which steadily improved with width and value as depth was gained, the owners made an arrangement with J. J. Fayel and Albert Amsbury by which they agreed to erect a stamp mill on the property in consideration of a half interest in the mine. A five-stamp mill with an engine capacity of ten stamps or more was quickly built at a cost of about $5,000, and put in operation three weeks ago. While the mill was being built men were employed to run drifts north and south from the shaft at a depth of forty feet, while sinking was pushed in the shaft. Most of the ore milled has been taken from these drifts. The vein consists of marvelously rich ore, averaging sixteen inches on one wall, with about two feet of low grade ore filling the remainder of the vein. The richness of this ore streak must be seen to be believed. Nuggets of solid gold from one to two pennyweights to five ounces in weight are found snugly tucked away waiting to be brought to light, while large pieces of quartz are so bound with gold that the parts hang together when broken with a hammer.

The first clean-up was made in the new mill after a run of thirty-six hours. The result was a retort weighing a little over 166 ounces, from thirty tons of ore as taken from the mine. The second run of twenty-four hours gave a retort weighing 179 ounces, and the third run of twenty-six hours gave 203 ounces. These three retorts are worth $10,000, and were all produced by a five-stamp mill and taken to the Harney Peak Bank at Hill City for shipment inside of one week from the start. The shaft has now reached a depth of sixty feet and shows a larger and richer body of ore than ever. Parties who have recently visited the mine report that it is probably the richest ever discovered in the Black Hills.

Her Two Blunders.

All of us know the individual, man or woman, who is totally devoid of tact. Sometimes these destroyers of the public peace get into literature, and sometimes they do not. Here is one who is embalmed there. She was a young lady who, in talking with a certain Major E., noticed a decoration he had received for distinguished military service.

"Ah, major," said she, "I see you have received the order Pour le Merite. I hear it has been bestowed very freely of late, and that many persons have received it who don't in the least deserve it."

The major smiled at the unconscious rudeness of the implication.

"I assure you," he said, gravely, "that every one who has received it deserved it, with one exception. The exception is—myself!"

"Oh, excuse me," said the lady, innocently, "but I think you're quite wrong. I'm sure there are others!"

Double Cropping Poor Land.

The reason there is not more double cropping of land is because the soil generally is not rich enough to warrant it. It pays in the garden, which on most farms contains more fertility per square foot than can be found anywhere else. It will pay with field crops if care is taken not to crop exhausively, and to sow alternately some leguminous plant that will increase fertility instead of lessening it. Clover is generally sown with some grain crop. This in one sense might be termed double cropping, as the grain and clover grow together until the grain is harvested. But this is certainly not exhaustive to the soil. As a rule, it is best to have some crop growing on the soil all the time. When its surface is bare it is exposed to greater losses than when it is covered.

DIVERS PHOTOGRAPHED.

Instantaneous Pictures of Bridge Jumpers and Plungers.

The fatal leap of Ben Fuller, the bridge jumper, from the Tower Bridge, London, has caused the English illustrated papers to make record of other sensational plungers of the sort. One of the most notable of the tribe is Miss Almar, whose headlong dive from the roof of the Colosseum at Leeds is just now making the goose flesh of the people of that town creep. The picture here given is from a photographic reproduction in Black and White.

MISS ALMAR.

Feed the Cornstalks Early.

There is something in the order in which different parts of the winter rations should be fed in order to make it do the greatest good to stock. There should be as much variety as possible each day, but the corn stalks ought to be fed most freely early in the winter, reserving more hay and grain to the latter part of the winter. Corn stalks early in winter have much succulence and a greater nutritive value than they have after being dried through by alternate freezing and thawing. Hay does not deteriorate by drying through the winter, while the grain ration, unless injured by mice, is worth more in spring than it is early in the winter.

Beggared Herself for Charity.

The Duchess of Santonna, who died recently in the deepest poverty at Madrid, spent a fortune in charity, her gifts for half a century back being of the most generous description. On one occasion, hearing that a noble Spanish lady was about to sell her jewels to pay a debt, the Duchess sent her a check for $200,000. She died in want, and none of those to whom she had given abundantly thought enough of her to see that her days were ended in comfort.—Montreal Gazette.

Gigantic Jags.

Gin slings are the favorite beverage of one of the big elephants in John Robinson's circus. It takes a half gallon of the mixture to make the elephant "feel his drinks."

New Color.

Paris has invented a new shade or color which it calls peiure d'ognon. That sounds better, but does not look better, than the English version—"onion paring."

FIRE INTO THE MOB.

TROOPS USE THEIR GUNS ON BROOKLYN STRIKERS.

Day of Riot and Bloodshed—Seven Thousand Soldiers and the Entire Police Force Fail to Cope with the Street Car Strikers.

Strike May Spread.

Violence and bloodshed marked the eighth day of the electric street railway operatives' strike in Brooklyn. Three militiamen are in hospitals with broken heads, two having suffered at the hands of riotous men and women, while the other was the victim of his own carelessness, having fallen out of a second-story window. A score or more of policemen are suffering from bullet wounds or contusions of the head and body, disabling them for the time being. To what extent the strikers have suffered cannot be conjectured. If they escaped punishment it was not the fault of the militiamen, who, in accordance with orders, fired as directly at their assailants as a dense fog, which completely hid objects at thirty yards' distance, would permit. The strike is not ended and order is not restored.

Seven thousand national guardsmen and 1,500 or 1,600 policemen were not on Monday strong enough to make the resumption of the street railway traffic in Brooklyn practicable. In fact, says a dispatch, the gain over last Saturday is scarcely perceptible. The calling out of the First Brigade, composed of New York City regiments, has seemed rather to add to the tension than to bring a solution of the difficulties. The task of restoring peace and order along nearly 200 miles of street car line is a vast one. The new levy numbered not far from 4,000 men. They were moved across the great bridge early in the day. The various companies went by elevated trains whenever it was possible to the points to which they had been ordered. Generally speaking, the greetings they met with on the streets were far from friendly. Boys guyed and men jeered them as they passed through the sections inhabited by laboring people.

The elements which early in the day were suspicious soon took on an unfriendly aspect. A Scotch mist settled down on all the city, increasing in density as the evening approached, and added to the difficulties which attended the carrying out of the announced intention of the street car companies to run cars upon lines not operated since the strike was declared. Such attempts in this direction as were made were futile. A car started from the Ridgewood station of the Brooklyn Heights Company a little after 5 o'clock and was assailed with volleys of stones and bricks from windows and vacant lots before it had proceeded far on its way down-town. A private soldier was struck in the head with a stone and disabled.

The officer in command ordered his men to shoot, and two volleys were fired in the direction of the rioters, who, however, were hidden by the dense fog. About 250 bullets were sent in search of victims, but how many of them found human targets cannot at present be determined. The militiamen's orders were if they shot it would be to kill. Policemen also did some shooting at this point, with what effect is as uncertain as in the case of the militiamen. It is ascertained by the militia officers that they only ordered the volley when the violence of the mob made it necessary to do so.

EUROPEAN GRAIN CROPS.

Interesting Statistics Gathered by the Agricultural Department.

Grain statistics of foreign countries for the past year are given in a report issued by the Agricultural Department. In European Russia the estimated output for 1894 is as follows: Rye, 821,534,904 bushels; wheat, 282,642,040; oats, 687,876,308; barley, 186,718,218; buckwheat, 43,309,650. The production of Great Britain is estimated as follows: Wheat area 1,927,962 acres and production 61,037,927 Winchester bushels; barley, 2,095,771 acres and 74,553,807 bushels, and oats, 3,253,401 acres and 139,732,723 bushels. In France the output was in round numbers 343,350,000 bushels of wheat, 76,560,000 of rye, 56,550,000 of barley and 278,938,000 of oats. The wheat product for the year in Germany aggregated over 126,400,000 bushels; winter spelt, 33,336,000; rye, 326,633,000; spring barley, 130,000,000; oats, 452,000,000; potatoes, 1,239,704, and meadow hay, 22,298,509 tons. The Roumanian Government estimates the principal crop of wheat 43,584,000 bushels, rye 5,769,000, barley 16,906,000, and oats, 10,019,000. In Italy wheat aggregated almost 123,000,000 bushels, oats almost 16,000,000, barley over 8,000,000, maize 54,763,000, and rye almost 15,000,000. Wheat exports from the Argentine Republic for the first seven months of the year aggregated 678,573 tons. In Ontario wheat aggregated over 20,500,000, barley 11,300,000, oats over 72,000,000, potatoes 17,000,000, and peas 14,400,000 Winchester bushels. Manitoba produced 17,700,000 Winchester bushels of wheat, 12,200,000 of oats, and 19,900,000 of potatoes and other root crops.

Reports from European agents of the department show that there is a more hopeful feeling in the grain markets of England and that the farmers there are expecting better prices. In Southern England great floods have overrun large expanses of arable land and have limited somewhat the area intended to be devoted to winter wheat

FIRST OF ITS KIND.

Edifice in Boston Devoted to Christian Science is Dedicated.

Sunday in Boston an edifice devoted to Christian science, and known as the First Church of Christ, Scientist, was dedicated with imposing ceremonies, representatives of the 100,000 Christian scientists scattered from Maine to Boston being present. The building is a beautiful one and stands at the intersection of Falmouth and Norway streets. It cost $250,000, all of which has been defrayed by voluntary subscription. The new church, the first of its kind, claims a membership of 4,000, 800 of whom reside in Boston. Any Christian scientist may become a member by making application and signing the rules

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH.

SENATE AND HOUSE.

WORK OF OUR NATIONAL LAWMAKERS.

Proceedings of the Senate and House of Representatives—Important Measures Discussed and Acted Upon—Gist of the Business.

The National Solons.

The McGann bill appropriating $4,000,000 for a new postoffice for Chicago passed the House Monday by a vote of 198 to 53. Bills authorizing the issue of 3 per cent. bonds and repealing the legal tender act of 1878 were offered in the House. Mr. Frye's Hawaiian resolution was again debated in the Senate, Mr. Gray vigorously defending the administration. The Senate passed the fortifications appropriation bill and agreed to the conference report on the deficiency bill.

The administration's Hawaiian policy was again the subject of sharp attack and defense in the Senate Tuesday. The railroad pooling bill was favorably reported to the Senate from the Committee on Interstate Commerce. The House passed the Indian appropriation bill and the bill to establish a national military park at Gettysburg. A bill to abrogate the discriminating duty on sugar was reported to the House from the Ways and Means Committee. After listening to a statement by Judge Ricks the House Judiciary Committee defeated the resolution to impeach him.

Widely differing plans to meet the currency complication were offered in the Senate Wednesday by Messrs. Jones, of Arkansas, and Smith, of New Jersey. Senator Turpie made a vigorous speech against the Nicaragua Canal bill, which he said had been conceived in fraud. A bill to incorporate the National Central Railway Company, which proposes to construct a railway from the Hudson River to New York, was offered in the House. Inefficiency of the Behring Sea regulations to prevent pelagic sealing was shown by a statement to the House by Secretary Carlisle.

In the Senate Thursday debate upon the Nicaragua Canal bill closed. Mr. Allen presented a resolution favoring annexation of Hawaii. The bill for the transfer of a portion of the exhibit of the Department of State at the World's Columbian Exposition to the Columbian Museum of Chicago was passed. The exhibit transferred covers the La Rabida Convent and the collection relating to it. Another new Senator, Mr. Pritchard, of North Carolina, was sworn in. The House practically agreed upon the Sundry Civil bill.

The sundry civil bill passed Friday in the shortest time, so far as known, on record. It was under consideration but three days. As passed, the bill carries $39,125,721. Two propositions by Mr. Sayers and Mr. Coombs, the former's to clothe the Secretary of the Treasury with power to issue United States bonds of such denominations as he should see fit instead of as now to re-issue them of the same denomination, and the latter's to retire and cancel the gold certificates and make them non-receivable for customs dues after July 1 next, furnished the principal theme of discussion. Mr. Sayres' proposition was defeated, while that of Mr. Coombs was carried. An appropriation of $40,000 for a lightship to be stationed off the Straits of Fuca, Washington, was adopted. A bill pledging the faith of the United States for the construction of the Nicaragua Canal passed the Senate.

Letters in which Germany disavows retaliation in excluding American meat products were read in the House Saturday, during debate on the bill to repeal the discriminating duty on bounty-paid sugars. A resolution indorsing the administration's Hawaiian policy was adopted in the Senate by a vote of 24 to 22. The Senate committee on public buildings and grounds failed to muster a quorum and the Chicago postoffice bill was not considered.

HE'S A SOCIALIST LEADER.

Herr Paul Singer Threatened with Expulsion from the Reichstag.

Herr Paul Singer, the socialist leader, who is threatened with expulsion for the prominent part he took in the recent scene in the German Reichstag, was formerly a successful man of business. He is very shrewd, very charitable, very obstinate, and has represented one of the Berlin electoral districts as a socialist since 1884. Until his temporary expulsion from Berlin in 1886, he was a partner in a large manufacturing firm, but of late years has devoted himself to political and municipal affairs. Herr Singer is a Hebrew. He is very wealthy and his purse is held freely at the disposal of his party.

HERR SINGER.

ADDICKS, OF DELAWARE.

Man Who Contested for a Seat in the United States Senate.

J. Edward Addicks, of Delaware, who contested for the seat in the United States Senate occupied by Anthony Higgins, was a candidate for the same office in 1888. Mr. Addicks, whose ancestors figured prominently in the American revolution, began life as an errand boy, and in a few years became a merchant. He made considerable money, and soon became interested in gas manufacture. He started this business in 1884 and before the lapse of six years was worth millions. He has established Bay State gas companies in many large States of the Union.

J. EDWARD ADDICKS.

This and That.

Although Switzerland is mostly up and down hill, it has 1,950 miles of railroad track, which cost over $100,000 per mile for construction.

The hygienic congress at Budapest brought out the fact that there are four times as many men who stammer as there are women who are so afflicted.

Professor Bailey, of Missouri, is said to have obtained more than 1,000 types of pumpkins by crossing the flowers of one kind with the pollen of another.

The young women sent out as wives for the Virginia colonists in 1620 brought from 120 to 160 pounds of tobacco apiece, the tobacco being worth 3 shillings a pound.

Julius Caesar is said to have been an epileptic. There is no doubt that he had fainting fits that lasted a considerable time and left him in a condition of great physical exhaustion.

Charlotte Fowler Wells was the first woman publisher. She has been in business since 1814, and is still at it in New York. She says she is too busy to think how old she is.

HUMOR OF THE WEEK

STORIES TOLD BY FUNNY MEN OF THE PRESS.

Many Odd, Curious, and Laughable Phases of Human Nature Graphically Portrayed by Eminent Word Artists of Our Own Day—A Budget of Fun.

Sprinkles of Spice.

Do not waste all your wind calling for help.—Galveston News.

"Dr. White is a specialist, is he not? What is his specialty?" "He has two—consultations and fees."—Vogue.

When a young lady calls a young man a bore it doesn't augur well for the fellow's chances.—Atlanta Journal.

A man has a close call when he leaves an office and is yelled after to come back and close the door.—Picayune.

There's a new play out called "A Railroad Ticket." A good many actors have been looking for it.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Spacer: "What can I say in this obituary of Lusher, the bartender?" Liner: "Work in something about his 'having a smile for everybody.'"—Truth.

A photographer whose photographs are perfectly likenesses will get on in the world about as fast as a newspaper without a waste basket.—New York Recorder.

McSwatters: "It's very funny." Mrs. McSwatters: "What is?" McSwatters: "Why, when the doctor treats me I always have to pay for it."—Syracuse Post.

He: "I never smoke a cigarette without thinking what a fool I am." She: "I didn't know before that there was any virtue in cigarettes at all."—Detroit Free Press.

Miss Read: "Have you 'Prometheus Unbound?'" Miss New Clerk: "No; we do not deal in any pamphlet literature, all our books have covers on."—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Little Georgy: "Papa, why do you say that the pen is more powerful than the sword?" Papa:: "Because you cannot sign checks with a sword."—Revue Anecdotique.

Dasher: "I hear that you were in a free fight last night." Smasher: "Free fight! Not on your stay here. I paid $10 and costs for it this a. m."—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Magistrate (to witness) — "Why didn't you go to the help of the defendant in the fight?" Witness—"I didn't know which one of them was going to be the defendant."—Philadelphia Inquirer.

A nosegay rising to majestic height;
A feather with a mastodonic curl;
A wilderness of bows and laces light,
And somewhere 'neath the fluffy heap a girl.
—Washington Star.

"I was sorry to hear that your husband is sick," said the caller. "Yes," was the reply. "It was really too bad. He took such a liking to a new kind of health food that he overate himself."—Washington Star.

"I saw in a society paper that advanced women have practically banished punctuation points from their letter writing." "Perhaps they do not wish to be known as women of the period."—Detroit Free Press.

Mr. Scrapps (reading)—"Then David rose up and cut off the skirt of Saul's robe privily." Mrs. Scrapps—"Well, what does that signify?" Mr. Scrapps—"That Mrs. Bloomer, at best, was a plagiarist."—Cleveland Plaindealer.

Jeweler: "The inscription you wish engraved on the inside of this ring I understand is 'Marcellus to Irene.'" Young man (with embarrassment):: "Yes, that's right. But-er-don't cut the 'Irene' deep."—Baltimore Telegram.

Little Regie: "I don't b'lieve the Lord cares a cent for good boys." Fond Mother: "Horrors! What put that idea into your head?" Little Regie: "He hardly ever makes good boys strong enough to lick bad boys."—Good News.

An Irishman recently applied for an enlistment in a United States army recruiting office. "Do you know anything about drilling?" asked the officer. "I do," answered Pat. "It's 12½ cents a yard at any of the dry-goods stores."—London Globe.

"By Jove, Wilkes, your column of personal gossip in the last number of your paper was the raciest thing I know. Where did you get all the information?" "My wife had the sewing circle at our house last Saturday, and I concealed a phonograph in the room."—Harper's Bazar.

"It is wonderful what progress has been made in the way of machinery," remarked Mr. Figg. "I see that there has been a machine invented that can make a complete pair of shoes in sixteen minutes. Why, that is even faster than Tommy can wear them out."—Indianapolis Journal.

Head of firm: "Young man, I understand that you have been winning at poker lately." Steele Penn: "Well, sir, I hope you will overlook it this time." Head of firm: "Certainly, but I want you to come around to the house to-night. My wife is getting up a little game."—New York Herald.

Loretta (examining her forehead for wrinkles): "Say, Bess, what do you think the surest sign of advancing years in a woman?" Bess: "Well, I should say that when she writes to the friends of her youth and has to direct all her letters to married names it was the surest sign she was getting along."—New York World.

He Squared Himself.

Elder Charles Holden, pastor of the church in Warwick, R. I., at the time of the Declaration of Independence, had been accustomed to pray for "the king and all in authority" in his public services. The elder was patriotic, and the new order of things interfered with his set forms of speech. At one time, while praying, he came to the place, "We pray for the king and all in authority," and before he was aware of it, the words were uttered. He stopped short, and, after an instant's hesitation, added, "Living in Rhode Island."

When you find you have broken your good resolutions, make new ones.

Purify Your Blood

Strengthen and invigorate your nerves and muscles, tone your stomach and digestive organs, and build up your whole system by the use of Hood's Sarsaparilla if you would avoid the grip, pneumonia,

Hood's Sarsaparilla Cures

diphtheria and typhoid fever. These diseases seek for their most ready victims persons who are weak, tired, debilitated and all run down, owing to impure and impoverished blood. Hood's Sarsaparilla purifies and vitalizes the blood and thus wards off disease.

Hood's Pills cure nausea, sick headache.

It Was Pure Affectation.

Two Mexicans were standing in the door of the little railroad station, each insisting, with infinite bows and flowing compliments, that the other should precede him.

"Oh, how deliciously polite!" twittered the tourist lady. "Why can't our American men learn such politeness?"

"It an't so much politeness, mum," explained the resident American gentleman, "as that no Greaser don't like to give no other Greaser a chance to get close behind his back."—Indianapolis Journal.

The Nicaragua Canal.

The project of the Nicaragua Canal has been debated in the U. S. Senate very vigorously. One thing should be remembered about that climate, it is death to almost every foreigner who goes there, and laborers especially succumb. It is said that the Panama Railroad cost a life for every tie. What an idea of pains and aches is in this sentence. It is mostly due to carelessness. Every laborer provided with St. Jacobs Oil would be armed against these troubles. Men's muscles there are cramped with rheumatic pain and they ache all over. That's just the condition where this sovereign remedy can do its best work. The fearful malady is very much like the break-bone fever in certain parts of America.

Safe, Thank Heaven.

Philanthropist—Is not your heart touched by all these sights of poverty?

Millionaire—Yes, indeed. But as long as my bank account isn't I can stand it, I guess.

1,000 Bu. Potatoes Per Acre.

Wonderful yields in potatoes, oats, corn, farm and vegetable seeds. Cut this out and send 5c postage to the John A. Salzer Seed Co., La Crosse, Wis., for their great seed book and sample of Giant Spurry. CNU

A Scotchman's Self-Control

Charles Mathews used to tell a good story in support of the truth of the remark anent a Scotchman, a joke, and a surgical operation. When "starring" in Edinburgh, his landlord, who seldom attended any other public meeting save the "kirk," asked Mathews if he would oblige him with "a pass for the playhoose." This favor being readily granted, the "guid mon" donned his cheerful black suit and witnessed Mathews' two great performances, Sir Charles Coldstream in "Used Up" and Plummer in "Cool as a Cucumber," both downright "side-splitters." Meeting his landlord on the stairs as he proceeded to his room after the performance, Mathews was cordially greeted by that gentleman, of whom he then inquired how he had enjoyed the entertainment. "Aweel," said the Northerner, "it pleased me vara much, ye ken, and I conseeder you played unco' naturally; but, heigh, mon, I'd a hard matter to keep frae laughing."

Mothers, Watch Your Daughters.

"Nature has provided a time for purification, and if the channels are obstructed, the entire system is poisoned, and misery comes.

"Irregularities from any cause, at any age, are sure indications of organic trouble. With irregularities come disturbances of the stomach and kidneys, violent headaches, shooting pains, extreme lassitude, waxy complexion.

"Remove the trouble at once, or a whole life will be sacrificed.

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will accomplish the work speedily.

"It is the most effective remedy for irregular or suspended action known to the world."—Mrs. Chas. Hines, Box 212, Duncannon, Pa.

The Greatest Medical Discovery of the Age.

KENNEDY'S MEDICAL DISCOVERY.

DONALD KENNEDY, OF ROXBURY, MASS.,

Has discovered in one of our common pasture weeds a remedy that cures every kind of Humor, from the worst Scrofula down to a common Pimple.

He has tried it in over eleven hundred cases, and never failed except in two cases (both thunder humor). He has now in his possession over two hundred certificates of its value, all within twenty miles of Boston. Send postal card for book.

A benefit is always experienced from the first bottle, and a perfect cure is warranted when the right quantity is taken.

When the lungs are affected it causes shooting pains, like needles passing through them; the same with the Liver or Bowels. This is caused by the ducts being stopped, and always disappears in a week after taking it. Read the label.

If the stomach is foul or bilious it will cause squeamish feelings at first.

No change of diet ever necessary. Eat the best you can get, and enough of it. Dose, one tablespoonful in water at bedtime. Sold by all Druggists.

BEST POLISH IN THE WORLD.

RISING SUN STOVE POLISH

DO NOT BE DECEIVED with Pastes, Enamels, and Paints which stain the hands, injure the iron, and burn red. The Rising Sun Stove Polish is Brilliant, Odorless, and Durable. Each package contains six ounces; when moistened will make several boxes of Paste Polish.

HAS AN ANNUAL SALE OF 3,000 TONS.

CURE FOR TRUANCY.

TEACHERS UNITE AND STAMP OUT THE DISEASE.

Visit the Parents of Absentees and Enlist Their Aid—Statistics from the Census Concerning the Schools of the United States—Notes.

Broke Up the Epidemic.

It was a town of about 4,000 inhabitants and the truancy bacillus which at first had infected only a few of the worst spirits had spread until truancy had become epidemic. A number of causes combined to aggravate the disease. It was an especially good season for fishing, ratkilling, and sundry other recreations dear to the truant's heart.

The usual remedies were applied. Every effort was made to increase the attractiveness of the school, and by interest to create involuntary attention superior to that for external things. But the magnets seemed devoid of power. There were half a dozen ringleaders, large boys, who were not school children at all but loafers whose parents did not send them to school, and had concluded that they were incorrigible. These ringleaders lay in wait for the school boys and by arguments more forcible than philosophical, pesuaded them that it was better to "come along and have some fun." They sat on dry goods boxes and wrote elaborate excuses and signed the parents' names to them for the delinquent to present the following morning. And so the disease increased with uniform acceleration. When mild treatment in homeopathic doses failed, the teachers resorted to corporal punishment but this failed utterly; in fact, it seemed largely to undo the few good results secured by the "attractive" treatment.

Matters continued to grow worse until a teachers' meeting was called to discuss the situation.

It was decided at the meeting to adopt an entirely different treatment and heroically to focus attention on the evil. Every teacher agreed to visit after school during the next week the home of every pupil who had been absent during the day. This decision was announced in all the class-rooms the following morning, which was Friday. The reporters heard of it and the newspapers devoted a few interesting lines to it. The parents talked it over and some of the boys are said to have given it more than a passing glance.

On the following Monday morning the teachers were agreeably disappointed to find that many boys had suddenly recovered and that there were but few "vacant chairs." They called religiously upon the parents of all absentees and found that the parents were quite anxious to have their children attend regularly and were willing to lend a helping hand. The results exceeded the most sanguine expectations of those who made the experiment.

It took time for the disease to die out and it was not an uncommon thing to see parents accompanying convalescent children to school in the morning, but a genuine and lasting cure was finally effected, and parents and teachers were brought closer together—School Journal.

A Good Move.

Yale University, says the Congregationalist, has decided to abandon addresses by students on commencement day and substitute a modification of the Oxford plan, somewhat like that now in use at Johns Hopkins. The only speaking will be an address by the president on the condition and progress of the university. This will be in English, but will not supersede the similar address at the alumni dinner. The candidates for a degree will all be required to be present. A new officer will be introduced, called the "Orator," who will perform the same duties a similar dignitary does at Oxford. It will be his place to introduce the various candidates to the president. The candidates for honorary degrees will have their qualifications for the honor put before the faculty and president by this officer, after which the customary conferring of degrees will follow.

New Educational Body.

A bill was introduced into Congress by General Black of Illinois, based on suggestions from General Lew Wallace and Librarian Spofford, providing for a college of twenty-five persons "distinguished in literature, science, art and invention," modeled somewhat after the Institution of France, called "The Forty Immortals." A committee of the Senate and House will name the first five members of the college, and these five members are to elect twenty other persons. The body will be a continuous one, and is to be provided with a meeting room in the new Congressional library building, with proper service, and have the use of all publications of the library. The college is to make reports from time to time to Congress upon language and literature. Great Britain, Germany and other countries have similar national bodies.

Gifts for Public Libraries.

Within the last half century sixty Americans have given sums varying from $30,000 to $2,500,000 to establish or aid public libraries. The most important of these gifts, amounting to $16,750,000, were made by eleven persons, as follows:

John Crerar, Illinois	$2,500,000
Walter L. Newberry, Illinois	2,000,000
The Astor family, New York	2,000,000
James Lenox, New York	2,000,000
Samuel J. Tilden, New York	2,000,000
Mortimer T. Reynolds, New York	500,000
Dr. James Rush, Pennsylvania	1,500,000
Andrew Carnegie, Penns'vania	1,100,000
George Peabody, for Maryland	1,400,000
Enoch Pratt, Maryland	1,225,000
Henry Hall, Minnesota	500,000

Of this large sum New York received $6,500,000; Illinois, $4,500,000; Maryland, $2,625,000; Pennsylvania, $2,600,000; Minnesota, $500,000.

School Statistics.

Recent returns to the Bureau of Education show that there are 14,165,182 children in the elementary schools of the United States; 402,089 more are pursuing the secondary course of study in public high schools, private academies and preparatory schools, and 147,662 are taking courses of higher education in colleges, technical and professional schools. In other words, one person in five of the entire population of the United States is enrolled in some elementary school. There are also in the United States 4,000 public libraries with more than 1,000 volumes each.

The total expenditure in the United States for common schools last year was $163,359,016. The largest expenditure was in the State of New York. The following are the States which invest more than $2,000,000 a year in education and the amount each paid in 1893:

New York	$19,111,684
Pennsylvania	16,410,997
Illinois	14,654,050
Ohio	12,180,794
Massachusetts	9,663,907
Iowa	7,551,488
Michigan	6,062,657
Missouri	5,705,110
Indiana	5,609,655
California	5,434,210
Minnesota	5,175,105
Kansas	4,346,767
Wisconsin	4,259,321
Nebraska	4,243,638
New Jersey	3,966,879
Texas	3,925,000
Kentucky	3,385,000
Connecticut	2,376,635
Maryland	2,247,111

The Northern States pay a great deal more for education than the Southern States. For example, Texas has 528,314 pupils enrolled and spends $3,925,000 a year for their education, while Iowa has 513,614 enrolled pupils and spends $7,551,483. Tennessee has 483,861 pupils enrolled and pays $1,647,799, while Michigan, with 455,598 pupils, spends $6,062,657. North Carolina, with 356,958 children in her schools, pays $790,320, while Kansas, with 382,225 pupils, pays $4,346,667. South Carolina, with 223,150 children, pays $483,180, while California, with 238,106 children, pays $5,434,216.

Where Are the Boys To-Night?

I often think when seated at the table in my room
Of the joyous childhood days indeed, which passed, alas! too soon—
Of the happy boyhood days I spent at home down on the farm
And listened to my mother's prayers that to me would come no harm.
Then recollections come to me of times we had at school,
When seated at the old brown desks to do our sums by rule,
Committed lessons from our books and learned to read and write,
The question often comes to me, Where are the boys to-night?

I wonder if the little stream at the foot of Moorehead's hill,
Where we used to catch trout after school, Is running on there still?
And the "Long Swamp," where we played our old game, "fox and hound,"
Is now a smooth and fertile strip of cultivated ground?
Where the smoke of Grand Trunk engines we watched from our school door,
I wonder if they now get "stuck" as they did in days of yore;
But I guess the railroad company has cut the grade away,
For freight trains in these modern times must be hurried on their way.
And the games we played at recess, sometimes ending in a fight,
We forget, and often wonder, Where are the boys to-night?

Where the trustees sat with hat in hand to hear us read and spell,
Then praised the teacher for his work if they thought we did it well.
But the boys that studied grammar then are the trustees of to-day,
And at annual meetings of the board have now their little "say."
Most of the boys that sat there then have gone and settled down,
While those of enterprising turn do business now "in town."
As pathmaster or councilor they keep the township right;
But sometimes think, as I do now, Where are the boys to-night?

Yet in my recollections I do not forget "the girls"
Who made the school look cheerful with white aprons and their curls
And when the teacher's back was turned would pass notes to and fro,
Or skip the rope at dinner time some twenty years ago.
Some of them are married, and now they must attend
To household duties, and perhaps have little clothes to mend.
And some, I fear, are old maids now, who years ago looked bright;
These are the ones who sigh and ask, O, where are the boys to-night?
—H. R. Campbell, Buffalo Express.

He Wrote the Sentence.

A teacher of a Virginia district school recently asked one of her little colored pupils to go to the blackboard and write a sentence thereon containing the word "delight."

George Washington Jackson went pompously to the front of the room and wrote, in a large, scrawling hand, these words:

"De wind blowed so hard dat it put out de light."—Harper's Young People.

Notes on Education.

Education should lead out, not force on.

There are over eighty colleges in the United States that publish annuals.

There are at Berlin 4,025 students, 3,744 at Munich, and 2,764 at Leipsic.

The University of Michigan has a Japanese students' association, consisting of thirteen members.

A publication called School is issued in New York, and Schoolmaster and Schoolmistress appear in England.

India has over 100 colleges, and Japan over 200 colleges and schools of high grade. In these are at least 100,000 students.

A Chinese encyclopedia, which in the Chinese comprises 5,020 volumes, is about to be added to the library of the British Museum.

The Lucknow Christian College has taken the field first among mission colleges to teach stenography, typewriting and general business writing and accounts.

The first known European library originated in the presentation to the family of Regulus by the Roman Senate of all the books seized at the capture of Carthage.

In the twenty-one German universities there are 27,800 students, of whom 10,533 are in Berlin, Munich and Leipsic. According to studies: In medicine, 8,061; philosophy and science, 7,716; law, 7,415; theology, 4,648, of whom 1,400 are Roman Catholic.

The Boston Public Library is to be enriched by the addition of the collection of music and musical literature made by Allen A. Brown. It is said to be one of the finest of its kind in the United States, and contains, besides, scores of operas, oratorios, masses, symphonies and other vocal and instrumental compositions, many volumes of the literature of music. Altogether there are about 12,000 titles in the catalogue.

BURGLAR-ALARM FROM MARS.

A Light Near a Window that Upset the Household of a Jerseyman.

That there must be burglars in the house the other night the observant Jerseyman was certain. He had heard an unusual noise outside the house, and, gazing carefully out of his bedroom window on the second story, he could see a shimmering red light just where he calculated one of the window wells of the basement kitchen was. It was not a steady light, but like a candle burning in the kitchen.

The Jerseyman keeps two dogs on purpose to alarm him or his family of any attempts at burglary. One dog of the celebrated Skipper Williams, Staten Island, breed, has the run of the parlor floor, and the other, a beagle, is on the second floor.

"I knew these dogs were no good," he muttered. "I'll have to investigate."

In living picture attire he tiptoed down-stairs, says the New York Sun. The dog down there met him with such demonstrations of friendliness that the bumping of his wagging tail against the furniture and walls was enough to frighten any one in the basement. A glance out of doors assured the Jerseyman that there was no light left in the kitchen. He waited until he was too cold to stay any longer for it to appear, but it did not. Then he tiptoed up to his room again and peeped out of the window. The light had reappeared, but it was fainter than before, as if the burglars were trying to hide it.

"Where's the pistol?" he asked his wife in a hoarse whisper. Getting the pistol from under the mattress woke his five-year-old daughter, and she was insisting that if pa had a real burglar that he should squirt the electric light on him, when the Jerseyman began a second hunt.

This time he slipped out of the front door and circled around the house, determined to kill the intruder from a point of vantage outside. The basement was as dark as before.

Something desperate had to be done. The Jerseyman returned to the front door, determined to make a complete exploration of the house. Here he met his six-foot son, also in living picture costume. With two dogs and two pistols they made their way to the kitchen. One glance convinced them that no one had been there. The Jerseyman went back to his room and looked out of the window again. The light was gone. High in the west was Mars, shining clear and red from the unclouded sky. There was a little more light from the stars than there had been and right in the front of the window the outlines of a half-barrel could be seen. The half-barrel was full of water which was frozen over. The icy surface was wavy. It was the red light of Mars that had caused all the turmoil.

THE REFORM SHOE.

A Post in the Sole to Keep the Foot in Place.

The latest idea in shoes is shown below. The "toe post" is a vertical steel plate covered with leather fixed inside the shoe, and is intended to press the big toe back into the true line. It is claimed that this post is found valuable for the cure of paralyzed toes, bunions, corns, stiff toe joints, varicose veins, flat-footedness, overlapping toes, hammer toes, gout, rheumatic gout, feebleness of the knees, in falling ankles, weak back, stopping knees and similar ailments that have been, it is said, traced to the wearing of boots that have unhealthily contracted or distorted the feet.

THE TOE POST.

Warm Sleeping Quarters.

The houses in Corea being small, the rooms are of diminutive size. The most curious point about them is that the flooring is made of stone, and that under the stone flooring there is a regular oven, called "Kan," in which a big fire is kept up night and day. Often, as the people sleep on the ground in their clothes, it happens that the floor gets so hot as almost to roast one. The Coreans seem to delight in undergoing this roasting process, and when well broiled on one side they turn on the other, and take it quite as a matter of course. I admired them for it, but was never able to imitate them. The houses, as a rule, have only one floor, raised a few feet above the ground, and the rooms seldom measure more than twelve feet square. The roof is very heavy, and sustained by a very heavy beam, and the windows are of paper, as in Japan. The Coreans are not devoted to the bath tub; they wash their hands fairly often, and the better people bathe their faces almost daily. Those of the children are whitened with chalk, and the hair is oiled and parted in the middle, plastered down, and tied into one or two small pigtails. This description does not call up a particularly pleasing mental picture; nevertheless, when dressed in their gay holiday attire, the small Coreans are very quaint and pretty.

Pumping Hot Water.

Water at high temperature cannot be raised any considerable distance by suction, as the vapor discharged from the water so heated follows the receding pistons of the pump and resists the entrance of the water; consequently, to pump hot water always place the supply above the pump, so that it will be supplied from a head.

What Tasmania Exports.

Tasmania exports hops, fruit in great quantities and iron, tin and galena.

To the Younger Cooks,

the beginners in the art of bread and cake making, there is no aid so great, no assistant so helpful, as the Royal Baking Powder.

It is the perfect leavening agent and makes perfect food. Do not make a mistake by experimenting with any other.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., 106 WALL ST., NEW-YORK.

Nothing Like Printer's Ink.

James Gordon Bennett is very erratic in his movements. He "drops in" upon his branch offices in Paris or London without any notice being sent of his coming, and delights to surprise the clerks by overhauling their books and examining their accounts. On one of these occasions, says the Utica Observer, one of the pressmen, a man who had worked for the elder Bennett, and was an excellent workman, though guilty of an occasional lapse from sobriety, had a black eye and was in a quandary as to what excuse he should offer if Mr. Bennett noticed it. Acting on a sudden inspiration he seized an ink roller and rubbed a daub of ink on the side of his face completely concealing the discoloration of the skin. Presently Mr. Bennett came into the pressroom, and with the superintendent, John Hays, went carefully through, criticising every detail, and looking sharply at each employe. When about to leave he turned suddenly, and, pointing to the besmirched pressman, he said:

"Mr. Hays, what is that man's name?"

The culprit quaked in his shoes until Mr. Bennett said, slowly:

"I want you to give that man $3 per week more wages; he is the only man in the room who looks as if he had been working."

The Gospel in South Africa.

Fifty years ago Protestantism was an unknown quantity in South America. When it first began to make its influence felt it was received with scorn. Protestants were especially hated. Business and professional men of that church were boycotted by the natives. The work of Bible distribution was carried on in the face of the strongest opposition. It was next to impossible to rent a house for religious purposes or worship. To-day churches may be built almost anywhere throughout the continent. Gospel work is encouraging, particularly in Chili and Brazil. Equador is about the only country as yet uninfluenced by Gospel agencies. The chief difficulty that the missionaries find is the condition of the people themselves. But even this obstacles is fast being overcome by the establishment of mission schools at every available point.

Michigan Furniture in New York.

On or before November 1, Branch Postoffice, Ohio, now on Thirteenth street, between Fifth and Sixth avenues, will be moved to the first floor of the building occupied by the D. Appleton's Sons. Both sides of Fifth avenue between Thirteenth and Fourteenth streets are now devoted very largely to the sale of Michigan-made furniture, an industry which has made enormous strides in the last few years, in fact, nearly all the chief furniture now sold in New York comes from Michigan. The mills of that State turned out last year more than five thousand million feet of lumber, the capital invested in the milling and furniture-factory business there being over $50,000,000.—New York Sun.

Poor Indeed!

The prospect of relief from drastic cathartics for persons troubled with constipation is poor indeed. True they act upon the bowels, but this they do with violence, and their operation tends to weaken the intestines, and is prejudicial to the stomach. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is an effectual laxative, but it neither gripes nor enfeebles. Furthermore, it promotes digestion and a regular action of the liver and the kidneys. It is an efficient barrier against and remedy for malarial complaints and rheumatism, and is of great benefit to the weak, nervous and aged. As a medicinal stimulant it cannot be surpassed. Physicians cordially recommend it, and its professional indorsement is fully borne out by popular experience. Appetite and sleep are both improved by this agreeable invigorant and alterative.

Salt Cellars.

The salt-cellar dates back to remote times, and that is natural, since the first use of salt is lost in obscurity. Among the wealthy it was of silver and gold, and was handed down from father to son. Benvenuto Cellini purchased some for Francis I. that were of the most exquisite workmanship. There are likewise some beautiful specimens in Faience, and at the Louvre may be seen those made at Orion for the celebrated set called the service of Diana of Poitiers, or of Henry II. Although salt cellars were likewise made of very common earthenware, at ordinary repasts the salt cellar was often a piece of bread hollowed out to receive the salt, and this was placed near each guest.

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of Testimonials.

Address, F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.
Sold by Druggists, 75c.

BADUN—It always annoys me to read about St. Anthony. Razoo—Why? Badun—I can't help thinking of the opportunities he let slide.

THE man who deals at the faro table is a vice president.

Forgot to Shake the Bottle.

Although it is not given to everyone to know exactly what to do at the right moment, one woman at least can lay claim to a presence of mind which may, without exageration, be considered phenomenal.

This woman's little boy was ailing from some trifling childish complaint, which necessitated his taking medicine. He had just received his diurnal dose, when his mother somewhat excitedly exclaimed:

"I quite forgot to shake that bottle afore givin' it you, Johnnie. Come here—quick!"

Johnnie obeyed, and much to his astonishment and disgust he was at once subjected to a vigorous skaking by the strong arms of his mother, at the conclusion of which he was gently laid down with the remark—

"There, my laddie, that'll dae. It should be gay weel mixed up noo, I'm thinkin': but never let me forget to shake the bottle again!"

IN OLDEN TIMES

People overlooked the importance of permanently beneficial effects and were satisfied with transient action; but now that it is generally known that Syrup of Figs will permanently cure habitual constipation, well-informed people will not buy other laxatives, which act for a time, but finally injure the system.

RIGGS—And they married and he is now living! Riggs—Oh, she got a divorce and married me.

"A God-Send to Humanity" is what Wm. Snyder, District Court Clerk and U. S. Commissioner, of Carter, Colo., says No-to-bac is, in writing to the Sterling Remedy Co., of Chicago, after taking one and a half boxes of No-to-bac which he purchased of his druggist, and being absolutely cured of the tobacco habit. Mr. Snyder says he now has no desire for the filthy weed.

IT is surprising how well we can stand the misfortunes of our friends.

Not Sick Enough for the Doctor,

but a little out of sorts. Ripans Tabules would serve in your case. It is well to have them on hand for just such occasions.

IT is better to give than to receive, especially in a personal encounter.

I COULD not get along without Piso's Cure for Consumption. It always cures.—MRS. E. C. MOULTON, Needham, Mass., Oct. 22, '94.

ALWAYS serve a game supper after a card party.

ATTEND the Fort Wayne Business College.

A SUGAR trust—kisses on credit.

HE was madly, passionately in love—won by the matchless beauty of her complexion. Glenn's Sulphur Soap had imparted the charm.

OUT of place—a "crick" in the neck of a toper.

GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY

Many years ago Dr. R. V. Pierce, chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., compounded this medicine of vegetable ingredients which had an especial effect upon the stomach and liver, rousing the organs to healthful activity as well as purifying and enriching the blood. By such means the stomach and the nerves are supplied with pure blood; they will not do duty without it any more than a locomotive can run without coal. You can not get a lasting cure of Dyspepsia, or Indigestion, by taking artificially digested foods or pepsin—the stomach must do its own work in its own way. Do not put your nerves to sleep with so-called celery mixtures, it is better to go to the seat of the difficulty and feed the nerve cells on the food they require. Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Biliousness and Nervous Affections, such as sleeplessness and weak, nervous feelings are completely cured by the "Discovery." It puts on healthy flesh, brings refreshing sleep and invigorates the whole system.

MRS. E. HENKE, of No. 896 North Halsted St., Chicago, Ill., writes: "I regard my improvement as simply wonderful. Since taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery in connection with his 'Pleasant Pellets' I have gained in every respect, particularly in flesh and strength. My liver was dreadfully enlarged and I suffered greatly from dyspepsia. No physician could give relief.

Now, after two months I am entirely relieved of my disease. My appetite is excellent; food well digested; bowels regular and sleep much improved."

MRS. HENKE.

CUTLER'S Pocket Inhaler

Important to singers. Cures La Grippe, Catarrh, Bronchitis, Cold in Head, and Cough. Handy as a knife. This INHALER is approved by Physicians and Medical Journals. By Druggists for $1.00; by mail for $1.10. Microbe Killer.

W. H. SMITH & CO., Proprietors.
No. 410 Michigan Street, Buffalo, New York.

PATENTS, TRADE-MARKS.

Examination and Advice as to Patentability of Invention. Send for Inventors' Guide, or How to Get a Patent. PATRICK O'FARRELL, Washington, D. C.

ST. JACOBS OIL is the Perfect CURE for

NEURALGIA

WITHOUT RELAPSE, COLLAPSE, MISHAPS or PERHAPS.

How I Made $1,200

By not sowing Salzer's seeds! That is what a jolly farmer said as he entered our sanctum. How is that? Why, says he, Salzer's seeds not only grow but they produce enormously. Had I planted a few acres more of his oats, wheat, corn, potatoes, grass and clover seeds, I would have had to double the capacity of my barns; that would have cost me $1,200. It is a fact that if you want big, rousing farm, grass and vegetable crops, you must sow Salzer's seeds. If You Will Cut This Out and Send It with 7c postage to the John A. Salzer Seed Company, La Crosse, Wis., you will get free a sample of Grass and Clover Mixture and their seed catalogue. CNU

SOBER—I wonder who first invented whisky. I suppose he is forgotten in the dim and distant past. De Tanque—Yes, but his spirit still lives.

DON'T ALLOW YOURSELF to trifle with a Cold, and so encourage the development of some latent Pulmonary and Bronchial disease, which often ends fatally. You had better cure your Cough or Cold by promptly resorting to Dr. D. Jayne's Expectorant, an old-time remedy for all Coughs, Lung and Throat affections.

PRYS-FIGHT—a battle with handspikes.

I suffered from catarrh of the worst kind ever since a boy, and I never hoped for cure, but Ely's Cream Balm seems to do even that. Many acquaintances have used it with excellent results.—Oscar Outram, 45 Warren Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

ELY'S CREAM BALM

CATARRH

ELY'S CREAM BALM Opens and cleanses the Nasal Passages, Allays Pain and Inflammation, Heals the Sores, Protects the Membrane from Colds. Restores the Senses of Taste and Smell. The Balm is quickly absorbed and gives relief at once.

A particle is applied into each nostril and is agreeable. Price 50 cents, at druggists or by mail.
ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren Street, New York.

FACE TO FACE.

The pleasure of a confidential chat is doubled by the sweet breath that goes with a well-ordered system. And that is always insured by

Ripans · Tabules.

Sweet breath, bright eye, clear complexion,

Ripans · Tabules.

WALTER BAKER & CO.

The Largest Manufacturers of

PURE, HIGH GRADE COCOAS AND CHOCOLATES

On this Continent, have received

HIGHEST AWARDS

from the great

Industrial and Food EXPOSITIONS In Europe and America.

Unlike the Dutch Process, no Alkalies or other Chemicals or Dyes are used in any of their preparations.

Their delicious BREAKFAST COCOA is absolutely pure and soluble, and costs less than one cent a cup.

SOLD BY GROCERS EVERYWHERE.

WALTER BAKER & CO. DORCHESTER, MASS.

TEXAS, MEXICO and CALIFORNIA.

— VIA —

Wabash Line

In connection with the St. Louis, Iron Mountain & Southern Railway, Texas & Pacific Railway, International & Great Northern Railroad, and Southern Pacific Railway, known as the ONLY TRUE SOUTHERN ROUTE, has placed in service a Through First-Class Sleeping Car and Tourist Sleeping Car, leaving Chicago daily at 10:30 A. M., via St. Louis to Little Rock, Malvern (Hot Springs), Austin, San Antonio, Laredo (where a direct connection is made with through sleeping car for the City of Mexico), El Paso, Los Angeles and San Francisco. This is the only line from Chicago which can offer this excellent service. Call on or write to any ticket agent of the Wabash or connecting line for printed matter showing time, route, rates, description of cars, etc., or

R. G. BUTLER, D. P. A., Detroit, Mich.
F. H. TRUSTRAM, C. P. A., Pittsburg, Pa.
F. E. DOMBAUGH, P. & T. A., Toledo, Ohio.
R. G. THOMPSON, P. & T. A., Fort Wayne, Ind.
J. HALDERMAN, M. P. A., 201 Clark St., Chicago, Ill.
J. M. McCONNELL, P. & T. A., Lafayette, Ind.
G. D. MAXFIELD, D. P. A., Indianapolis, Ind.
C. S. CRANE, G. P. & T. A., St. Louis, Mo.

W. L. DOUGLAS $3 SHOE IS THE BEST, FIT FOR A KING.

$5. CORDOVAN, FRENCH & ENAMELLED CALF.
$4.$3.50 FINE CALF & KANGAROO.
$3.$2.50 POLICE, 3 SOLES.
$2.50 $2. WORKINGMEN'S EXTRA FINE.
$2. $1.75 BOYS' SCHOOL SHOES.
LADIES $3. $2.50 $2. $1.75 BEST DONGOLA.
SEND FOR CATALOGUE. W. L. DOUGLAS, BROCKTON, MASS.

Over One Million People wear the W. L. Douglas $3 & $4 Shoes

All our shoes are equally satisfactory. They give the best value for the money. They equal custom shoes in style and fit. Their wearing qualities are unsurpassed. The prices are uniform,—stamped on sole. From $1 to $3 saved over other makes. If your dealer cannot supply you we can.

SHOEMAKER'S POULTRY ALMANAC

Contains 80 pages; over 70 illustrations; valuable cure remedies and recipes for all known diseases in poultry; also valuable hints on poultry raising. Full information and prices on all leading varieties. Finest descriptive Poultry Book ever issued. Sent postpaid for 15cts. Address, C. C. SHOEMAKER, Freeport, Ill. U.S.A.

Mrs. Winslow's SOOTHING SYRUP for Children teething; softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic. 25 cents a bottle.

When Writing to Advertisers, say you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

BEST COUGH SYRUP. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists.

L. S. & M. S. R. R.

TIME TABLE--In Effect Nov. 18, 1894.

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

Stations—		Mail		Exp'ss		Fre'gt
Fort Wayne,	p	11 45 a		4 45	pm	6 40 a
New Era		12 14	pm	5 14		7 37
Auburn Junc.		12 25		5 25		7 48
Auburn		12 29		5 29		8 37
Waterloo		12 41		5 41		9 24
Summit		12 52		5 52		9 45
Steubenville		12 56		5 56		.....
Pleasant Lake		1 08		6 03		10 12
Angola		1 13		6 14		10 50
Jackson		3 25		8 35		4 30

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Stations—		Freight		Express		Mail
Jackson	dp	6 55	am	11 20	am	6 30	pm
Angola		12 25	pm	2 21	pm	8 51
Pleasant Lake		1 03		2 32		9 01
Steubenville		.....		2 40		9 07
Summit		1 25		2 44		9 11
Waterloo		2 30		3 00		9 34
Auburn		3 00		3 11		9 35
Auburn Junc.		3 14		3 14		9 38
New Era		4 05		3 24		9 50
Fort Wayne		5 25		3 55		10 25

For rates on tickets or freight to all points, call on or address E. T. DeLAPP, Agent at Auburn

A Mail Agent's Experience

Louis D. Brennecke, Wallhalla, S. C, had Rheumatism for fifteen years, and during that time had never been free from pain. He tried the Hot Springs and physicians without benefit. After taking two bottles of Drummond's Lightning Remedy he wrote that he was free from pain, and able to take several long walks. If you want a cure, send $5 to the Drummond Medicine Co., 48 Maiden Lane, New York, and they will ship to your express address two large bottles—one month's treatment. Agents wanted.

Under title of "The Dream City" there comes to us this week a very handsome art series of photographic views. The volume contains 64 high class photo engravings size 11 by 13 inches of selected and representative views of the Columbian Exposition. The cover is handsomely designed in gold and colors, and the work throughout is the perfection of printers' art. The collection of views is offered at a special price of 50 cents, postage paid.  The N D Thompson Publishing Co., 1120 Pine Street, St. Louis, publishers Educational Art Series.

Rheumatism Cured in a Day.—Mystic Cure" for Rheumatism and Neuralgia, radically cures in 1 to 3 days Its action upon the system is remarkable and mysterious. It removes at once the cause and the disease immediately disappears. The first dose greatly benefits, 75 cts Sold by Robbins & McCord, druggists, Auburn. 41tf

Look This Way.

If suffering with rheumatism in any form, gout, neuralgia, etc. Infallible Scotch Cure, just introduced in the United States, cures these dread diseases in every form. It never fails. It is curing scores of sufferers to-day. Druggists sell this new and wonderful remedy. Ask for it, and take no substitute. Prepared only by the Hall Medicine Co., Toledo Ohio. For Sale by Fischler & Son. 3 5

Never Give Up.

Many cases of so-called consumption have been cured by Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup. Never give up, as long as there is life there should be hope, take this medicine; use it persistently, and you will notice a change for the better, as it is peculiarly adapted to this class of diseases. Do not fail to try this remedy in in time. Sold by all druggists 1-5

PILES! PILES! PILES!

Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment will cure Blind, Bleeding and Itching Piles when all other Ointments have failed. It absorbs the tumors allays the itching at once, acts as a poultice, gives instant relief. Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment is prepared only for Piles and itching of the private parts, and nothing else. Every box is warranted. Sold by druggists, or sent by mail on receipt of price, 50c. and $1.00 per box. WILLIAMS MFG. CO., Prop's, Cleveland, O. Sold on a guarantee by Matheny & Gerke.

BUCKLEN'S ARNICA SALVE.—The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Robbins & McCord. tf

Fayette is the seat of a progressive and prosperous Normal University. Its success is due to the high aim and far reaching wisdom of its founders. It is a school with a purpose. It has something of importance to say to every prosperous student in the country. Normal work is a specialty but there are Preparatory, Commercial, Musical, Elocutionary, Shorthand, Typewriting, and Fine Art Departments, in addition to regular college courses. It has an able faculty, ample equipments, superior location and large attendance. Expenses are less than half what they are in many institutions.

Write for catalogue to President of University

J. E. DODDS, Fayette, O.

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder World's Fair Highest Award.

DR. WILLIAMS' KIDNEY PILLS

A remedy that has no equal in diseases of the Kidneys and Urinary Organs, Have you neglected your kidneys? Have you overworked your nervous system and caused trouble with your kidneys and liver? Have you pains in the loins, side, back, loins and bladder? Have you a flabby appearance of the face, especially under the eyes? Too frequent desire to pass urine? No matter what the cause, we know Dr. Williams' Kidney Pills will cure you. Imparts newlife to the diseased organs, tones up the whole system and makes a new man of you Mailed onreceipt of price, $1 00 per box.

WILLIAMS MFG CO., Props. Cleveland, O. Sold by FISCHLER & SON Auburn. 1y30

Knights of the Maccabees

The State Commander writes us from Lincoln, Neb., as follows: "After trying other medicines for what seemed to be a very obstinate cough in our two children we tried Dr. King's New Discovery and at the end of two days the cough entirely left them. We will not be without it hereafter, as our experience proves that it cures where all other remedies fail."—signed F. W. Stevens, State Com.—Why not give this great medicine a trial, as it is guaranteed and trial bottles are free at Robbins & McCord's drug store. Regular size 50c and $1.00. 6

HOMESEEKERS' EXCURSIONS.

On January 15 and February 5 the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad will sell 30-day Excursion Tickets to points in Virginia on the Harper's Ferry & Valley Branch, south of and including Winchester, at rate of one fare for the round trip. Excursion Tickets will also be sold to points in the West, and Southwest, on January 15, and to points in the South on February 5, at very low rates.

For further information on or address any B. & O. Ticket Agent, S. P. Kretzer, Land and Immigration Agent, Philadelphia, Pa., or L. S. Allen, Ass't Gen'l Pass'r Agent Chicago, Ill. 3 5

DELINQUENT TAX SALE.

LANDS AND TOWN LOTS returned Delinquent for the non-payment of taxes for the year 1893, by the County Treasurer of DeKalb County, Indiana, including the interest and penalty thereon, and also the taxes for the year 1894.

NAMES OF OWNERS	DESCRIPTION.	Section	Township	Range	Acres	Hundredths	Am'unt of sale $	cts
	BUTLER TOWNSHIP.
Lung Jonhn E	s e ¼ s w qr	17	33	12	40	00	57	79
do	pt n e ¼ n w qr	20	33	12	12	50
	JACKSON TOWNSHIP.
Bailey John	n ½ s e ¼ n w qr	29	33	13	20	00	13	65
Kester John	w pt n w qr	26	33	13	84	00	56	10
Thomas Sophia	in n fr ½ n w qr	5	33	13	1	50	46	48
do	pt n e qr	5	33	13	8	95
Ankney Joseph	Stamets add Auburn lot 22						8	46
	CONCORD TOWNSHIP.
Erick Beeks	in w side s w qr	28	33	14		33	6	45
Hursh Benj	in w ½ n w qr	33	33	14	1	00	13	99
Hefty Wm & S A	off n end w ½ n w qr	16	33	14	30	37	86	56
do	off w side e ½ n w qr	16	33	14	60	00
Hoffman Francis J	n e ¼ n e ¼ s e qr	8	33	14	10	00	34	70
do	pt n w ¼ s w qr	9	33	14	36	00
Morr Geo W & Peter	in n w ¼ s w qr	7	33	14	6	83	5	84
Potts F A C	in e ½ s w qr	28	33	14		22	5	21
Tindall W C	n end e ½ s w qr	28	33	14	21	25	16	72
Wilmot G W	s ½ n e qr	22	33	14	80	00	63	77
do	in w side n w qr	23	33	14	1	00
Allen Emma A	F add Spencerville lot 24						4	27
Erick Beeks	N add.. " " 21						9	81
do	O P 82 ft mid pt " 1
Rhodes Jeremiah	N add " " 9						2	52
do	N add " " 10
Spitler Emily	F add n ½ " " 2						9	07
do	F add n ½ " " 3
Tindall Wm C	O P " " 15						7	54
Lochner John	J D L add St Joe " 17						10	31
do	J D L add " " 18
Meek Henry	O P " " 10 block 4						22	07
Shuff Hilery	O P " " 8 " 4						15	95
	NEWVILLE TOWNSHIP.
Akins Julia A	n ½ n w ¼ s w qr	17	33	15	20	00	27	96
Baird Emma E	w ½ s w ¼ s w qr	20	33	15	20	00	16	85
Koch L F & C R Headley	pt w ½ s w qr	30	33	15	11	43	10	36
Kemery Sibyl	pt w ½ s w qr	30	33	15	11	43	9	55
Larned State Bank	in n pt s w qr	6	33	15	1	28	14	26
Levy Jacob	in s pt s w qr	6	33	15	41	96	54	32
Mogle Simon hrs	in n e ¼ s w qr	6	33	15		15	2	14
Friend Nancy	Vienna lot 3						1	16
Greist Lewis	Vienna s ½ lot 10						1	01
do	Vienna s ½ lot 15
Larned State Bank	Vienna lot 1						1	14
Walden Guy D hrs	Vienna n e pt 74						1	16
	STAFFORD TOWNSHIP.
Gaff John	in s cor e ½ s w qr	7	34	15	9	50	20	69
Repp F H & Mary	n side s w qr	29	34	15	98	00	58	49
Wilber Benj	in n e cor n e qr	30	34	15	70	00	59	72
Oberlin Isaac E	pt n ¼ s e qr	18	34	15	39	25	40	97
	WILMINGTON TOWNSHIP.
Brown John	w ½ n w qr	13	34	14	82	40	71	20
Bubb Thomas	e pt s e qr	14	34	14	120	00
do	in mid pt s w ¼ s w qr	13	34	14	1	00	257	71
do	pt s e ¼ s w qr	13	34	14	17	00
Berry Winfield S	mid 4-5 e ½ w ¼ n e qr	25	34	14	16	00	32	67
Brunson A D & Jennie	in s e cor s w qr	34	34	14	22	00	27	13
Eakrigh Hattie	mid ½ n e ¼ n e ¼ n w qr	23	34	14	8	33	5	20
Haskins Esther M	e ¾ s w ¼ s w qr	21	34	14	30	00	650	41
do	w ¼ s e ¼ s w qr	21	34	14	10	00
Kline A F & C	s ¾ w ¼ s e qr	14	34	14	30	00	27	24
Metz Harriet E	in n w cor n e qr	32	34	14	6	33	5	46
Thomas B F	pt w ½ s w qr	33	34	14	79	72	108	82
Woods Chas W et ux	n pt e ½ n e qr	21	34	14	60	00	104	26
Warner Marcia L	mid 1-5 e ½ n w ¼ n e qr	25	34	14	4	00	5	16
Hass Geo et al	in s e cor s e qr	13	34	14	8	00	42	98
Caruth Cornelia C	s ½ n e qr	30	34	14	80	00	97	46
	UNION TOWNSHIP.
Geeting Ezra et al	n e ½ n e qr	24	34	13	40	00	7	97
Rauh Margaret	n w ¼ n w qr	20	34	13	38	25	63	37
Hackett T W	O P Auburn Juct lot 21						2	42
Hunt Theodore jr	C R &B add Auburn lot 2						2	55
Jones Marietta	in s w cor n w qr	29	34	13	10	22	54	14
Waggoner George	in n w cor s w qr	29	34	13	5	60	33	40
	KEYSER TOWNSHIP.
Allman Nelson	pt s w ¼ s w qr	33	34	12	18	65	24	51
Falkenburg G W	in n pt n w qr	4	33	12		25	10	15
Martin Stephen T.	in n e ¼ n e qr	3	33	12	1	00	5	63
Nickey A B & S M	pt w ½ n e qr	12	33	12	30	32	18	76
Offen M A & L S Hudson	in n e pt n e qr	4	33	12		25	6	54
Powell Sarah A	in s e cor s e qr	36	34	12	1	00	12	21
Reeves Hattie A	in s w cor s w ¼ s w qr	33	34	12	1	00	26	45
Schnitzer J E & E	pt n w qr	4	33	12	1	28	8	84
Thompson Mary A	in s e cor w ½ e ½ n e qr	10	33	12	1	00	1	70
Whitford S & Helen	in n pt n w qr	4	33	12		50	31	15
Barnes J H	B add Garrett lot 5						15	06
Graham Samantha	B add " " 4						8	45
Myers Samuel	M & H add" " 63						3	47
Barrett E S & L L	East add Altona lot 12						1	73
Householder E N	R add " " 25						20	19
do	R add " " 30
Pence Ann C	L 2d add " " 1						16	35
do	L 2d add " " 2
Phister Eliza	D 2d add " " 15						2	93
do	D 2d add " " 16
Valleau Chas	L 2d add " " 3						13	30
Hathaway Page	pt n e ¼ n w qr	4	33	12		25	23	18
Glenowich Jno & C	in s pt e ½ s w qr	33	34	12		40	19	21
	RICHLAND TOWNSHIP.
Gonser George	in n w qr	1	34	12		50	1	51
Rice David	e end w ½ n e qr	2	34	12	25	00	57	65
Treesh J J & C	in e side s e ¼ s e qr	2	34	12	1	60	6	61
Gonser G D et al	O P Lawrence lot 72						9	85
do	O P " " 73
Jarvis John B	O P Corunna " 89						1	91
	SMITHFIELD TOWNSHIP.
Bradley W H	n ½ n e qr	3	35	13	80	00	79	98
	FRANKLIN TOWNSHIP.
Chappell Mary A	in n e ¼ n w qr	2	35	14	4	93	12	44
Clark Margaret	w pt s e ¼ n e qr	12	35	14	30	00	25	20
Enzor Stephen	s ½ n ½ n e ¼ n e qr	14	35	14	10	00	52	35
Enzor Catherine	s ½ s e ¼ s e qr	11	35	14	20	00	54	25
Gnagy Jerry	n w pt s w qr	1	35	14	7	00	3	87
Gnagy John S	n e ¼ n e q	11	35	14	40	00
do	w pt s end e ¼ s e qr	2	35	14	35	00
do	n end e pt w ½ s e qr	2	35	14	13	43	104	55
do	s e cor w ½ n e qr	2	35	14
do	n end e ½ s e qr	2	35	14	25	00
Hamman A C	n ½ n e qr	7	35	14	80	00	44	08
do	s w ¼ n e qr	7	35	14	40	00	5	86
Nichols Milo	s w ¼ s e qr	6	35	14	40	00	31	77
Rose Elnora	e ½ s ½ s w qr	32	35	14	40	00	35	62
Matson O R & Geo	s w fr qr	30	35	14	141	00	183	36
do	n fr ½ n w fr qr	31	35	14	72	00
	GRANT TOWNSHIP.
Albright John	mid pt n e qr	1	34	13	40	00	66	00
Gingerich Jesse	n e ¼ s e qr	12	34	13	40	00	12	11
Gardner Catharine	n w fract qr	18	34	13	111	81	104	48
Stroh Mary	in n pt s w qr	4	34	13	1	42	20	69
	WATERLOO TOWN.
Beand John C	W add lot 6						13	84
Bundy Mary L	B add " 188						22	52
Ingersoll J & M E	Cen add " 2						4	75
McIntosh Gilbert	L 1st add " 4
do	L 1st add " 5						13	31
do	L 1st add " 6
Oehn Theodore	O P n ½ " 29						6	48
Rigby Ed	H add " 217							75
Smith S S	B & McC add " 3						15	17
do	B & Mot. add " 4
Wyatt Elmer	in n e pt s w qr	3	34	13	1	50	9	69
Acton P J & J H	O P Uniontown n ½ lot 23						7	56
Kelley Alfred	C add " lot 5						7	10
Vogeman Wm	W add " lot 19						11	20
	ASHLEY TOWN.
Bowles W T	Lot 6 Block 28						24	87
Burgess Thomas E	" 8 " 32						12	61
Gonser Daniel	" 10 " 20						17	31
Green Julia A	" 10 " 28						6	61
do	" 11 " 28						7	08
do	" 33 " 38						8	32
do	" 34 " 38						13	50
do	" 6 " 39						7	68
do	" 2 " 45						8	75
do	" 3 " 45						8	75
do	" 4 " 45						8	75
do	" 16 " 39						6	20
Getts Mary	" 8 " 18						8	75
Indiana Improvement Co	" 2 " 19						7	89
do	" 8 " 19						17	31
do	" 22 " 19						14	10
do	" 5 " 21						14	10
do	" 9 " 21						27	09
do	" 6 " 22						7	68
do	" 29 " 22						10	88
do	" 14 " 23						7	08
do	" 5 " 24						8	75
do	" 5 " 25						18	37
do	" 2 " 28						7	89
do	" 16 " 28						19	45
do	" 1 " 37						10	89
do	" 32 " 38						8	32
do	" 1 " 39						7	68
do	" 14 " 40						4	47
do	" 7 " 41						5	26
do	" 2 " 43						6	82
do	" 5 " 45						10	44
do	" 12 " 45						7	46
do	" 11 " 46						9	81
do	" 12 " 51						7	89
do	" 11 " 60						7	08
Smith Susan	" 9 " 28						12	61
	GARRETT CITY.
Archbold Milling Co	O P Lot 3 Block 17						8	32
Andrews J E	" " 11 " 29						45	54
do	" " 12 " 29
Burns Jno J	" " 15 " 28						43	22
do	" " 16 " 28
Bishop E B	K Add " 2 " 83						5	84
Benwood Oliver	" " 7 " 64						22	08
Bloomfield Jas & J	O P " 11 " 21						39	46
do	" " 12 " 21
Bushey Mary & J	Ubl's ad " 2						28	47
Balto Land & imp Co	O P " 15 " 22						2	32
do	" " 1 " 11						6	37
do	" " 2 " 11						5	49
do	" " 14 " 12						5	57
do	" " 18 " 12						5	57
do	C add " 12 " 36						5	57
do	" " 17 " 36						5	57
do	" " 19 " 36						2	35
do	" " 17 " 38						26	07
do	" " 8 " 44						3	77
do	" " 11 " 58						3	77
do	" " 12 " 58						4	41
do	K add " 19 " 65						16	38
do	" " 20 " 65						7	36
do	" " 8 " 73						52	62
Champion F M & A A	O P " 18 " 28
do	T S add " 4 " 2						29	14
Coffill Wm A	O P " 17 " 24
Capital Investmend & Building & Loan Ass'n	T S add " 10 " 1						23	49
Cross John A	O P " 11 " 13						11	82
Cannon Rosa	Os 2d ad " 4						14	16
Dawson John F	O P " 13 " 21						23	52
do	" " 14 " 21
Eppert Thos S & C A	C add " 11 " 44						36	27
Erixson Wm D	K s 40 ft w side pt 18 80
do	" " 19 " 80						41	44
do	" " 20 " 80
Frederick Wm J	C add " 10 " 43						10	05
Fulmer G S	" " 9 " 46						28	76
Graham Samantha	O P " 16 " 3						23	41
do	" " 17 " 3
Heyles R & Mary R	C add " 10 " 44						34	74
Hampton John C	" " 13 " 36						23	81
Henney Josiah	Os 1st a " 4 " 5½						55	44
Hopper Chas	T S add " 10 " 6						25	87
King Chancey	O P " 22 " 31						30	67
Kagey D E & Mary	" " 3 " 10						36	53
do	" " 4 " 10
Kreuder Theo	C add " 9 " 36						26	05
Keyser H I Trustee	O P " 14 " 31						10	95
Mills James H	K add " 3 " 74						21	71
Metzler John	K add " 13 " 76						27	86
Merica Thos S	C add " 15 " 55						59	61
Miller Wesley	K add " 4 " 64						24	41
do	K add " 5 " 64
Nummey Philemon	O P " 9 " 10						29	37
do	O P " 10 " 10
Niner John M	K add " 16 " 61						35	79
do	K add " 17 " 61
Neff George	K add " 11 " 75						18	54
Olden Daniel P	O P " 17 " 33						32	15
do	O P n ½ " 16 " 33
Onderdonk Andrew	O P " 3 " 26						15	88
Parker S A	C a mid ½ " 17 " 34
do	U a mid ½ " 18 " 34						32	09
do	C a mid ½ " 19 " 34
do	C a mid ½ " 20 " 34
Parker Lewis E	O P s ½ " 14 " 33						33	92
do	O P " 15 " 33
do	O P n ½ " 16 " 33
Phelps Chas W	T S add " 7 " 1						29	91
do	T S add " 8 " 1
Read A J	C add " 3 " 36						7	36
Sapp John	Oz 1st ad" 2 " 8						12	31
Stinson M A	O P " 19 " 28						19	91
Sapp Lewis M & E E	Oz 1s ad" 4 " 1
do	" " 5 " 1						55	03
do	" " 3 " 1
Stoner Oscar O	C add " 4 " 36						41	69
Strauss S & S A	T S add " 5 " 2						34	14
do	" " 6 " 2
Tarney Louisa	O P " 1 " 18						60	44
do	" " 2 " 18
Treesh Phillip J	T S add " 4 " 8						17	04
Wolf Susan S	O P " 2 " 10						9	12
	AUBURN TOWN.
Baxter & McClellan	McC & B add Lot 22
do	" " 31						5	62
Brown & Culbertson	O P " 22						13	17
Bender Ida O	E 2nd add " 33						31	57
do	" n pt " 13
do	" in n e cor " 14						34	82
Clark Wm	B & A add " 39
Coel Alice A	McF add pt " 14						57	02
Griffin E A	McI add " 12						41	50
do	" " 13						55	30
Gregg Isaac	O P " 19
Green Ruth A	" " 122						33	77
Howey Mary J	N G add " 4						33	40
Halm J C et al	G & D add " 8						16	07
Hollopeter Andrew	McF add " 16						44	57
Mochamer Albert S	E 3rd add " 3						42	45
McClellan C A O	N G add " 92						26	15
do	" " 83						8	36
Mason Edward	O P " 185						3	00
Reed George W	N G add " 103						26	07
Seery J & Ellen	E 2nd add " 75						66	19
Sherlock Chas C	K 2nd add So ½ " 8						26	92
Witmer Geo F	K add " 36						9	16
McClellan Jas W et al	" e pt " 6						30	41
	BUTLER TOWN.						21	27
Blaker John & M L	O P Lot 289
do	" " 290						27	27
do	N add 16 ft w side " 4
do	" 29 ft e side " 5
Bratton O D	O P 20 ft mid pt " 273						70	07
Bubb Sidney F	D add " 42						29	44
Brunkhart F K	E add " 229						13	92
Benner Augustus	J add " 20						33	12
Beggs David	E 3rd add " 236						14	53
Baker Thomas	E add " 153						10	53
Campbell John A	T add So ½ lot 7 block 7						7	04
do	" So ½ lot 8 block 7
do	D add " 29						1	64
do	" " 30						1	64
Campbell Sarah E	E 2nd add " 86						12	76
Crane C H et ux	O P w 1 5 " 273						99	22
Cook Belle	" " 263						8	31
Dickerhoof Samuel	J add " 21						41	51
Delevan Elizabeth	E add " 107						10	84
Egnew Geo hrs	" " 182						14	99
Funk J J & M	O P 50 ft w side " 139						19	89
Funk Mary	" e ½ " 85						31	45
do	" e ½ " 86
Fanning F W & O M	" " 57						53	64
Foedick E N	" w ½ " 192						5	48
do	" w ½ " 193
do	" " 278						6	70
do	" " 280						3	56
do	" " 282						19	62
do	" " 283
Fales Minerva	L add " 30						1	36
Funk Jacob J	O P 3 ft w side " 136						5	23
do	" 48 ft e side " 137
Isher Barbara	O P " 281						8	32
Garber John	E add " 204						14	00
do	" " 221
Gaumond A & S J	O P 68x110 ft n e pt " 145						41	03
Handy Cyrus	" " 177						20	45
Hopkins S A & E M	" " 38						26	08
Homan David	E add " 225						9	80
Haskins George	O P 44x100 in " 131						121	17
Handy George D	M add " 3						15	66
Learned Laura E	E add " 111						83	71
do	" " 112
Mason W A	M add " 21						8	46
Myers Mary A	" " 8						4	03
Norford Jay R & J A	L add " 4						32	87
North Almira E	J add " 9						3	51
Packer G W & N E	M add " 16						13	96
Pinchon Chas F	E add " 89						15	24
Packer E & M E	M add " 9						11	38
do	" " 24
Perew Geo S. et al	N add w pt " 6
do	O P " 285						17	59
do	" " 286
Rank Alice M	E add " 105						13	18
Reese Margaret	O P " 27						11	78
Smurr Daniel	pt n w ¼ n w qr 12 34 14						18	13 70
Shaffer Walton	O P exc 13 ft e side " 34						7	58
Staples Ralph E	" " 271						5	85
Sanders Arvilla M	L add " 47						13	69
Steward Armina M	O P " 229						14	69
Sanders Thomas J	E 3 d add " 215						14	69
Showalter S & J	" " 228						11	43
Searight S G	E add 66x132 ft w pt " 146						57	14
do	D add 44x46½ ft n e pt " 6
Steward F H	E add " 237						15	14
Skinner D L	O P " 113						18	23
Scoville Geo E & M	J add " 18						14	99
Scoville Charles	E add " 85						4	77
Stevens R & M M	O P s ½ " 233						17	84
do	" s ½ " 234
Sias Francis	T add lot 3 block 8						19	78
Sawyers Sabina B	S add " 17						14	99
Taylor Levi B	H add " 17						2	69
Werrbaugh L A & A M
Stewart	D add " 31						36	63
do	E add 55x122 ft n e pt " 147
Young Emma J	O P " 220						38	32

I, Frank A. Borst, Auditor in and for said County of DeKalb, do hereby certify that the foregoing is a true and complete list of all the lands and town lots in said county returned delinquent for the taxes for the year 1893, with the delinquent tax, penalty and interest, and also the tax for the year 1894, to the best of my knowledge and belief.

Notice is therefore hereby given that so much of the foregoing lands and town lots as may be necessary to discharge the taxes, interest and penalty, and charges due thereon or due

THE AUBURN COURIER.

VOLUME XXV. AUBURN, DE KALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 7, 1895. NUMBER 6.

THIS IS NEW.

READ!

WHAT WE HAVE TO SAY ABOUT MNOEY.

The Indisna Mutual Building Loan Association, which we represent in this part of the state, have again reduced their interest, which has always been from 2 to 5 per cent less than any other Building Loan Association Do you know that if you are about to borrow money and give a mortgage on your home, you should take the time and trouble to investigate the plan of different associations, so that you may know, regardless of what any agent may tell you, which is the cheapest andthe best?

There are three items which should also be considered and thoroughly understood, especially by the borrower, before he makes his application for a loan:

First: The rate of interest and premium he is charged per annum.

Second: What the earnings of the Association are

Third: How economically the Association is conducting its affairs.

We are prepared always to compare our company with any other, and can prove to your entire satisfaction that we are the cheapest and

REMEMBER

That in our company you have no membership fee to pay, no advance payments to make and there will be no delays, so that should your loan for any reason be declined, you will lose no money. We are prepared to make loans where the security is sufficient; for any amount from $2.00 to $2.00

If you have a loan in any other company it will pay you to call on us and get our figures and

Change your Loan at One:

We are also prepared to make

FARM LOANS

at from

3 to 6 per cent

interest.

We are still in line for Insurance, and Cheap R. R Tickets, and have now on hand more bargains i

REAL ESTATE

than ever before.

CALL ON OR ADDRESS

RICKEL & SPROTT

AUBURN, IND.

If you are handling your

MONEY!

Carefully you will not overlook the following statement.

We are more than anxious to exchange our goods for CASH and for spot CASH you can buy of us at a less price than ever before.

NOTE THE FOLLOWING:

Four Tined Forks, Long and Short handles,	45 cts.
Shovels, Round and Square point,	55 cts.
Galvanized Fence Wire,	$1.95 per cwt.
Black Fence Wire,	1.55 per cwt.
Webb Halters,	20 cents.
Cant Hooks,	$1.00.
Clothes Ringers,	1.75.

We have a surplus stock of

SASH, DOORS & PAINTS

And will offer Special Inducements to buyers now.

SEE FORMER QUOTATIONS.

W. H. KIBLINGER COMPANY.

MORE SONS OF REST.

The Indiana Assembly In Competion with Congress for the Lazy Medal.

OUR solons of the state assembly are fast working themselves up into a state of laziness and indifference, that would be encouraging had we sent them there for that purpose But as we are paying them $6 a day and 20 cents a mile for carfare, it is rather discouraging. Our attention has been called afresh to this by the experience of the editor of the Dispatch and his wife.

Mrs. W. B. Campbell, gave a "Three minute Talk" at the meeting of the Ladies' Literary Club Saturday, that being her part of the regular program. She gave her recent experience at the State Capital, about as outlined in last week's Dispatch. She said there were dozens of men loafing about the doors at $5 a day, with nothing to do. Add to these an expensive lot spittoon cleaners, and extra clerks and one can readily see where a good part of that $100.000 goes to. But this is not the worst feature of it. The members themselves set the pattern of idleness and indifference to duty. On several occasions, besides the ones Mrs. Campbell speaks of,there was no quorum present to do business, for the members were still in bed, or lounging in their hotels, or the saloons, or at home attending to their private business, or at any other place, than the one they are paid to attend. This is all a burning shame, and a disgrace to the state, just as a similar condition of things in congress has been a disgrace to the country at large. We have already spoken of the "Sons of Rest" in our body of "lawmakers" at Washington, and it seems the microbes of the same dishonest and unpatriotic disease, have reached the atmosphere of Indianapolis. If this legislature has half the virture claimed for it, or rather that it has been claiming for itself, let it wipe away this stain on our state assembly. Let it stop the appointment of scores of political heelers and nobodies, as door keepers, clerks, spittoon cleaners, etc, who are not needed,and who ask and receive these appointments for no other earthly reason, than as rewards for political work done, or claimed to have been done. Let them pass and enforce a stringent law against members absenting themselves, for any reason except the most urgent, such as sickness of the member of serious illness in his family These evils seem to be growing and the people of Indiana would like to be the first, not the last, to take the needed measures to check it. We speak of this all the more freely, as it is conceded that the member from this county agrees with our view of it and is always at his post And besides, we have bestowed the same criticisms on our own party, as represent in the recent sessions of congress. Idleness, extravagance and a disposition to shirk duty is creeping into both parties. To the people themselves, is still left a better remedy than the ones we have alluded to. Let them select better men for all these places, and they will get better service at less cost.

Hurt by a Rip Saw.

Frank Virgillio, an Italian who was employed as rip sawyer at the band saw mill was struck in the abdomen by a piece of timber which caught on the saw Friday of last week, He was operating the same saw Harry Boodle was killed by several years ago. He very narrowly escaped being seriously injured Latest reports is that he probably will recover but we understand inflammation has set in which will make his recovery doubtful. He was removed to his boarding house in the north end of town Saturday.

Prohibition Meeting.

Prohibition meeting of the 12th district will be held at the court house Wednesday, Feb 13, at 3 p m. for conference, and at 7.p m. there will be speaking by J. M. Dunlap, our State Chairman, and others. County Chairmen from all the counties in the district will be present and we trust that there will be a full attendance of all the Prohibitionists in the county, as business of importance will come before this meeting. As announced by our State Chairman at a new District Chairman will be elected at this meeting.

CHARLES ECKHART,
Chairman County Com.

Gets $6,500.

The jury in the case of Frank Kelley against the Wabash railroad, retired at 6:30 p. m. on Friday and were out till ten the next morning, when they brought a verdict for the plaintiff, of $6 500. The amount sued for was $20,000 The jury cleared the company of blame as far as the original accident was concerned, the loss of the foot, but found against the company in regard to the improper treatment of the injury, by which the man had to suffer several amputations. As we intimated before the fight was a hard one for the railroad had able attorneys, Judge Hammond and Mr. Stuart, as well as J E. Rose, of this place. The attorneys for the plaintiff, Frank Roby and J. F. Shuman have cause to feel well over their victory. We understand the case may be appealed The jury in the case should not be forgotten, for they had a long siege. They are: J F Harter, Wm Dawson. David Bair, J. L Smith, Ed. Wise, H. K. Dawson.

Schaab & Bro.

Our CLEARANCE SALE has been a hummer. We still have a number of bargains to offer in

DRESS GOODS, CLOTHING AND LADIES' WRAPS.

We are making room for by far the Largest and Finest stock of Spring Goods we have ever shown.

This week we open a complete line of

GENTS' HATS AND NECKWEAR.

These patterns and styles are fine and prices much lower than ever before.

We invite you to call and inspect our stock. We will try to make it to your interest to trade with us.

Schaab & Bro.

NATIONAL DETECTIVE BUREAU

96½ E. Market St., Rooms 12, 13, 14 and 15

This Bureau investigates murders, conspiracies, blackmailing, burglaries, thefts horse and stock stealing, legal evidence in divorce and other family matters, etc. Only experienced and trustworthy detectives employed. Reliable references furnished you from Indianapolis, any State in the Union or any part of Europe. The Superintendent of this Bureau was formerly state Detective Officer for the State of New Jersey, also Chief Detective of the N. Y. O & W. Railway, late Superintendent World,s Secret Detective Service of New York City, and also was Chief of Police in New Jersey, and connected with the Midland Railway Police and Detective Department of England. We have reliable operators located in all parts of the world, and can furnish reliable men on short notice. For further particulars, address

CHAS. AINGE, Supt. National Detective Bureau,

DEPARTMENT A. INDIANAPOLIS, IND.

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

THIRTY years' observation of Castoria with the patronage of millions of persons, permit us to speak of it without guessing.

It is unquestionably the best remedy for Infants and Children the world has ever known. It is harmless. Children like it. It gives them health. It will save their lives. In it Mothers have something which is absolutely safe and practically perfect as a child's medicine.

Castoria destroys Worms.
Castoria allays Feverishness.
Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd.
Castoria cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic.
Castoria relieves Teething Troubles.
Castoria cures Constipation and Flatulency.

Castoria neutralizes the effects of carbonic acid gas or poisonous air.
Castoria does not contain morphine, opium, or other narcotic property.
Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep.
Castoria is put up in one-size bottles only. It is not sold in bulk.
Don't allow any one to sell you anything else on the plea or promise that it is "just as good" and "will answer every purpose."

See that you get C-A-S-T-O-R-I-A.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNS, - - PUBLISHER.

NEWS IN BRIEF GUSTS

BLOWN IN FROM ALL PARTS OF THE WORLD.

Frightful Explosion at Steubenville, Ohio—Gen. M. D. Manson Dead—A Milwaukee Trolley Car Runs Into an Open Draw Bridge—A Woman Scared to Death.

QUICK AND FAST.

Two Explosions in Which Several Men Were Badly Injured.

Two explosions occurred at the Riverside Furnace, Steubenville, Ohio, and as a result a number of men were injured, several perhaps fatally. The first explosion occurred about 8 o'clock Tuesday morning, when the stock in the furnace settled, blowing coke, limestone and bricks in all directions, ignited gas that blew out and hot metal that came out the downcomer, set fire to Patrick Timlin, who ran with his blazing clothes some distance, where a shopmate tore off the clothes of the unfortunate man, burning himself in so doing. Timlin is burned about the legs, side of his body, face, and arms, and is not expected to live.

The worst explosion occurred in the afternoon, when the stock in the furnace settled, leaving considerable hanging near the top and the gas in the space between blew tons of brick and stock out of the top. Hot debris fell like hail for yards around, riddling the roofs of the casting shed, engine room and stock shed. It was the hour when the whistle blew for work and few men were around, or the injured would have been increased. Those injured were:

JACK DUNN, shoulder blade broken, injured internally, head cut.

MICHAEL CARROLL, hair burned off, head cut.

FRED BOWMAN, badly cut.

JOHN CAUFFIELD, back injured with falling bricks.

JAMES BARRET, head cut with flying bricks.

JOHN CLINTON, head cut.

Perhaps a dozen others received minor injuries by being hit with missiles blown from the furnace.

An Old Hero Gone.

Gen. Mahlon D. Manson of Crawfordsville, Ind., a veteran of two wars, suffered a paralytic stroke at Frankfort. He had been at Monticello on business, and was taken from the train unconscious. He is 75 years old.

The General lingered until 5:15 o'clock, when death came, a half hour after the arrival of Mrs. Manson and his son William from their home in Crawfordsville. The General recognized his loved ones when they entered the room but could not speak. The name of Gen. Mahlon D. Manson is mentioned honorably in many pages of the history of his country during the eventful period of the rebellion. In the political affairs of the State, he has taken an active and prominent part. In private life he sustained an unsullied reputation and enjoyed the esteem of all who knew him.

Three Killed.

A trolley car loaded with passengers ran into an open draw on the Russel avenue line of the Milwaukee, Wis., Street Railway company, at the Kinnickinnie bridge. The passengers were all dumped into the icy water. Thousands of people were on the spot at once, and the people in the water were fished out as fast as they appeared on the surface.

The list of the dead is only three—Miss Nettie Ehlman, Miss Schmidkunz and John W. Kennedy.

Must Close During Elections.

In a decision by Judge Koons at Muncie, Ind., he holds that the statute requiring manufacturers to close down upon election day is good, and they are liable for prosecution if they refuse. He also quashed a like indictment against the Eaton Paper company for violating that law because the indictment was poorly constructed.

Electric Lineman Killed.

Lewis Cooper, a lineman employed by the electric street-railway company, at Elwood, Ind., climbed a spliced pole to make a connection. The pole broke and he was hurled across the street, his head striking the curbing, breaking his neck and killing him instantly.

Plenty of Money.

The Vice President laid before the Senate Monday, a communication from the Secretary of the Treasury, stating, in reply to a resolution of inquiry, that it is believed for the twelve months ending December 31, 1895, the revenues of the government from all sources will exceed ordinary expenses by $22,503,000.

Scared To Death.

Dora Dold, 42, wife of Elias Dold, residing at Sellersburg, Ind., died from fright. Mrs. Dold awoke and thought she heard burglars ransacking the premises. This proved purely imaginary, but the thought of thieves so terrorized her and shocked her nervous constitution that she died in paroxysms.

Culver Academy Burned.

The Culver military academy at Lake Maxinkuckee, Ind., founded by H. H. Culver of St. Louis, burned. The academy was but recently completed and the entire buildings, together with a fine hotel and furniture were destroyed. Fully insured.

Lost Her Temper.

At Chillicothe, Ohio, Miss Elizabeth Elliott, aged 14, threw a lighted lamp at her sister's head. The lamp fell on a bed, and the Elliott residence and one adjoining were consumed. The elder Miss Elliott was seriously burned.

Boiler Explosion.

The boiler at East Carpenter & Sons' ice house, at Mashapaug Pond, Elwood, R. I., exploded, killing two men outright, injuring a third so that he died within an hour, and wounding ten others, some of them seriously.

They Advise Peace.

It is stated on good authority that the British, French and Russian Ministers at Tokyo and at Peking have received instructions from their Governments to advise Japan and China to arrange terms of peace.

Will Take All.

The New York Journal says that the Standard Oil magnates, through J. Pierrepont Morgan, have offered to take the entire one-hundred-million bond issue from the Government.

Burned to Death.

Cleveland special: The Deaconess Hospital, on Jennings avenue, south side, was destroyed by fire and four persons are known to have been burned to death. The bodies of a child and two men nurses have been recovered. The fire started in the basement and was caused by a defective furnace. It gained such rapid headway that before the fire apparatus had responded to the alarm the building was all ablaze. There were but fifteen patients in the hospital besides a number of employes. The firemen worked bravely and fought their way to the beds through the fire, rescuing many of the patients. The building was a two-story frame structure. Before all the wards could be visited by the rescuers, they were compelled to desert the building to save their own lives. The attaches of the hospital were so badly excited that they could do little toward assisting in the rescue of the patients.

BURNED TO DEATH.

Mother Perishes in Vain Efforts to Rescue Her Babes.

Three lives were lost by a fire at Philadelphia that was caused by the upsetting of a coal oil lamp by a cat. The victims are: Mrs. Christiana Singlinger, and her 1-year-old twins, Margerita and Christiana. The family of Conrad Singlinger were all in their home, No. 2629 Kansas street, when the household cat jumped upon a table and knocked over a burning lamp. The blazing oil ran all over the room and the interior of the dwelling was soon ablaze. Singlinger's family consisted of himself and wife and six children, and when the parents and four of the children had escaped to the street in their night-clothes, the mother suddenly discovered that her twins had been left in the burning house. Although efforts were made to restrain her she rushed into the flames and succeeded in reaching an upper room where the babes were. This was the last seen of the woman, and when the firemen fought their way to the upper floor they found the mother and babes suffocated. The heroic woman had reached the bedside of her infants, but then she was overcome by smoke, and the three died together. The dwelling was completely gutted.

Mexico's Ultimatum.

President Diaz will give out soon what is expected to be Mexico's final ultimatum in the dispute with Guatemala. If current rumors and state and public feeling are to be believed, it will be a declaration of war. It is stated upon what is believed to be good authority, that the Mexican Cabinet will not deviate from its original policy. The sentiment of the people seems to be strongly against any receding by Mexico from the original contention.

It is rumored that Guatemala will not recede or accept Mexico's demand. The sentiment among the American colony seems to be unanimously in favor of President Diaz's course.

Guatemala now has 13,700 troops on the frontier, and 5,000 more have started from Guatemala City.

A report is current, but of course not substantiated, that the Rothschilds have agreed to loan the reported Central American Federation £1,000,000.

Lucky Workmen.

The fifth annual distribution of the proceeds of the profit-sharing system that prevails at Congressman C. G. Conn's band-instrument factory in Elkhart, Ind., took place at Bucklen Opera House recently, in the presence of a crowded house, composed of the leading people of that region. Twenty-five thousand dollars was divided among about 100 men, the sums ranging from $60 to $2,000 each, depending upon the length of time the person has been employed in the establishment, his general character, application and skill. This year's distribution is the largest of any, the amounts having heretofore run from $3,000 to $14,000. The institution, in addition, pays the largest wages of any concern in Northern Indiana. An appropriate program, consisting of a dramatic entertainment, music, addresses, etc., was carried out at the opera house.

Business Looks Better.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says:

"Things look better near the close this week because it is believed that a new loan will be negotiated. There was need for relief, since January closed with the heaviest withdrawals of gold from the treasury—$43,468,108—the hope of a new loan being the one thing which has lifted prices during the past few days. January leaves behind it the lowest average of prices for all commodities ever known; for cotton, iron and its products, wool and silver, the lowest monthly average ever known; and for wheat, a range above the minimum, but yet declining rapidly toward that point. Industrial operations have not materially diminished, though it has been a disappointing month because the general revival expected has not come."

Ex-Queen Liliuokalani Arrested.

Advices received from Honolulu announce that ex-Queen Liliuokalani has been arrested on the charge of complicity with the insurgents in the recent rebellion. In addition all the insurgent leaders have been taken into custody, and are being tried by Court-martial.

Shortly after Queen Liliuokalani was arrested her house was searched, and in it were stores of arms and dynamite bombs. The arrests referred to have resulted in the restoration of order in Hawaii.

Later advices, say that quite a large quantity of arms, imported for the use of the rebels, have been seized, in addition to those found in the house of the ex-Queen.

A Favored Nation.

The State Department has been informed by United States Minister Taylor, at Madrid, that the Spanish Senate has passed a modus vivendi placing the United States again in the most favored nation column as to duties on imports into Cuba and Porto Rico. The bill only remains to be signed by the Queen, but it is believed that two days will suffice for the completion of all formalities, and that the United States will be given the advantage of the old rates immediately. This restores the customs rates under which the United States had formerly a large trade in flour, breadstuffs, lard and other products with Cuba and Porto Rico.

A Heavy Smashup.

One of the heaviest freight wrecks on the middle division of the Big Four occurred at DeGraff, Ohio. Double-header No. 72 had been switching, and was just pulling out on the main track, when a fast stock train came round the curve at a twenty-five-mile rate on a heavy down grade. A flagman had been sent back from the front train, but the conditions were against saving a smashup. The engineer and fireman jumped for their lives, and escaped with slight bruises. A caboose and seven empty cars were broken into kindling, and the engine was badly disabled.

Will Take Wheat for Macaroni.

United States Commercial Agent Huntington, at Castellaminari, Italy, in a report to the State Department, suggests that United States grain growers might secure a market for nearly four million bushels of wheat per annum, which is the amount of foreign wheat used in Italy in making macaroni, if some provision were made for the entry into the United States at a reduced duty of Italian macaroni made from American wheat. The Italian government already allows a full drawback of the duty on foreign wheat milled and exported from Italy.

China Buys More Guns.

A dispatch from Berlin says: It is reported here that China has bought guns and war material to the value of 6,000,000 marks from Herr Krupp. A portion of the purchase is already aboard two steamers and the remainder will shortly be loaded. The crews of the steamers who will convey this material to China will receive treble wages on account of the danger.

Gen. Fung is going to march from Kwang Tung with 5,000 troops to assist Viceroy Chang in the defense of Nanking. Gen. Fung was one of the Chinese officers who fought in Annam against the French.

A Mother's Agony.

At Jeffersonville, Ind., the residence of Richard Louis was destroyed by fire, entailing a total loss of the property. At the time of the fire Mrs. Louis was visiting a neighbor, some distance away. She knew nothing of her house being in flames until she started for home, when the terrible thought flashed through her brain that she had left her four-months-old babe in the house alone. On reaching the building she was unable to effect an entrance and was compelled, in the most bitter agony, to allow her infant child to burn to death.

Suit Against Bondsmen.

Lafayette (Ind.) Special: The State of South Dakota in the Superior Court here began suit against the bondsmen of W. W. Taylor, defaulting Treasurer of that State. The amount demanded is $350,000. The complaint alleges that Taylor failed to turn over to his successor the amount of $367,023.84. All of the bondsmen are named in the complaint, but only one, William Taylor, father of W. W. Taylor, resides here, and he is on the bond for $30,000.

Terrible Suicide of a Lunatic.

Filmore Grisby, a leading Trigg County, Kentucky, farmer, suicided in a field near his home at Cadiz by stabbing himself three or four times in the throat with a dull, old barlow knife. He is supposed to have been temporarily insane. The wound was a most horrible one, and the blood on his fingers showed that after becoming too weak to use the knife he tore the flesh from his throat. He was a single man, about thirty-three years old.

Train Held Up.

Phœnix (Ariz.) special: Southern Pacific west-bound train, No. 20, was held up six miles this side of Wilcox, by a party of masked men. They separated the express car from the train, hauled it five miles west, and, putting six shots of dynamite on the through safe, blew it open. It contained $10,000 in Mexican silver, which was removed. The trail of the robbers is marked by the profuse scattering in the Sulphur Springs valley of the Mexican dollars.

Found Frozen.

The body of Henry H. Rolling, an old soldier, was found in a fence corner a mile southeast of Marion, Ind. He had no doubt been laying there for several days, as his body was frozen stiff. A gold watch, $36 in money and some pension papers were found on his person. He was discharged from the Home last March, and had not been heard from until his body was found. The belief is that he was frozen to death.

Put an End to Her Life.

At Niles, Ohio, Mrs. Ludwig Sahm, wife of a prominent citizen and mother of a 5-months-old baby, shot herself in the right temple and died before a physician arrived. She was 25 years old and had been married a year and a half. Ill health is supposed to have prompted her. Her husband had just gone to his work when she laid the baby on a sofa and fired the fatal shot while in front of a looking-glass.

Big Damages Asked.

Mr. and Mrs. Christian Meyer and Mrs. Mary Walters, all of Alexandria, Ind., have filed damage suits in the Circuit Court against the Alexandria Mining and Exploring Company. Mr. and Mrs. Meyer claim $15,000 damages each, Mrs. Walters placing her damages at $25,000. The three cases, which aggregate $55,000, grow out of a natural-gas explosion in Alexandria on the 12th day of September.

Two Children Disfigured for Life.

Two children, aged 4 and 6, of Samuel Branson of Shelbyville, Ind., in the absence of the family secured his powder flask and threw it into the stove. The explosion was heard, and when Mrs. Branson went into the room both children were lying on the floor almost dead. The stove had been blown to pieces, and some of the fragments left marks which will disfigure them for life.

Three Hundred and Three Lost.

All reports received confirm the statement from Bremen that the steamship Elbe, which went down in a collision, carried 149 officers and sailors, fifty cabin passengers and 125 steerage passengers, or 324 in all. There are twenty-one survivors. The lost, therefore, number 303.

Baby Smothered.

At Cynthiana, Ky., the other night, when Rev. and Mrs. Thomas Slade returned home from prayer meeting, they found their 2-months-old baby smothered. The night was very cold and they had wrapped the babe too closely. The mother is almost crazed with grief.

Has Money to Burn.

At Green Bay, Wis., Dr. B. A. McChesney, a young society man, gave a stag and progressive cinch party on a lavish scale. Henry Rahr, a wealthy brewer, the winner of the first prize, received a deed of 120 acres of land valued at $5,000.

Broke Her Hip Joint.

Mrs. Elizabeth Beyers, a prominent old lady of New Philadelphia, Ohio, 76 years of age, while on her way to visit a neighbor, slipped on the doorstep and fell, breaking her hip joint. Her recovery is impossible.

A Demon's Deed.

At Wilkesbarre, Penn., because his two-year-old son would not stop crying Alexander Vankarlage dashed its brains out on a hot stove. The murderer has not yet been arrested.

A Fatal Explosion.

One man was blown to death and five seriously hurt at the Westinghouse Electric works at Brinton, Pa., by the explosion of gas in a barrel that held wood alcohol.

Saved His Family.

Lewis Nixon of New Corner, Ind., saved his family from cremation by carrying them out of his burning house in their night clothes. Nothing was saved.

Brakeman Killed.

Edward Rogers, a Baltimore and Ohio brakeman, was caught between an engine and car in the yards at Newark, Ohio, and was instantly killed.

THE MARKETS.

Chicago—Cattle, common to prime, $3.75@6.00; hogs, shipping grades, $3.00@4.50; sheep, fair to choice, $2.00@4.50; wheat, No. 2 red, 50@51c; corn, No. 2, 41@42c; oats, No. 2, 28@28½c; rye, No. 2, 51@52c; butter, choice creamery, 23@23½c; eggs, fresh, 24@25c; potatoes, car lots, per bushel, 60@75c.

Indianapolis—Cattle, shipping, $3@5.50; hogs, choice light, $3@4.50; sheep, common to prime, $2@4; wheat, No. 2 red, 52@52½c; corn, No. 1 white, 40@41c; No. 2 white, 32½@33½c.

St. Louis—Cattle, $3@5.75; hogs, $3@4.50; wheat, No. 2 red, 49½@50½c; corn, No. 2, 38@39c; oats, No. 2, 29@30c; rye, No. 2, 52@53c.

Cincinnati—Cattle, $3.50@5.50; hogs, $3.50@4.75; sheep, $1.50@4; wheat, No. 2, 53@53½c; corn, No. 2 mixed, 41@42c; oats, No. 2 mixed, 31@32c; rye, No. 2, 51@53c.

Detroit—Cattle, $2.50@5.50; hogs, $4@4.50; sheep, $2@3.25; wheat, No. 1 white, 54@54¼c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 41@42c; oats, No. 2 white, 33@33½c; rye, No. 2, 52@53c.

Toledo—Wheat, No. 2 red, 52@52½c; corn, No. 2 mixed, 41@41½c; oats, No. 2 white, 32@32½c; rye, No. 2, 52@53c.

Buffalo—Cattle, $2.50@5.50; hogs, $3@4.75; sheep, $2@4.25; wheat, No. 2 red, 57@57½c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 46@46½c; oats, No. 2 white, 35@35½c.

Milwaukee—Wheat, No. 2 spring, 50@51c; corn, No. 2, 43½@44½c; oats, No. 2 white, 31@32c; barley, No. 2, 53@56c; rye, No. 1, 52@53c; pork, mess, 9.25@9.75.

New York—Cattle, $3@5.75; hogs, $3.50@5; sheep, $2@4.50; wheat, No. 2 red, 58@59c; corn, No. 2, 47@48c; oats, white Western, 37@41c; butter, creamery, 16@25c; eggs, Western, 25½@26½c.

ELBE LOST AT SEA

Four Hundred People Perish Miserably.

ONLY TWENTY SAVED.

Cut Down by the British Steamer Crathie.

Awful Panic Ensues—The Ill-Fated Boat Sinks a Few Moments After the Crash—Passengers Caught in a Trap by the Inrush of Water—The North Sea the Place, Early Wednesday Morning the Time, of One of the Most Frightful of Maritime Disasters.

The North German Lloyd steamer Elbe, Capt. von Gossel, from Bremen Wednesday for New York via Southampton, was sunk in collision with the British steamer Crathie, bound from Rotterdam for Aberdeen. There were about 400 persons on the Elbe, 240 of whom were passengers, 160 officers and crew and a number of the cattlemen who were returning to the United States. Twenty-two survivors of the wreck have been landed, and a few others may still be afloat in a lifeboat. All the others were lost. The disaster occurred before daylight Wednesday morning at a point some thirty miles from the Hook of Holland.

The Elbe was steaming at her usual rate of speed and keeping the ordinary lookouts. The night was dark, but there was no gale. Suddenly the forward lookout on the Elbe reported that the lights of a steamer were close aboard over the port bow. Before the course of the Elbe could be changed the approaching steamer struck her just abaft the engine-room, going through her plates as though they were pasteboard and sticking her nose almost completely through the hull of the Elbe. For a time the Crathie held the Elbe on her nose, but then her engines were reversed, and she backed out of the aperture she had made. As she did so the water rushed into the Elbe in a torrent and she began immediately to settle.

The officer in charge at once saw that she was doomed, and gave orders to clear away the lifeboats. Three of the boats were lowered, but one of them capsized, and it is thought that all occupants were drowned.

No Chance for Saloon Passengers.

As soon as the Crathie backed away the inrushing water flooded the aft of the engine-room so quickly that nobody below decks on that part of the ship had an opportunity to escape. The shock of the collision was comparatively slight in view of the damage done, but this is explained by the fact that it was a direct, cutting blow.

Nearly all the passengers were asleep at the time, but many of them were awakened by the shock, slight as it was. They could hear the rush of the rapid inflowing water, and with cries of terror sought to make their way to the upper deck. The steamer being loaded by the stern, water naturally rushed aft, and this allowed many of the passengers forward to reach the deck.

In the case of the saloon passengers, however, the result was fatal. As they rushed from their staterooms into the saloon they were met by the torrent, against which it was impossible for them to make headway. They were caught up and swept aft toward the cockpit, where they were probably drowned before the ship foundered.

Altogether about fifty of the passengers reached the deck, where the wildest confusion existed. Wild rushes were made for the boats, but the terrible excitement prevailing impeded the efforts of those who were trying to clear them away. Many heartrending scenes were witnessed between parents and children in the few moments preceding the sinking of the vessel.

Meanwhile the cry was raised on the doomed vessel for the women and children to go over to the other side of the steamer, away from the port side, in which was the great gaping hole caused by the Crathie. The half fainting women and terror-stricken children hurried to the starboard side, but they had scarcely reached the boats when the huge vessel lifted her bows high in the air, and then slowly and silently sank, stern foremost, beneath the waves, taking with her her human freight.

Barely twenty minutes elapsed between the collision and the sinking of the steamer. A heavy sea was running and the wind, which was from the east southeast, was bitterly cold. It is said the Crathie looked only to her own safety, and steamed to Maas Louis, Holland, in only slightly damaged condition.

Sufferings of Survivors.

The small boat containing the survivors tossed about until 11 o'clock in the morning. Several vessels were sighted in the meantime, but they made no reply to the signals that were set for them. The survivors were nearly frozen, having hardly any clothing, and their suffering was intense.

Eventually the fishing smack Wild Flower saw the signals and bore down on the boat. In a short time the survivors were taken aboard of her, where everything possible was done for their comfort.

There being a difference of opinion as to the number of boats that were launched, the agent of the company employed a steamer to proceed from Lowestoft to the scene of the wreck and search for any of the survivors that may be afloat. The German vice consul purchased a quantity of clothing for the survivors and did everything in his power to relieve their distress. The rescued are now at the sailors' home at Lowestoft and the Suffolk Hotel at that place.

Passengers Were Panic-Stricken.

The account of the disaster published by the London Daily Graphic says that the officers of the Elbe were unable to calm the excited steerage passengers after the collision. It is known that three boats were launched. One of them was swamped before anybody entered it. The other two boats got away, each containing about twenty persons.

Anna Boecker, a passenger from Southampton, laid in the bottom of the boat which rescued her, partly immersed by water for five hours. Not a complaint was made by her.

It may be pointed out that sometimes intending passengers from Hamburg or Bremen do not wait for the departure of the German steamers from those ports, but come to England and take passage aboard of them at Southampton. It may be that some of those who intended to travel by the Elbe did this. If they did they of course escaped the disaster. Every effort is being made to ascertain whether this course was followed by any of the persons who proposed going to New York on the Elbe.

Description of the Ill-Fated Elbe.

The North German Lloyd steamship Elbe was built in Glasgow in 1881 and has been running since its construction in the regular North German Lloyd service between New York and Bremen by way of Southampton, although it was for a time in the North German Lloyd service between New York and the Mediterranean. The Elbe was a first-class steamship of over 4,500 gross tonnage; it was commanded by Capt. von Goessel and had a full and efficient crew aboard. The steamship had accommodation for 120 first-class cabin passengers, 130 second cabin passengers, and 900 steerage passengers. The vessel was built by the Fairfields and was considered a stanch and good sea boat. It was four masted, had 5,600 indicated horse-power, which gave it a speed of from 16½ to 17 knots an hour, and it had two smokestacks. Its waterline length was 418 feet, its beam was forty-four feet, and the depth of its hold was thirty-six feet five inches.

NORTH GERMAN LLOYD STEAMSHIP ELBE.

SCENE OF THE DISASTER.

*Where the Elbe, on her way from Bremen to Southampton, was struck by the Crathie, from Rotterdam for Aberdeen.

Lowestoft—Fishing port where the survivors were landed.

MUST FIGHT THEM ALL.

Mexico Finds the Central American States Are United Against Her.

A telegram from Guatemala verifies the rumors that the confederation of the Central American republics has been formed. Minister Aries of Honduras, Minister Gomez of Nicaragua, and Estupinas of GEN. JOSE M. REYNA BARRIOS.

San Salvador have individually offered the co-operation of their countries to Guatemala. In the event of war with Mexico, Central America will stand united to repel any invasion from Mexico. The Costa Rica Minister arrived soon after the meeting with President Barrios of Guatemala, and is of the same mind as the others of the Central American republics. The war cloud hangs heavy over Mexico to-day. It looks as though Mexico has no recourse left but to declare war against the federation of Central America.

Gen. Barrios, President of the Republic of Guatemala, is about 42 years of age. He assisted, when but 18 years of age, in the revolution that founded the liberal principles in Guatemala. Since then he has been closely identified with the history of the country, and in 1892 was made its President. During his term of office the city of Guatemala has been connected with the Pacific Ocean by railway. The outcome of the trouble between his country and Mexico is being anxiously awaited.

Schools in Mexico.

Some recent statistics of Mexico show that there are 7,200 schools within the republic. The land of Mexico is held in feudal tenure by about 7,000 families. Patents are issued to all who ask for them and the Government leaves the question of priority to be fought out in the courts.

The winter days in Sweden are only six hours long. In the northern part of the peninsula the sun does not rise once in two months. This is made up for, however, by the sunny summer. In the north the sun does not set for weeks and weeks, an endless day. The most glorious sight of all the northland is the midnight sun.

Dickens affirms that "all good ends can be worked out by good means. Those that cannot are bad; and may be considered so at once and left alone."

HOOSIER HAPPENINGS

NEWS OF THE WEEK CONCISELY CONDENSED.

What Our Neighbors are Doing—Matters of General and Local Interest—Marriages and Deaths—Accidents and Crimes—Personal Pointers About Indianians.

Minor State News.

HENRY CUPPY, 81, the first Treasurer of Jay County, is dead at Laurel.

CHICKEN-POX is afflicting Mishawaka youngsters.

AN immense tin-plate factory will be located at Converse.

ANDERSON has secured a barbed-wire plant and a plow factory.

JOLL C. LYM and Frank Dew broke jail at Shoals, and are still at large.

THE White River iron and steel company of Muncie, has resumed operations.

THERE are seven skunk farms within a radius of seven miles from Chesterton.

JOEL J. CASH of Boone County, was probably fatally injured in a runaway accident.

THE Bristol Banner says many acres will be planted in fruit in that vicinity next spring.

LAWRENCE county commissioners have contracted for the construction of five new iron bridges.

THE Jeffersonville Law and Order League has caused the saloons to remain closed on Sundays.

THE price of bread has been placed at three loves for 5 cents at Crawfordsville, or sixty loaves for a dollar.

SCOTTSBURG merchants have agreed to stop handling cigerettes as soon as the stock on hand is disposed of.

THE Jackson Mining Company, Brazil, has been forced to close their mines on account of the big reductions in coal.

THE east-bound passenger train on the Evansville and Richmond road, was ditched near Seymour, causing a delay of about ten hours.

CAPT. BRANDT, an eccentric character of Crothersville, took strychnine, which he mistook for pulverized alum, and died an hour later.

A CHURCH in Lafayette has appointed a committee of three nurses to take care of all babies brought there while the mothers sit in the audience and enjoy the sermon.

SUCCESSFUL revival meetings are in progress at the Greensburg Methodist churches in which the regular pastors have been assisted by Rev. Appleby of Indianapolis.

BURT ANDERSON, who lost his job at Anderson when the wire works shut down, walked to his home in Jeffersonville, and his feet were so badly frozen that he is now in the hospital.

J. BARNEY WERMES was killed by a train while walking on the Pan Handle tracks near Logansport. His ears were protected by a muffler which prevented him from hearing the train.

REV. NICHOLAS PITTINGER of Delaware County, had his purse, containing 50 cents, stolen eighteen years ago, and last week a neighbor confessed to the deed and returned the 50 cents, with $1.50 interest.

AT Muncie, Company G, Forth Regiment which recently disbanded, has been reorganized. William Wagner, has been elected captain. The merchants and business men of the city are pushing the organization.

BUD ARMSTRONG, was killed while in the woods, near Kokomo, cutting trees. A large limb fell and crushed him to death. The victim's father, Lanta Armstrong, standing by, was warned away in time by the son, but the latter, in his efforts to save his father, was himself killed.

AN encounter occurred on the streets of Bloomington, the other day, between Company H of the State Militia and students of the State University. The militia boys were angry because several students paraded the streets wearing badges on which was printed: "Class '96, Indianapolis, Indiana University." There is bitter feeling between the towns people and the students, who want the college transferred to the capital city.

PRESIDENT Eli Halderman, of the Marion street railway, boarded a street car the other day. The new conductor did not know him and demanded his fare. Mr. Halderman told him he was broke. The conductor demanded his fare or said he would have to put him off. The president of the road did not produce the five cents, and he was put off. The conductor turned 40 colors when told who the man was but he still holds his job.

THE Board of Public Works of Indianapalis, composed of James A. Wildman and Andrew F. Cramer, Republicans, and F. J. Meyer, Democrat, have tendered their resignations to Mayor Denny in a body. The retirement of the Board is the result of an investigation orderd some weeks ago by the Council, and which has been in progress up to within a few days ago. Mayor Denny states that he is convinced that the Board is honest, but the resignations will be accepted.

A FATAL railway accident occurred at North Judson, on the Indiana, Illinois & Iowa railway. The through freight train westbound was taking coal, when the second section ran into the first. In an attempt to escape conductor William Vincent was crushed to death between the caboose and the car ahead. Brakemen Pangburn jumped into a pile of ties and received a severe rupture, besides several minor external bruises. Coal heaver John Lain was thrown from the top of the cab of the engine and was badly scarred up. He will recover, as will also the brakeman.

THE Ministerial Association of Logansport has considered resolutions of the local lodge of Good Templars, requesting the preachers of the city to call a mass meeting to devise means of assisting the local authorities in suppressing lawlessness. The ministers decided to decline to call such a meeting and adopted a lengthy paper giving their reasons. They decline to reflect on the officials of the city, who they consider desirous of enforcing the laws. The association cannot assume civic responsibilities of any kind, but the preachers as individuals announce their willingness to aid in any movement for the public good and to use their pulpits for this purpose.

TWO STRANGE men entered the house of John Hellenburg, residing near Todd Postoffice, Jackson County, and when Mr. Hellenburg arose the burglars began firing at him, shooting him through the breast. His wife and two sons, with a corn knife, joined in the fight and the robbers were driven off, leaving the floor covered with blood. The skull of one of the sons was fractured and one of the robbers was seriously cut with the corn knife. It is not known just how seriously the wounds are. Mr. Hellenburg had just received a check for $500 to pay on some land. It is supposed this was known by the parties. There is no clue to the would-be murderers.

SWINDLERS have been reaping a harvest from Wayne County people by selling them a cheap grape-vine root, representing them to be California importations.

PATENTS have been granted to the following Indianians: Charles Anderson, South Bend, side-hill plow; Brenton Wiley, Carlisle, straw stacker attachment; Brazelton T. Brown, Indianapolis, grain binder; Joseph E. Ernest, Frankton, slate cutter and Trimmer; Frank C. Ferguson, Indianapolis, intra uterine stem; Joseph F. Gent, Columbus, machine for extracting germs from ground cereals; Charles H. Little, Terre Haute, latch; Levi S. Pierson, Indianapolis, fireproof floor or ceiling; Fillmore M. Welshimer, Columbia City, sheep dipping device.

INDIANA LEGISLATURE.

THE roll call in the House, Monday, showed sixty-one members present—six short of a quorum. Representative Merritt said that news had come to members of the House of the death of J. D. Thayer of Warsaw, a member of the Senate, and he asked permission to introduce the following resolution, which was adopted by a rising vote:

Whereas, Death has removed from our midst one of the distinguished members of the General Assembly in the person of the Hon. J. D. Thayer, a member of the Senate, who departed this life at his home at 6 o'clock this morning; be it Resolved, That a committee of five members of the House be appointed by the Speaker to prepare suitable resolutions respecting the death of Hon. J. D. Thayer, and report the same to this House, and that the same be made a special order for next Monday at 2 o'clock.

As a further mark of respect Representative Merritt moved that the House adjourn, and the motion was adopted.

The Senate convened, but out of respect of Senator Thayer, adjourned until morning.

A concurrent resolution was adopted in the House Tuesday, for the appointment of a special committee to investigate the offices of the Attorney General and the State Treasurer. The democrats endeavored to amend it so as to carry the inquiry back to the republican officials, but the majority voted it down. Under the resolution the committee is empowered to employ two expert accountants and to go through all the books and papers of the two offices for four years back and administer oaths and compel answers to questions regarding all matters in connection with such offices.

The investigation is to be completed and reports made to the two house not later than Feb. 15.

The most important bills that found their way into the senate related to labor and were introduced as distinctive labor measures The first bill is aimed at the relief fund system of the Pennsylvania and Baltimore and Ohio Railroad systems, and at the hospital system which is to be established by the Big Four. The bill provides that it shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation doing business in this state to hold back any part of the wages of employes under pretense of investing the same or of establishing any fund for the relief or maintenance of such employes; or under pretense of assisting, relieving or maintaining such employes when sick or disabled, that all such withholding and diverting of the wages of employes shall be adjudged by the courts as unlawful and contrary to public policy, and all violations of the statute shall be punished by a fine not to exceed $200 and imprisonment in the country jail not to exceed six mounths, or both, in the discretion of the court.

The second measure relates to blacklisting and provides that when an employe is discharged by an employer the latter, upon demand, shall give him a written statement showing for what charge he was discharge. If this is refused and the employer after attempts to interfere with the employe getting work elsewhere he shall be fined not exceeding $500.

THE Senate devoted nearly all of Wednesday to consineration of Senator Haggard's bill appropriating $100,000 for the erection of a Soldiers' Home at Lafayette. The bill was amended in several unimportant particulars, and was ordered to engrossment. The following bills were passed: Raising the salary of the Criminal Judge of Marion County to $4,000; permitting a homestead exemption of $600, and $50 of personal property; exempting from taxation cemeteries that are not run for profit; relating to the vacating of abandoned highways.

The House passed the following bills: Legalizing an issue of Court House bonds by the Commissioners of Blackford County; enabling trustees to receive lands and donations for the use of churches and religious societies; defining fraudulent marriages and providing penalties; striking out the 80 per cent. clause in insurance policies.

The Senate, Thursday, killed the bill to strike out of promissory notes and make illegal the clause providing for the collection of attorneys' fees.

Among the new bills introduced was one providing a fine of from $50 to $500 for any hospital who refuse to give a body for dissection purposes as provided by law; a bill providing a fine of from $50 to $500 for any person who sells or offers to sell adulterated milk, cheese, or butter.

The Committee on Judiciary reported Senator Shiveley's libel bill and recommended its passage. It provides that a person aggrieved at a newspaper must give three days' notice before filing a suit for damages for libel. If suitable retraction is made it is provided that the plaintiff may recover only for the damages actually sustained.

It was a dull day in the House as will as in the Senate. The bill providing for the office of State Boiler Inspector held the boards for an hour. The bill was finally made the special order for Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock.

The House passed Hundley's bill providing for the abolition of the office of Natural Gas Inspector, and also a bill requiring the trimming once a year of hedges down to a height of three feet.

Representative Robinson introduced a bill in the House, Friday, that is designed to meet the recommendation embodied in the Governor's message, to the effect that the Governor be invested with authority to deal with offenses where the local authorities are negligent or where they flatly refuse to discharge their duties.

Representative Terhune introduced a bill to take from the State Geologist the appointment of Mine Inspector and Coal-oil Inspector, and place the appointing of these officials with a Board to be composed of the Governor, Secretary of State, Auditor of State, and Attorney General.

Other bills introduced are: Providing that a first case of intoxication shall be punished by a fine of $5, the second $25, the third $100 and a jail sentence; after that the offender shall be known as a common drunkard, and it shall be a finable offense to sell him liquor; making it competent for nine out of twelve jurors to render a verdict.

The Senate held a half hour's session and then adjourned over until Monday. The business transacted was limited to the introduction of bills.

A Brave Man.

Day—Marc Anthony was a brave man to address the mob as "friends, Romans, countrymen."

Weeks—Why so?

Day—Pretty skittish business calling an angry mob "countrymen."—Exchange.

A CONSIDERABLE number of Berlin doctors have started a "Warenhaus," or warehouse, for the supply of general merchandise as well as medical stores.

The Reason for High Hats.

Manager—Why do you wear such a high hat to the theater?

Lady—To match the price of seats.—Detroit Tribune.

Reasoning from Analogy.

Hanks—My baby is only 9 months old and can talk.

Panks—It must be a girl.—Detroit Free Press.

THE first time a man sees an advertisement is not usually the first time it has come before his eyes.

CHAPTER XII—Continued.

A week afterward, coming back from meeting the postman, which he always did, though few letters ever came, and never those which, his wife could see, he missed and looked for still, Roderick threw down before her a heap of notes.

"It never rains but it pours. Evidently, as old Black says, the 'hale countrie' has fallen in love with young Mrs. Jardine. Four invitations to dinner and one to a dance—extending over three weeks, and an area of fifteen square miles. To accept them would take half our quarterly income, in carriage hire, etc., and to refuse them, why, six Caleb Balderstones could scarcely accomplish that feat."

She read and laid the notes aside, with a rather sad face.

"You would like to go? Well, then, my darling, shall we don our purple and fine linen—we have a few rags of splendor left—and fare sumptuously at our neighbors' expense for four days? We can starve afterward for fourteen; I'm willing if you are."

"Roderick!"

"Else—we must get up some excuse—you must have a cough, and be unable to go out evenings."

"But I am able—they may see me at church every Sunday."

"Most literal of women! Of course it is a 'big lee'—as Black would call it. But any lie will do; the bigger the better, since we can not possibly tell the truth."

"Why not?"

The question was so direct and simple, yet so perfectly natural, that it staggered him. He laughed, though not very mirthfuly, and made no reply.

"Why not tell the truth?" Silence repeated. "It would be much the easiest way. Why not say to everybody, what everybody must know, or will soon, that we are not rich enough to keep a carriage or give entertainments, but that we appreciate our neighbors' kindliness, and will be glad to meet them whenever chance allows. Shall I write and say this? Nobody could be offended, for it is just the simple truth. And surely the truth is better than even the whitest of lies."

He had lived beside her and with her for a whole year now—this woman, so different from all other women he had ever known; and yet he seemed always to be finding out something new in her—some divine simplicity which made all his worldly wisdom useless; some innocent courage which put even his manliness to shame. But he was too truly manly not to own this.

"My darling," he said, not laughing now, "I did not propose to tell a lie—not seriously. But the truth must be hid sometimes, when it is an unpleasant and humiliating truth. Come, then, shall we make a great effort, and appear at all these fine houses en grande tenue, and in a carriage and pair (Black's, perhaps, borrowed for the occasion), and 'make believe,' as children say, that we are rich people?"

"Would not that be acting a lie, which comes to the same thing as telling it? Did not your father once say so? And you once told me that if"—she paused a moment—"if you had boys you would teach them exactly as your father taught you, that either to tell or act a lie was absolutely impossible to a gentleman and a Jardine!"

"You little Jesuit!"

"Don't call me that!" and her eyes filled with the quick tears, which, however, she rarely allowed to fall—she was not a "crying" woman. "I cannot argue. I can only feel and think. Dearest, I sit and think a great deal—more than in all my life before. I ought, you know——"

Her head dropped and a sudden flush came over the sweet young face, firm through all its sweetness, much firmer than even a little while ago. Her brief eight months of married life had made a woman of her. And there were the long lonely hours—alone, yet not alone—when a wife ever so young, cannot choose but sit thinking of what God is going to give her; of the mingled joy and fear, and solemn responsibility, stretching out into far generations. Well, indeed, may she say, even as the holy woman of whom it is recorded, "Behold the handmaid of the Lord, be it unto me according to thy word."

Something of this—expressing what she never said—was written in Silence's face. Her husband could not quite understand it—no man could; but he saw the soft, tired look—tired, but not weak—there was nothing weak about her; and he put his arm around her very tenderly.

"My darling, speak; you know I will always listen to you, even though I may differ from you. No two people can always think alike. But I want a wife, a counselor; I did not want a slave."

She laughed; still she paused a little before answering. It was hard to go against him—hard to put into plain, ugly words the fact that she, a wife, dared to think her husband wrong. Dear as he was to her—this passionately loved Roderick—there was something in the other love, dimly dawning, growing daily into a mysterious yet most absolute reality, which made her at once clear-sighted and brave, with the courage that all women ought to have when they think of themselves, not as themselves, but as the mothers of the men that are to be.

"Roderick"—he was startled by the sweet solemnity of her tone—"this seems a smaller thing than it is. Whether we accept these invitations or not, matters little; but it does matter a great deal whether we begin our married life with truth or untruth; whether we meet the world with an utterly false face, or else a sullen face, rejecting all its kindness. Why not with a perfectly honest face, saying openly, 'We are poor, we know it, and it is not pleasant; but it no disgrace; we are neither afraid nor ashamed?'"

"That might be all very well in Utopia; but here? Did you ever know anybody who did it?"

"Yes; my father and mother did it. Yours——"

Roderick hesitated. "Perhaps my father might, only——"

They were both silent.

"Think, dearest," she continued; "it is a question not merely for to-day or to-morrow, but for all our lives."

"God forbid!"

The hasty mutter, the gloomy look—they went to his wife's heart, and he could see they did; but still she never shrunk.

"I, too, say 'God forbid!' for I know even better than you do how hard poverty is. Oh, my Roderick! when I think of what I have cost you"—her voice faltered—"of all you have lost through me!"

"Lost—and gained."

"Yes, I will not lightly value myself, nor underrate the woman you chose, who you thought would make you happy. And I will make you happy, even if we are not rich."

"'The heart of her husband doth safely trust in her,'" said he, fondly. "But, come, this is nonsense, and quite beside the question. What is the question, by the bye? for I am getting rather confused, and"—looking at his watch—"I must be off to my work. Oh, what a comfort work is! Don't you perceive that I have been twice as happy, and therefore twice as good, since I was at the mill?"

She saw through the little loving ruse to save her pain; it made her feel doubly the pain she was giving—was obliged to give.

"You are always good"—taking his hand and kissing it—"and inexpressibly good to me, no matter how great a burden I am."

"The heaviest burden I ever had to carry, and the sweetest. But that is neither here nor there"—with a sudden change to seriousness, the serious, almost sad look that sometimes came over him, showing how the youth had changed into a man, the man into a husband—truly a husband—house-band, the stay and support of the house. "Dear, we have chosen our lot; we cannot alter it; we would not if we could. It is not all bright; I know that; but we must not make it darker than it is. We must not look back."

"No."

"And for the future——"

Then her strength seemed to come into her—strength born of a "further-looking hope" than even he could take in.

"It is of that future I think," she said. "We may be poor, as I said, all our lives. I hope not; but we may. Are we, and more than we, to make life one long struggle and deceit, by 'keeping up appearances,' or are we to face the worst, to appear exactly what we are, and trust the world to accept it as such? I believe it would—at least the good half of it. For the others, why need we care?"

Gently as she spoke, it was with a certain resoluteness, and the hand which clasped her husband's felt firm as steel.

"For me," she went on, laying her hand on his shoulder, and creeping close to him, "I am so proud, both for myself and you, that when these people invite me, I believe they really want me—me myself, and not my clothes or my carriage. And when they come and see me, I flatter myself it is really to visit me. And if I liked them, and felt them truly my friends, I would go and see them, and wish my husband to do the same, whether they were poor professors—like ours at Neuchatel or your English dukes and duchesses."

"Even if they said to us, as I have seen condescendingly affixed to church doors, 'Come in your working clothes;' for I am not even a professor; I am a working-man."

"Certainly; but something else as well. Look in the glass; you don't do it too often! could anybody mistake you for anything but a gentleman?"

Roderick laughed, coloring a little. "My dove, you are growing a veritable serpent. Mistress Eve, you tempt your Adam on man's weakest point—vanity."

"No, you are proud, not vain. Do not be afraid; I see all your faults clear as light."

"Thank you."

"As you mine, I hope; because then we can try and cure both. Dear, we are like two little children sent to school together. We may have many a hard lesson to learn; but we will learn them—together."

He was silent. As she had said, things were harder for him than for her. She recognized this fully. You could have seen by her face that her heart bled for him, as people call it—that cruel "bleeding inside," which natures like hers so well understand; but she did not compromise or yield one inch even to him, and he knew her well enough by this time to be quite certain she never would.

A weak man might have resented this, have taken refuge in that foolish "I have said it, and I'll stick to it," or keep up that obstinate assertion of masterdom which usually springs from an inward terror of slavery; but Roderick was prone to neither of these absurdities. He had that truest strength which never fears to yield, if there is a rational need for yielding.

"My wife," he said, at last, taking her hand and looking up with some gravity, but not a shadow of anger, "what do you wish me to do?"

"'Do richt and fear nocht,' as your motto—our motto—says. That is all."

"What is the right?"

"The simple truth. Say it and act it."

"How?"

"Let us tell our neighbors that we are not rich enough for what is called 'society,' but that we feel their kindness, and will accept it, whenever we can. Occasionally we will go and visit them—Symington, for instance, is quite within a walk; and when they visit us"—she smiled—"I hope I shall be able to give them a little hospitality, without need of a Caleb Balderstone."

"My darling!"

"Do not be afraid of me"—she kissed him with a slightly quivering lip. "I may be young and foolish, but I know how to keep my husband's dignity, and my own. Now, shall I write the notes, or you?"

"You," he said, and, plunging into a favorite book, referred to the matter no more.

At supper time she laid before him silently a little bundle of letters, which he read, and then looked up with the brightest smile.

"What a comfort is a wife who can get one out of a difficulty! You have the prettiest way of putting things—French grace added to Scotch honesty. How do you manage it?"

"I don't know. I just say what I feel; but I try to say it as pleasantly as I can. Why not?"

"Why not, indeed! Only so few do it." He looked at her, sitting at the head of his table—young, indeed, but with a sweet matronly dignity, added to her wonderful crystalline simplicity—looked at her with all his heart in his eyes. "People say that though a man's business success rests with himself, his social status depends upon his wife. I think, whether rich or poor, I may be quite sure of mine."

A glad light was in her eyes, but she made no answer, except just asking if the letters would do.

"Yes. But, little law-giver, I see you have accepted one invitation—the Symingtons'?"

"You do not object? You liked them? And they will have a house full of pleasant people for Christmas—Lady Symington told me so. It is not good for man to be alone—not even with his own wife, who is half himself, and therefore no variety. I cannot bear you to hide your light under a bushel."

"Always me—nothing but me."

"It is always you—it ought to be," she cried, with that rare passion less expressed than betrayed. "You think so little of yourself that it is right some one should think for you. Everybody will by-and-by."

"We shall see. Once I had ambitions for myself."

"And now I have ambitions for you. They can wait. We are young. We bide our time. Only we'll leave nothing undone. We'll watch the turn of the tide."

"And meanwhile we'll go to the Symingtons," said he, with a smile. "You see, I let you have your own way."

"So you ought, if you think it is the right way. And I may send off these notes? You agree?"

"Yes. But," half jesting, half earnest, "suppose I had not agreed, what then? There is a little word in our English marriage service—it was not in the Swiss one, I think—'love, honor, and obey.'"

"The two former imply the latter; but if an English wife does not love or honor, must she obey?"

"Would you obey?"

Silence paused a moment, and then answered softly, but very distinctly, "No. Neither God nor man could require it of me. One must both honor and love the man that one obeys, or obedience is impossible. If a wife sees her husband doing wrong she should try to prevent him; if he tells her to do wrong she should refuse, for God is higher than man, even though it be one's own husband. Roderick, you might 'cut me up in little pieces,' as the children say, but not even you could make me do what I felt I ought not to do, or hinder me from doing what I thought was right."

"My little rebel! No," snatching her to his bosom, "my little Conscience—the best conscience a man can have—a wife who is afraid of nothing and nobody; not even of himself."

"And are you not angry with me?"

"Angry—because you spoke your mind; even though I thought one thing and you another—as may happen many and many a time. My dearest, did I not tell you once I wanted a wife, not a slave? Time enough for you to turn slave when I turn tyrant. I may like to rule—most men do; and it is fair they should if they rule wisely, but I should despise myself if I attempted to tyrannize. Now, kiss me. Our discussion is over; our quarrel ended."

"Not a quarrel—only a difference of opinion."

"In which each holds his own till satisfactorily convinced to the contrary."

"Or till both see that there may be a wisdom beyond both theirs, which is perhaps the best lesson one learns in marriage. Except one—my husband!"

And for the second time she took and kissed his hand, not in humiliation of repentance—what had she to repent of?—but in that tender reverence, that entire trust without which obedience is a fiction and love an impossibility. Then, ceasing to talk, he put her on the sofa, with her work-table beside her, and threw himself on the hearth rug at her feet, to "improve his mind," he said, and hers—by reading aloud. But, as often happened now, he was so tired that all these laudable intentions failed. He laid his head against his wife's lap, and fell fast asleep with the book in his hand.

(To be continued.)

Her Subscription.

At the time of a passing rebellion in Ireland, known as Smith O'Brien's, the region where Frances Power Cobbe lived and worked among the poor was transformed, as she says, into a small Hecla; not under snow but mud. Clubs were used for the purpose of buying pikes, to be used whenever the leaders at Dublin should call for an insurrection. The result was as harmless as the bursting of a bubble, but meantime there had been real danger for all landed proprietors, whose downfall had been determined upon. One incident related by Miss Cobbe showed her innocent participation in the rebellion. She says:

I was visiting the fever patients at Balisk, and was detained in the village quite late one summer evening. So many were ill that it took a long time to supply them with food and all things necessary. At one house, where three persons were ill, I lingered, questioning and prescribing, until about nine o'clock. When I went away I left money to purchase the articles I had prescribed. Next morning my father said to me:

"So you were in Balisk last night?"

"Yes, I was kept there."

"You stayed in Tyrell's house until nine o'clock?"

"Yes; how do you know?"

"You gave six and sixpence to the mother to get provisions?"

"Yes; how do you know?"

"Well, very simply. The police were watching the door, and saw you through it. As soon as you were gone the club assembled there. They were waiting for your departure. The money you gave was subscribed to buy pikes; of course to pike me!"

What Life Gives.

Life gives to the individual precisely what he gives to life. Its divinest possibility is to offer place and power to work for some good outside one's range of immediate personal interests. Life is a fine art in itself and demands the artist. It offers him his material, and he can shape it as he will—according to his own beauty and dignity of ideal conception. Force can be plucked from the unknown, as electric power can be evolved from masses of water. The habit of concentration cannot be too strongly insisted upon. In the hour of concentration lies the opportunity to pluck Force that will be transmitted into courage, into patience, into faith, into divination. As particles of sound arrange themselves in harmony with a musical note, so all outer circumstances rearrange themselves in harmony and beauty if the right spiritual note be struck. The power to strike it aright is gained in the hour of silence and solitude, when one lifts up his heart to the divine. One does not find, but creates, his future. The coming day, the coming month, or year, is plastic to the impress of spiritual force. It can be stamped into beauty and loveliness that will precisely correspond with the beauty and loveliness of purpose or thought. Force—spiritual force—is the key to this diviner destiny which makes heaven here and now.—Lillian Whiting in Boston Budget.

The greater part of what we see when we look at Jupiter is probably a mass of more or less heated clouds, suspended around the hot core of the planet within—a cloud ball, 86,500 miles in diameter. Above Jupiter's equator the surface of those clouds is whirling along at the rate of more than 27,000 miles an hour, in consequence of the planet's rapid rotation on its axis.

When through with wash tubs or wooden pails, turn them bottom side up on the floor of the wood house or cellar, and set a can of fresh water under them to keep them from coming to pieces.

—Be not righteous overmuch, lest you use up the supply of a lifetime in a single season, and have not sufficient left to leaven the rest of your years.

Kate Field has been decorated by the French Government for her literary services.

RAISING SUGAR BEETS

GERMAN GROWERS ALARMED AT AMERICAN PROGRESS.

Farmers in This Country Have the Advantage of More Fertile Soil and Can Raise a Crop at One-third the Cost to Their Foreign Competitors.

German Merchants Angry.

European economists are alarmed at the prospect that the United States, the greatest sugar country in the world, and always relied upon to absorb the surplus European product, will at no distant date produce all of its own sugar. Frank Mason, United States Consul General at Frankfort, Germany, has submitted to the State Department a special report on American competition in sugar production, which is full of interesting statistics on the subject.

Among other things he shows that the crop of beet-sugar last year exceeded by 760,000 tons the product of the preceding year. The production of cane sugar has doubled in the past twenty years, while that of beet sugar has trebled. Careful examinations of the possibilities of beet-sugar production in the United States have been made by European correspondents who show that certain districts, notably California and some of the more Southerly and Westerly States, enjoy decided natural advantages over all the beet-producing countries of Europe.

Four elements enter into the competition, climate, cost and fertility of land, cost of labor and the effective ecomomy of the machinery and methods of cultivation and sugar manufacture. In all but one—cost of labor—the United States has the advantage. An English correspondent shows that whereas beet-growing in Germany, notwithstanding the cheapness of labor, costs on an average of $50.30 per acre; in California, in spite of high wages, the net cost does not exceed $17.50 per acre, a difference of $32.80 per acre in favor of the Pacific coast. Land is also cheaper, and the California farmer works a rich virgin soil, while his German rival is restricted to old, worn-out lands which must be sustained by the constant use of fertilizers.

These facts have, as Mr. Mason shows, awakened apprehension among European economists and sugar producers, and have greatly depressed the movement in England to plant beets instead of wheat.

A report has been received by Secretary Morton from United States Consul Morss in Paris showing the cost of a complete equipment for beet sugar mills of different capacities. The cost of a mill of a capacity of 16½ tons is shown to be $186,794; of 11 tons, $138,116, and of 5½ tons, of $94,600. The machinery upon which these estimates are made, says Consul Morss, is of the latest and most improved patterns, and the installations contemplated are first-class in every respect. The figures represent the cost of the material free on board cars in the station at Havre, and do not include the maritime transportation, assurance, etc., which remain at the charge of the consignee.

CRUMBLING TO RUINS.

Unless Repaired Lincoln's Splendid Column Will Fall.

The Lincoln Monument is about to fall down. This is the alarming condition in which a committee from the Illinois Legislature has just found it. The tomb of the great emancipator is suffering from neglect. Something must be done—and done with celerity—or the stately obelisk may be an irretrievable ruin. There is a widespread demand that the State of Illinois take charge of the monument, fix it up, and make it free to the world. That this will be done during the present session of the Legislature seems highly probable.

The money with which the Lincoln Monument was built came from all parts of the land. Lincoln was scarcely dead when the movement was started for the erection of a monument at his old home. The original cost of the Lincoln Monument was about $230,000. But its construction was faulty, and only a few years ago the State was called upon to expend several thousand dollars in making repairs. The interior structure is of brick. So inferior was the quality of brick used that a few years of time have crumbled them. Rain has stolen in between the slabs of granite and caused decay. The flat roof of the broad terrace leaks here and there. The monument association, which controls the monument, has found itself powerless to check the ruin of Lincoln's tomb. The custodian has always been permitted to collect 25 cents from visitors, but this is the custodian's compensation. Repeated attempts have been made to have the monument transferred to the State, but up to this time all negotiations to this end have failed. In the catacomb of the Lincoln Monument are the bodies of Abraham Lincoln, Mrs. Lincoln, two of their children and their only grandchild, Abraham Lincoln, son of Robert T. Lincoln. The monument is the Mecca of the patriots of the world.

THE LINCOLN MONUMENT.

ARMENIANS NOT GUILTLESS.

Press Correspondent Tells of Their Outrages Against the Turks.

A letter has been received in London from the special correspondent of the Associated Press, who was sent to Armenia from London to investigate the reported Armenian atrocities, and who at present is in Armenia. For reasons that will be readily understood, the name of this correspondent is withheld, but he is a newspaper man well known in America, and he was instructed to make an impartial investigation of the stories told of Turkish cruelty. He spent a week or more in Constantinople before starting for Armenia, during which time he investigated the reports current there and continued his journey. His first letter has just reached here, after having been posted by a trusted messenger at Tiflis, Russia. It contains the first authentic news from Armenia direct, and says:

"Whatever secrets may lie under the snow on the Armenian mountains, it seems beyond dispute from what I have heard from many lips, that the published stories of ferocious butchery and red horror in the Sassoun villages have at least a reasonable foundation of truth, and that any change authorized by further investigation will deal more with numbers than with the degree of horror. But no matter what light we throw upon the spasmodic wickedness of the Turk or upon the ingenious devilitry of the revolutionary conspirators, we find it is still the innocent that suffer most. The Turk declares the Armenians have inflicted shocking outrages upon Turkish men and women, and from what is already known of conspiracy methods it is quite likely the assertion is true. The facts are known at the embassies in Constantinople, and possibly they have been transmitted in reports to the various governments."

CAPT. KURT VON GOESSEL.

Kurt von Goessel, captain of the foundered North German Lloyd steamship Elbe, was born in Ratibor, Prussian Silesia, where his mother still lives. The Von Goessels are connected with many of the most aristocratic families in Germany. Captain von Goessel's only brother is a general in the German army, and under William I. was a member of the general staff.

Von Goessel ran away to sea when he was fifteen years old. He became an enthusiastic sailor, and eventually commanded a fine sailing ship. More than twenty years ago he passed the examinations required by the Lloyds and entered their service as a fourth officer. He took command of the Elbe about three years ago. For three years previous to that time he was captain of one of the company's vessels that went from Bremen to Singapore through the Suez Canal. Before that time he commanded a Lloyd boat that sailed from Bremen to Rio de Janeiro, and from that port to Baltimore.

Captain von Goessel's family consists of his wife and three children—a girl, 17 years old, and two sons, one 12, the other 3 years old. They live in Bremerhaven. They formerly lived in Hanover, but moved north to be nearer the captain when he was in port. The captain was 44 years old, fine looking, and stood six feet two inches in his stocking feet. He was broad shouldered, well built. He had bright, blue eyes and wore a flaxen beard. He was an economic as well as a popular captain, and time and again received premiums from his company for the economical administration of the affairs of his boat.

ATTACKS ANOTHER MINISTER.

Rev. Anna Shaw Uses Sharp Language About Dr. Hawthorne.

The sensation of Friday morning's session of the National Women's Suffrage convention at Atlanta was a sharp attack on Rev. Dr. J. B. Hawthorne, pastor of the First Baptist Church, by Rev. Dr. Anna Shaw, D. D., of Pittsburg. She arose to a question of personal privilege, holding in her hand a copy of a morning paper. "I desire," said she, "to call attention to an error in this paper in the statement that I referred to Mr. Hawthorne when I mentioned that some one had said women ought not to vote because they were not taxed. I did not refer to Mr. Hawthorne. If the newspaper report of Mr. Hawthorne's sermon was correct, it was ungentlemanly, uncalled-for, unmanly for him to go out of his way to attack a number of strangers. I did not answer Dr. Hawthorne. No lady will attempt to answer him. She can't descend to that plane." The remarks were greeted with wild applause. It would subside for a moment, only to break forth again at a fresh thrust.

At the afternoon session Miss Maura Clay, of Kentucky, a daughter of Gen. Cassius M. Clay, reported for the Southern committee that the movement was advancing in this section, though many difficulties had been met. In behalf of the committee on the plan of work, Mrs. Caroline Chapman Catt reported a recommendation for raising $5,000 for carrying on the work, and that special attention be given South Carolina, Utah and Tennessee, where constitutional conventions are soon to be held, and Idaho and Michigan, where female suffrage amendments will be submitted to the people. A course of study similar to the international Sunday school lessons was also recommended. A subscription was at once taken, and $2,000 of the $3,000 asked for raised.

Gen. Robert R. Hemphill, of South Carolina, ex-State Senator and present reading clerk of the Senate, was orator of the evening, speaking on woman's progress toward enfranchisement in the Palmetto State. Addresses were also delivered by Alice Stone Blackwell, on "Strongholds of Opposition;" Caroline E. Merrick, on "Woman as a Subject;" Elizabeth Lyle Saxon, on "Club Life Among Southern Women;" Rev. Anna Howard Shaw, on "The Home, the Taproot of the State," and Lillie Devereux Blake, on "Wife, Mother and Citizen."

REV. ANNA SHAW.

Dr. Anna Shaw has had a very successful career in the clerical profession. She is a woman of wide and deep culture, for when she was graduated by the Boston University some years ago she received diplomas not only from the theological department but also from the departments of law and medicine. She has filled the pulpit of several Massachusetts churches. Dr. Shaw is vice president of the National Woman Suffragists, and the talking champion of the association. With Kate Field she leads the ranks of American women orators.

There Was Crooked Dealing.

At the opening of the whisky trust litigation in the Federal court at Chicago Saturday morning it was Judge Grosscup's evident intention to learn whether there was any truth in the rumor that the receivers had not been acting in the interest of the property before going into the question of removal of the receivers. He called Receiver Greenhut to the stand and asked him if he dealt in any whisky trust stock Monday or Tuesday.

Greenhut said he bought between three and four thousand shares Tuesday, but did not sell. Receiver Lawrence said he neither bought nor sold. Attorney Levy Mayer began arguing on the motion to oust the receivers.

Mayer, in his argument, arraigned Greenhut and the directors of the trust as receiving large emoluments not only as directors but as managers of the trust distilleries and through their connection with the cooperage, coal and other companies doing business with the trust. Attorney Burry, for the receivers, presented affidavits from directors to the effect that the receivership was necessary and urging the retention of Greenhut because of his intimate knowledge of the company's affairs. After further argument the court took the matter under advisement.

QUEEN LIL ARRESTED.

Charged with Complicity in the Recent Rebellion—Dynamite Found.

Advices from Honolulu announce that ex-Queen Liliuokalani has been arrested, charged with complicity with the insurgents in the recent rebellion. In addition all the insurgent leaders have been captured and are being tried by court-martial. Three leaders pleaded guilty of treason, but martial law was maintained. The rebellion against the republic turned out a complete fiasco. After the first engagement the rebels scattered and some time later Wilcox, Molem, Buttlemen and others of the leaders of the insurrection were captured and are now on trial for treason by court-martial. Shortly after their capture the ex-queen was arrested and her house searched and stores of arms and dynamite bombs were found. Order in the islands was completely restored. In addition to the arms found in the queen's house a large quantity imported for the use of the rebels has been seized.

News of the arrest of ex-Queen Liliuokalani caused surprise at the State Department in Washington. The officials decline to discuss the matter. It is known, however, that they believe she is likely to forfeit all property and be exiled. There have been no suggestions that this Government interfere in her behalf. It is expected the queen's friends will make a diplomatic representation to Great Britain and the United States to secure her release.

LILIUOKALANI.

Notes of Current Events.

The men connected with Cotner University at Lincoln, Neb., who were accused of robbing a grave, were discharged.

Lewis Cooper, an electric lineman, was killed at Elwood, Ill., by the breaking of a spliced pole on which he was working.

The discovery of gold at the mouth of Little Cottonwood, eighteen miles south of Salt Lake City, Utah, is causing considerable excitement.

Oregon's House of Representatives has declared against the Reilly funding bill and in favor of immediate foreclosure proceedings against the Pacific roads.

Now that the grinding season is over at the sugar mills, the Italians are leaving Louisiana in large numbers and returning to their homes in Sicily and Italy. One steamer took 429.

Gen. A. P. Martin, chairman of the Boston Police Commission, has written to Governor Greenhalge, recommending the organization of police departments of the cities and towns of the commonwealth on a footing similar to that of the State militia.

PIPER HEIDSIECK
PLUG TOBACCO
CHAMPAGNE FLAVOR

Consumers of chewing tobacco who are willing to pay a little more than the price charged for the ordinary trade tobaccos, will find this brand superior to all others.
BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.

DR. MOTT'S
PENNYROYAL PILLS

The only safe, sure and reliable Female Pill ever offered to Ladies, especially recommended to married Ladies. Beware of pills put up in tin boxes as they are dangerous. Ask for Dr. Mott's PENNYROYAL PILLS and take no other. Send for circular. Price $1.00 per box, 6 boxes for $5.00. DR. MOTT'S CHEMICAL CO., Cleveland, Ohio.
Fisher & Son, Auburn. Ind.

FITS!
Brace Up! Don't Lose Courage!!
Your disease is not incurable because your Physician has given you up, and you have not received any benefit from the medicine you have tried, is not any reason you cannot be cured. We can positively cure all kinds of Fits, Epileptic, Convulsion or Spasmodic. WE GUARANTEE A POSITIVE AND PERMANENT CURE IN ALL CASES. We have cured thousands, many cases of long standing, and given up by Doctors as incurable. In our "Allen's Fits Cure" you will find a medicine that has never failed to effect a speedy cure. We back our guarantee with an offer of $100 to any person we cannot cure. Highest Bank references furnished on application.
1 Qt. Bottle, $3.00. 2 Qt. $5.00.
ALLEN MEDICAL CO.,
Washington & Water Sts., BOSTON, MASS.

LADIES
Suffering from Retarded, Suppressed or Painful Menstruation and all irregularities of like nature, will find our FAMALE PILLS an infallible cure. They are entirely safe and can always be relied upon for speedy relief. We have yet to hear of a case where they have failed to produce the desired result. A box should be kept on hand at all times to provide for emergencies. Correspondence Confidential.
By mail, with full directions, securely sealed, $2.00 per box.
ALLEN MEDICAL CO.,
Washington & Water Sts., BOSTON, MASS.

Every Woman
Sometimes needs a reliable monthly regulating medicine.
Dr. PEAL'S
PENNYROYAL PILLS.
Are prompt, safe and certain in result. The genuine (Dr. Peal's) never disappoint. Sent anywhere, $1.00. Peal Medicine Co., Cleveland, O.
Sold by Fischler & Son., Auburn.

General or local Agents. $75 Ladies or gents. a week. Exclusive territory. The Rapid Dish Washer. Washes all the dishes for a family in one minute. Washes, rinses and dries them without touching the hands. You push the button, the machine does the rest. Bright, polished dishes and cheerful wives. No scalded fingers, no oiled hands or cracking. No broken dishes, no mess. Cheap durable, warranted. Circulars free.
W. P. HARRISON & CO., Clerk 24, Columbus, O.

Sex-ine Pills

RESTORE
LOST VIGOR
Before and After Using.
New discovery. Will brace you up in a week. Sold with a WRITTEN GUARANTEE to Cure Nervous Debility, Loss of Sexual Power in either sex, involuntary Emissions from any cause. If neglected, such troubles lead to consumption or insanity. $1.00 per box by mail, 6 boxes for $5.00. With every $5 order we give a written guarantee to cure or refund the money. Address PEAL MEDICINE CO., Cleveland, Ohio.
Sold by Fischler & Son, Auburn.

5,000 ACRES CENTRAL MICHIGAN FARMS
Near Saginaw and Bay City. Soil clay loam, hardwood timber and free from swamps. Railway facilities; schools and markets adjacent. Price, $5 to $8 per acre, on easy payments. Satisfaction assured. Practical farmers and parents who wish to give their sons a start in life, can find No Better Land in Michigan. Maps and Circulars free. JACOB SCHWARTZ or WM. M. TENNANT, SAGINAW, E. S., MICH.

RESTORED MANHOOD.
DR. MOTT'S NERVERINE PILLS

BEFORE AND AFTER USING.
The great remedy for nervous prostration and all nervous diseases of the generative organs of either sex, such as Nervous Prostration, Failing or Lost Manhood, Impotency, Nightly Emissions, Youthful Errors, Mental Worry, excessive use of Tobacco or Opium, which lead to Consumption and Insanity. With every $5 order we give a written guarantee to cure or refund the money. Sold at $1.00 per box, 6 boxes for $5.00. DR. MOTT'S CHEMICAL COMPANY, Cleveland, Ohio.
Sold by Fischler & Son, Auburn.

PATENTS
Caveats, and Trade-Marks obtained and all Patent business conducted for MODERATE FEES. OUR OFFICE IS OPPOSITE U. S. PATENT OFFICE and we can secure patent in less time than those remote from Washington.
Send model, drawing or photo., with description. We advise, if patentable or not, free of charge. Our fee not due till patent is secured.
A PAMPHLET, "How to Obtain Patents," with cost of same in the U. S. and foreign countries sent free. Address,
C. A. SNOW & CO.
OPP. PATENT OFFICE, WASHINGTON, D. C.

THE AUBURN COURIER

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY.

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, post office as second-class matter.

THURSDAY....FEBRUARY 7, 1895.

THE FIRE FIEND.

Auburn's Industries Suffer Another Loss By the Flames.

At about 11 a. m. Tuesday a sudden tap of the fire bell called all onto the streets, and it was at once seen that the factory building on east 9th street, just east of the Sheets block, was on fire. The building is the old M. E. church that was moved there after the new one was occupied.

The fire department came out and got ready to work, but found the terrible cold weather had frozen some pipe about the engine and when this was thawed out and water sent into the hose, the nozzle was so cold that the water at once froze in it and it had to be taken off to avoid bursting the hose. Perry Lora took it to a stove and thawed it out then attached it again and from that on water was thrown. But by this time the fire had got such a start it could not be got under control and efforts were made to keep it down so as to save buildings near by and as much of the material inside as possible. The firemen worked in the intense heat and intense cold for more than two hours and though drenched and covered with ice did not leave while a thing could be done. The west part of the building was the repair shop of Benedict & Son, and quite an extensive affair. Here were stored many bicycles that had been on sale or were there for repairs. Only a part were saved. The fire had caught in their part by the blaze of a gasoline lamp they were using to heat something. Mr. Beneck was on hand in a few moments and could have put out the blaze but everything was frozen and he could get no water. So he ran up and rang the fire bell. They had no insurance on stock and Mr. Hollister had none on the building. The east half was occupied by the Auburn Roaster & Baker Co., with their stock and machinery. About 3,000 finished pans and their machinery and material were destroyed or nearly ruined, entailing a loss of about $3,500 with insurance amounting to $2,000. The stockholders are W. B. Campbell, Mrs. Campbell, Frank Eckhart, R. Sawvel, Frank Borel, Mrs. W. P. Harter and H. A. Stevens.

THE OLD M. E. CHURCH.

February 5, 1895, saw the close of a chapter in Auburn's history when this well-known old building was burned. For many years it was the principal church of the town. We quote from a historical article by W. H. McIntosh:

"Wesley Park, the founder of Auburn, was ambitious for the welfare of the place and the progress of Methodism. There was in 1849 much complaint that the Methodists did not hold meetings on every Sunday and he took decisive means to secure the erection of a place of worship. He gave a deed for the east half of lot 139 O. P. at the north west corner of Cedar and 7th streets for a site—where the Gandy block now stands. He took Rev. Samuel Lamb, who was the preacher in charge, into his house and they prepared plans for the building. Mr. Lamb was a carpenter and laid out the frame, but the work proceeded slowly and was not completed till 1850. Logs were hauled to the saw mill north of town in payment of subscriptions and the carpenter work was mostly donated by different persons. The building was 36 by 46 feet and 14 feet to the ceiling. The frame is strong, as can be seen. Mr. Park hired O. O. Houghton, a carpenter, as foreman and he with J. R. Cosper put up the cupola, the cornice and the roof. The work inside was done by Houghton, Cosper, Hoffman and Geo. Brant. The seats were hand made but plain and durable. The church was dedicated by Elder Robinson of Fort Wayne in the presence of a large audience, but few of whom are now living in Auburn. J. R. Cosper at the age of 83, is the only one living who labored in its construction. For a time it was the only church here and people came from Newville, Hamilton and all over the county where were settlements. It was at first a Union church, at least other denomination worshiped there, including Elder Ward and many others. Other meetings were held in it and later on county institutes, S. S conventions, etc. etc. In 1877 it was moved to the lot where the large brick church now stands on Van Buren, between 6th and 7th and the addition of a lecture room made to it. It was put in repair, re-seated and carpeted. But the town and church were growing and in 1889 a new building was planned. The old one was moved into 6th street and used till the new one was done, which was dedicated February 22, 1890, when soon after it was sold to Mr. Hollister and moved to the present site.

NOTES ON THE FIRE.

It was fortunate there was no wind or other buildings would have burned.

The Benedict establishment loses about $1000 in stock, machinery and other material on which is no insurance.

Many of the baker pans are saved in pretty good shape, as the fire would not hurt them much, and that part of the building was kept coolest.

The firemen did nobly under great disadvantages. Few men will risk their lives and endure suffering for the very slim reward a fireman gets.

There was a large can containing half a barrel of gasolene, standing near the front of the building but it was saved, probably by the firemen, at great risk, throwing water over it now and then. Next morning, it was all right, though the top of the can had melted off, leaving the contents exposed.

There is a good deal of criticism on the town board, as it is claimed they have not kept the rooms warm enough where the engine, hose cart, etc., are housed. Someone, anyhow, is to blame for the nozzles being too cold, and for pipes freezing. The firemen cannot put out fires wit apparatus in bad condition. In the fire department is a poor place to economize.

Fire.

Insure against it in some one of the following responsible and liberal companies represented by Walter C. Hartman: Franklin of Philadelphia, Continental of New York, North America of Philadelphia, German American of New York, Manchester of Chicago, North British & Mercantile of U. S. & England. Hamburg Bremen of U. S. & Germany. Any insurable property accepted. Call on or address

WALTER C. HARTMAN,
Auburn Ind. 3t

INTERESTING EXPORT FIGURES.

England, Scotland and Ireland Our Best Customers.

The statistical bureau of the treasury department has just published its detailed statement of exportations of animals and provisions for the year ending June 30 last. In view of the confusion existing as to the amount of exportation of beef and hog products to the various European countries now engaged in commercial war upon the United States, the following figures will prove unusually interesting: Our exportation of cattle during the year amounted to $33,161,000, of which all but $1,000,000 went to Great Britain. The sale of live hogs abroad was insignificant. Of $5,000,000 worth of canned beef, Great Britain took $4,000,000; Germany $377,000; Netherlands, $167,000; France, $107,000; Belgium, $93,000 and Austria nothing. Of $16,700,000 value of fresh beef, Great Britain took all but $25,000 worth. Germany's purchases were $80. We sold $3,572,000 of salted or pickled beef. Great Britain taking $1,547,000 of this; Germany $428,000; Belgium $61,000; France $44,000; Denmark $20,000 and Austria $1,000. Our exports of tallow amounted to $2,766,000, of which Great Britain took $958,000; Netherlands $562,000; France $365,000; Germany $220,000; Belgium $107,000. Of $38,385,000 worth of bacon, Great Britain consumed $31,366,000; Belgium $2,182,000; Germany $1,000,000; Netherlands $646,000; Sweden and Norway $277,000; Denmark $58,000; France $55,000. Of $9,845,000 worth of hams, Great Britain took $8,230,000; Germany $146,000; Belgium $117,000. Netherlands $65,000. No fresh pork was sold in continental Europe and only little in England. Of $5,067,000 worth of pickled pork, $1,070,000 went to England and $193,000 to Germany and in significant amounts to other continental countries. The West Indies are our best customers for this commodity. Of $40,000,000 worth of our lard the United Kingdom bought $23,458,000; Germany $3,488,000; Netherlands $3,732,000; Belgium $2,928,000; France $2,695,000; Denmark $694,000. Our exports of oleomargarine amounted to only $475,000, but of oleo oil we sold nearly $12,000,000 of which $7,000,000 went to Netherland and $2,837,000 to Germany. Making a summary of all our sales of hog and bee products, including live animals and dressed meat, but not including dairy products or leather, the sales to the principal European markets during the last statistical year were as follows:

England, Scotland and Ireland,	$116,474,7[illegible]
Germany	14,185,334
Netherlands	12,438,33[illegible]
Belgium	5,667,37[illegible]
France	1,199,13[illegible]

TOWNSHIP trustees take the enumeration of voters this spring so the usual and only legal apportionment of the state into legislatrve districts can be made in 1897. Have the solons at Indianapolis thought of this?

REPUBLICANS, populists and all, have united to prevent the democrats from passing a bill to reform our system of currency. The present plan has proved bad, as it puts into the hands of eastern bankers, the power to control our finances, and to draw our gold from the treasury.

Dr. Parkhurst on Clubs.

Dr. Parkhurst will pay his respects to clubs and club-life in his article in the next issue of the Ladies Home Journal. "I consider the club," writes the great reformer, "to be one of the cleverest devices of the devil to prevent homes being made, and to sterilize and undermine them when they are made."

Much for Little.

We cannot refrain from further mention of that most beautiful of all monthly publications, Sarony's Living Pictures. It is so highly meritorious and so fitly calculated to afford to its possessor the greatest amount of entertainment for the smallest outlay, that we are doing our readers a kindness in again calling their attention to it. Compared with its real worth, its cost, 25 cents, is but a trifle.

List of Patents

Granted to Indiana Inventors this week. Reported by O. A. Snow & Co., Solicitors of American and Foreign Patents, Opp. U. S. Patent Office, Washington, D. C.

C. Anderson, South Bend, Side-hill plow. W. Brenton, Carlisle, Straw-stacker attachment. B. T. Brown, Indianapolis, Grain-binder, J. E Ernest, Frankton, Slate cutter and trimmer F. C. Ferguson, Indianapolis, Intra-uterine stem. J. F. Gent, Columbus, Machine for extracting germs from ground cereals. C. H. Little, Terre Haute, Latch. L. S. Pierson, Indianapolis, Fireproof floor or ceiling. F. M. Welshimer, Columbus City, Sheep-dipping device.

A Chance to Make Money.

I have had my first streak of luck and I want to tell you about it. A little over four weeks ago I began selling Dish Washers, and have cleared in that time over $400. Isn't that pretty good for the first month? I am sure I can do better every month right along, as every Washer I sell helps to sell others. I can wash and dry the dishes for an ordinary family in two minutes, and as soon as people see such a machine, they will buy it quick. This is a business anyone can do well at, in any locality. You can get full particulars by addressing the Iron City Dish Washer Co., E. E. Pittsburg, Pa. Don't wait till some one else gets your home territory, but start to work at once.

MRS. W. HENRY B.

B. & O. EXCURSION.

On February 12 the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad will sell 30-day Excursion tickets to points in Virginia on the Harper's Ferry & Valley Branch south of and including Winchester, at a rate of one fare for the round trip. Excursion tickets will also be sold to points in the West, South and Southwest, at very low rates, good for return 20 days from date of sale.

For further information, call on or address any B. & O. ticket agent, S. P. Kretzer, Land and Immigration agent, Philadelphia, Pa., or L. S. Allen, Ass't Gen'l Pass'r Agent, Chicago, Ill.

Notice.

For rent or sale after the 21th day of January, I will rent or sell my property known as the Auburn Bakery on Eighth Street. Inquire of

ED BAKER. 2t

CORRESPONDENCE

WATERLOO.

Scott Campbell's baby boy is quite sick.

Miss Della Wheeler is suffering with a severe cold.

Frank Long, of Los Angeles, California, is visiting relatives here.

Mrs. J. C. Boyer is under the doctor's care.

Little Wildred Sinclair is about recovered from her recent sick spell.

Miss Phillip Plum is battling with the rheumatism.

Swartz Brothers occupy the W. A Patterson rooms with their meat market.

Mr. and Mrs. George Stamets are rejoicing over the birth of a little daughter Jan. 25, '95.

There has been some chicken stealing in town and several have been arrested, but we believe no proof so far.

Boyer & Leas, and W. A. Patterson have added bay windows to their business rooms.

About a dozen Oddfellows went to Butler last Wednesday to a meeting there.

Mr. Frank Willis came home to see after his pension business and attend the election of officers at the Presbyterian church.

Dr. Showalter accompanied Mrs. Tim McClure to the hospital at Cleveland Tuesday, where she undergoes an operation for a tumor. Her friends hope for a complete recovery.

Charles Bassett who has been in very poor health for some years died at his home Thursday morning Jan. 31, '95, and was buried Sunday Feb. 3, '95, from the Christian church by the Masonic order.

At the business meeting of the L. M. C. Tuesday evening the following officers were elected: Pres., Florence Waterman; Vice Pres., Alda Bemenderfer; Secy., Rose B. Blair; Treas., Laura Sinclair; Critic, Sarah C. S. Winslow.

The evening of January 31, the K. O. T. M. gave a very fine entertainment in their pleasant hall to a goodly number of invited guests. It was intended to be a sociable enjoyable time for all and to ensure this a program had been prepared and was carried out, with two exceptions, where those who were to fill these places were unexpectedly called or kept away. The friends of the order lamented this much, but they need not when those present were so abundantly able to entertain delightfully. The whole program was excellent and all the ladies acquitted themselves well. The luncheon was splendid and nicely served.

ST. JOE.

C. B. Leighty and son Harper of the Hub was in town Sunday.

Rev. Sherman of the Christian church is holding a series of meeting here.

Mrs. W. C. Patterson and son, Ralph visited in Hicksville last Friday.

Clyde Woodcox and family, of Auburn Junction, visited with friends here last Saturday.

J. K. Stafford and wife were here the fore part of last week calling upon their many friends.

Mrs. Jame Patters was at Auburn a few days last week visiting with her son and family.

Mrs. Caroline Ridenbaugh, of Garrett, visited under the parental roof for two days last week.

St. Joe can boast of one man who mixes buck wheat batter with his feet. For particulars enquire of D. J. Baker.

Mrs. Irvin Hadsell, of Coburn Comers, died Saturday evening after an illness of ten days. The husband and family have the sympathy of the entire community.

The teachers, of Concord township, dismissed all the schools on Wednesday, that they might attend the funeral of Mrs. Hadsell, her husband being one of the most valued teachers of the township.

Rumor has it that the hardware business in the future will be centered in the one store of Case & Co they having bought out Baker and Kagey. The old firm of B. & K. will handle nothing but machinery.

Some one from this neck of the woods has been writing one of the Butler papers that there was a big farm with good buildings in the vicinity of St. Joe and on the river that was for rent intimating that the farm was haunted. Does any one know of such a place? If so, notify Charley Thorp, of Newville.

Will Curne and Dan Baker received a car load of buggies last Friday. In addition to their buggy trade they will handle the coming summer farm wagons and farm machinery. When in need of any thing in that line call on them at the Olds building, one door east of S. & F. Barney's store.

Our old friend Ex-commissioner J. W Platter had an odd experience some time ago which it is likely he will remember for some time to come. He returned home from Auburn late at night and feeling somewhat hungry thought he would explore the pantry for something good to eat. Not having a lamp handy his explorations were conducted in the dark. But as good luck would have it he came in contact with what proved to be a custard pie. Of course J. W. was not long in getting himself on the outside of that pie, and then washed it down with a good drink of cold coffee. At this time something happened that caused J W. to arouse his son John and commence a search for what they supposed was a pin in J W.'s throat; but search as they would no pin could be found and it was determined to send for a doctor to make a search. At this time J. W. made an awful effort and by reaching away down in his throat, with thumb and finger succeeded in dislodging and securing the substance that had caused so much anxiety and suffering. But it was not a pin but one of those great big overgrown P-ants that are a nuisance to the pantry. Further our informant saith not.

A good story comes to us that reminds us of a wedding that occurred away back in 1839 or 40. The only minister then in this part of the county was a Rev. Alton who lived on what is now known as the Countryman Farm. A man by the name of Jared Ball wanted to get married, and like some of our modern young men, did not have the wherewithal to pay the preacher. But it seems he had a big lot of great big pumpkins. And when he presented himself and lady before the minister he in plain words told him he had no money but that he would give him 100 pumpkins to tie the knot which was readily agreed to. And now then comes this story from Spenceville. A few years ago, say three, a certain gentleman, who sometimes ties the nuptial bond came to our sister town and settled down to business. It seems he had a horse and that he kept said horse in a neighbor's barn, that said neighbor had a son who took care of the horse and kept the barn clean. At certain times the owner of the horse offered to pay for the work but the son saying there was plenty of time and not to be in a hurry that perhaps sometime he might have something to do that he could pay him without the cash. The time came a few days ago when the son of the neighbor called upon the gentleman to unite him in the holy bonds of matrimony to one of Concord's good looking girls. Of course our friend was there and in his most gracious manner proceeded to tie the knot in the most approved style. After being made one the groom as is customary enquired how much he owed and was told that would be left to his generosity. Oh! Well said the groom I have carried your horse and cleaned your barn for three or four years. We'll call it square.

CORUNNA.

ED. Orr has been on the sick list for several days.

John Bailey has moved back on his farm near Auburn.

Dr. Rudolph has been somewhat under the weather the past few days.

Emmet Stearns and Frank Hall have struck a job. They are breaking on the L S & M. S Ry.

A union revival meeting is in progress in Corunna, and we sincerely hope that much good will result.

Charles Wallace the north side barber, has a handsome new sign put up in front of his place of business.

Ida Moody who has been visiting her parents here for several weeks past, returned to Angola last Monday.

Wigent Brothers the new proprietors of the Corunna Flouring Mills, are building up a splendid trade. They can scarcely keep up with their orders.

If there is any truth in modern prophecy, we suppose that the Hon. Mr. Ground Hog saw his shadow last Saturday, and we might as well begin laying in a good supply of wood.

One morning last week it was so extremely cold that the mercury in its efforts to get too low, came very nearly kicking the bottom out of some of the thermometers in town. Mr. Steffe is our authority.

CORUNNA.
LAST WEEK.

Dave Shook goes to Butler to work at the depot for a few weeks under the chief clerk in the absence of the agent.

Measles are making their appearance in town and have caused some of the schools to be closed south of town.

The protracted meeting closed at the Disciple church with 16 additions, some by letter and some their first step. So the good work goes on.

Rev. Sumwalt returned home from his three weeks meeting at Wayne Center and reports a very good meeting. He was assisted by Rev. Snyder, of Waterloo.

Frank Calkins, formerly of this place, was married last Sunday to a lady in Salem Center, by the name of Mary Webber a most estimable lady. Many good wishes go with them from this place.

SLAUGHTER SALE

CONTINUED:

For the benefit of the Shop and Factory hands we have concluded to extend our

One-Fourth Off Sale to Saturday, Feb. 2d

Giving them a last chance to embrace an opportunity that comes once in a life time. Remember our whole stock of Ready made

Clothing, Overcoats and Furnishings

are included in this great Slaughter sale of One Fourth off. We respectfully solicit comparison of

VALUES & PRICEC

In our entire line, knowing that we give you goods at our first price as cheap as any competitors and until Saturday, Feb. 2d you get them at one-fourth off.

G. H. YESBERA,

The Leading Clothier and Furnisher.

RUPTURE

Of Men, Women and Children permanently cured in 30 days, without pain or slightest inconvenience by the Fidelity Method. Every case guaranteed. Patient need not pay a dollar until completely cured. The truss discarded forever. Over 8,000 cases cured in the last five years. Consultation free. Consul

J. B. CASEBEER, M. D.

Their Authorized Physician.

Office opposite Swineford House, Main Street, Auburn, Indiana.

The S. S. institute held at this place last Saturday was not very largely attended on account of the storm which was very bad during the entire day, but quite a number braved the storm and did what they could to make it profitable and entertaining.

The children's meeting held at the Disciple church last Sunday evening was a success, and all felt delighted in the program rendered. To have a model entertainment of any kind it should not be so long as to tire an audience, or the children if they are taking a part and it was a model in this respect.

BUTLER.
LAST WEEK.

The new furniture factory is said to be an assured fact.

Auburn parties have bought a large amount of timber in this vicinity.

The racket at the Racket has not been a monumental success this far.

The ladies of the M. E. church had a lively experience meeting at their church last Tuesday evening.

Miss Nettie Plowe is home from Bad Axe, Mich., where she is engaged in the millinery business, for a visit with her parents and many Butler friends.

Orla I. Campbell Sundayed with his Butler friends. He is still filling the position of conductor on the Wabash road.

Our M. E. friends hold quarterly meeting next Sabbath Presiding Elder Hudson, will officiate, and they expect to continue the meeting indefinitely.

J. A. Campbell drove over to Ashley and Hudson last Friday and reports a lively time getting home through the blizzard that gathered strong with the approach of night and almost blinded horse and man.

Will Snyder has finaly recovered a small part of his graveyard insurance on the life of his mother who died nearly a year ago. This insurance had been carried by the well known Eikhart concern. He obtained the amount of permiums paid in without interest, and felt considerably elated over the fact that the company treated him so liberally(?) Himself and family are moving back to Norwalk, Ohio this week.

HORSEMEN

SAVE YOUR STOCK BY USING THE CELEBRATED

Morris' English Stable Powder
For Loss of Appetite, Constipation, Rough Hair, Hide Bound, and all Diseases of the Blood.
Price, 25c. per package.

Morris' English Stable Liniment
Cures Lameness, Cuts, Bruises, Scratches, Galls, Sweeney, Spavins, Splint, Curb, etc.
Price, 50c. per bottle.

Morris' English Worm Powder
Warranted to cure any case of Worms in Horses, Cattle, Sheep or Dogs, also Pin Worms in Colts.
Price, 50c. per box.

Craft's Distemper and Cough Cure
A Specific for Distemper, Coughs, Colds, Heaves, Pink Eye, and all Catarrhal diseases of horses
Price, 50c. $1.00 per bottle.

Wells' Hoosier Poultry Powder
Makes Hens Lay, cures Cholera, Gapes and Roup, and keeps poultry healthy.
Price, 25c. per package.

Every remedy guaranteed satisfactory or money refunded. Our new book, "The Horse: His Disease and Treatment," mailed free.
Wells Medicine Co., Lafayette, Ind.

For Sale by, Foster & Son, Auburn.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

ELECTRIC TELEPHONE

Final patent, no rent, no royalty. Adapted to City, Village or Country. Needed in every home, shop, store and office. Greatest convenience and best seller on earth.
Agents make from $5 to $20 per day.
One in a residence means a sale to all the neighbors. Fine instrument, no toys, work anywhere, any distance. Complete, ready for use when shipped. Can be put up by anyone, never out of order, no repairing, lasts a lifetime. Warranted. A money maker. Write W. P. Harrison & Co., Clerk 10, Columbus O.

Sealed book to men free, box 52, Toledo, O.

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder
World's Fair Highest Medal and Diploma.

GRAND RAPIDS AND INDIANA RAILROAD COMPANY.

Notice to Stockholders.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Grand Rapids and Indiana Railroad Company for the election of thirteen directors to serve for the ensuing year, and for the transaction of such other business as may be presented at the meeting, will be held in the General office of the company, in Grand Rapids, Mich., on Wednesday March 6th, 1895, at 10 o'clock a. m.

The books for the transfer of stock will be closed February 22d, 1895.

F. A. GORHAM,
Secretary.

NOTICE TO NON-RESIDENTS.

State of Indiana, DeKalb Co ss:
In the DeKalb Circuit Court, March term, 1895.

Cicero Millington, if living, if not living then the unknown heirs, descendants and legatees of said Cicero Millington. ——Millington, whose true christian name is unknown to the plaintiff, wife of said Millington, if living; if not living, the unknown heirs, descendants and legatees of said wife. Thomas M. Town and Lydia Ann Town, his wife, if living, if not living, then the unknown heirs, descendants and legatees of said Thomas M. Town and Lydia Ann Town. William Ansley, if living, if not living then the unknown heirs, descendants and legatees of said William Ansley. James Wood, if living, if not living, then the unknown heirs descendants and legatees of said James Wood. —— Wood, whose true christian name is unknown to the plaintiff, wife of said James Wood, [November 24, 1863.] if living, if not living, then the heirs, descendants and legatees of said wife, are hereby notified that an action has been commenced against them in said court, by John Myers, to quiet title to real estate in said county, and that the same will be heard and determined on the 18th day of March 1895, being the 13th judicial day of the next term of said court, which commences March 4, 1895.

Witness, the Clerk of said Court, this 23d day of January, 1895.

D. D. MOODY, Clerk.

F. L. WELSHEIMER, Attorney.

Commissioners' Sale of Land.

Notice is hereby given, that by virtue of an order of the DeKalb Circuit Court, the undersigned commissioner appointed by said court in a case in said court, wherein Louisa Davis was plaintiff and Melvin W. Johnson and others were defendants for partition,

I will offer for sale at auction, on the premises on

FRIDAY the 15th day of FEBRUARY, 1895,

at 1 o'clock p m. of said day, the following described land to wit: Part of lot twenty-four (24) block twenty-five (25) in the original plat of the town of Garrett, (now the City of Garrett,) Dekalb county Indiana, more particularly described as follows to-wit:

Commencing at a point sixty feet west, of the north-east corner of said lot number twenty-four, (24) thence west ninety-six feet, thence south to the south line of lot twenty-four, (24) thence east on the south line of said lot ninety-six feet, thence north to the place of beginning.

TERMS OF SALE:—One-third (⅓) cash in hand on day of sale, one-third (⅓) in nine months and one-third (⅓) in eighteen months, deferred payments to be evidenced by the purchaser's notes bearing interest at the rate of six per cent without relief from valuation or appraisement laws, and secured by mortgage on the premises, with the option of the purchaser paying cash on the day of sale, or before the notes are due.

DON A. GARWOOD,
Commissioner

Notice to Contractors.

The Board of Commissioners of DeKalb county, State of Indiana, will receive sealed proposals until February 26, 1895, at 1 p. m. for building and erecting three iron bridges.

One span 176 feet from center to center of end pins, divided into 4 panels of 16 feet each.

Length of truss to be 26 feet from center of chords. Roadway 16 feet in the clear. Capacity of strain 100 lbs per sq. ft. of floor surface on the trusses, and 300 lbs per sq. ft. on floor system; 9 lines of steel joists; floor three inch oak plank; hub guard lattice 24 inches deep; wheel guard 4 x 6 inch oak or pine.

The two 60-foot spans to have a capacity of 200 pounds per sq. ft. of floor surface for trusses and floor system, drawn in 4 panels of 15¼ feet each. Roadway 16 feet in the clear; 9 line steel joists; floor 3 inch oak plank; hub guard lattice 18 inches deep; wheel guard 4x6 inches.

Bridges to be proportioned for iron throughout, in accordance with Cooper's Specifications for Highway Bridges.

Bidders must furnish their own plans and strain sheets.

And also at the same time and place we will receive bids for the erection of the stone abutments for the above named bridges, according to the plans and specifications now on file in the Auditor's office of Dekalb county, Indiana.

Each bid must be accompanied with a certified check, not less than $500, for security to enter into contract within ten days, if the contract is awarded to him.

The Commissioners will reserve the right to reject any or all bids.

By Order of the Board.

JAMES HENDERSON, P. B.

License Notice.

Notice is hereby given to the citizens of the incorporated town of Auburn, DeKalb county, and state of Indiana, that the undersigned will make application at the next regular session of Commissioner' court of said Dekalb county, commencing the first Monday in March, 1895, for a license to sell spirituous, vinous and malt liquors in a less quantity than a quart at a time, with the privilege of permitting the same to be drank on the premises where sold, as follows:

The north two-thirds (⅔) of lot numbered one hundred and sixty-seven (167) in the original plat of the town of Auburn, Dekalb county, Indiana.

CHARLES F. GLAZELL.

JAPANESE MANHOOD

Treatment quickly and forever cures Emissions, Drains, Impotency, Varicocele, Self-Abuse and resulting evils. No C. O. D. or quack scheme. Sealed Sexual Book Free if you mention this paper and describe your case. Address Japan Medical Company, Toledo, O.

"Shugers Special"

We can substitute many parts of our wheels thus enabling you to own a wheel of your own order. Our wheels are fitted with MORGAN & WRIGHT tires, others substituted if desired.

One set of M. & W. tires covered 13,358 miles in 1894. This record was made by Dr. Milton Keim of Philadelphia.

SUNDRIES

of all kinds kept in stock. Call and examine this wheel.

CORY SHUGERS, Agt.
Auburn, - - Indiana.

English Spavin Liniment removes all hard, soft or calloused lumps and blemishes from horses, blood spavins, curbs, splints, sweeney, ring bone, stifles, sprains, all swollen throats, coughs, etc. Save $50 by use of one bottle. Warranted the most wonderful blemish cure ever known. Sold by Robbins and McCord druggists Auburn. 34tf

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder
Awarded Gold Medal Midwinter Fair, San Francisco.

Business. One of the leading Business Colleges of the country is located at Fayette, O. Its Actual Business rooms are marvels of beauty. It is superior in advantages to the city business colleges, while the expenses is only one half or one third as great. Its courses are thorough; its methods the best, and its graduates SUCCEED. It receives the praise of every student who enters it. Do not delay but act. Write for catalogue to the president of

J. E. DODDS.
Fayette, Ohio

College,

Once Yet Made!

Last season THE HUB delighted thousands of buyers all over the United States with its "Head-to-Foot" Boy's Outfit at $5.00 consisting of Coat, Cap, Shoes and only one pair of pants.

We'll do better yet this season!

The Hub's "Head-to-Foot" Boy's Outfit

for the fall season contains as follows:

One Double Breasted Coat,
One Stanley Cap to Match,
One Pair of First Class Shoes and
Two Pairs of Knee Pants,

and still the price will remain the same. $5.

Remember, the cloth is all wool, the workmanship and trimmings first-class, everything strictly guaranteed—and your money back should you want it.

Send for samples of cloth, or better yet, let us send you one of the Head-to-Foot Outfits, all charges prepaid for $5.75 or C. O. D. with privilege of examination before payment, provided $1.00 on account is sent with the order.

THE HUB,

The Largest Clothing Store in the World.
W. Cor. State and Jackson Sts.,
CHICAGO, ILL.

Any Bank or Wholesale Firm in Chicago.

GREAT Midwinter EVENT!

BISHOP AND LACKEY

GREAT JANUARY HOUSEKEEPING SALE.

Tremendous Cash Bargains In Desirable Merchandise.

Special Attractions!

IN

Table Linens,
Napkins, Towels,
White Spreads,
Made Sheets and
Pillow Cases, Wide
and Narrow Muslins.

WE RECEIVE THIS WEEK

100 Dozen Ladies Muslin Underwear.

Will be sold VERY CHEAP during this sale.

We Receive this Week

225 PIECES NEW DRESS GOODS.

75 Pieces, All New Colors, 29 c. Former Price 50 c.
75 Pcs. New Serge, Black & Colors, 50c. " " 75 c.
75 Pcs. New Serge, Black & Colors, 55c. " " 100.

Our stock of Underwear and Blankets is large and full of Desirable Goods.

100 Doz. Gloves and Mittens.

Seasonable Goods.

BISHOP & LACKEY.

IF You want a Pair of

TAKE YOUR FEET TO

SHULL

The POPULAR SHOE MAN

Auburn Bakery

AND

CONFECTIONERY

Is now established in its new quarters on Main street, 1st door south of J. L. Davis Hardware store. We will have a full line of

BREAD, ROLLS, PIES & CAKES

Fresh every day. We bake any kind of cake to order. Weddings and parties supplied on short notice at reasonable rates. Try our

VIENNA BREAD AND CREAM

Which are made of Milk.

Each day after 8 o'clock in the morning we will sell all the Bread and Rolls left over from the day before at Half Price.

LUNCH SERVED

At all times of the day, also hot coffee, tea and chocolate.

All our baked goods are sold by Hebel Bros, who will deliver them to any part of town.

We respectfully solicit the patronage of the people of Auburn and vicinity.

BAKER & BAUER, Proprietors.

LOCAL NEWS.

Free book to weak men, box 52, Toledo, O

Notice the change in figures in Olds Bros' ad.

Ollie Clay and wife are visiting Mr. Clay's parents at Edgerton O.

Ed Mitchel, wife and two daughters drove to Ashley last Friday to remain a few days the guests of friends.

Drummer Boy of Rappahannock, Feb 23d, at Armory. Dont fail to be there. It is the chance of a life time.

W. J. Olds and wife spent several days the past week with friends in Hicksville.

Dr. Johnston, dentist, has the new method of filling teeth without pain, as well as painless extraction of teeth.

Ha th re! where are you going? I'm going to the Union Bakery to get some of that fine cream bread, we use no other.

Mrs. S. O. Snyder returned Friday from a visit to her old home town, Angola.

John L. Gallup, a well known Kendallville man, committed suicide at Ft. Worth, Texas, last Saturday night.

I am prepared to bind newspapers magazines, etc., at reasonable rates. H. S. McIntosh.

David Bair and J. F. Harter two of the jury in the big railroad case called on us last week. They found the long tedious suit rather tiresome.

The Tennessee Warblers had a fair audience at the Armory Saturday evening and gave a good entertainment The music was excellent.

A girl was born to Mr. and Mrs. Campbell on north Jackson street, Monday Mr. Campbell is the Singer Sewing Machine agent at this place.

Mrs. John Robbins gave a cribbage party Monday evening. It was intended as a surprise to her husband, who happened to be home at that time.

Uncle John Potts dont forget the COURIER. His nephew, John Potts called up to pay ahead last week. He was accompanied by a neighbor Henry Reed.

Sam. Moohamer died at Kalamazo, Mich, last week and was brought here and interred in the Watson cemetery in Jackson township Thursday.

A brother of the Wilks boy whose obituary appeared in the COURIER a few weeks ago, is lying very low with typhoid fever at his home near Jackson center.

The St. Joe News has been enlarged to a 6-column quarto, the old size of the COURIER before we came to 7 columns. Bro Olds is keeping right up with the newspaper procession.

AGENTS WANTED: To sell the New Hardy Rose, Belle Siebrecht, pronounced by authorities as the best ever introduced Ready For Sale. Reliable Agents may apply with references to Siebrecht & Wadley, New York City.

Twelve leading Masons from Auburn attended the funeral of Charles Bassett at Waterloo Sunday. About the same number were up from Butler, making with the local lodge a fine turnout for such severe weather.

Frank Rush is making a neat little device for coffee users It is a small cup made of wire gauze, with a cap to screw on to the top. The coffee is put into this, and the grounds cannot escape, leaving the liquid clear. It is quite a handy thing and very cheap.

The young people's society of Butler Center will give a "hard tack" social at the residence of Wm. Snyder near St. John's, Thursday evening, Feb 7th Supper 10 cents. A fine musical and literary program is being prepared and will be rendered in connection with the supper, which altogether promises to be an interesting evening.

Tuesday morning the cold was variously reported at from 10 to 14 below It was no doubt the coldest so far. By Wednesday morning it had got a trifle warmer and a light fall of snow kept up through the day. But the sleighing had not been good, as the snow had blown off at the last storm. This snow may do better.

John DeWitt who has been living on the Grogg farm in Richland several years moved last fall to the Shade farm near Richland Center, which he has bought and so will have a farm of his own. He has a good farm and will soon have some of the finest fruit in the county as great pains have been taken to plant choice fruit for several years past.

Mrs. Morris Widney came up from Ft. Wayne Friday going from the Junction to Hicksville, where her mother now resides She has been in Cleveland since she moved from here and has been taking a course in the school of oratory. She thinks of teaching classes in Ft. Wayne for a time, having been quite successful in that work for the past few months.

Uncle Henry Shull received a letter last week from his daughter, Rebecca Allison, at Phillipsburg, Montana. She writes they have had some cold weather and adds that she has just been out collecting the minister's salary. From this it appears that the ladies out west are the business part of the churches, as is often the case here.

The Garrett Republican is pretty hard on the Dispatch in saying that all its help was drunk the day they pied that form. We did not understand that Mr Alvord was drunk, nor do we know what "sober man" if any, they "sent for at midnight" to help get the paper out. A pied form is calamity enough without having a controversy over it.

Grandma McNamara of Jackson township, mother of Thomas McNamara, the contractor and builder, died Wednesday of last week from a stroke of paralysis and was buried Friday at Spencerville. She was probably one of the oldest residents of the township and was a good christian mother. She lived a life that would be pleasing to her Heavenly Father.

Free serial book to men, box 52, Toledo, O.

Take your binding to H. S. McIntosh.

Ladies and Misses Combination suits at 48 cents at Mrs. M Jones & Son. 4-6

Mrs. A. Quince, of Garrett, was here over Sunday, a guest of Geo. Quince.

Dress goods very cheap at Mrs. M. Jones & Son's. 4-6

Phil Ryan of Fort Wayne was here last week.

Cut prices to make room for new goods arriving at Mrs. Jones & Son's. 4-6

Michael Kline spent Sunday in Hicksville, with Mr. and Mrs. Miller.

Mercury got down to 6 below on Monday morning.

Try that homemade bread made at the Union Bakery.

Keeran & Thomas, Props.

John Moore, of Jackson, went to Andrews in Huntington county last week, to visit a brother who is quite sick.

Mrs. Sherman Dickinson had a lively runaway Saturday a week ago. She was on her way home in the storm, but fortunately was not hurt.

Kruger & Son have reduced their prices to compete with the lowest. New goods arriving daily, and all their goods are fresh, new and desirable. 4 6

Dr James Squires of Churubusco was called home Wednesday of last week by the serious illness of his father, Nathan Squires who lives near Jackson Center.

Kruger & Son sell notions, dry goods and tinware, and can compete with any body in price and quality. If you doubt it, try them. 4-6

Chris McNabb the proprietor of the Yellow Front and South Side meat markets, is the proud father of a new girl born in their home Thursday last.

Kruger's rooms are not only stocked full of groceries, but he is selling large amounts of tinware, notions, drygoods, etc. Call and see for yourself.

Our younger readers should should not omit to read J. A. Campbell's letter on the "hard times" of the earlier days It makes good reading just now, Kruger & Son have reduced their 5 cent counter goods to 3 cents, and their 10 cents counter goods to 8 cents Don't forget this. This continues for 30 days.

The Times comes out this week on Saturday instead of Thursday as heretofore, and will make that its regular publication day.

FOR SALE:—I have two Fire and Burglar Proof Safes, Hall's Patent, either of which I will sell cheap and on terms to suit the purchaser. Call on or address,
CHAS. M. BROWN, Auburn, Ind.

The Ligonier Banner says that R. B. McKahan, who was for a time proprietor of the Union Bakery here, is now a salesman in the store of Gerber & Co at that place.

Arthur Carl, infant son of Charlie and Mattie Ober, died at the home Wm. Elson in Jackson township Monday, Feb 4th, at the age of 1 year, 8 months and 22 days. Interment at Cedarville.

A letter from J. R. Burniston, at Garrett last week, brings a supply of the needful, for Dick pays whether work is good or not. Shop hands have been on short hours more or less for a year or two, we believe.

If ever the groundhog, or woodchuck, or marmot, or whatever his friends choose to call him, saw his shadow on Candlemas Day, he could have seen it last Saturday. But he would be a fool to come out on such a cold day.

S. J. Wilson, brother of J. N Wilson, was here Monday. His home is at Flint, Mich., but he had been at Adrian attending the meeting of the state dairy association, of which he is secretary, and took the opportunity to visit the friends here.

The Misses Moore, of Hicksville, O., cousins to Mrs. Enos Casebeer were her guests over Sunday. Miss Mattie is quite prominent as a teacher in schools at Hicksville. She is teacher of the primary department at the high school and also at the Presbyterian church.

All diseases of the air passages especially catarrah and chronic, Bronchitis, as well as first stages of consumption can be cured. I am treating these diseases with great success by the use of the latest and most improved medicines and instruments. Dr. W H. Busbaum, Auburn, Ind. 42tf

Mrs. Catharine Shepherd of Columbia City, and her brothers, one from Missouri, and the other from Valparaiso, were the guests of the former's daughter, Mrs. Ben Diller a few days last week. They all went to Sedan Saturday to visit a sister whom Mrs. Shepherd had not seen forty years.

The committees selected to raise money, etc., for Nebraska sufferers, have raised $175 cash, besides liberal quantities of clothing and provisions. This has been mostly forwarded and distributed and we have receipts from the parties who got it, so that the secretary, M. B. Willis, knows the supplies are properly placed Mr. Lahnum, in Custer county, a former DeKalb man, receipts for a box of 600 lbs.

Joe Pfefferl has put up a big lot of fine lake ice that was cut at the Dan Thomas lake in Richland township It is of choice quality and 12 to 15 inches thick. It will not only give us pure ice, but has given employment to ten or fifteen men who needed work. Mr. Pfefferl will have ice to sell our people all next summer. Call on him and make your contracts at an early date.

The funeral services of John McCune were held Thursday, Jan. 24th at the M E. church. The exercises after a few remarks by the pastor, Rev. A. S. Wooton, took the form of a memorial service when the following gentlemen who had known him many years as a citizen, officer, teacher and friend testified to his worth and integrity: Eli Zimmerman, James Griswold, M. B. Willis, John Weaver Enos Casebeer, L. E. Gregg, Chas. Raut and W. H. McIntosh.

Book free despondent men, box 52, Toledo, O

Grosh—Haines

Leonard Grosh and Emma Haines were married Thursday of last week at the home of the bride's parents, on south Jackson street, Rev. J. D. Brosy, officiating. They are both worthy young people and the COURIER joins in congratulation.

Married.

At the residence of the bride's parents at Lee, Allegan county, Mich., Jan 25, 1895, Mr. John E. Misel of Grand Junction, Mich., to Miss Dora M. Thomas The ceremony was at 12 noon in the presence of thirty-five invited guests, after which they sat down to a bounteous dinner. The bride is a daughter of Augusta Thomas, late of DeKalb county. Their friends here and in Michigan send congratulations.

The Circulating Library.

The Circulating Library which was placed in Olds Bros.' store last summer, has been refreshed by the acquisition of several new volumes which were suggested by the members. This library is a branch of the "People's Library" which is situated in 24 different towns. Mr. D. F. Bower, the proprietor, will be glad to have new books suggested during February, as a change will occur again as soon as a sufficient number of new books are asked for. Bequests must be handed in before the 20th of the month if the subscriber wants the new book during the following month.

Mrs. John Hoffelder.

Last week after we had gone to press the sad news came of the sudden death January 29, of Mrs. Hoffelder, wife of Commissioner Hoffelder. She was at a wedding at Michael Shoudel's, whose daughter was married to a son of Fred Gfeller. The ceremony was over, and also the wedding supper and all were enjoying themselves, when Mrs. Hoffelder suddenly complained of feeling ill, and in spite of all that could be done, died in a short time. It is supposed some affliction of the heart was the immediate cause. She was a most estimable lady and respected and loved by all. The blow will be a hard one to her family, and especially to the bereaved husband who has the sympathy of all.

The Drummer Boy of Rappahannock

Major R. H. Hendershot, the original "Drummer Boy of Rappahannock," the most wonderful drummer in the world and his son, J. C. Hendershot, who is one of the best fifers in America, will positively be here to take part in the camp fire entertainment to be given Feb. 23, by the W. R. C. at Armory Hall Maj. Hendershot brings with him the original drum presented him by Horace Greely for gallant conduct at the battle of Fredericksburg the 11, 12 and 13th of December, 1862. He will be assisted by some of our best local talent. No one in Auburn but has heard of Mr Hendershot and his wonderful powers as a drmmer, as well as his brilliant record in the war. No one in Auburn should fail to hear and see him.

Married.

At the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Washington Betz, Feb. 3, 1895, Mr. James C. Barker and Miss Bertha E. Betz, Rev. A. H. McKee, of the Hamilton M. E. church officiating. Miss Alice Betz was bridesmaid and Ezra Brand groomsman. The march was played by Miss Ava Hamilton. After the ceremony there was a bounteous dinner and a good time. The following were present to enjoy the occasion: John Musser and lady; Emanuel Musser, J. M. Brown, wife and daughter; M P Barker and wife; C. E. VanAuken and daughters, Mina and Myra; Henry Miller and wife; Dr. Hamilton, wife and daughter; Isaac Barker and wife; Geo Beard and wife; Bertha and Ella Beard; G. H Musser, Mrs. Jacob Musser, Ezra Brand, Jacob Marts and wife, Miss Edith Smith, Mrs. Katie Arnold, Miss Etha Parrish, S. S Forney, Milton Barnes, R. H. McIntart.

A Magazine For Writers.

The Authors' Journal is the title of a new monthly magazine devoted to writers. Its purpose, as outlined in the introductory editorial, is to aid and interest all workers in the field of literature, bending its energies particularly to the instruction and guidance of inexperienced writers, and at the same time giving news and notes of value to professional authors. The editor of this new publication is Frank Lee Farnell formerly of Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly. The first number, just out, contains several interesting articles on literary work, describes the prizes offered by various periodicals for short stories, gives an index to literary articles in the current magazines, and has othr important features. The subscription price is $1 00 a year. Published at No. 1 William Street, New York.

Late Literary News.

General Lord Wolseley makes a most important contribution to the literature of the China-Japan war. In an article for the February Cosmopolitan, he discusses the situation and does not mince matters in saying what China must do in this emergency. Two other noted foreign authors contribute interesting articles to this number. Rosita Mauri, the famous Parisian dansense, gives the history of the ballet, and Emile Ollivier tells the story of the fall of Louis Philippe. From every part of the world, drawings and photograph have been obtained of the instruments used to torture poor humanity and appear as illustrations for a clever article, by Julian Hawthorne, entitled, "Salvation via the Rack." Mrs Reginald de Koven, Anatole France, W. Clark Russell, Albion W. Tourgee, and William Dean Howells are among the story tellers for the February number of The Cosmopolitan.

SAY! Do you know That we can sell you

CREAMERY BUTTER for 20 cents per lb
COFFEE for 23, 25, 30, 35 cents per lb
TEA from 15 to 60 cents per lb
CRACKERS 7 to 10 cents per lb
Pickles, Onions, Wash Boards, Tubs,
Whips, Oil Cans,
Baking Powders, Soaps and all
FAMILY Supplies at Lowest Cash Prices.
All Goods Warranted as Represented.

Family Grocery, NORTH MAIN STREET.

Write Box 52, Toledo, O., free book to men

See the news on inside pages.

Smoke the K. & B. ten-cent cigar.

Fancy baking a specialty at the Union Bakery.

Mr. and Mrs. Milt Simington, of Collingwood, were the guests of friends in town Sunday.

Kruger & Son have no old bankrupt goods to offer to you. But they will give just as good bargains. 4-6

David Neff, of the firm of Neff & Weeks, accompained by his wife, visited friends at Bryan, O., over Sunday.

The G. D. Chicago Waist,
The G. D. Bust Supporter,
at Mrs. M. Jones & Son's.

Mrs. T. J. Cuppy started for the south this week to join her husband whose work lies largely there as he is buying ties for the Wabash lines.

Mrs. T. C. Ford, came home from a visit with her father, G. W. Lewis at Hicksville, and brought the sad news of the death of Mrs. Irvin Hadsell. She was only 29, and leaves three small children.

INSURANCE AGENCY:—People desiring good insurance should remember that Geo. Lanning has an office at the Davis Hardware store, and works some of the very best companies in the country. Good farm risks taken. Call on him. 32tf

NOTICE:—Annual meeting on the Ginter Cemetery Association will be held at Mt Pleasant church, Feb 28, at 10 o'clock, for the election of officers and transaction of such other business as may come before the meeting.
Jacob Gunsenhouser, Pres.

When wild and withering winter winds warp the weary wanderer, his thoughts turn in sweet anticipation to home, wife and Kessler Bros.' Little Salesman.

Money to Loan.

By F. L. Welsheimer. Best Building and Loan Association represented in Auburn. Money to loan in large or small sums on good security.

Chop Feed Mill.

We will grind chop feed on Thursday of each week, at my place 4 miles east of Auburn. Can grind 40 bushels per hour. Toll, 1 tenth. 5-7
MOORE & MCCLELLAN.

An Old Marriage Notice.

An old newspaper published at Boston has a notice of the marriage of Capt. Thomas Baxter of Quincy and Miss Whitman of Bridgewater, on Dec. 16, 1788, "after a long and tedious courtship of forty-eight years, which both sustained with uncommon fortitude."

To School Children and Parents.

It is desired that all young pupils coming of school age, or who will soon reach that age, come forward and be enrolled now, as Mrs. Clifton is just forming a new chart class into which they can enter, and later on they could not be so accommodated. It is hoped that parents will see to this matter at once. Also all who have been out on account of sickness, will find this the proper time to re-enter the schools. The Board hope to see this matter looked after.
B. B. HARRISON, Supt.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

Drummer Boy of the Rappahanock Feb. 23.

The L. L. C. will meet this week with Mrs. Priscilla Zimmerman.

The Rathbone Sisters will give an entertainment in the Armory, Feb. 26-7th.

The C. L. S. C. will meet Saturday afternoon with Mrs. Jennie McClellan

The nickel social of the Presbyterian church will meet with Mrs. J. E. Rose on Friday afternoon of this week. All invited.

The nickel social of the Lutheran church will meet with Mrs. J. D. Brosy at the Lutheran parsonage Friday afternoon of this week at 2 o'clock. All are invited to attend.

Awarded Highest Honors—World's Fair

DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER

MOST PERFECT MADE.

A pure Grape Cream of Tartar Powder. Free from Ammonia, Alum or any other adulterant.

40 YEARS THE STANDARD.

WINTER BARGAINS!

We call your attention this week to three articles in our stock that is worth looking after just now:

1ST
Is that Heavy Winter SHIRT For only 50 cents.

2ND
Is those Heavy Fleece Lined Mittens for only 15 cents.

3RD
Is those extra Heavy Cotton Socks for only 10 cents.

Come
in. We have the goods that will do you good.

OLDS BROS.
Auburn.

Bankrupt Store

Here We Are!

Four Doors North of Kruger's Grocery.

New Goods, Low Prices.

Goods that Suit the Times.

WE HAVE
HARDWARE,
TINWARE,
TABLE LINEN,
NOTIONS, ETC.

In Fact, Everything Kept in a Fire-class

Notion Store

Come and see our Goods, and learn how very low you can buy almost anything you want.

Will cost you nothing to look at them. We want to make your acquaintance.

A. W. Bates & Son
AUBURN.

I. O. BUCHTEL, Homœopathic Physician and Surgeon.

Special attention given to chronic and obscure cases and catarrhal diseases of the nose, throat and lungs; also to diseases peculiar to women and children.

Office and residence over Smith & Madden's marble works, Auburn, Ind. Office apart from residence and private. All calls attended to promptly, night or day.

Albert Robbins, Pres. J. C. Henry V. P.

FARMERS BANK.

Capital Stock,—
—$45,000.00.

—UNDER STATE SUPERVISION.—

Transacts a general banking business. Interest paid on time deposits by agreement. Collections receive careful attention. Business solicited.

B. C. ROBBINS, Cashier.

They said he was insane to steal cigars in broad daylight, but when it was found they were Kessler Bros.' Bill Heads no one questioned his sound judgment.

A muffler has been left at this office. Owner may have same by calling.

You don't have to go outside to smoke; you need no poultice on your neck to get a good "draw," nor anything to "kill the taste" when through smoking a Receipt.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNS, - - PUBLISHER.

When a man regularly makes a fool of himself, and can't help it, he has a good cause for discouragement.

The first present a man gives a woman is usually the only present he enjoys giving. The rest are given from a sense of duty.

A man who tries to be thrifty, and carries a pin for an emergency, will scratch his finger on the point of it at least ten times a day.

A Memphis official recommends the reduction of his own salary. We don't know what ails him, but hope he is undergoing treatment for it.

Denver women are highly indignant because they are not permitted to serve on juries. Their husbands are highly indignant because they are compelled to do so.

Mabel Dodge, the cashier in a Massachusetts grocery store, is short in her accounts $2,000. It isn't a large amount, but it will do for a starter for the "new woman."

Since the great Homestead strike of 1892 wages at that place have been cut three times. And yet the country will be shocked by and by when another eruption occurs and blood is spilled down there.

Massachusetts has been fighting that dangerous insect, the gypsy moth, with annual appropriations, and finds that they grow larger every year. It is a question now whether the bug will not prove more costly to the State than the Hoosac tunnel, which represents an outlay, on the installment plan, of $20,000,000.

The corn crop of 1894 was not much more than half as large as the unprecedented crop of 1889, but its value is estimated at $554,719,000 against $397,918,000 for that of 1889. Thus we have a striking illustration of the fact that a short harvest is often nearly as profitable as an excessive one, owing to the increased price that it brings.

Confucius lived about 2,400 years ago, and he made such a tremendous impression upon China that its mental and moral growth stopped then and there. He taught that the performance of duty is all that man need concern himself about in this world, but apparently forgot to add that keeping up to date in all directions is a necessary part of the business.

Mr. Horace E. Scudder, editor of the Atlantic Monthly, remarks plaintively: "I often ask myself if I am getting a full return for the energy I spend reading the newspapers." Not knowing what papers or what part of the papers Mr. Scudder reads we cannot answer his question. But we can cheerfully assure him that we get a full return for the energy we expend in restraining ourselves from reading the Atlantic Monthly.

The last few months have been especially productive of vast fortunes left to waiters, sewer-builders, bakers and others, but we believe that the crop of heirs is exhausted. The discovery of the grandson of King George IV. has turned the tide in a new direction, and we confidently expect to have nephews of Franklin, grand-cousins of Washington, nieces of Robert Bruce and direct descendants of Adam spring at us from every telegraphic dispatch. There is a new and unworked field in this descendant business that will make the fortune of some bright newspaper correspondent.

The Philadelphia Ledger proudly boasts that there are more centenarians and nonagenarians living in that town than in any other city in this country. We can account for this only on the supposition that Philadelphians who are familiar with the Ledger's obituary poetry are afraid to die. Who would not shrink from this as long as possible?:

"I gave him his medicine regular,
From morn till the set of sun;
He took two powders at 10 o'clock
And another powder at 1.
But doctors cannot help us
When death knocks at the door;
Good-by, my darling husband!
You left at 10 minutes to 4!"

We sometimes wonder that Philadelphians do not go elsewhere to die.

Anybody who thinks no newspaper can be lively and worth reading unless it is published in a large city is invited to cast his eye over the following editorial gems taken from a late number of the Southwest Virginian of Jonesville, Va.:

Roble Ball is repairing the gallows.

Capt. Will T. Kennedy Sundayed in the city.

John Henderson was in to see us yesterday.

John Henderson says he sold seven saddles so far this week.

A rainy and muddy Xmas was the fated lot of our dudine aristocracy.

Having extended the "merry Xmas" we now greet you with a "Happy New Year."

Bill Jones, who is to hang to-morrow, says that he guesses he will die as he has lived.

The localist had the pleasure of eating turkey with Maj. and Mrs. Hyatt Xmas day dinner.

Private Sect'y Duskins received a letter from his Honor Col. Alex. B. Munsey saying that he would be at home in time for the hanging.

Our little town, though hemmed and hedged about by spire-like mountains, possesses to a remarkable degree the best accoutrements of stage talent.

The editor further says: "Jonesville will have a unique and attractive exhibition to-morrow. On that day, for the third time in the annals of the county, our citizens may witness a tragical tragedy. Mr. William Jones, the gentleman of color, will make his last and final debut on the public stage. A large audience is expected." Jonesville, we infer, is apt to be a lively and cheerful sort of place when the opportunity to celebrate the Christmas holidays and a hanging at the same time happens to come along.

When a Colorado judge asked two ladies who wanted to be jurors, "Do you know that you will have to be shut up in the rooms in the evening deliberating upon the verdicts with men?" one of them stoutly answered, "I suppose that in a court of justice, the proper authorities will make the necessary arrangements for carrying on the business of the court." With the ballot in her hand, it seems altogether likely that the Colorado woman will go on the juries whenever she shall choose to do so, and that the "arrangements" will be made for her.

One day recently Judge Dallas of the United States Circuit Court at Philadelphia had a batch of fifty-three persons before him who wanted to become citizens. Of these fifty-three he rejected twenty-eight because they were too ignorant not only of our institutions, but of pretty nearly everything else to entitle them to citizenship. Judge Dallas appears to be one of the few Judges on the bench who think it necessary to make any examination into the qualifications of aliens for citizenship. Were there more such upright and patriotic Judges there would be fewer naturalization mills grinding out citizens at the rate of one a minute and fewer manufactured citizens who not only know nothing but care nothing for our form of government farther than citizenship opens up an opportunity for the dirty work of bosses and a market for the sale of votes.

The friends of the feud-sundered Astors guard that silence which will not stand in the way of future invitations to dinner. Ward McAllister is positively painful in the apoplectic politeness which he wraps around his inability to say anything. Elbridge T. Gerry teeters in his endeavor to stand straight between the Jacks and the Waldorfs. From Society, nothing on the quarrel itself, but from Mrs. Paran Stevens came something lurid "On the Right of Rich People to Have a Row in the Family." Always original, "Aunty Paran" declares that the sacred right of a ruction shall be as free to an Astor as to Mulberry Bend. If two ladies of the latter may row over "which owns the clothes-line," why not two Mrs. Astors or two Mr. Astors over equally petty things? Why, indeed? But here Mrs. Stevens is at fault. She would not allow "the rabble" to enjoy the Astor row, much less to shudder at its unseemliness; whereas the real delight in the tenement row, which Mrs. Stevens so keenly appreciates, is that assistance and comment which the neighbors, craning out of the tenement windows, bestow upon it. Mrs. Stevens evidently wants Society's interest in the Astor vendetta to be a class affair, or confined to experts in domestic difficulties. Unfortunately the tenements of the Astors are in view of the whole world, and people will look on, and comment and shudder as freely as if Fifth avenue was Cherry Hill. The higher the tenement the bigger the audience, Mrs. Stevens.

Xenophon as a Dog Fancier.

Xenophon opens his disquisition on hounds by an enumeration of all the defects, physical and moral, which a hound should not possess, wherein it is easy to recognize all the failings which are still among us. Leggy hounds, weedy hounds, flat-sided hounds, flat-footed hounds, undersized hounds, headstrong hounds, flashy hounds, sulky hounds, dwellers, babblers, skirters—all are faithfully portrayed and uncompromisingly condemned. "Hounds with such faults as these, whether due to nature or bad training, are of little worth; they are enough to disgust even a truly keen sportsman."

A good hound should have a light, small, sinewy head, a long, round, flexible neck, broad chest, free shoulders, straight, round, wiry forelegs, straight knees, round sides, muscular loins, full flanks, but not too full; his thighs should be firm, compact and well let down, his feet round, and his stern long, straight and tapering. Such is Xenophon's description of a good hound; it seems to us not amiss for the fourth century before our era.—Macmillan's Magazine.

The Sun's Motions.

The sun has known three motions: 1. An axial rotation, which is plainly shown by the appearance and disappearance of well-known spots upon its surface. The mean period of this axial motion is twenty-three and one-half of our days. 2. A motion around the center of the gravity and the whole solar system—a motion which can only be ascertained by the use of very delicate instruments, on account of his great mass, which is greater than the total of all the other bodies of the system combined. 3. A progressive motion through space in the direction of the constellation of Hercules. The rate of speed of this last named motion is not known, but it is estimated to be 150,000,000 miles per year, and some investigators even think it possible that the rate will exceed the above estimate by at least half.

Reversible.

"Sir," said a Heidelberg student to a night watchman, in the wee sma' hours of the morning, "sir, I would like to ask you a question."

"Go ahead, young man," answered the dignitary; "that is what I am here for."

"Well, sir, does the law permit me to call a policeman an ass?"

"You had better begone immediately, or I will lock you up."

The votary of alma mater advanced a few steps on his way home, but returned and asked humbly:

"But, sir, is it permitted to call an ass a policeman?"

"The law doesn't say anything about that, young man."

"It doesn't, eh? Well, good morning, Mr. Policeman."

Had Use for a Crooked Arm.

At the siege of Petersburg a young confederate lieutenant who was very good looking and a great favorite with the girls was badly wounded in the left arm. Several of the surgeons declared that it would be necessary to amputate the limb, but it was finally decided that by removing a section of the bone the arm might be saved. "But," said one of the surgeons, "it will be a bad job, and when healed the arm will remain crooked." The young lieutenant, thinking that any kind of an arm was better than no arm and with a thought for future conquests replied: "Never mind the crook; set it for hugging and go ahead."—Texas Siftings.

MEXICO'S BLOOD UP.

MAY CONCLUDE TO WIPE OUT GUATEMALA.

Belief that She Will Settle the Boundary Dispute by Taking Possession of Guatemala and Making It a Mexican State—Nicaragua Bill Passes.

War Clouds Flying.

Mexico City advices say that if Mexico is pushed into the fight over the international boundary her policy will be, as outlined from the first by General Diaz and his cabinet, to the effect that this dispute and other little matters will be settled once and forever, and the necessary means used to that end. It is prophesied in some quarters that Mexico will settle the boundary line by quietly appropriating the whole Guatemalan republic as a part of the United States of Mexico, with the City of Mexico as its capital, and with the chief executive of the Mexican republic as its ruler. In an interview with the Salvadorian minister, Don Jacinto Castellanos, he said that he considered the final declaration of war against Guatemala as a calamity which ought to be avoided if possible, and which, he thinks, will be averted by the final recognition of the justice of Mexico's claims. It will be remembered that Salvador is in the position of a friendly neighbor to Guatemala, and so will use all its influence to preserve the peace.

PRESIDENT PORFIRIO DIAZ.

The hope of Guatemala for forming a

MAP SHOWING THE BOUNDARY LINE BETWEEN MEXICO AND GUATEMALA. x WHERE MEXICAN TROOPS ARE BEING MASSED.

Central American union against Mexico in the present fight seems to be growing less and less every day. The minister of Salvador has kept his home government well informed of the high spirit of the whole Mexican republic over the Guatemalan episode, and of the activity of that government in pushing forward preparations for a war to the finish. This sort of thing is not to the taste of Salvador or the other Central American republics. President Barrios, of Guatemala, is feared by some of the other republics on account of his vaulting ambition to be ruler of all Central America, and so his demands carry some weight with them when leveled at his weaker neighbors.

Rushing Troops to the Front.

The Mexican government has pushed fresh forces into the Guatemalan frontier almost daily, and camp quarters for a large body of men have been arranged for. A few Guatemalans living in the vicinity of Comitan have quietly left for their native country, and others who are disgusted with the course of President Barrios and the Guatemalan administration have fled to Mexico rather than be pressed into an unwilling service. Reports from the other side of the border are that Guatemala is using every effort to work up feelings of patriotism among the people, in the hope of obtaining large reinforcements to continue its bluff against Mexico. When persuasion fails it is given out that when the government needs men it will press them into service. Nearly every horse within 100 miles of the border has been secured by some means or another already, and a strenuous effort is being made to secure more.

The uncommunicative policy of the Guatemalan government is having a disastrous effect upon the public order, and many alarms are constantly felt by the residents of the frontier, fearing an invasion of the mounted Mexican rurales. It is generally felt that should war ensue, the frontier will be so overrun by troops and pillaging renegades that life will be a burden.

LOST IN THE STORM.

Five Barges with Crews and Passengers Founder at Sea.

The tug Sea King reports that they lost five barges off Point Judith, Conn. Ten men and three women were drowned. The barges were all owned by John Scully, Perth Amboy, and their cargoes aggregated 3,500 tons of coal consigned to Providence and New York.

Captain Umstead, who is in charge of the tug, says: "At midnight a gale sprang up, accompanied by blinding snow. At 3 in the morning the tow began pulling in a way that indicated trouble. All hands gathered aft in order to avert the threatened catastrophe. When three stern barges broke away and foundered, we struggled hard to save the two remaining barges. At 6 o'clock they went down. At great risk the tug put about, and, after repeated efforts, rescued two men from the barge Nulty. The tug unsuccessfuly searched for the others, and it was necessary to run for port to save the tug from the increasing storm."

WINTER-WHEAT CROP.

Reports from Ten States Show It to Be in Fairly Good Condition.

The Farmers' Review has received a report from its correspondents in ten States on the condition of winter wheat.

In Illinois the crop has generally gone into winter quarters in fair condition, though having obtained small growth in some counties. Wherever it is covered with snow the prospects are good. Some counties report ground frozen hard, with no snow cover. In such cases injury to the plant is feared. In Indiana the plant is doing well, and is generally covered with snow. Ohio reports generally good conditions. In many counties no large growth has been made, but this small growth is enough to start it well in the spring, provided no disaster overtakes it. The snow covering is good. In Michigan the crop is in fair shape, but too lightly covered with snow in some localities. Kentucky reports crop in good condition, having been generally fairly protected. The start in some counties was poor but the plant seems improving. In Missouri the conditions vary greatly. Considerable damage is reported from drouth and poor snow protection. The general average is fair. In Kansas the condition is generally good, though many western counties report injury by drouth. Nebraska reports condition fair, but plant needs rain in many counties. Iowa conditions vary greatly, all kinds of conditions being found. It will average about fair. Wisconsin reports fair condition generally. In most places the crop is well protected.

FAVOR THE CANAL.

The Nicaragua Bill Passes the Senate, 31 to 21—Its Provisions.

The bill pledging the faith of the United States to do the construction of the Nicaragua canal passed the Senate by the decisive vote of 31 yeas to 21 nays. It was the termination of a debate which has lasted since the present session of Congress began. It was, moreover, the first realization in either branch of Congress of the vast project so long and vigorously urged for a canal joining the Atlantic and Pacific, with the United States government standing as sponsor for the execution of the work. The final vote was not secured until 6:30 o'clock at night, but, notwithstanding the lateness of the hour, there was an exceptionally full Senate, owing to the interest felt in the culmination of the long discussion. The Nicaraguan minister and many other diplomats interested in the project had seats in the diplomatic galleries throughout the voting on the many amendments and the final question.

The Senators who voted nay are as follows: Allen, Blackburn, Blanchard, Caffery, Call, Cockrell, Daniel, Davis, George, Gray, Hill, Irby, Jones (Ark.), Kyle, Mills, Palmer, Peffer, Pettigrew, Turpie, Vilas, Wolcott; total, 21. Besides these Smith, Coke, Harris, Lindsay, Martin, Mitchell of Wisconsin, Roach, Vest, Berry, Hansbrough, Pasco, McPherson, Teller, Bate, McLaurin and Voorhees were paired against the bill and Stewart of Nevada was present and not voting.

In amending the bill it was provided that only American goods and materials should be used on the canal; that every dollar of stock should represent a dollar expended; that the aggregate contracts shall not exceed $70,000,000; that no corporation in which stockholders are interested should do any of the work. An amendment requiring the work to be done by United States citizens working eight hours a day was defeated.

The bill in brief directs the issue of $70,000,000 of Nicaragua canal bonds. Each of these is to bear the following guarantee: "The United States of America guarantees to the lawful holder of this bond the payment by the Maritime Canal Company, of Nicaragua, of the principal of said bond and the interest accruing thereon, and as it accrues." An additional $30,000,000 of bonds is to be issued without the United States guarantee. The total $100,000,000 thus issued is to be used in constructing the inter-oceanic canal. The Secretary of the Treasury is to have general supervision of the project. A board of fifteen directors is to have immediate charge of the work. Of this board the President is to designate ten members, no more than two from any one State. The United States is to receive $70,000,000 of canal company stock in return for guaranteeing the bonds, and is to hold a mortgage lien on all the property of the canal company.

THE PROPOSED WATERWAY.

Map showing the route of the Nicaragua Canal, the connection with Chicago, the new course from New York to the Pacific, and the old course around Cape Horn.

PROMINENT COMMANDER.

Gen. Duchesne, Who Leads the French Expedition to Madagascar.

General Duchesne is the commander of the recent French expedition to Madagascar. Gen. Duchesne is a native of Sens, in the Yonne, where he was born in 1837. At 18 he entered the Military Academy of Saint Cyr, and two years later received his commission as a sublieutenant in a line regiment, with which he participated in the Italian campaign. During the Franco-German war he served as a captain and then passed several years of active service in Africa. In 1884 he was sent to engage the Chinese, and inflicted several signal defeats on them. In 1893 he was promoted a General of Division, and at present is in charge of the 14th Division at Belfort.

GEN. DUCHESNE.

A man who finds no satisfaction in himself, seeks for it in vain elsewhere.—Rochefoucauld.

UPROAR IN THE HOUSE

CONGRESSMEN BRECKINRIDGE AND HEARD QUARREL.

Kentuckian Is Called a "Liar"—He Retorts with "Impertinent Puppy" and a Vigorous Right-Hander—Both Men Arrested—Offenders Apologize.

Words Lead to Blows.

A scene of the wildest and most intense excitement occurred in the National House at the conclusion of the debate on Mr. Hitt's Hawaiian resolution Friday, growing out of a personal difficulty between Mr. Breckinridge, of Kentucky, and Mr. Heard, of Missouri, in which epithets like "impertinent puppy," "coward," "scoundrel," "liar" were bandied. One blow was struck, when friends interposed and the sergeant-at-arms arrested the two offenders and brought them to the bar of the House, where Mr. Breckinridge, in the course of an explanation, practically challenged Mr. Heard and demanded personal satisfaction.

As well as the tangle of confused events can be unraveled the encounter occurred in this way: Mr. Heard, who was in charge of the District of Columbia bill, cut off Mr. Breckinridge, who was attempting to address the House on the Hawaiian resolution, by demanding the previous question on the adoption of the resolution. Mr. Breckinridge immediately moved around from the side aisle in which he was standing to the tier of seats where Mr. Heard stood, and hot words followed. Mr. Breckinridge protested against what he called Mr. Heard's rudeness. The latter declared he was only doing his duty. As the voices of the gentlemen rose members rushed thither.

Called "Puppy and "Liar."

"Impertinent puppy!" shouted Mr. Breckinridge. "Liar!" hissed back Mr. Heard.

At the word the white-haired Breckinridge, who is a heavily built, stocky man, put his foot on the step on which the benches are located and let drive a right-hand blow at Mr. Heard. Mr. Heard, who is slight and apparently not strong, dodged. In an instant a dozen hands were extended to restrain the Kentuckian, and the tide of members swept him twenty feet up the main aisle. But he continued to struggle and wrestle with his captors, Messrs. Pence and Outhwaite.

PUGILISM IN THE HOUSE.

The House and galleries were in an uproar. Bedlam had broken loose. Over it all the cracks of the Speaker's gavel sounded as he attempted to quell the riot on the floor. In a firm tone the Speaker directed the sergeant-at-arms to arrest the offenders. Col. Isaac Hill, the deputy, and his assistant, Mr. Robinson, grabbed the silver mace, the emblem of the House's authority, and rushed up the aisle. It was crowded with members. When they had elbowed their way to the scene of the combat Mr. Breckinridge was still struggling with those who held him. His antagonist, Mr. Heard, stood calmly in his place. Col. Hill and his assistant seized Mr. Breckinridge, and Mr. Heard was pushed into the arms of the deputy sergeant-at-arms. As the two men came together Mr. Breckinridge made a desperate effort to free himself.

Breckinridge Has Blood in His Eye.

"You are a coward and a scoundrel!" he yelled at Mr. Heard, but the stalwart Robinson roughly pulled Mr. Breckinridge forward, and the two representatives of the American Congress were hustled, rather than escorted, to the bar of the House. The Speaker ordered all to take their seats. Many of the members did so reluctantly.

"Take it back!" shouted Mr. Breckinridge, as he glared at Mr. Heard, who stood, like himself, in custody before the bar. "You called me an impertinent puppy," answered Mr. Heard.

Meantime the Speaker was trying to drive the excited and frantic members back to their seats. Mr. Breckinridge was appealing for recognition, but the Speaker would not hear him. After all the members were seated he ordered both Mr. Heard and Mr. Breckinridge back to their seats, and then recognized the Kentuckian. With his frame trembling with excitement, his silver hair tumbling back from his forehead, Mr. Breckinridge rose. Attempting to contain himself he began his apology in humble tones.

Those who were near the two members when the encounter occurred, says a Washington correspondent, are unanimous in stating that Breckinridge's manner was rude and provoking and that he referred to Mr. Heard as an insolent something or other, the term used being generally understood as "scoundrel." Mr. Heard's retort was what might be expected in answer to an epithet from a man of Breckinridge's reputation, and it was no surprise that he should call the Kentuckian a liar.

The sympathy of the House and galleries were largely with Mr. Heard. The latter is a very mild-mannered man and has never been known to conduct himself in an ungentlemanly or unparliamentary manner on the floor of the House. Breckinridge is usually very suave and oily in his address and his outbreak today was somewhat of a surprise. He has, at least, brought into the House of Representatives the manners of himself, son, and some of his counsel in the celebrated damage suit.

Celery a Cure for Rheumatism.

Celery is an excellent remedy for rheumatism. It should not only be eaten raw, but cooked. Cut it into small pieces, and boil it soft in as little water as possible. Add to this a little rich milk, thicken slightly with flour, and season with butter, pepper and salt. The tender leaves and small ends of the stalk, which are usually thrown away, should be used for soups; cut fine and use for vegetable soup, or dry the large leaves, crumble them to powder and use for seasoning other soups. And no part of the celery need be wasted.

European Lace in America.

This country imports through the custom house annually nearly $7,000,000 worth of machine-made European lace and less than $700,000 worth of hand-made lace. Much of the former is doubtless sold as hand-made, and a good deal of both leaks in by devious ways. Much is imported by returning travelers as an article of personal wear long in use, and thus it escapes duty.

CURRENT COMMENT

Mexico and Guatemala.

The Guatemalan Government evidently appreciates the folly of withstanding Mexico.—Chicago Post.

There is clearly no need of any other than an amicable solution of this controversy, in spite of the present excitement and the occasional talk of war.—New York Sun.

As long as labor and its employers fight to the death in the United States, it is grimly incongruous for the United States to be playing the part of a peacemaker in foreign lands.—Chicago Times.

There is nothing in the situation that cannot be settled easily and promptly by arbitration. Guatemala can afford to withdraw its troops and Mexico can do the same.—Chicago Tribune.

The almost certain conflict will not be half so much talked about as the Chinese-Janpanese troubles unless it should happen that little Guatemala, like little Japan, should make havoc of big Mexico.—Kansas City Star.

Unless Guatemala submits to Mexico's demands, President Diaz declares it must take the consequences. These, in view of the condition of affairs in both countries, are likely to prove disastrous to Guatemala.—Philadelphia Ledger.

The Mexicans have a fairly drilled army. Their military academy is not to be despised. Diaz knows, nevertheless, that war would be a costly luxury while national debt is pressing productive industries to their knees.—Chicago Herald.

The Canal Bill.

It goes without saying that the United States is more interested than any other country in the completion of this waterway.—Indianapolis News.

If the canal can be completed under this plan it will be of immense advantage to the commerce of this country and of the world.—New York World.

If the United States can get the Nicaragua Canal well and safely constructed for seventy millions of dollars, the work is worth the money.—Kansas City Star.

If the United States keep on guaranteeing the bonds of corporations somebody will have to guarantee the bonds of the United States. But that Nicaragua bill will never pass the House of Representatives.—Chicago Times.

Many a business man with a big bank account and comparatively unlimited credit has been brought to grief by signing notes. The United States has the collateral in untold amount, but if it goes into the note-guaranteeing business it will probably have the obligations to meet. This is just what the Senate has voted to do in the Nicaragua canal matter.—Davenport Democrat.

The New French Ministry.

A new ministry has been formed in France, but there is no certainty that some of the members won't get away during the night.—St. Louis Republic.

Premier Ribot's cabinet has withstood the first onslaught, and seems to be as much surprised as everybody else.—Baltimore American.

M. Ribot is France's latest cabinet maker. If he fails there are several thousand more political carpenters who are willing to undertake the job.—Syracuse Post.

The cabinet which has been formed by M. Ribot is the thirty-fifth that has undertaken to carry on the government of France since the establishment of the third republic.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

As a whole the ministry consists of moderates and is likely to encounter the same unrelenting hostility from the radicals and socialists that caused Dupuy's defeat.—Baltimore Sun.

Korean Affairs.

Had Korea thought of it in time she might have whipped China herself. But by declaring her independence she is compensated in part for her thoughtlessness.—New York Advertiser.

The king of Korea has formally declared the independence of his country. This is the result of the Japanese invasion at which Secretary Gresham demurred as making unjust war on Korea.—Buffalo Express.

Another Chinese fish story has been exploded. The two generals who were reported by Li Hung Chang as having died heroically at Port Arthur have turned up safe and sound at Pekin.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

The Chinese have great confidence in winter as an ally against Japan as well as in the delays of diplomacy. But the indications are that both will fail them. While the Chinese interpose delays in negotiating a peace Japan's armies will march upon Pekin.—Exchange.

Living Pictures.

The living pictures are fighting back just to show the crusaders that they are alive.—Omaha Bee.

The tramp who slept in the Astor bed will now be engaged as a living picture.—St. Paul News-Record.

The New York movement against the living pictures is not understood to have any reference to Li Hung Chang.—Grand Rapids Democrat.

The announcement that the New York police will inspect the living pictures is well calculated to make Brother Parkhurst laugh right out loud.—Boston Herald.

The police of New York City who are required to edit living pictures and umpire foot-ball games are likely to have almost as much responsibility as those who are supervising the police.—Washington Star.

Hypnotism and Crime.

The hypnotic business is getting more alarming daily.—Indianapolis Sentinel.

Having reached the era of hypnotic crime we ought also to have a bit of hypnotic justice now and then.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

The case is an extraordinary one. Our brethren in Kansas seem to be too much disposed all around to give themselves up to new-fangled ideas.—Springfield Republican.

Murderous insanity is the influence of one's own cussedness. Hypnotism is the evil borrowed from some one else. One is as dangerous as the other and in nine cases out of ten they do not deserve to be considered by any intelligent jury.—Kansas City Times.

The Latest in Lamp Shades.

It seem that the ballet girl style of lamp shade which has pervaded drawing rooms to such an extravagant degree has run its course, and the silk and lace furbelows are no longer deemed good form by smart people who can indulge in the latest wrinkles without turning a hair. When everybody has a petticoated lamp, it is time to take off the objectionable skirts and try something else for ornament and shade. The consequence is a rich and beautiful kind of glass work, modeled in conventionalized shapes, has come to the fore. It began with the expensive Tiffany shades exhibited at the Columbian Fair, and now bursts forth in some exquisite and expensive designs which tend to render the lamp more luxurious, more decorative than ever before.

SENATE AND HOUSE.

WORK OF OUR NATIONAL LAWMAKERS.

Proceedings of the Senate and House of Representatives—Important Measures Discussed and Acted Upon—Gist of the Business.

The National Solons.

The Senate Monday passed the Ute bill and adopted resolutions calling for information on various subjects. Debate on the bill to repeal the differential duty on sugar from bounty-paying countries was continued in the House. A currency bill in accordance with the views expressed in the President's message was introduced in the House by Mr. Springer. President Cleveland sent a message to Congress urging prompt action to restore confidence in our financial soundness. Commissioner Miller has prepared a notice, copies of which will be posted in every city and town, calling attention to the provisions of the income tax law.

A compromise currency plan was offered in the Senate Tuesday by Mr. Manderson, of Nebraska, a Republican. Senator Chandler offered several amendments to the railroad pooling bill and secured adoption of a resolution calling for information regarding the trunk lines. The bankruptcy bill was debated, a substitute on the lines of the old Torrey bill being offered. The Senate Committee on Finance discussed the various currency bills before it. A free silver measure offered by Chairman Voorhees was defeated on a tie vote. A canvass of the Senate Committee on Public Buildings showed a majority favorable to the Chicago postoffice bill. The bill to repeal the differential duty on sugar from bounty-paying countries was passed by the house—239 to 31. The House Committee on Elections decided the Steward-Childs contest in favor of the latter, who is the sitting member. The House committee amended the administration currency bill by striking out the section requiring import duties to be paid in gold, reducing the tax on circulation and shortening the term of bonds.

During the discussion of the currency question in the Senate Wednesday Mr. Vest said he would follow the President's lead no longer. The Senate ratified the Japanese treaty after adopting an amendment to strike out the ten-year limit. William R. Tibbals, of Illinois, was confirmed by the Senate as supervising inspector of steam vessels for the Fifth District. The House entered on a discussion of the Pacific Railroad bill, for which three days were set apart. A bill for the punishment of train wreckers was agreed on by the House Committee on Interstate Commerce. The Chicago postoffice bill will be favorably reported to the Senate with the provision for its completion in three years omitted.

Pacific Railroad funding bill was discused in the House Thursday and much opposition to the measure was developed. Gorman and Hill made strenuous efforts to have the Senate take some immediate action on the pressing financial question. It is said Germany is determined to force a tariff war upon the United States in order to satisfy the agricultural party. But little outside of routine business was done in either house. Many bills were introduced in each branch.

The House Friday adopted a resolution calling on the President for information concerning the action of British subjects during the rebellion in Hawaii. Congressmen Breckinridge, of Kentucky, and Heard, of Missouri, called each other liars in the House and were caused to apologize. Senator Teller, representing the silver element, gave warning of opposition to any financial plan not agreeable to him. It is stated semi-officially that Secretary Carlisle will be appointed to the Supreme bench to succeed Justice Jackson.

SNOW IN THE WEST.

A Plow Which Tackles Drifts Thirty Feet in Depth.

Reports come from the West of snow-drifts on the railroad over the Sierra Mountains, which are said to be the heaviest for years. Hard packed snow lies from thirty to fifty feet deep, and it requires constant work with snow plows to enable trains to get through at all. The rotary plow is about the only thing which does really effective work, though the push plows are used in conjunction with them.

THE ROTARY PLOW AT WORK.

Near a place called Dunsmuir is a huge drift, particularly hard to handle. This is the way the men attempt to manage here. A number of engines coupled together take a flying start of about half a mile at this bank of snow, and slowly force it off the track. Every time they strike it from two to three of them are buried out of sight in the drift. The others are uncoupled and back away. The buried engines are then dug out by shovelers. They then couple on and another assault is made on the drift.

SOME NOTED MEN

Who Became Famous in Their Younger Days.

Pitt, the younger, was in Parliament at 21.

Edison was famous for his inventions when 23.

Galileo discovered the isochronism of the pendulum at 19.

Shakspeare left school at 14; Clay at 14; John Bright at 15.

Napoleon at 27 commanded the army in Italy. At 35 was Emperor.

Bacon was a member of Parliament at 23; at 26 one of its leaders.

Poe was a poet at 16; at 34 he wrote "The Raven." He died at 38.

Tennyson at 33 took that high stand among the poets he held till his death.

Bryant wrote poetry at 9. At 18 his masterpiece, "Thanatopsis," was published.

Longfellow's first poetry was published at 13. At 32 he ranked with our best poets.

Scott entered the fair realm of literature at 25. At 34 was the most popular poet of the day.

Mr. Arthur J. Menday
Woodland, Wash.

"I Am Cured"

"Eczema appeared three years ago, and since then I have tried all kinds of remedies for the cure of the disease and had given up all hope of ever being cured. At last I was told to try Hood's Sarsaparilla and Hood's Olive Ointment. I did so, and I am happy to say that of that dreadful skin disease. I have taken sixteen bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla and used five boxes of the Ointment. I would have written before, but I wished to wait until I was confident the disease would not return again. It has not, and I can say I am perfectly cured. I gladly recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla." ARTHUR J. MENDAY, Woodland, Washington.

I Am Cured

Hood's Sarsaparilla Cures

Hood's Pills do not purge, pain or gripe, but act promptly, easily and efficiently. 25c.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

CURES

Irregularity,

Suppressed or Painful Menstruations, Weakness of the Stomach, Indigestion, Bloating, Flooding, Nervous Prostration, Headache, General Debility, Kidney Complaints in either sex. Every time it will relieve

Backache, Faintness,

Extreme Lassitude, "don't care" and "want to be left alone" feeling, excitability, irritability, nervousness, sleeplessness, flatulency, melancholy, or the "blues." These are sure indications of Female Weakness, some derangement of the Uterus, or

Womb Troubles.

Every woman, married or single, should own and read "Woman's Beauty, Peril, Duty," an illustrated book of 30 pages, containing important information that every woman should know about herself. We send it free to any reader of this paper.

All druggists sell the Pinkham medicines. Address in confidence, LYDIA E. PINKHAM MED. CO., LYNN, MASS.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Liver Pills, 25 cents.

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50c and $1 bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

WALTER BAKER & CO.

The Largest Manufacturers of

PURE, HIGH GRADE COCOAS AND CHOCOLATES

On this Continent, have received

HIGHEST AWARDS

from the great

Industrial and Food EXPOSITIONS In Europe and America.

Unlike the Dutch Process, no Alkalies or other Chemicals or Dyes are used in any of their preparations. Their delicious BREAKFAST COCOA is absolutely pure and soluble, and costs less than one cent a cup.

SOLD BY GROCERS EVERYWHERE.

WALTER BAKER & CO. DORCHESTER, MASS.

Ely's Cream Balm

QUICKLY CURES

COLD IN HEAD

Price 50 Cents.

Apply Balm into each nostril. ELY Bros., 56 Warren St., N.Y.

GREAT FALLS: Population 2,000. Wheat 40 cts. Dairy supply short of demand. Building of the biggest copper reducing smelting plant in the world will be commenced here this spring. For fine ranches and other business openings write to de Futron Gliddon, Great Falls, Mont.

BEST POLISH IN THE WORLD.

RISING SUN STOVE POLISH

DO NOT BE DECEIVED with Pastes, Enamels, and Paints which stain the hands, injure the iron, and burn red. The Rising Sun Stove Polish is Brilliant, Odorless, and Durable. Each package contains six ounces; when moistened will make several boxes of Paste Polish.

HAS AN ANNUAL SALE OF 3,000 TONS.

THE TARIFF IS A TAX.

THOSE WHO DOUBT IT SHOULD REVIEW THE EVIDENCE.

True Competition Almost Unknown in Many Protected Industries—Words of Mr. Wilson—Conduct a Free Canal About New York Custom House Foreigners Don't Pay It.

If there are any Republicans left who still think that "the tariff is not a tax, but if it is a tax the foreigner pays it," they should read what the Oil, Paint and Drug Reporter of January 7th, 1895, says about prices and tariffs

It should be understood that true competition is almost unknown in the chemical and drug industries Trusts, combines and pools restrict production in nearly all of the more important articles. Four large manufacturers practically sell from the same price lists. These lists mention 500 or 600 articles. New lists are issued monthly. The five or six smaller manufacturers who make certain articles on these lists join with the "big four" in sustaining prices. Prices are kept at the point of greatest profit to the manufacturers. If there is an import duty on an article (as there usually is), and manufacturers can increase their profits by taking advantage of the duty (as they usually can), they do so. Hence, prices of most articles are kept at or near the importing point, even when our own manufacturers can (and often do) sell their products in foreign markets at much lower prices. If then, duties are reduced, prices of many articles must be reduced to prevent importation.

Reviewing "The Past Year on Drugs," the Reporter says:

"The feature of the year was undoubtedly the speculation in opium, due to the possibility of $1 per pound duty being placed upon the drug by Congress. The price was advanced from $2.20 in cases Jan. 1, to $3 the middle of February, under buying for speculation and consumption, but a decline soon set in, and in July $1.35 was reached.

"Acid, boracic, dropped from 13 cents to 10 cents, competition and a reduction in the duty of 2 cents per pound being the causes.

"Acid, citric, dropped from 44½ cents to 36½ cents in barrels, foreign having been steadily offered at lower prices. The duty was reduced from 10 cents per pound to 25 per cent.

Castor oil is 4½ cents lower, a change in the tariff causing makers to drop the price 4 cents the day the law came into operation.

"Chloral, hydrate, is 25 cents lower, due to a tariff reduction.

Reviewing "Heavy Chemicals During 1894," the Reporter says:

"There has been a steady decline in values since the year opened, except for alkali, which, at the close, is a shade higher.

"Caustic soda has attracted considerable attention, more particularly since the change in the duty of one-half what it was under the old tariff The year opened with prices for both domestic and foreign at 2½ to 2¾ cents, as to test, at which they remained, with comparatively few fluctuations, until the new tariff went into operation, when the leading domestic makers reduced their prices to conform with the reduction in the duty, not only upon regular contracts, but also made a reduction upon the goods unused in consumers' hands. The result of this liberal policy soon made itself felt in the large volume of orders received, not only for prompt delivery, but over the coming year as well. Competition at once began with the foreign makers, and prices quickly declined, until the low price of 1½ cents was reported as having been accepted for several contracts of high test, though 1¾ cents was the general price at which the bulk of the contracts were placed.

"Previous to the reduction of the duty very little foreign bicarbonate of soda came into this country, thus giving the domestic manufacturers a monopoly of this article. This, however, was all changed when the new duty of ½ cent per pound against 1 cent under the old tariff went into effect, thus enabling large sales to be made of foreign makes at prices ranging from 1⅝ up to 1¾ cents per pound, according to the quantity, make and delivery. The domestic makers promptly met this by reducing the price for their ordinary brands, while still maintaining their original price for their special brands.

"The receipts of foreign sal soda during the first half of the year showed a decided falling off, though prices were fairly well maintained at about 85-100 cent per pound, but with the reduction of the duty, prices receded, thus stimulating what had previously been a slow trade. Supplies began to flow in, and in order to retain their trade prices were reduced, and at the close 62½ to 65-100 cent may be called the prevailing quotation.

"It is claimed that of all the heavy chemicals the most unsatisfactory has been salt cake. In order to meet the foreign competition that was expected to follow the placing of this article on the free list, domestic manufacturers revised their price list early in the season, and large sales were made in bulk, delivered at various points at prices ranging from 40 to 45-100 cent per pound, as to place of delivery, which certainly did not result in a very large margin of profit to the makers, for the reason that the price of the muriatic acid was low, even though they curtailed their output of this article to a large extent."

Free-Ships and Subsidies.

The dying condition of the American mercantile marine is universally conceded by friends and foes of the free ships bill. The only question is how to revive our moribund shipping. Republicans, of course, are arguing that nothing less than a system of "protective" subsidies will prove a restorative.

But it would be well for them to ponder very carefully the words of Gen. James A. Garfield, delivered in the House of Representatives in the discussion of a bill which embodied the plan of subsidizing steamers. He said: "One feature of this bill, the subsidy provision, is odious to the American people. It is a feature, I think, which no man in this House, certainly no Representative of an inland district, can support and sustain himself before his constituents."

It has been asserted over and over again that England pays subsidies to her commercial marine. But, barring postal subsidies and payments to a few lines for preparing and holding their ships ready for Government use in case of war, England pays no subsidies whatever.

The United States has already gone too far in subsidizing shipping, and the people will not tolerate any more of this kind of "protection," which is as idle and inefficacious as it is illegal. Give American merchants free trade in ships and we shall soon see our ocean marine revive and grow with wonderful rapidity.—New York Herald.

Which Shall Rule?

The Young Men's Democratic Club of Philadelphia observed Jackson Day by a banquet at which were gathered many Democrats prominent in national affairs. The most notable speech of the evening was made by Congressman Wilson, who said:

"Free government, in the sense in which it has been understood and taught to us by our Democratic fathers, is a very modern thing. It means government which is the servant of the people, without distinction of class or of any legal or artificial divisions. As long as there lives in this country a man who is forced by law to labor unpaid for the benefit of any other man there is in this country a slave whose fetters we are bound to destroy. As long as there lives in this country a man who is permitted by law to exact such labor from any other man there is in this country a master whose odious privileges we are bound to wrest from his grasp.

"Moderate and just taxation is indeed the highest achievement of legislative action. If we have failed as a party, in our recent effort, to reach this high achievement, as we must admit that we have failed, let us searchingly and in the spirit of the most honest inquiry ascertain how far that failure has been due to faithlessness in our efforts or in our own ranks, and how far it was due to the intrenchment of privileges so strong and so inveterate that no first assault could hope fully to dislodge it. I am one of those who believe that our partial failure has been due to both causes, and, so believing, I find in our present reverses not cause for despondency or for party disorganization and apathy, but a higher call to duty, to a more advanced party policy, a more steadfast and loyal adherence to it.

"The great trusts which have taken Congress by the throat and defied our efforts to release the people from their exactions have at least taught us the lesson, grievous but salutary, that either they or the Democratic party must rule in this country, that either they or the Democratic party must disappear from the country. That great party will not disappear. Its control of the House of Representatives may for the next Congress be taken from it; lost seats in the Senate may be awarded, as they seem about to be awarded, to those who glory in their servitude to monopolies and who seek public service for their own enrichment; but, as in the past so in the future, the old historic party of the people will rise from the ashes of defeat, strengthened and purified, with a greater fidelity to Democratic principles, a more heroic courage, a more aggressive and unselfish leadership, bearing upon its banners not the foul legend of "America for the Trusts and Monopolies," but "America, a Land of Equal Rights and Equal Opportunities, a Land of Moderate and Just Taxation, from Whose Revenue Laws All Taint of Privileges and Caste Has Been Purged Away, America, the Home of a Triumphant Democracy, the Common, the Equal, and the Transcendent Heritage of the Countless Generations of the Future."

Nicaragua Canals vs. Protection.

Many leading Republicans believe that our Government is wise to invest $70,000,000 in the Nicaragua Canal. They say that it will shorten the distance by steamers from New York to Hong Kong by 4,163 miles; to Yokohama by 6,827 miles; to Melbourne by 3,200 miles; to Valparaiso by 5,062 miles. They estimate that at least 3,500,000 tons of freight will pass through the canal each year, and that if $2 per ton toll is charged all expenses of operating the canal will be met. The benefits to commerce, they say, will be incalculable. The cost of transportation will be greatly reduced and both sides of the world will be greatly benefited by cheaper goods.

All of which may be true. But is not this inconsistent argument for protectionists? Why levy a $100,000,000 tax on our already tax-ridden people to remove one barrier to commerce when a much greater barrier can be removed by an act that shall, at the same time, greatly reduce our tax burden? The whole benefits to the people to come from the Nicaragua Canal will be derived from cheaper products or goods. But it costs more to get goods across a McKinley tariff wall than it does to carry them twice around South America. Woolen, linen, silk or cotton goods could be carried several times around the world for what it costs to get them through a McKinley custom house. If the Republicans, when they were making the McKinley tariff law, had added the word "free" after every article instead of the complex and compound duties levied on most important articles, they would have conferred greater benefits upon their country than will be realized by the digging of a dozen Nicaragua canals. They could have done this in less time and at less expense than it required to make the McKinley bill.

It would cost nothing, and save hundreds of millions of dollars every year, to construct a little free canal around the New York custom house. On the contrary, of what benefit would be a Nicaraguan canal if our tariff wall should be built higher? Yet following their logic, this is exactly what Republicans would do. "Because the Nicaragua canal," they would say, "has lowered the cost of bringing the products of Asia and Australia to our shores, it is necessary, to preserve our workmen from competition with the pauper labor of the Orient, to increase duties on all such products." Up would go the tariff wall. A 25 per cent. advance in duties would more than counteract the effect of the Nicaragua Canal upon prices.

It may be consistent for free traders to advocate governmental aid to canals. It certainly is inconsistent for protectionists to favor canals, to cheapen the cost of goods, and protective tariffs, to increase the cost of goods.—Byron W. Holt.

EACH WORE COURT PLASTER.

And So the Youth Couldn't Tell Which Girl Came Into His Room.

The young man who thinks he is going to come out ahead in any joke in which a girl of ordinary sharpness is involved is sure to find his mistake. It happened some time ago in a certain college, that the dormitories of both the young lady and gentlemen students opened into the same hall, says the Indianapolis Sentinel. One evening near midnight one of the girls, who had slipped out of her room to enjoy a secret chat with one of the other girls, was hurrying to her room and in the dark mistook the room, entering the room of one of the boys by mistake. He was standing by the gas jet, having just turned out the light, and when she had found the match which she carried in her pocket, and started to light the gas she stumbled against him. Of course she screamed and started for the door; but he was too quick for her, and holding her for a moment actually bit her cheek, in order that he might identify the young lady when next they met. Of course her wrath knew no bounds; and when she finally reached her room she called an indignation meeting of the other girls and explained what the horrid fellow had presumed to do. She could never face him again, and was not going to chapel in the morning. But then, of course, he would know who she was, and she appealed to the girls to help her out of the difficulty. They did. The next morning when the girl students filed past the boys at devotional exercises in the chapel one wicked youth looked over the top of his testament only to see a procession of twelve girls, each having a long strip of black court plaster on her left cheek. He has never yet discovered which girl he bit.

A Horseman's Get Up, 1662.

"If the sword be not bought," writes Sir James Verney, "I had much rather have one according to the mode, and the rather because a black one is more agreeable to my phancy. * * * I hope you have given my tailor full directions about the belt for I can by no meanes trust to his judgment. As for the saddle you mention, I am very much obliged to yourself for borrowing and to Sir Rich: Temple for lending it, if he knows for whom it is: but my feare is that I shall not becom a saddle of that worth, if it belongs to him as Kt. of the Bath and I question whether I may have it for both Assises. * * *

"As for the horse I have at Sutton, I feare he will be too high for a low fellow to gett upon; if so I shall be bold to send for yours. I am unwilling to look like a Jackanapes on horseback. * * * You mention topps to be laced, which I suppose are to be worn upon my leggs, if so I feare ther will be so much topp as there will be but little bottom to be seen. My leggs all are short enough in conscience allready, and if the fashion must needs make them shorter, I must strutt it out as well as I can."—From the Verney Manuscripts.—Longman's Magazine.

A WOMAN'S NERVES.

STORY OF A WOMAN TO WHOM NOISE WAS TORTURE.

Prostrated by the Least Excitement—Physicians Baffled by Her Case.

(From the Gate City, Keokuk, Iowa.)

Mrs. Helen Meyers, whose home is at 3515 Vernon avenue, Chicago, and whose visit to Keokuk, Ia., will long be remembered, was at one time afflicted with a nervous malady which at times drove her nearly to distraction. "Those terrible headaches are a thing of the past," she said the other day to a Gate City representative, "and there is quite a story in connection with it, too."

"My nervous system sustained a great shock some fifteen years ago, brought on, I believe, through too much worrying over family matters and then allowing my love for my books to get the better of my discretion where my health was concerned. Why, whenever my affairs at home did not go along just as I expected, I would invariably become prostrated from the excitement and I would consider myself fortunate indeed if the effects of the attack would not remain for a week. I was obliged to give up our pleasant home not far from the Lake shore drive, because I could not stand the noise in that locality. I could find no place in the city which I deemed suitable to one whose nervous system was always on the point of explosion. To add to my misfortunes, my complexion underwent a change and I looked so yellow and sallow that I was ashamed to venture from the house at all."

"Madam," said my doctor to me soon after an unusually severe attack of the malady, "unless you leave the city and seek some place of quiet, you will never recover." So I concluded I would visit my uncle, who lives in Dallas County, Iowa, and whose farm would surely be a good place for one in my pitiable condition. I picked up the Gate City one day and happened to come across an interesting recital of the recovery of some woman in New York State who was afflicted as I had been. This woman had been cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. I thought that if Pink Pills cured that woman they might do the same for me. I began to take the pills according to directions, and I began to feel better from the start. After I had taken several boxes of them I was ready to go back to Chicago. My nervousness was gone and my complexion was as fresh as that of any sixteen-year-old girl in Iowa, and Pink Pills is what put the color in my cheeks. No wonder I am in such high spirits and feel like a prize fighter. And no wonder I like to come to Keokuk, for if it had not been for Pink Pills bought from a Keokuk firm I would not have been alive now," laughingly concluded the lady.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are for sale by all druggists, or may be had by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y., for 50 cents per box, or six boxes for $2.50.

A GOOD advertisement is the best solicitor. It appeals to the people who may want what it tells about, but does not intrude upon people who care nothing about the thing.

Grass Is King!

Grass rules. It is the most valuable crop of America, worth more than either corn or wheat. Luxurious meadows are the farmers' delight. A positive way to get them, and the only one we know, is to sow Salzer's Extra Grass Mixtures. Many of our farmer readers praise them and say they get four to six ton of magnificent hay per acre from Salzer's seeds. Over one hundred different kinds of Grass, Clover and Fodder Plant seeds are sold by Salzer. If You Will Cut This Out and Send It with 7c postage to the John A. Salzer Seed Co., La Crosse, Wis., you will get a sample of Grass and Clover Mixture and their mammoth catalogue free. CNU

EVERY desire is insatiable and therefore is always in want.

Speaking from her Experience,

After years of practical use and a trial of many brands of baking powder (some of which she recommended before becoming acquainted with the great qualities of the Royal), Marion Harland finds the Royal Baking Powder to be greatly superior to all similar preparations, and states that she uses it exclusively, and deems it an act of justice and a pleasure to recommend it unqualifiedly to American Housewives.

The testimony of this gifted authority upon Household Economy coincides with that of millions of housekeepers, many of whom speak from knowledge obtained from a continuous use of Royal Baking Powder for a third of a century.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., 106 WALL ST., NEW-YORK.

A Danger in Laundries.

An investigation by Dr. Richter of Hamburg, Germany, shows that most of the fires that occur in laundries where benzine is used to wash clothes are due to electric sparks caused by friction of the bensine and the clothing as the latter is withdrawn from the bath. "In Hamburg alone 15 out of 21 fires were due to this cause. Experiments showed that woollen materials become positively electrified and the benzine negatively, and that the difference of electrical tension causes a discharge strong enough to give a painful shock, producing sparks two inches long in some instances, and lightning up the room in which the experiments were made. It is suggested that such fires may be prevented by charging the air in the room with steam."

Mobilizing Belgium's Cycling Corps

So great has been the extension of the use of the bicycle in the Belgian army, as in the other military organizations of the continent, that the minister of war at Brussels has elaborated a scheme for the prompt mobilization of the different cyclist corps. With this object special railway wagons have been constructed for the carriage of the machines. Each wagon has a carrying capacity for thirty bicycles and as many riders, half the machines being hung from the roof and half being placed in wooden grooves on the floorings. They are so arranged that they remain perfectly steady and are not liable to injury on the journey.—London Daily News.

A Terrible Visitant.

Pain is always a terrible visitant, and often domiciles itself with one for life. This infliction is preventable, in cases of rheumatism, by a timely resort to Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which checks the encroachments of this obstinate and dangerous malady at the outset. The term "dangerous" is used advisedly, for rheumatism is always liable to attack the vital organs and terminate life. No testimony is more conclusive and concurrent than that of physicians who testify to the excellent effect of the Bitters in this disease. Persons incur a wetting in rainy or snowy weather, and who are exposed to draughts, should use the Bitters as a preventive of ill effects. Malaria, dyspepsia, liver and kidney trouble, nervousness and debility are also among the ailments to which this popular medicine is adapted. For the infirmities, soreness and stiffness of the aged is highly beneficial.

Out of the Cocoanut-Tree.

The cocoanut-tree furnishes the South Sea Islanders with almost everything they want. They eat the meat and drink the oil. From the shells they make all their bowls and dishes and drinking cups. I leaves are used for thatching the roofs of the houses and for umbrellas to shelter them from the sun and rain. The wood of the tree makes very strong beams and logs for burning, and the milk of the cocoanut is given to young children to quench their thirst.

AN oculist is the man who can make people "open their eyes."

STATE OF OHIO, CITY OF TOLEDO, } ss.
LUCAS COUNTY.

FRANK J. CHENEY makes oath that he is the senior partner of the firm of F. J. CHENEY & Co., doing business in the City of Toledo, County and State aforesaid, and that said firm will pay the sum of ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS for each and every case of CATARRH that cannot be cured by the use of HALL'S CATARRH CURE.

FRANK J. CHENEY.

Sworn to before me and subscribed in my presence, this 6th day of December, A. D., 1886.

{SEAL} A. W. GLEASON, Notary Public.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Send for testimonials, free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

Sold by Druggists, 75c.

A CENT in your pocket is worth two on your handkerchief.

LUNG CONPLAINTS, BRONCHITIS, ASTHMA, &c., are speedily relieved, and if taken in time, permanently cured by Dr. D. Jayne's Expectorant. You will find it also a certain remedy for Coughs and Colds.

THE proper place for undressed kid is the bath-tub.

PISO'S CURE is a wonderful Cough medicine.—MRS. W. PICKERT, Van Sielen and Blake Aves., Brooklyn, N. Y. Oct. 26, 1894.

THROUGH by daylight—the eight-hour man.

Bad Smells in Arabia.

To the Arabs a bad smell is an invisible demon, and when a true believer is met by one it his duty to pray for help against the enemy.

How It May Happen.

"Jeminy crickets, she's got the rickets," whispered one beau to another in the company of a very pretty girl. Truly she was very beautiful, but there was a twitching about the nerves of the face which showed suffering. "No," said the other, "it's neuralgia, and she's a martyr to it." St. Jacobs Oil was suggested as the world-renowned cure for it. Did she try it? Yes, and was cured by it and—married "one of the fellows" afterwards. The use of the great remedy for pain will not bring about a marriage, but in its cure of pain it will bring about conditions of health to make life more enjoyable. No man or woman ought to marry who is a sufferer from chronic pains. We should not wed woe to win only wretchedness.

Meaning of the Precious Stones.

The meanings attached to the different precious stones are as follows: The garnet is constancy; the amethyst, sincerity; the bloodstone, courage; the sapphire, innocence; the emerald, success; the agate, long life; the carnelian, content; the pearl, tears; the diamond, purity; the opal, sorrow; the turquoise, happiness; the malachite, prosperity.—February Ladies' Home Journal.

1,000 Bu. Potatoes Per Acre.

Wonderful yields in potatoes, oats, corn, farm and vegetable seeds. Cut this out and send 5c postage to the John A. Salzer Seed Co., La Crosse, Wis., for their great seed book and sample of Giant Spurry. CNU

IF there is anything below the clouds that will make an angel red around the eyes it is an old bachelor trying to thread a needle.

To Enjoy Life

the physical machine must be in good running order. A little care—the use of Ripans Tabules—will give you every morning the feeling that you are "glad to be alive."

IF you don't want to spoil your children you may have to spoil a good many rods in raising them.

ATTEND the Fort Wayne Business College.

ON THE ROAD to recovery, the young woman who is taking Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription. In maidenhood, womanhood, wifehood and motherhood the "Prescription" is a supporting tonic and nervine that's peculiarly adapted to her needs, regulating, strengthening and curing the derangements of the sex. Why is it so many women owe their beauty to Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription? Because beauty of form and face radiate from the common center—health. The best bodily condition results from good food, fresh air and exercise coupled with the judicious use of the "Prescription."

If there be headache, pain in the back, bearing-down sensations, or general debility, or if there be nervous disturbance, nervous prostration, and sleeplessness, the "Prescription" reaches the origin of the trouble and corrects it. It dispels aches and pains, corrects displacements and cures catarrhal inflammation of the lining membranes, falling of the womb, ulceration, irregularities and kindred maladies.

"FALLING OF WOMB."

MRS. CAMFIELD.

MRS. FRANK CAMFIELD, of East Dickinson, Franklin Co., N. Y., writes: "I deem it my duty to express my deep, heart-felt gratitude to you for having been the means, under Providence, of restoring me to health, for I have been by spells unable to walk. My troubles were of the womb—inflammatory and bearing-down sensations and the doctors all said, they could not cure me.

Twelve bottles of Dr. Pierce's wonderful Favorite Prescription has cured me."

MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP for Children teething; softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic. 25 cents a bottle.

If you have Rheumatism

Or any other pain, you don't take chances with St. Jacobs Oil, for twenty years ago it began to kill pain, and it's been pain-killing ever since.

Consumption

was formerly pronounced incurable. Now it is not. In all of the early stages of the disease

Scott's Emulsion

TRADE MARK.

will effect a cure quicker than any other known specific. Scott's Emulsion promotes the making of healthy lung-tissue, relieves inflammation, overcomes the excessive waste of the disease and gives vital strength.

For Coughs, Colds, Weak Lungs, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Consumption, Scrofula, Anæmia, Loss of Flesh and Wasting Diseases of Children.

Buy only the genuine with our trade-mark on salmon-colored wrapper.

Send for pamphlet on Scott's Emulsion. FREE.

Scott & Bowne, N. Y. All Druggists. 50 cents and $1.

THE coachmen of New York are very kind to their horses, especially when engaged by the hour.

Helping His Friends.

From Ney, Defiance County, Ohio, Charles A. Bergman writes to the Sterling Remedy Co., of Chicago, that he thinks No-to-bac is one of the greatest remedies on earth. One box of No-to-bac, purchased at the local drug store, cured him of the tobacco habit, and he is now recommending No-to-bac to his friends.

SLEIGHT of hand refusing a marriage offer.

RIPANS TABULES.

The standard cure prescribed by physicians everywhere for the common every-day ills of the household.

Constipation, Headache, Heartburn, Dizziness, Biliousness, Dyspepsia.

ALL DRUGGISTS, Or by Mail, one bottle, 15 cents; twelve bottles, $1.

RIPANS CHEMICAL COMPANY, 10 Spruce St., New York.

TEXAS, MEXICO and CALIFORNIA.

— VIA —

Wabash Line

In connection with the St. Louis, Iron Mountain & Southern Railway, Texas & Pacific Railway, International & Great Northern Railroad, and Southern Pacific Railway, known as the ONLY TRUE SOUTHERN ROUTE, has placed in service a Through First-Class Sleeping Car and Tourist Sleeping Car, leaving Chicago daily at 10:30 A. M., via St. Louis to Little Rock, Malvern (Hot Springs), Austin, San Antonio, Laredo (where a direct connection is made with through sleeping car for the City of Mexico), El Paso, Los Angeles and San Francisco. This is the only line from Chicago which can offer this excellent service. Call or write to any ticket agent of the Wabash or connecting line for printed matter showing time, route, rates, description of cars, etc., or

R. G. BUTLER, D. P. A., Detroit, Mich.
F. H. TRISTRAM, C. P. A., Pittsburg, Pa.
P. E. DONBAUGH, P. & T. A., Toledo, Ohio.
R. G. THOMPSON, P. & T. A., Fort Wayne, Ind.
J. HALDERMAN, M. P. A., 201 Clark St., Chicago, Ill.
J. M. McCONNELL, P. & T. A., Lafayette, Ind.
G. D. MAXFIELD, D. P. A., Indianapolis, Ind.
C. S. CRANE, G. P. & T. A., St. Louis, Mo.

W. L. DOUGLAS $3 SHOE IS THE BEST. FIT FOR A KING.

$5. CORDOVAN, FRENCH & ENAMELLED CALF.
$4.$3.50 FINE CALF & KANGAROO.
$3.50 POLICE, 3 SOLES.
$2.50 $2. WORKINGMEN'S. EXTRA FINE.
$2. $1.75 BOYS' SCHOOL SHOES.
LADIES.
$3.$2.50 $2. $1.75 BEST DONGOLA.
SEND FOR CATALOGUE. W. L. DOUGLAS, BROCKTON, MASS.

Over One Million People wear the W. L. Douglas $3 & $4 Shoes

All our shoes are equally satisfactory. They give the best value for the money. They equal custom shoes in style and fit. Their wearing qualities are unsurpassed. The prices are uniform,—stamped on sole. From $1 to $3 saved over other makes. If your dealer cannot supply you we can.

LINENE REVERSIBLE

Raphael, Angelo, Rubens, Tasso

The "LINENE REVERSIBLE" are the Best and Most Economical Collars and Cuffs worn; they are made of fine cloth, both sides finished alike, and, being reversible, one collar is equal to two of any other kind. They fit well, wear well and look well. A box of 10c Collars or Five Pairs of Cuffs for Twenty-five Cents. A Sample Collar and Pair of Cuffs by mail for Six Cents. Name style and size. Address

REVERSIBLE COLLAR COMPANY, 77 FRANKLIN ST., NEW YORK. 27 KILBY ST., BOSTON.

DROPSY TREATED FREE. Positively CURED with Vegetable Remedies. Have cured many thousand cases pronounced hopeless. From first dose symptoms rapidly disappear, and in ten days at least two-thirds of all symptoms are removed. BOOK of testimonials of miraculous cures sent FREE. Ten Days Treatment Furnished Free by Mail. DR. H. H. GREEN & SONS, SPECIALISTS ATLANTA, GEORGIA

PENSION JOHN W. MORRIS, Washington, D. C. Successfully Prosecutes Claims. Late Principal Examiner U. S. Pension Bureau. 3 yrs in last war, 15 adjudicating claims, atty since.

KIDDER'S PASTILLES Sure relief. Price 25 cts. ASTHMA. By mail. Sewell & Co. Charlestown, Mass.

F. W. N. U. - - - - No. 6—95

When Writing to Advertisers, say you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION

LYON'S ☆☆☆ WONDERS

A SPECIFIC For all DERANGEMENTS of the STOMACH. PRICE $1.00

Manf'd by THE LYON MEDICINE CO. INDIANAPOLIS IND.

FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

Chronic Dyspepsia Vanishes.

Mrs. Sarah A. Maudlin, sixty-eight years old, and living at Thorntown, Ind., says: "I suffered from chronic dyspepsia for more than thirty years, with severe pains in the stomach and head. For years I did not dare to eat vegetables of any kind. Since taking LYON'S SEVEN WONDERS I have a good appetite, my health is almost restored and I am fleshier than I have been before for many years."

Cured of Catarrh of the Stomach.

The Lyon Medicine Company:

GENTLEMEN—I can not say too much in praise of your great remedy—LYON'S SEVEN WONDERS. I have suffered for years with a deranged stomach. Physicians treated me for catarrh of the stomach. I was advised by a friend to try your remedy; I have done so and am cured.

WALTER DRAKE,
32 Byram Place, Indianapolis.

PURE

ARM AND HAMMER

BEWARE of imitation trade marks and labels.

is the whole story about

ARM AND HAMMER SODA

in packages. Costs no more than other package soda—never spoils flour—universally acknowledged purest in the world.

Made only by CHURCH & CO., New York. Sold by grocers everywhere.

Write for Arm and Hammer Book of valuable Recipes—FREE.

Spring Curry Comb

Clock Spring Blade. Soft as a Brush. Fits every Curve. The Only Perfect Comb. Used by U. S. Army and by Barnum and Forepaugh Circuses, and Leading Horsemen of the World. Ask your Dealer for It. Sample mailed post paid 25 cents.

See our name on the handle. SPRING CURRY COMB CO., 104 Lafayette St., South Bend, Indiana.

Wabash line

GOING EAST.

Boston Express	8 21 am	Daily
Detroit Accom'n	2 04 pm	ex su
New York Limited	7 36 pm	Daily

GOING WEST.

Logansport Accommodation	7 15 am	Daily
Mail and Express	12 23 pm	ex Su
Chicago & St. Louis Lim(53)	7 35 pm	Daily

All these trains stop for passengers.

For rates, Tickets, Time Table, etc., apply to I. M. ZENT, Agent, Auburn, Ind.

CHAS M. HAYS, V. Pres. and Gen'l Manager.
C. S. CRANE, Gen'l Pass'r and Ticket Agent.

L. S. & M. S. R. R.

TIME TABLE—In Effect Nov. 18, 1894

TRAINS GOING NORTH

Stations—	Mail		Express		Freight
Fort Wayne,	p 11 45	am	4 40	pm	9 45	am
New Era	12 14	pm	5 14		7 27
Auburn Junc.	12 25		5 25		7 38
Auburn	12 29		5 29		8 37
Waterloo	12 41		5 41		9 24
Summit	12 52		5 52		9 45
Steubenville	12 56		5 56
Pleasant Lake	1 03		6 03		10 12
Angola	1 13		6 14		10 50
Jackson	3 25		8 35		4 30

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Stations—	Freight		Express		Mail
Jackson	dp 6 55	am	11 20	am	6 30	p
Angola	12 25	pm	2 21	pm	8 51
Pleasant Lake	1 03		2 32		9 01
Steubenville			2 40		9 07
Summit	1 25		2 44		9 11
Waterloo	2 30		3 00		9 24
Auburn	3 00		3 11		9 35
Auburn Junc.	3 14		3 13		9 38
New Era	4 05		3 23		9 50
Fort Wayne	5 25		3 55		10 20

For rates on tickets or freight to all points call on or address K. T. DeLAPP, Agent at Auburn.

Cures Colds.

A Des Moines woman who has been troubled with frequent colds, concluded to try an old remedy in a new way, and accordingly took a tablespoonful (four times the usual dose) of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy just before going to bed. The next morning she found that her cold had almost entirely disappeared. During the day she took a few doses of the remedy (one teaspoonful at a time) and at night again took a tablespoonful before going to bed, and on the following morning awoke free from all symptoms of the cold. Since then she has, on several occasions, used this remedy in like manner, with the same good results, and is much elated over her discovery of so quick a way of curing a cold. For sale by Robbins & McCord. 6 9

It is Rank Nonsense

To suppose that rheumatism, gout, neuralgia, and kindred diseases can be cured in a few days' time. These poisons can only be eradicated by reaching them through the blood. Infallible Scotch Cure, just introduced in America, reaches and cures the disease by driving the poison from the blood. It never fails. Try it. Accept no substitute. For sale by Fischler & Son. 6 7

Is a Good Thing.

O. W. O. Hardman, Sheriff of Tyler Co., W. Va., appreciates a good thing and does not hesitate to say so. He was almost prostrated with a cold when he procured a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. He says: "It gave me prompt relief. I find it to be an invaluable remedy for coughs and colds." For sale by Robbins & McCord. 6 9

Where are we Drifting?

Literally millions of our American people are suffering from nervous trouble, lassitude, mental depression, sleeplessness, loss of nerve and brain power, etc. La Grippe is responsible for thousands of new cases, but a specific has been found at last, the invention of a celebrated Scotch chemist. It is called Vitaline and Nervetone. Take no other. It never disappoints. Sold by Fischler & Son. 6 7

Relieves Pain at Once.

Mrs Emily Thorne, who resides at Toledo, Washington, says she has never been able to procure any medicine for rheumatism that relieves the pain so quickly and effectually as Chamberlain's Pain Balm and that she has also used it for lame back with great success. For sale by Robbins & McCord. 6-9

Paying Positions. Good News for the Unemployed.

FLORIDA

has made phenomenal development in the past year, millions have been invested in new industries, business of all kinds is good and labor is in active demand. Do you want a paying position in the Land of Flowers? We have many to fill and can secure employment of any kind, and only charge a small fee when position is secured. Clerks, book-keepers, stenographers, servant girls, gardeners, farm hands, and all unemployed persons who wish to better their conditions should at once send three cents (postage for book of vacancies and salaries paid. Don't delay. Best of reference. Address

FLORIDA BUREAU OF LABOR,
KLINE O. VARN, Manager,
Fort Meade, Florida

Marvelous Results

From a letter written by Rev J. Gunderman, of Dimondale, Mich., we are permitted to make this extract: "I have no hesitation in recommending Dr King's New Discovery, as the results were almost marvelous in the case of my wife. While I was pastor of the Baptist church at Rives Junction she was brought down with pneumonia succeeding lagrippe. Terrible paroxysms of coughing would last hours with little interruption and it seemed as if she could not survive them. A friend recommended Dr King's New Discovery; it was quick in its work and highly satisfactory in results." Trial bottles free at Robbins & McCord's drug store. Regular size 50c. and $1.00. 1

Experiments prove that snakes will not cross hair ropes.

Relief In Six Hours.

Distressing Kidney and Bladder diseases relieved in six hours by the "New Great South American Kidney Cure." This new remedy is a great surprise on account of its exceeding promptness in relieving pain in the bladder, kidneys, back and every part of the urinary passages in male or female. It relieves retention of water and pain in passing it almost immediately. If you want quick relief and cure this is your remedy. Sold by Robbins and McCord druggists Auburn Ind. 34tf

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

The deadly parallel—the railroad track.—Puck.

A Battle Scarred Veteran.

Nearly every one in Medina Co., Ohio, knows Stephen Rolph, of River Styx, the one legged veteran, who lost his leg at Winchester, Va., March 23, '62. In all probability the exposure and privations of army service, the effects of which are felt as they grow older by nearly all old soldiers, were the cause of the serious nervous prostration and sleeplessness of which Comrade Rolph complained. He says: "People hereabout know me pretty well, but you can tell others that I was down for about six months with nervous prostration and sleeplessness for which I tried various doctors and medicines, but Dr. Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer has done me more good than all the doctoring I had done. The first bottle gave me such great relief that I have used several and feel almost restored to my former good health." Dr. Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer can be relied upon by any who are suffering from nervous troubles, sleeplessness, etc. If all tried out and run down, you need a reliable nerve and system tonic and health restorer as this remedy is. Sold in Auburn by F. E. Davenport. 6 9

Chronic Diarrhœa.

The experience of Geo. A. Apgar, of German Valley, N. J., is well worth remembering. He was troubled with chronic diarrhœa and doctored for five months and was treated by four different doctors without benefit. He then began using Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy, of which one small bottle effected a complete cure. It is for sale by Robbins & McCord. 6-9

A Reward of $500

Will be given for any case of rheumatism which cannot be cured with Dr. Drummond's Lightning Remedy. The proprietors do not hide this offer, but print it in bold type on all their circulars, wrappers, printed matter, and though the columns of newspaper everywhere. It will work wonders, one treatment curing any ordinary case. The two bottles will be sent to any address by express on receipt of $5. Drummond Medicine Co., 48 Maiden Land, New York. Agents wanted. 6 7

The better men and women know each other the less they say about ideals.

Under title of "The Dream City" there comes to us this week a very handsome art series of photographic views. The volume contains 64 high class photo gravures size 11 by 14 inches of selected and representative views of the Columbian Exposition. The cover is and omel designed in gold and colors, and the work throughout is the perfection of printers' art. The collection of views is offered at a special price of 50 cents, postage paid. The N. Thomp on Publishing Co., 1120 Pine Street, St. Louis, publishers Educational Art Series.

The natives of Australia use telegraph wire to make bracelets, earrings and nose rings, and tear down the telegraph lines for that purpose.

Free Pills.

Send your address to H. E. Bucklen & Co., Chicago, and get a free sample box of Dr. King's New Life pills. A trial will convince you of their merits. These pills are easy in action and are particularly effective in the cure of constipation and sick headache. For Malaria and liver troubles they have been proved invaluable. They are guaranteed to be perfectly free from every deleterious substance and to be purely vegetable. They do not weaken by their action, but by giving tone to stomach and bowels greatly invigorate the system. Regular size 25c per box. Sold at Robbins & McCord drug store. 4

Rheumatism Cured in a Day.—"Mystic Cure" for Rheumatism and Neuralgia, radically cures in 1 to 3 days. Its action upon the system is remarkable and mysterious. It removes at once the cause, and the disease immediately disappears. The first dose greatly benefits. 75 cts. Sold by Robbins & McCord, druggists Auburn. 41

PILES! PILES! PILES!

Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment will cure Blind, Bleeding and Itching Piles when all other Ointments have failed. It absorbs the tumors, allays the itching at once, acts as a poultice, gives instant relief. Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment is prepared only for Piles and Itching of the private parts, and nothing else. Every box is warranted. Sold by druggists, or sent by mail on receipt of price, 50c. and $1.00 per box. WILLIAMS MFG. CO., Prop's, Cleveland, O. Sold on a guarantee by Matheny & Gerke.

BUCKLEN'S ARNICA SALVE.—The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Robbins & McCord. tf

T. F. Anthony, ex-postmaster of Promise City, Iowa, says: "I bought one bottle of 'Mystic Cure' for Rheumatism and two doses of it did me more good than all the medicine I ever took." Sold by Robbins & McCord, druggists, Auburn. 41tf

Relief in One Day.

South American Nervine relieves the worst cases of nervous prostrations, nervousness and nervous dyspepsia in a single day. No such relief and blessing has ever come to the invalids of this country. Its powers to cure the stomach are wonderful in the extreme. It always cures; it cannot fail. It radically cures all weakness of the stomach and never disappoints. Its effects are marvelous and surprising.—It gladdens the hearts of the suffering and brings immediate relief. It is a luxury to take and always safe. Trial bottles 15 cents. Sold by Robbins and McCord druggists Auburn Ind. 34tf

Tank cars are used in France for the transportation of wine.

DR. WILLIAMS' KIDNEY PILLS

A remedy that has no equal in diseases of the Kidneys and Urinary Organs. Have you neglected your kidneys? Have you overworked your nervous system and caused trouble with your kidneys and liver? Have you pains in the loins, side, back, loins and bladder? Have you a flabby appearance of the face, especially under the eyes? Too frequent desire to pass urine? No matter what the cause, we know Dr. Williams' Kidney Pills will cure you. Imparts new life to the diseased organs, tones up the whole system and makes a new man of you. Mailed on receipt of price, $1 00 per box.

WILLIAMS M'F'G CO., Props., Cleveland, O.
Sold by FISCHLER & SON Auburn. 1y38

$1,000 For Nothing.

Curtis Buntin, President St., Brooklyn, N. Y., spent $1,000 with doctors, and at famous Springs, in the effort to cure a bad case of rheumatism; but to no avail. Drummond's Lightning Remedy helped him from the start, and by its use he was fully restored. It will do the same for you if given a trial. Send $5 to the Drummond Medicine Co., 48 Maiden Lane, New York, and they will send to your express address a month's treatment—two large bottles of their remedy. Agents wanted. 6-7

DO not be deceived. The following brands of White Lead are still made by the "Old Dutch" process of slow corrosion. They are standard, and always

Strictly Pure White Lead

The recommendation of

"Anchor,"	"Collier,"
"Eckstein,"	"Shipman,"
"Armstrong & McKelvy,"	"Southern,"
"Beymer-Bauman,"	"Red Seal,"
"Davis-Chambers,"	"Fahnestock,"

to you by your merchant is an evidence of his reliability, as he can sell you cheap ready-mixed paints and bogus White Lead and make a larger profit. Many short-sighted dealers do so.

FOR COLORS.—National Lead Co.'s Pure White Lead Tinting Colors, a one-pound can to a two-pound keg of Lead and mix your own colors. Saves time and annoyance in matching shades, and insures the best paint that it is possible to put on wood.

Send us a postal card and get our book on paints and color-card, free; it will probably save you a good many dollars.

NATIONAL LEAD CO.
Chicago Branch,
State and Fifteenth Streets, Chicago.

The "Constitution" and the "Java

From Harper's Weekly

The latter part of December, 1812, the old frigate Constitution, under the command of Commodore William Bainbridge, was cruising in southern waters off the coast of Brazil. Her brave little consort, the Hornet, she had left blockading the Bonne Citoyenne, a British sloop of war, in the harbor of Bahia. Every day the Hornet dared the Englishman to leave her anchorage and meet her, broadside to broadside, in the open sea beyond the neutral limits and the protection of Brazilian guns. Writes Captain Lawrence, of the Yankee sloop, to Capt in Green, of the Bonne Citoyenne: "I pledge my honor that neither the Constitution nor any other American vessel shall interfere."

And as if to emphasize this announcement the Constitution spread her sails and sailed off to the southward, Bainbridge's last message to the watching Lawrence being, "May glory and success attend you!" But Captain Green was prudent; the English vessel kept to the harbor with her load of specie and her superior armament, and Bainbridge it was who won the "glory and success." Surely the Constitution was launched on a lucky day. About sixty hours after leaving the Island of St. Salvador behind her the Constitution was again clearing decks for action, and the men were cheering as they jumped to the guns.

The following is the official account that Commodore Bainbridge made to the Secretary of the Navy. It is as concise and dramatic as all the reports of naval heroes were in those days, and as he wrote Bainbridge was suffering from serious wounds and in danger of his life:

"I have the honor to inform you that on the 29th of December, at 2 p. m., in south latitude 13 degrees and 6 minutes, west longitude 38 degrees, and about ten leagues distance from the coast of Brazil, I fell in with, and captured, his Britannic Majesty's frigate, Java, of forty-nine guns, and upwards of four hundred men, commanded by Captain Lambert, a very distinguished officer. The action lasted one hour and fifty-five minutes, in which time the enemy was completely dismantled, not having a spar of any kind standing.

The loss on board the Constitution was 9 killed and 25 wounded, as per enclosed list. The enemy had 60 killed and 101 wounded (among the latter, Captain Lambert mortally), but by the enclosed letter, written on board this ship by one of the officers of the Java, and accidentally found, it is evident that the enemy's wounded must have been much greater than as above stated, and who must have died of their wounds previous to their being removed. The letter states 60 killed and 170 wounded....

Should I attempt to do justice, by representation, to the brave and good conduct of my officers and crew, I should fail in the attempt; therefore, suffice it to say that the whole of their conduct was such as to meet my highest encomiums. I beg leave to recommend the officers, particularly, to the notice of the government, as, also, the unfortunate seamen who were wounded, and the families of those brave men who fell in action.

The great distance from our own coast, and the perfect wreck we made of the enemy's frigate, forbade every idea of attempting to take her to the United States. I had, therefore, no alternate but burning her, which I did on the 31st, after receiving all the prisoners and their baggage, which was very hard work, only having two boats left out of sight, and not one left on board the Java.

On blowing up the frigate Java I proceeded to St. Salvador, where I landed all the prisoners on their parole, to return to England, and there remain until regularly exchanged, and not to serve in their official capacities in any place or in any manner whatsoever against the United States of America until their exchange shall be effected."

A pathetic and dramatic incident occurred when the wounded Captain Lambert was being moved off the ship at St Salvador. He lay on the deck suffering intense pain, when Bainbridge, supported by two officers, approached. Bending down with great difficulty, he placed Captain Lambert's side-arms on the cot on which the latter lay, saying that the sword of so brave a man should never be taken from him; then the two wounded commanders grasped hand in mutual respect and admiration.

Fayette is the seat of a progressive and prosperous Normal University. Its success is due to the high aim and far reaching wisdom of its founders. It is a school with a purpose. It has something of importance to say to every prosperous student in the country. The Normal work is a specialty but there are Preparatory, Commercial, Musical, Elocutionary, Shorthand, Typewriting, and Fine Art Departments, in addition to regular college courses. It has an able faculty, ample equipments, superior location and large attendance. Expenses are less than half what they are in many institutions.

Write for catalogue to President of University
J. E. DODDS, Fayette, O.

Rebecca Wilkinson, of Brownsvalley, Ind., says: I have been in a distressed condition for three years from Nervousness Weakness of the Stomach, Dyspepsia and Indigestion until my health was gone. I had been doctoring constantly with no relief. I bought one bottle of South American Nervine, which did me more good than any $50 worth of doctoring I ever did in my life. I would advise every weakly person to use this valuable and lovely remedy; a few bottles of it has cured me completely. I consider it the greatest medicine in the world." Warranted the most wonderful stomach and nerve cure ever known. Trial bottles 15 cents. Sold by Robbins and McCord druggists Auburn Ind. 34tf

The school children of Vermont have voted to make the red clover the flower of the Green Mountain State.

HARD TIMES 1845—1895

[Communicated]

A very common expression on part of those with whom we meet is, "I never saw so wet a season," "I never saw so dry a season," "I never saw so cold a day," and I never saw times so hard and money so scarce and hard to get." While some of these expressions may be true on part of some of those who utter them, they are often far from true with many others who so frequently make use of them.

I recall with a vivid recollection, some of the events of the year 1845. I was but a small boy, four children were older and three younger than myself all crowded around the fire place on cold winter days. Our house was situated near a small stream, and a few straggling fruit trees were near it. I distinctly remember a large peach tree that grew near by and often bore delicious fruit. Our house, then known as a cabin, was about 16x20 feet in size, built of round logs, chinked and daubed with mud between the logs. It had but one room and a loft or "garret" reached by ladder from below. Loths "rent" a goodly number of us slept, without mattresses or springs, out on sacks was sweet and sound. Our drowsy morning nap was often disturbed by snow drifting down upon our faces and our beds covered with an extra coverlet of the beautiful, and when we arose, had to walk in snow in our bare feet to the ladder and descend to the fire place and don our scanty apparel, which consisted of the fewest garments known to necessity, shoes often being a luxury. The room contained a single door and a single window. The fire place was large and filled about half the space of one end of the house, and was built of stone, mud, bog ore and sticks, with the chimney part on the outside. In cold weather the fire never went out, a large log known as a "back-log" was rolled into the house in the evening, and placed in the back part of the fire place, and a few sticks placed on the andirons and the fire kindled between them. The back-log was sometimes a part of a buckeye tree that my father said would sprout before it would burn. In this single room was arranged two or three beds, a bureau, a chest or two, a table, cupboard made by boring holes in the legs of the table and driving pins in them and laying boards on the pins, and a few split bottomed chairs. The frames of these chairs were made by some rude mechanic, and we went to the woods peeled elm park and plaited bottoms for them. Sometimes a rude stool or two was added for the little ones. The cooking of the few necessaries of life, meat, sometimes potatoes, corn bread, or corn prepared in some manner, rye or wheat coffee was prepared by my mother, or older sisters over the fire place. To facilitate matters, an iron beam fastened in the side wall of the fire place on hinges and known as a crane, was in common use. This was made by the nearest blacksmith. The baking of bread when we chanced to have wheat flour was done in a "dutch-oven" a deep-round pot like iron vessel in which the prepared loaf, was placed and covered with a lid of the same material, that was surrounded by a high flange. A bed of red hot coals were taken from the fire, the oven placed on these coals and the lid placed upon the oven and several shovel fulls of coals placed on the lid, and then a careful watch kept until it was done and oftener done too. When I was quite small, I fell striking my forehead on the flange of one of these oven lids which left a scar plainly visible today. Near our house were a number of large hickory trees, that bore abundantly nearly every year. When on a visit to that place last fall, the trunk of one of these best known trees, that we children had given the name of my oldest sister, was lying near where it had stood.

I have seen my sisters wrap their feet in rags, for they had no shoes, and wade the snow to these trees, and gather nuts that had just fallen in the snow. We generally got a single pair of shoes or boots once a year. They were made by a man who bore the familiar name of "Butler". He had one staying quality, that of lying, and as the colder days of autumn approached I would go to him and have my measure taken, and get a faithful promise, that upon a certain day I should come and get my shoes. I would wait and watch anxiously for the promised day, and with red feet and chilling limbs I would climb the three miles of stony hills to the village, where he lived, to find that he had not yet cut them out. My father had bought the leather and taken it there to be made up. I would repeat these visits three or four times, the barefooted trip getting more and more difficult as it grew colder. Finally about the time snow would begin to fall I would get my shoes, and commence to get ready to go to school which was conducted in a log building 1½ miles distant, but supplied with a Tin plate stove, a little difficult to describe, a stove about 3½ feet long and about of the same height, with a hole about 18 inches square from side to side near the middle. The furniture was very simple. A board or slab, about twenty inches wide fastened to the wall on three sides of the room inclining toward the center of the room was the desk; a slab, or puncheon, with holes bored in the end into which was inserted wooden legs was our seat. The teacher sometimes had a chair. Our books were few; the Bible was an ordinary reading book, and I very distinctly remember seeing some over grown boys or girls whose pants and dresses had become entirely too small for them standing up and slowly deciphering some of the chapters about David and Goliah, or Sampson and the Phillistines, with many long drawn pauses between the big difficult words.

McGuffey's series of readers came into use soon after this; reading, writing, a little arithmetic and geography, (Olneys) and eventually an occasional boy or girl who wanted to be smart, studied grammar, (Kirkham.) But reading and spelling were the great ends of education. Some of the parents refused to allow their girls to learn to write, for fear they would write letters to their beaux. No blackboards were in use. I remember when our school united together and raised a couple of dollars to buy a blackboard. My days in school at this period of life were few, I either had no shoes, or had not sufficient clothing, or had no books, or had to stay at home and help on the farm. So at the age of fifteen I had only mastered reading and writing. My article is already too long, so must defer the remainder for a future letter.

J. A. O.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

Safeguards Against Catarrh.

Both from the obstructions occasioned by incipient catarrh, and from habit, young children breathe through the mouth. If parents would make it an axiom of the nursery and the playground, "Breath through your nose only," the cure would be well begun. Let the lesson be repeated, enforced and insisted upon, until it becomes second nature with the child. Let it be more familiar than the daily routine of exercises, and as necessary as the means.

Set it as a part of the pupil's education that he shall walk a certain number of rounds of the playground at a rapid rate with his lips tightly closed. Make the opening of them during the round a demerit, and the completion of the task in accordance with directions, a merit. Increase the distance and the speed daily. When a boy or girl can walk, at a rapid pace, or, better run, three hundred yards, breathing only through the nose, and repeat the performance thrice during the day, there need be small fear of chronic nasal catarrh.

Even when the disease has become seated in a young person, it may be eradicated by persistence in this exercise, which, as everyone knows, increases the lung-power and benefits the circulatory system at the same time. It is a very simple remedy, but, persevered in, it is a perfect one. In persons of any age, a very efficacious remedy, often curative, if used regularly, is salt water snuffed into the nostrils night and morning. A strong solution of sea salt (or even common table salt) in water should be kept in a bottle, and when needed a sufficient quantity diluted with warm water so that the liquid will have only a slightly salt taste. A large glassful is sufficient, and the salted water should be used at blood heat. It can be used at any time, though it is best to take it just before retiring, and immediately upon rising in the morning; but never just before going out-of-doors.—From "Sanitarian," in Demorest's Magazine for February.

Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly For February.

In the February number of Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly the momentous conditions and prospects confronting Nicholas II., the young Czar of Russia, "On the Threshold of a Reign," are the subject of a peculiarly well-informed article by Valerian Gribayedoff. This is richly illustrated with pen drawings by the author, and a large number of rare portraits. Closely associated with the great Eastern Question, also, as well as possessing a highly picturesque interest of its own, is Mde Blowitz's account of "A Trip to Bosnia-Herzegovina." Theo Tracy tells the fascinating "Story of the Silk-worm," charmingly illustrated with photographs specially taken for the purpose in the famous silk-raising districts of Friuli, in Northern Italy. The breezy log of "A Yachting Cruise in Scotch Waters," with numerous sketches of the same, is contributed by Commodore John MacRae, of the Brooklyn Yacht Club. Other notable illustrated articles in this brilliant number of Frank Leslie's are: "Wonders of the Edison Kinetoscope," by Antonia K. L. Dickson; "Among the Veddahs of Ceylon," by F. Fitz-Roy Dixon; "The Mechanism of the Stage," by Arthur Hornblow; and Irving Allen's delightful Winter paper, entitled "The Best of Seasons." Short tales of uncommon excellence are "Dead!" by Nora K. Marble; "The Mystery of the Forty-second Street Murder," by Chamberlain Bissel; and "The Story of a Nad," by Charles V. Cusachs.

IVORY SOAP

IT FLOATS

FORTY MILLION CAKES YEARLY.

THE PROCTER & GAMBLE CO., CINTI.

Silver and Gold.

Something everybody wants, something all can get by securing a copy of Vick's Floral Guide for 1895, a work of art, printed in 17 different tinted inks, with beautiful colored plates. Full list, with description and prices, of everything one could wish for vegetable, fruit or flower garden. Many pages of new novelties, encased in a chaste cover of silver and gold.

Unusual and astonishing offers, such as Sweet Peas for 40 cents a pound, $3.00 for a name for a New Double Sweet Pea, etc. If at all interested in seeds or plants send 10 cents at once for a copy of Vick's Floral Guide, which amount may be deducted from first order, to James Vick's Sons, Rochester, N. Y., and learn the many bargains this firm is offering.

Right Arm Paralyzed!

Saved from St. Vitus Dance.

"Our daughter, Blanche, now fifteen years of age, had been terribly afflicted with nervousness, and had lost the entire use of her right arm. We feared St. Vitus dance, and tried the best physicians, with no benefit. She has taken three bottles of Dr. Miles' Nervine and has gained 31 pounds. Her nervousness and symptoms of St. Vitus dance are entirely gone; she attends school regularly, and has recovered complete use of her arm, her appetite is splendid."

MRS. R. R. BULLOCK, Brighton, N. Y.

Dr. Miles' Nervine Cures.

Dr. Miles' Nervine is sold on a positive guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. All druggists sell it at $1, 6 bottles for $5, or it will be sent, prepaid, on receipt of price by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria

"CELLULOID" COLLARS AND CUFFS are made by covering a linen collar or cuff with "celluloid," thus making them strong, durable and waterproof. When soiled they can be cleaned by simply wiping off with a wet cloth. No other waterproof goods are made with this interlining, consequently no other goods can possibly give satisfaction. Do not forget that every piece of the genuine is stamped as follows:

TRADE CELLULOID MARK.

Insist upon goods so marked and refuse anything else if offered. If your dealer does not keep them you can procure a sample from us direct by enclosing amount and stating size and whether stand-up or turned-down collar is wanted. Collars 25c. each. Cuffs 50c. pair.

The Celluloid Company,
427-429 Broadway, New York.

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder World's Fair Highest Award.

Going to Buy a Watch?

If so, buy one that cannot be stolen. The only thief-proof Watches are those with

Non-pull-out

BOWS.

Here's the Idea:

The bow has a groove on each end, and a bar runs down inside of the pendant (stem) and fits into the groove and firmly locks the bow to the pendant, so that it cannot be pulled or twisted out.

To be sure of getting a Non-pull-out see that the case is stamped with this trade mark. It cannot be had with other movements.

Send for Catalogue.

Keystone Watch Case Co.,
PHILADELPHIA.

THE AUBURN COURIER.

VOLUME XXV. AUBURN, DE KALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY. FEBRUARY 14. 1895. NUMBER 7.

THIS IS NEW.

READ!

WHAT WE HAVE TO SAY ABOUT MNOEY.

The Indiana Mutual Building Loan Association, which we represent in this part of the state, have again reduced their interest, which has always been from 2 to 5 per cent less than any other Building Loan Association Do you know that if you are about to borrow money and give a mortgage on your home, you should take the time and trouble to investigate the plan of different associations, so that you may know, regardless of what any agent may tell you, which is the cheapest andthe best?

There are three items which should also be considered and thoroughly understood, especially by the borrower, before he makes his application for a loan:

First: The rate of interest and premium he is charged per annum.

Second: What the earnings of the Association are

Third: How economically the Association is conducting its affairs.

We are prepared always to compare our company with any other, and can prove to your entire satisfaction that we are the cheapest and

REMEMBER

That in our company you have no membership fee to pay, no advance payments to make and there will be no delays, so that should your loan for any reason be declined, you will lose no money We are prepared to make loans where the security is sufficient; for any amount from $2. 00 to $25.0

If you have a loan in any other company it will pay you to call on us and get our figures and

Change your Loan at Once

We are also prepared to make

FARM LOANS

at from

3 to 6 per cent

interest.

We are still in line for Insurance, and Cheap R. R Tickets and have now on hand more bargains in

REAL ESTATE

than ever before

CALL ON OR ADDRESS

RICKEL & SPROTT

AUBURN, IND.

THOSE CHAIN LETTERS.

The Courier gets the True Story as usual and Gives the Facts to Its Readers.

HERE is the truth about the whole scheme, the "stamp scheme" and "chain letters," so much of which has filled the papers with comments lately. And that some of these comments were wild and wide of the mark will be plain as we give the following details.

On Monday of this week, we received a neatly written letter from Mrs Pierson, New Era, this county, which is accompanied by a letter from the postmaster at Kaneville, Ill., both of which we here publish, as well as the article from the Chicago Record, which Mrs. Pierson sends. It might be well, first to explain what the "chain letters" means. In this case Edna R. Brown, sends out a letter to some acquaintance asking that canceled stamps be sent to the writer, and marks her letter "No. 1." The person receiving it is asked to write to three of her friends, three other letters, marking each one "No. 2," and in these letters, each asks the recipient to send out three other letters each marked "No. 3" and so on, until the number reached 50. By this time, it will be seen that millions of letters will be sent. The scheme originated with a congregation that wanted to build a church, and asked that in each letter, two good stamps be sent. The rest is explained in the letters and the article.

MRS PIERSON'S LETTER.

NEW ERA IND FEB. 11, 1895.

EDITOR COURIER:

I saw in last week's Dispatch an explanation of the "stamp scheme." I think I have a better one. I wrote the postmaster at Kaneville and asked him why he delivered mail to Miss Brown after his statement that there was no such person there and here is his reply. You may publish it if you wish, also the clipping he enclosed.

Yours Respectfully,

MRS. M. D. PIERSON

KANEVILLE, FEB 6, 1895.

DEAR MADAM:—I desire to inform you that I never told you or any other person that Edna R. Brown does not live here. I probably told you there was no Edna B here that is a cripple as there is not, but it seems you have misunderstood it I do not consider myself responsible for the sensational newspaper articles that are being published all over the country. I enclose you herewith a clipping that gives a true story of the matter, the only straight one I have seen yet.

Yours

P. M.

MRS EDNA GARMAN DEVOUTLY WISHES THAT SHE HAD NOT STARTED A "CHAIN"

[Special to the Chicago Record.]

KANEVILLE, Ill., Jan. 22.—The entire country is becoming interested in the small village because of the astonishing success of the now celebrated stamp collecting "chain." It has brought into prominence two worthy dwellers in Kaneville, Mrs. Edna R. Garman, better known to thousands of benevolent stamp contributors as Edna Brown, and the hard working third-class postmaster of Kaneville, Mr. Shoelhorn.

Edna Brown, who is a native of Jefferson county, New York, came to Kaneville about four years ago. Here she became engaged to Charles Garman, a brother of her betrothed is Miss Mettie Garman, who is a cripple, having been afflicted with spinal trouble for the last twelve years, or since she was 6 years old The sister-in-law becoming greatly attached to the young girl, and having heard of a cripple in Sycamore, Ill., who set out to collect 1,000,000 canceled stamps, from the sale of which he hoped to get money to purchase a cork leg conceived the idea of making a similar collection with a view to getting money to pay for Miss Garman's treatment in a hospital.

Miss Brown wrote to friends at her old home in New York for assistance in swelling the collection of canceled stamps There one of her friends suggested the collection by geometrical progression Miss Brown approved the idea, and consequently the first letter was launched by the New York lady in Edna R. Brown' name, which is on most of the letters now going the rounds of the whole United States, as well as Canada and Mexico The originators of the plan never dreamed of the results that this original letter has brought about. What ever inconvenience the "chain" may have been to the good people who so readily and sincerely responded, it is safe to say the intentions of the originators were sincere The credit for the "chain" idea belongs in the main to a lady in New York state. She it was who started a "chain" of letters numbering from one to fifty, trebling itself at every number, and asking every one receiving a copy to send ten or more canceled stamps to Miss Brown. After the start the good-natured public took hold with a will, and canceled stamps are pouring into the Kaneville postoffice.

Miss Brown, who has now become Mrs. Garman, is receiving from 10,000 to 15,000 letters every day, and already has on hand millions of canceled stamps which she does not want and has no idea how to utilize. Her chest was now so that stamps would quit coming.

Postmaster Shoellhorn meanwhile has the distinction of handling more mail daily than any other fourth class postmaster ever did. One day recently he turned over 20,000 letters to Mrs. Garman. As Kaneville is not on any railroad the mail is brought once a day by stage from Sugar Grove, eight miles away. Before the "chain" got into working order only a handful of letters arrived daily; now there are bags of them, and the trouble continues to grow. Where it will end no one knows, but the postmaster and Mrs. Garman devoutly wish to have the thing stopped at the earliest possible moment. As might be expected, this large correspondence has its humorous side. The Record correspondent made the German home a visit and found Mr. and Mrs Garman chatting about one especially interesting letter and exhibiting a photograph from a gentleman stamp-contributor, who thinks that Miss Brown is just the lady he has been looking for to be his wife. It is needless to say that Mr. Garman does not agree with him.

So far as is known there has been no offer for the canceled stamps. The whole outbreak seems to have been the result of a mistaken idea that there was a market somewhere for these worthless bits of paper. It is estimated that if the "chain" could remain unbroken Mrs. Garman would receive in round numbers 1,076,877,000,000,000,000,000 letters. If each letter contained 10 canceled stamps Mrs. Garman would receive 11,845,647,000,000,000,000,000 stamps, including the stamps on the envelopes. The total cost for the complete chain would be $64,612,620,000,000,000,000,000. Of course the chain could not be completed, but if two out of every three responded Mrs Garman would receive 2,251,800,000,000,000 letters, and 24,760,800,000,000,000 canceled stamps at a cost of $135,108,000,000,000.

A Surprise Party

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Sherlock many of the young folks met last Thursday evening, Jan. 24, to surprise their daughter, Vida, in her 20th birthday. She knowing nothing about what was going on in the least, went with her brother to Kendallville, during the day, which was not an unusual thing. They returned just in time to see her many friends gather in; thus surprising him by not finding them there already, and her by seeing so many unexpected people meet at her home. Albert is never behind time. There are many pleasant evenings for young people to enjoy themselves in various, ways, but few are so happily spent as was this one. The horses were all nicely stabled and fed. If they suffered at all, it was by eating too much hay, and not on account of being cold and hungry. Many amusing games were played during the evening in which all were engaged. Everybody was happy and sociable. After having a general good social time for two or three hours, we were invited to supper which consisted of oysters, pie, cake and many other delicacies I can not mention here. Nobody went home hungry. After supper an other hour or so was spent in playing, talking and many other amusing entertainments, after which we returned to our homes, feeling like going to another party like this whenever invited. Some of the guests present were: Allen and Willard Martin, Arthur Husselman, John H. Reinhohl, Albert Goodrich, Cora, Nora and Mary Stomm, John H. Gardner, Bell Deets, Hollis and Ada McGiffin, William Stomm, Emma Dellenbach, Cora Puntius, Alva Gushwa, Bessie Case, Willie, Rose V. and Isaiah O Reinhohl, Nellie Gushwa, Polly and Albert Sebert, Daisy Scranton, Effie Dellenbach, Ida Husselman, Francis Bair, Arthur and Vesta Bower.

A Girl Makes $212 16 in a Month.

I read in your valuable paper how one of your subscribers made money in the plating business, but I can beat that and I am only a girl. I sent and got the new Gray Plater and cleared $212.16 in one month. Can any of your readers beat this? You can get spoons, forks and jewelry to plate at every house. Some big articles I sent and had plated at the factory. There is plenty of work to do both in the city and country, and why should any person be poor, and out of employment when such an opportunity is at hand. Anyone can get my plater by writing to Gray & Co. Plating Works, Columbus, Ohio. They do all kinds of plating and will teach the art. My plater has a lathe, wheels, tools and materials for polishing—a nice little work shop. I hope my experience will help ther.

Awarded
Highest Honors—World's Fair,
DR.
PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER
MOST PERFECT MADE.
A pure Grape Cream of Tartar Powder. Free from Ammonia, Alum or any other adulterant.
40 YEARS THE STANDARD.

L. J. Miller's Beef Problem.

Mr. Editor,

Dear Sir: It has been nearly two years since L. J. Miller gave us the beef problem. I have been waiting patiently for some of the teachers of DeKalb to express their ideas on the problem. But it appears that they have overlooked it, so I will now endeavor to try my hand at it. I will state the problem verbatim as Mr. Miller gave it;

"A and B together bought half of a beef which weighed 200 pounds, and for which they paid $6 apiece, or $12 in all. When they divided it one agreed to take the hind quarter at 6½ cents and the other the forequarter at 5½ cents a pound. The question is, how many pounds should each receive if each gets $6 worth?"

First, I find the cost of the whole number of pounds at the difference between the prices per lb. of the different parts, 200 times 1c. equals $2. This I subtract from the $12: $12 - $2 equals $10. I then square the $10, which equals 100; then add to this result the product obtained by multiplying the cost of the number of pounds by 1c and this multiplied by four times the amount paid by him who paid the least per lb.: 200 times 1c equals $2 4 times $6 equals $24. $2 times 24 equals $48. $100 plus $48 equals $148. The square root of 148 is $12.1655 plus, and $12.1655 plus 10, the number squared, equals $22.1655. This divided by 400, two times the number of pounds, gives .055411 plus, which is the true price per lb. of the one who paid the least per lb, and .055411 plus .01 equals .065411, the price per lb of the one who paid the most per lb. Hence .055411 equals A's price per lb, and .065411 equals B's price per lb. Then $6 divided by .05511 equals 108 lbs and 5 oz., A's share, and $6 divided by .065411 equals 91 lbs and 11 oz., B's share.

This is quite a complicated rule, but it will solve all problems of similar nature.

H. A. WINSLOW.

Obituary

John McCune was born in Franklin Co., P., A., Feb. 28, 1812, died in Auburn January 22, 1895, aged 82 years, 10 months 25 days.

At an early age Mr. McCune went to Ohio. While a resident then he served one term as county surveyor, being the first term in then the new county of Ashland. At the time of the expiration of his term of office he came to this state making his home in the eastern part of DeKalb Co, here he remained for one year. During the year 1850, Mr. McCune came to Auburn and began what proved to be a continuous residence here. He was identified with the interests of Auburn 45 years, and saw its growth from a mere village to a flourishing county seat

In early manhood Mr. McClure was converted to God and became a member of the Methodist Episcopal church. He adorned his profession, with a meek and quiet spirit. In the days of his strength he was an efficient office bearer in the church. When old age and blindness came his spirit was still sweet, and his faith strong. Led by the hand of his faithful wife he attended the services of the church until his strength was so nearly gone that he had to remain at his home. Mr. McCune was married to Rachel Phillips April 2, 1854. This wife soon died. He was married again April 7 1857, to Elizabeth Phillips who remains to mourn the loss of him she loved and gladly ministered to in all his afflictions.

The funeral service was held in the M. E. church conducted by the pastor. The choir sang with effect "Only waiting 'till the Shadows are a little longer grown," also "He's the Lily of the Valley." The latter song was the last Mr. McCune sung. Remarks were made by the pastor also by Elias Zimmerman, M. B. Willis, E. L. Casebeer, L. E. Gregg, C. H. Rant, J. H. Weaver and Prof. McIntosh. Mr. McCune was well worthy all the eulogies spoken; their memory will long be fragrant. The image of his venerable form will ever remain in the minds of those who knew him, and his influence will be in human hearts, while his soul has joined the glorious company and revels in the light of the eternal morning.

Public Sale.

I will offer for sale at my residence 5 miles east of Auburn and 1½ miles west of Concord, on Thursday, Feb. 21, 1895, the following discribed property to wit: One Norman Stallion 6 years old; one 5 year old gelding; two 5 year old mares, with foal; one 4 year old mare, with foal; one 3 year old gelding; and 2 year old mare; two yearlings; three last spring colts; two cows; twenty-five head of sheep fifteen shoats; three brood sows; one Jackson wagon; one canopy top buggy; one 2 horse cultivator; one hay rake; hay ladder; plows, drags, set of work harness; set of double buggy harness, 100 bushels of oats; 50 bushels of rye; about 50 bushels of potatoes, buried, and other articles not herein mentioned. Terms made known on day of sale.

ELLIC CULBERTSON.

Notice.

For rent or sale after the 21th day of January, I will rent or sell my property known as the Auburn Bakery on Eighth Street. Inquire of

ED. BAKER. 2tf

Money to Loan.

By F. L. Weisheimer. Best Building and Loan Association represented in Auburn. Money to loan in large or small sums on good security.

IN THE STEEL MILLS.

A WORKMAN'S ACCOUNT OF HIS FIRST DAY AT HOMESTEAD.

Awed by the Deafening Noise and Roaring Flames and Blistered by the Terrible Heat—The Fate of One Poor Man—Tossed With Aching Bones at Night.

When I went to the superintendent and asked for work, he said, "What can you do?"

"Anything. I am large, strong, active and willing. I have been about machinery all my life and want work badly."

He touched a button, and a boy appeared. "Show this man down to the converting mill and ask Fred if he can do anything for him. Good morning!" he said, and my interview was over.

I put on my new overalls and jumper and followed my guide down through the mills. We made our way through piles of stock, raw material, rolls, etc., and came at last to the huge converting mill. The superintendent was found and the word delivered. He glanced at me a moment; then said, not unkindly. "You look good and strong. Jump in and help those fellows there on those vessels."

I hardly knew what he meant, but through the smoke and steam I saw some men beneath one of the vessels, or converters, working with sledges and bars to get the bottom off. The mill, with its ponderous and massive cranes, the immense vessels all covered with black scale and soot, the flying sparks, the roaring flames, the lights coming and going, the air filled with steam and smoke, and, finally, the shrill and deafening noise, awed, confused and even disconcerted me more than I should have liked to acknowledge.

I seized a sledge lying near and jumped in. We at last got out the "keys," as they call the wedges which hold the converter together, and by the help of a hydraulic ram took the bottom off. This left a white hot opening 8 feet in diameter and about 6 feet from the ground, under which we must work. It seemed to me as though the skin on my neck and hands would burst with the heat. My clothes even steamed and smoked. How I wished I had been anywhere under the sun—good old Sol—rather than under this fiendishly hot sun hanging so very near us!

When we had the new bottom on, we went up to the platform above the converters and drove the keys home more securely and stopped any small hole there might be with "ball stuff."

A shrieking engine passed by me and swiftly poured into the converter a "heat" of iron. Then the blast was turned on, and a cloud of yellow and saffron flame, mixed with sparks and small particles of metal, rushed out of the mouth of the converter into the air. One of the men caught me by the arm and pulled me away just in time to save me from being seriously burned, for I was not expecting the flame.

By noon I was so tired I could hardly stand, but I stuck to it for all I was worth. During the afternoon I frequently fell down because my knees were too weak to hold me up. My hands were burned and blistered, and my new overalls were filled with holes burned by flying sparks. About 4 o'clock in the afternoon, while working under the platform, I was startled to see a stream of red fire run over the edge of the platform and strike in the midst of some workmen. As it touched the wet ground it exploded with a report like that of a cannon. The molten metal flew in every direction. Many workmen were burned more or less severely, and in the case of one poor fellow—it makes me sick still to think of it!—the steel came down directly on the head and back. We got him out of the steam and smoke and carefully and tenderly cut his burned clothing from him. As we placed him on the stretcher the burned flesh dropped from his bones.

When I was relieved at 6 o'clock, it seemed as if it would have been utterly impossible for me to live in that mill another hour. I dragged myself to my room and went to bed at once. All that night I tossed and turned my aching bones, trying to get into some position less painful than the last. I was tortured by a thousand grotesque fancies and by the picture of the poor fellow who was burned so badly. At last I got into an uneasy drowse, but I felt as if I had not been asleep a minute when my alarm clock announced to me that it was 4:45, and that I must get up to my 5:10 breakfast. Oh, the misery of that rising and going to the mill! Every bone and sinew seemed as if made of redhot iron, and the joints as if rusted together.

It was a dark, foggy morning, I found, when, having desperately got up enough will power to dress, I tumbled out to my boarding house. The Pittsburg smoke and fog are proverbial, but I really think that on that particular morning one might have cut tangible chunks out of the black, wet air. The board walks in Homestead are never in repair, and on the way to the mills I stumbled along through mud and stones, over boards and into holes, carrying in my hand my tin dinner bucket, which contained my midday meal.

On my first Sunday we relined the converter, and it became my duty to stand up in the inverted vessel and hand up the ball stuff and limestone with which to reline it. The vessel had been left to cool simply over night, and I suppose the temperature of the dry air inside of it stood at about 140 degrees. I worked as hard as I could, but near noon I fainted, for the first time in my life.

My experience at Homestead was the experience of the majority of workmen there.—"Homestead as Seen by One of Its Workmen" in McClure's Magazine.

The resurrection plant, a native of South Africa, becomes dry and apparently lifeless during drought, but opens its leaves and assumes all the appearance of a fern when rain falls.

Schaab & Bro.

Our CLEARANCE SALE has been a hummer. We still have a number of bargains to offer in

DRESS GOODS, CLOTHING AND LADIES' WRAPS.

We are making room for by far the Largest and Finest stock of Spring Goods we have ever shown.

This week we open a complete line of

GENTS' HATS AND NECKWEAR.

These patterns and styles are fine and prices much lower than ever before.

We invite you to call and inspect our stock. We will try to make it to your interest to trade with us.

Schaab & Bro.

NATIONAL DETECTIVE BUREAU

96½ E. Market St., Rooms 12, 13, 14 and 15

This Bureau investigates murders, conspiracies, blackmailing, burglaries, thefts horse and stock stealing, legal evidence in divorce and other family matters, etc. Only experienced and trustworthy detectives employed. Reliable references furnished you from Indianapolis, any State in the Union or any part of Europe. The Superintendent of this Bureau was formerly state Detective Officer for the State of New Jersey, also Chief Detective of the N. Y. O. & W. Railway, late Superintendent World's Secret Detective Service of New York City, and also was Chief of Police in New Jersey, and connected with the Midland Railway Police and Detective Department of England. We have reliable operators located in all parts of the world, and can furnish reliable men on short notice. For further particulars, address

CHAS. ADNGE, Supt. National Detective Bureau,

DEPARTMENT A. INDIANAPOLIS, IND.

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

MOTHERS, Do You Know that Paregoric, Bateman's Drops, Godfrey's Cordial, many so-called Soothing Syrups, and most remedies for children are composed of opium or morphine?

Do You Know that opium and morphine are stupefying narcotic poisons?

Do You Know that in most countries druggists are not permitted to sell narcotics without labeling them poisons?

Do You Know that you should not permit any medicine to be given your child unless you or your physician know of what it is composed?

Do You Know that Castoria is a purely vegetable preparation, and that a list of its ingredients is published with every bottle?

Do You Know that Castoria is the prescription of the famous Dr. Samuel Pitcher. That it has been in use for nearly thirty years, and that more Castoria is now sold than of all other remedies for children combined?

Do You Know that the Patent Office Department of the United States, and of other countries, have issued exclusive right to Dr. Pitcher and his assigns to use the word "Castoria" and its formula, and that to imitate them is a state prison offense?

Do You Know that one of the reasons for granting this government protection was because Castoria had been proven to be absolutely harmless?

Do You Know that 35 average doses of Castoria are furnished for 35 cents, or one cent a dose?

Do You Know that when possessed of this perfect preparation, your children may be kept well, and that you may have unbroken rest?

Well, these things are worth knowing. They are facts.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNS, - - PUBLISHER.

AROUND THE WORLD.

INTELLIGENCE FROM ALL PARTS OF THE GLOBE.

La Gascogne, the Overdue French Liner, Makes Her Way Into New York Harbor—Suffering Among the Indians of the Navajo Agency—Arrests of "Green Goods" Dealers.

SHE'S SAFE.

The French Steamer La Gascogne at Last Sighted Off Fire Island.

A special from New York says: La Gascogne is safe. The big French liner, eight days overdue, dropped anchor at the bar just before midnight Tuesday, all well on board, and a sigh of relief goes up from two continents. Delay was due to a broken piston rod and to the terrific gales which have swept the north Atlantic for the past week or more and brought disaster to many a staunch craft. Capt. Baudelon and the officers and crew of La Gascogne brought the ship and passengers through the gales and made port without help.

From the time they left Havre, January 26, until Tuesday, they spoke to no trans-Atlantic steamer, and saw only a four-masted schooner, the one which reported at St. Pierre, Miquelon, N. S., as having seen a large steamer off the banks apparently in distress.

The steamer left Havre January 26. On the first day out 449 miles was logged; on the second day 407 miles; on the third day, after traveling 380, the piston rod broke and eighteen hours were spent in making repairs. When they were completed the ship steamed at nine miles an hour, making in all sixty-six miles on the 29th. On the 30th, 31st and February 1, 215, 255, 280 miles a day were made respectively. On February 2, the piston rod broke down again. The break was more serious this time. Sea anchors were put out and for forty-one hours the ship was hove to making repairs. On the 4th the first severe weather was experienced and the ship was blown 150 miles out of her course. On the 5th, the repairs having been completed, 103 miles were made. The ship was then clear to the northward of the track of trans-Atlantic steamers and was therefore not seen by the many steamers which passed over the regular track. On February 8, 160 miles were made. On the 7th the machinery broke down for the third time. The heavy cyclone struck her on that day and the ship hove to with the sea anchors out all day. No headway was made, and owing to the motion of the ship repairs were difficult. On the next day the chief engineer, who had been at his post day and night, completed the repairs, and the ship proceeded 131 miles. On the ninth, for the fourth time the machinery broke down and only seventy-four miles were made. On the 10th, one hundred and fifty miles were made, and Tuesday, to the great rejoicing of all on board, Fire Island was sighted and the ship crept up to her anchorage off the bar.

"Green Goods" Men Arrested.

Chicago officers arrested four men charged with having worked the "green goods" game on George E. Ehringer of Muncie, Ind. One of the men arrested is asserted to be "Happy Cal" Wagner, who at one time was famous throughout the land as a minstrel. Another is "Doc" Minchen, who has been known to the police for some time, coming into special notoriety in April, 1892, when he and some confederates managed to effect the escape of Tom O'Brien, the notorious swindler, who was at the time under arrest in Utica, N. Y. Ehringer was induced, by means of a cleverly worded letter, to come to Chicago several days ago, with $500 in good money for a parcel alleged to contain $1,000 of "green goods." When he arrived home, however, he found that the parcel contained one ordinary brick.

Eating Their Horses.

Albuquerque (N. M.) special: Rev. S. C. Snyder, of the Navajo agency, at Fort Defiance, who is in the city, says the Indians are having a hard time to exist this winter. Their wool crop was hardly worth shipping, and they raised no grain last year. They are eating their horses, of which they have great herds. Two representatives of the Interior Department are now at the agency investigating the condition of the Navajos. No work is now being done on the irrigation system that is being put in by the Government, but it is expected active work will begin on the ditches in the spring.

Big Fire at Indianapolis.

Fire originated in the wholesale grocery establishment of George W. Stout, Nos. 107 and 109 South Meridian Street, Indianapolis, and for a time the entire wholesale district was in danger of being devastated, and a repetition of the great fire of seven years ago in the same district was feared. The flames were confined to the Stout establishment which was entirely destroyed. The loss is $150,000; insurance $85,000. The drug house of A. Kiefer & Co., suffered considerably by smoke and water. This was also covered by insurance.

Mother and Two Children Drowned.

Mrs. William Sefert, wife of the prominent contractor, living at Neville Island, a few miles below Pittsburgh, on the Ohio river, was drowned while walking across the river on the ice. She was carrying a child, aged three, in her arms and the other was walking beside her. They had already reached the opposite side of the river when the ice broke and let them through. Though the water was only three feet deep at that point all were drowned.

Letter Carriers Receive Judgments.

The United States Court of Claims has handed down judgments in 250 suits brought by letter carriers to recover for over work under the eight-hour law. The amounts range from $20 to $700. The carriers were employed in New York, Dayton, Ohio, Piqua, Ohio, Springfield, Ohio, Lexington, Ky., and Battle Creek, Mich.

Royal Alliance.

Italian papers states that a marriage between the Prince of Naples, the Crown Prince of Italy, and Princess Maud, youngest daughter of the Prince of Wales, has been arranged. No confirmation of the statement is yet obtainable.

Signed the Bill.

Gov. Morton has signed the power of removal bill, which gives Mayor Strong the power to depose heads of departments of New York city government.

Hundreds Ill.

Escaping unburned gas at the new Wabash shoe factory, in Wabash, Ind., which was dedicated with a large ball under the auspices of the local lodge Knights of Pythias, made over 200 persons violently ill, some of them being confined to their beds. The ballroom was closed tight, and, as the chimneys of the building were very small and did not carry off the natural gas fumes, the poisonous air was forced into the room. Its effects were not noticeable until 9 o'clock, when women began to faint, and at one time 25 were stretched out unconscious in a retiring room. Their condition was serious for a time, but they recovered and were taken home in hacks. Clinton Zigler, a young society man, was unconscious for four hours and is in a bad condition, while all of the guests are suffering to so some extent.

NEW BONDS

May Solve the Gold Reserve Problem.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says:

For a whole week the confident expectation of the sale of bonds has kept back exports of gold. Withdrawals from the treasury amounted to about $2,000,000, but were mainly for domestic purposes. No bond bill has passed or is likely to pass Congress, and in the two months ending with February 1st, the treasury actually lost $67,000,000 in gold, of which $40,400,000 went into general circulation and $26,300,000, besides the product of the mines, went abroad. How to arrest this outgo in either direction is a problem which another issue of bonds may possibly solve. It is hoped that the negotiations with foreign bankers may secure some improvement, though it is clear that sales of securities here will have the same effect as if the bonds were placed in this country and they may not be stopped by the new transactions. In other repects the domestic money market is decidedly encouraging, with a fairly hopeful increase in transactions of commercial paper, though receipts of money from the interior continue surprisingly large for the season. The condition of industries, if not definitely better, at least presents some points of encouragement.

The failures reported for the month of January show an aggregate of $15,108,292 liabilities against $29,843,028 last year, and in manufacturing only $3,728,587 against $11,589,715 last year, while in trading the liabilities were $11,055,105 against $17,294,587 last year.

THE DENISON.

Indiana's Greatest Hostelery Damaged by Fire.

A special from Indianapolis, Ind., says: The Denison Hotel, the largest hotel in the State Capital, situated at the corner of Pennsylvania and Ohio streets, took fire at 10 o'clock Thursday morning. The flames burst through the partitions and got into the three floors of the building before the firemen could get at it. The weather was so bitter cold that the firemen were badly handicapped in fighting the flames, and the fire soon got beyond their control.

Nearly every room in the hotel was occupied, the guests numbering between 400 and 500, and the panic among them was terrible. The flames originated in room 351, which was occupied by W. H. Hanley, a traveling man. He was nearly suffocated, but was rescued in time to save his life. Frank Nutter, fireman, was struck by the falling cornice. His skull was fractured and he will probably die. Patrick Ryan, another fireman, was slightly injured. The women in the hotel became frantic and many locked themselves in their rooms. They were taken out with difficulty.

At 2 o'clock the fire was under control. The loss will be over $100,000. The Wabash street wing of the structure was destroyed.

Many of the members of the State Legislature board at this hotel, and as soon as the news was conveyed to them, the Legislature adjourned in hot haste and the Senators and Representatives hastened to the scene and hauled their trunks and belongings down the stairway.

IN PLAIN SIGHT.

The Terrible Picture Presented by Nine Dying Men.

New York special: The life-saving crew from the Lone Hill Station, on the great South Beach, opposite Eastport, L. I., were out at day-break Monday and down the beach in the teeth of the storm, to make one more attempt to reach the men lashed and frozen in the rigging of the unknown wrecked schooner. When the life-savers left at dark nine men were still hanging in the rigging. As the icy wind had not abated, and as the waves were washing over the grounded vise-locked wreck, the life-savers felt that the men surely must be dead.

Captain Draper fixed his glass upon the ice-draped rigging of the wreck. The seven forms still hung there, not one having fallen during the night. But three of the men were hanging head down. Evidently they had lashed their legs when they went up in the rigging to escape the fury of the deck. During the night they had died, and, their fingers relaxing, their bodies had fallen, to hang by the knees. The life savers tried to launch the lifeboat, but the shore ice and the surf made that effort vain. A line was then fired into the rigging but the unfortunate men who had sought refuge in the rigging were unable to get it, probably because they were benumbed and thoroughly exhausted. The life savers were compelled to stand idly by and see the poor sailors perish, for an hour later the crew commenced to drop into the water.

WIPED OUT.

The Chinese Fleet Practically Destroyed by the Japs.

A cable from Wei Hai Wei says: The Chinese fleet has practically ceased to exist. The iron clad Chen Yuen and her sister ship, Ting Yuen, have been sunk, and other vessels of the Chinese fleet are within the grasp of the Japanese. At daybreak Sunday, the Japanese fleet opened fire on Lui Kung forts. The Chinese fleet soon came to the assistance of the forts. The Ting Yuen used her guns without effect, but succeeded in diverting some of the Japanese fire from the forts. Lai Yuen, a smaller ship, also fought. They fought until dark when the firing ceased on both sides. The Chinese forts especially suffered immense damage. Sunday, the Japanese fleet blocked the exites from the harbor. Toward the close of the fight the Ting Yuen and Chen Yuen were disabled. They gradually settled down and foundered amid shouts of triumph from the Japanese, both on land and sea. The dispatch concludes with the statement that the Japanese are preparing to carry Lui Kung by storm.

Frightfully Burned.

Death in its most horrible from visited Mrs. C. A. Brown, of 985 East Rich street, Columbus, Ohio. Mrs. Brown had just returned from a visit to a neighbor, and, being chilled through, rushed immediately to an open grate in which a large fire was blazing. In a second and before she could hardly realize what was happening, she was enveloped from head to foot in flames. Her dress, coming in contact with the flames, caught fire. She screamed for help. The burning clothes were torn from the woman and with them came pieces of flesh, but assistance came too late. Her body from head to foot was a charred mass of flesh, and she had inhaled the flames.

The Latest Swindle Out.

A new swindle is being worked in the vicinity of Elwood, Ind., that beats anything on record. A couple of men dressed like sign painters drive up to a farm house, and ask permission to paint a sign on the fence for some well known firm, and when the sign is painted they remark that they desire no one else to be allowed to paint signs on this particular fence, and they give the farmer a dollar, and take his receipt to give to the business man, to show him what has been done with his money. The men depart, and in a few weeks the farmer finds his note for a good sum in the bank, and receives notice to come and settle.

Getting Ready to Fight.

A special from the city of Mexico says: There is no change in the Guatemalan matter. The Mexican officials will not give out any information. Despite all reports to the contrary, however, it is learned on good authority that Guatemala has not receded from her original answer to Mexico, and is still rushing troops to the frontier.

The Mexican warship Zaragosa, which is the best in the Mexican navy, is awaiting orders at Acapulco with steam up. Mexico is still sending troops to the front, and also perfecting a telegraph line. It is reported also that she is buying arms and ammunition abroad and in the United States. From the present outlook the delay is on the part of Mexico for time needed to make active preparations for possible war.

Clasped A Corpse.

When Maggie Burke and Millie Clare went to bed at the former's home, in Barberton, Ohio, the other night, they wrapped themselves in each other's arms to keep warm. When Miss Clare awakened in the morning she found herself hugging a corpse. The dead girl's arms were locked around her own body. Miss Burke died during the night of congestion of the brain. Two weeks ago she fell on her face and was badly injured. The shock of finding a corpse in her bed has prostrated Miss Clare and she may not recover.

Killed at a Fire.

Fire was discovered in Rabbitt's general store near the Baltimore & Ohio station, at Rockville, Md., which soon spread to the warehouse attached to the store and a frame dwelling adjourning. All were destroyed. Loss about $60,000. The origin of the fire is uncertain, but it is thought to have been caused by tramps who slept in the sheds adjourning the warehouse. Amount of insurance small. When the fire was at its height the falling of a chimney killed Frank Morgan and seriously hurt two colored boys.

A Train Telescoped.

A milk train on the Utica branch of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western crashed into the Philadelphia express at Norwich, N. Y., completely telescoping the rear coach. Only four passengers were in the car. The wife of Recorder Roberts of Binghampton, and two children received injuries which may prove fatal in the case of the younger, aged 2 years. A commercial traveler and the express messenger escaped with scalp wounds. A blinding snow storm caused the accident.

Bishop White.

Rev. John Hazen White of Fairibault, Minn., was elected bishop of the Indiana diocese of the Episcopal church to succeed David Buel Knickerbocker, diseased. He is the best-known Episcopal clergyman in the Northwest. He was educated at the Berkeley divinity school at Middletown, Conn. His first parish was at Joliet, Ill. From thence he was transferred to St. John's church, St. Paul. About four years ago he was appointed warden of the Seabury divinity school at Fairibault.

Plymouth Badly Scorched.

Plymouth (Ind.) special: Fire was discovered in Gustave Wolf's big clothing store, cornering on the public square. A portion of the room is occupied by C. M. Welch & Co., as a jewelry store. It was in this portion of the building that the fire originated, probably from an exploded lamp. The fire spread to the offices above and to the adjoining building, completely consuming four brick structures before it was gotten under control. Loss, $50,000.

Escape Almost Fatal.

The family of Christopher Jackson, near Elyria, Ohio, was awakened by flames, which had consumed the upper portion of the house. They barely had time to escape in their night clothing, and then had to face a blinding snowstorm, with the thermometer two degrees below zero, for half a mile before they could find shelter. The five persons were nearly dead with exhaustion and exposure.

Brooklyn Road Upheld.

United States Commissioner Moore at Brooklyn, has handed down his decision in the matter of the application of the United States goverment again President Benjamin Norton and the Atlantic avenue railroad system on the alleged grounds of misuse of United States mail signs. The decision is in favor of the street-car company.

Family Cremated.

The entire family of John Bock, consisting of himself, wife and four small children, were burned to death at Omer, Mich., in a fire which destroyed their home. It is supposed that a hot stove pipe which passed through the floor, caused the fire. The bodies were charred beyond recognition.

Warrants Issued.

The Federal Court at Indianapolis, has issued 125 warrants for violations of the revenue laws and for selling oleomargarine. Most of the warrants are against the keepers of resorts in Evansville, Terre Haute, Vincennes, Lafayette, Logansport, Fort Wayne, and Indianapolis, for selling beer without government license.

Poisoned By Silk Thread.

The poison that lurks in colored silk got a victim in Pottsville, Pa., recently. Miss Lulu Buechley, daughter of a well-known lumber merchant, some days ago was sewing with green silk thread. She contracted blood poisoning by biting off the thread.

Frozen to Death.

A ghastly discovery was made near Noblesville, Ind., when neighbors entered the house of Mrs. Cassie Paulset, a lady 85 years of age and found her frozen to death. From appearances she had been dead twenty-four hours when found.

Americans in Danger.

A dispatch received in London from Shanghai says that there is an intense anti-foreign feeling on the Shantung Peninsula, and that the American missionaries are fleeing hastily.

Oregon Woman Can Vote.

A joint resolution has passed both houses of the Oregon Legislature for a constitutional amendment extending elective franchise to women.

THE MARKETS.

Chicago—Cattle, common to prime, $3.75@6.00; hogs, shipping grades, $3.00@4.75; sheep, fair to choice, $2.00@4.75; wheat, No. 2 red, 50@51c; corn, No. 2, 42@43c; oats, No. 2, 27@28c; rye, No. 2, 51@52c; butter, choice creamery, 23@23½c; eggs, fresh, 30@31c; potatoes, car lots, per bushel, 65@80c.

Indianapolis—Cattle, shipping, $3@5.50; hogs, choice light, $3@4.50; sheep, common to prime, $2@4; wheat, No. 2 red, 51@52c; corn, No. 1 white, 40@40½c; oats, No. 2 white, 32@32½c.

St. Louis—Cattle, $3@5.75; hogs, $3@4.75; wheat, No. 2 red, 51@52c; corn, No. 2, 41@42c; oats, No. 2, 31@31½c; rye, No. 2, 54@56c.

Cincinnati—Cattle, $3.50@5.50; hogs, $3.50@4.50; sheep, $2@4.50; wheat, No. 2, 54½@55½c; corn, No. 2 mixed, 44@45c; oats, No. 2 mixed, 31½@32½c; rye, No. 2, 55@57c.

Detroit—Cattle, $2.50@5.50; hogs, $4@4.50; sheep, $2@3.50; wheat, No. 1 white, 55@55½c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 41@42c; oats, No. 2 white, 33½@34½c; rye, No. 2, 53@54c.

Toledo—Wheat, No. 2 red, 53@54c; corn, No. 2 mixed, 41@42c; oats, No. 2 white, 33@34c; rye, No. 2, 53@54c.

Buffalo—Cattle, $2.50@5.50; hogs, $3@4.50; sheep, $2@4.50; wheat, No. 2 red, 57@58c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 47@47½c; oats, No. 2 white, 35½@36½c.

Milwaukee—Wheat, No. 2 spring, 52@53c; corn, No. 2, 43@44c; oats, No. 2 white, 32@32½c; barley, No. 2, 54@56c; rye, No. 1, 52@54c; pork, mess, $9.75@10.25.

New York—Cattle, $3@5.75; hogs, $3.50@5; sheep, $2@5; wheat, No. 2 red, 59@60c; corn, No. 2, 48@49c; oats, white Western, 37@41c; butter, creamery, 16@25c; eggs, Western, 33@34c.

BOND BILL IS BEATEN

CLEVELAND'S FINANCIAL MEASURE DEFEATED.

By the Close Vote of 161 to 134 the House Refuses to Indorse the President's Plan for the Relief of the National Treasury.

Lost in the House.

The last hope of financial legislation for the relief of the treasury at the present session of Congress went by the board when the House of Representatives Thursday afternoon, by a vote of 134 to 161, rejected the administration bill to authorize an issue of $500,000,000 gold bonds. The bill was beaten before it reached its last parliamentary stage. This result was reached after three days of spirited and at times heated debate, and at the end of a seven-hour session. From 11 until 3:30 o'clock, when the bill with the pending substitutes was reported to the House from the committee of the whole, amendments were offered in rapid succession, most of which were voted down as fast as they were offered. Many of them were designed to load down the bill, and the votes thereon were in no sense test votes. The Bell amendment, for instance, to make the bonds payable in gold and silver, was defeated by the decisive vote of 76 to 106, while the bill was defeated by 134 to 161. Both the Reed and Cox substitutes, with the amendments thereto, were rejected after the bill was reported to the House.

When the question came up on the third reading and engrossment of the bill the whole opposition concentrated. While the vote was being taken, which resulted in the refusal of the House to order the third reading, the interest centered in the vote of Mr. Reed. He sat quietly in his seat during the first call, and did not answer to his name, but on the second call he voted for the bill. As soon as the result was announced Mr. Reed offered an explanation of the attitude of himself and those of his colleagues who had voted for the bill, but objections were made. He afterward explained, however, that he had submitted a proposition (his own substitute) which he considered would meet the situation. The Democrats had rejected this, and then he and many of his colleagues, although opposed to features of the bill, had voted for it in the hope that it would pass and be amended in the Senate. Mr. Springer then moved to reconsider the vote by which the third reading was refused, but this motion was laid on the table, 135 to 123, and the bill was killed.

Of those who voted for the bill ninety-two were Democrats and forty-two Republicans. The negative vote was given by ninety-seven Democrats, fifty-six Republicans and eight Populists.

CROP STATISTICS.

Quantity and Value of the Wheat and Corn Crops Last Year.

The corn crop in the United States last year was worth $554,719,162, which is the smallest valuation since 1885. The average for the ten years from 1870 to 1879, inclusive, was $504,571,048, for the ten years from 1880 to 1889 it was $668,942,320, and for the five years from 1890 to 1894 it was $675,872,820. The wheat crop last year was worth only $225,902,025, which, with the exception of 1893, when it was still lower, was less than that of any year since 1870. The average value of the wheat crop from 1870 to 1879 was $327,407,258, more than $100,000,000 more than the total for last year. The average from 1880 to 1889 was $371,809,504, more than $150,000,000 above the total of last year, while for the last five years the average was $321,886,335. These figures will surprise people.

That the low price of wheat was not due to overproduction in this country is shown by the fact that the entire crop in the United States in 1894 was only 460,267,416 bushels, while the average for the previous five years was 476,678,028 bushels. The total for 1892 was 515,949,000 bushels, and for 1891 it was 611,780,000 bushels. The average value of wheat a bushel last year was 49.1 cents, while the average for the previous five years was 67.5 cents; for the ten years from 1880 to 1889 it was 82.7 cents, and for the ten years from 1870 to 1879 it was $1.049.

The statistics of the crop by States, which have just been compiled by the Agricultural Department, furnish a very interesting comparison. The following shows the greatest wheat producing States in the Union and the quantity and value of the crop last year:

State.	Bushels.	Value.
Ohio	48,444,471	$23,737,921
Indiana	43,644,064	20,076,269
Minnesota	37,752,453	18,498,702
Kansas	35,315,259	15,538,714
North Dakota	33,635,900	14,463,437
Illinois	33,312,370	14,990,567
California	30,376,705	17,314,722
Missouri	23,353,920	10,062,186
Michigan	20,232,058	10,520,670
Pennsylvania	18,848,700	10,555,272

The following table shows the States producing the largest crop of corn last year and the quantity and value of each:

State.	Bushels.	Value.
Illinois	169,121,491	$65,957,381
Missouri	116,011,654	46,404,662
Indiana	96,888,377	35,848,699
Iowa	81,344,030	36,604,805
Ohio	71,973,737	30,948,707
Texas	69,338,676	38,829,659
Tennessee	68,060,316	26,543,523
Kentucky	67,892,297	29,772,611

Some peculiarities will be noticed in this table also. Iowa got more for her corn than Indiana, although she produced 15,000,000 bushels less. Texas got $2,000,000 more than Iowa, although she produced 12,000,000 bushels less, and $3,000,000 more than Indiana, although she produced 27,000,000 bushels less. Texas sold her crop for $12,000,000 more than Tennessee, although there was a difference of only 1,300,000 bushels in the quantity.

IN COUNCIL AND COURT.

The Brooklyn Trolley Magnates Are Still Hampered on All Sides.

EVER four weeks have passed since the inauguration of the Brooklyn trolley strike, and the 5,000 men who went out for something better than starvation wages are still out and are as determined as ever. To be sure, the companies have succeeded in securing help from all over the country by offering steady work and big wages, but the new men are inexperienced and incompetent, and hundreds of cars have been damaged and people killed and injured through their carelessness and ignorance. Monday a crowd of 12,000, composed of strikers and their friends, assembled at the City Hall. They were kept moving by the police, but the best of order was maintained. The strikers accomplished their object—to show the Common Council, then in session, and the city officials their strength. In the evening another great meeting was held, which was addressed by prominent men.

FLOODED WITH OLD STAMPS.

Mrs. Edna Garman Devoutly Wishes She Hadn't Started a "Chain."

The entire country is becoming interested in the small village of Kaneville, Ill., because of the astonishing success of the now celebrated stamp collecting "chain." It has brought into prominence two worthy dwellers in Kaneville, Mrs. Edna R. Garman, better known to thousands of benevolent stamp contributors as Edna Brown, and the hard working fourth class postmaster of Kaneville, Mr. Shoellhorn.

MRS. E. R. GARMAN.

Edna Brown, who is a native of Jefferson County, New York, came to Kaneville about four years ago. Here she became engaged to Charles Garman. A sister of her betrothed is Miss Mettie Garman, who is a cripple, having been afflicted with spinal trouble for the last twelve years, or since she was 6 years old. The sister-in-law becoming greatly attached to the young girl, and having heard of a cripple in Sycamore, Ill., who set out to collect 1,000,000 cancelled stamps, from the sale of which he hoped to get money to purchase a cork leg, conceived the idea of making a similar collection with a view to getting money to pay for Miss Garman's treatment in a hospital.

Miss Brown wrote to friends at her old home in New York for assistance in swelling the collection of canceled stamps. There one of her friends suggested the collection by geometrical progression. Miss Brown approved the idea, and consequently the first letter was launched by the New York lady in Edna R. Brown's name, which is on most of the letters now going the rounds of the whole United States, as well as Canada and Mexico. The originators of the plan never dreamed of the results that this original letter has brought about. After the start the good-natured public took hold with a will, and canceled stamps are pouring into the Kaneville post office. Miss Brown, who has now become Mrs. Garman, is receiving from 10,000 to 15,000 letters every day, and already has on hand millions of canceled stamps which she does not want and has no idea how to dispose of.

POSTMASTER SHOELLHORN.

Postmaster Shoellhorn, meanwhile, has the distinction of handling more mail daily than any other fourth-class postmaster ever did. One day recently he turned over 20,000 letters to Mrs. Garman. As Kaneville is not on any railroad, the mail is brought once a day by stage from Sugar Grove, eight miles away. Before the "chain" got in working order only a handful of letters arrived daily; now there are bags of them, and the trouble continues to grow. Where it will end no one knows, but the postmaster and Mrs. Garman devoutly wish to have the thing stopped at the earliest possible moment.

So far as is known there has been no offer for the canceled stamps. The whole outbreak seems to have been the result of a mistaken idea that there was a market somewhere for these worthless bits of paper. It is estimated that if the "chain" could remain unbroken Mrs. Garman would receive in round numbers 1,076,877,000,000,000,000,000 letters. If each letter contained 10 canceled stamps Mrs. Garman would receive 11,845,647,000,000,000,000,000,000 stamps, including the stamps on the envelopes. The total cost for the complete chain would be $64,612,620,000,000,000,000,000. Of course the chain could not be completed, but if two out of every three responded, Mrs. Garman would receive 2,251,800,000,000,000 letters and 24,769,800,000,000,000 canceled stamps at a cost of $135,108,000,000,000.

JUDGE HOWELL E. JACKSON,

Who Will Soon Retire from the Supreme Bench.

A bill has been introduced into the United States Senate looking to the retirement of Howell E. Jackson as associate justice of the Supreme Court of the United States, on the ground of illness, and Judge Jackson will probably soon sever his connection with that bench. Howell E. Jackson was born at Paris, Henry County, Tenn., April 8, 1832. Having received an academic education, he entered the West Tennessee College at Jackson, from which institution he graduated in 1849. In the following year he entered the University of Virginia and completed the course there. He studied law and was duly admitted to the bar, first practicing in Jackson. Then, in 1858, he removed to Memphis. He was appointed receiver of West Tennessee under the Confederate Sequestration act at the beginning of hostilities in '61. After the war he returned to Memphis and to the study of his profession. In the 70's he returned to his old home in Jackson. In 1880 he was elected to the Legislature and in 1881 became United States Senator. In 1886 he was appointed circuit judge of the United States from the sixth judicial district. He became associate justice of the Supreme Court of the United States in 1893, filling the vacancy caused by the death of Judge L. Q. C. Lamar.

JUDGE JACKSON.

Telegraphic Brevities.

Ralph O. Ruby, American vice and deputy consul at Belfast, Ireland, is dead.

The tin-plate plant of the Oliver Iron and Steel Company at Pittsburg, Pa., started up.

George Chapin, of the Chicago liquor firm of Chapin & Gore, died at Santa Barbara, Cal.

Gov. McKinley announces he is not a candidate for Senator Brice's seat, leaving a clear field to Foraker.

J. E. Holman, of Kokomo, Ind., has mysteriously disappeared in Indianapolis and his relatives fear foul play.

The residence of B. F. Davis at Elwood, Ind., was destroyed by fire. The family barely escaped with their lives.

Kaffirs attacked the Portuguese camp at Maraqueen, killing seven or more whites, but losing 200 men themselves.

Jack Smith, alias Gen. Johnson, alias Mason, leader of the Bull Hill miners during the Cripple Creek war, is in jail at Gunnison, Colo.

INDIANA STATE NEWS.

OCCURRENCES DURING THE PAST WEEK.

An Interesting Summary of the More Important Doings of Our Neighbors—Weddings and Deaths—Crimes, Casualties and General News Notes of the State.

Hoosier Happenings

TELEPHONE rates have been cut to $1 a month in Elwood.

JOHN STEINBRUNER was found dead in his bed at Fort Wayne.

OF the 55 inmates in the St. Joseph County Asylum, eight are women.

THE Good Citizenship League of Anderson is making war on the slot machines.

THOUSANDS of fish, killed by the ice, are floating in White River, near Noblesville.

MORE snow has fallen in Southern Indiana this year, than any previous winter in twenty years.

A CHILD of John Roberts of New Ross, died from burns received while playing around an open grate.

GUS ROPP'S 18 months-old Child fell into a bucket of boiling slop at Petersburg, and was scalded to death.

ELDER W. O. MOORE of Dayton, has been chosen by acclamation for the Christian Church pulpit at Martinsville.

FIVE boys were coasting at Bloomington, when their sled collided with a heavy wagon. They were seriously injured.

THE new directory of Logansport, just issued, places the population at 22,500, an increase of two thousand in two years.

AT Logansport, Inez Malone, 15-month-old daughter of Joseph Malone, a barber, was so badly burned that she died in two hours.

J. B. PEDRICK, foreman of Reeves & Co.'s manufacturing establishment, at Columbus, lost his fingers of the left hand on account of a buzz saw accident.

THREE robbers entered J. E. Erwin's drug store at Logansport, while the proprietor was alone, and robbed him of $80. The men were captured at Camden.

FRED BAKER, a leading farmer of Lagro Township, Wabash County, died of heart disease at his home near Urbana. Deceased was a veteran and 67 years old.

Two dynamite cartridges were found under the Pleasantdale Baptist Church. The ends were burned off, but the stuff failed to explode. Tremendous excitement.

CHARLES CONNOR, son of M. A. Connor, living east of Crawfordsville, was seriously injured by a half dozen horses rushing out of a barn and over his body. He is expected to die.

THE Masons of Anderson and the Anderson Building and Loan Association have joined in an enterprise to erect one of the largest business blocks in the gas belt. It will cost $40,000.

THE RICHMOND NATURAL GAS company, on account of the low supply of gas is making a reduction of one-fourth on all January bills, except where the mixers have been bored.

THE annual report of County Superintendent Shaw shows an enrollment in the public schools of Shelby County of 8,868 children and an attendance of 4,448. In Shelbyville the enrollment is only 1,461 and the attendance 934.

LOUIS BOGER, a wealthy farmer residing in Noble Township, Shelby County, while cutting wood severed his right foot at the ankle with the ax. The man fell unconscious to the ground, and when found a half hour later was almost frozen.

THE damage case of Charles A. Myers against the Pan Handle Railroad was compromised at Logansport by the payment of $2,000. Myers was a brakeman and lost an arm. He got a verdict of $3,500, which was reversed by the higher court.

THE elevator in the Shelbyville furniture factory of Stewart & Blakely fell two stories with bookkeeper B. A. Harding and an employe named Wood. Both were badly injured by being buried under some table leaves which toppled over at the same time.

WHILE at work in P. W. Smith's sawmill, at Decatur, Elmer Smith met with an accident that will will prove fatal. He was assisting in unloading a large log, when the chain broke and the log started to roll, catching Mr. Smith by the feet and crushed both legs to the hips.

SULPHUR SPRINGS, Henry County, people are very happy over the discovery there of natural gas in paying quantities. The well was drilled in on the McSherley farm, and after being shot with nitro-glycerine shows a big flow. This is the third attempt to get gas in that part of Henry County.

WHILE a number of farm hands were engaged at cutting fodder with a steam cutting machine on the farm of J. L. Clapper, ten miles northeast of Newcastle, the boiler burst, and as a result three persons were instantly killed and several injured. The killed are Nathan Taylor, a grown son of Mr. Taylor, and John Welker.

ONE of the largest deliveries of timber in a single day in this State occurred in Decatur the other day. Sixty-five teams delivered to the mills of P. W. Smith & Co. over 81,000 feet of oak and hickory timber, log measure. They came in one continuos train, each driver bearing aloft the American flag, and were headed by the city band.

FRANK GEORGE, who was received at the prison south recently from Vanderburg County, for larceny is the most remarkable looking prisoner confined in that institution. On his body are representations of a ship, cross, man, spear, two anchors, girl, sailor, flower girl, a number of stars, monument, trees, arms of the United States, a chair and the letters L and G. Parts of his body are entirely covered with needle points. He is the greatest curiosity arriving at the prison for years.

THE spiritualists of Anderson, are arranging for a series of revival services at the Temple, which promises to carry the warfare of spiritualism into the strongholds of Anderson churches. There are nearly one thousand avowed spiritualists in Anderson. Leading mediums, slate writers and materializing agents of national reputation have been secured for this work. It is proposed to hold seances at private houses, to which prominent church people and leading citizens will be invited free of charge in the hope of converting them to spiritualism.

THE OTHER night Ire B. Tillotson, a prominent saloon keeper of Chesterton, walked out of his saloon and quit the business forever. Rev. Robert L. Jones, an evangelist, has been holding revival meetings in the Methodist Church at Chesterton, and among his converts was Tillotson, who will devote the remainder of of his life in reclaiming victims of the drink habit and preaching the gospel. Tillotson is thirty-five years old, well educated and a good talker. He will accompany the Rev. Jones when he leaves Chesterton and assist him in his evangelical work. Mr. Tillotson has won and lost fortunes at the gambling table, and will start out a poor man.

AN Indianapolis paper contains the statement that Rushville contains one of the oldest justices of the peace in the State in point of service, in the person of Thomas Poe, who was inducted into office in August, 1864. Indianapolis is the home of a justice of the peace who can beat that record, in the person of Eli Johnson, who has served continuously since October, 1856. In August of that year Mr. Johnson was elected at the general election. His first commission, which he yet preserves, was signed by Gov. Joseph Wright. His present term holds until February, 1897. At the expiration of that time he will begin on another four years' term, having been reelected last November. Mr. Johnson's age is 81.

INDIANA LEGISLATURE.

Senator Sellers introduced a bill in the Senate, Monday, drawn at the suggestion of Gov. Matthers, the purpose of which is to prevent winter racing at Roby.

Senator Parker introduced a bill providing that guardians, administrators, &c., may offer surety and guarantee companies as bond, and pay for the cost out of the trust funds committed to their care.

The bill appropriating $100,000 for the erection of a Soldiers' Home at Lafayette was passed.

The bill providing divers and sundry amendments to the Evansville charter, was also passed.

Committee reports and bills on second reading were the order of business in the House. The bill authorizing cities to purchase and operate water-works plants was favorably reported by the Committee on Cities and Towns.

The bill for the reorganization of the Indiana militia, and appropriating $75,000, encountered opposition when it came up in the House on second resding. When the House adjourned there were three amendments pending, one proposing to reduce the appropriation to $30,000, another to $5,000, and another to $50,000.

By a vote of 74 to 15 the House, Tuesday, killed the bill creating the office of State Boiler Inspector. The military bill was again before the House and was finally recommitted to the committee to report a smaller appropriation. It is probable that $50,000 will be appropriated.

The House passed the bill providing for a fireman pension fund, and the committee bill on fees and salaries for State and county officers was reported and introduced.

The Senate in the afternoon passed Mr. Bird's bill changing the dog law so as to place the dog tax in one fund, to be apportioned whenever losses of sheep have been incurred.

Bozeman's good roads law authorizing county commissioners to issue bonds for the improvement and building of gravel, macademized or turnpike roads was also passed.

Senator Baker called for the third reading of his bill establishing a Superior Court in Madisqn county. The bill was passed by a vote of 38 to 1.

Senator Watson's bill amending the law for the appointment of justices of the peace was called on its third reading. The bill provides that the acts of all justices of the peace appointed before the election of 1894, and whose successor have been chosen, shall be declared void. The bill passed.

The Judiciary Committee of the House, Wednesday, reported favorably a bill investing the Governor with power to remove a Sheriff who refuses to use his power to preserve order.

The judiciary committee also reported favorably upon the bill to make it unlawful to discharge an employe because he belongs to a labor union.

The elections committee reported adversely upon Mr. Moore's bill providing for a separate canvassing board to act while the votes are being cast, but the house refused to concur and the bill went to the calendar for second reading.

The Miller-Bowers election contest was before the House. A motion to withdraw the matter from committee and to decide the contest in the house was pending when the House adjourned.

The Senate passed a bill regulating the construction of suburban railways and another regulating the appointment of special justices of the peace. Bills were introduced, in the Senate to make it unlawful for any one to act as a detective unless a certificate and powers are obtained from the chiefs of police of cities or from sheriffs.

A bill aimed against the Roby race track was introduced. It authorizes the Governor to ask for a receiver for any corporation transacting an illeg

CHAPTER XIII.

"What sort of people were we to meet to-night? Pleasant people, you said."

"And clever people from Edinburgh and London, visitors in the house. Lady Symington brought one or two of them to call here to-day. I liked them."

"And I am sure they liked you, my darling," said Roderick, with a tender pride. "Well, it will be rather nice to go back for an hour or two to the old life, and rest one's ears from the endless buzz of machinery. Though I am fond of machinery," added he, hastily and cheerily. "It is like presiding as a temporary providence over a cosmogony of one's own making; taking care that all the wheels are kept going; doing one's utmost, and waiting calmly for the final result, as one must in all things. Yes, I enjoy my work, and I mean to enjoy my play, if I am not too tired."

He had come in very tired—he often did; but, refreshed with tea and tender words, had now begun dressing for the Symington dinner, putting on his diamond studs, brushing out his curly hair, and his wife could see he rather liked the proceeding. He was a young man still.

She was young, too—not at all above the pleasure of "making herself pretty"—as he told her she looked in her white wedding dress, with her wedding veil transmuted into a shawl. He admired her—they mutually admired one another—and took a childish pleasure in the same.

"I wish I could give you a carriage," sighed Roderick, as he muffled her in hood and plaid for the ten minutes' walk under the fir woods, through the clear frosty December night.

"I am content with my own two feet, dear. Lady Symington offered the carriage, but I declined."

"Quite right. The poorer we are the more independent we will be. Always stick to the principle, 'Owe no man anything.'"

"Except 'to love one another,'" Silence added, gently. "I can't help loving her—that sweet old lady—however rich she is. And she is so cheerful, too. How she laughed at my thick boots, and showed them to the two young ladies she had with her—most gentlemanly young ladies, who dress almost like men, and pity themselves for being only women! Now, it may be very conceited of me, dear, but I never wished to be a man in all my life!"

"Thank heaven for that," said Roderick, with such energy that they both burst out laughing, and so started merrily, lantern in hand, through the solemn fir-wood, and across the open, breezy, star-lighted moor.

Silence clung to her husband's arm. "This feels like the old days—the days when you used to walk home with us at night." She paused, and then continued in the low smothered tone which he had learned to understand now. "Did you ever think then that I loved you—that it was heaven to me just to walk beside you for a quarter of an hour? And now we walk together always—through life—into eternity. No—I shall not lose you even there."

He pressed her little hand nearer his heart, but said nothing. They walked on, watching the round, red moon, which was creeping up slowly through a cleft in the hills. Neither said, "How beautiful," just as neither said, "I am happy," but they knew it without speaking.

So they reached, two humble pedestrians, the Symington hall-door.

"Are you afraid?" asked Roderick, as they paused to let a carriage pass them—the Castle Torre carriage, full of very resplendent McAllisters.

"Not afraid of my host and hostess, but very much afraid of the butler, the footman, and the groom of the chambers."

"Nevertheless, let us face even them," said Roderick, gayly, "for I am determined to have a pleasant evening."

It felt like it when, having passed bravely through the ordeal of the entrance hall, they found themselves in the fine old drawing-room, rich with the relics of a dozen generations of Symingtons, where Sir John and his wife received their guests.

There was once a popular song, "If I had a thousand a year," wherein the singer described what he would do with that noble income—counted but a small one nowadays. But ten thousand a year—what could one do with that? I think precisely what Sir John Symington did. A rich man, of cultivated tastes, with every right to gratify them, knowing enough of sorrow to humble his heart toward God and soften it toward his neighbor; gifted with not only the power but the will to do good, and having lived long enough to reap the fruits of an honorable youth in a calm old age; such a man is, spite of his riches, not unlikely to enter the kingdom of heaven. Ay, even in this world, as you could see by his contented look and quiet, stately bearing. They were indeed quite a picture, this old couple: he tall and thin, she round and rosy, with a cheek like a girl, and a smile like a child, as they came forward to meet the young couple, to whom life was only at its beginning.

"'Thine own friend, and thy father's friend, forsake thou not.' Mr. Jardine, it is kind of you to come here to-day. I hope it will not be the last time by many that Blackhall honors Symington by entering its doors."

These words, spoken with antique formality, and in rather loud tone—Sir John was slightly deaf—were heard by everybody. Everybody saw, too, how Lady Symington kissed Mrs. Jardine on both cheeks, foreign fashion in cordial welcome. This might have been chance, or wise and kindly intention, but it had its effect. The MacAlisters, and all the other neighbors, came forward at once, ignoring both the poverty and the mill-work, and added their greetings. These "old families," as well as the clever English guests, were much simpler, Silence found, both in manners and toilets, than the Richerden people. Very soon they made her feel thoroughly "at home."

The more so as she saw her husband was "at home" likewise. There is in some houses an unconscious atmosphere of domestic and social ozone, which brightens everybody. Wealth can not give it, nor poverty take it away. As they went into dinner, Mrs. Jardine leaning on Sir John's arm, as the stranger and the bride, she and Roderick smiled at one another, satisfied.

It was a recherche rather than a sumptuous meal, not one of those where the guests are evidently far less important than the food. And it was short—an hour and a half being, the host said, quite enough to spend over eating and drinking. Also, not long after the ladies retired the gentlemen followed them.

"You see, having been much abroad, we have adopted the best of foreign customs," said Lady Symington, smiling to see Mrs. Jardine's smile, at the unexpected apparition of her husband behind her chair. "Sir John likes a pleasant evening, good talk and good music, quite as well as a good dinner; and I like it much better. Indeed, I am afraid I am very fond of society."

"So are we," said Roderick, looking down on his wife's happy face. And just as his host called him to join a group of men, every one of whom was "somebody," or had done "something," he found time to whisper: "You were quite right, Silence; I am glad we came."

After that she watched him, talking, listening and being listened to, holding his own always with his habitual courtesy, but nevertheless with the firmness and self-respect of a man who has cast his lot in life, whose fate is fixed, and heart is at rest, so that he is now ready for the work of the world. He stood a good way from her, scarcely looking toward her—what need? This mingling with others made both feel only the more keenly and securely the sweet inward tie—"my own, my very own!"

And she sat in her quiet corner, that passionate ambition, not for self, but a dearer self, which in some women's hearts is as strong even as love, woke up—no, it had already wakened—but it seemed to make itself felt to the very depths of her soul, until there came added to it another feeling, roused by a few chance words she overheard.

"Yes, a fine fellow, a very fine fellow, indeed. What a pity he is married."

"Do you think so?"

"Just swamped; every man is, unless he can get that rara avis, a wife who is a help and not a hindrance, not only at home but in society."

"Hush! there she is—that quiet little thing in the corner."

"Eh?"

Silence had sharp ears; at least, she seemed to hear by instinct every word that was said about her husband. As the two gentlemen passed her they saw only the composed face, the quietly folded hands, but—she had heard.

Half an hour afterward Roderick, a little surprised, but glad, saw her the center of a circle, talking to all who talked to her, not only in her pretty, precise English, but in French and German—there were several foreigners in this cosmopolite house. Also, when requested by Lady Symington she went at once to the piano and sung.

It was a very simple song; their favorite, "Oh, Nannie, wilt thou gang wi' me?" but after it came a hush, and then a burst of involuntary delight.

"Yes, that is my wife," Silence heard her husband answer to some one, very briefly, but she caught both the look and the tone. She went back to her seat, all her nervousness gone. She could face the world now. He was not ashamed of her.

Human nature is human nature after all. Many a good man loves with patient tenderness a wife very inferior to himself; many a woman upholds faithfully before the world the man she has married, whom all the world sees, and wonders sometimes if she sees, is altogether unworthy of her. This is right, noble; but it is also a little sad. The perfect bond, the true marriage, must always be between those who not only love, but are proud of one another—as were these.

The evening slipped by fast, so fast that the guests were already leaving; but Lady Symington begged the Jardines to stay a few minutes more.

"Well, the moon is full, and our horses will not catch cold by standing," said Roderick gayly to his wife. He was so thoroughly enjoying himself that, for the first time, he did not notice the little tired face. But Lady Syminton did, and put Silence in her own arm-chair, secured round by curtains, above which hung the sweet picture of the long-dead boy. Upon it the eyes of both women, the young and the old, met tenderly.

"He must have been so pretty," Silence said.

"Yes. Almost like an angel, or it seems so now. He was a Christmas child. This Christmas he would have been thirty-nine—no, forty years old. How strange!"

The old lady spoke calmly, as old people learn to do. And then, like one habituated to repress herself and think of others only, she added:

"Your husband is not near forty yet; he could not be, for Henry Jardine married late in life. Sir John lost sight of him after that, but he was always very fond of him. We thought him so clever, so sure to make a name for himself one day. Perhaps his son will."

"I hope he will; yes, he shall."

The words were brief, but there was a sudden flash in the eye, indicating the faith which creates the hope, and the will which brings about both. And then, startled at herself, Silence shrunk back behind the curtains of her pleasant nook, glad to hide for a few minutes after the efforts even of their happy evening.

She strained her ears to catch her husband's voice, but instead she only heard the idle buzz of conversation behind her, little heeded, until her own name struck her ear.

"Jardine? Surely I met a Mrs. Jardine at Richerden last week. Could she be a relation, a mother or aunt, to that young fellow? Impossible!"

"Why impossible?"

"Oh, Mrs. MacAlister" (the speaker was one of the Symington guests), "if you had seen her! Astonishing in accent, and still more astonishing in dress; clannish, as I suppose you Scotch would call it—always talking of her 'family,' and evidently considering it the most important family in all Scotland. She had three daughters—one married to a man named Thomson—ugh! a nice son-in-law to have! You should have seen him in the drawing-room after dinner. But she never spoke of any son."

"You don't say so! That coarse, ignorant, vulgar woman?"

At this talk—heard quicker than it takes to write, and impossible not to hear, for the speakers were behind the curtain—Silence looked at her companion, whose eyes were cast down on the carpet. Making some remark quite foreign to the subject, Lady Symington rose; then, seeing the poor little scarlet face, she let all polite pretenses drop.

"My dear, 'les absens ont toujours tort.' Let it pass; we will move away."

"How can I let it pass? It is not true. And she is his mother. It can not be true."

"If it were," said the old lady, quietly, "it could not affect any right-minded people. Your husband is what he is, a Jardine of Blackhall, and the very image of his father."

"Still, a mother is a mother always. I had one once."

In another moment, putting aside Lady Symington's detaining hand she stood before the two ladies.

"I beg your pardon, but I overheard you. I could not help overhearing. You mistake. Mrs. Jardine, my mother-in-law, is a very good woman. Her children love her much. Uneducated she may be—her father was a working man—but 'coarse,' 'vulgar,' it is impossible."

"Whether or no," said the young London lady, equally touched and surprised, "I am sorry I said it. It is a certificate of merit to any woman that her son's wife should be so fond of her."

The poor little face, pale with pain, flushed visibly. "It is not that—it is because of the injustice. One should never let an injustice pass if one can help it."

The eager voice, pathetic even in its indignant pride, the manner so simple and straightforward—Mrs. MacAlister said next day that young Mrs. Jardine was the oddest and most "unconventional" young lady she ever knew; but there was no mistaking her meaning. Both ladies felt themselves, as the younger expressed it, "quite shut up," and made no end of incoherent apologies.

Silence acepted them smiling. "It does not matter, since only I heard you—not my husband."

Just then, turning around, she saw Roderick standing beside Lady Symington, and was quite certain, by the expression of his face, that he had heard, or guessed, everything that had passed.

He said nothing—what was there to say?—only came forward, bowing with almost more than his usual rather stately courtesy to the two ladies, drew his wife's arm in his, and making their adieus to their hostess, took her away immediately.

Not until they had got out into the dark—the quiet, soothing, solitary night—did he break out in a passion of anger and grief.

"Course! Vulgar! How dared she say it? Ignorant she may be. How could she be otherwise with her up-bringing? But she is, as you say, a thoroughly good woman. Thank you for saying it; thank you, my darling, for being so generous to my poor mother."

"Not generous, only just," whispered the soothing voice. "I could not be unjust to any mother, least of all to yours. They did not know her, these people, and they were sorry. You heard them say so."

"I heard all; I was close by; but how could I speak? Coward that I was! It was you who were brave. Again, thank you, my darling."

They walked on awhile in total silence, then Roderick burst out again:

"Yes, she is my mother. No unkindness can alter that. And she has done nothing really wrong—nothing that can make me cease to respect her. Her weaknesses—I know every one. It is nonsense to say children should not see their parents' faults; they must and do. But then there is the love that covers all She loved me, too, once. If I saw her this minute, I believe I should forget everything except that she was my mother—my dear old mother."

And a great sudden sob, like a boy's, betrayed what his wife had long guessed, the pent-up grief which even she could not wholly heal.

(To be continued.)

The Lady, the Corpse and Bow-Wow

The other day a lady shipped her husband's remains and a dog over the Central, says an exchange. At Albany she appeared at the door of the baggage car to see how they were getting along.

"How does he seem to be doing?" she asked with a sniff.

"Who, the corpse?" inquired the baggage master, kindly.

"No, the dog."

"Oh, he's comfortable," replied the baggageman.

"Anybody been sitting down on him?"

"Who, the dog?"

"No, the corpse."

"Certainly not," answered the baggageman.

"Does it seem cold enough in here for him?"

"For who, the corpse?"

"No, the dog."

"I think so," grinned the baggage master.

"Does the jolting appear to affect him any?"

"Affect who, the dog?"

"No, the corpse."

"I don't believe it does."

"You'll keep an eye on him, won't you?" she asked, wiping a tear away.

"On who, the corpse?"

"No, the dog."

And having secured the baggageman's promise, she went back to her coach apparently contented.

Max O'Rell Was.

Max O'Rell relates that one day he was lecturing in Sandhurst, Victoria, on his favorite subject: "John Bull at Home." In the first row of the orchestra stalls there was a man who evidently had had a schooner or two of colonial beer, and who, for ten minutes, incessantly growled at every statement made by the lecturer. By and by Max O'Rell had to remind his audience, to explain a point, that he was a Frenchman.

"Ah, you're a Frenchman," shouted the man at the top of his voice, "well, if you're a Frenchman, you please leave John Bull alone and give me a lecture on Waterloo, you beggar!"

Max O'Rell declined to give a lecture on Waterloo, as this was not the subject announced. On hearing this the jolly Briton rose again, faced the audience, and said:

"This man says he is a Frenchman and he can't speak on Waterloo. I tell you, the man is no Frenchman." And as his speech threatened to replace the lecture, two policemen had to come to the rescue of the Frenchman.

Has Four Hundred Dogs.

William Hammond, of Eldred, Sullivan county, across the Delaware from Shohola, Pa., keeps 400 dogs. To properly support this great canine army he has a bakery and a meat-chopping machine, which in combination use up ten barrels of flour and half a ton of meat a week to make dog biscuits.

These dogs do not all belong to Mr. Hammond. They are the property of sportsmen in New York, Brooklyn, and Philadelphia. Hammond is a professional trainer of hunting dogs, and he is handling and breaking these dogs in the woods and covers of Sullivan county for service in the field and chase. Twenty hired men who know something about dogs themselves assist Hammond in the work.

Among the Hebrews during the theocracy the taxes were very severe. There was a poll tax of half a shekel, about 30 cents, a tribute of the first fruits and first born of animals, a redemption tax of the first-born son, a tithe for the tabernacle, another for the Levites, and a third, every third year, for the poor. It has been computed that the total taxation exceeded 36 per cent. of the land valuation.

The true way to mourn the dead is to take care of the living who belong to them. These are the pictures and statues of departed friends which we ought to cultivate.

BURIED IN THE SNOW

WHOLE COUNTRY IN THE GRASP OF A BLIZZARD.

Storm Extends from the Rockies to the Atlantic – Gives the South a Chill—Railroads Tied Up—Zero and Below Nearly Everywhere.

Frigid Weather Is General.

IN the grip of one of the most severe and distressing blizzards to be found in the records of the Weather Bureau. That has been the condition of this country during the past week. From the eastern slope of the Rocky Mountains even unto the big Allegheny chain on the east a storm of snow and wind, accompanied by the celebrated Dakotan icy temperature, raged with a ferocity that struck terror into the hearts of all whose misfortune brought them into contact with it. It was, in fact, a regular French revolution of weather, and the sans culottes of the wild Northwest howled in the habitudes of the staid and respectables of the South and East. It was really a reign of terror that affrighted all honest people and paralyzed the motives of the commonplace. Railroads abandoned freight trains and passenger trains were tied up in huge and impregnable drifts many feet high. One startling feature of the blizzard was the impartiality with which it swept over the country. It measured out a minus 40 dose for the Dakotas and nearly killed the Louisianans by breaking the record at an even zero. Old Point Comfort, the famous resort, had the novelty of a hard snowstorm and the pan handle of Texas shivered with the mercury at 5 degrees below. Omaha was frozen at 18 below and Memphis had an even zero. There was enough snow on the sugar plantations for sleighing. Water was frozen in the orange belt, and the scarcity of it in the Chicago mains suggested a theory that Lake Michigan was solid to the bottom. Peach men in Michigan have abandoned hopes for their trees.

The storm was general. A blizzard raged everywhere. It roared like an Asiatic lion and drove all human beings indoors, where bread and butter did not demand that they labor in the very teeth of the monster. Not for many a year ago has the country suffered so generally what it suffered last week from wind, cold and snow. In the cities street cars were stalled and walking was like taking one's ears, nose and lips in one's hand, while in the country the wind and snow swept the earth with such unbroken velocity that in places life was endangered to face the blast.

As recorded by the Weather Bureau at Chicago Friday, the average snowfall was eight inches, with the following table of temperature:

St. Paul	18	Cincinnati	0
La Crosse	14	Buffalo	8
Bismarck	36	Memphis	0
Williston	40	Port Huron	4
Miles City	32	Duluth	20
Havre	26	Sault	14
Moorhead	30	Grand Haven	8
St. Vincent	34	Des Moines	12
Huron	32	Davenport	8
Pierre	26	Cheyenne	12
Omaha	18	Oswego	6
Kansas City	10	Pittsburg	0
Concordia	16	Albany	4
Wichita	12	Winnipeg	36
St. Louis	2	Medicine Hat	22
Green Bay	12	Cairo	0
Detroit	4	Marquette	10
Cleveland	2	Alpena	10
Indianapolis	2	Dodge City	14

Notes of The Storm.

Oklahoma City, O. T., reports a severe blizzard.

Business was practically suspended at Iowa Falls, Ia.

At Cedar Rapids, Ia., all freight traffic was abandoned.

A gorge formed in the Ohio river at Evansville, Ind.

Eastern trains due at Dubuque, Ia., were all snow-bound.

The Northwestern Railroad is blockaded at several points.

Charles Dewester was frozen to death in the blizzard at Peoria.

It snowed continuously for thirty-six hours at Knoxville, Tenn.

Zero was marked at Memphis, Tenn., the coldest weather in thirty years.

William Douglass, a farmer, was frozen to death in his barn near Camden, O.

Mexico, Mo., reports the worst blizzard in its history. Stock is suffering badly.

The 'Frisco passenger train stuck in a snowbank twenty miles east of Winfield, Kan.

Thirteen trains were buried in snowbanks within a radius of fifteen miles of Clinton, Ia.

St. Joseph, Mo., reports all trains on the St. Joseph and Grand Island road abandoned.

Reports from Ashland and other cities in Wisconsin indicate that the traffic situation is serious.

The whole of the southern section of Virginia is covered with snow to a depth of eight inches.

At Roanoke, Va., the wind blew a hurricane. Street cars were tied up and the streets abandoned.

Patrick McLaughlin laid down in an ice wagon at Rockford, Ill., to sleep, and was so badly frozen that he will die.

At Ottawa, Kan., the schools were dismissed and two children had their feet frozen. All trains were delayed.

The wind blew forty-seven miles an hour at San Antonio, Tex., with the thermometer at 12 degrees above zero.

Reports reached Hastings, Neb., that a whole family in the southeastern part of the county had perished from cold.

The mercury dropped 40 degrees at Jacksonville, Fla. Icicles a foot long formed at Tallahassee. Vegetables will be damaged.

A Burlington passenger train stuck below Carthage, Mo., all day. But for the food furnished by farmers the passengers would have suffered severely. They burned fence rails, old ties, etc., to keep warm.

G. W. Johnson, an old citizen of Parkersburg, W. Va., became paralyzed with the cold on his way home, fell and froze to death in sight of his house.

The severe cold at Mobile, Ala., will cause a loss to the vegetable gardeners of hundreds of thousands of dollars. They give up hope of saving anything.

Two Santa Fe freight engines were ditched in a snowdrift near Red Rock, O. T. Both engines were wrecked in an attempt to pass through. Engineer Regin and a fireman were badly hurt.

At Fort Worth, Tex., the weather is the coldest known for years, the thermometer registering 3 degrees below zero. Trains from the north were delayed several hours. Range cattle are suffering.

Hundreds of cases and barrels of beer, aggregating in value thousands of dollars, have been destroyed by the cold at Milwaukee within the last few days. Since the cold snap made its appearance shipments of beer have almost ceased.

Indianapolis and other natural gas towns in Indiana are in a bad way. In Indianapolis the natural gas supply is weaker than it has been since the fuel was piped to the city, and there is a great deal of severe suffering. There are but few homes in which the temperature can be raised above 55.

THE LION OF LONDON.

The Once-Despised "Coffee Cooler" the Hero of the Hour.

The pugilistic hero of the hour in London is the colored boxer, Frank Craig, "The Harlem Coffee Cooler," who poses as an Indian prince, who is to marry a white heiress, it is said, and who professes to be anxious to meet Peter Jackson in the arena. Craig whipped Ted Pritchard, the English champion, with surprising ease and is now matched to battle with Frank P. Slavin. According to his late manager, Prof. Butler, Craig is the greatest swell in London. He hobnobs with the nobles and cuts a great dash on Fleet street every afternoon. When he speaks of Craig, Butler waxes eloquent. "What I want to do is to warn young men against jumping suddenly into prominence. It's no good," he said to a New York reporter the other day. "Just take, for example, the 'Cooler's' case. He used to be a modest, well-behaved fellow. Gracious alive, look at him now!" and Butler, holding his hands in the air, shook his head several times. "It's a sight to see him. You couldn't hand him a ripe peach on a gold plate now unless you had six pairs of gloves on."

FRANK CRAIG.

Craig is 25 years of age and nearly six feet tall. He is a well-built young negro, and when he first took to boxing about five years ago a $5 bill for a victory suited him down to the ground. As many hundreds would now be sneered at by the rising, or risen, young Harlem star.

TWO GOVERNORS IN ONE STATE.

Tennessee Is Now Able to Compete with Her Neighbor, Alabama.

There are two men in Tennessee who claim to be governor of the State. Gov. Peter Turney is holding over pending a contest between himself and Mr. Evans under a law recently enacted by the Legislature, and the Hon. H. Clay Evans has taken the oath of office and is demanding possession of the executive quarters at the capitol. Turney, who has been governor for one term, was the Democratic nominee in the last election and Evans was the Republican candidate. The returns sent in from the sheriffs of the various counties showed Evans' election by about 700 votes, but the Democrats claimed that the law requiring a poll-tax receipt as a condition precedent to voting had been disregarded in East Tennessee, and that Turney was elected by a plurality of the legal votes. The constitution provides that the speaker of the Senate shall publish the returns in the presence of the joint assembly of the Legislature, and that the candidate receiving the highest number of votes cast "shall be governor." The Legislature is empowered by the constitution to enact a law for gubernatorial contests, but that was never done until the present emergency arose, and the law enacted provides that the incumbent governor shall hold over until the contest is determined.

H. CLAY EVANS.

KING OF GREECE.

Present Ruler of the Country a Brother of the Princess of Wales.

With the rumors of a rebellion and insurrection in Greece, attention is directed to the ruler of the country. King George, the present ruler, is the second son of the King of Denmark, and was born Dec. 24, 1845. He is a brother of the Princess of Wales and uncle of the Czar of Russia. Otho I., the late King of Greece, abdicated in 1863, and the throne was then tendered by a majority of the Greek people to Prince Alfred of England, but the English Government refused to accept the nomination. It was next offered to Duke Ernest, of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, and declined. Then it was offered to William Ferdinand Adolphus George who accepted it and has since reigned as King George I. He was married at St. Petersburg to Princess Olga, daughter of the Grand Duke Constantine, on Oct. 27, 1867. His reign has been mild, and he has succeeded to some extent in winning the favor of the people.

KING GEORGE.

News of Minor Note.

The grocery house of Gauvreau & Bergeron of Hastings, Neb., assigned, with liabilities of $2,900; assets, $4,000.

N. M. Hills, ex-county superintendent of schools at Yankton, S. D., has committed suicide by hanging. Cause, illness.

SEA LASHED TO FURY.

ATLANTIC COAST SWEPT BY A TIDAL WAVE.

Great Ruin Wrought at Halifax—Boston Shipping and Fall River Warehouses Severely Damaged—Cleveland's Catboat Wrecked.

Destruction Widespread.

The sea rose at Halifax, N. S., Friday higher than for years. The stage of water reached the strength of a tidal wave, and reports are pouring in from all directions along the coast telling of the destruction of property. A dispatch from North Sydney tells an awful story of destruction on the island of Cape Breton. The wave was the result of Tuesday's storm. At Halifax twenty-two houses and shops were washed away. Nothing was saved. At Middle Head all the fish stores were swept away. At New Halen all the fish stores and residences are gone, making a total of more than 100 buildings now known to have been swept away during the storm. So far as known no lives were lost. The storm came to a sudden termination at 4 o'clock Friday afternoon.

Boston reports a tidal wave along the New England coast, doing vast damage to mill and wharf properties and shipping. Gloucester, New Bedford, Fall River, Portsmouth, and Portland harbors suffed the most, and the full extent of the damage farther north will not be known for several days, as the blizzard has buried wires and cut off communication with many places. When the wave broke upon Gloucester harbor, Dog bar was a fearful sight, the breakers making a clean breach across the whole mouth of the harbor. It broke completely over the lighthouse on Thatcher's island, and for the first time in forty years Minot's lighthouse was overtopped by the water. The wave at Portsmouth harbor did $10,000 damage to railroad wharf property and drove the three-masted schooner Nathan Lawrence from Newport News to Portland high and dry on Jerry's Point. Along Buzzard's Bay vast damage was done, and the wave dashed President Cleveland's catboat Ruth against the railroad bridge two miles away from its anchorage, breaking it into toothpicks. Bridges were carried away along the cape and trains are stalled.

At Fall River the wharves of the Fall River Line, Fall River and Providence Steamboat Company, Cook-Borden Lumber Company, and other large wharves were flooded. In a storehouse owned by Boden & Remington, about 160 bales of cotton, 1,500 barrels of cement, 4,000 barrels of lime, 100 barrels of plaster and some oil were stored there. The wetting of the lime caused a big blaze, and $6,000 damage was done. At New Bedford the basements of several mills were flooded. The Wamsutta, the New Bedford machine shop and the Smith-Carleton Company were forced to shut down.

Other Long Island and Rhode Island ports report the sea higher than ever before known, with vast damage.

BONDS ALREADY SOLD.

Negotiations Completed for Disposing of $62,400,000.

Nobody guessed the facts about the bond sale—as to the amount of bonds, the terms of sale or the method that would be taken to inform the public as to the particulars of the transaction. The secret was well guarded, and the result shows that even those who thought themselves best informed were deceived. Speculation had credited the administration with a determination to sell anywhere from $50,000,000 to $200,000,000 in bonds, bearing anywhere from 4 to 5 per cent., running from ten to thirty years, at an upset basis of from 3 per cent. to 3½ per cent. The last semi-official misinformation that was allowed to leak out through Treasury Department sources fixed the amount at $100,000,000 and the basis at 3⅛ per cent. The truth, as finally disclosed by the President in his special message to Congress, that a private sale of $62,400,000 in 4 per cent. thirty-year bonds had been negotiated on a basis of 3¾ per cent., was in the nature of a sensational surprise.

The President says:

"Since my recent communication to Congress calling attention to our financial condition and suggesting legislation which I deemed essential to our national welfare and credit, the anxiety and apprehension then existing in business circles have continued. As a precaution, therefore, against the failure of timely legislative aid through congressional action, cautious preparations have been pending to employ to the best possible adtage, in default of better means, such executive authority as may, without additional legislation, be exercised for the purpose of re-enforcing and maintaining in our treasury an adequate and safe gold reserve. In the judgment of those especially charged with this responsibility, the business situation is so critical and the legislative situation is so unpromising, with the omission thus far on the part of the Congress to beneficially enlarge the powers of the Secretary of the Treasury in the premises, as to enjoin immediate executive action with the facilities now at hand. Therefore, in pursuance of section 3700 of the Revised Statutes, the details of an arrangement have this day been concluded with parties abundantly able to fulfill their undertaking whereby bonds of the United States authorized under the act of July 14, 1875, payable in coin thirty years after their date, with interest at the rate of 4 per cent. per annum, to the amount of a little less than $62,400,000 are to be issued for, the purchase of gold coin amounting to a sum slightly in excess of $65,000,000 to be delivered to the treasury of the United States, which sum, added to the gold now held in our reserve, will so rest in such reserve as to make it amount to something more than $100,000,000. Such premium is to be allowed to the Government upon the bonds as to fix the rate of interest upon the amount of gold realized at the rate of 3¾ per cent. per annum. At least one-half of the gold to be obtained is to be supplied from abroad, which is a very important and favorable feature of the transaction."

Told in a Few Lines.

The St. Louis Belt Line Railway Company has been incorporated with a capital stock of $2,000,000.

The Union Veteran Legion asks all ex-Confederates to join in a movement for a national park at Appomattox.

The United States Circuit Court of Appeals has decided that condensed cherry juice must be admitted for 60 cents duty.

C. O. Temple, the Wabash agent and operator at Centralia, shot himself through the head at Mexico, Mo. He will die.

Five railroad officials were placed on trial at St. Louis, charged with violating the interstate commerce act by granting rebates.

Rev. Mr. Davis, of Camden, Mo., baptized eight persons in Eel river at Mexico, and it is feared one or more of them will die from the exposure.

The Brooklyn Board of Aldermen revoked the grants to the trolley road companies. The demonstration planned by the strike leaders was prevented.

PIPER HEIDSIECK
PLUG TOBACCO
CHAMPAGNE FLAVOR

Consumers of chewing tobacco who are willing to pay a little more than the price charged for the ordinary trade tobaccos, will find this brand superior to all others.
BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.

DR. MOTT'S
PENNYROYAL PILLS

The only safe, sure and reliable Female Pill ever offered to Ladies, especially recommended to married Ladies. Beware of pills put up in tin boxes as they are dangerous. Ask for Dr. Mott's PENNYROYAL PILLS and take no other. Send for circular. Price $1.00 per box, 6 boxes for $5.00.
DR. MOTT'S CHEMICAL CO., - Cleveland, Ohio
Fisher & Son, Auburn, Ind.

FITS!
Brace Up! Don't Lose Courage!!
Your disease is not incurable because your Physician has given you up, and you have not received any benefit from the medicine you have tried, is not any reason you cannot be cured. We can positively cure all kinds of Fits, Epileptic, Convulsion or Spasmodic. WE GUARANTEE A POSITIVE AND PERMANENT CURE IN ALL CASES. We have cured thousands, many cases of long standing, and given up by Doctors as incurable. In our "Allen's Fits Cure" you will find a medicine that has never failed to effect a speedy cure. We back our guarantee with an offer of $100 to any person we cannot cure. Highest Bank references furnished on application.
1 Qt. Bottle, $3.00. 2 Qt. $5.00.
ALLEN MEDICAL CO.,
Washington & Water Sts., BOSTON, MASS.

LADIES
Suffering from Retarded, Suppressed or Painful Menstruation and all irregularities of like nature, will find our FAMALE PILLS an infallible cure. They are entirely safe and can always be relied upon for speedy relief. We have yet to hear of a case where they have failed to produce the desired result. A box should be kept on hand at all times to provide for emergencies. Correspondence Confidential.
By mail, with full directions, securely sealed, $2.00 per box.
ALLEN MEDICAL CO.,
Washington & Water Sts., BOSTON, MASS.

Every Woman
Sometimes needs a reliable monthly regulating medicine.
Dr. PEAL'S
PENNYROYAL PILLS,
Are prompt, safe and certain in result. The genuine (Dr. Peal's) never disappoint. Sent anywhere $1.00. Peal Medicine Co., Cleveland, O.
Sold by Fischler & Son., Auburn.

General or local Agents. $70 a week. Exclusive territory. The Rapid Dish Washer. Washes all the dishes for a family in one minute. Washes, rinses and dries them without wetting the hands. You push the button, the machine does the rest. Bright, polished dishes and cheerful wives. No scalded fingers, no oiled hands or stacking. No broken dishes, no mess. Cheap, durable, warranted. Circulars free.
W. P. HARRISON & CO., Clerk St. 15, Columbus, O.

Sex-ine Pills
RESTORE LOST VIGOR

Before and After Using.

New discovery. Will brace you up in a week. Sold with a WRITTEN GUARANTEE to Cure Nervous Debility, Loss of Sexual Power in either sex, Involuntary Emissions from any cause. If neglected, such troubles lead to consumption or insanity. $1.00 per box by mail, 6 boxes for $5.00. With every $5 order we give a written guarantee to cure or refund the money. Address PEAL MEDICINE CO., Cleveland, Ohio.
Sold by Fischler & Son, Auburn.

5,000 ACRES CENTRAL MICHIGAN FARMS
Near Saginaw and Bay City. Soil clay loam, hardwood timber and free from swamps. Railway facilities; schools and markets adjacent. Price, $6 to $8 per acre, on easy payments. Satisfaction assured. Practical farmers and parents who wish to give their sons a start in life, can find No Better Land in Michigan. Maps and Circulars free. JACOB SCHWARTZ or WM. M. TENNANT, SAGINAW, E. S., MICH.

RESTORED MANHOOD.
DR. MOTT'S NERVERINE PILLS

BEFORE AND AFTER USING.

The great remedy for nervous prostration and all nervous diseases of the generative organs of either sex, such as Nervous Prostration, Failing or Lost Manhood, Impotency, Nightly Emissions, Youthful Errors, Mental Worry, excessive use of Tobacco or Opium, which lead to Consumption and Insanity. With every $5 order we give a written guarantee to cure or refund the money. Sold at $1.00 per box, 6 boxes for $5.00. DR. MOTT'S CHEMICAL COMPANY, Cleveland, Ohio.
Sold by Fischler & Son, Auburn.

PATENTS
Caveats, and Trade-Marks obtained and all Patent business conducted for MODERATE FEES. OUR OFFICE IS OPPOSITE U. S. PATENT OFFICE and we can secure patent in less time than those remote from Washington.
Send model, drawing or photo., with description. We advise, if patentable or not, free of charge. Our fee not due till patent is secured.
A PAMPHLET, "How to Obtain Patents," with cost of same in the U. S. and foreign countries sent free. Address,
C. A. SNOW & CO.
OPP. PATENT OFFICE, WASHINGTON, D. C.

THE AUBURN COURIER

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY.

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, post office as second-class matter.

THURSDAY....FEBRUARY 14, 1895.

CHURUBUSCO had a fire Saturday night which destroyed a dwelling and another Sunday night which damaged the Baptist parsonage

THE U. S Senate is now again republican. The lacking senators from the new states and other recent changes giving them a small majority.

THE total loss of life by the sinking of the Elbe in the North Sea about ten days ago is 234, only 20 escaping. The ship that ran into her and then left her is likely to be called to account.

CONGRESS rejects the bill to let off the Pacific railroad by paying 40 millions and agrees to take 75 millions. Republicans favored 40 and the democrats 75. That shows which loves corporations.

THE bill to wipe out the odious "differential duty" on sugar that has caused so much trouble, passed the "House" last week by the decided vote of 139 to 31 Now let the Senate pass it.

THE census reports show that we consume about four and a half bushels of wheat a year for each man, woman and child. This proves how badly we need a wider foreign market.

PAPER makers in the United States are rapidly gaining trade. They now sell heavily to Great Britain Australia, and South America. No need of protection against the pauper labor of the old world" or the new either.

THE GASCOGNE, a big ocean steamer, arrived at New York Monday, over eight days behind time. It was supposed she had foundered at sea. There was great joy when she was sighted off Fire Island. The delay was caused by a break in the machinery.

THERE was a big fire at Indianapolis last Thursday when a part of the New Denison hotel was destroyed. Many members of the legislature boarded there, some of whom lost much of their clothes and other personal effects, and some bills not yet passed were destroyed.

TERRIBLE cold weather is reported all over the world. In the central part of Europe there has been much suffering In England and Ireland many trains were blockaded and some abandoned. The cold wave in this country has extended far south and Florida and other states will sustain another loss.

THERE is no desire on the part of democrats to "entirely abandon silver" among some republicans claim. The only real opponents of silver are these same republicans. Cleveland himself, will agree to a reasonable amount of coined silver, say so many millions a month. Republicans have hard work to invent something to fight against.

CLEVELAND has scored a good point in bringing Spain to her senses in regard to reciprocity She objected to our tariff and was going to refuse to trade with us. Cleveland and Gresham talked to them a little and they have backed down, Germany should be made to follow. And there we should take off that extra duty on refined sugar, so they would have no cause to complain.

MISS FRANCES WILLARD is getting ready [illegible] petition to all the crowned heads and chief magistrates of the world, [illegible] them to put down the liquor and opium business. The petition contains 6 million names gathered from forty-nine nations, and is thirty-five miles long. She will ship it over the world in several big boxes. She began the work in '83.

WHAT YOUR THUMB TELLS.

Square Type.

Philosophic. Artistic. Feminine. Typical. Spatulated.

The thumb is an unfailing index of character. The Square Type indicates a strong will, great energy and firmness; Closely allied is the Spatulated Type, the thumb of those of advanced ideas and business ability. Both of these types belong to the busy man or woman; and Demorest's Family Magazine prepares especially for such persons a whole volume of new ideas, condensed into a small space, so that the record of the whole world's work for a month may be read in half an hour. The Conical Type indicates refinement, culture, and a love of music, poetry, and fiction.- A person with this type of thumb will thoroughly enjoy the literary attractions of Demorest's Magazine. The Artistic Type indicates a love of beauty and art, which will find rare pleasure in the magnificent oil-picture of roses, 16¾ x 24 inches, reproduced from the original painting by De Longpré, the most celebrated of living flower-painters, which will be given to every subscriber to Demorest's Magazine for 1895. The cost of this superb work of art was $350.00; and the reproduction cannot be distinguished from the original. Besides this, an exquisite oil or water-color picture is published in each number of the Magazine, and the articles are so profusely and superbly illustrated that the Magazine is, in reality, a portfolio of art works of the highest order. The Philosophic Type is the thumb of the thinker and inventor of ideas, who will be deeply interested in those developed monthly in Demorest's Magazine, in every one of its numerous departments, which cover the entire artistic and scientific field, chronicling every fact, fancy, and fad of the day. Demorest's is simply a perfect Family Magazine, and was long ago crowned Queen of the Monthlies. Send in your subscription; it will cost only $2.00, and you will have a dozen Magazines in one. Address W. JENNINGS DEMOREST, Publisher, 15 East 14th Street, New York. Though not a fashion magazine, its perfect fashion pages, and its articles on family and domestic matters, will be of superlative interest to those possessing the Feminine Type of Thumb, which indicates in its small size, slenderness, soft nail, and smooth, rounded tip, those traits which belong essentially to the gentler sex, every one of whom should subscribe to Demorest's Magazine. If you are unacquainted with its merits, send for a specimen copy (free), and you will admit that seeing these THUMBS has put you in the way of saving money by finding in one Magazine everything to satisfy the literary wants of the whole family.

Washington Letter.

From Our Regular Correspondence.

WASHINGTON, FEB. 11, 1895.

Senator Hill stated the financial situation in a nutshell when he said of the President's last special message: "It unloads the responsibility on Congress." President Cleveland after weeks of negotiation could do no better than to get an offer of gold to be paid for in thirty year 4 per cent coin bonds, at a price which makes the bonds carry interest at the rate of 3 and 3 4 per cent, although the same men expressed a willingness to furnish gold for an unlimited amount of 3 per cent gold bonds. The President had this offer more than a week ago, but he held it in abeyance until the House defeated the bill providing for 3 per cent gold bonds Then he accepted the offer to the amount of 3,500,000 ounces of standard gold coin, which will require the issuing of within a fraction of $62,500,000 in bonds, with a proviso that the gold should be paid for at the same price with 3 per cent gold bonds, if Congress would within ten days authorize their issue. The president then in a special message laid the facts before Congress laying particular stress upon the $16,000,000 which represents the difference in the interest that would have to be paid on 3 per cent gold bonds and that which will have to be paid on the 3 and 3-4 per cent coin bonds and leaving it for Congress to decide which it shall be.

Chairman Wilson, of the House Ways and Means committee, who is in charge of the bill providing for the issue of 3 per cent gold bonds, is working with his usual energy to get the bill before the House although he knows as well as any man that it will not have one chance out of a possible hundred to pass the House, even if favorably reported from the committee, but he fully agrees with the President in desiring to put the House on record on this matter of saving $16-000 000. He holds with the President that the question of whether a man favors or opposes bonds does not enter into the question now. That has been settled and the bonds are to be issued under a law for which this Congress is not responsible. The only question at issue, according to the President's opinion, is whether $16,000,000 shall be saved or not. The silver men claim that the authorization of a gold bond by Congress will be equivalent to an official endorsement of the single gold standard, and that claim is what will prevent many democrats voting for the bill, if it gets before the House.

Whether Congress acts or refuses to act it is generally believed that the present bond issue will have the effect of greatly lessening the probability of an extra session of Congress. The President and Secretary Carlisle believe that getting the gold for these bonds from abroad will be highly beneficial to the treasury and that no further bond issues will be necessary, unless there shall be some unexpected turn of affairs.

The Senate adopted the amendment to the consular and diplomatic bill appropriating $500,000 to start the work of laying a cable to Hawaii and authorizing the President to contract for the entire work. With the exception of Senators Butler, Call, Gorman, Hill and Morgan all of the democrats present voted against the amendment

Senator Gorman's inquiry as to what authority the Senate had for going into a State and investigating the election of a governor and a legislature was prompted by Senator Call's resolution for an investigation of the part that the Louisiana and Honduras Lottery Co. played in the last Florida State election but it is equally applicable to other resolutions proposing investigations of State elections. And Senator Gorman's statement that the people of Maryland had a way, when crookedness existed or was suspected, of righting the matter for themselves without appealing to Congress, was suggested. It is not at all probable that any resolution providing for the investigation of a State election by a Senate committee will be adopted, and it is a matter for regret that any democrat should vote for such a resolution under any circumstances. The democratic party has always maintained that State authority was supreme in State elections, and the party has invariably suffered when attempts have been made to stand on principles as old as the party itself. It was the old undying principles which kept the party alive through years of defeat, and it is upon them that the party must depend for future success.

Senator Vilas succeeded in getting an amendment to the Sundry Civil Appropriation bill, authorizing the President to appoint a commission to confer with a like body representing Great Britain and Canada as to the feasibility of a series of canals between the great lakes and Atlantic ocean with a depth sufficient to accommodate ocean going vessels.

TEXAS, MEXICO AND CALIFORNIA

The Wabash Railroad.

In connection with the St. Louis, Iron Mountain & Southern Railway, Texas & Pacific Railway, International & Great Northern Railroad, and Southern Pacific Railway, known as the only true southern route, has placed in service a through first-class sleeping car and Tourist sleeping car, leaving Chicago daily at 10:50 a. m., via St Louis to Little Rock, Malvern (Hot Springs), Austin, San Antonio, Laredo (where a direct connection is made with through sleeping car for the City of Mexico), El Paso, Los Angeles and San Francisco. This is the only line from Chicago which can offer this excellent service. Call or write to any ticket agent of the Wabash or connecting lines for printed matter showing time, route, rates, description of cars, etc., or C. S. CRANE, G. P. & T. A., St Louis, Mo. F. A. PALMER, Asst. G. P. A., 201 S. Clark St., Chicago, Ills. 46-16w9

To Our Advertisers.

Now is a good time to speak of several things that concern both the COURIER and its advertisers. Copy for new ads, or for a change of ad, should be brought in as early as possible, even if it comes in the next day after the paper is out. Do not put it off till we are in a rush at the last moment. Whenever the copy is prepared bring it right in. Then if for any reason it is absolutely necessary to change someone's ad at a late hour, it can be done, whereas if all wait till late someone will get left. It takes no more work or thought to prepare an advertisement on Friday than it does on Tuesday.

Again each advertiser should keep watch of his advertisement, and see that it is in proper shape. Sometimes it happens that the advertiser forgets to state how many times he wants it inserted in its present form, and as the printer may not know, an unseasonable ad will be running that is of little or no value. There should be constant care on the part of both advertiser and paper, but the advertiser is the one most interested and who best understands just his wants.

New Fee and Salary Bill.

The legislature is about to fix up a new salary law for all county and state officers It gives the governor $5 000 a year, while several of the other state officers get much more. The auditor and attorney general each get $7,500. This looks queer. The county officers are rated about as in the present law, In DeKalb county, they will give the clerk $2,400; the auditor, $2,500; the recorder, $1,700; the treasurer, $2,100; the sheriff, $2,300 It may be difficult to explain why there is so much difference in the salaries, but that is about the way all these laws are fixed up. The reason the present law has been pronounced unconstitutional in part is that in Shelby county, it omitted the clerk and sheriff. The opinion, however, is that Shelby county was in all right when the bill passed, but was somehow omitted in copying If this were so, the clerk should be asked to account There is one thing about these salary laws, that don't work as well as people had hoped Take the office of sheriff and clerk. The fees on which these officers depend, come in slowly, sometimes taking eight or ten years, as in case of settling estates, etc, so that while the fees may be earned, they are not yet collected If a fee bill is sent out as required, they could not be collected, because the property has not been sold, or if sold, there has not enough been realized to pay all claims so far, in full And so on, with many causes of delay. Thus, if there has not been enough collected to amount to the salary allowed the officer, he fails to get the pay provided for So he goes half paid, and the county gets none of these fees until enough has been collected to pay the officer. For instance Mr Ralston has served as sheriff two years and when he went out of office, his salary was not yet paid and is not paid to this day. Possibly by the time the commissioners meet in March, there will be enough collected to pay him. If not, he must wait till June. It begins to look as if a well regulated, well-guarded fee law, would be the fairest and best, in case of these two offices at least, and the best and most satisfactory for the taxpayers. But of course it must not be so loosely framed that a man can get in "constructive fees" more than the law contemplated.

Table Talk.

Table talk for February opens with an interesting and instructive article on "Mushrooms and Toadstools" by Julia Palmer, the renowned authority on such subjects This is followed by the usual departments in which this month, the receipts alone number fully three dozen and in which are given the freshest notes on fashions, serving, and all questions of interest to the house-keeper and home-maker. There are also the menus for the month, a lesson in Dietitics, the Washington letter on Society's doings at the Capital and an article, 'Over the teacups, a bright readable resume of the latest popular books.

Our readers can see a sample copy by addressing Table Talk Publishing Co, Philadelphia, Pa.

Death of J. H. Winterbotham

We learn with regret the death of Ex-Senator John H. Winterbotham at his home in Michigan City Sunday. He was an uncle of Mrs. Julia E M Hodge, of this place, and one of the most prominent citizens of the state. He was born in Knox county, Ohio, in 1811, had been a banker at Ft. Madison, Iowa, and in 1866 moved to Indiana, locating at Michigan City. There he established the carriage and buggy factory in the prison north in 1866, which has been operated by him and his sons ever since, in which he amassed an independent fortune. He retired from active part in the enterprise several years ago. He was elected to the Indiana senate in 1872 and again in 1876, and was defeated for congress in 1882 by the late W H. Calkins, his republican competitor. Two years ago he erected, at a cost of $20 000, the beautiful soldiers' monument which adorns the lake front. He leaves a wife and three children, one son and two daughters. Last November he and Mrs. Winterbotham celebrated their fifty eighth wedding anniversary.

WATERLOO

Mrs Cora Stapley visited her relatives in Auburn the family of R. D. Tate.

Miss Rose Blair is suffering with a severe attack of sore throat,

Mrs. H. K. Less owns the building now occupied by the Swartz Brothers.

Wm. H. Less and wife entertained the pedro club on Saturday evening.

Lee Stamets is now a traveling salesman for agricultural implements.

Little Martha McEnterfer is on the sick list.

Miss Lizzie Longabaugh of Angola is visiting her sister Mrs. M. A. Miner.

Tarrisy Swarts and Miss Josephine Oberlin were united in marriage on Tuesday evening, Feb. 11, '95.

Miss Bessie Rummel nee Bassett will accompany her husband home next Saturday.

Dr. Showalter has returned from Cleveland and reports Mrs. McClure as improving

Ab. Kelley is still selling big drain tile A piled-up load went out in the fierce cold of Friday.

Harry Chamberlain took a trip to Butler last Friday. His father, Dr. Camberlain is somewhat improved in health though not able to leave his house.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrews who have lived the past two years with Mr. Bassett will now make their home with Mr. Frank VanAuken at Pleasant Lake.

Several of our local Masons went to Kendallville Friday to attend Mr Gallup's funeral. Among them were R. M Leonhart, W H. Less and others whose names are not recalled.

Peter Fisher has bought out Herzog, the merchant tailor, and goes into his old line of business again He is a veteran in the tailor business, as well as of the late rebellion.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm Beard have received another blessing which came to them Saturday, Feb. 9, a new baby girl. This is only the ninth child, living, the have lost one or two by death.

A new millinery store will soon be opened in the Bigler building on east side of South Wayne street, by two ladies They will also keep fancy goods and notions.

Mrs Tim McClure accompanied by D. Showalter, went to Cleveland last week to have a surgical operation performed A dispatch reached friends here on Friday that it was successful and she was doing well.

E.J. and John Jackman of Stark county Ohio have been paying the relatives here a visit J. W, Jackman and his brothers brought them to town Friday, on their way to take a train home, and they all had the fun of waiting several hours

Jacob Beck has sold out his interest in the business of the old firm to his son G. J. Beck, who will conduct it hereafter. Mr. Beck sr. has been in business in Waterloo for such a length of time, he is entitled to be considered one of the old land-marks. His health is very poor.

Sunday morning the fire bell called out the firemen, and the engine and people hurried from all direction to learn where the fire was located. Very fortunately it proved to be a separation of two sections of stove pipe in Mr Plumb's grocery, where so much smoke escaped, it was of course supposed the building was on fire.

The south-bound train on the Jackson road was over four hours late last Friday afternoon. It was following up the freight to pass it as usual at this place when the freight struck in the snow, when at the out heat E R Shoemaker's. In trying to pull through, the freight was broken in two and even then could not be moved. The engine was detached and came to town and got another engine from the main line to go up and help them. The two worked for some time, and finally brought in one part of the train. They then went back, and after an hour or two more, got the other part Then the passenger that had been waiting at Summit came on, getting here between 6 and 7 o'clock. It did not get back from Ft. Wayne till near midnight. That afternoon and much of next day quite a force of men kept shoveling the snow from the tracks, but all day Saturday the trains were behind time

The Hair.

The roots of the hair are each supplied with a blood vessel of its own and with proper nerves, though the latter do not extend into the hair itself. On the health of the roots of the hair the whole growth depends. On either side of the root and a little above it are two small glands, which secrete an oily substance that gives gloss to the hair, and the glands serve to protect the roots of the hair from becoming clogged with dust. Each separate hair is a hollow tube and through its length is conveyed the food essential to health and growth. —Pittsburg Dispatch.

What It Was.

"What is that gash on Pinder's face?"

"Oh, that is a mark of respect."

"What of respect?"

"Yes, he's got more respect now for the man that put it there than he had before."—Atlanta Constitution.

Gounod received his first instruction in music from his mother, who was a distinguished pianist. He won the grand prize at the Paris conservatory when he was 21.

The average weight of 20,000 men and women weighed in Boston was: Men, 141½ pounds; women, 124½ pounds.

The first agricultural instrument, the ancestor of both spade and pick, was a pointed stick.

Lady Carlisle Afflicted.

It is a matter of sincere regret that Lady Carlisle should have joined her friend and coworker in the cause of temperance reform, Miss Frances Willard, in at least semi-invalidism. The former is now suffering from an affection of the heart, aggravated by overwork and physical strain, and has been peremptorily ordered an indefinite rest. —Exchange

Two chemists of Hamburg, MM. Forster and Nijland, have published some studies on the cholera infection, from which it appears that soap is one of the best known sterilizers of water suspected of infection.

There is a laundryman in London who has a baby girl with 26 Christian names, each name beginning with a different letter of the alphabet.

MODERN SURGERY.

The Large Part That Absolute Cleanliness Plays In Its Operations.

There are three locations, so to speak, the absolute cleanliness of which must be above suspicion before the operator is justified in proceeding to his work. These are the surgeon's hands, his instruments and the integument covering the part of the patient's body at which the operation is about to be performed. How is the requisite cleanliness in each case secured? So far as the hands are concerned, by profuse scrubbing with a nailbrush in soap and hot water, followed by a thorough drenching in some antiseptic solution, as that of 1 in 2,000 of perchloride of mercury. So far as the instruments are concerned, by sterilizing them—that is, by boiling them in water, or by passing them through the flame of a spirit lamp, or placing them in a steam sterilizer, and then, when the operator is ready to begin, by putting them into a receptacle containing an antiseptic solution—as, for example, that of carbolic acid. Lastly, so far as the patient's integument is concerned, by washing the part first thoroughly with soap and water, having previously shaved it, if necessary, and afterward with a perchloride of mercury solution, or, if the part be greasy, by removing all the greasy material by scrubbing it with ether.

Without going into further details these are the cardinal precepts of the science of operating in the present day. Of course each wound which in this manner is made under aseptic conditions, as it is called, is kept aseptic by the use of antiseptic dressings until healing has taken place. The results of this method of treatment of wounds are nothing less than wonderful in comparison with those which the earlier surgeons were able to obtain. What happens after, say, the amputation of a limb nowadays? The rule is, nothing—nothing, that is to say, beyond the uneventful convalescence of the patient.

The dressings are not touched unless the temperature and the pulse of the patient indicate, by some disturbance, that it would be expedient to examine the wound. The temperature and the pulse are the surgeon's guide. He takes his cue from them. Nothing can be amiss in the wound if these remain normal, and thus it follows that a large wound, such as that following an amputation, heals soundly from first to last without any suppuration. What a contrast with that which obtained in former days! Suppuration was then thought to be an indispensable part of the healthy process of healing. In the present time, on the contrary, a surgeon is held to have failed in his practice of the principles of surgical cleanliness if, in wounds originally aseptic, suppuration occurs.—Nineteenth Century.

HIGHER EDUCATION.

The Interesting Results of the Study of a Frog's Tiny Muscle.

The young man who has had the priceless experience of self abandonment to some happily chosen point was well illustrated in a man I knew, writes G. Stanley Hall in The Forum. With the dignity and sense of finality of the American senior year quick within him his first teacher in Germany told him to study experimentally one of the 17 muscles of a frog's leg. The mild dissipation of a somewhat too prolonged general culture, aided by some taste for breezy philosophic speculation, almost diverted him from so mean an object. But as he progressed he found that he must know in a more minute and practical way than before—in a way that made previous knowledge seem unreal—certain definite points in electricity, chemistry, mechanics, physiology, etc., and bring them to bear in fruitful relation to each other. As the winter proceeded the history of previous views was studied and broader biological relations seen, and as the summer waned and a second year was begun in the study of this tiny muscle it was seen that its laws are the same in frogs and men; that just such contractile tissue had done all that man had accomplished in the world, and that muscles are the only organs of the will. As the work went on many of the mysteries of the universe seemed to enter in his theme. In the study of this minute object he gradually passed from the attitude of Peter Bell, of whom the poet says:

A primrose by a river's brim
A yellow primrose was to him,
And it was nothing more—up to the standpoint of the seer who "plucked a flower from the crannied wall" and realized that could he but understand what it was, "root and all, and all in all, he would know what God and man is." Even if my friend had contributed nothing in discovery to the temple of science, he had felt the profound and religious conviction that the world is lawful to the core and had experienced what a truly liberal and higher education—in the modern sense—is the distinct from the mediæval sense—really is.

His Will.

The rich old man with a young wife was having a hard time trying to make her coincide with his idea of what her duties were with reference to himself.

"Madam," he exclaimed after a heated argument, "I tell you I shall mold you to my will."

"That's easy enough," she retorted. "Only make it in my favor, and I'll attend to the balance."—Detroit Free Press.

Revenge.

"That disagreeable Mrs. Highfli acted as though she didn't want to speak when she met me on the street, but I'll get even with her."

Florence—What will you do?

"Kiss her the very next time I meet her."—Chicago Inter Ocean.

A Substitute.

He—I've bought you a pet monkey to amuse you, darling.

She—Oh, how kind of you! Now I shan't miss you when you are away.—Lyons (France) Republican.

GRAND RAPIDS AND INDIANA RAILROAD COMPANY.

Notice to Stockholders.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Grand Rapids and Indiana Railroad Company for the election of thirteen directors to serve for the ensuing year, and for the transaction of such other business as may be presented at the meeting, will be held in the General office of the company, in Grand Rapids, Mich., on Wednesday, March 6th, 1895, at 10 o'clock a. m.

The books for the transfer of stock will be closed February 22d, 1895.

F. A. GORMAN
Secretary.

RUPTURE

Cured in 30 days, without pain or slightest inconvenience by the Fidelity Method. Every case guaranteed. Patient need not pay a dollar until completely cured. The truss discarded forever. Over 8,000 cases cured in the last five years. Consultation free. Consult

J. B. CASSEBEER, M. D.

Their Authorized Physician.

Office opposite Swineford House, Main Street, Auburn, Indiana.

OnMen, Women and Children permanently cured

IVORY SOAP

IT FLOATS

FORTY MILLION CAKES YEARLY.

THE PROCTER & GAMBLE CO., CINTI.

"Shugers Special"

We can substitute many parts of our wheels thus enabling you to own a wheel of your own order. Our wheels are fitted with MORGAN & WRIGHT tires, others substituted if desired.

One set of M. & W. tires covered 18,358 miles in 1894. This record was made by Dr. Milton Keim of Philadelphia of all kinds kept in stock. Call and examine this wheel.

SUNDRIES

CORY SHUGERS, Agt

Auburn, - - Indiana.

List of Patents

Granted to Indiana Inventors this week. Reported by O. A Snow & Co., solicitors of American and Foreign patents, Opp. U. S. Patent Office, Washington, D C.

W. H. Aikman, Vincenner, Building Plaster; S. J. Austin, Terre Haute, Railway crossing: J. R. Baker, Kendallville, Adjustable table; W. O Guncsel, Terre Haute, Coal screen; O. S. Hensley, Barnard, Slat and wire fence making machine; E O Leach, Fairmount, Mold sanding machine; M. McQuistion, Greenburg, Hand truck; H. J. Schneider, Ft Wayne, Wheeled scraper; J. O. Shriner, New Castle, Detatchable strainer for down spouts; M. D. Smalley, Plymouth, Bicycle steering gear; F. F. Upson, Elkhart, Separating and amalgamating machine for gold, etc; J. Weathers, Indianapolis, Combined anvil, vise and drill; J O. Wright, Cochran, Refrigerating safe.

HORSEMEN

SAVE YOUR STOCK BY USING THE CELEBRATED

Morris' English Stable Powder
For Loss of Appetite, Constipation, Rough Hair, Hide Bound, and all Diseases of the Blood. Price, 25c. per package.

Morris' English Stable Liniment
Cures Lameness, Cuts, Bruises, Scratches, Galls, Sweeney, Spavins, Splint, Curb, etc. Price, 50c. per bottle.

Morris' English Worm Powder
Warranted to cure any case of Worms in Horses, Cattle, Sheep or Dogs, also Pin Worms in Colts. Price, 50c. per box.

Craft's Distemper and Cough Cure
A Specific for Distemper, Coughs, Colds, Heaves, Pink Eye, and all Catarrhal diseases of horses. Price, 50c. $1.00 per bottle.

Wells' Hoosier Poultry Powder
Makes Hens Lay, cures Cholera, Gapes and Roup, and keeps poultry healthy. Price, 25c. per package.

Every remedy guaranteed satisfactory money refunded. Our new book, "The Horse: His Diseases and Treatment," mailed free.
Wells Medicine Co., Lafayette, Ind.

For Sale by, Fischle & Son., Auburn.

Sealed book to men free, box 53, Toledo, O.

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder
World's Fair Highest Medal and Diploma.

Write Box 53, Toledo, O., free book to men

Notice to Contractors.

The Board of Commissioners of DeKalb county, State of Indiana, will receive sealed proposals until February 26, 1895, at 1 p. m., for building and erecting three iron bridges.

One span 176 feet from center to center of end pins, divided into 11 panels of 16 feet each.

Height of truss to be 26 feet from center of chords. Roadway 16 feet in the clear. Capacity of structure 108 lbs per sq. ft. of floor surface on the trusses, and 200 lbs per sq. ft on floor system; 9 lines of steel joists; floor three inch oak plank; hub guard lattice 24 inches deep; wheel guard 4 x 6 inch oak or pine

The two 80-foot spans to have a capacity of 200 pounds per sq. ft of floor surface for trusses and floor system, drawn in 4 panels of 12½ feet each. Roadway 16 feet in the clear; 9 line steel joists; floor 3 inch oak plank; hub guard lattice 18 inches deep; wheel guard 4x6 inches.

Bridges to be proportioned for iron throughout, in accordance with Cooper's Specifications for Highway Bridges

Bidders must furnish their own plans and strain sheets

And also at the same time and place we will receive bids for the erection of the stone abutments for the above named bridges, according to the plans and specifications now on file in the auditor's office of DeKalb county, Indiana.

Each bid must be accompanied with a certified check, not less than $500, for security to enter into contract within ten days, if the contract is awarded to him.

The Commissioners will reserve the right to reject any or all bids.

By Order of the Board.

JAMES HENDERSON, P. B.

NOTICE TO NON-RESIDENTS.

State of Indiana, DeKalb Co. ss:

In the DeKalb Circuit Court, March term, 1895.

Cicero Millington, if living, if not living then the unknown heirs, decendants and legatees of said Cicero Millington. —— Millington, whose true christian name is unknown to the plaintiff, wife of said Millington, if living; if not living, the unknown heirs, descendants and legatees of said wife. Thomas M. Town and Lydia Ann Town, his wife, if living, if not living, then the unknown heirs, descendants and legatees of said Thomas M Town and Lydia Ann Town. William Ansley, if living, if not living then the unknown heirs, descendants and legatees of said William Ansley. James Wood, if living, if not living, then the unknown heirs descendants and legatees of said James Wood. —— Wood, whose true christian name is unknown to the plaintiff, wife of said James Wood, (November 24, 1883) if living, if not living, then the heirs, descendants and legatees of said wife, are hereby notified that an action has been commenced against them in said court, by John Myers, to quiet title to real estate in said county, and that the same will be heard and determined on the 15th day of March 1895, being the 12th judicial day of the next term of said court, which commences March 4, '95.

Witness, the Clerk of said court this 2nd day of January, 1895.

D. D. MOODY, Clerk.

F. L. WOLFENBERGER, Attorney.

The BEST Boys' Outfits in the World

are offered to the public by THE HUB—Chicago's greatest clothing store! Made of strictly all-wool cloth—well fitting and strong—we can positively guarantee them the Best Bargains for the Money ever given by anybody.

The Hub's Famous Head-To-Foot Outfits

For Boys from 5 to 15 years old.

consist of One Double-Breasted Coat, Two Pairs of Knee Pants, a Stanley Cap, made to match the suit, and One Pair of Shoes, made of solid leather very neat, yet as strong as a brick, and the price of the entire "Head-To-Foot" Outfit is

Only $5.00

Tens of thousands sold to every state of the Union, and everyone is delighted with them. You'll be pleased, too, if you'll let us send you one—all charges prepaid to any part of the U. S. for $5.75, or C. O. D. with privilege of examination before payment—if a deposit of $1.00 is sent with the order.

Samples of Cloth and 60-page Illustrated Catalogue telling you all about the greatest line of Men's and Boys' Clothing, Furnishing Goods, Hats, Shoes for Men and Women, and Ladies' Cloaks and Furs, sent free and postage paid.

THE HUB

N. W. Cor. State and Jackson Sts.,

CHICAGO, ILL.

The Hub has no Branch Stores Anywhere.

GREAT Midwinter EVENT!

BISHOP AND LACKEY

GREAT JANUARY HOUSEKEEPING SALE.

Tremendous Cash Bargains In Desirable Merchandise.

Special Attractions!

IN

Table Linens,
Napkins, Towels,
White Spreads,
Made Sheets and
Pillow Cases, Wide
and Narrow Muslins.

WE RECEIVE THIS WEEK

100 Dozen Ladies Muslin Underwear.

Will be sold VERY CHEAP during this sale.

We Receive this Week

225 PIECES NEW DRESS GOODS.

75	Pieces, All New Colors, 29 c.	Former Price	50 c.
75	Pcs. New Serge, Black & Colors, 50c.	" "	75 c.
75	Pcs. New Serge, Black & Colors, 55c.	" "	100.

Our stock of Underwear and Blankets is large and full of Desirable Goods.

100 Doz. Gloves and Mittens.

Seasonable Goods.

BISHOP & LACKEY.

IF You want a Pair of

TAKE YOUR FEET TO

SHULL

The POPULAR SHOE MAN

Auburn Bakery

AND

CONFECTIONERY

Is now established in its new quarters on Main street, 1st door south of J. L. Davis Hardware store. We will have a full line of

BREAD, ROLLS, PIES & CAKES

Fresh every day. We bake any kind of cake to order. Weddings and parties supplied on short notice at reasonable rates. Try our

VIENNA AND CREAM,

Which are made of Milk.

Each day after 8 o'clock in the morning we will sell all the Bread and Rolls left over from the day before at Half Price.

LUNCH SERVED

At all times of the day, also hot coffee, tea and chocolate.

All our baked goods are sold by Hebel Bros, who will deliver them to any part of town.

We respectfully solicit the patronage of the people of Auburn and vicinity.

BAKER & BAUER, Proprietors.

LOCAL NEWS.

Free book to weak men, box 32, Toledo, O

Mrs Clarence Raut went to Ft. Wayne Monday returning Tuesday.

Mrs. Edward Ettinger of Waterloo was here Tuesday.

L. J. Gengler has been appointed city attorney at garrett.

There was pretty lively bidding at Treasurer Fair's tax sale on Monday

Drummer Boy of Rappahnnock, Feb 23d, at Armory. Dont fail to be there. It is the chance of a life time.

L. J. Gengler of Garrett was over here Monday to attend the sale of lands advertised for delinquent saxes

John F. Harter and son of Richland were in town on Monday, but found poor sleighing a part of the way

A. B. Waleworth has been appointed administrator of the estate of the late Charles Bassett, at Waterloo.

Garrett is to have a new manufacturing establishment called "The Garrett Engine, Boiler and Machine Works."

Miss Carrie Turner has accepted a position as clerk in the United States Express office.

The little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Vealey died Monday evening. Mrs. Vealey is lying very low with consumption.

Remember that Miller, the optician, will be at F. J. Yeobera's jewelry store this week, Friday, Feb. 15 Better come and get a pair of spectacles to fit you.

The aged father of B. F. Cornelius of Troy township died at his home in Whitley county about two weeks ago and now his widow is reported very low.

Misses Mamie and Edith Trentman entertained some young friends at pedro Tuesday evening in honor of Miss Ilger who is now visiting here.

The trial of the murderer of A. D. Barnes is going on at Chicago. The De Kalb man is bound to be at the head of the procession if he has to let some one kill him to do it.

Rev. Mr. Barton, a student of McCormack filled the pulpit for Mr. Colvin Sunday morning and evening. He gave two excellent sermons, that in the evening being illustrated by a black board.

Mrs Dr. Nusbaum went up to Bremen Monday, called there by the death of Mrs. O E Nusbaum. Mr. Brosy went there Tuesday to attend the funeral, she having been a member of his church while here.

AGENTS WANTED to represent us in this territory, to take measures for suits to order. Good chance for a live man. For further particulars write, giving experience if any. Hart & Oberndorf, Tailors, Market & Quincy, Chicago, Ill.

Co Supt. Merica started out Monday morning on his week's sleigh ride over the county visiting the schools. At that hour the mercury stood 12 below zero. And yet there are some people who think the office a soft snap at $4 a day for a man and team.

The Auburn Foundry and Machine Works have shut down for a few days as it costs too much to run this dreadful cold weather. It takes a ton of coke a day in the moulding department, besides the large amount of coal used to keep the other rooms warm.

A well known and well-to-do citizen who resides not far from Auburn lost quite a little sum last week by not being a subscriber to the COURIER. A piece of property in which he was interested was sold at the delinquent tax sale Monday and he did not know it till the next day, though the COURIER had advertised it four weeks before. So another party got it. Moral: Take the old reliable COURIER, the official organ of DeKalb county. It gives all the news and contains the delinquent tax list.

The Musicical Club is having difficulty to get a suitable room for their meetings. They have met for some time in the Baptist church, but the church officers finally objected to have them meet there. They then tried the A. O. U. W. hall but with no better success. We are sorry they met with these difficulties for the club is made up of the best of our people and their object, musical improvement, is a worthy one and should be encouraged. Their services, free, are frequently solicited at funerals, decorations and other public occasions and it does seem as if some suitable place should be made available for their meetings.

D Y. Husselman was laid up last week with his old trouble, the injury in his hip. It was caused by a hurt when a boy, and several years ago became so troublesome that several operations were performed at different time. About five years ago it was fully examined and all the decaying bone removed. But about ten days ago he began to feel it again and an examination revealed a quantity of pus-like matter. An opening was made and this was permitted to discharge, since which he has been improving, though he was confined to his bed several days.

Editor Bliss' little article in the Saturday Times about spooks in the court house was taken in earnest by a number of persons and many inquiries, half in fun and half in earnest have been made. There is nothing in this, except the fact that the several persons named were in the clerk's office and as the heating apparatus was working badly and clanking and grinding more than usual, Judge McClellan, or some one present, laughingly said it must be Mr. Click's spirit come back to inspect or repair the pipes. The trouble has existed ever since the steam heaters were put in for there is something wrong with them. That day, as a very hot fire had to be kept up, they made more noise than usual. Monday Charley Mitchell fixed the pipes and they are doing better. But we expect several of our exchanges to come out this week with blood curdling head lines about "Auburn's Court House Spook."

Free sketch book to weak men, box 32, Toledo, O.

Take your binding to H. S. McIntosh.

A baby boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Cole Saturday of last week.

Mrs. J. N. Wilson is reported quite sick.

Mrs. Dr. Darling is recovering from a very severe sickness of about two weeks.

Miss Lizzie McConnell of Angola has been a few days a guest of Mrs. Emily Dills and her daughter Ruth.

Ha there! where are you going? I'm going to the Union Bakery to get some of that fine cream bread, we use no other.

Mrs. A. S. Wooton, Florence and Georgena, are the guests of Mrs. Wooton's mother at Lagrange.

Dr. Johnston, dentist, has the new method of filling teeth without pain, as well as painless extraction of teeth.

Miss Nellie Barns entertained a few of her young friends yesterday afternoon in honor of Miss Annie Ilger.

The more "Dingers" you smoke the more you want to smoke. At Bishop's tobacco store.

Mrs. John Clark has been suffering from severe attack of erysipelas for the past week.

Phil Gibson has been appointed court reporter of the Whitley and Noble court. Phil is a thorough-going reporter and we are pleased to see him succeed.

Quite a number of sleighs in town this week, though the snow was off in places in the roads. Where it was on the ground the sleighing was good.

The meeting at the Baptist church closed last week owing to the extreme cold weather, which made it impossible to keep the church comfortable.

Chas. E. Miller, the optician, will be at F J. Yeobera's jewelry store Friday, the 15th. Come and have your eyes examined

FOR SALE:—I have two Fire and Burglar Proof Safes, Hall's Patent, either of which I will sell cheap and on terms to suit the purchaser. Call on or address,
CHAS. M. BROWN, Auburn, Ind.

Mr. and Mrs. Milt Simington, of Collingwood celebrated their silver wedding Tuesday. A large number of relatives and friends were present and a most enjoyable time is reported.

The prohibition meeting here yesterday called to Auburn quite a number of those who affiliate with that party. The meeting was held in the court room, but the hour was too late for a report.

W. W. Wenrick, of Ashley, was here on business Monday. He is going into the practice of law at Ashley again He will office with F. P. Seiler, the insurance agent.

E. C. Altenburg, of Indianapolis, spent Sunday in town the guest of friends He is salesman on the road and came down from Logansport to spend the Sabbath. He reports Dr. Casebeer, and family doing nicely.

Auburn is keeping right up with the procession in the way of modern improvements Last week a woman in the south end gave birth to a colored baby. You never know what Auburn people can do till they try. Lay it to the zero weather.

All diseases of the air passages especially catarrah and chronic, Bronchitis, as well as first stages of consumption can be cured. I am treating these diseases with great success by the use of the latest and most improved medicines and instruments. Dr. W H. Nusbaum, Auburn, Ind. 42tf

A hoop factory is soon to be started at the Junction. Parties from Michigan have already leased the needed site which is three acres off of Lew Spangler's farm for five years. It is also nearly certain that one or more industries will locate there this season.

Mrs. Kiblinger had an unfortunate experience with the cold weather Monday. A pipe in her house cistern, on the upper story had frozen and burst, and that day thawed out enough to let about ten barrels of water down, flooding her rooms and making a bad mess generally. She will not soon forget this cold snap.

T. D. Neal, of Frankton, Ind., and Fred Baker, of Evansville, Ind, Grand Master Workman and Grand Recorder, of the A. O U. W. lodge will be present this evening at the anniversary meeting of the A. O. U. W lodge here. A splendid time is anticipated, as a good many good things to eat have been secured.

Dr. Hines had a runaway Saturday. He was about five miles east of town calling on a patient and was driving up a lane, which had been drifted full of snow when his sleigh upset, throwing him out and over the fence. The horse became frightened and got away from him by the lines breaking, and ran across a corn field and stopped. No damage was done except the harness which was broke a little.

Our people will remember Capt. Baughn's wife, the one who separated from him some time before he married the last one. She seemed a very worthy woman but could not get along with Baughn. She afterwards married a Mr. Beaumont and made her home at Hartville, Mo. We have a letter from the Hartville Press containing a notice of her death there Jan. 20, of pneumonia. Our people will also remember that another DeKalb man, M. Wiyrick lives there.

The COURIER is always pleased to hear good news from former citizens of Auburn. The latest we get is the promotion of Geo. O. Shiffer, so long a resident here. He is now "on the bench," so to speak, having been elected justice of the peace by the voters of VanBuren township, Putnam county, Ohio. His home is at Leipsic. There was a special election, and though the precinct is democratic, it was a "republican year," and George got 166 majority. But we have every reason to believe that his honor will charge nothing extra for splicing good looking democratic boys and girls, especially as they are always a little better looking than "the other fellows."

Book free dependent men, box 32, Toledo, O

See the news on inside pages.

Smoke the K. & B. ten-cent cigar.

Court is going on at Angola.

Wood has come in at a lively rate this week, and there was lots of it used.

Fancy baking a specialty at the Union Bakery.

A muffler has been left at this office. Owner may have same by calling.

A double male quartet now constitute the choir at the M. E. church.

We noticed Trustee Whetsel, of Franklin, looking interested in the delinquent tax sale Monday.

Wanted: Everybody to smoke Kessler & Bros. cigars.

The capital stock of the Kendallville fair under the reorganization is put at $10 000 is being rapidly taken.

I am prepared to bind newspapers magazines, etc., at reasonable rates. H. S. McIntosh.

H. G. Provines, teacher at No. 7 Jackson township, is down with the measles. The school has been closed.

Dingers! DINGERS!! DINGERS!!! Oh, what good smokers Bishop's Dingers are!

THE Peters Box and Lumber company had a great part of their large plant at Fort Wayne destroyed by fire last week.

If you are crazy for something good in cigars try Kessler Bros. brands.

Married at the residence of and by Rev W. O. Butler Feb. 12th, Mr. Tarring Swartz and Miss Josie Oberlin. Both of Waterloo, Ind.

J K. Stafford goes over to Lima, Ohio, this week to give Geo. McKay a lift for a few days in the hardware store they have there.

The Income Tax man from Ft. Wayne, called last week while we were away. Sorry, as we are willing to pay our share of this just burden. Call again.

W. H. Lose came down from Waterloo Monday to attend the delinquent tax sale and to attend to some of his law practice.

AGENTS WANTED: To sell the New Hardy Rose, Belle Siebrecht, pronounced by authorities as the best ever introduced. Ready For Sale. Reliable Agents may apply with references to Siebrecht & Wadley, New York City.

Ex-Sheriff Ralston is now in the employ of the McCormick company for the sale of their binders and other farm machinery. An active man like him is not liable to remain idle long. He has made several sales already.

INSURANCE AGENCY:—People desiring good insurance should remember that Geo. Lanning has an office at the Davis Harware store, and works some of the very best companies in the country. Good farm risks taken. Call on him. 32tf

Albert Beard, a life-long resident of the north part of county and an old time friend of the COURIER was here to say good bye Monday. He has bought a farm near Fayette, O, and he and his wife will soon move there.

We were greatly rejoiced yesterday to meet our young friend Curtis F. Ash, now in business at St. Joseph, Mo. He came up from Cincinnati to visit his father and other relatives north of here as well as his brother Alvin at Butler. He is making life a success.

Mercury variously reported Monday morning at from 12 to 18 below. It was at all events probably the lowest point reached so far. Tuesday it was 8 below, but yesterday was quite pleasant Where is the imprudent chap that prayed for an old fashioned winter?

Geo. W. Reed came back from South Haven, Mich., last Friday, to settle up some business. He soon had the matter he came for all satisfactorily settled, but may remain here several weeks. He reports the DeKalb folks up there all well. They have had no more snow or cold weather up there, than we have had here.

About thirty friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Jacob Lochner, Wednesday evening of last week and gave him quite a surprise, it being his 71st birthday. Cigars oysters, and other delicacies were served by Mr. and Mrs. P. P. Lochner who reside with him, an and evening spent in real enjoyment. A sled load drove down from Auburn.

We have a recent copy of the "Hearne Advocate," published at Hearne, Texas, in which are a number of items in regard to Hugh K. Davis, a former DeKalb boy, a son of Mr. and Mrs Joseph D. Davis. He is now in the banking business at that place, and is evidently one of their most prominent citizens, as the paper contains several mentions of him in connection with their local improvements. All the DeKalb boy needs is elbow room.

Albion capitalists are wrestling with a $9 000 canning factory proposition but can't agree. It is the same old story of the creameries in a different industry. A company sends an agent to them and wants to put in a "plant" for so much money. After the plant is put in and the foreign company gets its cash, the new industry soon fails. If our friends over there want to succeed with a canning factory they would do well to take it into their own hands from the start. Get pointers over at Butler.

D. A. Garwood and Auditor Borst went up to Kendallville Friday in the down-below-zero weather to attend the funeral of the late John L. Gallup. Mr. Garwood is Eminent Commander of the Knights templar and as the commander is a necessary officer on occasions like this he felt it a duty to brave the terrible storm, to assist in laying his comrade away to his final rest. Mr. Borst having been many years associated with Mr. Gallup as members of the Corunna band also felt it a duty to be there. But the gentlemen had a cold trip and we believe did not get home till the next afternoon as trains were greatly delayed by the storm and the drifting of the snow.

DINNER SETS!

If you want to buy a Dinner Set come in and see our Semi Porcelain, 101 piece set for only $8.98. It's a beauty for the money. We have the finest line of Dinner Sets on the market. Come in and see for yourself.

OLDS BROS.

SAY! Do you know That we can sell you

CREAMERY BUTTER for 20 cents per lb
COFFEE for 23, 25, 30, 35 cents per lb
TEA from 15 to 60 cents per lb
CRACKERS 7 to 10 cents per lb
Pickles, Onions, Wash Boards, Tubs,
Whips, Oil Cans,
Baking Powders, Soaps and all
FAMILY Supplies at Lowest Cash Prices.
All Goods Warranted as Represented.

Family Grocery, NORTH MAIN STREET.

Mrs Fleming visited in Waterloo one day last week.

Several cases of measles are reported in town just as we go to press.

Taxpaying is starting up a little now, as some want to get this done before work begins in the spring.

The neatest, sweetest and completest smoke is the "Dinger." If you don't believe it just try one. Manufactured by E. M. Bishop.

L. J. Miller's beef problem comes up again this week. Mr. Winslow is an old teacher, and his solution will bear study.

